Sec. 22. No person, neither the owner, chauffeur or other authorized driver, of any motor vehicle, shall operate any such vehicle upon the public highways of this state, who is under the age of sixteen years, unless accompanied by an adult person, and any person allowing such vehicle to be operated by any person under the age of sixteen years, shall, unless accompanied by such adult, be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred ($100.00) dollars.

Sec. 7745: Any driver of any carriage or other vehicle, whether of burden or of pleasure, using any public road, who willfully and without good cause, fails to keep to the right hand when met or overtaken by another cariage or vehicle, so as to permit the carriage or vehicle so meeting or overtaking to pass freely and uninterruptedly, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars.

E. B. DEASON.
Judge of Probate.

DR. J. D. EILAND TAKES CHARGE AS COMMANDANT OF VETERANS

Mountain Creek, Ala., July 15.—Dr. J. D. Eiland took charge as Commandant of the Alabama Old Soldiers Home today. This is a step up the ladder, well deserved.

Capt. J. M. Simpson, who after ten years management, rendered his resignation and the board of control were nearly two months in finding a man suitable, capable and competent to manage the affairs of the institution.

They, the committee, finally declared Dr. Eiland as just the man to pick up the reins and pilot the institution along the lines so considerately planned and followed by the veteran Commandant, Capt. Simpson.

The selection of Dr. Eiland by the board of control is a fortunate occurrence, so far as the old veterans are concerned, and the patrons as well as the people of the entire state, who are interested in the institution.

Dr. Eiland is a Chilton County self-made, young, active and college-trained man, who can well manage the home; he is conversant with matters agricultural; he is a business man, who conducts business on business principles, and in addition to all this will be mindful of the important charge now in his control.

FARMERS' SUMMER SCHOOL AT AUBURN, JULY 29-AUG. 5

Progressive farmers will improve and make farm life more attractive and profitable. The cattle tick is being driven out of Alabama. A modern packing house is now operating in Alabama. The boll weevil covers Alabama, and the great European war still rages. Virgin timber is rapidly going and cut-over land must be made productive. Alabama must not only feed herself, but also help feed the world. Farmers must grow pastures and feeds, and bred and feed meat-producing animals. Come to the Auburn short course and get the best. There will be ten to ewelve lectures and demonstrations every day. Last year over nine hundred were enrolled. This year we expect more than one thousand.

Round trip rates at all coupon offices. Apply for rates one week in advance. Board can be obtained for $5.00 per week or $1.00 to $2.00 per day. Auburn's hospitality is now nationwide. Its fresh air, pure water and watermelons are free. We cordially invite every farmer and every farmer's wife, boy or girl and all others who thirst for farm truths.

C. A. CARY.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission will hold an examination for stenographer and typewriter (male and female) August 8, 1916, to fill seventeen existing vacancies in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and South Carolina, and other vacancies as they may occur. Entrance salaries from $900 to $1,080.

Age, 18 years or over.

Application blanks and full information can be obtained by applying to the Secretary, Local Civil Service Board, your city, or the Secretary, Fifth Civil Service District, Atlanta, Ga.

This is an excellent opportunity for competent stenographers and typewriters to secure government positions.

RAILWAY MEN RESCUED FROM TOPS OF TREES

Charlotte, N. C., July 17.—Rescuers today brought in Engineer Joseph Killian and three other employees of the Southern railway who had been lodged in trees in the Catawba river a mile below where the railroad bridges went down with them. Searching parties are seeking the other men who were on the bridges when it went down.

It was hoped the other eleven railway employees swept away yesterday with a bridge would be saved later in the day. A tree holding some of the men was swept down early today and the men carried away. Four employees of the Western Union Telegraph company are also reported lost. The river is falling slowly.

Reports from every section continue to add to the property damage. The Southern railway bridge near Rock Hill was swept away. Destruction of this cuts off all traffic southward over the Southern line. Trains are being detoured over the Seaboard Air Line by way of Monroe, but reports state that a bridge on that line is in danger and probably will be condemned. Mecklenburg county has lost three bridges costing $150,000. The Seaboard Air Line and Piedmont and Northern railway bridges both were swept away.

A report not confirmed states that the Southern railway bridge over the Yadkin river near Salisbury has been destroyed. At Rhodohiss mills, near Hickory, a ware house containing 1,500 bales of cotton was swept away yesterday.

HIGHWAY MEETING BEING PLANNED

A movement has been begun to hold another Jackson Highway meeting here July 25. The meeting held here July 6 was interrupted by the storm. A letter from Superintendent Brooks, of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, says No. 1 will be stopped at Clanton on July 25.

JUDGE REYNOLDS VISITS SOLDIERS HOME

On Sunday last Judge L. H. Reynolds and his two pretty daughters, Misses Willie and Winnie, visited the Old Soldiers Home, and had a long chat with the old Confederates.

The old veterans are greatly pleased at such visits and especially so when it occurs that the visitors are so agreeable and pleasant as those made by the Judge and his daughters.

PROGRAM

Chilton County Sunday School Convention to be held at Maplesville, July 27 and 28 1916.

10:00 A. M. Devotional Service, by Rev. R. R. Brasher.

10:15 The Convention byword "Service," by Mr. S. L. Gibson.

10:35 The Sunday school organized for "service," by Miss Freda Base, State Superintendent of the teen age department.

11:05 The Sunday school equipped for "service," by Miss Blossom Crumpton.

11:15 Questions and answers by every body, led by State worker.

12:00 M. Adjourned for dinner.

Second Session

Theme, "The Sunday School and the Teens."

1:30 P. M. Devotional Service, by Rev. E. L. Whidden.

1:45 Fundamental Principles in Teen age work, by Miss Freda Base.

2:10 The Physical life of the Teens—Its problems and how to meet them, by Mr. Emmel Thrailkill.

2:30 The Mental Life of the Teens—Its problems and how to meet them, by Prof. H. C. McDonald.

2:50 The Social Life of the Teens—Its problems and how to meet them, by Mr. J. H. Gulledge.

3:10 The Religious Life of the Teens—Its problems and how to meet them, by T. U. Crumpton.

3:30 The organized class and how it may meet the needs of the four fold life, by Miss Freda Base.

4:00 Adjourned.

Third Session

7:30 P. M. Devotional Service, by Rev. J. P. Stevenson.

7:45 Securing Home Co-operation, by Rev. W. O. Philipps.

8:10 The Spireted Life of the Sunday School Teacher, Miss Freda Base.

Fourth Session

9:00 A. M. Devotional Service, by Rev. R. R. Brasher.

9:30 How to double your Sunday School, by Miss Freda Base.

9:55 Our Sunday School service during year:

In District No. 1, Mr. J. B. Northcutt, President.

In District No. 2, Mr. J. S. Wright, President.

In District No. 3, Mr. D. O. Manning, President.

In District No. 4, Mr. B. M. Roberts, President.

In District No. 5, Mr. J. H. Gulledge, President.

In District No. 6, Mr. J. W. Mitchell, President.

10:20 Latest Developments in our field, by Miss Freda Base.

10:45 Sunday School Service in Chilton County in general, by Mr. W. E. Thomas, President.

In facts, figures and finances, by Miss Della Williams, Sec., and Treas.

In the Elementary Division, by Miss Mary C. Gibson, Elementary Superintendent.

In the Secondary Division, by Miss Madge Cooper, Secondary Superintendent.

In the Adult Divisioon, by Mr. E. L. Thornton, Adult Superintendent.

11:10 The Organized Sunday School work as a channel for service, by Miss Freda Base.

11:40 Our Service for the Coming Year, by Everybody.

Fifth Session

Theme, "The Work of the Sunday School Association," (For all county and district officers and others interested in the County Association. The topics indicated below are not speeches; they are subjects for general discussion and conference the State workers leading.)

1:50 P. M. How our County Association can better serve all the Sunday Schools in the County.

2:00 The District Convention—How it can be made of more service.

2:15 What service is expected of the County President?

2:30 What service is expected of the Division Superintendent?

2:45 What service is expected of the District President?

3:00 Conference about the work for the coming year.

4:00 Adjourn.

Every school is urged to send delegates and all Superintendents and Ministers are expected.

W. E. THOMAS,
MARY C. GIBSON,
REV. E. W. BUTLER,
B. M. ROBERTS,
JUDGE L. H. REYNOLDS,
J. B. GARDENER,
Committee.

I Will Buy

All the peas and Corn you have to sell.

I Will pay full market pricss at any time.

Bring me what all you have to sell.

L. H. REYNOLDS
Clanton, Ala.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.

For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.

For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.

For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.

For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.

For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.

For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

SIGN YOUR NAME

We have repeatedly requested our correspondents to sign their names to communications sent us for publication. No articles, other than mere news items, will be published without the name of the writer is published also. If you have any reply to make to an article written by some body else, we will not publish it unless we are allowed to publish the name of the writer. Remember this when you write to the paper.

What has become of the old fashioned man who believed that under a tariff for revenue only law we could cut the cost of living?

We proclaim justice and we love peace, and we mean to have them—and we are not too proud to fight for them.

The sum of $110,000,000 in gold has been imported into the United States in the past two months from Canada and England, in payment of war munitions purchased by the Allies. Democratic prosperity.

Massachusetts free trader takes the trouble of writing to the newspapers to say that he will vote for Wilson. We cannot decide who wasted the more energy—the man who wrote the letter or the editor who printed it.

The demonstration against Mexico will serve one useful purpose for the Democratic administration—all the big appropriations can be charged up against it.

When Vance McCormick gets his campaign movies in operation we shall look to see "The Wobblings of Woodrow" featured alongside of "The Perils of Pauline" and the "Imitations of Imogene," and the "Lamentations of Lydia."

THE NOMINATION OF POPWELL

In our way of looking at the matter, the nomination of Mr. Popwell last Saturday for Probate Judge, by that crowd of envious dissatisfied persons, has one and only one distinct phase.

A few men seeing and realizing the strength and standing of Judge Reynolds in the minds and hearts of the people, have begun to seek any place in his foundation at which they may insert the wedge of their own cruel designations and produce any possible weakness.

It so happened that Mr. Popwell is the wedge they have selected, and last Saturday was the first open effort they have made.

All political principles were laid aside, and the sole thought of weakening Reynolds taken up and adopted as the slogan.

They cannot express any hope of beating him. They are only seeking to weaken him a little if they can.

WHAT WILL THEY DO NEXT?

We just wonder what the Democratic party of Chilton county is going to do next. They have gone and nominated a man to bear their standard in the race for Probate Judge, who does and has always professed to be a loyal and stand-pat Republican.

The Socialist-Democrats have been accusing the Republicans of stealing a plank from their platform, but now they have truly gotten even with us on that proposition. They have stolen one of our men to use as their leader in the coming race for Probate Judge.

We reverently urge our men to notice every crook and turn that the so-called "Democrats" are making to try by fradulent and malicious intrigue, to allure you into casting your vote in their favor; and after they have succeeded in that, they will no longer know you and your rights, but, when you ask them to do you a slight favor, they will turn their backs upon you in cold remorse and isolation.

Their dealings have always been comprised of tricks and conspiracy, and we can say with immunity and safety that they are using and will continue to use just such means for carrying out their egotistic and usurpatory desires.

Opinions of the People.

IN MEMORY OF THE SOCIALIST PARTY

Which was devoured by the Democrats of Chilton county on July 15, 1916. It is sad, but weep not dear Socialists, for your loss is the Democrat's gain. The only thing we can say to you as a consolation at this sad hour is to point you to the Republican party, which takes away the shame of Democratism.

Weep not for soon will be the day of harvest and you will reap what you have sown.

It was laid to rest in the arms of the Democratic party to await the great sound of the awakening Republican Trumphet in November. With the Democrats it will come forth to hear the sad proclamation, "We have been defeated by a five-hundred majority."

Thou art gone, precious Socialists. Never more will we see thy palid face, until you rise in November, and with wailing and nashing of teeth, you come forth to hear the everlasting verdict of "failure" pronounced against your wistful and tedious career.

A friend in sympathy,
M. O. CULP.

A WORD OF ADVICE FROM MR. J. A. MADDOX

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say a few words to the voters of Chilton county.

As the people on the 9th day of May expressed their choice for the men for various offices of Chilton county, I feel sure that they have selected a set of men that are thoroughly competent and a set of men that have practically all been tried, and have stood for the common people and for the rights of the people. There is no doubt but what there will be some traitors and all kinds of trickery between now and the November election.

I want to remind the people and tax payers to keep their eyes open and not allow themselves to be caught in the trap as heretofore. I feel sure that the people have been taught a lesson for the past few years and will keep your eyes open and go to the polls in November and vote the entire Republican ticket, and stop just a few men in Clanton from dictating the business of the county and put it in the hands of the people who pay the taxes.

Now, voter, watch out for the deceiver for he is coming to see you and he is like the boll weevil, while you are asleep he is at work.

Yours for the success of the Republican party,
J. A. MADDOX.

The question of how to hold a fair portion of the trade with neutral zones which we have captured while Europe was at war is the most important question with which we will have to deal in the future. The advantage of full mill capacity of operation in lowering the unit cost of production must have appealed to our manufacturers during the past year, even as he benefits to be derived from full time work and increased wages must have appealed to the mill operatives. With the cessation of the war there will be millions of men in Europe who will be obliged to enter European mills to make a living. Competition will be on a scale never before dreamt of. If our home market is thrown open to the foreigners through the agency of a Democratic tariff law, our manufacturers will be oblidged to curtail production. This will reduce wages, throw labor out of employment and greatly increase the unit cost of production. In other words, as the home market is restricted the ability of the American manufacturer to compete with Europeans in the Far East and Latin America will be cut off. A fair share of his own market must be preserved to the American manufacturer in order that he may turn an undivided attention to those markets which he now finds so profitable to exploit. This can be brought about only by a return to the protective tariff policy which means he election of a Republican administration.

Bathing girls as pictured this season are wearing liberal smiles and not much else.

MR. POUNDS EXPLAINS

Pletcher, Ala., July 7, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Noting the great marse's nest stirred up in the Banner of last week concerning the name of Mr. J. B. Northcutt and the comments made thereon, I will ask you to be so fair as to allow me to explain the matter so far as I had any connection with it.

In the first place I readily admit my individual activity in the matter so far as to write the form of the call for the mass meeting on the 15th and give them out to some parties in different parts of the county, asking them to secure a few signatures to the same. Mr. C. M. Northcutt said he would gladly circulate a copy in his community. He did so—sent the same to me and I handed it into you along with that of others.

Whatever mistake there may be about the matter Mr. Northcutt, can doubtless explain.

Yours truly,
L. B. POUNDS.

The mints are now producing silver halves, quarters and dimes in a new design in which Liberty is outlined before an American flag. In her arms the goddess carries a sheaf of laurel and her gaze is fixed upon a rising sun which, the artist say, is symbolical of the dawn of a new day. The design fits the times. The American goddess of liberty has been having a hard time of it for the past three years and the new day which these coins typify is about to dawn. The goddess is not the only one who is looking for that rising sun of a prolonged Republican day in power.

Whenever you see a Democratic newspaper publishing statistics showing how much better business is in any line at the present time as compared with last year or as compared with 1914, sit down immediately and write him a letter asking him to publish comparative statistics showing business conditions under the Democratic tariff law, before the war began, as compared with the corresponding period under the Republican tariff law. You may not get the editor to publish the statistics, but you will give him something to feel ashamed of.

It is scarcely to be expected that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo will agree with anybody else as to the condition of the Treasury at any particular time, but he certainly ought to be able to agree with himself. On June 30, 1915, he issued a statement saying that the excess of ordinary expenditures over receipts for the fiscal year ending on that date was $35,864,381.56. A year later he issued a statement which included statistics for the same period, but saying that the excess of disbursments for the year ending June 30, 1915, was $42,867,797.59. If any Democrat is in doubt as to these two conflicting statements having been issued, let him write to the Secretary of the Treasury and get the statements for June 30, 1915 and 1916, both of which give figures for 1915, but differing as above stated. What would Secretary McAdoo do to a National Bank whose statements covering identically the same period of time varied as much as that?

Having now been thoroughly awakened, congress is begenning to enjoy the experience.

John D. Rockfeller has bought a new suit of clothes. Well, may ye shiver, ye owners of motorcars, shiver!

Long Time Loans to Farmers on Improved Real Estate

On real estate security in Chilton County, owned by farmers. I can procure long time loansfrom clients who have ample money to lend, at less tha 8 per cent interest. Applicants should bring their land papers with them.

Wm. M. ADAMS, Clanton, Ala.

"Torturing Headaches—don't suffer—Stop them!"

Long hours, close and tedious work are very apt to result in Headaches or other Pains. Don't suffer.

DR. MILES'
ANTI-PAIN PILLS
will quickly drive your Pain away, and
Dr. Miles' Nervine
will assist you by relieving the Nerve Strain.

IF FIRST BOX, OR BOTTLE, FAILS TO BENEFIT YOU, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

DIZZY SPELLS.

"My nerves became all worn out. I had bad headaches and severe dizzy spells. I could not sleep and my appetite was poor. I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they always gave me instant relief no matter what the pain. Then I used Dr. Miles' Nervine regularly and was soon in perfect health again."

MRS. S. L. YOUNG,
324 Pittsburg St.,
Newcastle, Penn.

TARIFF WILL BE FEATURED

Washington, July, 13.—Members of Congress who have lately talked with Charles E. Hughes have returned to Washington with the information that he will make the Tariff one of the most prominent issues of the campaign. The Presidential candidate is already at work upon his speeches, and the Tariff is featured next to Americanism in most of the material which he has already prepared.

According to information brought back by members of Congress, Mr. Hughes is convinced that the party in power cannot be intrusted with the work of restoring Protection to meet the conditions that will prevail after the close of the European war. Mr. Hughes has always been well informed with reference to the Tariff. In the past few weeks, however, he has been collecting information as to the effects of the present Tariff law prior to July, 1914, when the European war began and also with reference to its effect throughout the war period. Mr. Hughes intends to show that the party in power, if permitted to handle the question at the close of the European war, will continue to give away the American market in exchange for the doubtful privilege of doing business in foreign markets.

Under the Protective Tariff the United States was able to build up the strongest industrial system in the world, paying higher wages than any other country and maintaining better working conditions. The foreign trade, it is true, has been built up to enormous proportions within the last two years as a result of the European war, but even now it is less than one-fifteenth of the normal domestic trade.

Foreign Trade Treaties

That the Free-Traders have a notion that they can make agreements with foreign nations for commercial concessions, despite the fact that the present law is admitting 65 per cent. of all imports free of duty, and thus leaves little basis for any trading if it were desirable, is shown by a recent statement made by Dr. Frank R. Rutter, assistant chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. His idea is that this country, if it is to hold its own in the bitter competition for trade that will follow the war, must be given the opportunity to make favorable trade treaties with foreign countries.

In this connection it is well to recall that the United States made "favorable commercial treaties" with a score of foreign countries more than a hundred years ago, and that a great many of these treaties are still in effect. The result is that when the United States wanted to levy a 5 per cent. differential Tariff on goods shipped in foreign bottoms, with a view to building up an American merchant marine, the Attorney-General held that the clause of the Tariff act was invalid because it conflicted with the old commercial treaties.

Moreover, while the United States has lived up to these treaties, foreign countries have not done so, with the result that this country has been maneuvered off the boards time and time again. The only safe policy for the United States is the policy of complete industrial independence. Trade alliances, like offensive and defensive military agreements, come under the ban of General Washington's warning that the United States had better hold aloof from foreign entanglements. Yet Dr. Rutter blithely remarks:

A fixed commercial policy is particularly necessary at the present time. With rumors of trade agreements that will give preferential rates of duty between the allies, and with rumors of a customs union to cover Germany and Austria-Hungary, we must be in a position to know definitely the effect on our industries of any proposed foreign action. Can we not, if we know the situation well enough to make proper representations, obtain rates of duty that will at least put our products on an equality with those of other countries (a privilege which we do not now enjoy in France) and possibly in a position of even greater advantage?

Tariff Commission of Minor Consequence

It is hardly likely that the Protectionist candidate will pay much attention to the proposal of the Free-Traders that there be a Tariff commission of six members who could conveniently deadlock and prevent the restoration of Protection for several years to come. The information that is conveyed to members of Congress is that he will deal with protection in a definite and concise manner, so that there can be no doubt where he stands or where the best interests of the country lie. Republican members of Congress likewise are convinced that the Tariff can be made the principal issue, especially as both political parties have taken precisely the same stand with reference to Americanism, preparedness and the other important questions of the day.

The Free-Traders are trying to make it appear that the Protectionist party this year advocates merely a "reasonable Tariff," and Samuel I. Graham, Assistant Attorney-General, recently wrote a letter stating that, "if this means anything it means a Tariff varying not only in schedule but in practically everything."

What the Platform Says

Yet the Protectionist platform is as plain as anyone could wish it to be. It leaves no doubt as to where the Protectionist candidate stands. It says definitely that the Protectionist party "stands now as always, in the fullest sense for the policy of Protection to American industries and American labor and does not regard an anti-dumping provision as an adequate substitute." Such Protection should be reasonable in amount, but sufficient to Protect adequately American industries and American labor.

The general revenue raising bill which is designed to produce about $210,000,000 from a doubling of the income tax, a special tax on inheritances and war munitions has caused widespread discontent. The munitions companies especially are protesting against this latest act of the Free-Traders.

An increase ranging from 1 to 2 per cent. in the income surtax is proposed, and the inheritance tax would be 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 per cent. respecively on estates worth $50,000 to $100,000, $100,000 to $200,000, $200,000 to $300,000, $300,000 to $500,000 and over $500,000.

The anti-dumping clause would provide a new Tariff schedule on dyestuffs, placing benzol and other ingredients on the free list and imposing a duty of 15 per cent. on intermediate and 5 per cent. on finished dyes and colors, to remain in force for five years, at the end of which time they would be decreased at the rate of 20 per cent. a year. Also, the Protective duties are to be taken off entirely if in five years the domestic production shall be less than 60 per cent. of domestic consumption.

A new paragraph amending the existing income tax law provides that "in transactions entered into for profit, but connected with business or trade of the tax payer, the losses actually sustained therein during the year to an amount exceeding the profit arising therefrom" shall be deducted. This is designed to apply particularly to stock brokerage.

The proposed Tariff commission would be empowered to investigate the operation of the customs laws, including their relation to the Federal revenue, and to put its information at the disposal of the President and Congress committees. Tariff relations with foreign countries and matters affecting competition also would be subjects of inquiry. Ample powers to enforce its subpoenas and orders are provided through the machinery of the courts.

Great Increase of Income Taxation

The income tax section of the bill increases the normal tax on every individual and corporation to 2 per cecent.; does not lower the $3,000 to cent. instead of the present 1 per cent.; does not lower the $3,000 to $4,000 minimum exemption limit, but reclassifies and gradually increased the surtax from 1 per cent. on incomes of $20,000 to $40,000 to 10 per cent. on all above $500,000. The administrative provisions follow generally those of existing law. The new rates are applicable to the present year.

The new munitions tax imposed this schedule of percentages on the gross annual receipts of manufacturers. Every person manufacturing gunpowder and other explosives, 5 per cent. on receipts under $1,000,000 and 8 per cent. on all above that amount; manufacturers of cartridges, projectiles, firearms, or their parts, 2 per cent. on gross receipts up to $250,000; 3 per cent. on receipts, $250,000 to $500,000; $500,000 to $1,000,000, 4 per cent.; exceeding $1,000,000, 5 per cent.; copper smelting, refining or alloying, on gross receipts, 1 per cent. between $25,000 to $1,000,000; $1,000,000 to$10,000,000, 2 per cent.; exceeding $10,000,000, 3 per cent.

THOMAS F. LOGAN.

In preparation for a possible war with Mexico, the government has purchased a long line of commodities which the publicity agents of the Wilson administration have been denying the title of "war orders" when sold to Europe. Blankets, for instance, are not "munitions of war" when swelling our export trade, but they suddenly become munitions when we need them for our own soldiers on the way to the border.

Josephus Daniels' indignant denial of the report that he will resign was unnecessary. He knows that this is his first and last opportunity to hold high place and he has no intention to let go. Equally redundant was his declaration that he intends to take an active part in Wilson's campaign for re-election. A sense of propriety is not one of his strong points. The first assertion is disheartening. The second is measurably gladdening—for the more time Josephus takes away from the Navy Department in pursuit of his activities in the political campaign, the less time he will have to continue his bedevilling of the Navy.

Do You Need

A New Suit,
A Summer Hat,
A Shirt,
A Tie,
Underwear,
Hosiery,
Collars,
Handkerchiefs,
Shoes,
Slippers,
Dress Goods?

We can supply your every summer want at this store.

We can sell you any article you want, from the most fashionable of wearing apparel to the plainest of every day working clothes.

We can assure you of the high quality and desirability of everything we sell.

These goods are guaranteed both by the manufacturers and by ourselves.

With the advance of summer you will naturall want a number of articles in the wearing or furnishing lines.

Our stock includes everything needen on the farm, and we especially cater to the farm trade.

Don't fail to remember that "Star Brand Shoes Are Better."

The Princess Steel Range is the best for your kitchen and your pocket book.

The needs of your family in the way of Groceries can be supplied from our shelves.

We always are prepared to give you the best prices on Flour and Meat.

If you will take the trouble to call at our store we can demonstrate the economy of buying from us.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store"

RAILROAD WAGES

Shall they be determined by Industrial Warfare or Federal Inquiry?

To the American Public:

Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare?

The train employes on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enforce their demands for a 100 million dollar wage increase.

The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employes is in the public service—your service.

You pay for rail transportation 3 billion dollars a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employes.

On all the Southern railroads in 1915, seventy-five per cent of the train employes earned these wages (lowest, highest and average of all) as shown by the payrolls—

	Passenger		Freight		Yard
	Range	Average	Range	Average	Range	Average
Engineers	$1972 3810	$2306	$1455 3505	$1916	$1156 2424	$1566
Conductors	1552 2696	1847	1353 2358	1580	1055 1749	1245
Firemen	943 1652	1209	649 1638	979	406 1302	777
Brakemen	957 1736	1109	755 1854	958	754 1405	990

The average yearly wage payments to all Southern train employes (including those who worked only part of the year) as shown by the 1915 payrolls were—

	Passenger	Freight	Yard
Engineers	$2144	$1712	$1313
Conductors	1723	1488	1157
Firemen	1096	865	688
Brakemen	1013	845	868

A 100 million dollar wage increase for men in freight and yard service (less than one-fifth of all employes) is equal to a 5 per cent advance in all freight rates.

The managers of the railroads, as trustees for the public, have no right to place this burden on the cost of transportation to you without a clear mandate from a public tribunal speaking for you.

The railroads have proposed the settlement of this controversy either under the existing national arbitration law, or by reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This offer has been refused by the employes' representatives.

Shall a nation-wide strike or an investigation under the Government determine this issue?

National Conference Committee of the Railways

ELISHA LEE, Chairman.
P. R. ALBRIGHT, Gen'l Manager, Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.
L. W. BALDWIN, Gen'l Manager, Central of Georgia Railway.
C. L. BARDO, Gen'l Manager, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.
E. H. COAPMAN, Vice-President, Southern Railway.
S. K. COTTER, Gen'l Manager, Wabash Railway.
P. E. CROWLEY, Asst. Vice-President, New York Central Railroad.
G. H. EMERSON, Gen'l Manager, Great Northern Railway.
C. H. EWING, Gen'l Manager, Philadelphia & Reading Railway.
E. W. GRICE, Asst. to President, Chesapeake & Ohio Railway.
A. S. GREIG, Asst. to Receivers, St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad.
C. W. KOUNS, Gen'l Manager, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway.
H. W. McMASTER, Gen'l Manager, Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad.
N. D. MAHER, Vice-President, Norfolk and Western Railway.
JAMES RUSSELL, Gen'l Manager, Denver & Rio Grande Railroad.
A. M. SCHOYER, Resident Vice-Pres., Pennsylvania Lines West.
W. L. SEDDON, Vice-President, Seaboard Air Line Railway.
A. J. STONE, Vice-President, Erie Railroad.
G. S. WAID, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l Manager, Sunset Central Lines.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

The Well Dressed Man

Knows the importance of having his Suit fresh cleaned and pressed always

We fix up suits every day and every week, for the most tasteful and discriminating men in Clanton. We clean and press their suits to the veriest limit of satisfaction. They know the class and character of our work, and for that reason give us their patronage.

You too, can be assured of this neat and up-to-the-minute band-box appearance by having us call for your suit this week and fix it up.

We give special attention to Palm Beach and light summer suits.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Co.

In the Rear of Sanford & Wagner's Barber Shop.

CLANTON, ALA.

A Book on Motherhood Mailed Free to Expectant Mothers

A Mother's Wish

is that she may go through the trying ordeal of motherhood with as little pain as possible—this can be a reality when "Mother's Friend" has been used regularly preceding confinement. Get "Mother's Friend" at your druggist.

The Bradfield Regulator Co., 201 Lamar Bldg. Atlanta Ga.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. P. I. HOPKINS
Practicing Physician
Special attention given t Eyes, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office hours 9 to 12, a. m., and 2 to 5 o'clock, p. m.
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

L. B. Pond, prominent business man of Rockford, was here Thursday.

FOSHEE-GRANT

Last Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride, the longest courtship that has been conducted around here for quite awhile was brought to a termination by matrimony.

It was a beautiful affair. Messrs. M. Boswell and J. Grier were men of honor and Misses Nancy Mitchell and Lillian Collins were maids of honor.

The groom and bride marched to the altar there to find Mr. Boswell and Miss Collins on the left with Mr. Grier and Miss Mitchell waiting on the right. Mr. G. W. Thomas met them at the altar and in his most solemn manner rendered the ceremony, after which he gave a most able speech on the new era of life they had entered.

After receiving the congratulations of friends the company retired to the kitchen where a repast of several courses was served. The color scheme of pink and white was ably carried out in both rooms.

Miss Mitchell entertained the company Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Warnie Foshee and Mrs. Della Thomas, brother and sister of the groom, entertained at the home of the latter where a most bounteous supper was enjoyed.

Miss Grant is a charming young lady and numbers friends by acquaintences. Mr. Foshee is widely known and an enterprising young man who has many friends.

The couple expects to make their homein Tuscaloosa county in the near future. The best wishes of their friends go with them to their new home.

Good Looks are Easy with

Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your city cousins. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle Magnolia Balm will surely clear your skin instantly. Heals Sunburn, too. Just put a little on your face and rub it off again before dry. Simple and sure to please. Try a bottle to-day and begin the improvement at once. White, Pink and Rose-Red Colors. 75 cents at Druggists or by mail direct.

SAMPLE FREE.

LYON MFG. CO., 40 So. 5th St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

DIRECTIONS FOR GROWING FALL CROP OF TOMATOES

By J. C. C. Price, Associate Horticulturist, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The seed for a fall crop of tomatoes should be sown not later than the middle of June, as it takes about ninety days for a crop of tomatoes to mature from the time the seeds are sown. If the season is good and the soil contains an abundance of moisture, the seeds may be sown in the field where the plants are to be grown and thus save the trouble of transplanting. But, it is really better not to take any risk on the rainfall. Prepare a seed bed of good, porous loam containing an abundance of organic material in the form of well rotted leaf mold or cow manure. The rows should be laid off about one inch deep and about four to six inches apart and the seed sown along in these furrows and covered about three-fourths of an inch deep, leaving the surface of the bed practically level. They should be carefully watered each day until the plants have come up.

A slatted screen placed over the seed bed will prevent baking and also the burning of the young plants when they first come through. This screen can be made out of strips, or even brush, or a canvass sheet stretched over the bed will also serve the purpose.

Always water in the morning after the plants are up. Watering at night is liable to cause the plants to become diseased. A little light cultivation along these rows will aid greatly in the growth of the plants and will also help to keep down weeds and grass that may come up.

Select a good piece of ground, one that is fairly rich, preferably loam or clay loam, for the fall crop and if possible a northern exposure. The piece of ground selected should retain its moisture well, as the summer and fall usually does not receive as much rainfall as the spring season.

The rows should be laid off about four feet wide and the plants placed about thirty inches in the rows. They should receive continuous cultivation until the plants have spread over the rows enough to be in the way of cultivation.

I would not recommend staking for the fall crop, as the plants lying on the ground helps to shade the soil and thus aids in retaining the moisture. When it is possible to secure straw, the plants can be greatly benefited by mulching around the plants with the straw. It keeps the tomatoes clean and prevents the evaporation of soil moisture.

A few scattering hils of sweet corn should be planted through the patch as a trap crop for the bool worm which bores the green fruits. The moths will deposit the eggs on the corn instead of the tomatoes. In case of blight, spray with Bordeaux mixture of the standard strength (4 lbs. bluestone; 5 lbs. lime; 50 gals. or water).

CONTROL OF COTTON WILT

By H. B. Tisdale, Assistant in Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

When the cotton-wilt disease appears on a farm it will continue to spread until the whole farm is infested unless there is something done to prevent it. The diseased cotton plants can be recognized in the field by the following symptoms: The lower leaves will turn yellow and fall off, especially during dry weather; part or all the leaves of a plant will wilt from lack of water; the wilting occurs suddenly especially, after a wet spell. Where the cotton wilt disease occurs, even to the smallest extent, it is advisable to do away with the non-resistant varieties of cotton and grow a wilt-resistant variety altogether.

There will be some plants in a wilt resistant variety of cotton attacked by the wilt disease. These non-resistant plants should be pulled up during the growing season to prevent them from maturing seed. When the plants are pulled up the roots should be examined for root-knot. Where root-knot is found in the same field with cotton wilt it is necessary to plan a systematic rotation of crops to destroy the worm that causes the knots on the cotton roots. Such crops as corn, velvet beans, peanuts, iron and Brabham cowpeas and the small grains should be worked in a rotation with a wilt-resistant variety of cotton following the third or fourth year.

We had intendede to treat all our personal friends to grape juice juleps about this time, but our mint crop has failed.

CONTROLLING BOLL WEEVILS DURING THE EARLY SUMMER

Collect Hibernated Weevils When Squaring Begins—Chain Drag For Late Cultivation.

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Where weevils are abundant in the spring the first direct step toward their control is the hand picking or collection of the hibernated weevils from the young plants at the time that squares begin to form. This step will pay if it is possible to find fifty or more weevils per acre at the time. In some cases more than 2000 hibernated weevils per acre have been thus picked and destroyed. The conspicious sign of the presence of weevils at this stage of the cotton is the appearance of small, black, dead leaves in the tender of the plant. In this work it is advisable to use the hoop and sack outfit. Directions for making the Hoop and Sack outfit, will be found in full in Alabama Press Bulletin No. 83. This bulletin will be sent to all requesting it.

Destroy Infested Squares.

This second step in direct weevil control is also necessary where weevils abound early in the season, especially where the rainfall is more than one inch per week so that the surface soil is moist most of the time or when the air temperature in the shade does not go much above 90 degrees F. as lower temperatures are not likely to result in the death of many of the weevil stages in fallen squares even if the ground is dry. Picking of infested squares should be done thoroughly, taking the evidently injured squares from the plants as well as the fallen squares from the ground. It should be begun within ten days after the appearance of the first bloom in the field and repeated every fifth day for four to six weeks.

Using Hoop and Sack Outfit.

With one hand the hoop is held closely against each plant while with the other hand the plant is bent into the open mouth of the sack and then shaken vigorously.

Go over the cotton first at the time that the first squares begin to show to get as many as possible of the over-wintered weevils before any eggs can be deposited.

A second collection should be made in the same manner as the first about ten days after the first bloom appears and subsequently every five or six days for four to six weeks. With this outfit many infested squares, which are nearly ready to fall, will be shaken into the bag with the weevils, and those already on the ground or dried on the plant should be collected also. Weevils and squares are kept shaken down into the bottom of the sack where they may be somewhat confined by a turn in the sack. Every few rows the contents of the sack should be emptied into, and submerged in a tub or barrel containing water with a little kerosene on top. The oil will kill the adult weevils and the immature stages in infested squares may be destroyed by burying them later under more than six inches of solidly packed earth. With this outfit a laborer can go over two or three acres of cotton per day and he will probably get many more weevils than can be secured by ordinary methods of hard picking.

Chain Drag for Boll Weevil Control.

Another simple home-made device for weevil control is the Chain Drag described and illustrated in Alabama Press Bulletin No. 78. On light soils that are not baked, and during periods of hot, dry weather particularly, this Chain Drag properly used may draw so large a percentage of the fallen infested squares to the middles where they will be exposed to the killing effect of the hot sunshine, that it will no longer be necessary to go over the cotton with the hoop and sack outfit. Besides having an important effect in economical weevil control, the Chain Drag gives an ideal type of shallow surface cultivation, especially upon light, sandy soils, or where the soil is not packed or baked.

With thesetwo simple home-made devices, the cotton farmers can now fight the boll weevil more effectively and economically than they could do heretofore.

At last Uncle Sam is getting plenty of exercise in his military elbow.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South

Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy f Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three Years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address

CHAS. C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President, Auburn, Ala.

WILSON OR HUGHES? THAT'S THE BIG ISSUE

Can the South Keep Her Son at the Head of the American Government for Another Four Years? The Birmingham News Says: Yes.

You may be for Wilson, or you may be for Hughes, or you may not like either one particularly, but you do want to know what the majority of the American people are going to do about it. The very best way to keep informed during this campaign—probably the most important political campaign this country has ever known—is to read The Birmingham News every day from now until November.

The News has its own opinions about who is going to be elected President and who ought to be elected, too, but that doesn't affect its news columns. Every day it is printing the fairest, most accurate news of any paper in Alabama, regardless of whom it helps or hurts. The Associated Press, that stands head and shoulders above any other news service in the world, has a leased wire right into The Birmingham News office, and every day that great organization sends thousands of words over its wires. All of this you read in The News, and then, in The Sunday News you get the full report of the United Press and the International News Service, two other great news-gathering agencies.

All of this telegraphic news that The News prints is fair to both sides. Speeches of both the great candidates will be published without prejudice, and all of the news of the campaign, right on up through the election will be furnished by The News.

The Mexican situation, which has been engaging the close attention of every American citizen for months, is being carefully covered by The News, every detail being published fully and accurately. In order that its Alabama readers may know just what the boys from this State are doing, The News has sent one of its staff men, Leroy Jacobs, with the Alabama troops, and he will accompany them everywhere they go. Special articles by brilliant writers will give color and life and flesh to the bare bones of the news dispatches on what is happening on the border and in Mexico.

In addition to printing all of the news every day about all of the big live questions of the day, The Birmingham News makes the proud boast that it prints something of interest and of real value to every reader every day.

The News makes a specialty of its news about women's clothes, for instance. Anne Rittenhouse, universally regarded as the best of all the fashion writers in the newspapers, has a daily column with a picture of some new style, and a full page on Sunday. Suzanne Latour has another page on styles in the Sunday paper, with more pictures. The advertising columns of The News are the market place of Alabama, giving every day all of the best bargains to be offered by the leading merchants.

The household hints, menus, recipes, cooking helps, talks on food values, suggestions on lowering the cost of living—all of these are written by experts and to read them regularly means dollars and cents saved in the home.

Interesting fiction forms a big part of The News. Every day a chapter of "The Revelations of a Wife," fascinating, absorbing, human; every week a short story about the same characters, "The Married Life of Helen and Warren;" every Sunday, a page of the most brilliant serial of married life ever written, "The Confessions of Roxane." Then there is a brand new story by Montague Glass, creator of the famous Potash and Perlmutter stories in The Saturday Evening Post, one of the highest paid authors in the world, in the Magazine Section every Sunday.

Wit and humor are taken care of in The News. Every day there are the funny sayings of Abe Martin, the Young Lady Across the Way and Old Dollar Bill. Every day there is a cartoon by Goldberg, who gets $100,000 a year for drawing this daily picture for a chain of papers.

Every day there is a cartoon of Polly and Her Pals, the most popular newspaper comic in America, and on Sunday there is a four-page comic section in colors, the most expensive and the best that money can buy.

Market quotations are printed accurately and fully every day from all the great centers. Market reviews and forecasts by the greatest experts in America are printed every Sunday, telling you in detail what cotton, for instance, has done during the week; what it's likely to do next week and why; what business conditions are over the country and what you can expect for the immediate future.

Pictures of every big news event in Birmingham, Alabama, America and abroad are printed in The News. The pictures in the Sunday paper alone represent several hundred dollars.

State news is covered thoroughly in The News by correspondents in almost every important town in Alabama and many in Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia. The News prints more State news than any other paper in Alabama.

In addition to the features named The News prints daily and Sunday what amounts to a library of real information, covering every field of thought. It's a real library, and it's clean and fair and honest. The information you will get out of The News, aside from all of the news of the day, will save you many times the subscription price. You really can't afford to be without it, if you live in this section and want to keep abreast of the times. It is a bargain at any price. But it doesn't cost much. SPECIAL TRIAL OFFER—BY MAIL ONLY—ONE MONTH, 50 CENTS, OR UNTIL DECEMBER 5, FOR $2. FILL OUT THE COUPON BELOW AND SEND IT IN TODAY. Every day's paper will convince you that you have made a wise investment.

The Birmingham News, Birmingham, Ala. Date.....1916.

Gentlemen:—

In accordance with your special offer I am enclosing herewith 50c / $2.00 for which please send The Birmingham News, Daily and Sunday, to the address below for one month. until Dec. 5th.

50c for 1 month
$2 to Dec. 5th
(By mail only)

Send stamps, money order or check.

Name .....
Address .....
City ..... State .....

ONE-HORSE SPRING-TOOTH CULTIVATOR

By E. F. Cawthen, Associate Agriculturist,, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The one-horse spring-tooth cultivator is a cheap useful implement and should be more widely used than it is. By an easy changing of a few nuts and braces it may be quickly changed into different forms of cultivators; straight cultivator, "A" shaped cultivator; "V" shaped cultivator, right-hand side and left-hand side harrow, and by removing center tooth a harrow for straddling rows. Such an implement weighs about fifty pounds. The parts are easily repaired.

The springtooth cultivator in the form of a side harrow is a good implement to run around cotton. It leaves the surface smooth and covered with a dust mulch; it destroys the young weeds and cheks rapid evaporation. One trip with it in the form of a straight cultivator in the middle of the cotton row, as soon after the rain as the soil moisture will permit, is a cheap rapid means of shallow surface tillage and of checking the loss of soil water.

If the farmer wishes to keep his corn middles level, a round trip with the spring-tooth cultivator stirs the entire middle of a four or five foot row, leaves the surface in good condition for other implements and does not disturb the corn roots.

A crop of cotton or corn can be made by frequent shallow cultivation with this implement. However, it must be used judiciously. If crabgrass and other weeds are permitted to get some size, it will not kill them; a sharp scrape and scooter will be a better implement to destroy them. Under ordinary weather conditions a weekly cultivation with a string-tooth cultivator will not permit the middles to become foul.

Cow-peas and sorghum seed that are planted in roys may be cheaply cultivated by taking off one or two of the springs so that the implement of a side harrow all little weeds and will fit the middles. In cultivating these crops by making it in the form of a side harrow all little weeds and grass are easily destroyed and the growing crops kept clean until they shade the ground.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

BEST TONIC IS S.S.S.

Few people get through the winter and spring without attacks from one of the many blood maladies that leave them weak and unfit to meet the trying warm season, and the blood so freighted with poisons that it is incapable of supplying the energy and tissue building properties necessary to health.

This condition is revealed in many ways, and by many symptoms, but all point to one thing—infected blood. And just as surely they call for the one true and tried S. S. S.

It insures blood purity and health. S. S. S. for 50 years has been the standard treatment for all blood troubles. Catarrh, rheumatism, malaria, skin diseases, and other troubles arising from impure and impoverished blood yield to S. S. S. The best tonic.

Get S. S. S. from the drug store, and regain your health. Don't take a substitute. It is guaranteed purely vegetable. Write us for free medical advice. Address-Medical Department 53, Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

At this season of the year when flies are so numerous it will be well to read closely the following bulletin:

Girls and boys help rid the home of this pest by making our simple home-made fly traps. Place them around the house and in the house, lots and stables. Write for illustrations, which I will gladly send to anyone desiring them.

Immediately upon receiving news of the nomination of Hughes and Fairbanks, Mr. Guy Bell, editor of the Irvine, Ky., Sun, worked up a Republican meeting and had a Hughes-Fairbanks club organized within 36 hours after the convention adjourned. If that is the pace they follow in Kentucky, we can tell where the Kentucky vote will be cast in November.

Flour Mill

We desire to state to the public that our Flour Mill at Coopers is again ready for operation this season, and you are cordially invited to give us your patronage.

We thank you for having given us such liberal patronage last season, and promise you to even more than ever exert every means and effort to serve you satisfactorily. Our Mill will be in continuous operation during the entire season.

Very Respectfully

Cooper M'f'g. Company

COOPER, ALA.

GULF COAST RESORTS

SEASHORE EXCURSIONS

Every Saturday, June 3 to September 9

ROUND TRIP FARES FROM CLANTON

Pensacola	$7.15
Pascagoula	8.00
Biloxi	8.40
Pass Christian	9.15
Magnolia Springs	9.50
Ocean Springs	8.35
Gulfport	9.00
Bay St. Louis	9.30

TEN-DAY RETURN LIMIT

Also on sale daily until October 15th, regular round trip Summer Tourist Tickets to Gulf Coast Resorts at slightly higher fares with return limit of October 31st.

L&N

For particulars apply to J. A. HESTER, Ticket Agent, Clanton

P. A. puts new joy into the sport of smoking!

YOU may live to be 110 and never feel old enough to vote, but it's certain-sure you'll not know the joy and contentment of a friendly old jimmy pipe or a hand rolled cigarette unless you get on talking-terms with Prince Albert tobacco!

P. A. comes to you with a real reason for all the goodness and satisfaction it offers. It is made by a patented process that removes bite and parch! You can smoke it long and hard without a comeback! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

Prince Albert affords the keenest pipe and cigarette enjoyment! And that flavor and fragrance and coolness is as good as that sounds. P. A. just answers the universal demand for tobacco without bite, parch or kick-back!

Introduction to Prince Albert isn't any harder than to walk into the nearest place that sells tobacco and ask for "a supply of P. A." You pay out a little change, to be sure, but it's the cheerfullest investment you ever made!

Prince Albert is sold everywhere in toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—that clever crystal-glass pound humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such splendid condition.

PRINCE ALBERT the national joy smoke

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C. Copyright 1916 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

CLANTON ITEMS

Prof. H. C. McDonald who has been teaching at the University Summer School, has returned to his home in Clanton.

Mrs. W. M. Adams and daughter, Sarah, returned last week from a trip to Tuscaloosa, and the State University. They made the trip with Mrs. McDonald in her car and while there were entertained by old friends of the Adams family.

Mr. W. M. Adams attended the Bar Association Meet at Decatur on Friday and Saturday of last week.

Mrs. Guy Higgins went down to Montgomery Tuesday morning returning in the afternoon.

Prof. Arthur Teel of Coosa County visited in Clanton a few days the first of the week.

Prof. G. R. Lewis of Marble Valley was in Clanton the first of the week.

Fresh turnip seed at Alred Drug Co.

Dr. Sam Johnson will return soon from Washington, D. C. He has been away taking a post graduate course in medicine and surgery.

Miss Lillian Bondfield, who has been visiting the family of H. Kanjutzky for several weeks has returned to her home in Oakland, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McKee of Bessemer, on their way from Georgia by auto, stopped over in Clanton with Mrs. Addie Robinson Monday night.

Miss Lillian Robinson of Providence is visiting friends in Clanton this week.

The County Examination for teachers was held here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

PLANTED YOUR TURNIPS? Now is the time. Get your seed at Upchurch Drug Co., where they are new and fresh and sure to come up when planted.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Mr. C. J. Davis is visiting in South Alabama this week.

Mr. W. H. Robinson of Providence was in Clanton Monday on business.

Mr. E. C. Powell, Editor of the Index at Rockford, was in Clanton for a few days this week.

Misses Sarah and Rosie Kanjutzky are visiting in Birmingham and various points in Walker County for several weeks.

Miss Louise and Mr. Felston Mullins of Jumbo were here the first of the week attending the state examination.

Miss Louise Mulling, who has been attending the University Summer School, has returned home where she will spend the summer.

Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Sheriff H. A. Harris and W. M. Wyatt went to Rockford last Monday to attend the Republican Convention of Coosa County, which was held there on that date.

Fruit jars at Upchurch's.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is given that the undersigned will make application to the Governor of Alabama for a pardon parole as to the three months hard labor sentence imposed upon him at the special June term of the Circuit court of Chilton County, 1916, for violation of the prohibition laws.

7-13-2t. ARMON WAGONER.

CHILTON COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION NO. 1

The next annual session of the Chilton County Singing Convention will be held at Concord Church, two miles east of Clanton, on the Fifth Sunday in July.

There will be only one day of the Convention this year, and a large attendance is expected on that day. The business of the Association will be attended to during the first few minutes of the day, and the rest of the time will be taken up by singing.

The program will be arranged and published next week.

W. H. ROBINSON ,Pres.
F. IVEN POPWELL, Cec.

SHERIFF'S SALE, PERSONALTY

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
Chilton County.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Ala., and to me directed whereby I, as Sheriff of said County, was commanded to make the sum of Two hundred thirty-one and 25-100 dollars, principal and interest, and ten and 75-100 dollars, costs of suit, the amount of a certain judgment and costs therein obtained at the Special Term, 1916, of said Court of said County, Alabama, in favor of Clanton Bank against H. C. Johnson etals, I have levied upon and will sell to the highest bidder for cash, at public sale, between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., near Mat Johnson's residence, on the 28, day of July 1916, all the right, title and interest of the above named H. C. Johnson in and to the following described personal property, viz:

One eight horse power gasoline engine, one grist mill all fixtures thereto.

This 18 day of July 1916.

H. A. HARRIS,
Sheriff.

Posted at Court House door July 18th, 1916,

H. A. HARRIS,
Sheriff.

All varieties of new and fresh Turnip Seed for sale at Upchurch Drug Co., at the right prices.

Mr. W. M. Henley of Memphis, Tenn., was in Clanton Monday.

R. W. Heflin of Pindale was in Clanton Tuesday.

Misses Mollie Abbotte and Claribel McKinnon, of Talladega Springs are visiting relatives in Clanton and Thorsby.

FOR SALE—Redemption equity in store building at Thorsby worth one thousand dollars, owner has equity of five hundred dollars will sell for one hundred dollars cash, address the Ingalls Iron Works Company, Birmingham, Ala.,

All kinds new and fresh turnip seed at Upchurch Drug Co.

CHILTON COUNTY FAIR OCT. 30TH TO NOV. 4TH

The next Chilton County Fair will be held at Clanton on the days of the above dates.

The Fair management are looking after all details of the event and will exhibit a spectable that will surpass in interest and magnitude even the Fair of last year which was by far the best in the history of the association.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Cured Malaria While He Read His Paper

Mr. J. Height of Wetumpka, Had an Easy Time

Mr. Height is highly pleased with the pleasant way in which he cured himself, and writes: "For malarial headache, I took a teaspoonful of Granger Liver Regulator for three consecutive nights. I used it after supper, taking a pinch at a time while I read my paper, and this entirely relieved my trouble." Granger Liver Regulator is made of vegetable matter strictly, free of injurious chemicals and alcohol, and is kept pure and fresh in the familiar tin box. The best [illegible] purifier known. Your druggist has it.

FISK
Non-Skids

—first of all a quality tire in every sense of the word.

But the Price is Less

on Fisk Non-Skids than on plain tread casings of several other standard tires. Make your own comparisons.

Prices on Fisk Grey Non-Skid Casings

3 x30	10.40	4½x35	31.20
3½x30	13.40	4½x36	31.55
4 x33	22.00	5 x37	37.30

More than 125 Direct Fisk Branches insure Fisk Service to dealer and car owner.

L. J. DUNCAN
Clanton, Ala.

Fisk Branches in More Than 125 Cities

Time to Re-tire? (Buy Fisk)

Baseball News of Local Games and the Players

MAPLESVILLE DEFEATS PLANTERSVILLE TEAM

On the local grounds this afternoon, the fast going Maplesville team completely spread the whitewash over the Plantersville bunch to the tune of ten to nothing. The game was cleanly played and the most distinct feature was the pitching of Burkhalter who held the oposition down to four measly hits and fanned sixteen during the nine innings. Today's game made the second straight shut out for the locals, also the tenth straight win for them. By winning today's game the locals have won ten and lost three for the season. Taking the game as a whole, it was one of the cleanest played here during the year as the fielding was fast and sometimes spectacular. The box score was as follows:

Maplesville	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Lamison rf	5	1	1	0	0	0
Woods 3b	5	1	1	0	2	0
Ruddick c	3	0	0	16	0	1
McCarty 2b	4	1	2	0	0	0
Burkhalter p	4	1	1	1	4	1
Adams 1b	4	2	1	7	0	0
Foreman ss	4	1	2	1	1	0
Whiteside lf	4	2	0	2	0	0
Parnell cf	4	1	1	0	0	0
	37	10	9	27	7	2

Plantersville	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Modley p	4	0	1	2	1	0
Wright c	4	0	0	4	1	0
Mitchell cf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Dyer ss	4	0	1	2	2	1
Hutto 2b	4	0	1	3	3	0
Pearson 3b	4	0	0	1	4	1
Brasher rf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Pickering 1b	3	0	1	11	0	2
Wooley lf	3	0	0	1	0	0
	34	0	4	24	11	4

Summarry: Two base hits, Foreman; 3 base hits, Woods; Base on balls, Modley 2; Struck out, Burkhalter 16, Modley 3; Stolen bases, Woods; Hit by pitched ball, Modley 2 (Lamison and Whiteside); Left on bases, Plantersville 5, Maplesville, 5; time of game 1 hour 30 minutes. Umpires, Minor and Huff. Scorer, Vines.

Score by innings:

Maplesville	1	0	1	0	0	0	3	5	*
Plantersville	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

EVERGREEN

Health is good in this section now and I hope it will remain so.

The second Monday in November will bring the most dreadful time that has ever been in Chilton County with the Democratic and Socialist parties. Wonder what they will call the party that nominated Mr. Popwell last Saturday? I suppose it will be called a "Dukes Mixture." I asked several after they came out of the court house what party it was Democratic, Republican or Socialist. Some said they didn't know and I heard one man from Mineral Springs say he didn't give a dam but that he didn't intend to vote the ticket that was put out by any such means and this man was a democrat all over.

What will Mr. Pounds do now, he has just completely worked himself out of a job? I am sorry for Mr. Pounds for he has been faithful and was all the man that was out on the independent ticket and just lost clean out. Surely he didn't expect any better when he went in with that other crowd. Just one more meeting like that one last Saturday will elect Judge Reynolds this fall whether he wants it or not. Why didn't they elect a democrat or a socialist? We all can see with our eyes shut what was worked. So the Republican party has two men out for Probate Judge if the last man doesn't run on the unknown ticket.

W. S. BEAIRD.

Textile interests in the East have been awarded contracts for supplying 1,000,000 lightweight undershirts and 300,000 pairs of socks for the United States army, an item in our preparation for trouble in Mexico. Inasmuch as the administration is responsible for the Mexican war, the Democrats may consistently attribute the prosperity derived from such war orders to Democratic policies.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper. E66-B

DADDY SIMS BUTTS CLANTON ROUNDERS

The Clanton Roundres were met the second time last Saturday on their own grounds by the strong team of Daddy Sims. The final score was 6 to 5 in favor of the visiting team, which was quite an increas for the home boys over the other game played with Daddy's squad.

Following is the box score:

Daddy Sims	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Burnett ss	5	1	2	1	1	0
Pyron 2b	4	1	2	6	2	1
Shaw 1b	5	1	1	5	2	0
Thomas 3b	2	1	1	4	2	0
Roper lf	4	1	1	2	2	0
Marcus cf-c	4	0	1	3	0	0
Sims c	3	1	1	6	0	0
Richards cf	1	0	0	0	0	0
Klinner p	4	0	0	0	3	0
Patton rf,	4	0	0	0	0	0
	36	6	9	27	12	1

Rounders	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Popwell c	4	0	0	6	1	0
Mims rf	3	1	0	0	0	1
Wyatt 3b	3	1	2	2	3	2
Smith ss	4	1	3	1	2	0
Williams lf	4	1	3	2	0	0
Davis 1b	1	0	0	3	0	1
Palmer 1b	3	0	2	9	0	0
Parrish 2b	3	1	1	3	3	1
Driver p	4	0	2	0	6	1
Davidson cf	2	0	0	0	0	0
Kemp cf	2	0	0	1	1	0
	33	5	13	27	16	6

Summary: Struck out by Klinner 8, Driver 3; Base on balls, Klinner 3, Driver 4; Stolen Base, Burnett, Pyron; Balk, Driver. Time, 1:56. Umpire, Wilson. Scorer, Barrett.

BASEBALL COMEDIANS

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

RANDOLPH ROSE

THE comedians of baseball always interest me. A championship game is a pretty serious thing and I always thought a little comedy to lighten it up was good, and also the managers tell me that a comedian on the train helps to keep the players from worrying.

We've had a few down here in the South. Rube Kissinger is the funniest thing on two legs when he wants to be, but he doesn't run to comedy so much now as he did a few years back, and, by the way, Kissinger has pitched about as long as any pitcher in existence, and has never been below a class A league.

I was rather disappointed to see Jack Johnston and Kirchner ruled out of their comedy. These two, in the Southern League, always had something funny to pull.

The funniest of them all was Steve Evans, last year with the Feds., but now with Toledo. I happened to be in St. Louis a hot summer afternoon when he went to right field with a parasol. The fans thought it great fun.

Evans invented a piece of modern slang. One day when he was with New York the owners were about to sell him to a lower league team. The principals to the trade approached toward him in right field. Evans eased away. The other followed. Evans led the way all around the park. Finally the others called to him to stop.

"Not me," said Evans. "Even from where I am, 'I can hear the rattle of the can,'" and thus came into life that not very classic phrase.

They tell me one about Dummy Taylor, a clever pitcher who played from 1899 to 1910. His team, the Giants, was behind and it was raining. The Giants wanted to save the game by having it called, but Umpire Johnston wouldn't call it, so Dummy, to ridicule Johnston and get a laugh, went to first base coaching box in rubber boots and rubber coat. All he got for his trouble was a fine and Dummy Taylor sure hated to part with his money. So the laugh was on him.

Germany Schaeffer, a famous baseball comedian, when making the trip around the world, posed as Prince Henry in a Monte Carlo casino. He strutted and looked important and then came time to bet. Instead of betting like a prince he put up a very small bet and everybody was nonplussed. But the worst of all came when it was time to go. All the servitors expected handsome tips from "The Prince," and they're still waiting, for all Germany Schaeffer knows. He's with the Yankees this year.

Randolph Rose

The week ended June 24 recorded orders from the warring powers for 500,000 tons of shell steel for delivery this year. two contracts for a total of 200,000 9.2-inch shells were placed with Democratic shell plants and negotiations are now active on contracts for 500,000 additional ones. The Russian government has tentatively placed contracts for 350,000 tons of rails and 1,000 locomotives. As Russia increases her facilities for handling freight over the trans-Siberian road, our exports of war munitions to Russia-in-Asia increase. Our normal exports to Russia-inAsia are about $1,250,000 annually. During the ten months of the fiscal year ended April 1916, our exports to this portion of Russia totaled $85,000-000. Democratic prosperity.

Punxsutawney (Pa.) spirit— The Democrats want to raise $1,700,000 for the campaign by popular subscription. That amount wouldn't buy enough votes to win.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Dr. Peterson of Hanover has reported three cases of Infantile Paralysis to Dr. A. K. Whetstone of Rockford, Coosa County. The victims are negroes. All precaution against spread and further infection are being taken.

The pacification of Mexico isn't such a large order for a nation that built the Panama Canal.

TRAVELS 40 MILES FOR MORE TANLAC

J.D. Hawkins says his Wife has gained fiiteen Pounds On Three Bottles.

"I'm taking a forty-mile trip to get more Tanlac," was the remarkable statement made by J. D. Hawkins, a well known and prosperous farmer, to the Tanlac representative in Jacobs pharmacy, Memphis, Tenn. a few days ago.

"Yes, sir," continued Mr. Hawkins, "I live in Bartlett, Tenn., and I drove eight miles to Raliegh this morning and caught a trolley car there for Memphis, which is twelve miles more, so you see, when I get back home, Ive traveled forty miles, and that ought to be proof enough of what I think of Tanlac.

"I declare, I never saw or heard of a medicine doing as much good as Tanlac. My wife has gained fifteen pounds on three bottles of it, and besides, it has gotten he over troubles that have been weakening her down for nearly twenty years. and I don't aim for her to be without it. She suffered awfully with indigestion and was growing very weak and badly run-down. Everything she ate made gas and gave her severe pains in the stomach. She had no appetite at all, and what she would force herself to eat hurt her so badly that it seems she would have been better off if she had eaten nothing. She suffered terriblyp with nervous headaches and couldn't sleep on account of it. She was tired all the time she never felt like doing a thing. In fact, she was never able to do any of her household work at all. She had tried everything without getting any relief, and I was about to give her up in despair, when I read about Tanlac and got her a bottle of it.

"I just can't say too much for Tanlac, for my wife's improvement has been wonderful. She can do all of her housework now, and before she could scarcely get around at all. She is relieved of indigestion and has a good appetite. She eats most anything she wants, and is relieved of all the gas and pains she used to have. Her nerves are quiet and she sleeps good at night and don't have the sick-headache she used to have. As I have already said, she gained fifteen pounds in weight, and gaining strength and health all the time since taking Tanlac. She looks so much better all our neighbors are talking about her improvement. It certainly has done wonders for her be without it for anything and that's the reason I am taking this forty-mile trip to-day, to get more of it for her. I certainly do indorse for I think it is the greatest medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton, exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co.

DAIRYING INSURES A REGULAR INCOME

By J. P. Quinerly, Extension Expert in Dairying, Alabama Extension Service and U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

It hasn't been long since few Alabama farmers made any provision for the possible loss or failure of their cotton crop; but the boll-weevil came and now the crying need for protection is felt by almost every one. No longer can cotton be relied upon. It is an UNCERTAIN crop. Boll weevil insurance is called DIVERSIFICATION. Over in Mississippi and other sections, where it has been popularized the people go so far as to say that conditions are actually better than in the good old days before the weevil came.

This COMPANY offers a great variety of policies in boll weevil insurance, but the best one is DAIRYING, provided that farmer lives in a section where he can qualify for it. The limiting factors are a market for milk and butter, or shipping facilities to a creamery. Many have these requisites and are not aware of it. Neither do they understand the benefits of such protection against the weevil.

All that is necessary to carry this form of insurance is a few native cows, (until better ones can be raised), a small cream separator, two or three cream cans, and a determination to give those cows a chance to eat an abundance of HOME-RAISED feed. For the privilege of eating this feed, the cows will help supply food for the family, calves and pigs; fertilizer for the soil; and money to help pay the debts incurred while attempting to raise more cotton than the weevils can eat.

A number of farmers in different sections of Alabama gave dairying a trial last year, and they say it is just what they needed, because it brings sure and ready money. Their average cows produce from four to six dollars worth of butter fat per month, and they receive the creamery check every two weeks. A few cows will put a small farmer on a cash basis, and "Billy Boll Weevil" can't do much damage to that sort of a farmer.

Further information may be obtained by writing J. P. Quinerly, Auburn, Ala.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Wanted—50 more young men and 50 more young women to enter

THORSBY INSTITUTE

September 12th, 1916.

To get a High School Education or preparation for it, under vital Christian, tho non-sectarian influence

Teachers Thoroughly Trained.
High Standards, Low Expenses.
Opportunity of work to pay part expenses.
Room rent and good board, $2.50 per week.
Special attention to Music, Voice, Piano, Violin.
Business branches for those who want them.
You should send for catalogue to

Prin. S. H. HERBERT, Thorsby, Ala.

FIRE INSURANCE

Also Life, Halth, Accident,
Burglary, Tornado and Plate
Glass Insurance. Bonding.

P. O. BARRETT
CLANTON, ALA.

Any time is the right time for a glass of

Coca-Cola

Morning, noon, or night—for a thirst-quencher, or just for a delicious healthful beverage—you will find a new pleasure in every refreshing glass.

THE COCA-COLA CO.
Atlanta, Ga.

9c

Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, JULY 27, 1916. NUMBER 17.

SHOOTING SCRAPE; AND WILD-CAT STILLS FOUND

Alonza Arledge Seriously Wounds Will Wilson with a Shotgun.

The Sheriff of Chilton county and his deputies were summoned to Stumps Hills in the northern part of the county last Saturday morning to take charge of a situation that had resulted in the shooting of Will Wilson by Alonza Arledge. No details were given the officers, more than the fact that the shooting had happened and that Wilson was in a critical condition as the result.

Deputies Gore and Gillespie hastened to the secene, and went at once to the place of Arledge. He was not to be found anywhere, but a search of his premises resulted in the finding of twenty gallons of whiskey and an illicit distillery. Alleged facts as to the shooting were told the deputies as follows:

Arledge had been operating his still on Friday, and Wilson went to the still Friday afternoon late to get some liquor. On the return the two men, Arledge and Wilson became involved in a dispute or falling out, and the result was that Wilson was wounded by Arledge by a discharge of a shotgun load of shot in the side of his head.

Gore and Gillespie, the Sheriff's deputies returned to Clanton on Saturday afternoon, bringing with them the distilling outfit which they captured on Arledge's place. But they found no definite trace of the man who had committed the shooting.

Sunday night the deputies went quietly back into the hills in the hope that they might learn something about Arledge, and possibly effect his capture. When they reached the neighborhood they found evidences of another still close by, and diligent search revealed the outfit to them about daylight Monday morning. It was found about a mile from the one they raided Saturday, and was the largest "Wildcat" that has ever been hauled down in Chilton county. It is said to be a part of a turpentine distilling machine that had been converted into the business of manufacturing "moonshine." Along with the still, about 300 gallons of beer were destroyed.

The deputies placed the 150 gallon still on their Ford and brought it to Clanton Monday about noon. No traces of the whereabouts of Arledge have been found, and no arrests have been made in connection with the operating of the stills.

NORMAL MUSICAL INSTITUTE

A session of Dye's Normal Musical Institute will be held at Collins Chapel, beginning July 31, and continuing for 30 days.

For particulars address John M. Dye, Principal, Siluria, Ala., or Herbert Lowery, Secretary, Clanton, Route 4.

ADAMS SPECIAL

Health in this community is very good at present. Farmers are getting anxious for the rain to cease.

Mr. Jim Sims from Birmingham spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives of this place.

Mr. R. N. Roebuck, who is working in Tuscaloosa, spent Saturday and Sunday with his family here.

Misses Nettie Weaver and Jennie Mitchel spent Sunday at Mr. D. M. Apperson's.

Mr. Howard Gregg of Staton spent Saturday night with Mr. R. N. Roebuck.

Mr. R. N. Roebuck and daughter visited Mr. Hamp Foshee Sunday.

The Sunday school at this place is going on fine. Come one and all and lets make it a success.

Prof. Bean opened school here Monday with an enrollment of thirty-one pupils. We are proud that we have secured Prof. Bean as teacher of the summer school.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Health of this community is good at present and we hope it will remain that way.

Davis & Miller have their saw mill up and ready for sawing this week.

Miss Abot and Clarabell McKinnon of Talledega Springs and Miss Myrtle Scroggins of Mineral Springs dined with Mrs. J. M. Paschal last Thursday.

C. B. Cox's saw mill is not progressing very much on account of so much rain.

Mr. Charlie Plier and Alie Plier spent Saturday night and Sunday with their cousin, Frank E. Paschal.

We are truly glad to have Dr. S. E. Johnson back in Clanton again.

WRITING SCHOOL.

I wish to announce that I will open a writing school at the following times and places:

SHILOH CHURCH—JULY 17.

CONCORD—JULY 31

All who desire the best and most efficient instruction in the art of penmanship, are cordially invited to come to see me for terms, and make arrangements to attend.

J. C. BROWN,
Clanton, Ala.

BUTLER COUNTY GIRL SEES TRAIN FOR FIRST TIME

Greenville, Ala., July 22.—Nancy Cheatham, aged nineteen, strolled into Greenville afoot, having walked from her home, 18 miles west of Greenville. This was the first time she ever visited here, and according to her own statement, she saw her first train. The girl brought with her a pitiful story, stating that she was forced to leave home for she was too sick to plow for her father, who sent her away from home. She came up the middle of Commerce street, looking for the store where her father traded. She found the store and asked the proprietor to pay her way and put her on the train so that she could go to Bolling and find some of her relatives who would take her in.

A railway ticket was procured and the girl was shown to the train by an employe of the store. As the ticket was handed her she asked what it was and this was explained to her. She had to be treated as a mere child and placed in the care of the conductro. She asked if the train would catch fire, and stated that she would not jump off the train unless she became frightened.

Her face was pale and she had the appearance of having done hard work.

It is reported in Greenville that the girl is a great granddaughter of a former governor of Alabama.

PILGRIMS REST

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the two weeks singing school which closed at this place Saturday with Prof. H. G. Carter as teacher.

Will say it was the best school that has ever been taught here. He did more good than we ever thought any one could do, and we can never praise him too high, for praise could not give him the big head, and he can earn every word of praise he gets and more too. He is a teacher among teachers.

He left us and everyone begging him to teach forty days, but he had to fill his other contract, but will be here again the 4th day of September.

A PUPIL.

STATE SINGING CONVENTION

On last Saturday and Sunday your correspondent attended the great State Convention of the Sacred Harp held in Exhibit Hall, first avenue, Birmingham. The convention reached its zenith Sunday afternoon when the crowd was immense. Enthusiasm ran high.

There was a large number of fine directors present from different parts of the state.

First we noted Miss Myra Johnson of Clay. A beautiful girl in her teens. She directed nicely, her teacher, Prof. Ray, said she could handle any composition in the book.

There was little Winnie Champion of Ensley, only eleven years old, but she directed the great body with ease, singing music that some men would shirk. She was warmly applauded.

We noted Prof. Whit Denson of north Alabama, a young man of apparently deep spirituality. His leading was of great interest. Hear him sing Wesley's hymn "Oh for a Heart to Praise My God, A Heart from Sin Set Free," and claiming his heart in that happy condition waiting and ready to go, it was striking. The great Millstead of Texas was there. Oh, you ought to hear him, he is of the finest. Prof. Tom Denson, author and teacher was present. All who have heard him know how fine he is.

Prof. Morrison of Ashland, a fine director, added much interest to the service. Prof. A. A. Jackson of Birmingham another fine, enthusiastic director, well known in Chilton did good work. Prof. Bullard of Birmingham is a leader that is working his way to the front line, his singing carries conviction with it.

We will mention one more, Miss Bettie Jackson of Birmingham, Alabama's musical wonder, and great alto singer was there. Her singing swept the convention off its feet. Hear her sing "When Suns shall Rise and Set no More." Figurative language portraying the beautiful day now apparently dawning, though ushered in with a storm, but ere long will bring universal peace, when this planet will ring with sacred song as never before. We say hear Miss Jackson sing and you will see and feel some ofthe power which sacred music is destined to weild. All Alabama is proud of her, Chilton county in particular.

We noted with pleasure the great kindness of Birmingham to her visitors and the nice things said about the convention in the Birmingham News.

A CHILTON DELEGATE.

Government Representative In Tick Eradication Work

Dr. D. B. Strickler of the United States Department of Agriculture Bureau of Animal Industry has been placed in Shelby and Chilton counties to aid and render instruction in tick eradication work among the farmers.

Dr. Strickler will gladly help any community in the building of dipping vats, and give instruction as to the proper methods of carrying on the work of dipping.

He has headquarters in Columbiana where he can be found when he is not in Chilton county.

Being a government employee in this work, Dr. Strickler is certainly a man who understands the work, and capable of presenting the subject to our people in the proper light.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY AT CLANTON AUGUST 12

Speeches will be made by Pope Long, O. D. Srteet and several others.

All Republicans of Chilton county are expected to come to Clanton on Saturday, August 12th.

Things of interest to the party and its success in November will be given consideration and every white man in the county who believes in the principles for which the party stands is urged and requested to be present.

Hon. Pope M. Long, Chairman of the State Republican Executive committee and Hon. Oliver D. Street, National State committeeman of the Republican party will be here and deliver addresses to the voters at the court house.

The Republican situation—national, state and county, will be gone over in detail, and every Republican in the county should be on hand to take in the whole thing.

This day will mark the firing of the first campaign gun of the contest. If you want to get an even start with the whole crowd, you ought to be in Clanton on that day and hear the things that will be said.

Local speakers will address the people on the county situation.

The Thorsby Brass Band will be here to add music to the other interesting phases of the occasion.

The Republicans of the county are going to show their strength on that day, and you want to be with them.

Tell all your neighbors to fix up for coming to Clanton on that day.

ANOTHER CHILTON BOY

We are in receipt of the following letter from a former Chilton boy who is now practicing medicine in Oklahoma. His friends here will no doubt be glad to read what he says.

"Paden, Okla., July 20, 1916.

"The Banner,

"Clanton, Ala.

"Dear Sir:

"Please send me your paper for one year. I will remit for same as soon as I receivestatement for the amount. I don't know whether you remember me or not but I am one of the Chilton county boys; was raised there and believe me still have a warm place in my heart for that dear old spot where I was raised, and all the people. I came from there to Oklahoma in 1907 and begun the practice of medicine and have been practiceing every since. I have a very good practice and have been quite successful, and I like the business fine. I wonder if you are the same editor that was there when we left Clanton. If so I know that my father thought lots of you. Well I will hush as I really don't know who I am writing to anyhow. I wish you well and would appreciate the last three copies of your paper.

Yours very truly,
J. S. ROLLINS."

NEW BANK TALKED OF

Rumors are being circulated in Clanton about the organization of a national bank here. J. E. Robinson, Sr., and C. F. Jones of this city, and W. L. Lancaster and B. L. Goddies of Wetumpka are mentioned in connection with the proposition.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to thank the people of this and surrounding communities and especially Dr. T. J. Marcus for their assistance during our illness.

May God bless each and everyone is our prayer.

F. A. BATES AND FAMILY.

BOY SCOUTS CAMP

The local company of Boy Scouts returned Saturday from a three days outing in the woods near Verbena.

They were camped on the banks of Chestnut Creek, and enjoyed the pleasures of real camp life.

Capt. Rich reports that the hours spent with the boys around the camp fire, and hiking over the woods and hills is very valuable to the health and hardiness of the youngsters. They all want to go again for another outing.

While they were in camp they were hosts to a number of visitors from Clanton and Verbena. They had fine music for entertainment, which was furnished by the Thomas Brothers of Verbena.

The scouts thank the people of Verbena for the kindness shown them in different ways.

AUTOMOBILE WRECK

A rather serious auto accident occurred on the highway just north of Clanton Saturday evening, when two Fords driven by George Curlee and Joe VanDerveer made a slight collision.

No serious damage was done by the two cars striking each other. But when Curlee felt the effect of his car striking the other, he attempted to stop, and threw the gear into low speed. The rate at which he was moving caused the car to turn over when it was thrown into low speed, thus causing the damage.

Curlee's car was badly wrecked, he suffering severe bodily injuries. Three other occupants were unhurt.

No damage was done to the VanDerveer car nor any injury to its occupants.

CULTIVATE COTTON LATE SAYS COMMISSIONER WADE

Late cultivation for cotton is the most profitable thing you can do, if done shallow and regularly. Plow to conserve moisture; to admit air and shunshine to come into contact with the soil; to destroy and prevent the germination of grass and weeds; to kill insects and to keep the plants in normal health, growing and fruiting. There are five good reasons for late cultivation, either of which will pay the expense of cultivating and all of which will pay for the cultivation five times. Is not this enough to justify late cultivation?

Plowing to conserve moisture is cutting the pores of the soil to stop evaporating and keep moisture in the soil for the plants during the hot dry days which are sure to come some time in the life of a crop.

Plowing admits air and shunshine into the soil, feeds Nitrogen to the bacteria that help to make plant food available. Shunshine gives heat and purifies the soil by driving out insects and poisonous gasses and is otherwise advantageous.

Plowing kills grass and weeds and prevents seed of the same from germinating. It is just as necessary to plow to prevent vegetation as to destroy it.

Plowing kills insects such as boll weevils, also fungus germs living in the soil. To kill boll weevils plow shallow and two or three times between rains when weather will permit. Agitate the plants with a brush or something attached to the plow that will not break or bruise the plants. When rain is falling every day you cannot do much but think, pick infested squares and plan. When the rain ceases for a few days, put your plans into effect by working carefully and fast.

Cultivation keeps the plants healthy, growing and fruiting. To make the largest crop this must be kept up. It will not keep up any longer than the next cultivation is due if you stop.

Be sure to plow shallow and avoid cutting off the little roots. They are out gathering the food which you make available for the plants by fertilizing and cultivating. Cutting the roots seriously is sure to cause shedding

We have advised you to plow shallow, often and late, telling you scientifically, why. Now we are going to tell you financially, why. It will make more money for you.

JAMES A. WADE,
Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

JUDGE TYRE H. DAVIDSON NOMINEE OF REPUBLICANS

Oneonta, July 25.—The Seventh district republican convention, which met here today, nominated Judge Tyre H. Davidson of Blount County, to oppose the incumbent, John L. Burnett.

Judge Davidson was nominated by Mayor J. B. Sloan of Oneonta, and his nomination was made unanimous. He accepted the nomination in a speech filled vith fire and brimstone, and the head of each county delegation pledged him a majority of the votes of their respective counties.

Judge Davidson said in his speech of acceptance that he would go into every county and beat in the Seventh district and make a clean, vigorous campaign.

The way the Seventh district was laid out by the last legislature gave an anti-democratic majority of 288 for the presidential electors in the election four years ago, and Judge Davidson and the leaders of the party figure that he can roll up a larger majority than was polled by Taft and Roosevelt combined.

ROCKY MT.

There will be an all day singing at this place Sunday, July 30. Everybody is invited to come and bring books and well filled baskets. The great singier of Texas, Mr. Millstead, will be with us.

C. M. NORTHCUTT.

PINEDALE

Health is thic community is good at present. Old Pinedale is coming to the front now.

Mrs. Sallie Mims visited here Sunday.

Miss Lizzie Driver spent Sunday with Miss Emma Lee Mims.

Miss Rena Heflin spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Rose Bud Mims.

Mr. Tam Miller and wife spent Sunday with Mr. Lee Headley.

Master Jessie Raines is visiting his aunt Mrs. J. E. Robinson.

Mrs. J. P. VanDerveer has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Pow of Malene.

SUBSCRIBERS

We positively will not send The Union-Banner to anyone who is over a year behind with his subscription.

Recently we stopped sending the paper to a number who were in arrears, and took their names from our list.

If you want to be sure to get every issue of the paper you had better look after your subscription.

When it gets a year behind we will take your name off the mail list till it is paid up.

Don't overlook this, as it is important.

COTTON CROP DAMAGED ---'BOLL WEEVIL BURLEY'

Recent Heavy Rains Have Given Boll Weevils Upper Hand

Mr. Burley has traveled over twenty-six of the southern counties of Alabama during the three months fight, delivered 112 lectures to farmers meetings, made 162 personal visits to vrious farms, traveled 2,053 miles by automobile, and 2,473 miles by train. He has addressed 12,183 farmers in various parts of the state method to fight the weevil.

Up to July 4, we had the weevil whipped. Then the rain set in, and fifty per cent of the damage is due to the rains and the lack of sufficient potash in the lands. Out of 215 squares picked up on a farm in Russel county, 208 were bolls that had fallen off from the effects of wet weather. The other seven were punctured by weevils. No weevils hurt the bolls so long as they remain on the stalk. But now the rains are so heavy as to prevent the farmers from picking up the infected bolls, the weevils are going to get away with us.

From what I have seen in these twenty-six counties I do not think we will have more than fifty per cent of a crop. While up to July 4 we had a chance to make ninety per cent. But I do not advocate giving up the fight The farmers should pick up the squares until the cotton begins to open.

Needs Potash.

"What Alabama needs as much as anything else is to build up her land with potash. It needs humus in the soil. Even if the weevils were not here, we could not make humus without humus in the soil. Those who destroyed the stalks last fall have very few weevils this year. The weevil cannot live on anything save a cotton food, and he cannot live longer than three weeks without food. Alabama needs to start a stalk destruction campaign as soon as the cotton is picked. The stalks should be turned under for it has been found that they are worth as fertilizer $4.75 an acre per year.

Food Damage

"I found the counties in the western part of the state to have more weevils than those of the central and eastern part. I account for this by the reason that they have been longer in that section than elsewhere here. The worst food damage that I have seen was in Russel, Elmore, Autauga, Bibb and Montgomery counties. A few parts of these counties will not make anything. The best fight made against the weevil has been in Coffee county, where small white farmers own their land, and hence take more interest in it. The continued wet weather is keeping men out of the fields and giving the weevils the upper hand.

"There has been a lot of bad teaching in this state regarding the weevil, which I have had to overcome. Everywhere I have gone in this work men have told me that they could kill the weevil by dragging a chain over the plants, and knocking them off to die on the ground. As a matter of fact, there has not been a day this year when the sun was hot enough to kill the weevil. Once knocked off, the weevil simply lives on in the square on the ground. The warm soil acts as an incubator. The only safe method is to pick the weevil off and destroy him along with the punctured squares.

Stalk Destruction.

"With the proper campaign of stalk destruction in the fall, and picking up the weevils in the squares, Alabama can whip the pest and raise cotton. Let the farmers put more humus in the soil, build up their lands, use the methods outlined here for fighting the weevil, and Alabama can raise cotton as well as they can anywhere."

Demonstration agent Watt in a short talk, said Alabama is sick, and like a man when he is sick, it has been running after a lot of quacks. The weevil can be killed if it is fought by the methods given by Mr. Burley, but there a lot of farmers who take an old patent medicine that comes along instead of doing the real work that will tell. There are more weevils on the border of the weevil immigration than there are behind it, because behind it have learned how to fight them. The farmer on paper knows a lot more about farming than does the man out in the field, he thinks and he advocates many things that are bad because they make the farmer leave off the old sure methods to try the new useless ones.. One railroad sent out a pamphlet that advocated a lot of junk that was not any good, and was even bad, because many farmers took the advice of the railroad thinking it knew what it was talking about.

Stop Rumors.

"Stop rumors, whether true or not. If they are true, they will only discourage those who are trying, and if they are false, they will hurt even worse, because they stop the efforts against the weevil and give the farmers the blues. Confidence is the secret. Up to the first of August the farmers should plant soy beans, German millet, peas, amber sorghum and sudan grass. These will all mature before the cold weather begins and give food for the stock. While many farmers are hurt, there is no use in stopping. The thing is to get up and fight, and keep the confidence up."

Mr. Sam Wesley Adams returned last Thursday from the State University, where he has been attending the Summer School. He will be at home for a few week's vacation before again returning to school.

FARMERS' SUMMER SCHOOL AT AUBURN, JULY 29-AUG. 5

Progressive farmers will improve and make farm life more attractive and profitable. The cattle tick is being driven out of Alabama. A modern packing house is now operating in Alabama. The boll weevil covers Alabama, and the great European war still rages. Virgin timber is rapidly going and cut-over land must be made productive. Alabama must not only feed herself, but also help feed the world. Farmers must grow pastures and feeds, and bred and feed meat-producing animals. Come to the Auburn short course and get the best. There will be ten to ewelve lectures and demonstrations every day. Last year over nine hundred were enrolled. This year we expect more than one thousand.

Round trip rates at all coupon offices. Apply for rates one week in advance. Board can be obtained for $5.00 per week or $1.00 to $2.00 per day. Auburn's hospitality is now nationwide. Its fresh air, pure water and watermelons are free. We cordially invite every farmer and every farmer's wife, boy or girl and all others who thirst for farm truths.

C. A. CARY.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission will hold an examination for stenographer and typewriter (male and female) August 8, 1916, to fill seventeen existing vacancies in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and South Carolina, and other vacancies as they may occur. Entrance salaries from $900 to $1,080.

Age, 18 years or over.

Application blanks and full information can be obtained by applying to the Secretary, Local Civil Service Board, your city, or the Secretary, Fifth Civil Service District, Atlanta, Ga.

This is an excellent opportunity for competent stenographers and typewriters to secure government positions.

NOTICE

To all physicians and mid-wives in Chilton county:

The State Board of Health has notified me that immediate steps will be taken in further efforts to rigidly enforce the law governing the prompt reporting of all cases of infectious diseases, births and deaths. Any physician or mid-wife who fails to comply strictly with the law in these matters will be prosecuted as the law directs. Please be governed accordingly.

T. J. MARCUS, M. D.
County Health Officer.

MAN IN PRISON TO SIGN CHECK FOR TEACHERS

Teachers of Chilton county, whose salaries have not been paid for several months because of the failure of The Clanton Bank, will receive about $4,000 during the week. The State banking department has prepared a check for the amount and it will be signed by Dr. E. A. Matthews, former chasier of the bank and former treasurer of school funds for Chilton county. Dr. Matthews now is confined in the penitentiary at Wetumpka, and the check will be signed there, having been delivered to the State convict department.

The money was on deposit in the bank at the time of its failure and was held up with all other deposits. Through settlements made during the past month, a dividend of eighty per cent has been paid to depositors and the four thousand dollars will be eighty per cent of the amount Dr. Matthews held as treasurer of school funds.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

The Stockholders of the Farmers Warehouse and Storage Company will hold their regular annual meeting on Thursday, August 10, 1916. All are requested to be present at court house at 10 a. m.

J. N. DENNIS,
Secretary.

LIBERTY HILL

All who are interested in the cemetery at Liberty Hill are requested to meet there on Thursday, August 3, with the necessary tools for cleaning off the grounds of same.

B. F. MASSEY.
J. E. LITTLEJOHN.
JOHN W. BAKER.

COLLINS CHAPEL

Health here is good at present.

Rev. Hughes of Birmingham conducted a great revival here last week.

Prof. J. M. Dye will begin a singing school here next Monday. Messrs. G. W. Murrah, Aloza Robinson and Mrs. Sarah Murrah motored to Siluria Monday.

Uncle Jack Robinson was in this community Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Pearl Oslin is visiting her sister in Birmingham this week.

Misses Stella Lowery, Delean and Audell Burnett spent Friday with Mattie and Lucile Mims.

Misses Elma and Jewel Beasley visited this community last week.

Best wishes to the Union-Banner.

Miss Belle Guthire and Mr. J. A. Clay of Ensley spent Sunday with Miss Mary M. Brockman.

WHILE THE MUSIC PLAYS HE CANNOT KEEP STILL

More About the Doings of Politicians in Chilton County.

Jemison, Ala., July 24, 191 .

Editor Union-Banner:

There are so many fine things happening these days that I just must say a few words about some of them.

I stated before that the Democrats were in a mess and needed advice and help; so on the 15th they met and got both advice and help also. They nominated a candidate for Probate Judge, but the democrats deny having anything to do with it, and say that Popwell don't suit them. They talk of calling another meeting and putting them out a full blooded "Demmie" for their candidate.

I am surprised at Mr. Popwell and two or three others who went into that convention because they know when they leave the Republican party and go into the democratic ranks, it is just the same as committing suicide politically. How many who ever left and went to the Democrats have done any good? Name one for I want to know who he is.

I am sorry we have a few men in our party once in a while who want to be boss, and are not willing to submit to the majority of the people. But when they get that way they should go to the Democrats for that party is filled up with refused officials and candidates from the Republican party. And that is all they can do is to kick and fuss.

We don't have any of the sorry Democrats to come to us. All who come across are good ones; and we receive them as honorary members. We would be glad to have all who stand for the rule of the people, and I think this is a good time for all those to line up with us.

You know we went down to Clanton in mass meetings and plead for our rights some time ago, but Judge Deason went against us every time. He had the deciding vote in some transactions that hurt us the most. I want to say that if Judge Deason had voted the opposite way from the way he did vote on those four or five tie-ups, you ould have seen the papers filled with cheers from all over this county, and Judge Deason's name would have been the first one to appear this time for re-election. But why didn't he offer again for the office? Because he felt ashamed of his administration, that is the reason.

I think that a party is very weak when it has to go out of its ranks to get a candidate to run at its head. They tell me that they ran Mr. John Patton in that convention, and that he only got two votes. I think Mr. Patton is as good a man as they had, and if I were him, I would take that treatment as an insult; and I would leave the mess in broad open daylight and go into the party that stands for the masses of the people.

Mr. Patton and hundreds of other Democrats met in Clanton with us and pleaded for our money not to be given to that high school, but Deason gave it to them, as he had the deciding vote. And Mr. Popwell, too, stood for giving away the $6,000.00 all the whole time too. Now how can you vote for such a man?

Judge Reynolds never had but one deciding vote in the Commissioners Court. That was in a tie up, 2 voting for taxes to be raised to 50 cents on the hundred dollars in the county, and two voting for taxes to be reduced to 40 cents. Reynolds voted to put them down to 40 cents a hundred.

That is the kind of a man we want now. One who believes in cutting down our expenses. If you were to hire a man on your farm or to attend to your business, would you not want the man who could cut down all expenses, and save you the most money? Yes, you would. Well, Reynolds cut our expenses down and went out of office leaving about ten thousand dollars in our treasury. Look at it now. That is gone, together with all we have paid in since then, and besides we are two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in debt. And we haven't got but little benefits from it.

Boys, keep your hand on the throttle and your eyes on the rail, for we are coming through this fall, casting about three votes to the Democrats one. Most all the good Democrats are going to vote for Reynolds so they can have a say so in the affairs of our county for a while. In every important issue Reynolds has always stood for the majority of the people.

I am for success to The Union-Banner, and the Republican party.

As ever,
J. N. SCOTT.

I Will Buy

All the peas and Corn you have to sell.

I Will pay full market pricss at any time.

Bring me what all you have to sell.

L. H. REYNOLDS
Clanton, Ala.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.
For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.
For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.
For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.
For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.
For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.
For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

SIGN YOUR NAME

We have repeatedly requested our correspondents to sign their names to communications sent us for publication. No articles, other than mere news items, will be published without the name of the writer is published also. If you have any reply to make to an article written by some body else, we will not publish it unless we are allowed to publish the name of the writer. Remember this when you write to the paper.

Far better a high cost of living and ability to buy than a lowering of cost, attended by destruc-tion of purchasing capacity.

Logansport (Ind) Tribune—Having announced that he "cannot swallow Watson," William Dudley Foulke of Richmond is urged to "drink Pluto and buy a stack of chips from Senator Taggart."

Senator Thomas in the United States Senate called T. R. an "Armageddon fugitive." He is mistaken. T. R. has just moved up among the first line troops.—National Republican.

The tail-ender on the headless Bull Moose ticket continues to implore his fellow-partisans to stand up and fight. Many of them are doing so, we can tell Col. Parker. They are standing up beside their former Republican associates and they are fighting the Democrats.

The recent speech of Senator Stone, leader of the Senate Democrats, shows that he, too, has finally realized the temporary and uncertain character of the industrial prosperity we are now enjoying. But what will Stone and his associates do about it?

It is admitted that a protective tariff is necessary to build up a dye industry. We proved a few years ago that it was necessary to have a protective tariff to build up a steel industry, a tin plate industry, a cutlery industry—infact, practically all our manufacturing industries. Yet the Democrats are willing to vote a protective tariff on dyes only.

No wonder the cow jumped over the moon. She heard that ex-Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, formerly of the Ways and Means Committee, who helped put milk on the free list, had appeared before the committee recently and argued to put condensed milk on a protective basis in order to save us from Canadian competition. Penrose has always stood for the policy to which Palmer was just recently converted.

About a year after he became President, Woodrow Wilson wrote his check for $25 as a contribution to a charitable institution engaged in providing relief for the unemployed. A picture of the check was given to the press to show President Wilson's generosity. But that check is today amule evidence of the seriousness of the unemployment problem resulting from the enactement of the Underwood tariff law.

Democratic newspapers are telling us that our trade balance in 1916 is enormously greater than in 1912. True, but why do not our Democratic friends point to the trade balance during the period the Underwood law was in effect prior to the outbreak of the European war? That is the only period with which to make a fair comparison. Everybody knows our present trade is abnormal and due to the war.

Democrats say President Wilson has done the best he could in the Mexican situation. Certainly not a very strong argument for his re-election to another four years at the head of the government. The American people are deeply disappointed that he is so constituted temperamentally and so lacking in experience that he cannot do better. What we want in the Presidency is a man who will not muddle every diplomatic controversy in which he engages.

Opinions of the People.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE EDUCATIONAL AMENDMENT

Section 1. The several counties in the State shall have power to levy and collect a special county tax not exceeding thirty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in such counties in addition to that now authorized or that may hereafter be authorized, for public school purposes, and in addition to that now authorized under section 260 of article XIV of the Constitution; provided, that the rate of such tax, the time is to continue and the purpose thereof shall have been first submitted to the vote of the qualified electors of the county, and voted for by a majority of those voting at such election. Section 2. The several school districts of any county in the State shall have power to levy and collect a special district tax not exceeding thirty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in such district for public school purposes; provided, that a school district under the meaning of this section shall include incorporated cities or towns, or any school district of which an incorporated city or town is a part, or such other school districts now existing or hereafter formed, as may be approved by the county board of education; provided futher, that the rate of such tax, the time it is to continue and the purpose thereof shall have been first submitted to the vote of qualified electors of the district and voted for by a majority of those voting at such election; provided further, that no district tax shall be voted or collected except in such counties as are levying and collecting no less than a three-mill special county school tax. Section 3. The funds arising from the special county school tax levied and collected by any county shall be apportioned and expended as the law may direct; and the funds arising from the special school tax levied in any district which votes the same independently of the county shall be expended for the exclusive benefit of the district, as the law may direct.

1. The adoption of this amendment does not alter any provision of the present Constitution; it only adds a new article allowing additional educational privileges.

2. The adoption of the amendment levies no tax.

3. Even after the adoption of this amendment, no county can levy a school tax unless a majority of those voting at an election called for the purpose favor it.

4. Under this amendment a county can levy any amount up to three mills, but a district cannot levy and tax at all unless the county is levying as much as three mills.

5. All funds raised under this amendment will remain in the county and be expended by the county board of education for the schools of the county or district raising such funds.

6. No school funds which any county now gets would be affected by this amendment.

7. No official can be paid one cent for assessing, collecting or disbursing any funds raised under the authority of this amendment.

A vote for this amendment is a vote for the children of Alabama.

WM. F. FEAGIN,
State Superintendant.

Varying the immortal phraseology of the late Patrick Henry, we care not what course others may pursue, but as for us, give us Protection prosperity rather than boodle brought from bonds and bloodshed.—American Economist.

Long Time Loans to Farmers on Improved Real Estate

On real estate security in Chilton County, owned by farmers. I can procure long time loansfrom clients who have ample money to lend, at less tha 8 per cent interest. Applicants should bring their land papers with them.

Wm. M. ADAMS, Clanton, Ala.

A LOUISIANA FARMER

Dubberly, La., July 20, 1916.

Editor Union-Banner:—Please allow me space for a few words in your paper in regard to farming conditions in this state.

We are short on everything in Louisiana this year, owing to the dry weather. It has been so hot and dry that I don't think the boll weevil will cause much damage. Wheat and oats was only a half crop, as compared with last year. Fruit crop is scarce.

You farmers in Alabama will learn more by experience with the boll weevil than you will by reading about them. You can't do anything with them by picking and burning the squares. You simply have to know how to plant your cotton the right way. Plant common thin land, use little fertilizer, early varieties of cotton and fast work. I have had seven years experience on this job, and have made a fairly good crop of cotton every year. If you depend on picking up the squares and burning them, your cotton crop might not pay your doctor bill these hot days, and you couldn't tell any difference where you picked up and where you didn't. People advise you to do what you can't do, and something they will not do themselves.

The best way to beat the boll weevil is to plant corn, wheat, oats peas, and goobers, grow hogs, and plant but little cotton.

The best farmers we have in Louisiana are the best workers, and not the best talkers. I see in your paper that the Alabama people have some Louisiana experts to train the people up there to pick up the squares and burn them. They never did any good at that job here. These fellows are after picking up what money they can, and have not got the boll weevil on their minds.

Well, I will close by saying for you to have Mr. L. B. Pounds elected so he can take care of W. J. Foshee and J. W. Driver there at Clanton, and I think all will be well.

Best wishes to The Union-Banner and all my Chilton county friends.

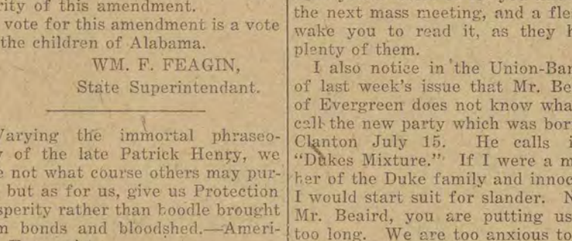
Very truly,
JOHN W. FOSHEE.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Well, I notice in last week's copy of the Clanton Press a letter signed "A Voter."

He said he had just learned of the so called mass meeting at Clanton last Saturday, July 15, 1916. He also said he was glad the people had waked up. Well, dear people I am glad he has waked up and can see what has been done, but am very sorry that he has been sleeping so long as not to see the advertisement in the valuable paper, as he calls it, (The Clanton Press) of that mass meeting. I'm quite sure that he knew what he was talking about when he said you all can count on us, but ,however, he ruined it when he said that new party man could do such.

Well, Mr. A Voter, if you will sign your name to a comment I'm almost sure some of your buddies in the new party (L. B. Pounds mix-up) would send you a letter to let you know of the next mass meeting, and a flea to wake you to read it, as they have plenty of them.



I also notice in the Union-Banner of last week's issue that Mr. Bearid of Evergreen does not know what to call the new party which was born at Clanton July 15. He calls it a "Dukes Mixture." If I were a member of the Duke family and innocent, I would start suit for slander. Now, Mr. Beaird, you are putting us off too long. We are too anxious to see that readful day with the Democratic and Socialist parties to wait until the second Monday in November. I wonder if the new party has changed election day?

JAS. I. ROBINSON.

That submarine that floated under the high seas with a million-dollar cargo of foreign-made products for American markets did not begin to create the stir that the shiploads of alien-made material landed on our shores under the Underwood Free-Trade farce will arouse when European peace tears down our country's Protection walls.—American Economist.

Tom Pyron and Hance Alred visited Maplesville on Thursday.

"Torturing Headaches—don't suffer—Stop them!"

Long hours, close and tedious work are very apt to result in Headaches or other Pains. Don't suffer.

DR. MILES'
ANTI-PAIN PILLS
will quickly drive your Pain away, and
Dr. Miles' Nervine
will assist you by relieving the Nerve Strain.

IF FIRST BOX, OR BOTTLE, FAILS TO BENEFIT YOU, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

DIZZY SPELLS.

"My nerves became all worn out. I had bad headaches and severe dizzy spells. I could not sleep and my appetite was poor. I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they always gave me instant relief no matter what the pain. Then I used Dr. Miles' Nervine regularly and was soon in perfect health again."

MRS. S. L. YOUNG,
324 Pittsburg St.,
Newcastle, Penn.

THE FARMING SITUATION

The outlook for the farmers in this section is truly a good bit of a gloomy aspect. The damage done by the excessive rains recently is indeed great;then in addition to this the presence of the boll weevil adds to the pallor of the fading prospects.

But yet there is hope. We can turn defeat into victory if we will exercise oureselves and put forth the proper effort.

Our farmers have always been pretty easy going, getting a living out of their work, and not having to tax themselves very extensively with hard labor. Even now the call is more for extra work of the mind than of the muscles.

What our farmers should realize now is that they must get rid of the idea that as laying by time is here they have nothing to do but to frolic and eat watermelons.

The boll weevil is not going to lay by and take a vacation. He is going to stay on his job, adding more, and in no doubt, far greater damage, to that already done by floods.

The farmer that wages a battle against him to that finish is the farmer that will come out best.

The one who quits his cotton about now and goes off to a saw mill and goes to work, or sits out in the shade and eats watermelons, waiting for frost to open the bolls, had just about as well not go back to the cotton field with his pick sack in the fall.

THORSBY INSTITUTE

We are in receipt of a copy of the latest issue of the Bulletin of Thorsby Institute, which carries announcements for the next session of the institute which opens on September 12, 1916.

As outlined in the Catalogue, one can observe a splendid and thorough high school course; and back of this is a corps of teachers and officers that guarantee a very forceful presentation of the work to students.

Thorsby Institute is the oldest institute in our county doing high school work, and we commend it to our boys and girls. Opportunities are afforded there that should be considered by every student before he leaves his home county and goes away seeking high school training.

The efficient Principal, Rev. S. H. Herbert, will be glad to aid you in the arrangement and selection of your work.

We now learn that one reason why Mr. Wilson takes so many trips on the Mayflower is that he wants to benefit his health. This being the case, we think it time, in the interest of humanity—for which Mr. Wilson is always striving—to arrange so that the President can have all the time there is to look after his health. To that end we are urging the report of the Republican ticket.

After Trevino's soldiers, at Carranza's orders, had shot up Captain Boyd's men at Carrizal, Wilson sent "a stern note" to ask Carranza what his course was to be. And he demanded that the answer be transmitted by regular diplomatic channels and not through subordinate military officiers. Evidently, a written communication by the hand of Senor Arrendondo means more to the administration at Washington than a leaden missive fro Trevino.

Representatives Fordney, Longworth, Green, Hill, Moore, Mondell, Wood and many others on the Republican side, gave the Democrats a good many anxious moments during the consideration of the administration revenue in the House. All of these speakers pointed out the ridiculousness of the Democratic position and most of them took occasion to rub it in to the Democratic leaders for their present inconsistent attitude, quoting from former speeches made by these Democrats, where they expressed views directly opposite to those they upheld during the recent debate. It was great sport for the Republicans and correspondingly humiliating to the Democrats.

W. i. Mullins attended the county Sunday school convention at Maplesville on Thursday.

Wilson's Scholastic Shackles.

"As the tree is bent, so is the tree inclined." This is a fundamental proposition in education. We see its operation in every day life on all sides. We see it in the record of Woodrow Wilson in the Whit House.

Until recently, Mr. Wilson was a pedagogue. The formative period of his life was spent midst the archives of educational institutions. He spent his prime days as a scholastic, formulating theories, announcing theories, teaching theories; and he did it well.

However, with such a background a man is badly handicapped when called upon for the power and will to decide quickly and to act vigorously, as is ever the call upon one occupying an important administrative office. The executive officer of industry, the executive officer of government, must be essentially a motor-minded man. His energies must be readily transferable into channels of quick decisive action.

Woodrow Wilson's energies are readily transferable into lofty musings and pretty theories. His motor-side runs to words, not deeds. Essentially an intellectualist and a scholastic, he is detached from the world of men and things and deeds. This explains his lack of capacity in dealing with the great administrative problems which have confronted him.

The country needs a leader; not alone a leader in thought and word, but one who can take the helm in his hands and steer the ship.

What Wilson lacks, Hughes possesses. The Republican candidates whole background is one of vigorous activity midst men and things. Realizing this, the people called for his nomination. Now they are calling for his election.

Do You Need

A New Suit,
A Summer Hat,
A Shirt,
A Tie,
Underwear,
Hosiery,
Collars,
Handkerchiefs,
Shoes,
Slippers,
Dress Goods?

We can supply your every summer want at this store.

We can sell you any article you want, from the most fashionable of wearing apparel to the plainest of every day working clothes.

We can assure you of the high quality and desirability of everything we sell.

These goods are guaranteed both by the manufacturers and by ourselves.

With the advance of summer you will naturall want a number of articles in the wearing or furnishing lines.

Our stock includes everything needen on the farm, and we especially cater to the farm trade.

Don't fail to remember that "Star Brand Shoes Are Better."

The Princess Steel Range is the best for your kitchen and your pocket book.

The needs of your family in the way of Groceries can be supplied from our shelves.

We always are prepared to give you the best prices on Flour and Meat.

If you will take the trouble to call at our store we can demonstrate the economy of buying from us.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store"

COULDN'T LIFT HER 6 MONTH OLD BABY

Was Bound so fast to Bed She could not move Without Help.

"I was down in bed and couldn't raise my head or move without help and now I'm able to do all my housework, even to my cooking, and garden work and I weigh more than I have in eighteen years and have been taking Tanlac only about four weeks," said Mrs. Dollie Hawkins, wife of a well konwn carpenter, residing at 4906 Second Avenue, South Birmingham.

"For many years," continued Mrs. Hawkins, "I have suffered with rheumatism in my shoulders, arms and in my sides and neck, and I had indigestion, too, in its acute form. The rheumatism got me down in bed and had me bound so hard and fast somebody had to move me about and the pain was terrible. I couldn't so much as lift my six months old baby, and we had to hire somebody to wait on me and do my work. I was so nervous and full of pain the least little thing dropping on the floor would startle me and my heart would almost stop beating, and the only way I could get any sleep and rest was from hyperdermics. I had indigestion so bad I couldn'e eat any solid food at all, and I was so thin and weak and in such a run-down condition that my baby fell off until it was just a little skeleton and fretted and cried all the time except when it was given something to make it quiet.

"I felt better in just a few days after I began taking Tanlac. I could eat something and sleep better and my baby showed improvement almost as soon as I did. I have taken three bottles of Tanlac and I am not nervous in the least now and my sleep is fine. My misery is all gone and I don't need the servant any more. I can eat anything I want and my food not only gives me nourishment but my baby is as fat as a little pig and sits for hours at a time on a pallet and plays without a whimper. It has been a long time since I felt as well and strong as I do now and as I have already said I weigh more than I have before in eighteen years. Tanlac has made a well woman of me and a fat healthy baby out of my little sickly one and I don't know any better way to tell what a wonderful medicine it is than that. I'm just so thankful for what Tanlac has done for us and I want everybody to know about this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exculsively by Upchurch Drug Co.

Many of the farmers in the state who suffered from the recent rains, are planting Mexican June corn, sweet potatoes, Spanish peanuts, peas and other crops that will mature before the October frosts. Many farmers of the lowlands have suffered heavily, due to the crops on these lands being washed away or seriously damaged. Large fields of cotton and corn of the bottom lands have been injured, corn that was in silk has failed to pollinate, and many farmers are planting peas in the corn to insure a profitable dividend.

Alabama's rich lands and natural resources, with many of her beautiful cities and towns, together with broad fields of cotton, corn and other grains, her immense industries producing nearly every product of human want and need and many of the State's magnificient buildings will be exhibited on the movie screen in 1,200 cities of the North and Middle West at an early date, according to Emmett A. Jones, chief of the immigration and markets bureau. The pictures are being made now, and especial arrangements have been made with a Chicago paper which paper has guaranteed the exhibition of the Alabama pictures in 1,200 cities.

UNIGUE MARRIAGE

Mr. C. C. Gibson, age 73, and Mrs. Nellie I. Blair, age 28, were married at the court house Thursday by Judge Deason.

Mr. Gibson has been married three times and Mrs. Blair has been married twice.

C. W. Daugette, president of the Jacksonville State Normal school, has called a farmers' institute to be held in the normal school building at that place on August 4 and 5, at which time the damage to crops in that section will be completely estimated and plans devised to meet similar misfortunes in future.

Fifteen thousand tons of coal from the Birmingham district will be the amount of shipments of that product every month on the new shipping line established between New Orleans and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and Buenos Aires, South America, 5,000 tons of coal having just been tested out.

With 4,393 births and 2,036 deaths, the state of Alabama in May, made an unusually good record, in that the number of births exceeded those of May of last year, while the number of deaths fell below the mark of May, 1915, according to the report of the state board of health. Figures for the state are as follows: May, 1916, deaths 2,036; births, 4,393. May, 1915 deaths, 2,188; births, 4,040.

Armon Wagoner has been granted a pardon by Governor Henderson. Mr. Wagoner was convicted of violating the prohibition laws in the recent Circuit court and sentenced to 3 months hard labor for the county by Judge Alston.

JACKSON HIGHWAY MEETING

Prominent good roads men from all over the state were in Clanton Tuesday attending the meeting of the Alabama Jackson Highway Association.

Mr. Pickens, secretary of the old soldiers meeting last Thursday, promised to furnish the editor of the Union-Banner with a copy of the proceedings, but for some reason it failed to reach us. Hence the fact that we do not publish it.

Don't forget to come to the Republican meeting at Clanton on August 12. This will be the opening of the campaign. Activities will begin on this day and lean on to the election in November.

MARRIAGES

James R. Powell and Miss Eva Jones.

A. O. Taylor and Mrs. Hiram Strength.

C. C. Gibson and Mrs. Nellie I. Blair.

Colored—Jim Goldsmith and Nellie Sproggins.

Yes, to beat Reynolds . Just anything on top side of the earth to defeat the man who has done more for the county than every opponent he has got in the county.

SHERIFF'S SALE, REAL ESTATE

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Ala., and to me directed whereby I, as Sheriff of said County, was commanded to make the sum of Six thousand two hundred thirty-one and 62-100 Dollars, principal and interest, and nineteen and 25-100 Dollars, costs of suit, the amount of a certain judgment and costs therein obtained at the Special Term, 1916, of said Court of said County, Alabama, in favor of Birmingham Trust and Saving Co., against E. A. Mattehws, P. D. Wilson, etals., I have levied upon and will sell to the highest bidder for cash, at public sale, at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., on Monday, the 21 day of August 1916, all the right, title and interest of the above named P. D. Wilson in and to the following described real estate, viz:

Lots 5 and 6 in block 7, one lot on southeast corner of block No. 2, being 35 feet fronting on second avenue thence running back in a northerly direction parallel with second avenue 87 feet being part of the Thornton Hotel lot. Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in block 18, lots 1, 2 and 3 in block No. 11, lots 5 and 6 in block No. 7 and lot No. 1 in block No. 2 are in the original survey of the Town of Clanton. All the lots mentioned in blocks 18 and 11 are in the P. D. Wilson addition to the Town of Clanton. Also, all that part of NE¼ of SE¼ lying west of the L. & N. Railroad about 7 acres not laid off in lots, also that part of NW¼ of SE¼ west of the L. & N. Railroad, 7 acres all in Section 35, Township 22, Range 14, also one brick stone house and lots 11 and 14 in block No. 7. Lots 1, 2, and 3 in block No. 13, lots 3 and 4 in block No. 16, all of block No. 14 all of block No. 15, also lot No. 1 in block No. 16 except 35 feet across south side of said lot, which has been sold to Mrs. Rosa Thornton, all of said lots are in the P. D. Wlison addition to the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

This 19 day of July 1916, H. A. HARRIS, Sheriff,

Posted at Court House door July 19, 1916.

H. A. HARRIS,
Sheriff.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
All Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

And now Congress is working on a $200,000,000 revenue bill to pay for "expenses on the Mexican border." Isn't that rather a high price to pay for a crisis?—National Republican.

Important Notice to Patrons:

All persons having cotton stored with the Chilton Fertilizer Company are hereby notified to call at the office of the said Company at Clanton, Alabama, not later than Saturday, August 5th, 1916, and settle all ginners and warehouse charges on the same. This Company is closing out its business and will not be responsible for any cotton stored with it after the date mentioned.

The Chilton Fertilizer Company

By P. D. WILSON, Manager.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

Deutschland came and went. Sore one for Germany.

Villa is beginning to qualify as the great international speck.

On the other hand, Europe has not had to endure an Orpet trial.

However, is not "supersubmarine" a contradiction to prefixes?

People who were kicking for some hot weather are still kicking, but not for the same reason.

Roumania has a thinking part in this war and presumably it is doing some hard thinkink.

One gathers from the "price of eggs" and chickens that the hen has been studying birth control.

Even a great world war can hardly be excused from starving the helpless women and children of Poland.

Not to be put out of the running by the rest of the political leaders, Charles Evans Hughes lets it be known that he is also a gradfather.

For a man who has been killed six times and who is even now forced to go around on crutches, Pancho Villa is singularly hard to catch.

One thing pleasant about the submarine passenger trans-Atlantic oceanliner is the fact that it has no swimming tank and room for very little caste.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Administration newspapers persist in passing on that canned editorial that in case we go to war with Mexico while Wilson is President our guns will be primed with reason. Necessarily so. Most of the ammunition had previously been shipped to Carranza.—National Republican.

"Justice Hughes has done nothing since his nomination to distinguish himself from a peanut politician" says the New Castle Times. Maybe that is why so many of the administration newspapers are saying that the Republicans chose a candidate as near like Wilson as possible.—National Republican.

"I have no plank but one and that is the President's," W. J. Bryan is reported to have said recently. Yes and we know where he got it too—right on the seat of his pants.—National Republican.

Iceland, formerly one of the poorest countries in the world, since the big war started, has become so wealthy it doesn't know what to do with the money. However, this was not brought about by the fighting in Europe but by the Underwood tariff.—National Republican.

In his address to the American Federation of Labor President Wilson reiterated the statement that he is in a fighting mood. Now look out for a fresh outburst of notes.—National Republican.

That clinking sound as of broken glass? That, dear heart, must have been the fall of Pinsk.

THE WOOD-HOOP SILO.

By R. U. Blasingame, Agricultural Engineer, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

While the wood-hoop silo is not a permanent one, its first cost is not great because of no conflicts with patents, and the material may be secured from the local saw mills for its construction. This type of silo was originated by J. T. Wells at Scottsville, N. Y., in 1894, and has continuously gained in favor from that time. The farmer who is gradually growing into the cattle business might use the wood-hoop silo to very good advantage in silo units.

Description: The silo consists of wood hoops placed 3 feet apart, built up of plank 3-8x4 inch, of green oak lumber, sawed from young trees about 8 inch to 10 inch in diameter. To build these hoops in a perfect circle a floor should be constructed and a circle drawn 12 feet in diameter which will be the size of the silo. Inside of this circle 2x4 inch blocks should be nailed and the green oak planks bent around them and nailed together until the hoop is 4-ply. In building the hoops the joints should be broken, which will give strength and resistance, as is shown in Figure I.

Fig. 1.

Contsruction: The first hoop is bolted to a concrete foundation, the walls of which should be built 1 foot thick. The concrete should be made of a mixture of 1 part cement, 2 parts sand, and 4 parts gravel, by measurement. It should be 2 to 4 feet deep, and extend 1 foot above the ground. The hoops are placed 3 feet apart and are held in position by a temporary stiff arm supported by a scaffold on the inside of the silo.

The inside of the hoops is sealed with a 1x2 1-2 inch tongue and grooved flooring, which constitutes the walls as in Figure 2. This construction leaves the wood hoops exposed to the weather, and to prevent rotting, a heavy coat of tar is usually applied.

The wood-hoop silo is generally built 12 feet in diameter and about 30 feet high, having a capacity of 80 tons of silage, which will feed about 20 head of cattle four months during the winter.

Fig. 2.

Following is a bill of material for this silo, which should cost in the neighborhood of $55.00:

Foundation Wood-hoop Silo, 12x4 ft.
Gravel, 7 cubic yards.
Sand, 3 1-2 cubic yards.
Cement, 27 sacks.
Silo, 12x30 ft.
140 pieces, 3-8x4 inches x12 feet sawed green oak.
1282 board feet No. 1, tongue and grooved flooring 1x2 1-2 in. x10 ft long.
100 pieces 2x4 in. x10 ft. long.
12 bolts 1-2x12 in. long.
8 pounds 10-D nails.
8 pounds 20-D nails.
12 pounds ceiling nails.
Plans can be secured from this department.

Reynolds has whipped all his opponents to a frazzle politically, and now they are going to try to down him personally.

Howard Roper Denonnces Democrats.

Casts his Lot with the People in opposition of extravagance and Misrule.

To the people of Chilton county:

With a heart burdened with the grave importance of the step I am about to take, realizing that friends and foe alike will have opportunity to criticize, yet uphold by the power of the knowledge that the step is right, I pen this letter and publish it so that all the people may know where I stand and why I plant my standard there.

When I was a mere boy a political fight was waged in this county in which I had a personal interest that was prejudicial to the peoples party and favored the Democratic side at that time. It never occurred to me at the time that I was casting my political lot but I thought merely to show my antagonism to a certain candidate. When the campaign was over and the effects of the gas and smoke had cleared away I found that it was everywhere taken for granted that I was a full fledged Democrat and had cast my lot forever with that party. So, my friends, without realizing what grave cnosequences would come from this view I allowed myself to float along the path of least resistance until I found that it took almost more courage than I could summon to my aid to break away from the position in which I had been placed. So year after year when the parties would line up for battle I was found in the Democratic camp and, although never satisfied with the management of the party, the records of the campaigns will testify to the fact that I have been willing to take my part of the medicine—good or bad. Now, understand me, I do not blame anyone but myself for the position I have occupied. It is my own fault from beginning to end and if that step or this one I am about to take have had or will have grave consequences I am solely responsible and take to myself all the results, evil or good, and after I have really expressed my heart wishes in this letter I shall wait in peace to see if the performance of right is not more pleasure than the allowance of wrong.

After some years of patient waiting, opportunity has at last come when I feel that I am violating no past obligation when I say that I believe with the Progressive-Republicans in this county fight. In the first place the management of the Democratic party in the mad scramble for a winning card has utterly disregarded the wishes of the rank and file of the party and with a high handedness that has characterized the ruling element of the party ever since I have been affiliated with the party have sold the eight hundred loyal hearted Democrats to a small contigent of disgruntled politicians who if the truth were known really stand for nothing but individualism, self preservation in politics regardless of the wishes of the people.

I feel that the action taken by the politicians assembled at the court house on July 15th is sufficient within itself to release me from any obligation I may have had to them and to set me free to cast my lot with those that really advocate a rule of the people in the interest of the people.

I know that the mind of the rank and file of the people is not centered in the defeat of an individual but that their whole desire is to have justice done. The people are crying for a sane and economical administration of public affairs and their hearts desire is to elect a body of men to office that will give them justice in tax matters. The county has been plunged into debt. The people want to elect men that will stop the wild extravagance and prepare to give them as low tax rates as are possible under conditions.

I had confidently expected the leaders of the opposition to the Progressive-Republican party to repudiate the extravagance that has been practiced during the last few years and declare for a more conservative administration but no such declaration has been put out and, of course, the people know that is virtually a declaration to continue the policy. Now, I believe in looking out for the future and preparing a heritage of liberty for our children instead of leaving them a heritage of debt and a burden of taxation to destroy all the comfrot and darken all the joy of life. This meeting on July 15th instead of offering the people the relief that must come has placed in the field as the champion of their cause a man that has borne an influential part in the present administration and if elected will surely follow the same policy. Is this what the people want done? I answer for myself and say regardless as to what others may wish I am opposed to it and this is the main reason I shall assign for withholding my support from the frame up outfit and casting my lot with those that hope to see the financial condition of the county improved and the ruinous taxation stopped. Not only is the county practically bankrupt but the financial condition of the state has reached a desperate stage and I want it to stop. I am sincere when I say that if a change does not come we are fast approaching the rocks of destruction.

And last, I do not see how the thinking people of this county can line up and boost such a rediculous platform as was adopted by the meeting at Clanton on July 15th. It is, within itself, enough to convince me that it is right to oppose the movement put in motion that day.

So wihout any apoligies or misgivings and without any hope of reward save that which comes to those who faithfully and conscienciously prefrom their duty regardless of the cost to themselves, I cast my lot with the Progressive-Republicans and call upon all thinking people to look carefully before they cast their ballots in the coming November election.

Let the right dominate in your hearts and cast your votes as you think will best preserve the interest of the common people of the county.

Respectfully,
HOWARD ROPER.

You've hit the right tobacco

when you fire-up some Prince Albert in your old jimmy pipe or in a makin's cigarette. And you know it! Can't get in wrong with P. A. for it is made right; made to spread-smoke-sunshine among men who have suffered with scorched tongues and parched throats! The patented process fixes that—and cuts out bite and parch. All day long you'll sing how glad you are you're pals with

It's an easy job to change the shape and color of unsalable brands to imitate the Prince Albert tidy red tin, but it is impossible to imitate the flavor of Prince Albert tobacco! The patented process protects that!

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

You take this testimony straight from the shoulder, men. You can smoke a barrel of P. A. without a kick! It hands out all the tobacco happiness any man ever dreamed about, it's so smooth and friendly. It's a mighty cheerful thing to be on talking-terms with your pipe and your tongue at the same time—but that's what's coming to you sure as you pin your faith to Prince Albert!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Everywhere tobacco is sold you'll find Prince Albert awaiting your cheerful visit. Buy it in toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound humidors—and—in that classy pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco so fit!

One of the biggest of all fallacies is that a tax doesn't cost the general public anything if you put it on the rich, on the assumption that the man of wealth can't distribute the burden. When public extravagance dances everybody helps pay the fiddler.—National Republican.

Why didn't the Democrats go according to all law of reason and put Mr. Patton up as their candidate when Mr. Adams, the nominee, resigned and declined to run? Instead of that, look at the action they took in the convention on the 15th. How can you explain this action?

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

Flour Mill

We desire to state to the public that our Flour Mill at Coopers is again ready for operation this season, and you are cordially invited to give us your patronage.

We thank you for having given us such liberal patronage last season, and promise you to even more than ever exert every means and effort to serve you satisfactorially. Our Mill will be in continuous operation during the entire season.

Very Respectfully

Cooper M'f'g. Company

COOPER, ALA.

Consider the Mother's Health

after childbirth by taking necessary precautions before the trying ordeal, by using "Mother's Friend" to assist nature in preparing her for the physical change.

MOTHER'S FRIEND An External Remedy for Expectant Mothers

"Mother's Friend" for many years has been the means of giving relief to thousands of mothers. It is an external remedy with unexcelled merits, and should be in the home of every expectant mother. Druggist sell it. Send for free book on Motherhood. Address The Bradfield Regulator Co., 202 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. P. I. HOPKINS
Practicing Physician
Special attention given t Eyes, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office hours 9 to 12, a. m., and 2 to 5 o'clock, p. m.
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

LEAP YEAR PARTY

Miss Rilla Smith delightfully entertained a number of her friends at a Leap Year Party on Wednesday evening.

In her charming way Miss Smith made all the guests fully enjoy themselves.

Decarations for the occasion were cut flowers and Japanese lanterns. The color scheme was pink and white.

Little Miss Lucile Calloway of Sylacauga served punch to the guests.

In an interesting leap year proposal contest, Miss Leona Pipes won the prize for the best composition.

Progressive conversation furnished further entertainment during the evening.

De lightful refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the gracious little hostess.

The invited guests were Miss Lucile Standenmire of Prattville, guest of honor, Miss Ruth Elliott of Montgomery, Misses Willie Belle Sartor, Kathleen Mullins, Beverly Hester, Roberta and Mary Curry, Mary and Conradine Lane, Leona Pipes, Elanora Teel, Ronnie and Ruth Smith, Mary Sue Mullins, and Rose Parrish. Messrs. Will and Calvin Wilson, Clareenc Evans, Hoke Pipes, Wilmer Stanfield, John Deramus, Barnett Deramus and Alvin Champion of Verbena, Earle Pinckard, Lee, Van, and Dewey Smith, Mr. Norwood of Montgomery, Frank Palmer, Omar Reynolds, Oscar Jones, Meadon Lowery, John Armstrong, Wesley Adams, John Wyatt and Mack Wyatt.

Good Looks are Easy with

Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your city cousins. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle Magnolia Balm will surely clear your skin instantly. Heals Sunburn, too. Just put a little on your face and rub it off again before dry. Simple and sure to please. Try a bottle to-day and begin the improvement at once. White, Pink and Rose-Red Colors. 75 cents at Druggists or by mail direct.

SAMPLE FREE.

LYON MFG. CO., 40 So. 5th St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South

Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy f Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three Years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address

CHAS. C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President, Auburn, Ala.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF COUNTY FAIR

On October 30th to November 4th, 1916, inclusive, the Chilton County Fair Association will hold its eighth annual Fair, and hereby extennds a cordial invitation to everybody that is interested in the improvement of agricultural conditions in Chilton and adjoining counties to assist us by coming and bringing such ehhibits as they can. If you have anything of special interest in any line, be sure and bring it.

We hope to benefit each other by encouraging improvements in all our work, especially in growing farm products of all kind, together with live stock.

To interest and encourage the ladies in their line of work, domestic and household affairs.

There will be exhibits of the best of everything produced in the county.

Speeches and lectures by able speakers that will interest and instruct everybody. This feature alone will be well worth your time and money that it will cost to attend the fair.

Competent judges will be secured to judbe each article, said judges to be experts in their line and parties who have no personal interest in any exhibits.

On account of the general depression in business, we will be compelled to first pay the actual expenses of holding the fair, and then appropriate all excess toward the payment of premiums in proportion to the amounts as catalogued up to the amount of premium.

At last Uncle Sam is getting plenty of exercise in his military elbow.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

GULF COAST RESORTS

SEASHORE EXCURSIONS

Every Saturday, June 3 to September 9

ROUND TRIP FARES FROM CLANTON

Pensacola	$7.15
Pascagoula	8.00
Biloxi	8.40
Pass Christian	9.15
Magnolia Springs	9.50
Ocean Springs	8.35
Gulfport	9.00
Bay St. Louis	9.30

TEN-DAY RETURN LIMIT

Also on sale daily until October 15th, regular round trip Summer Tourist Tickets to Gulf Coast Resorts at slightly higher fares with return limit of October 31st.

L & N

For particulars apply to
J. A. HESTER, Ticket Agent, Clanton

Girls' Club Work

I know all of you feel discouraged from the effects of the wet weather on your gardens, but so do the farmers and other business people. They are not going to quit and give up their work, there is a greater need for them to try the harder, if one thing is a failure try something else, use what is at hand and do the best you can. The short fields crops will be the cause of a greater need to preserve for winter use everything that is a surplus in the garden and fields that are perishable.

We are glad to publish letters from two of our Club girls. Let each member in the county catch the same spirit they have.

"Verbena, Ala., July 21, 1916.
"My dear Mrs. Jones:

"The weather has been so very bad we could not have a meeting but we will get them together the fourth Saturday, I think, if nothing happens to prevent. I am going to have a model club meeting when we do meet and invite all of the mothers and young ladies in the community and while we have them I will tell them about Mrs. Virgin's Home Demonstration Club, and perhaps sow some good seed.

"Mrs. Jones you will never know how much good the short course has done and will do. I know if all the girls feel like I do about it they will just keep on talking about it and trying to get everybody to see and hear just what we did whilein Clanton.

"Our club thanks you for all you have done for us and going to try not to disappoint you by making a failure.

"With good wishes,
" Jeannette Ledbetter."

You have caught exactly the purpurpose of the short course, pass on the information to your community for it's upbuilding.

"Verbena, Ala., July 21, 1916.
"Dear Mrs. Jones:

"We met at the school house Friday, 14th, at the appointed time, there were five members present and three absent. We had speeches from all of the girls, they all reported good crops. Some have planted tomatoes, beans and okra. What I have looks very well for so much rain. I don't think I will get out of heart, and I am going to still keep trying.

"Yours truly,
"Dera Jones."

Good for you Dera! Quitters in any work do not get far on the road to success. Hope all of our club girls will be like you two and let us hear what they are doing.

CLANTON POST OFFICE

List of letters remaining uncalled for in this office for the week ending July 22nd 1916.

Ladies

Pirlie Roberts
L. C. Wilson
Mattie Lee Mims
Katie Smith
Mary Parker, Col.
Etta Hortem
Rosia Banker
Eva Colman
Evelyn Gray
Ressie Evins
Gracie Davis

Gentlemen

L. F. Loeffel
Gorge Tyce
J. T. Roberts
Charlie Wilstones
J. I. Melton
Willie Bonnett.

These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter Office August 5, 1916, if not delivered before. In calling for the above please say "Advertised" giving date of list.

B. M. ROBERTS, P.M.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the kind men of Clanton who so ably assisted me in obtaining a pardon at the hands of the Governor.

Through their kind assistance I am to-day restored to my wife and family a free man.

My heart is full of gratitude to all who so kindly assisted me.

Sincerely,
ARMON WAGONER.

About 90 representatives of the Alabama Ginners' Association attended the annual meeting of the Association in Birmingham.

BUILDING STEEL BRIDGE

On Monday morning ten wagon loads of steel construction material were unloaded from cars at Clanton and conveyed to Yellow Leaf Creek on the Lock 12 Highway, where it will be used in erecting a fine steel bridge which will span the stream.

The old wooden bridge was washed away by the recent floods, but the new bridge was already planned before the old one was destroyed.

WALNUT CREEK

There will be a working at this place on August 1st, for the purpose of cleaning off the cemetery and church.

C. D. DUKE.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

First Methodist Church of Clanton

Preaching every Sunday at eleven o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M. Everybody cordially invited to worship with us in these services.

REV. I. F. BILBRO, Pastor.

Sunday Schools starts at 9:45 A. M. instead of 10 o'clock. Please do not forget the time and bring someone with you.

J. B. ATKINSON, Supt.

Prayer meeting at 8 o'clock P. M. Wednesday. Make the prayer meeting your services.

Rev. C. H. Rogers of Verbena will have charge of the morning services on July 30th and will make announcements as to the night services then. Do not fail to hear Brother Rodgers, as he will certainly bring a message that will help you.

Mr. J. W. G. Kicker of Mt. Creek was a visitor to Clanton on Monday.

Rev. L. P. Adams, the sanctified preacher from Memphis is preaching this week at Temple church near Clanton.

It seems a little odd to us around here to think of suffering from dry weather. Our old friend Mr. John W. Foshee says that is the case over in Louisiana. We wish we could hand him some of this rain over the Mississippi. Read his letter in this issue of The Banner.

The eradication work in Tallapoosa County is making wonderful progress. The June report shows out of 35,733 cattle dipped only 215 showed ticks. The number of vats in operation is 106.

President Wilson's statement that he wouldn't go to war to protect anybody's investments in Mexico was quite unnecessary. The specialty of the Democratic party is destroying, not protecting investemnts, both at home and abroad but it has the wrong theory as to the effect of this policy upon the welfare of the general public.—National Republican.

FODDER PULLING DOES NOT PAY

By D. J. Burleson, Agronomist for Extension, Alabama Extension Service.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The old Southern way of pulling fodder is a very expensive method of procuring feed. In calculating the cost of fodder, the labor is too often the only cost counted. Indeed the labor required to save fodder constitutes a big item of expense, but it should also be remembered that the yield of corn is reduced materially.

The corn leaf is a factory in which the raw material obtained from the soil and from the air is manufactured into starch, fat, protein, etc. These substances which must be taken into the grain and stored there. The grain cannot grow unless it gets its food from the leaf. If the leaf is removed before it has quit feeding the grain, the yield of corn will be reduced.

Fodder is a good feed, but it is good because it contains food which was intended for the ear. If fodder were pulled after the corn blades have dried up, that is, after the food has gone to the grain, it would be practically worthless as a feed. It follows, therefore, that the earlier the fodder is pulled the loss in the yeild of corn. When fodder is pulled at the usual time the loss is sometimes as much as twenty per cent.

CLANTON ITEMS

Fresh turnip seed at Alred Drug Co.

Miss Lucile Stondenmire of Prattville is the guest of Miss Rilla Smith this week.

Miss Dora Bates of Montgomery came up Monday to accept a position as stenographer in the law offices of Messrs. Curry & Walker.

Mr. Ogletree of Alexander City has accepted a position in Clanton with the Chero-Cola Bottling Works.

W. P. Thompson went to Birmingham Thursday.

N. A. Kicker went to Montgomery Wednesday.

Sid Gibson of Verbena was in Clanton Thursday.

Mrs. L. J. Duncan and children were in Birmingham Monday.

All varieties of new and fresh Turnip Seed for sale at Upchurch Drug Co., at the right prices.

Arkie Mahan has gone to Indiana to work with a construction company in the erection of a power plant.

Rev. Henry T. Crumpton our popular Baptist preacher, is "vacating" around Talladega Springs this week.

Newton Askins of the Upchurch Drug Co. is vacating this week. He and his family went to Montgomery for a few days.

Jeff Ruffin, our night marshall is taking a vacation, and Oce McKee is in his place for a few nights.

W. S. Keller, State Highway Engineer, was in Clanton Tuesday attending the Highway meeting.

Hon. Bruce Kennedy the famous secretary of the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce was here at the Highway meeting Tuesday.

Attorney J. H. Pinckard of Montgomery was in Clanton Tuesday.

The whole country mourns at the death of the beloved "Hoosier Poet," James Whitcomb Riley, which occurred Saturday.

PLANTED YOUR TURNIPS? Now is the time. Get your seed at Upchurch Drug Co., where they are new and fresh and sure to come up when planted.

W. A. and F. A. Gulledge of Verbena were here at the Highway Association meeting Tuesday.

G. B. Jones of Route 2 was a visitor at the Banner office Tuesday.

Attorney Thos. A. Curry was in Montgomery Tuesday on legal business.

Dr. D. B. Strickler, Government Veterniary Inspector in the tick eradication work of Shelby and Chilton counties, was in Clanton this week.

Hon. J. O. Middleton and wife returned on Tuesday from a visit with friends and relatives at Panama City.

FOR SALE—Redemption equity in store building at Thorsby worth one thousand dollars, owner has equity of five hundred dollars will sell for one hundred dollars cash, address the Ingalls Iron Works Company, Birmingham, Ala.,

W. H. Conway, county farm demonstrator, was in Clanton Tuesday.

Mr. Williams, a merchant from Lock 12, was in Clanton Tuesday.

Miss Sadie Willis has returned from Auburn where she has been attending the summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Robinson, Sr., and Mrs. Addie Robinson motored to Shelby Springs on last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dunn have been spending a couple of weeks with relatives in Tuscaloosa.

Misses Willie and Winnie Reynolds are visiting friends in Selma this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Richards are spending a few days with friends at Nixburg.

R. N. Wilkins of Billingsley was in Clanton Friday.

Dr. Samuel Johnson has returned from a few weeks study coruse in medicine and surgery in Washington D. C.

All kinds new and fresh turnip seed at Upchurch Drug Co.

J. E. Robinson, Sr., went to Birmingham Friday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Margaret.

Pacio, Ala., Girl Tells About Her Mother

Says Her Health Has Now Been Restored.

Miss Pearly Davis says: "My mother had sick headache and felt bad and drowsy all the time. She began taking Granger Liver Regulator, and it has done her more good than all the medicine she had taken before." Miss Davis now knows it is true that Granger Liver Regulator is the most thorough and pleasant purifier of the system known, despite the fact that it is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol whatsoever. Your druggist will recommend this great medicine. Ask him.

PROTRACTED MEETING CLOSED

Revival services at the Mt. Creek Baptist church terminated last Thursday with a total adition of 25 new members to the church. Fifteen of the candidates for membership were administered the ordinance of Baptism by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Cannon.

Rev. A. J. Smith of Alexander City assisted Rev. Cannon in the preaching.

REUNION POSTPONED

We have been requested to announce that the annual July reunion of the Lett family has been postponed for this year.

Fred and Vandy Smith are at home from Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Vesker Martin of Jemison were visitors to Clanton Sunday.

Veteran Sam J. Andress of the Soldiers Home was in Clanton last Saturday.

Dr. J. C. Christian of the Soldiers Home was a visitor to Clanton Saturday.

Miss Ruth Elliott of Montgomery is visiting Miss Willie Belle Sartor.

Mrs. Foster of Montgomery is visiting Mrs. B. M. Roberts.

Miss McQuirter of Lock 12 visited friends this week.

Mrs. Ruth Jowers is visiting relatives here this week.

Prof. R. A. Smith, for past two years principal of Union Grove Public school near Jemison, has been elected to the principalship of Princeton Public High School of Jackson county. Catalogue of same states that school opens September 4th.

Mr. Samuel Kanjutzky left Sunday for Birmingham where he has accepted a position in a prominent drug store. His friends here wish him much success.

Prof. H. C. McDonald attended the county Sunday school convention at Maplesville a couple of days this week.

Mrs. G. C. Headley and son, Odell, are visiting relatives in Galatin Tenn.

Sam Logan of Birmingham is visiting his sister, Mrs. Ed Driver.

Clyde Davis, Editor of the Clanton Press has returned from South Alabama where he spent the week end with friends.

Mr. C. Finn Jones has returned from a business trip to south Alabama.

Mrs. McLellan of Birmingham is visiting Mrs. Ike Williams.

Mrs. J. P. Crumpton and children have returned home after a pleasant visit to relatives and friends near Jemison.

Master Charles E. Hopkins of Birmingham is visiting his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hopkins.

Mrs. E. A. Matthews and Miss Emmett Matthews are visiting friends in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson are visiting friends and relatives in Vincent.

Mrs. G. B. Wimberly and children have returned tot heir home at Reform.

The many friends of Mr. Walker of the firm of Curry and Walker regret his continued illness.

W. W. Robinson of Beat 16 was in Clanton Friday.

Uncle Jim Collins of Mineral Springs was in town Saturday. He says things are fine for spending a few days out at the springs. He has made some valuable additions and improvements.

W. H. Robinson of Providence was in Clanton Saturday.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper. E66-B

THE CONTROL OF HOG LICE

By J. C. Ford, Field Agent for Pig Clubs, Alabama Extension Service and U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

It is not possible to get the maximum profits from hogs that are infested with lice. Lice are blood-sucking parasites and when numerous cause marked unthriftiness, resulting frequently in death in the case of small pigs. The loss of blood and the annoyance incident to the presence of the parasites prevent the hogs from making as much gain on a given amount of food as they should.

Fortunately lice are not hard to destroy. The nits or eggs are laid on the animal and attached to the hair near the skin. Lice frequently get off of the hogs and stay for some time in beds of trash, and leaves and then get back onto the same or some other hog, but they do not reproduce except on the animals. If the lice on the hogs are killed every 10 days or two weeks, no young ones will be permitted to grow large enoght to lay more nits. The larger ones that have gotten off in the bedding may be destroyed by burning the bedding or they may get back on the hogs and be killed at the next regular treatment of the hogs or they may starve to death.

There are a number of remedies that are very effective in the destruction of lice. Among the most commonly used are the coal-tar products as creolin, kreso dip, etc. If these are diluted according to directions and used in a dipping vat or the hogs are washed or sprayed with them, good results are secured. Any drug store can supply these products.

Crude oil is cheaper than the coal-tar products and probably more satisfactory in its results, as it lasts longer and gives a good appearance to the hair and skin. If a dipping vat is filled with water and the water covered an inch or more with crude oil, it makes an ideal dip for hog lice. Crude oil can also be used as a spray or a wash, or on a rubbing post. Wrap an old sack about a post and keep it wet with the oil. When hogs are sprayed they should be closely hurdled together to prevent waste of the spray solution.

Kerosene emulsion is another standard remedy for lice. Dissolve a bar of laundry soap in a gallon of hot water. Churn thoroughly until the kerosene will not separate out when allowed to stand. Then add three more gallons of hot water and mix thoroughly. This makes five gallons ready for use. It may be used as directed for the coal-tar products.

Pure perosene is frequently used as a remedy for lice, but it is rather strong and is sometimes injurious to young pigs.

The arsenical dip used to kill cattle ticks is not effective for the destruction of hog lice.

Meeting of the Boy's Corn Clubs scheduled for Auburn, July 24-29, at the time of the meeting of the county Demonstration Agents, has been postponed until the week beginning August 7.

"RUBE" WADDELL

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

RANDOLPH ROSE

POOR old Rube Waddell. I'll never forget the day he knocked a home run and won a game for the Browns in St. Louis. Of his wonders as a pitcher every one knows, for it was he who held the strike-out record in the American League by striking out sixteen players in one nine-inning game.

But as a batter Rube was a joke. It always looked to me like he took a healthy swing at every good ball on the hope that sooner or later he'd accidently swing his bat in the same groove that the ball was coming.

But this time he made a home run! It was a Sunday afternoon along about 1908. The game was hopelessly against the Browns, but by good luck the Browns happened to get three on and Hobe Ferris, the Browns' third baseman came to bat. Hobie drove a home run scoring four including himself and the 30,000 bugs at that park went wild. Those four runs helped a lot.

But the real climax came later. With one man on and one run needed to tie and two to win, old Rube Waddell came up. He took one good, live swing. His bat and the ball met face to face and the ball went sailing for a home run. I've seen crazy baseball crowds, but that was the craziest. That was one time the Rube got a hit and it delighted the hearts of the multitude and won the game.

Connie Mack had better success managing the Rube than any other manager, I think, and for a few years, by providing Rube with a keeper to keep him out of trouble, managed to get some good work out of him. When he got too obstreperous, however, Connie turned him over to the Browns, where Rube was most of the time in trouble.

He died two or three years back, and with him went the best pitching arm that ever worked in a ball game.

Jointly with Walter Johnson of Washington, Waddell holds the strike-out record of the American League. In a game against St. Louis, July 29, 1908, he struck out sixteen men. Other pitchers have exceeded that years back but under different conditions. No modern major league pitcher has done as good except Johnson.

Waddell's greatest strike-out stunt was in a game of indoor baseball at the Armory in New York between teams composed of Giants and players from Rochester. Waddell struck out twenty-five men.

Randolph Rose

State Happenings

Cash assets in the banks of Alabama increased $1,120,569.00 between the calls of March 7 and June 30, according to a report which was made public by A. E. Walker, Superintendent of Banks. According to the report, deposits also increased more than a millino dollars, and loans and discounts show a similar increase.

H. C. Armstrong, of Selma, chairman of the flood relief committee, which has been investigating conditions in the Alabama and Cahaba rivers valleys, issued a statement estimating that at least 20,000 persons in these sections were "absolutely destitute."

With the final examinations, the largest session of the University of Alabama Summer school has come to a close. There were approximately 800 pupils enrolled for the session.

The state Sacred Singers held a three days session at Birmingham. There were at least a thousand visitors in the city for this convention. The various counties of the state sent some of theis best singers.

The six-year-old son of S. Bryant is dead in Sylacauga as a result of biting his tongue. The child was brought to Sylacauga for medical attention, when efforts to stop the bleeding failed. Physivians here were unable to stop the flow of blood and death resulted in a few hours.

The Commissioners' Court of Tallapoosa County let contracts for the construction of eighty-one miles of good roads. The work on these roads is to begin within 30 days.

Burglars entered the Central of Georgia passenger station at Dothan and took $150.40 from a drawer in the safe. The drawer was prized open. Officials of the road say that the safe was locked but this did not interfere with the burglars, as they had no trouble in unlocking it.

Wanted—50 more young men and 50 more young women to enter

THORSBY INSTITUTE

September 12th, 1916.

To get a High School Education or preparation for it, under vital Christian, tho non-sectarian influence

Teachers Thoroughly Trained.
High Standards, Low Expenses.
Opportunity of work to pay part expenses.
Room rent and good board, $2.50 per week.
Special attention to Music, Voice, Piano, Violin.
Business branches for those who want them.
You should send for catalogue to
Prin. S. H. HERBERT, Thorsby, Ala.

FIRE INSURANCE

Also Life, Halth, Accident, Burglary, Tornado and Plate Glass Insurance. Bonding.

P. O. BARRETT
CLANTON, ALA.

FISK

Non-Skids

—first of all a quality tire in every sense of the word.

But the Price is Less

on Fisk Non-Skids than on plain tread casings of several other standard tires. Make your own comparisons.

Prices on Fisk Grey Non-Skid Casings

3 x30	10.40	4½x35	31.20
3½x30	13.40	4½x36	31.55
4 x33	22.00	5 x37	37.30

More than 125 Direct Fisk Branches insure Fisk Service to dealer and car owner.

L. J. DUNCAN
Clanton, Ala.

Fisk Branches in More Than 125 Cities

Time to Re-tire? (Buy Fisk)

Step into this picture

—wherever you are, the same content and the same refreshment are yours for the asking in a cool, delicious glass of

Coca-Cola

Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution

THE COCA-COLA CO. ATLANTA, GA.

Send for free booklet "The Romance of Coca-Cola"

Twenty Grade Calves Net Farmer Clear Profit of $904.50

This is the figures-and-fact story of the grade calves of a young farmer in Alabama and also the story of a little scrub calf that runs with the fine grade calves just to show how honary and profitless a scrub can be. This young farmer is fitting his grade calves for baby beef and they will be shown at the leading Southern fair this fall. After this—and the farmer naturally expects to win some good money with them at the fairs—they will be sold as baby beef on one of the central livestock markets. Aside from the profit that the calves will bring, the stockman's idea is to show to other farmers the profits that can be made with our native cattle, a pure-bred bull and good pastures.

These grade calves are out of common grade and scrub cows bought up over the country at an average cost of $50 a head and the calves are sired by a pure-bred Shorthorn bull. They were taken from their mothers when four weeks old—except at morning and night while nursing. They have had all told 280 bushels of crushed corn and free range of an alfalfa pasture, balancing their own ration at will. Some alfalfa hay was fed during the winter and about thirty bushels of oats. But it was found that the protein in alfalfa was all that was necessary to balance the ration of crushed corn and so the feeding of oats was discontinued as unnecessary and therefore expensive, The mothers have not been fed any grain or concentrates at all. The calves have had also the full supply of mother's milk which most likely has been no small item in the low cost of production. They have attained an average weight of seven hundred pounds at eight months of age!

The Investment.

The investment itself represents some outlay. The twenty common cows at $50 each cost $1,000. The land allowed for pasture for the cows and their calves, figured at $45 an acre, cost $675. Adding this latter sum to the $1,000 that the stock cost, there is a total outlay of $1,675 representing the original investment.

Now this is the working capital" as it were. This is might be called a "permanent" investment for the cows are worth almost as much as when bought and the land is worth more. Now with his "working capital" the cost of producing twenty grade calves was as follows:

The Cost.

Six percent interest on the original investment for one year	$100.50
Corn fed (home raised) at 50 cents per bushel..	140.00
Oats fed, at 50 cents a bushel..	15.00
Alfalfa hay fed..	90.00
Depreciation charged off against 20 cows..	150.00
Total cost of 20 grade calves	$495.50

The Profit.

Now let us see what these twenty grade calves are worth that have been produced with a working capital of $1,675 and at an actual cost of $495.50 The owner has refused for them ten dollars per hundred pounds, live weight an offer made by a buyer for one of the big packing houses in Chicago. He refused this offer because he expects to make these grade calves weight at least 1,000 pounds each at one year old and then they will sell for ten cents a pound, or better. But suppose he should sell now at the offer of ten cents from the Chicago packer. He would receive for them $70 a head or $1,400 for the twenty grade calves. Counting the cost of production at $ 495.50 as shown above, he would have net profit of $904.50 and this too would include the interest on the original investment of land and grade cows. The cost of production to date of the grade calves is $3:54 per hundred pounds. The offer of ten cents a pound live weight, would give a net profit of $ 605 per hundred pounds.

We challenge the north or the east or the west to equal such low cost of production for such a choice lot of grade cattle.

The Scrub Calf.

Now running in the same pasture with these grade calves is a little scrub calf of the same age and receiving the same feeds and attention as the grades. The grades will outweigh the scrub now by three to one! His presence in such company is an object lesson—clear and dependable proof. He shows a mountain high pile of dollars lost every year by our farmers because of failure to properly breed cattle and properly feed them.

The little scrub, of course, means no harm. It is not his fault at all. He had as good a mother as his young friends and playmates but his father was not a pure-bred sire while the father of the grade calves was a magnificent pure-bred bull. That's the difference—but what a difference it is!

Let's Wake Up.

"The South is coming west," in the economical production of high class grade beef cattle if we southern people would but realize it. Those who know the value of our agricultural resources are not going to let them remain idle. The question presents itself most forcibly; Are we going to awaken fully and reach out further for these real agricicutural advantages spread all around us by nature, or are we going to sit idly by and fret ourselves to exhaustion hoping for imaginary prosperity? This prosperity will never come to the individual without a better knowledge of what to do and how to do it—with our land, our climate and rainfall and the ever increasing demands for intelligent diversification. Livestock is our inviting pathway to permanent prosperity. It branches off into several legume routes—alfalfa is best but there are several others which will not and cannot mislead.

The young farmer who took the alfalfa route as we have outlined above is Morton Crabb, a resident of the Domopolis section of Alabama since four years ago when he came from Kentucky. Now grade calves don't do any better for him just because he is a Kentuckian. But if more of us acquire the Kentuckian's love of livestock and some of his knowledge of livestock we can build up another —and maybe a better—Kentucky right here in the Central South.

A TIME AND LABOR SAVER

Ingredients: Copperas for worms, Nux Vomica a tonic, Sulphur for the blood, Saltpetre for the kidneys, and the purest Dairy Salt.

A good feature about our plan is, that our Medicated Salt Brick saves time and labor over stock powders and Medicated Salt, and these items are often worth the price of the remedy; besides, it insures stock getting both salt and medicine when and as they need it.

If your dealer will not supply you, write us. Stock Lick It—
Stock Like It

Blackman Stock Remedy Co.
Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Get In Touch With Kratzer

You can ship him all the milk and cream from your herd and get in CASH FROM YOUR COWS.

A steady market all the year.

It will pay you to investigate. Just write, phone or call on

Kratzer's Creamery

Montgomery, Alabama

The One Flour That's Always Good Is Alabama Perfection Flour

Made of good clean wheat in a modern mill where only methods that insure Perfection are employed.

The Flour for Alabamians
Alabama Perfection Flour

The H. M. Hobbie Co.

Montgomery, Ala.

Canning Club Girl Writes About Work

The following is a letter sent to us by Miss Laura Mae Bass, president of the Canning Club at Local, Alabama. The letter was written by one of the Canning Club girls who not long since attended the Canning Club Short Course at Brewton, Alabama, under Miss Lucile Carter. The letter is sprightly and interesting and shows how interested our girls are in this Canning Club work. It follows:

All the girls learned so many new things which will be of great help and benefit to them. We learned so many things we could hardly tell about all, but one thing every one should know is fancy packing and its advantage. Many people don't know anything about it, and say it is no better and no more profitable than the old way of putting up things, but they do not know and never tried it, if they will fill a can or jar as they have been doing, then refill it with the fancy packs, they will find that they have their jar about three-fouths full, and too, you will not have to buy so many jars. The more we have in a can or jar, the better price we will get. All of the girls are trying to build up a good reputation for the canning club.

We had a lesson on table equipment and table service which was exceedingly interesting, and if we do as we were instructed, there will be a change in some, perhaps all of us.

Cultivation was another interesting subject we all enjoyed.

Miss Paxton, our Assistant State Agent, taught us how to make an iceless refrigerator, and Miss Carter, our County Agent, the fireless cooker. Both were interesting. I think every girl intends to have one of each when they get home. I think they are very nice.

Mr. Moses, Dr. Burson, and Mr. Gillis each made a talk and we all hope to profit by them. We appreciate the kindness shown us by the people of Brewton. We enjoyed being with them, and especially are we thankful for the homes given. Never can we express our appreciation for them.

We had two free tickets given us to the moving pictures by Mr. Moses and Mr. Sawyer which we appreciate very much. We hope some day to show the people of Brewton the favor they have us.

Do You Want Ticks or Pure Bred Sires?

On a Tennessee stock farm, native cows that weighed from 500 to 700 pounds each and ranged in value from $12 to $20 a head were bred to pure-bred Shorthorn bulls. When from fifteen to eighteen months old the calves were sold on the Chicago market. They weighed an average of 800 pounds and brought 8 cents a pound, or $64 a head.

This simple business transaction represents the difference between systematic stock raising and selling scrubs. One thing made it possible the elimination of the tick.

Grade stock can not be raised without pure-bred sires and pure-bred sires and the cattle tick do not live long in the same pasture. Usually the tick stays and the sire dies of fever. That is one reason why the average value of beef cattle in tick-infested States is always many dollars less than in tick-free country. There is no way of grading up the herds.

In the particular case mentioned it was in the days when Tennessee was still tick-ridden the stock owner was a big enough man to be able to get rid of the pest himself in his own dipping vats and to import his own breeding stock. The small farmer can afford to do neither. But he has just as much to gain in proportion as the big man from good stock and he wants it just as badly. He can get it, first, by voting in his county election for systematic tick eradication work under Federal supervision and, when that has been accomplished, by joining live stock associations and bull clubs in which a number of farmers have the joint use of a pure-bred sire. The United States Department of Agriculture will assist in the formation of these associations, just as it wil lasist in the eradication of the tick.

If the regulations are properly observed, it takes ordinarily one season to drive the tick out. Thereafter the way is open for stock raising on a scientific, profitable basis. This is being done elsewhere in the South. There are no ticks now in Tennessee and Kentucky, and only one corner of Virginia and the coast counties of North Carolina are still infested. Much of South Carolina is free, and about half of Mississippi and Alabama. There are large areas of free territory in Georgia, northern Arkansas and Oklahoma and in Texas. Successful work has been done, too, in Louisiana and Flodida. In fact, there is not a single State in the whole area originaly under quarantine which has not driven the tick out of some part at least of its territory.

The people who have done this did it because it paid. It is not only the man primarily interested in beef raising who profits. Every farmer knows what his farm will benefit if it has live stock on it, but he wants that live stock not only to enrich his land, but to pay for itself and more besides. For the ordinary man the tick cuts the profits down until they are too small to notice; so he doesn't keep many cattle. But when the tick goes off the farm, it leaves the gate open for the pure-bred bull to walk in and bring an income with him.

Have you sprinkled that slack lime about your place yet?

SUCCESS WITH HOG

To secure greatest success in the feeding of hogs for profit look closely after these essentials:

Good, sound, healthy, prolific foundation stock of the right market type.

Good breeding, emphasis being placed on the matings that "nick." Have an ideal and breed toward it.

Good feeding, supplying the most profitable amounts of economical nutriments at the right time. This is a big problem which demands eternal vigilance as the price of success. Self-watering is part of the successful feeding.

Good housing, comfortable, dry, well-lighted and sanitary at all times

Good, suitable, sanitary (worn and cholera free) range preferable or leguminous or similar pastures.

Good general management which will combine and recombine the many factors and forces at hand; the harmonious working of all the units so that the right thing will be done in the right way at the right time is the happy profitable goal toward which to work.

To be most successful in the swine business one must like it, put his heart into it,—yes and live with it.

Age to Castrate Pigs

During the last year the Wisconsin experiment station has carried on experiments to help solve this question Pigs, varying from 5 to nearly 300 pounds have been castrated and the conditions following carefully observed.

For comparison we will study the results of four pigs of different ages
Weight of pig A.. .. ..151pounds
Weight of pig B.. .. ..122 pounds.
Weight of pig C.. .. .... 61 pounds.
Weight of pig D.. .. .. .. 40 pounds

After castrating it was found that the losses of live weight in blood and otherwise were as follows:
A lost 1.3 per cent of live weight
B lost 1.64 per cent of live weight
C lost 1 per cent of live weight.
D lost 5 per cent of live weight.

The figures show that the smaller and younger pigs lost but very little due to the operation. It required very little effortto perform thework on the little pigs. It took three men to operate on the two larger ones.

The after effects are interesting. It was found that the younger the animal the sooner the recovery. the large pigs were stiff and sore for several days and did not possess their normal appetites. The young pigs healed quick and ate normally. Pig A lost weight for four days afterward and required over a week to get back to normal gains. Pig D recovered normal gains in two days.

Several unweaned pigs, six weeks old weighing from ten to fifteen pound were weighed for a week and castrated The immediate loss was but a few ounces. In no case did they show signs of stiffness or loss of appetite. Neither did they lose weight afterward, but increased as consistently for the week after as the week before the operation.

It is quite conclusive from these investigations that castration at an early age prevents losses; eliminates much danger; allows the pig freedom from soreness, and saves much valuable time and labor.

SEED CORN

The best seed corn for a given community is produced in that community. It has become adapted to the soil and climatic conditions and will make better yields than seed brought from a distance. Corn is a plant of extremely domestic habits and it requires several years for it to become acclimated.

Farmers should not be misled by stories of large yields from other States. It will be well to try new varieties on a test plot but it is not advisable to depend on new seed for the entire crop. It may be that the new variety will be better than the old after it has been grown in that particular communtiy several generations, but except in rare cases will it do better until it has become adopted-C. K. McQuarrie, state agent for the University of Florida Extension Division urges farmers to select their seed corn from their own fields. If they have not a good variety they should at least obtain seed in the neighborhood. Seeds should be selected in the field by all means. Without seed selection the strain will deteriorate, Improvement cannot be had by crib selection. The number of ears on the stalk, the size of ears, quality and yield can be improved in a few years by systematic field selection.

OFFENDED.

"Now, see here," said the lawyer, "before I take your case I want to know if you're guilty."

"Am I guilty?" replied the prisoner. "Wot d'yer s'pose? Dat I'd hire de most expensive lawyer in town if I wux innocent?"

Remember that wheat did mighty well this past season, considering the dry weather.

Get ready to raise a little Crimson clover patch for seed.

Get a better Roof for less money

Certain-teed

Protect your house and barns with roofing that has stood the test. The heavy rains just experienced simply increased certain-teed roofing's testimonals.

A certain-teed roof is a sure storm proof

Guaranteed for 15 years

LOEB HARDWARE CO.

Mitchell Wagons — Oliver Plows — Myers Pumps

Getting Rid of Ants In The House

As long as household conditions are such as to attract ants, measures for getting rid of the insects will be of little value, says a new publication of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin 740, by C. L. Marlatt. The first step in freeing a house from these pests is therefore to clean up all food that may be scattered about and to keep food supplies which may attract ants in antproof metal containers, or in iceboxes. Cake, bread, sugar, meat, and similar substances are especially likely to attract the insects.

The use of baits is not recommended in the bulletin already mentioned because of the danger that these will serve merely to draw more insects into the house and thus actually to increase the nuisance. Where it can be safely used, however, a sirup poisoned with arsenate of soda has been found effective. The formula for this sirup is one pound of sugar dissdlved in a quart of water to which should be added 125 grains of arsenate of soda. This mixture is boiled and strained and on cooling is used to moisten sponges which are placed where they can be reached easily by the ants. The insects collect the sirup and convey it to their nests, so that the whole colony is ultimately poisoned. Although this method has been found effective, as has been said, it should be remembered that the arsenate of soda is poisonous to human beings and to animals as well as to ants and that its use must be safeguarded by the greatest precautions.

When the ants can be traced back to their nests and these are in accessible places, it is possible to destroy the colonies by injecting with an oil can or small syringe a little bisulphide of carbon, kerosene or gasoline into the nests. All these substances, however, are inflammable and precautions must be taken, therefore, against the danger of fire.

Though the common garden or lawn ants which build their little crater nests around houses are distinct species from the true house ants, they may find their way into the house. Their colonies may be destroyed by drenching the nests with boiling water or injecting a small quantity of kerosene or coal oil into them. Where larger areas are affected it is sometimes advisable to spray the lawns with kerosene emulsion or with a very strong soap wash prepared by dissolving any common laundry soap in water at the rate of one-half pound to one pound of soap to a gallon of water. Another method is to inject bisulphide of carbon into the nests, the quantity of the chemical depending upon the size of the nest. After the bisulphide of carbon has been injected, the entrance to the nest should be closed by the foot in order to retain the chemical which will then penetrate slowly through the underground channel and kill the ants. Although its fumes are disagreeable, they are not poisonous to man and the higher animals.

Mosquitoes are hatching out everywhere by the thousands. Pour out and drain off stagnant water and use lime freely.

We Will Do Your Repairing Promptly and Satisfactorily

Capital City Machine Works

Agents for Advance-Rumely Threshing Company
Montgomery, Alabama
All Kinds Of Machinery Repaired

Your Cattle, Hogs and Sheep will bring the HIGHEST MARKET PRICE if Shipped to the National Live Stock Commission Co.

National Stock Yards, Ill.
MARKET REPORTS FREE ON REQUEST.

THE PAPEC Ensilage Cutter

Most economical, most strongly constructed cutter made. Requires least power and blows silage to the height of ANY silo ever built. Will cut and elevate more silage with same power than ANY blower cutter.

SPECIAL PRICE GIVEN

The Papec is always ready for business. Nothing to put up or take down but the pipe, which is transported on the cutter. The feed table is waist high and permanently assembled.

Let The Papec Cutter Fill Your Silo

Montgomery Lime & Cement Co.

Montgomery, Ala. — A. C. Davis, President.
Builders of Concrete Silos.

CONSIDER

Before making your banking connections, the service possible to be rendered should be considered. Your bank's resources must be sufficient—here you'll find them so.

We make it our business to accord out-of-town depositors the service we would give them as residents of Montgomery.

Our experience and advice are always yours for the asking. Let the "friendly bank" be YOUR friend.

Resources Over Four Million Dollars

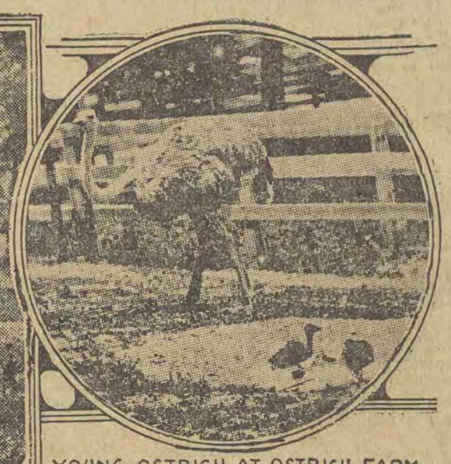
The Fourth National Bank

Montgomery Ala.

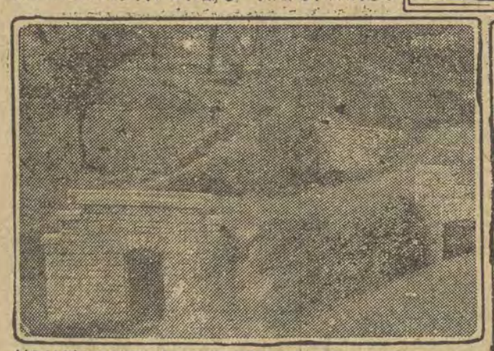
THE UNION-BANNER

Farm and Immigration SUPPLEMENT

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 27, 1916.



Our Oldest National Park and Its Two Unique Farms



A MORNING GATHERING AT ONE OF THE SPRINGS

OSTRICH FARM

YOUNG OSTRICH AT OSTRICH FARM

HOW THE SPRINGS ARE PROTECTED FROM IMPURITIES

ARMY AND NAVY HOSPITAL

REST PAVILION ON TOP OF HOT SPRINGS MOUNTAIN

We Will Get Potash When War Is Over

American Production Does Not Offer Much Hope to Farmers—Reason Why

where it was and there isn't very much chance of its changing a great deal until the European war is over and we are again able to get potash from Germany.

American fertilizer companies and possibly some of the American ammunition companies are preparing for the production of potash in this country. The process is costly and none too certain of satisfactory results. At best the production will be limited and the price necessarily nigh. The farmers will probably get some of this potash but only in small quantities and at steep figures. As the ammunition makers can and will pay more than the farmers for potash it is reasonable to suppose that a good share of the potash produced in America will go into the making of ammunition and not the making of crops. The average citizen, no matter what his occupation, generally wants to sell his product to the highest bidder and there is no reason for believing that he will make his potash any exception to the rule. The ammunition makers are the highest bidders and therefore are likely to get the largest part of American potash production.

Germany Declined.

Right now there is no hope of getting any potash from Germany, where potash is mined in abundant quantities. One of the large American fertilizer companies offered to give bond to Germany that potash sent here by the "divine" consent of the English government would be sold only as fertilizer. This company owns its own potash mines in Germany and asked to be allowed to bring potash from its own mines to America for sale only for fertilizer.

Germany replied that it did not doubt the good faith of the fertilizer company, but that the fertilizer company would have no control over the potash after it had sold it and that the purchasers could sell it to the ammunition makers and make a whole lot more than by using it on land.

This conclusion of the German government was natural. The German government suffers no delusions and is taking no chances of supplyig its enemies with any more equipment than they have at present. And so there is no hope of getting any potash from Germany until the close of the war.

Not Much Hope.

And what is more, there is not much hope of the farmers getting much potash from American sources until the war is over. What is produced in America will be produced only as a temporary necessity. As soon as the war ends American potash production will be a thing of the past and we will again begin shipping in from Germany at former reasonable prices. Of course if the war lasted for five or six years the production of potash in this country might continue for a while. But nobody expects the war to last this long.

The Economic Law.

Of course there is talk of "our being independent of Germany whether the war lasts or not," That sounds patriotic but sound is about all there is to it. When the war is over and peace settles down on the world and folks get to believing that there never will be any more war, then the old "conomic" law steps in and goes on in and goes on in the regular way. Then nobody is going to try to make anything in this country at high cost when it can be bought cheaper from Europe. Manufacturers are not that sort of philanthropists.

A High Tariff

Of course it would be possible to put a high tariff on potash and permit its manufacture in this country at a profit. Such a tariff would be a hardship on all the farmers and benefit nobody but a few potash producers. Tariff has been too long a political tool for enriching the few at the expense of the many. If a pernament tariff board is established and regulates the tariff on a commonsense, scientific basis then it is reasonable to suppose that German potash will come in again after the war and be sold to farmers at reasonable prices.

The writer believes that in all tariffs the producers of farm products should be given first consideration, not because the farmer is a better man than anybody else, but because his progress and success are the very life force of the nation.

—L.M.

THE GIRL HE LEFT BEHINDop

Some have left their sweethearts as they went to join the line.
Some have left their babies with their little eyes ashine.
The girl he left behind him.
Sits beside the window there,
With the wrinkles on her forehead
And the gray upon her hair.

She is dreaming of another, of a soldier far away
Who went out with Lee and Jackson in a dust of yesterday.
And the son that's on the border,
How he fills the gentle mind—
In these hours besides the window—
Of the girl he left behind.

Her gray old lips are moving as if moving in a prayer,
And she sees him in her vision as he guards the border there.
And she sees down the vista
Of the long and lonely years
Once again that other soldier.
While her soft eyes swim in tears.
—Folger McKinsey.

Misrule is bad enough, but Mrs. Rule is worse—so a married man says.

It is now mid-summer and you may be pretty well tired out and wanting something interesting to read. So here on the front page of this issue we are giving you a "feature" article by that gifted Alabama woman, Eleanor Evins Stewart. There has been a great deal in magazines and newspapers recently about our National Parks and the people are learning more about them. Well here Eleanor Evins Stewart tells you many interesting things about our very first National Park Reservation. But no matter what she writes about the author always has something to say about farming and in this article she tells you about two unique farms at the unique and wonderful Reservation that Uncle Sam keeps for the health and happiness of his children. It is a pleasure to give you this interesting—and true—picture by Eleanor Evins Stewart for we know that it will give you pleasure and fact as well.

The train, having stopped at the foot of the mountain to take on the Government inspector, began its laborious ascent of the steep incline, gasping and straining with the effort. The said inspector, clad in a brass-buttoned blue uniform and much official dignity, entered the Pullman, slowly traversed its length, retracted his steps to the entrance, faced about and addressed the passengers, his voice pitched above the roar of the train.

"Ladies and gentlemen, you are now approaching the Hot Springs of Arkansas, the greatest health resort in the world." (The greatest health resort in the world here in the South. Another demonstration of her wonderful and invaluable resources!) Then he launched into the history of the springs, of their possession by the government, and of the establishment of the Reservation; he instructed the passengers concerning the springs and the city, warned them against solicitors for any hotel or any physician, and he ended by advising his hearers to apply at the Reservation office for reliable information regarding bathing and physicians.

As the inspector concluded his speech, the brakeman calls "Hot Springs," and the passengers, alighting from the train and proceeding slowly uptown expects to find the city on a high plateau, remembering that long climb up the mountain. Instead, he discovers that Hot Springs is really in a valley, with two great peaks, East and West Mountain, towering above it, and the lesser peaks of the Ozarks, shadowed with those varying mountain lights which none may ever describe or explain, lying in the hazy distance.

Healing Waters.

Of the springs themselves, and of their wonderful curative powers, there is much to write. The discovery of these fountains of healing waters is attributed to Hernando De Soto in 1541. It was nearly three hundred years later, however, before an investigation was made and authoritative information given out. Soon after the Louisiana Purchase by President Thomas Jefferson in 1804, he sent the exploring party of Hunter and Dunbar to the Hot Springs for the purpose of making an examination of the waters and surrounding country. They found the remnants of log cabins that had been built there by French trappers in the fall of 1800. In 1807 and 1808 other exploring parties were sent there, and in 1832, Congress, after having determined that the waters were beneficial in certain chronic ailments, and considering them too great a public blessing to become a monopoly in the hands of individuals, formed a reservation of the springs and the surrounding country, and set them apart as a "National Park and Sanitarium for all time," dedicating them to the people of the United States to be free from sale or alienation forever. This was the first National Park Reservation, and one of the first efforts of the government toward the national conservation of health.

Owned By Government.

In 1904, the State Legislature passed an act granting the General Government exclusive jurisdiction and sovereignty over the Reservation, since which time the government has made stringent rules and restrictions for those who dispense the waters and who practice in connection with them. The ownership and control of the Hot Springs by the government is absolute and its endorsement of them for the listed diseases is unequivocal.

Where Heat Comes From.

There are forty-four of the hot springs that flow scalding from the side of Hot Springs mountain—the peak to the east of the city—with an average temperature of 135 degrees Fahrenheit, the hottest being 157 degrees. They discharge approximately 800,000 gallons of water per day. Each spring has been securely covered and protected to prevent any possible contamination from the outside, and the water is piped to the various bath houses, hotels, sanitariums, and drinking fountains throughout the city. The waters are radio-active to a marked degree, this activity being due to dissolved radium emanation (gas).

The source of the heat is supposed to be great masses of igneous rock intruded in the earth's crust by volcanic agencies. Deep-seated waters, converted into vapors by contact with this heated mass probably ascend through fissures toward the surface where they meet cold springs, which are heated by the vapors.

Strangers Protected.

The entire Reservation is in charge of a superintendent who is appointed by the secretary of the interior, and all trains entering Hot Springs are accompanied by an officer of the government who instructs visitors concerning the springs and the city, and thus every possible precaution is taken to protect strangers against grafters, quacks and unscrupulous men and methods that abused the place in its early days.

Grandeur of Scenery.

Hot Springs is one of the most beautiful cities in the world. There all the wild and tragic beautes of nature, enhanced by the ingenuity of man, are exhibited to the fascinated visitor. East, or Hot Springs mountain, where the handsome buildings of the Reservation are imposed, is, to its 165-foot, electric tower capped summit, a scene of grandeur and marvelous loveliness. Viewed at night from Central avenue, its witching greenery dotted with winking lighs and here and there a tower dimly outlined against the dark, it brings to mind those beloved, but long lost visions, of fairy-land, and hark! are not those faint notes echoing from the mountainside the pipes of Pan? Ah no, this is a realistic age, and Hot Springs mountain, with all its charm, is not enchanted. Those faint pipings that intrude themselves into the spring night fantasy of the rapt gazer on Bath House Row are but the flute-notes of a "husky" soldier away up in the barracks, his mind on war, not on peace.

On the three mountains comprising the Reservation the government has laid out a wonderful system of driveways and walks that wind around the sides of the mountains by easy grades to the summits some five or six hundred feet above the city. There are fifteen miles of drives and six miles of walks, the latter effecting the Ortel system of graded exercise or mountain climbing in use at Baden, Germany.

Seekers of Health.

And what of the sick and afflicted, the halt and the withered, the thought of whom repels the stranger to Hot Springs? They are all there, and more, but such a cheerful, hopeful, benefited lot they are one is not repulsed, but inspired, at the sight. In the early morning, when the crowds are largest about the fountains of hot water in the public square, the spectacle brings to mind a reverent comparison with the pool of Bethesda where "there lay a great mass of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water." At these fountains, as at that pool, there is to be found every kind and class of humanity, come of themselves or brought by loved ones to drink of these miraculous waters. Each has his drinking cup or water bottle, and each awaits his turn for the healing draught.

Common Meeting Ground.

No doubt your heart will bleed at the sight of the poor old man dragging himself along inch by inch with the aid of his crutches until he is near enough to have his cup filled; or you will want to turn away from the sight of the pale little boy in the rolling chair who is accompanied by his devoted but saddened young parents. But speak to either of these afflicted ones, as everybody does, there being no formality and no strangers at this common meeting ground where suffering has united humanity into one great brotherhood. The old man is improving, one of those withered limbs can bear his weight for an instant today, oh yes, he tells you proudly, illustrating his words with the action, and holding his crutch straight out. And the little boy? Why, he is better, too; he really enjoyed his bath yesterday and he is quite hungry this morning, the pain and swelling in his limbs being less.

Miracles Do Happen.

So it goes, hopeful and believing, all of them. Then, some fine morning a month or two later, if you will come again to that fountain, you will find there ahead of you among those familiar and unfamiliar forms and faces of that ever-changing throng, the old man of the crutches—a rejuvenated old man, for a miracle has transformed him. Gone are the pained expression and the crutches and the malady that caused them. He is stooping to fill his cup, and, looking up, he finds your eyes fixed on him. "See," he cries joyfully, interpreting your look, "I am well! I can walk!!" Again he demonstrates, walking, yes walking, a yard or more, slowly to be sure, but so surely, so surely.

Presently, while you are still engaged with him, down the hill to the fountain comes the pale little boy of the rolling chair, walking too, with color in his cheeks and the light of health in his dancing eyes. Behind him are his parents, happy but subdued into reverence at the miracle. Your heart contracts with joy and thanksgiving and your eyes overflow. Surely, God's in his heaven and all's well with the world; man's faith in the resurrection is strengthened. These are not the idle imaginings of a romanticist or the etchings of a fictionist, but they are two actual instances of the many cures that are daily effected at the Hot Springs of Arkansas here in our Southland, the greatest health resort in the world.

The Ostrich Farm.

Among the other places of interest at Hot Springs there are two that never fail to attract the visitor. These are the ostrich and alligator farms on the outskirts of the city.

At the ostrich farm there are a hundred or more birds of varying ing ages, from nine months to fifty years. The average weight of the grown birds is 200 pounds, though Black Diamond, the veteran fifty-year old bird here tips the scales at 300. His age affects him little, as he is more active than many of the young birds, and when he is harnessed to a cart and turned into the race track, his speed would put the swiftest racer to shame. Teddy Roosevelt, Billy Taft, Carrie Nation, and other notables have namesakes among these birds, and in some way or other they seem to justfy their names. Carrie, for instance, is very belligerent though inconsistent. When the guide attempts to catch her for a ride she endeavors to smash everything in reach until she is finally hooded, subdued and mounted Then around and around and around she turns until the poor rider is so drunk he is forced to slip off her back and cling to the nearest support. This the guide points out, is the only manner of means y which a man may become intoxicated in Hot Springs since prohibition has been effective in Arkansas.

Mating and Breeding.

The best birds are selected for breeding, are mated and put into pens. The male birds are black with white plumed wings, reds beaks and red-streaked legs, and their conjugal devotion is greater than that displayed by some of the higher orders of creation. If their chosen companion dies they can not be made, to mate again, and at the hatching season, half of this arduous six-weeks labor is assumed by the male bird who takes the nest at night.

Short Laying Season.

The female birds are gray and a size smaller than the males. They lay but one month in the year, May or June, and the usual number of eggs is fifteen, one being laid every alternate day. The eggs weigh from three to five pounds and the shells are one-sixteenth of an inch thick, which accounts for the lengthy hatching period. Hatching is done both by the natural and artificial method, though the latter is preferable owing to the extreme delicacy of the chicks. These attain their full height at nine months of age, when the first plumes may be plucked, but it is not until they are two or three years old that they are fully developed and perfect as to plumage. The average yield of the latter from each bird each year is seventy tail feathers, used for fans, boas, et cetera, and forty-eight larger plumes from the wings.

The birds are fed twice each day a portion of corn, bran, alfalfa hay, oats, and the first and main food of the chicks is young and tender alfalfa. A number of acres at the farm are planted in this legume as pasturage for these queer birds which appear to be a strange combination of horse and fowl.

Now, an ostrich farm is a most unusual sight, there being only two notable ones in the United States, and this particular one is the sure destination of every journalist who visits Hot Springs. A certain jouranlist who sometimes contributes to Farm and Immigration had, at considerable risk and trepidation, climbed into one of the pens along with the guide, and leveled a kodak at a group of fine birds that had been coralled especially for this operation. At the height of the photographing a tall individual with a kodak and a business air, climbed the fence, landed safely into the pen, stepped into a hole, and fell at the feet of the first kodaker. After this prostrate recognition he scrambled up, measured the first kodaker from his superior height, and realizing that nothing but newspaper work—or insanity—would induce one to enter such a place, he inquired with regard to the former.

"Just trying to get some photographs for Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Alabama," he was told.

"I am working for the Peoria Star," he admitted, "and I want some pictures for my paper. I am their farm expert."

And so it happened that the courteous gentleman of the Peoria Star, with a long acquaintance and a wide experience in Hot Springs, piloted the visitor from Alabama about the ostrich farm and imparted meanwhile much valuable information concerning Hot Springs, farming in Illinois, and similar subjects.

The alligator Farm, removed from the ostrich farm some two or hundred yards, is a place of great of terest, also. The artificial lakes contain several hundred specimens varying in ages from a few weeks to one hundred years. Though a study of the alligator increases one's knowledge of natural history it proportionately decreases one's respect for these creatures which are first, last, and always vicious reptiles, knowing and learning nothing through the centuries or their existence except to eat and to fight. The skull of an ancient alligator—the years of their alloted lives extend into the thousands— kept on exhibition at this farm shows two such small cavities for the brain, that the proverbial thimble full of sense could scarcely be packed into them.

"Nests" In Mud.

The females lay their eggs, twenty to sixty in number in the mud above water-mark during a period of three days. The eggs are hard-shelled and white, about the size of a duck's egg, and shaped like a capsule. At the farms they are hatched in incubators at a temperature of 80 degrees, the period of incubation being sixty days. Even then only sixty per cent are hatched, as the eggs of those in captivity are not as fertile nor the germ as strong as of those at large.

These reptiles are practically bloodless. Their tongues and the inside of their mouths are barely tinged with color, and when they are relieved of a claw, or otherwise wounded by their vicious companies, there is but a drop of blood to show for it. They have no lungs and are observed not to breathe while in the water. Two small tubes on the outside of either side of the lower jaw supply them with the necessary air when on land.

A great number of fine skins are obtained and tanned at this farm. The whole skins of the young alligators are used, but with advancing age the skin of the back becomes so hardened it is unfit for use, and the covering of the under side of the body only is used. One of the exhibits pointed out to visitors is a huge skin taken from a monster caught in Lake Pontchartrain It is twenty-eight feet in length and the age of the creature it covered is estimated to have been fifteen hundred years.

So, there is to be found at Hot Springs, in addition to some of the most beautiful scenery in the world, health, recreation, amusement, instruction, and a great strengthening in the faith of the brotherhood of man and of resurrected life. When we remember that this city yearly calls the attention of more than 150,000 people to the greatness and the beauty and wonder of the South and that she is ranked nationally as the greatest health resort on the globe, there being nothing in all the world's history of beneficent waters to compare with her records, surely we should acclaim her one of our greatest assets and blessings.

Picking the Weevil In The Delta

Both "weevil picking" and "square picking" have been found helpful in lessening damage from the boll weevil in the Mississippi Delta.

"Weevil picking" and "square picking" are based upon the fact that the numbers of the boll weevil are lowest in the spring, for comparatively few of the insects survive the winter. By picking the weevils from the plants then or by collecting the fallen forms which contain weevils of the first generation in their immature stages, very much can be done to prevent the multiplication of the pest later in the season. The practical effect of these methods has recently been tested by investigators of the Department of Agriculture and the results published in Department Bulletin No. 382. In this bulletin, the author, B. R. Coad, states that an increased yield of 23 per cent was obtained by making five "square pickings" at intervals of seven days. Somewhat similar results were obtained by "weevil picking" with the bag-and-hoop apparatus.

When weevil picking is resorted to much better results are obtained from the bag-and-hoop method than from hand picking. Furthermore, if the plant is shaken across the sack instead of lengthwise, many more weevils are collected. Several pickings early in the season with a short interval between each have proved more efficient than the same number of pickings extended over a long period. If the labor conditions are such that all the cotton can not be treated in this way at short intervals, it is better, says the bullethin, to concentrate the labor on a portion of the crop and to allow the remainder to go untreated. This, however, is not desirable in seasons of heavy weevil infestation because at such times the weevils having exhausted the supply of food on the untreated cotton will migrate into the picked cotton. "Weevil picking" with the bag-and-hoop is, on the whole, more profitable than "square picking."

Bill Gives County Right to Tax Itself

Then Those Counties That Want Real Schools Can Go Ahead and Have Them

The local-taxation-for-schools amendment to the Constitution of Alabama will be submitted to the people at the general election in November.

It is the most forward step that has ever been taken for the educational advancement of the State. It means, in brief that any county will have the right to tax itself to support its own schools and have real schools and not pretenses at education.

Here is the proposed amendment in full, read it and remember its provisions:

"Section 1.—The several counties in the State shall have power to levy and collect a special county tax not exceeding thirty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in such counties in addition to that now authorized or that may hereafter be authorized, for public school purposes, and in addition to that now authorized under section 260 of article XIV of the constitution; provided, that the rate of such tax, the time it is to continue and the purpose thereof shall have been first submitted to the vote of the qualified electors of the county, and voted for by a majority of those voting at such election.

"Section 2.—The several school districts of any county in the State shall have power to levy and collect a special district tax not exceeding thirty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in such district for public school purposes; provided, that a school district under the meaning of this section shall include incorporated cities or towns, or any school district of which an incorporated city or town is a part, or such other school districts now existing or hereafter formed, as may be approved by the county board of education; provided further that the rate of such tax, the time it is to continue and purpose thereof shall have been first submitted to the vote of the qualified electiors of the district and voted for by a majority of those voting at such election; provided further, that no district tax shall be voted or collected except in such counties as are levying and collecting not less than a three-mill special county school tax.

"Section 3—The funds arising from the special county school tax levied and collected by any county shall be apportioned and expended as the law may direct; and the funds arising from the special school tax levied in any district which votes the same independently of the county shall be expended for the exclusive benefit of the district, as the law may direct."

The Facts About It.

1.—The adoption of the amendment levies no tax.

2.—No county could ever levy a tax without calling an election and then only in case a majority of the voters favored the tax.

3.—The amount any county might levy could not exceed three mills, though any less rate might be voted.

4.—No district could ever levy a tax until the county in which the district was located had levied a three-mill tax for school purposes.

5.—No district could ever levy a tax without calling an election, and then only in case a majority of the voters favored levying the tax.

6. —Not one cent of the money raised by the local county tax could be expended except for the benefit of the county in which levied. Funds would remain in the county and be expended by the county board of education.

7.—Not one cent of the money raised by a local district tax could be expended except for the benefit of the district in which levied. The funds would remain in the county and be expended for the district by the county board of education.

Isn't it about time we were getting rid of illiteracy in Alabama and giving our children school advantages that other children of many States have?

"Of course, you want to serve your country," said the patriotic citizen.

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I want my constituents to have first helping, as far as possible."

It's awfully hard for the average man to look in a mirrow and believe that he was once a cute baby.

Why Pure-Bred Sires Only Should Be Used

By Geo. F. Stewart

Ten Reasons for Using Pure-Bred Herd Sire:

1. It is quickest way to build up a high grade herd.
2. It is the most economical way to build up a high-grade herd.
3. The prepotency of a pure-bred is greater than that of the grade or scrub.
4. The size and vigor of the offspring are affected.
5. The uniformity of the offspring is developed.
6. Increases the value of offspring.
7. The sire has an increased value for sale over that of a scrub.
8. Makes possible the pedigree system of records.
9. Evidence of famous sires as heads in the history of breeding.
10. It leads finally to the only real successful end of the breeding enterprise, through being a constructive work.

QUICKEST WAY

The use of a pure-bred sire is the quickest way to develop a line equal, for all practical purposes, to that of a pure one. This is assuming that a breeder is following conservative principles of management and cannot afford to start with a pure line. A pure-bred sire influences all first generation offspring to a degree of 50 per cent purity, while a pure-bred female influences the breeding of only a single ,or at most only a few, individuals.

Costs Less

Not only is this the quickest way to develop a high-grade line of live stock, but it is the most economical one. For the average beginner this is a paramount consideration. By using a pure-bred sire of merited breeding qualities on females or mediocre breeding, the enterprise can be operated in a way to allow of gradual replacement of the latter with pure-breds, whereas disaster might easily have followed a heavy investment in a totally pure line.

Qualities to Offspring

Assuming that a profitable venture has been built up in this way, we now have first-hand evidence of a pure-bred sire's merits. It is observed that such an individual, by virtue of his prepotency, stamps the herd of flock with many superior qualities.

Although in grade and scrub breeding we often see large and robust individuals, still they are the exception rather than the rule. On the other hand, size and vigor of offspring are usually expected when a pure-bred sire is used.

Produce Uniform Offspring.

Uniformity is attained in the same way. This quality is of extreme importance, not only for market classes of animals—and for the show ring, but for the satisfying qualities which a uniform herd gives the owner. Who would not rather top the market with a carload of steers possessing the quality of uniformity than be content with a lower price because lacking this quality? Or who would not rather possess a flock of poultry uniform in size and color than one made up of a rainbow combination of colors and a sliding scale of sizes? In no other way is it possible to develop these important qualities.

Financial Returns.

As a result of the value of the individuals and so of the whole enterprise, is enhanced. From the size, vigor, uniformity and other superior qualities of blooded stock a profit is realized, where failure stalks the man who keeps a "boarding house" for cows, or has a side-show of "razor-backs." The best example of increased financial returns from blooded stock is the dairy industry. Success in dairying is now almost limited to the man who either does. or is safely on the way to, possess a pure-bred herd.

Besides increasing the value of a herd, or any like group of animals, a pure bred's performance may place him in a position to command a high-price when he must be disposed of. The length of service of a sire in one place is naturally shorter than his useful life, due to the arrival at breeding age of his daughters. Assuming that a sire has paid for himself during his first period of service, his increased value over that of a scrub could then be fairly credited to "breeding."

To point out a few of the advantages of strictly pure breeding may not be amiss in the present consideration, since it still applies to the use of a pure-bred sire.

Records of Pure-Breds Valuable.

The use of pure-bred individuals on both sides makes possible the pedigree system of records, which is of incalculable value to breeders. The various breeding associations are formed and operated for the sole purpose of recording individuals of pure breeding. Notable families or individuals are easily traced by use of the herd books and other publications of these organizations.

By the use of such data we have the argument for the pure-bred sire in "The evidence of superior sires as heads of noted breeding enterprises." Many individuals and families are of outstanding merit in the breeding world. Hambletonian X, as head of the great family of trotters, and Avondale of the Shorthorn herd of Carpenter and Ross, are a few of such individuals that might be mentioned.

The Consummate Reason.

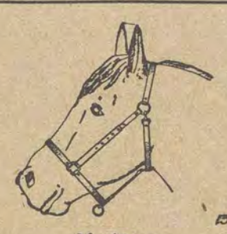
But let us consider, finally, the consummate reason for using a pure-bred sire. Is it not that he makes possible the pure-bred herd, which in turn leads to the most successful end of the animal breeding enterprise? True, many men have taken some pleasure and considerable profit from grade breeding, yet a far greater number have been ust as successful financially and have taken much more pride and satisfaction, and have achieved immortal fame in the history of breeding from the constructive work of pure breeding.

AS TO PICNICS.

I never saw a picnic spread
That didn't have among the eats
Some peanut butter on the bread
And many plates of pickled beets.
—Youngstown Telegraph.

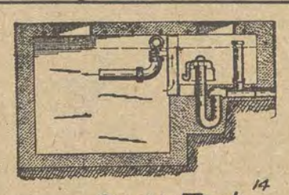
And as for picnic spreads I know
Of many jaunty little trips
Where all they had was just a row
Of boxes of potato chips.
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

I never to a picnic went—
And this is true, I hope to die—
At which a summer-panted gent
But sat down in soft custard pie.
—Houston Post.



I never to a picnic hied,
Dolled up in ice-cream pance.
But that when me they notified
They'd notified the ance.
—Washington Post.

I never in a picnic shared
But what the cakes and custard pies
And other sweet things they'd prepared
Lured all the world's supply of flies.
—Detroit Free Press.

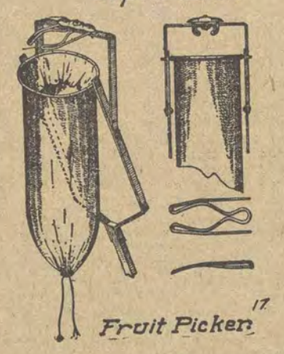


I never to a picnic went
In gay attire, some fun to gain,
That I did not wish for a tent,
For never did it fail to rain!

New Inventions That Are of Value to The Farmers

BY C. J. LYNDE

Halter. 13



Septic Tank. 14

Fence Post Mould. 15

Hog Holder. 16

Fruit Picker. 17

Granary. 18

All the straps of this halter are made of flexible steel, covered with leather or canvas. It is stated that this method of construction makes a very durable halter.

Septic Tank.

In septic tanks the inlet and the automatic siphon discharge are in separate compartments, and are usually some distance apart. In this tank, the inlet and siphon are made in the factory in one unit, in order that an experienced workman may instal them without making mistakes.

Fence Post Mold.

The L-shaped end pieces of this mold are slotted to hold the partitions. The side-pieces, stiffened by angle iron, are attached to the end of pieces by lugs and hooks. The mold is used on a smooth floor, and the partitions are removed endwise, as soon as the concrete is set.

Hog Holder.

To hold a hog with this device the loop is passed over its snout and tightened by raising the handle. It is locked in this position by turning the thumb-screw.

When the picker part of this device is passed around the stem and pulled gently, the fruit drops into the bag. It is claimed that in this way the fruit from the high branches can be picked quickly and without injury.

Ventilated Granary.

The object of this invention is to provide a granary so perfectly ventilated that grain not thoroughly dry will cure quickly without danger of heating. The metal air ducts are so arranged that they can be removed if desired.

If you have the privilege of reading this column each issue, you will find that the new ideas presented come back to you many times, and that you wish you could refer to them again. A scrap book made up of the columns as they appear will enable you to do this. Do it now.

Women! Canned Goods Are Up, But Can Your Own Supply

Packers of canned fruits and vegetables agree that the supply that has been prepared for market this year is far below the pack of former seasons. In consequence the price of practically all canned vegetables has had a recent sharp advance.

This will not be good news to the housewives who have depended on these goods to help out in supplying the table with necessary edibles. But they can do their own canning, can't they? With practically everything else gone up it is hard to stand a rise in the staple canned articles which have been so generally relied on in the past.

Discussing the pack of peas, for instance, a member of the firm of William Numsen and Sons of Baltimore, said that their favorites in the East had only been able to turn out about 60 per cent of the average pack; in the West their pack of standard peas had been only about 40 per cent., while the sweet pea pack was scarcely 10 per cent.

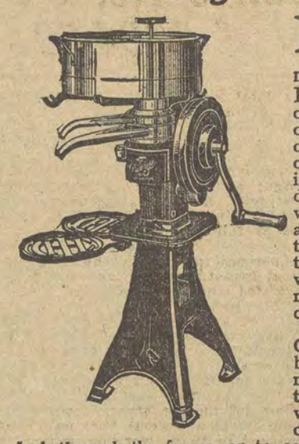
This, he thought, was the general condition the country over and was among the potent factors for the strength in these commodities. In addition to the short pack reported the carry over supply was small and has become about exhausted. Therefore, with the demand constant, it was necessary to advance prices to make the available supply go round.

This man also said that the old pack of tomatoes was becoming scarce and these were advancing from this course. It was too early, he continued, to make predictions as to this year's pack of tomatoes, as the crop is still in the making. The next 60 days will determine what will be the supply, and then only can some estimate be formed as to what the year's pack will be.

In this situation the tomatoes available for use have been marked up 7 1-2 cents a dozen, while peas have gone up from 10 to 15 cents a dozen in price.

Discussing the enormous consumption of canned foods, it is said this is indicated by the reduction in the supply of tomatoes. The total pack last year was 8,469,000 cases, the pack of corn was 10,124,000 cases and the pea pack 9,273,000 cases. Of these stocks the canners are said to be carrying the smallest supply in years and the jobbers are credited with no more than a fair working supply.

Baltimore packers say the mobilization of the National Guard on the Mexican border has nothing to do with the present scarcity or with the advance in price. They say that if the guardsmen are kept away long enough it may require a considerable amount of canned goods to see them through, but up to this time their consumption of stock of this class has not been greater than would have been consumed had they remained at home.



The army uses some canned tomatoes and corn, but not enough to make the impression on the price that has developed within the last week.

One lovely spring day we will look out over the oat fields and behold a banner crop, and we will behold cattle upon many grassy slopes, and we will see the sun of plenty shining upon the Southland; and over the waves will come the magic message that the war is ended; and into the country and towns and the cities will come new energy and new hope and we will have entered upon the Golden Age of American Endeavor. Verily, verily I say unto you, prepare ye for this joyous day for it cometh upon you when you wot not of it. Selah!

Anxious Mother—I wish you would speak to my son about smoking, Bishop. Tell him he won't go to heaven if he persists in it.

The Bishop—My dear lady, that arrangement is out of date. I'll warn him that he won't get on the ball team.

The Primrose Oils Every Bearing When It Starts

BESIDES needing only one mechanical adjustment for perfect operation, the Primrose separator has a splash oiling system—the best method of oiling in use to-day. A quarter turn of the handle sends a plentiful supply of clean, fresh oil to every bearing, including the neck bearing. A window in the side of the frame tells you when the oil is at the correct level, and—here is the most important feature of all—as new oil is poured in, the used oil is siphoned out into the waste can so that the oil in a Primrose separator is always a good, clean lubricant.

Where can you beat that system? Good, clean oil supplied to every bearing at the start—no chance to ruin your machine by forgetting to turn on the oil—no danger of running with any bearing dry—no chance for oil to get into the milk bowl, or to leak through the frame, or to come out anywhere except into the waste tank.

The Primrose is a real cream separator. Come in and let us show you why it is the best machine on the market to-day, bar none.

TULLIS-GAMBLE HARDWARE CO.

Montgomery, Ala. Wetumpka, Ala.

GREIL BROS. COMPANY,

Top Brand Seeds

TRADE MARK

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

FOR RHEUMATISM AND KINDRED COMPLAINTS

DUNCAN'S ANTISEPTIC PINE HEALING OIL

Recommended for Rheumatism, Sprains, Cuts and Bruises

People all over the country find quick relief and positive cures in the use of this—the greatest of all remedies. We receive letters daily from grateful people, praising DUNCAN'S ANTISEPTIC PINE HEALING OIL.

Montgomery, Ala., March 14th, 1916.

Yellow Pine Medicine Co.,
City.

Gentlemen: Too much cannot be said for your Healing Oil. I was a sufferer for years with corns and irrtations of my feet and used almost every remedy made, without any relief.

Different treatments this past summer cost me fifteen or twenty dollars and my feet were as bad after I used these treatments as before. I finally used Duncan's Antiseptic Pine Healing Oil, and today my feet are well and my corns are gone. When I began using this oil my feet were badly infected. I would change my hose sometimes twice daily. After two or three applications of Duncan's Antiseptic Pine Healing Oil, all irritation stopped. I used less than a half bottle, and today all infection is gone, and I am relieved of that tired feeling and can walk with ease and comfort. Before using it, I could hardly walk home after my day's work.

Respectfully,
(Signed) J. M. MASH,
410 Madison Ave., Montgomery, Ala.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 24th, 1916.

Yellow Pine Medicine Co.,
8 Bibb Street,
Montgomery, Ala.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in recommending both your Healing Oil and Croup Remedies, having used both in my family. I think for croup, sore throat, cuts, bruises, etc., they have no equals. I keep them on hand all the time. Yours very truly,

(Signed) B. BEERS TREADWELL,
Prop., Beers Printing Company.

Rutledge, Ala., Route 1, February 9th, 1916.

This is to certify that I have been suffering with rheumatism for about 3 years, and had taken lots of medicines without relief. I was advised to try Duncan's Antiseptic Pine Oil. I felt relieved soon after I commenced taking same. I used nearly two 25c bottles, and am entirely well. I can highly recommend same for rheumatism.

(Signed) MRS. R. L. MOORE.

We have unlimited faith in DUNCAN'S ANTISEPTIC PINE HEALING OIL. We want you to try this remedy at our expense. If your druggist does not handle it, send 10 cents and we will send you a large bottle free. The 10 cents pays for postage and carton. After using it, and it does not come to what we claim, we will then return your 10 cents. This remedy as made from the purest pine ingredients, it will do more than we claim. After you have tried it, you will then become convinced.

YELLOW PINE MEDICINE COMPANY, Inc.

Montgomery, Alabama.

ADMIRAL, 58,909, SON OF ILLUSTRATOR HEADS MY HERD OF DUROC-JERSEYS

Right now I have a number of registered pigs for sale. Write for description and prices.

VANDIVER DUROC FARM

H. F. Vandiver, Mgr. Montgomery, Ala.

SHORTHORN BULLS FOR SALE

Also females of very best breeding and individual merit. Guaranteed breeders. Farmers of Alabama, write me for pure-bred sires at reasonable prices.

MORTON CRABB, Gallion, Ala.

KENTUCKY HERD OF HAMPSHIRES

Largest herd in South. Has won over 500 premiums. Write us

HUGHES ATKINSON, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

PURE BRED DUROCS

Boars, Sows, bred and open Gilts, and Pigs to those who want best breding. Write for prices and p edigrees.

CREOLA STOCK FARM, Creola, Ala:

ELMER R. S LY, Manager.

DUROCS Registered boars and pigs, bred gilts and sows of most noted blood lines. Write for pedigrees and prices.

W. H. KING, Luverne, Ala.

PURE BRED HAMPSHIRE HOGS

Boars ready for service, bred gilts and pigs of the best blood lines at reasonable prices. For pamphlet and information write

WATERPROOF PLANTATION

John D. Minor, Houma, La.

HAMPSHIRES for SOUTHERN FARMERS

Get in touch with me when in the market for the best bred hogs.

W. F. YINGST, State Center, Iowa.

SOUTHERN BRED HAMPSHIRES

REGISTERED—I am booking orders for January, February and March pigs sired by the $800 Paulsen's Model, out of sows of quality. Prices right.

JNO. J. SHAFFER, JR., Ellendale P. O., La.,

"Durocs of Superlative Quality"

I sold "Cardinal" the junior yearling winner at Ky. State Fair 1914, for one thousand dollars, and I have refused a like amount for "Oriole" the 800 lb. junior yearling blue ribbon winner at Ky. State Fair in 1915. "Oriole" is the peer of them all and the greatest hammed Duroc of the breed. All spring pigs sold; have a few gilts bred for September farrow at $50.00 each. If you want registered stock at all buy the best.

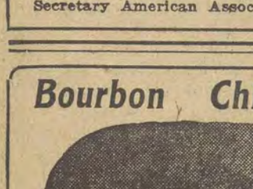
CHAS. J. TANNER Lebanon, Ky.

LOOKOUT LAD 20371—GENERAL WICKWARE 26879

Two of largest boars of the breed at head of my herd. Some fancy Sept. boars and bred gilts for fall farrow. Write for descriptions and prices.

1380 acres devoted to Hampshires.

WICKFIELD FARM, Box 101, Cantril, Ia.



FAIR VIEW FARM

Special Berkshire offering. 50 3 mo. old registered pigs, $10.00 and $15.00, liberal discount on 3 or more. Few more big bred sows, bred and open gilts and service boars. Quality and breeding unexcelled.

Write for particulars.

FAIR VIEW FARM

PALMETTO, GA.

RIVERSIDE DUROC HOG FARM

FOR SALE—125 March and February pigs by Superba Star No. 68191 and Defender's Wonder 1st. 20 fall gilts and six fall boars by Superba Star. The best blood lines. Every pig guaranteed.

T. J. RILEY,

158 St. Frances Street, Mobile, Alabama

Big Bone Type Poland Chinas

CHOLERA IMMUNE Bred Gilts, Boars and Weaned Pigs of both sexes for sale. Pedigree and individual merit.

L. F. Sessions, Ozark, Ala.

MOST PROFITABLE GRASS HOG IN THE WORLD

THE HAMPSHIRE HOG has won the title of being the greatest Grass Hog and able to put on more pounds at less cost than any other hog in America. This statement has been proven by experiment test and large feeders for the market. For information and free literature address,

E. C. STONE, Sec'y, HAMPSHIRE RECORD.

703 E. Nebr. Ave. Peoria, Ill.

500 Men Wanted Durocs Last Fall

At the Southern fairs and at Atlanta in October there will be 10,000 new breeders looking for the right kind of boars and sows. Come to the show with your show stuff, and pick up some of this good patronage. $2,000 in prizes in Durocs. Will also sell fifty head in public sale. Send for particulars.

ROBT. J. EVANS

Secretary American Association, 819 Exchange Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Bourbon Chief Heads Our Herd

Of Durocs. No better anywhere. Write for pedigrees and prices of pigs, gilts and sows.

Dunaway & Lambert, Orrville, Ala.

How to Feed Hogs For Biggest Margin of Profit On the Central South Farm

By H. M. Cottrell

This is the second of a series of practical hog raising articles by Mr. Cottrell. These articles are written from long experience and continued study of swine production. Some points in them may not fit every condition but in the main they are safe to follow and will result in profit for the man who applies Mr. Cottrell's principles to individual farm conditions. In the next article Mr. Cottrell will take up the boar and his management.

Preparation of Feed.

Grinding—There is little or no gain in grinding feed for pigs up to 100 pounds live weight each. Above that weight it may pay when it is desirable to push the growth rapidly. The result of a large number of tests shows an increase of about 4 per cent in grinding feed. With corn at 50 cents a bushel, there would be saved 2 cents a bushel from grinding it, usually less than the cost of grfinding.

It often pays to grind feed for sows with large litters while they are suckling the pigs. It is generally found that grinding increases the supply of milk.

Soaking grain before feeding increases the returns from the feed about the same as grinding. Care must be taken in summer that the soaked feed does not become sour. Special attention must be given to keeping the barrels clean in which the feed is soaked. Soaked feed should not be allowed to become frozen in winter.

Where fee dis dusty, it pays to dampen it at the time of feeding, as dust often causes serious irritation of the lungs, and thus invariably cuts down the gains. Ground feed is made more appetizing by mixing it with skim milk or water to a thick slop.

Cooking grain reduces its feed value. Cooking roots—potatoes and like feeds—increases their digestibility. Where feeds like turnips or potatoes are to be given with grain, it is a good method to thoroughly cook them in the smallest quantity of water that is practicable and not have them burn. Salt lightly. Just as the cooking is finished, add the grain and thoroughly mix the grain and the roots. Feed warm, but not hot.

The Pasture.

Pasture should be the main feed of the growing pig. Every pig and hog should have all the pasture and hay he will eat, every day of his life. Half the weight of a hog ready for market should be produced from pasture. Pasture alone is not sufficient and swine of all ages should have some grain daily.

Alfalfa—The best hog pasture is alfalfa. It thrives in the cotton states, on river and creek bottoms not subject to overflow. It does well on the uplands when the soil has been made rich and lime has been applied. Hogs fed a little grain while on alfalfa pasture will make, during the growing season from 500 to 1,000 pounds gain an acre, after deducting the weight put on by the grain.

Bermuda is next in value to alfalfa for a permanent hog pasture, and will grow on any land in the South that is not heavily shaded or very wet. Lespedeza and bur clover should be seeded with it. The lespedeza will largely increase the summer supply of feed. The bur clover will furnish pasture in early spring and late fall, while the bermuda and lespedeza are not growing. Bermuda should be pastured close or it will become too tough for hogs.

Temporary Pasture—Winter oats and wheat and crimson and bur clovers make good pasture from November to April, inclusive, whenever the ground is dry, and in most seasons may be followed by corn.

Winter oats and winter wheat, mixed half and half, sowed early in the spring, three bushels an acre, makes good pasture until hot weather. Early amber sorghum makes poor pasture, but one that may be used to carry hogs through the hot weather. Dwarf Essex rape, sown on rich land, furnishes good pasture, November to May 15. It dies in hot weather and is not worth sowing on thin lands.

Each acre of land that will produce 30 to 40 bushels of corn an acre will, when in pasture, carry a brood sow and a large litter of pigs through the growing season. Richer land will supply more and thinner land less feed.

Hay For Hogs.

When pasture is not available, hogs should be fed daily all the hay from legumes they will eat—alfalfa, cover, cow pea or Spanish peanut hay. They should be fed enough so that they will eat only the leaves. The stems can be thrown to the cattle or mules.

Hay Rack for Hogs.

Feed the hay in a rack made of 1x4-inch stuff, 3 feet high, 6 feet long and 16 inches wide. The top is open, the ends solid, and there should be 4-inch spaces between the 4-inch slats. The bottom should be a trough, 4 inches deep, that extends 7 inches beyond the rack on each side to collect the leaves as they shatter down.

A bunch of hogs was divided into two lots for fattening. One lot was fed all the grain they would eat, and the other lot all the grain and alfalfa hay they would eat, consuming only the leaves. For every 100 pounds gained by the hogs fattened on grain alone, those that had hay and grain gained 173 pounds. The same weight of grain that brought $1.00 when fed alone, brought $1.40 when fed with hay. From 7 to 8 pounds of leaves were eaten with each bushel of grain.

The hay should be cut early and so cured as to save all the leaves possible. After deducting the weight put on by the grain, hogs fed early-cut, very leafy alfalfa hay showed a gain of 868 pounds for each ton of hay, while hogs fed late-cut hay that had been damaged by rain made only 333 pounds of gain for each ton of hay.

Mineral Matter.

Mineral matter is as necessary to secure growth and maintain life as is water or feed, and most hogs do not receive a sufficient supply. The bones of the hog are largel ymade up of mineral matter. The blood, vital organs, lean meat and milk contain much mineral matter.

One lot of pigs was fed grain and another lot grain and all the raw ground phosphate rock they would eat. The skeletons of the pigs eating the phosphate rock were onelhalf heavier than those without this mineral feed. One lot of pigs was fed grain and another lot grain and all the finely ground bone they would eat. The leg bones of the pigs eating ground bone were 90 per cent stronger than those of the pigs without it.

Sows carrying unborn pigs need a large quantity of mineral feed to supply their own bodies and to develop the bones, vital organs and flesh of their pigs. Sows, while pregnant, were given a liberal supply of mineral matter. Their pigs at birth weighed nearly one-third more than the pigs from sows fed grain only.

Keep in clean, shallow boxes or self-feeders, where every pig and hog can eat from them every day, soft coal, salt and either hardwood ashes, raw phosphate rock or finely ground bone meal. Keep each in a separate compartment; do not mix these materials, but let the pig select them to satisfy his needs. When the hogs are fed cotton seed meal, keep before them a supply of copperas.

A hog will eat a pound of soft coal a day. It aids his digestion, helps rid him of worms and other internal parasites, and is beneficial to his hair and skin.

Animal Feed Necessary.

Most feeders have found it necessary to give growing pigs and sows suckling pigs some feed from an animal source in order to get the largest gains and make growth at least cost. There are three animal feeds generall yavailable to cotton belt farmers—skim milk, buttermilk and tankage.

Pigs grow most rapidly when fed either skim milk or buttermilk with their other feed. Men who raise many pigs find that it pays to keep a dairy herd, in order to secure an abundant supply of skim milk for their pigs. Milk should be fed with some starchy feed like corn or sweet potatoes. Three to five parts by weight of milk to one part of grain is most economical of grain, and fed in this proportion, five pounds of milk has a feed value equal to one pound of grain. Buttermilk, where no water has been added, is equal to skim milk.

Cotton Seed Meal.

No addition to the ordinary ration, except skim milk, buttermilk or tankage, will produce such rapid gains on growing pigs and fattening hogs as will cotton seed meal. This is true particularly where the animals have been previously stunted. As a rule, with some exceptions, the continuous feeding of cotton seed meal to pigs causes death in four to six weeks, even when fed in moderate quantities. A pig fed cotton seed meal will gain rapidly and appear in perfect health. He is attacked suddenly and is usually dead within twelve hours.

Its effect in producing rapid gains makes it desirable to feed cotton seed meal to the limit of safety. The safest plan is to make one-fifth of the total grain ration cotton seed meal, provided the amount of cotton seed meal fed daily does not exceed four pounds for each 1,000 pounds live weight of pigs. Feed it for three weeks, then discontinue the meal for two to three weeks and feed again for three weeks, continuing in this way until the hogs are ready for market.

The hogs fed cotton seed meal must have all the succulent feed they will eat—good, fresh pasture or some root feed like sweet potatoes.

Dr. H. A. Morgan recommends sweet potatoes and cotton seed meal as one of the most profitable combinations for fattening hogs in the South. He keeps sulphate of iron (copperas) where the animals can have access to it all the time. Under these conditions he has been able to feed safely cotton seed meal throughout the fattening period.

Poland Chinas

Bred gilts and pigs, 2 months to 6 months. Big bone type, all subject to registration. Very best breeding.

Clearview Farm

MULBERRY, ALA.

F. M. Howard, Owner.

Hampshire Hogs

Herd Boars, Brood Sows, Gilts bred and open. Pigs all ages for sale at all times. Nothing but well belted stock shipped. Prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed.

LAKE VIEW STOCK FARM,

Putnam, Ills.

Prattville Stock Farm

Prattville, Ala.

Hampshires of most noted blood lines and highest individual merit. None better in United States.

C. E. THOMAS, Pres.

G. P. WALLS, Manager

FARM LOANS Loans of $1,000 to $50,000 on well improved farm lands at low rate of interest. Five years to pay.

L. W. Martin, 27 S. Perry St., Montgomery, Ala.

The regular farm gasoline engine furnishes plenty of power to operate the easy running

BLIZZARD Ensilage Cutter

It's very light running because so simple and compact. Heavy fly wheel carries both cutting knives and elevating fans. The BLIZZARD is a work eater—self-feed table saves one man's work—runs like clock work, always cuts evenly—elevates to any height—repair expense little or nothing. Many still in use after 10, 12 and 15 years service.

Come in and let us tell you about the BLIZZARD ENSILAGE CUTTER.

Teague Hardware Co.

132-134 Commerce Stree Montgomery, Ala.

Stock Market

Values on all classes of cattle have been slashed right and left during the past two weeks, and the current market records the lowest price level in many, many months. Today's trade on killing steers is fully 25c. per cwt. lower than our last report; mixed cattle, yearlings and heretics, have broken 50c. to 75c., while thin cattle are suitable for stockers and feeders have broken 25c. to 40c. per cwt.

As a result of this sharp decline, the market has developed a very unsatisfactory attitude, in fact, the disposition now manifested by packers and Eastern buyers, has been to take advantage of every little lee-way offered. Dry weather in many sections in the North has forced in a liberal run and this, in connection with the usual supply from Southern States, has created a surplus of stock right along and naturally, the opportunity of any activity in the market was lessened to the most material extent.

At this time there is no particular encouragement that can be offered for the better, in fact, it is rather what might be termed a dry weather proposition, and the drouth continuing in the Northern States is likely to cause a further depression in values, and viewing the situation from this standpoint, the safest plan suggests in itself at this moment is, that where cattle are ready for the market, and it was the intention of the owner to ship within the next thirty to sixty days, to let them come, for prices could be considerably worse than what they are. Good general rains would help some, for it would mean the opening up of the avenues of outlet through feeder sources for a considerable portion of the receipts, which in reality, are suitable for that purpose, but which are being forced through a killer outlet, owing to the reasons as set forth.

Killing Cattle—Choice to prime steers, $6.75 to $7.25; good to choice grass steers, $6.75 to $6.75; medium to good grass steers, $5.50 to $6; common to medium grass steers, $5 to $5.50; Canners, $4 to $4.15; cutters, $4.40 to $4.85; medium cows, $5 to $5.50, with fat cows at $5.50 to $6. Light-weight buls, 4.50 to $5; heavy buls, $5 to 5.75; yearlings, $4.50 to $4.75; heretics, $5.50 to $6; light veal calves, $6 to $10.

Stock Cattle (tick free)—Good to choice quality thin steers, $6 to $6.50; medium to good, $5.25 to $5.75; common to medium, $5 to $5.25, with good quality stock heifers, $5 to $6.

At times during the past week, the hog situation has displayed very erratic tendencies, this especially so during the past week, when the market went down to a $9.85 basis, which is fully 25c. per cwt. lower than two weeks ago. The fact is, however, that in spite of these flare-ups, the market, as a rule, has had a pretty good undercurrent generally, and strength has always folowed any break, this being especially noticeable yesterday and today, with today's market 25c. higher with a top of $10 being realized by us for some prime Missouri swine. The bulk of the good hogs weighing 170 pounds and up sold at $9.75 to $10; roughs, $9.35 to $9.50; 140 t 170-pound hogs, $9,35 to $9.70; pigs, from peewees on up to 140-pound weights, bringing $8.50 to $9.40.

HOG WALLOWS

Some farmers favor hog wallows; others are strongly opposed to them. Filthy hog wallows are a source of danger. Hogs wallowing in or drinking contaminated water are likely to contract disease. However there are many advantages to be derived from wallows. A cool bath is very soothing to a hog during the hot weather. It cleans the scurf from the skin and protects the hogs from flies. Crude oil sufficient to form a thin layer on top of the water may be poured into the wallow about every ten days. This will tend to keep the hogs free from lice and other skin parasites. If the skin becomes irritated from the oil, its use should be discontinued. Small quantities of coal tar dip are sometimes added to the water in hog wallows, but there is an element of danger in this practice, as poisoning may result from the absorption of phenols by hogs which lie in the wallow more or less continuously.

On some of the larger hog farms concrete wallows are becoming popular. The cement hog wallow should be located in a sandy place and made so as to contain from 8 to 10 inches of water. A 2-inch drain pipe, as recommended for the dipping vat, should be placed in the bottom of the wallow to permit its being cleaned out

Largest Machinery and Mill Supply House In the South

Offering to Farmers

Complete International Harvester Line farm machinery.
Celebrated Case Threshing Machines
Benthall Peanut Picker, the best peanut picker made.
Gasoline and Kerosene Engines and famous Mogul Tractors.
Dairy Outfits—stalls and stanchions barn door hangers, etc.
McKay Disc Plow and Subsoiler, best plow made.
Oliver Engine Gang Plows.
Sprayers and spraying equipment.
Sawmill Machinery—engines, boilers and all equipment.
Feed Mills, including well-known Williams Crusher.
Fresh Water Supply Systems and Fire Extinguishers.
Corn Mills, including the famous Meadows Mills.
Full line Pumps and Compressors.
Belting, Pipe and pipe fittings.
Valves, Boiler Tubes, Bolts, Cap and Set Screws.
Ford parts and all Automobile accessories.
Roofing and Roof paints.
Pulleys and Shafting.
Veneer machinery. Will supply plans and furnish and install complete our patented equipment.
Special draughtsmen's department for making plans for Saw Mills, Feed Mills, Veneer Plants, Water Works Systems and Lighting Plants.
Special Machinery Repair Department.

"For Service and Quick Shipments"

Call, Write, Wire or Phone

Alabama Machinery & Supply Co.

Montgomery, Ala.

RAILROAD WAGES

Shall they be determined by Industrial Warfare or Federal Inquiry?

To the American Public:

Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare?

The train employes on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enfore their demands for a 100 million dollar wage increase.

The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employes is in the public service—your service.

You pay for rail transportation 3 billion dollars a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employes.

On all the Southern railroads in 1915, seventy-five per cent of the train employes earned these wages (lowest, highest and average of all) as shown by the payrolls—

	Passenger		Freight		Yard
	Range	Average	Range	Average	Range	Average
Engineers	$1972 3810	$2306	$1455 3505	$1916	$1156 2424	$1566
Conductors	1552 2696		1353 2358	1580	1055 1749	1245
Firemen	943 1652	1209	649 1638	979	406 1302	777
Brakemen	957 1736	1109	755 1854	958	754 1405	990

The average yearly wage payments to all Southern train employes (including those who worked only part of the year) as shown by the 1915 payrolls were—

	Passenger	Freight	Yard
Engineers	$2144	$1712	$1313
Conductors	1723	1488	1157
Firemen	1096	865	688
Brakemen	1013	845	868

A 100 million dollar wage increase for men in freight and yard service (less than one-fifth of all employes) is equal to a 5 per cent advance in all freight rates.

The managers of the railroads, as trustees for the public, have no right to place this burden on the cost of transportation to you without a clear mandate from a public tribunal speaking for you.

The railroads have proposed the settlement of this controversy either under the existing national arbitration law, or by reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This offer has been refused by the employes' representatives.

Shall a nation-wide strike or an investigation under the Government determine this issue?

National Conference Committee of the Railways

ELISHA LEE, Chairman.
P. R. ALBRIGHT, Gen'l Manager, Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.
L. W. BALDWIN, Gen'l Manager, Central of Georgia Railway.
C. L. BARDO, Gen'l Manager, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.
E. H. COAPMAN, Vice-President, Southern Railway.
S. E. COTTER, Gen'l Manager, Wabash Railway.
P. E. CROWLEY, Asst. Vice-President, New York Central Railroad.
G. H. EMERSON, Gen'l Manager, Great Northern Railway.
C. H. EWING, Gen'l Manager, Philadelphia & Reading Railway.
E. W. GRICE, Asst. to President, Chesapeake & Ohio Railway.
A. S. GREIG, Asst. to Receivers, St Louis & San Francisco Railroad.
C. W. KOUNS, Gen'l Manager, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway.
H. W. McMaster, Gen'l Manager, Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad.
N. D. MAHER, Vice-President, Norfolk and Western Railway.
JAMES RUSSELL, Gen'l Manager, Denver & Rio Grande Railroad.
A. M. SCHOYER, Resident Vice-Pres., Pennsylvania Lines West.
W. L. SEDDON, Vice-President, Seaboard Air Line Railway.
A. J. STONE, Vice-President, Erie Railroad.
G. S. WAID, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l Manager, Sunset Central Lines.

Mor'gage has been shunted—
Wiped it all away!
Bless me! life is pleasant
On the farm to-day.

How Farmer "Grew" Into Hog Raising

We have so often heard it said that a farmer should not "go" into stock raising but should "grow" into it.

We have one farmer in Bibb county who for ten years bought two well bred pigs at the beginning of each year. Out of them he made plenty of meat and lard for his family of six. Two years ago he concluded that if he could raise two fine pigs he might raise more. So he tried a young Berkshire sow with six pigs. The result was that at the age of ten to eleven months those pigs dressed from 215 to 265 pounds each.

They ran on Bermuda grass and were fed the scraps from the garden, barn and kitchen. Now this same farmer is enlarging his Bermuda pasture. He has two sows with good pigs this year and he expects to have six sows on pasture next year.

A good many of our farmers can do what this farmer is doing. First you must have an eye to good Bermuda pasture. But you need not wait until you have established a good sized pasture—you can go ahead and increase the pasture as your hogs increase.

Six sows with six pigs each well fed and cared for twelve months should net 200 pounds of pork each. With thirty-six pigs this would make 7,200 pounds of pork. Now 7,200 pounds of pork at eight cents a pound would bring $576 which would about equal ten bales of cotton at present prices.

BLACK BELT FARMS IN DALLAS COUNTY

You will find your opportunity on a Dallas County Farm.

E. E. SECOR

Selma, Alabama.

REGISTERED JERSEY BULLS

For the next 30 days I'm going to offer magnificent sons, ready for service, of Flying Fox's Rebel No. 77917, a Register of Merit Son of the $7,500 Ch. Flying Fox, at greatly reduced prices. Have about twenty from which to select. Best bargains first, so get prices early, and state in your letter how much you can pay, that I may describe the bulls of that class.

S. J. Wallace, Starkville, Miss.

Alabama Products Co.

The Farmers Exchange

115 Coosa Street Montgomery, Ala.

We make it our business to find you a market for anything you may have to sell. Farm products, beef and milk cattle, hogs, pork and stock, sheep, goats, etc.

Drain Your Land Now and Double Your Crop

We make a specialty of this and can supply maps and make surveys of your land. Write us for expert information, or call to see us.

THE GRABLE DRAINAGE COMPANY

321 Bell Bldg. Montgomery, Ala.

Just received a car of "Lookout Mountain Seed Potatoes."

Now is the time to plant your second crop.

M. P. WILCOX

Wholesale Produce and Commission

We Buy and Sell—Quality First.

214-216 North Court St., Montgomery, Alabama.

The Best Gravel——

Washed and Screened Sand and Gravel for Concrete Silos and Tanks and all kinds of concrete work. Prices right.

Cook & Laurie Gravel Co.

14 COOSA ST. MONTGOMERY, ALA.

Good Salesman Wanted To Sell Our Fruit Trees

Best terms known to the Nursery World. Steady employment good money made selling our excellent stock. Satisfaction guaranteed. The chance of a lifetime for Hustlers—none other need apply.

Cedar Hill Nursery and Orchard Co.

WINCHESTER, TENN.

You Can Make Good Money

Write me for particulars regarding my proposition. NO CAPITAL REQUIRED. INFORMATION WITHOUT OBLIGATION.

Our Perfect Protection Policy Guarantees Big Income to Live Agents.

FLOYD B. POWELL,

AGENCY MANAGER.

BELL BUILDING, MONTGOMERY, ALA.

PAINT UP NOW

With Sherwin-Williams

High Grade Paints

Best for Homes, Porches, Halls, Barns, Fences, Sheds

For Interior Work S W P Flat Tone

DURR DRUG CO.

Montgomery, Alabama

Fair Week

Now is the time to be thinking about it and getting your stock in "show shape." This will be Alabama's greatest livestock year. Our bank has fostered livestock raising and diversification from the start; we aim to be a real aid to our farmers.

Autauga Banking & Trust Co.

Prattville, Alabama

C. E. Thomas, President — R. L. Faucett, Vice-Pres.

C. G. Smith, Cashier — M. A. Graham, Vice-Pres.

Devon Cattle, One of Oldest and Hardiest Breeds In America

Devons are one of the oldest breeds of cattle. They were introduced into this country at an early date and became popular in New England and in parts of Virginia nearly a century ago The cows were good milkers, and the steers were used as work oxen or for beef, and filled either place admirably. They are exceedingly good rustlers, are vigorous, hardy, withstand both heat and cold well and are very prepotent. They are slower of growth than any of the beef breeds except the Galloway. Their endurance intelligence, an dtheir gamesness have made them popular as work oxen wherever they have been tried—no breed excels them in this respect.

In size they are somewhat smaller than the Red Polled, mature bulls weighing from 1,500 to 2,000 and cows from 1,100 to 1,400 pounds or more. They are solid red in color, white being permitted only on the udder, or near the scotum of the male, and on the switch of the tail. The shade of red varies, but a rich bright red is preferrd In conformation the Devons incline more to the beef type than to the dual-purpose type. They are close coupled, very compact, smooth, and rank high in quality and style. They have small bone, which is hard and compact, giving a slender, fine leg.

The head is lean, clean-cut of medium length, and surmounted by rather long white or waxy horns, which curve upward, forard, outward and backward in the cow and are almost straight in the bull. The horns of the steers are large, long, and often widespread, usually being very white or waxy, with dark tips The neck is medium in length, smooth, and blends nicely with the shoulder. The body is compact, fairly well covered with flesh, has well sprung, deep ribs, and is usually low set. The chest, back loin, and hindquarter are usually well developed, though the flank and twist are usually somewhat higher than in the beef breeds. The cows are fair to good milkers, giving rich milk, and always provide an abundance to produce a good calf. The steers fatten somewhat slower than the beef breeds but produce meat fine in texture and of good quality. The breed can not be surpassed as grazers, but they are usually slower in growth than the beef breeds, and this alone can account for the fact that they have never become popular throughout the country. In New England, in parts of the South, and in a few other States the Devon has proved profitable, especially on lands where the grading was rather scant or of poor quality. They are prepotent; good calves are produced when good bulls are mated with common cows and such calves usually make fair milkers. The Devon does not now hold a high rank among the breeds of the United States; since the ox has lost in popularity as a draft animal the Devon has become less popular.

Brahman or "Indian" Cattle

Under the names of Brahman, "Indian," or Zebu cattle are classified a number of different strains of cattle of the species. Some of these strains vary so in type, color, size, and habitat that they are classified as separate breeds. The most important breeds of these cattle are the Krishna Valley and Hissar breeds. These cattle are classed as dual-purpose animals, and many of the females give a good quantity of milk. They are used quite generally in India as milch cows, and are more satisfactory than any other breed of cattle under the severe conditions of drought, heat, insect enemies, etc.

As these cattle have been raised for more than 3,000 years in a hot climate they are only suitable for the extreme southern portions of this country. Although they are of a different species from our common breeds of cattle, they cross readily with them. The females of this breed carry their calves somewhat longer than other cattle the period of gestation being about 300 days.

The oil secreted by the sebaceous glands of the skin is of a peculiar odor and gives the skin a soft, oily feeling. This pecularity, combined with the scant covering of hair and the extremely tough hide, affords these animals considerable protection from ticks mosquitoes, screw worms, etc. Cattle ticks do not bother the purebred cattle at all, and few of the half breeds become infested to any appreciable extent.

These cattle stand the heat well and have great endurance, moving readily in a fast walk or trot. They make the best of work steers if handled constantly by one driver, but they have a nervous disposition and give considerable trouble where the drivers are frequently changed. They are more nervous than any of our breeds of cattle. When raised in small herds and handled constantly they are quite docile, but if handled under range conditions they become very wild and stampede or fight readily. The quality of the beef from these animals or from grade Brahmans is slightly inferior to that of either the beef breeds or the dual purpose cattle, but they dress out a high percentage of meat. For extreme southern Texas and the land adjacent to the Gulf coast in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and Florida, where the ticks, mosquitoes, and screw worms are prevalent, these cattle may prove very valuable for crossing with the native cattle.

In size the bulls range from 1,500 to 1,800 pounds, and many of them attain a height of six feet, while the cows usually weigh from 1,100 to 1,400 pounds. The various strains of these cattle have different colors, although each strain has a fixed color. The color are pure white or a creamy white, silvery gray, red and dark brown approaching black. The silver grav, with dark fawn on shoulders and neck, and the creamy white are the most popular colors. Many of the animals have brindle stripes on the body.

The chief characteristics of the breed are the large hump on the withers, the large folds of skin forming the dewlap and the navel and the long, drooping pendulous ears. The head is also characteristic of this breed, as it is long, with a forehead which recedes from the eyes to the horns, while the bones forming the brow are prominent. The head tapers gradually from the eyes to the nostrils, the horns are dark, short, straight, heavy at the base and point upward and backward The ears are very long, drooping, and are thin and oily, frequently being almost devoid of hair. The eye is mild sleepy, but changes quickly when the animal is aroused. The neck is of medium length and has heavy folds of skins forming an overdeveloped dewlap with fullness at the throttle. The body is deep but rather narrow, the hips are long, sloping, and narrow and the rump often droops toward the tail The legs are long, tapering and show a strong bone free from coarseness. A very heavy sheath is develoed and in old bulls often hangs nine inches or more below the belly. The hump is large in the males, attaining a height of 12 to 16 inches, but is not so well developed in the females. The half-bred males may have a moderately developed hump, but the half-bred females have none. Animals which contain as little as one-sixteenth Brahman blood usually show some Brahman characteristics, especially in the shape of the head and the loose folds of skin forming dewlap and navel.

See What Escambia, "Timber County," Does In Farming

Escambia county, Alabama, is by no means asleep agriculturally, notwithstanding the fact she seldom speaks.

The people of this progressive county have recently waked up to the fact that not all the county's resources are contained in its forests of long leaf pine. Though an immense amount of wealth is still tied up in the vast stretches of timbered land, yet a greater wealth is being uncovered in the sections from which the giant pines have been taken. Numbers of new farms have been taken in during the past year, and a still greater number will respond to the call of the plow for the first time next year.

The T. R. Miller Mill Company of Brewton, one of the largest lumber companies in the South, has converted several hundred acres of its cut over land into farms. On these farms corn, velvet beans, and peanuts are grown and on these crops hundreds of cattle and hogs are carried through the winter. Last winter this company alone bought twenty head of registered Shorthorn and Hereford cattle with which to grade up their native stock. In addition to this practically every member of the company is running a farm individually, and these promise to be model farms within a very few years. John Miller, vice-president of the company, bought at a handsome price the locally famous "Dogwood" farm ,and has erected on it a model farm home equipped with its own water system and other modern conveniences. Under the foremanship of Bob Clements this farm has the most promising corn and velvet bean crop to be found in the county. This farm is being stocked with the best Duroc Jersey hogs to be found and doubtless in a few years will be known as a Duroc Farm.

W. T. Neal, superintendent of the lumber yards, is operating a large farm five miles from Brewton under the foremanship of W. F. Kedenberg, and this also is being made a model farm. Mr. Neal recently installed water works on the place, and is now preparing to build a silo. Last winter he bought a fine herd of young Jersey cattle which will be a source of revenue in the near future. He also has an excellent herd of Duroc Jersey hogs, He has a traction engine, potato digger, stump puller, cultivator, disc harrow and other modern farm machinery. With such farms as these around Brewton this little town will in the future be known for its progressiveness in agriculture, as well as for its wealth and fine timber.

The farmers all over the county are realizing the opportunities in the hog business and are therefore taking much more interest in that line of farming than ever before. Within the past week two carloads of hogs have gone out of the county to the packing house at Andalusia. At a sale in Brewton last March, Elmer R. Sly sold 70 registered Duroc Jersey hogs. This shows that hog raising in Escambia county is coming to the front.

Hog cholera has been a great drawback to the hog business in the past, but the farmers are learning to overcome this by vaccination and sanitary means of control, which is being taught them by the farm demonstration agent, J. E. Moses. He has vaccinated nearly two thousand hogs within the past year in practically every section of the county. He has also taught several farmers how to use the serum and they are doing the work themselves.

The boys and girls in the county are making quite a show in the club work. There are 218 pig club and 106 corn club members in the county. These energetic young fellows will be seen and heard later on. Ninety girls under the efficient leadership of the Canning Club Agent, Miss Lucile Carter, are making their presence known by their works, and by their demand for a car load of tin cans in which to put up the products from their tenth-acre plats. These cans have already been ordered and are now ready for delivery to the girls. No greater assurance of the future progress of the county along agricultural lines can be had than to see the boys and girls taking such interest in their various farm life clubs. They are going to revolutionize agriculture.

Lard and Bacon Types In the South

I have lived in the South all of my life and have studied the conditions quite a good deal, and I believe it is time for the Southern farmer to go strong for hogs and diversified farming. The amount of money the South spends on hog products from hogs raised in the North on land with prices from $200 to $400 per acre is almost beyond belief, and yet Southern people who ought to know tell me of raising hogs in the South at from 2 cents to 4 cents per pound and at a time when the market has been 9 to 11 cents per pound.

What Type?

It seems a wonderfully good time to get busy and I believe many farmers will, but with what kind of a hog? Any pure bred hog looks like a wonder to the great majority of Southerners who have not had the opportunity to see stock as are shown at such large state fairs as Michigan Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Memphis Tri-State, or last but not least our own great fair at Shreveport, and any hog they see is a good hog and a great advancement on what they have generally in the South, but perhaps some kinds of hogs are better than others and are better adapted to the South than others.

Lard and Bacon Hogs.

Let's see. Now, generally speaking there are two kinds of hogs with many kinds of each. The lard hog and the bacon hog. The extreme blocky lard hog is naturally very fat, and to get fat feed should be taken to the hog, as exercise is not conducive to producing fat, and the shape of the jaw of such animals is not such as to make them pasture feeders. Now, should you in a hot country, with an abundance of pasture, try to raise these "dump" lard hogs Of course, fat animals are not as good breeders as lean ones and are more liable to sickness. Then there are the ham and bacon hogs, not the slim bacon hog, but larger deeper a little taller than the dump lard hog, and with jaws made to pick their own living on pasture, and with the finest quality of meat streaked with lean and fat, and the lard they make is of the very highest quality. These are the hogs of the big litters and quality of product that has made the ham of the old United States famous.

The greatest success from a meat standpoint that I know of has been made by a large Southern planter who started with a few large Duroc Jersey hogs (sometimes down here called the red hog,) and now has so many he is thinking of enlarging his herd and putting up a packing plant. My advice is to get a pure bred herd, grade up your common stock and in a year or two you won't know your place, and your bank account ought to begin to look good.

Common Sense Rules.

Any animal responds to good care and treatment and the hog certainly will; that means good water, and plenty of it; good feed, good barns, shady places to rest in and a dip to keep insects off. No animal puts on flesh if it spends its time scratching and rubbing day and night.

I began in February, 1914, with 23 sows and one boar and today have a utility and show herd of 450 head. I took 100 prices with my show herd in six fairs in 1915, and a great majority of these ribbons were won by animals farrowed and raised at home here. Why can't you do this? Dear friend, you can if you follow this motto: "You do the rooting and let the hogs enjoy life," instead of the old motto: "Root hog, or die."

—Evan J. McCall.

One fellow says that the only thing that is the matter with us is that we would like to make a pig's squeal the national anthem.

Don't fail to boil drinking water if there is any suspicion attached to it.

No matter about the Mexicans, it's the war on flies, boll weevils and mosquitoes.

A married man tells us that he would be optimistic, too, if he were a bachelor.

At last Alabama has got one non-political issue to vote on—the local-taxation-for-schools amendment. There is hope for us yet.

CONIFER LUMBER COMPANY Long Leaf Yellow Pine

Lumber, Laths Shingles, Flooring, Ceiling, Siding, Finish Timbers.

All kinds and grades Heart Lumber. Quick Service. Phone 1315.

Retail Yard N. Court St., Montgomery, Ala.

DO IT TODAY

Farmers and Stock Raisers should keep in close touch with the markets. If you would be well informed as to LIVE STOCK PRICES on the most important live stock market south of the Ohio river, subscribe for

Bourbon Stock Journal

Published tri-weekly, price $1.00 per year.

Write William A. Burnett, Editor, Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, Ky.

Tile Drainage Means Better Crops

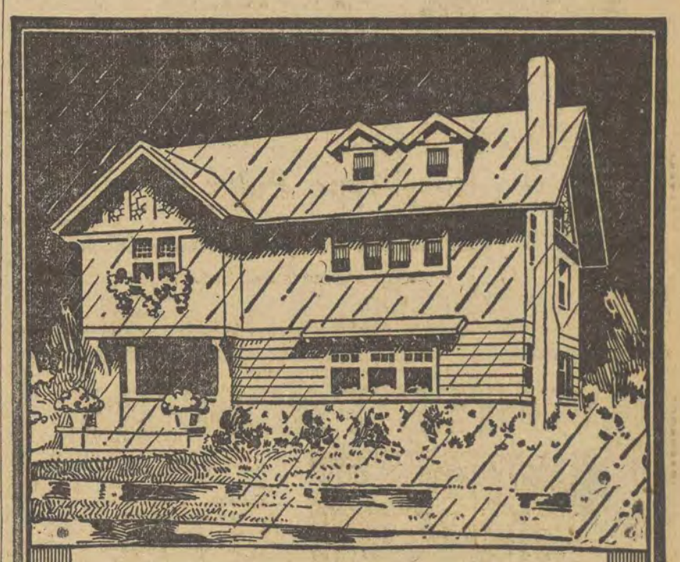
Properly tiled under-drainage removes quickly the excess water and enlarges the root zone, creating and making available a larger storage capacity for moisture needed in a long drouth.

LET US TELL YOU MORE ABOUT PROPER DRAINAGE.

Jenkins Brick Company

Montgomery, Alabama

The Safe Bank
The Courteous
The Growing Bank



We offer depositors absolute safety, courteous and thoughtful service, and progressive management.

We are gaining new friends constantly and we want you numbered among them. Call or write us and let us help you in getting started with a checking account or a savings account.

The New Farley National Bank

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA

4 Per Cent On Savings Accounts

Your Buildings Need Weather-Protection

Weather soon destroys ordinary hand-mixed or cheap paint—but

Lowe Brothers HIGH STANDARD LIQUID · PAINT

wears for years. You can apply it with the knowledge that it will cling to the wood in perfectly protecting coats, hold its color, withstand the weather for years, fail only by gradual wear and leave a good surface for repainting. "High Standard" is the paint of known results—you are not taking chances when you specify it.

Ask for booklet telling how to avoid unnecessary failure and get best results in your painting.

G. W. Barnett Hardware Co.

Montgomery, Alabama

W. D. SCOTT
LIVESTOCK AUCTIONEER
Sales Conducted Anywhere
ARLINGTON, GA.

FREE TO KODAKERS

Send us one roll films, we will develop and print it free just to show you how much better our work is than the other fellow's. Expert on films. THE KODAK MAN BOYLE. 164 Dauphin St., Mobile, Ala.

to go through life in such a condition. In the 41 years we have been established, we have relieved hundreds of little sufferers, with disease of the Spine, Hip Joints and other afflictions. Many remarkable cures of Club Feet and Infantile Paralysis. Write for catalog.
NATIONAL SURGICAL INSTITUTE,
72 S. Pryor St. Atlanta, Ga.

The only way anybody ought to get anything in this world is to work for it.

How We Got Started with Live Stock

I wish that I were a writer for I would like to tell you what I have seen Talladega county, Alabama, do in the last seven years that I have been her county agent.

When I went into the fields in September, 1909, I noticed as I had never noticed before (though I had been in the county for 19 years) that our farmers were growing little else but cotton and that not very profitably. So the first thing to start in with them was to induce them to grow more cotton per acre. So this gave place to growing more corn. Next was to get more corn and cotton on an acre and that gave place for small grain.

So in that way we got crop rotation started and that gave more humus to the soil and of course that helped everything so much that we got a little place where we could put in some more food crops and some livestock. Now that we were thinking of livestock we became interested more than ever before in profits, for we had not known much of profits up to this time. To grow livestock to get the most profit, pasture had to be added. So as we studied pasturage we found that the legumes made the best winter pasture and improved our soils by keeping them from leaching and washing and that the legumes stored up nitrogen in the soil.

Quite a few of our farmers have progressed along these lines and are doing some mighty good things that I will tell you about later.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

Why Will You Suffer With Pellagra Rheumatism or Indigestion?
SULFERRO-SOL Never Fails
At all druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of $1.00
THE SUL-FERRO-SOL CO.
Birmingham, Ala.

If interested write us today for a FREE SAMPLE of that good

LO-MO-CO BRAND

Pure Food Products

composed of canned fruits, vegetables and condiments. If your dealer can't supply you, send us his name. Lo-mo-co means best by test.

Lobman, Moog & Co.
Montgomery, Ala.

To Farmers of Boll Weevil Sections:-

THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG will do effective and rapid work in brushing to the ground boll weevils and punctured squares.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is a strong, practical and economical device for getting rid of the most weevils in the QUICKEST TIME and the CHEAPEST WAY. It is used and highly recommended by some of the most successful farmers in Mississippi and Alabama.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is the best device known for the use of tenant farmers in fighting the weevil.

THE DRAG DESCRIBED

The Drag is a steel rod that holds a light durable chain, the rod and chain being attached to the beam of the plow stock with a casting arranged so as to be adjustable to the size of plants at the time for plowing. The rod is placed at an angle to the beam and as the plow proceeds down the row the rod bends down the plant over towards the middle between the rows and the chain agitates the plant sufficiently to cause the Weevil and infested squares to fall off into the middle of the row. The attachment is reversible as well as adjustable, up and down, and can be used on either right or left side of the plow below or above the beam.

We do not desire to create the impression among farmers that any device will prevent all the damage the weevil usually causes, unless the approved measures for control be carefully followed.
Write us so we can take care of your order before the growing season starts.

Robinson-Erhart Co. Selma, Ala.

WHITE FARMERS ON SMALL FARMS

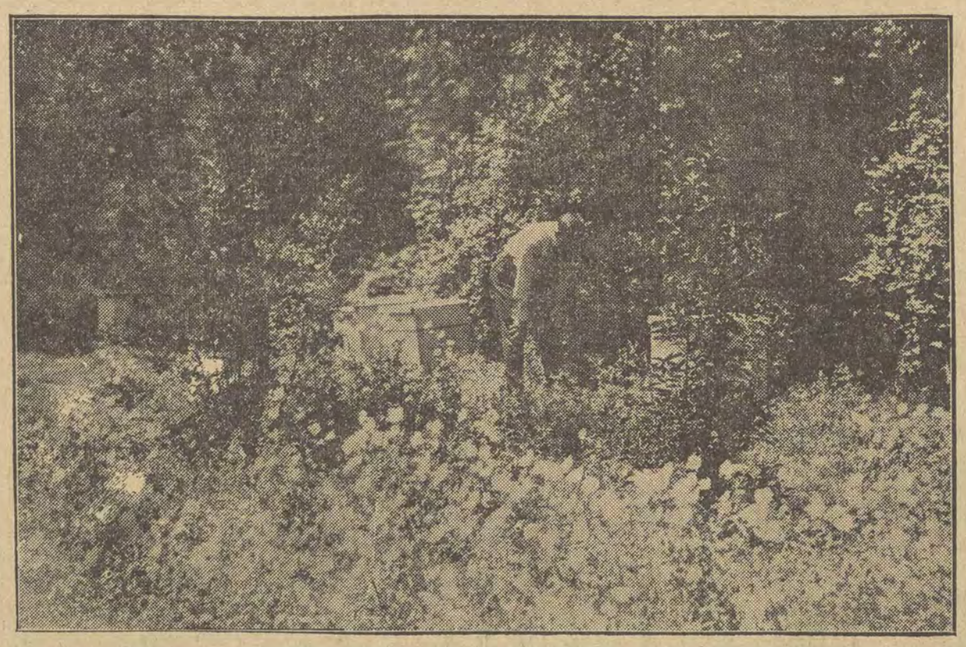
Have Made Covington County the Most Progressive In Alabama

The farmers in Covington County have gotten out of debt. White farmers raising corn, cattle and hogs on small farms are the answer. Covington County not only raises enough to feed itself, but ships out thousands of dollars worth. Of course Covington County has grown faster than any county in Alabama. Things are going to be even better. The most modern packing plant in the South is just being completed at Andalusia, which will take care of all the cattle, hogs and poultry that can be produced.



All we need now in Covington County is more people. That's why we want you. That's why we will sell you 20 to 40 acres of cut over land and give you

10 to 20 Years to Pay For Your Farm

This is an opportunity you can't afford to neglect. At least write us for full information.

WAITS REALTY CO.
ANDALUSIA, ALABAMA

"Profits in Bees" and "Diseases of Bees"

Beehives at Morningview, the Lovely Farm of M. B. Houghton in Central Alabama Where the Melilotus Grows.

These two most helpful articles are by S. E. Wasson our Bee Editor. The writer understands bees and loves them and it is his aim to bring about a greater appreciation of bees in the Central South and a better knowledge of the successful methods of handling these wonderful little creatures. If you have any questions you want to ask about bees just write to S. E. Wasson, Bee Editor Farm and Immigration, Montgomery Alabama

Profit in Bee-Keeping

Bee-keeping will pay. It is not unlike any other industry. It will not invariably yield big returns at no cost or trouble. But if it is intelligently pursued there is a good return for the investment and labor. This is true of every business. In most business bee-keeping will necessarily be a small side issue. Very few who read these lines will attempt to launch into this business on a large and exclusive scale. Whoever does that would better first make a careful study of the many features of the business and makes sure that every cost has ben counted. These papers are written in the hope that the vast army of the common folk, the mulitude of small farmers, may awaken to the possibilities that are offered to even the humblest among them, and that there may be a growing vision of a better and more diversified activity on the farm.

Lure Of The Farm

The future of the farm presents a strange lure to the ambitious and energetic. The monotonous round of sameness will be broken, and the charm of beautiful variety will hold sway in that center of life and usefulness in the near future. One crop, nor two crops, nor even three crops, will not count the number of agricultural efforts which shall engage the thoughtful and scientific efforts of the farmers of tomorrow. I venture to anticipate that the agricultural attentions of the very near future will be the most scientific and skillful of all the labors done by toilers of our great country.

An Absurd Spectacle

The threadbare custom of witnessing the absurd spectable of an army of country people depending upon the labor of a few months of the year to pay for the farm, provide food and clothing, and meet the usual incidental of the family, will pass away rapidly. The Agricultural and Mechanical college and the Vocational school aided by the Farmers' institutes and the state and county fairs guarantee that. Intelligent and independent farmers will find work for every day in the year.

Not only will there be an increase in the number of days that farm activity is thoughtfully and purposefully done, but there will also attend the fact of variety in the efforts and aims and ends.

Day Is Coming

Cotton will ever be the chief article of agricultural attention in the south, but corn will rise very soon to its place as a fit and necessary companion of cotton. Wheat and oats will add to the garner of grain and provender a rich store. Peas, peanuts, velvet beans, soy beans, alfalfa and clover will each come along for a share in the appreciation and effort of the future farmer. Where all these are there will be an improved quality of cattle, horses, mules and hogs. The finest field for skillful intelligence to exploit is the southern farm. It will reward the toiler with generous returns. That will be a blessed day when the farmer finds his final emancipation from the hay fields and grain fields of the west and the packing houses of the north. It is coming.

Then The Bees

Such variety in agricultural pursuits will not be satisfied to stop just there. Greater variety will follow. The farm of the future will be the breding place of horses, mules, cattle, sheep, hogs, goats and fowls of many varieties. The farmer's wife of the future will make the world wonder at the results of her attention to poultry and other features of domestic industry.

Not less than many of these will be the rewards of the small apiary. Bees can be kept at such a small cost that nearly every farm yard will have its colony of colonies.

Cost Is Small

The initial cost is insignificant. The time which the bees demand is very little. A single colony ought to yield twenty-five poundws of honey, and a new swarm each year. Some years it will do better than that. The approximate cost of the single colony will be around $7.50.

The twenty-five pounds of comb honey is worth at least $3,75, and the new swarm is worth about $5.00. So here is a prospect of the colony paying for itself during the first year. The second year the keeper begins with two colonies. He may legitimately expect fifty pounds of comb honey and two new swarms this year. That is $7.50 worth of honey and $10 worth of new bees. An additional expense of $5 will house these new swarms.

Love And Interest

The amount of labor actually involved in this amount of bee-keeping is too small to reckon more than a small recreation.

It must not be inferred that I am urging that any member of the family can with certainty of success undertake this new domestic endeavor. An interest in it, a determination to succeed, even a love for it, will make the whole undertaking more a certainty. But to go at it indifferently, indolently trusting to luck and the industry of the bee spells failure.

Women Good Bee Keepers

Sometimes the housewife has taken over the bees and women do make good bee-keepers. But a nervous and excitable creature will more than likely meet many a stinging rebuff. In spite of the common notion that a woman can only cook, wash, sew, churn and sweep, a great many are doing great and worthy things in the world's life of activity today.

A small orchard, a few chickens and turkeys, and small apiary would give many an industrious woman a livelihood far more worth while than the unendurable monotony and terrible strain of the office or the store.

Fault In Handling

Where there is not some profit from the bees you may be sure that the fault is in the handling. It is not an exaggeration to expect, as I indicate above, a profit of from $5.00 to $7.50 a year on a colony. Occasionally the conditions might render it less, but on the average I believe it would be more in any well-regulated bee-yard.

Diseases of Bee

Fortunately bees are liable to few disorders.

However there are sufficient troubles to call forth the best thought and effort the keeper has in him. Intelligent attention is importaut. Careless handling, neglect, lack of information, will soon give the bee-keeper weak, diseased, worthless, dying bees. No use to imagine that all you have to do is buy the colony, set out the hive, take honey when you want it, and never pay any attention to it at other times. Such thought is folly. Bee-keeping demands a certain amount of attention, thought, planning, and assistance to the willing servants in the hive. But we here are to talk about the diseases to which bees are subject. Very well, here they are:

Bee Paralysis

1. Southern climates sometimes bring on a disease known as Bee-Paralysis. The disease is also called constipation. It may be detected in the very early spring, after severe cold, and when food supplies have run low. The bees will be seen crawling about the entrance to the hive, their bodies strutted, a bit laggard in their movements, restless, but not spirited. Sometimes the healthy bees will show signs of trying to drag these sick bees out of the hive. Some bees will die. Many perhaps will be found dead below the entrance board. The disease is rarely very serious. But it may be cause for much anxiety to the novice. An early examination of such hives is good. Clear out the refuse in short, put the hive in clean and proper shape, and feed the bees if they are short of honey.

The Bee Moth

2. The Bee Moth is probably the most serious trouble that will challenge the courage and judgment of the young keeper. I known the more rarely ever attacks a strong colony. But the inexperienced keeper will not know every time what constitutes a strong colony. It is practically certain that every beginner in bee-keeping in the South will encounter the moth. This enemy of the bee is a most serious ill in the hive. The work of the moth is done very quickly. The moth fly resembles the candle fly, a small, dull colored little flitting creature, very sly, cunning, and not the least threatening in either manner or looks. Late in the evening is the time of her greater activity She flits about the hive, making short quick flights, and slips into the hive at the entrance, or by some side opening, and in a very few moments has deposited many eggs in cracks, rough places on the inside of the hive, or in corners of hive or frame. These soon hatch out a soft, white worm, which quickly The worm eats into the comb, webs The worm eats into the comb, wags the path, kills the young, distresses the workers, and despoils the whole brood frame. In an incredibly short time the entire colony may be dead. Remember that strong colonies are practically immune. But every weak colony is a likely prey to the moth. Remember also that Italian bees are far less likely to suffer ill at the hands of the moth than any other bee.

How can you get rid of the moth? Watch the hives with a constant regularity in early spring, until you are sure they are all strong. Take out every brood frame. Be sure that there are no moth-worms stuck away in any crevices or corners. Keep every sign of egg, or co-coon cleared out. If you find the worms, kill every one, scrape all the refuse out of the hive, run a knife-blade into joints, cracks, and splits in the hive, bottom, cover and walls. If the combs are badly webbed cut them out and burn them. Be sure to cleanse the hive, every part of it, top and bottom. Better even singe its parts in the flames of burning straw, or some light tinder. Here again,—"Eternal vigilance is the price of success."

Farmer Made a Nice Sum From Sheep

Just to show you how things improve in a banking and business way in a growing livestock country, J. D Norwood a banker of Demopolis Ala., is authority for the following statement:

"Early last fall Mr. Charles Ford one of our new comers from Kentucky came into the bank and said if we would put up the money he would buy 100 head of native sheep to try his hand to see how it would pay. We cheerfully loaned Mr Ford $360. He was in the bank recently, deposited a check for $633, saying this was the money he had just received for his crop spring lambs and wool; that he had 100 of ewes, 2 rams and three or four lambs left out of his $360 original purchase of 100 head.

The deposits in one week in one bank in Demopolis from the sale of sheep and lambs, wool, alfalfa hay Johnson grass hay, hogs and cattle amounted to the sum of $15,769.52.

Demopolis is in a country where the people are turning to sheep raising and wool production, growing alfalfa hay for sale and for feeding, building up beef cattle herds and also dairy herds, and raising a good many fine hogs.

There are setbacks and difficulties in a livestock section as in every section of this old globe of ours, but in a progressive livestock section bank deposits increase from year to year, business continues to grow pretty regularly and farm lands become more productive and consequently increase in value.

ABOUT THE HOUSE

Something strange about the house,
Something wrong with things today;
Something lonesome and so still—
Always so when she's away
Always different when she's gone,
Always something odd and queer
In the rooms and in the hall
When the lady is not here!
Lord, we think sometimes that we
Woudn't miss them much, you know;
So' we answer, frank and free,
That we guess we'll let them go.
Something different round the place
Something strange with everything—
Ah, her little ways of grace,
Nothing now to make us sing.!
Something odd where'er we turn,
Something lonesome in the air;
How we hunger and we yearn
When the lady is not there!
Such a quietness it kills;
Such a peace, too deep for good;
As she wishes, as she wills,
After this, that's undestood!
Never thought it could be so,
Lonesome in a house at night;
Never thought when we said go
It woud end in such a plight—
Such a changed and different place
Such an odd and upset room—
Such a longing for her face.
Such a hungering for her bloom!
Such a changed and funny home,
Something missing all the while;
Every room in which we roam
Empty of her song and smile;
Every chair in which she sat
Crying out till we cry too—
Pack our grip and get our hat,
We're coming down to visit you!

Community Clubs' Work In Coosa Co.

A joint meeting of the Community clubs, Boys Corn and Pig Clubs and Girls Tomato clubs was held at Hanover, Coosa county, several days ago and a thousand people were present.

Mr. L. M. Calhoun, the Louisiana boll weevil expert made a very fine and practical talk on raising cotton under boll weevil conditions. One of the things that he dwelt on most was picking the cotton just as soon as possible, turning under the stalks and then, when the land had been properly prepared, putting in a winter legume as a cover crop to enrich the land and get rid of most of the weevils, Mr. J. T. Watt, State Farm Demonstration agent was present and also made a talk.

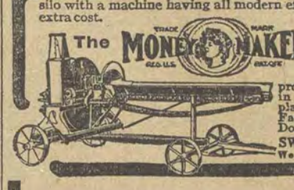
A very fine dinner was served and everybody had a pleasant as well as a profitable day.

Our community clubs are doing fine work in this section of Coosa county. They meet once a month and discuss things that are most needed in their respective communities and then go home and begin to do these things.

Several bermuda grass pastures have been started this year. Some of the land has been terraced. Dipping vats are being built and better cattle are being brought into the county.

The social side of our community clubs brings the people closer together and causes them to like each other much better. The people are interested in their clubs and in the upbuilding of their communities.

S. M. DAY, Farm Demonstration Agent Coosa county.

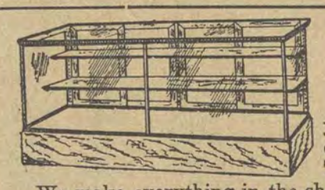


COMFORT CONVENIENCE SERVICE
The Gay-Teague Hotel
(FIRE PROOF)
MONTGOMERY, ALA. E. C. TAYLOR, Manager.

BELTING

We are exclusive agents for the REVERE RUBBER CO.'S line of Rubber Belting. Giant Stitched, Pilot, Shawmut and Diamond Ace. Every belt fully guaranteed. Tell us your needs and let us quote you prices.

Jernigan & Haltiwanger
Montgomery, Ala.



SAFETY AND EFFICIENCY Make sweet, clean-cut silage as fast as it can be fed and elevate it into the highest silo with a machine having all modern efficiency and splendid patented protective features. No extra cost.

SAFE SILAGE CUTTER
Automatic Safety Yoke and Cushion Drive

protect operator and machine against accidents and breakage in our solid steel-disked, steel-based machine in its steel-plate case. Straight, easily sharpened knives and sharpener. Fans throw and blow, using least power. Sizes for 4 h.p. up. Don't buy until you get our FREE catalog and prices. Write today.
SWAYNE, ROBINSON & CO. 11 Main St., Richmond, Ind.
We also make Money Maker Hay Balers. Distributors Everywhere.

Distributors, B. F. Avery & Sons, Louisville, Ky.

SHOW CASES Are The BEST BOOSTERS

They never stop boosting your goods, never worry a customer and are always THERE at the right time.

We make everything in the show case line. Our catalogue will show you the latest improvements and help you to make the needed changes in your store. Write us today.
NASHVILLE SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

ARE YOU RAISING FRUIT OR FEEDING INSECTS?

STOP FEEDING INSECTS!
RAISE FRUIT !!!
SPRAY YOUR TREES!
WITH VanAntwerp's
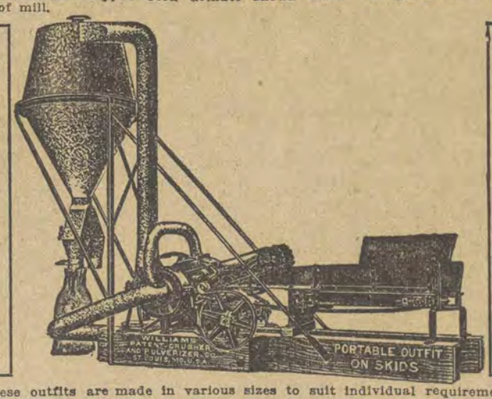
THE BEST ONLY
IMPROVED
SCHNARR'S INSECTICIDE
ONE GALLON CANS $1.00
BY THE BARREL 50¢
WRITE FOR COMPLETE PRICE LIST, DIRECTIONS, TESTIMONIALS
VAN ANTWERP'S SEED STORE
INSECTICIDE DEPARTMENT
VAN ANTWERP BUILDING., MOBILE ALA.
WE WILL TELL YOU THE NEAREST DEALER HANDLING SCHNARR'S

To the Farmers of Alabama

The farmers of IOWA are the most prosperous on the face of the Earth. They borrow money on their lands on long periods of time, with options as to re-payment, leaving their stock and crop unencumbered, so they can hold them for the highest market.

Figure the rate of interest you are paying on money borrowed on your crop and stock, and the rate you can borrow it on your lands, and you will see why Iowa farmers are so prosperous.



Let us lend you money on the IOWA plan.

The State Abstract Co.
Montgomery, Alabama
J. S. PINCKARD, President
JACK THORINGTON, Vice-President

Cottonseed Hulls Have Advanced $12 a Ton

What does this mean It means that you should grind Velvet Beans, Snapped Corn, Peavine Hay, Alfalfa Hay, and other herbage to take the place of Cottonseed hulls for dairy feed. This will give you a better balanced ration than obtainable by using Cottonseed hulls. The Williams Snapped Corn Grinder shown below will grind all of these materials faster, cheaper, and better than any other types of mill.

NUMBER	00	0
HOPPER OPENING	8" x 8"	12" x 6"
APPROX. CAP. 10 HRS.	250-500 bus.	12½ Tons
HORSE	12-15	20-25
POWER Capacity Per Hour Alfalfa	500 lbs.	1000 lbs.
Weight	1500 lbs.	1800 lbs.

GEORGIA PLANTATION.
Mathews P. O., La.,
Jan. 21, 1916.
Williams Patent Crusher & Pulv. Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Dear Sirs:
Your letter of the 18th to hand and in reply will say that since putting in one of your No. 0 snapped corn grinders about eight months ago we have been operating this mill steadily, turning out at the rate of 60,000 pounds of feed daily, and it gives me much pleasure to say to you that our troubles with the mill have been so little that they are not worth mentioning, and we can recommend your mill to be just exactly what you claim for it and we are delighted with our purchase, and will say that the upkeep of the mill is very small indeed. Yours very truly,
C. S. MATHEWS,
Supt. Feed Mill.

As previously stated these outfits are made in various sizes to suit individual requirements and are sold on trial to all responsible parties.
When writing specify materials you wish to grind, fineness desired, and quantity per hour, preferably in pounds. Bulletin MF-99 gives additional data.

THE WILLIAMS PATENT CRUSHER & PULVERIZER CO.
2705 No. Broadway St., St. Louis, Mo. Old Colony Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

FIELD SELECTION

The corn stalk is the machinery by which the ear is produced. It is the parent of the ear, and the size of the ear is limited only by the ability of the stalk to make it big. That is why it is important to know something about the stalk upon which seed ears are produced. If selection is made in the crib, no notion can be had whether the ears were produced on desirable stalks.

If selection is made in the field before the stalks die, the performance of each stalk can be noted and the performance of the crop produced from seed thus selected can be guaranteed. Most farmers like big ears because they make big yields. Consequently they hunt for big ears in the crib. Most of the crib selected ears were produced under extremely favorable conditions. Now, almost any stalk can produce a big ear when it is standing in a moist, fertile place, with no other stalks within a dozen feet of it. But no one knows whether it would produce a big ear if it had been grown under less favorable circumstances.

Beautify Your Skin

Free your system from toxic poisons. Get a package of ELLA R. BERRY'S

CREOLE TEA

Drink a cupful every night.

ALL DRUGGISTS, 10c

A Texas Wonder

The Texas Wonder cures kidney and bladder troubles, dissolves gravel, cures diabetes, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and irrgularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist, will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two months' treatment, and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Send for testimonials from this and other states. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2926 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists.

Holstein Heifers

30 Well Bred, Good Colored Individuals.

GIBSON & BELL

Bourbon Stock Yards,

Louisville, Ky.

LADIES Take Cotton Root Compound Tablets. Sure relief for monthly afflictions. Sent in plain wrapper. Price $2.00. Welch Medicine Co., Chula, Ga.

LADIES!

When irregular or delayed use Triumph Pills. Safe and always dependable. Not sold at drug stores. Do not experiment with others; save disappointment. Write for "Relief" and particulars. its free. Address: NATIONAL MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Milwaukee, Wis.

LADIES

FREE booklet describing wonderful article, indispensable for private use of married ladies. Relieves mind from doubt and worry. Sent sealed.

HYGIENE AND KALOLOGY CO., Dept. O., 7 W. 14th St. N. Y. City

Everybody stops at the

Exchange Hotel

Leslie D. Fairchild, Mgr.

SEND THEM FOR CLEANING BY PARCELS POST.

YOUR GLOVES, SUITS OR GOWNS. Long gloves 15c. Short gloves 10c Returned next day and return postage paid on any article. Most modern, sanitary, dry cleaning equipmnt. Everything DONE RIGHT—and promptly.

Stewart Dry Cleaning Co.

SELMA, ALA.

Send Your Films

To us to be developed and printed. Prompt and satisfactory work. Special attention to out of town orders.

Tresslar's Studio

Montgomery, Ala.

Auto Vacuum Freezer

The New Way to Make Ice Cream

Velvety ice cream with no work. That is the new way to make ice cream. You simply fill the Auto Vacuum Freezer with ice, pour in cream mixture—and let it alone. Thirty minutes later, perfect ice cream is ready to serve. No more turning. No more churning. Throw away the dirty, soggy, old - fashioned bucket and get this clean, neat, crankless freezer.

We sell AUTO VACUUM FREZERS and will be pleased to explain them in detail. Why not get yours today?

Jernigan & Haltiwanger

Agents

Montgomery, Ala.

May Manton's New Patterns For Mother, Big Sister and Boys and Girls

All of the patterns shown here are by May Manton, the noted authority of women's, misses and children's garments. The patterns for the designs, besides allowing for all seams ,give the true basting lines and show diagrams for cutting and making. When necessary each piece of pattern is lettered for indentification. Patterns for any one of the designs shown here will be sent you upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps. Send stamps to Pattern department Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala. Send now while these designs are before you. Note the number of the patterns in small figures of the pictures and corresponding description.

BELTED BLOUSE

9080 (With basting line and added seam allowance) Belted blouse, 34 to 42 bust.

9061. (With basting line and added seam allowance) Three-piece skirt 24 to 34 waist.

It is surprising what an effect a bit of simple needlework will have. The smocking on this blouse immediately lifts it out of the commonplace and means a distinctive touch. The garment is one of the practical sort. available for many needs and for many materials, and the skirt worn with it is the latest of the three-piece sort, with plain fronts and a gathered back Such a costume can be made of plain material throughout, as it is here with a sash of fancy silk to finish or with blouse of plain material over a skirt of striped.

For the medium size the blouse will require 3 7-8 yards of material 36 inches wide or 3 yards 44 and the skirt 4 5-8 yards 36, 3 3-4 yards 44ffi it is 3 1-2 yards in width at the lower edge.

The blouse pattern No. 9080 is cut in sizes from 3 4to 42 inches bust measure and the skirt No. 9061 in sizes from 24 to 34 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents in stamps for each pattern.

GRACEFUL SKIRT

9093 (With basting line and added seam allowance) Four-piece Skirt 24 to 30 waist.

This is a skirt that combines a number of new features. The box plaits that are arranged at the seams give long unbroken and becoming lines while the shirrings provide fullness, and these shirrings can be made at the front and back only or at the sides also. The skirt will be found a good one for all material that are adapted to shirrings, and if a still more elaborate effect were wanted, smocking could be used in place of the plain gathers. The plaits are applied but since the edges are joined to the edges of the skirt they flare gracefully and fashionably. In the picture, taffeta is the material but there are a great many others that are equally appropriae. Voile in silk and wool is much liked for summer gowns and would be very pretty treated in this way. Foulard makes up attractively after such a design, pongee is perfectly suited to shirrings and all these materials are in the height of style.

For the medium size will be needed 8 3-4 yards of material 27, 6 1-4 yards of 36 or 5 1-2 yards 44; the width at the lower edge is 4 yards and 16 inches.

The pattern No. 9093 is cut in sizes from 24 to 30 inches waist measure.

SUMMER COAT

9111 (With basting line and added seam allowance) Child's coat, 4 2 and 4 years.

The summer coat for children is a real necessity and this one is so simple that it can be made in the very briefest possible time, yet it is exceedingly smart. The body and skirt portions are cut in one and smocking forms the girdle and there is a little body lining that holds the full ness in place. If preferred, plain shirrings can be used but the smocking is fashionable. I nthe picture, the ca is made of rose colored chion broad cloth with the collar and cuffs scalloped but it could be opied in taffeta or in poplin or in summer sergewith equal success. Taffeta is much liked, and it is used in dark colors for everyday wear and in light colors for dressy occasions, but chiffon or lightweight broadcloth is a close rival and is very attractive as well as serviceable. White broadcloth smocked with white makes a very good effect.

For the 2 year size will be needed 3 1-2 yards of material 27 inches wide 2 3-4 yards of 36 or 2 yards 44.

The pattern No. 9111 is cut in sizes for children from 1, 2 and 4 years

HOUSE GOWN

9108 (With basting line and added seam allowance) House gown for misses and small women, 16 and 18 years.

Girls are sure to like this house gown. It is very simple and easy to make and it is very charming and attractive when made. It can be copied in one of the pretty voiles or lawns or bastistes, or it can be copied in crepe de chine if something thinner is wanted, or it would be quite appropriate for challis and materials are really cool, it would be very satisfactory made of albatross or of cash mere in white or dove grey with a lining of India silk in pink or blue, and since both materials are washable, such a gown is practical. The pattern is perforated for a sacque.

For the medium size the gown will require 6 1-4 yards of materials 27 inches wire 5 yards 36 or 44 with 3-4 yard 36 inches wide for the collar and 10 yards of banding 6 yards of lace for the frills.

The pattern No. 9108 is cut in sizes for 16 and 18 years.

Any one of the above patterns is 10 cents. Send stamps to Pattern Department, Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

Victrola

The Victrola gives everybody the kind of music they like best. Victrola $15 to $200 on terms to suit you.

Do not buy machines of inferior quality without investigating. Write today for full information and terms.

Dahlberg Talking Machine Co.

Montgomery, Ala.

Here's the Handiest Crate for Taking Eggs to Market

The HUMPTY-DUMPTY holds ttwelve dozen eggs. It can be knocked down for close packing.

Write us for illustrated price list of egg packing goods.

MONTGOMERY WOODEN-PAPER & WARE-Co

Profit In Tile Drainage Shown By Example

That tile drainage pays has been hown very clearly during the heavy and continued rains of the past two or three weeks. On a great number of farms where open ditches are depened on for drainage, crops have been drowned out, washed away, or at best, badly damaged.

In many fields water stood for days after the heavy rains. If the crops are not absolutely ruined, they are so badly hurt that the production will be cut down very materially. Some fields have washed badly, adding this expense to that of the loss of the crops. The damage from these causes has not been sustained on land that is tile drained, as is shown on several farms in Montgomery County, Alabama, where tile has been put in. On this land no water is standing and the plants are in a healthy and growing condition. On un-tiled land, water is still standing, the plant growth retarded and in an unhealthy state. Plants cannot thrive with too much water, and it has been said that it is just as hard for a plant to stand with its feet in the water as it is for a human being to do so. The fact that rain soaks through the soil instead of running off the surface, tells plainly why, on tiled land, a heavy rain does not wash out the land and cut it up deep gullies as it will do where open ditches are depended on. The fertilizers that have been put on the and are in the latter case washed off in the ditches and lost.

In the prairise land especially are the benefits of quick and thorough drainage obtained by the use of tile for this land sours in a very short time and the growth injured thereby. With tile drainage however the warm rains soaks through the soil, keeping it porous, and depositing the elements needed for the plant.

The successful growing of winter grain and feed crops is essential to the profitable raising of livestock. This is rendered difficult by the heavy rainfall we usually have during the winter months, the yield of these crops being cut off very considerably. This damage from too much moisture can be avoided by tile drainage as shown by the experience of Dr. T. B. Hill wBho owns a large farm in Central Alabama. Last winter Dr. Hill had oats in a field which he had previously tiled, and grazed cattle on them during the winter months. Before this land was tiled he not only could not graze a winter crop on the field, but could not produce the crop, the land being too wet and cold. It is just as beneficial for hay crops as for winter grain. The land well drained and warm, the grass gets an early start and attains a vigorous growth much sooner than would otherwise be the case.

As tile drainage is beneficial to winter crops, likewise will it help cotton, for with the presence of the boll weevil, to raise cotton it is necessary that it be planted as early as possible that the bolls may mature before the weevil gets in his work. On land that is tiled, it is possible to plow at least two weeks earlier in the Spring than on land not tiled, and this saving of time together with the use of an early variety of seed offers the best chance to get a crop.

An interesting case of the benefits secured by the use of drain tile is that of an Alabama nursery. They have a considerable part of their land tiled and on a part of this have planted carnations. Last year one hard rain ruined an entire field of these flowers, while the present crop has gone through all the recent heavy rains successfully. The forty thousand carnations saved will many times over pay for the tiling done.

PECAN BORERS

Two kinds of borers attack pecan trees, according to J. R. Watson, entomologist to the University of Florida Experiment Station. One girdles the trunk and the other bores directly to the heart. The girdler is more destructive to young trees. It feeds just beneath the bark and can be detected by blackened areas, which usually run spirally around the young trunk. The best remedy in this case is to dig the grub out.

The other borer is not so easy to reach. If the hole where the grub entered can be found the grub can be killed by gouging with a wire. Another method is to put in the hole a drop of carbon bisulfid with a medicine dropper or a pipette. The mouth of the hole must be sealed immediately with parrafin or wax of some kind to prevent the gas from escaping. It is well to paint tree trunks with whitewash containing some salt as a precautionary measure.

FODDER PULLING

The man who pulls fodder is the one who needs the greatest yield of grain. Yet by pulling fodder he is cutting the yield of grain at least 15 per cent. Now what is the use in planting corn, cultivating it and doing everything to produce a big yield and then curtailing the yield by pulling the blades off before the ear is mature? It looks like trouble for nothing, and it is.

Fodder pulling is one of the heritages of a mistaken age. A long time ago some farmer possessed with a misdirected thrift sought to make a dual purpose plant of his corn. The practice was born then, and it has been continued. Even where feed is short, fodder pulling is not advisable. It only contributes to a further shortage a little later. G. L. Herrington, boys' club agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, has compiled data on fodder pulling from all the stations in states where it is practiced. He finds that at least 15 per cent by weight of the grain is lost. Some stations place the loss as high as 25 per cent. If the whole plant is considered, this loss runs much higher.

Even if the yield were not cut, fodder pulling would be expensive. It costs more to pull a ton of fodder than it does to cut, cure and haul a ton of any of the hays. And even when the fodder is harvested it is very low in feeding value. It is not as good as crabgrass hay, which is comparatively low.

It's awfully hard for the average man to look in a mirrow and believe that he was once a cute baby.

Keep your hand on your pocketbook when a man begins to pat you on the back.

Misrule is bad enough, but Mrs. rule is worse—so a married man says.

CREAM LOSS FROM SLOW TURNING

At Purdue University the Experiment Station collected and published a lot of data showing the appalling loss in cream due to the universal tendency of separator operators to turn the machine too slowly. Their bulletin was a revelation to many, many dairymen, who had been losing anywhere up to $100 a year worth of butterfat simply by turning their separators below speed.

At the Rairs recently, a leading speedometer manufacturer, had thousands of tests run to get further proof positive that a great majority of operators turn their machines below speed. Cards were made out by several thousand farmers.

Each one was asked to turn the crank of a sample separator, (same make as his own) at the speed he was accustomed to turning his own machine at home. The actual speed was then determined by an indicator, and each farmer made out a card showing how near he had been able to strike the right speed. The card shows, first, the normal speed of the machine; and second, the speed the farmer was accustomed to turning it. Over ninety-five per cent of the dairymen turned their machines too slowly. And a majority turned them so far below speed that they were losing pounds and pounds of butterfat every week.

A speedometer, however, affords no guarantee against cream loss. It requires constant watching and many machines thus equipped are still turned below speed much of the time. Especially is this true when the separation of the milk must be left to the boys or the "hired man."

NOW OPEN

Beersheba Springs Hotel

Located on Cumberland Mountain. Altitude 2200 feet. Special rates for June. J. TROUSDALE SMITH, Mgr. Beersheba Springs, Tenn.

Positions Still Open The Mexican Trouble

Has caused hundreds upon hundreds of vacancies all over the country—300 in Montgomery alone—Draughon's Business College is simply swamped with calls for office help. We have put out all the students we have that are capable of doing any work at all and yet the cry comes Help! Help! Every time the Phone rings I expect the cry Help!—Send me office help.

They prefer the Draughon-trained for they know these make good on account of the thorough training. But what are we to do to supply this demand? Can't you help us? Can't you spare the younger son or your daughter to us for a few weeks to prepare for carrying on our commerce?

Do this now! They are needed sorely. Don't wait. Come and see me today.

DRAUGHON'S COLLEGE, J. C. EAGERTON, Mgr.

Classified Wants

POULTRY AND EGGS

West's Single Comb White Leghorns

Those Everlasting Layers.

My this year's stock is the best in type I have ever seen or raised. I have several very fine cockerels and pullets three to five months old for sale. Remember this fall that I sell guaranteed winners for any show. Visitors welcome.

MRS. ROBT. WEST

132 Carter Hill Road.

FOR SALE

REGISTERED Duroc fifty pound pigs $10.00. Senter & Senter, Thompsons, Tenn. —10

SINGLE Comb White Leghorn yearling hens, $1 each. Alabama Leghorn Farms Co., Ensley, Ala. —10

PEDIGREED Duroc-Jersey Spring Pigs—$10 each, or will trade some for pure Brabham or Iron Cowpeas. D. W. Dennis, Dendridge Acres, Theodore, Ala., near Mobile. —10

RAISE Belgian hares, spunk, minks, squabs, frogs, etc. Big profits. Postal brings free literature. Tells how. J. G. Mahr, Mobile, Ala. —10

SOUTHERN Burr Clover Seed 35c per lb. Large orders 75c. R. C. McCrackin, Oak Hill, Ala. —10

WRITE us for prices on Johnson grass, alfalfa hay in car lots delivered. Billiken Place, Gallion, Ala. —10

CANS—For fruit and vegetables and syrup. Best cans. Prompt shipment. All necessary supplies furnished. Write today for prices. Tennessee Can Co., 1810 E. 13th St., Chattanooga, Tenn. —10

ENGLISH Bloodhound puppies. W. N. Cavin, Mt. Holly, N. C. —10

FOR SALE—"Quality Strain" White Plymouth Rocks, in singles, pairs, trios, and pens, properly mated to produce the best there is in White Rocks. Eggs for hatching from exhibition matings $1.50 per 15. Guarantee on stock. Satisfaction or money refunded on eggs "a good hatch" you to be the judge. J. P. Paterson, Rosemont Gardens. —30

WANTED—FEMALE HELP

Ladies Wanted in every locality to sell LA PRINCESS TOILET PREPARATIONS AND FLAVORING EXTRACTS. Earn good income. Every home your customer. We furnish sample outfit. No money required. Write today for particulars. NATIONAL MFG. CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.

30 WOMEN to work in underwear mill; light work, sanitary building; whole families wanted especially. Collier Mfg. Co., Barnesville, Ga. —4

WANTED TO BUY

WANT to buy sheep, car lots. Give full particulars in first letter. Paul Finch, Crab Orchard, Ky. —9

WANTED—To buy white oak timber in large or small quantity. Also white oak staves of all kinds. King Stave Company, P. O. Box 364, New Orleans, Louisiana.

WANTED—AGENTS

AGENTS WANTED—$5.00 profit daily selling our new household articles; $2.50 premium with each $1.98 sale. Huse Company, Atlanta, Ga. —2

MAKE BIG MONEY SELLING OUR FAST SELLERS

New Patent Star Hair Straightening Comb, Star Quinine Hair Dressing, Bright Brown Face Powder, LaBelle Face Powder, LaBelle Shampoo Powder, LaBelle Vegetable Soap, LaBelle Quinine Hair Tonic, LaBelle Face Lotion, LaBelle Face Cream, French Perfume, French Toilet Water. Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Quick Service.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL MFG. CO., 218 N. Main St., Memphis, Tenn.

PIGEONS

HIGH CLASS Utility Carneaux $3, $3.50 to $5 per pair. Crescent Pigeon Lofts, Girard, Ala.

FARM AND TIMBER LAND

GUARANTEED TIMBER KILLER.

"Sure Shot" kills timber in 10 to 15 days. Write for particulars. SUMMERFIELD BROS., 322 Randolph Bldg., Memphis, Tenn.

PERSONAL

SOUTHERN Widow 55, worth $40,000, would marry. E-Box 35, League, Toledo, Ohio.

NEWSPAPER CUTS IN THIS PAPER MADE BY

Service Engraving Co.

ADVERTISER BLDG., MONTGOMERY. J. M. ENGLER, Prop.

TURN YOUR SPARE TIME INTO CASH

We want intelligent, energetic men and women in every locality who want to turn all or some of their time into cash with steady employment and good profits. We do not handle trash or make-shifts, our lines are all first class, useful articles covered by our absolute MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. LADIES, get our SECO Sanitary and other propositions; MEN, get our Chemical Specialties and other propositions. Get our GREATLY REDUCED PRICE LIST of all the Standard Drugs and Cosmetics guaranteed genuine and fresh. OFFICE Supplies at bargain prices. HOUSEFURNISHINGS on easy payments.

MAIL ORDER SERVICE CO., LOCK BOX 235-A, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

A School for Farm Boys and Girls

Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, Alabama.

While giving a High School Course that prepares for any College or University, it also gives a Practical Education, preparing for life in the Home, in Business, or on the Farm.

Special classes for those not ready for High School Work.

$75 AND A WILLINGNESS TO WORK will carry you through nine months of school, if you "make good."

For further information, address

Fall Term Opens Sept. 12, 1916. Principal S. H. HERBERT, Thorsby, Ala.

Starke's University Home School For Boys

1887 Montgomery, Ala. 1916

For 29 years Starke's School has been SUCCESSFULLY PREPARING (not merely certifying) boys for college.

MOTTO: WORK WINS

METHODS—SMALL CLASSES, INDIVIDUAL and THOROUGH INSTRUCTION and no cigarettes.

EQUIPMENT—EXPERIENCED TEACHERS, modern dormitory and school building, athletic field and ample play-grounds.

Results 1915 graduate earned high honor and $500 in scholarships at college 1915-16. More than $10,000.00 earned in scholarships, inclusive of 2 Rhodes scholarships.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South. Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Botany—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics, Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy of Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address CHAS C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President. AUBURN, ALA.

Alabama Synodical College

A Safe Place For Your Daughter

Next Term Will Open Sept. 14

Conservatory of Music, Art and Expression. Full Literary Courses, Usual Degrees Conferred; Able Facutly.

Home Economics, Complete New Equipment. Successful Teachers' Training Department. Bookkeeping, Short Hand, Typewriting.

Each department strong; individual and personal attention given each pupil; Christian influence, dancing and card playing not being allowed; splendid buildings; Modern equipment; Steam heat; Electric lights; Baths; Artesian water; Ideal climate, situated in the mountains of Alabama; Beautiful campus of nine acres; Out-door games; Gymnasium.

Expenses reasonable.

Write for Catalogue. Address,

J. R. Thompson, President

TALLADEGA, ALA.

I USE WAX SEALING CANS

They last year after year and cost half as much as glass jars.

NO SOLDERING—NO TOOLS BUT YOUR THUMBS

This year try wax sealing cans instead of jars. They cost only half as much as jars. They last year after year. There is no breakage and no danger from flying glass. And the fruit and vegetables keep perfectly.

Just The Thing For Home Canning

The women nowadays and the men who can for the home, use wax sealing cans. There is no soldering iron or solder—no tools but your thumbs—just press a wax cord into place and the can is sealed forever. Used for currants, cherries, all berries, grapes, peaches, pears, apples, pie plant tomatoes, beans and peas.

45 cents a dozen, postage prepaid. $2.50 for carton of 100 shipped by express or freight collect. Wax Strings and full canning instructions included with each order.

Write us for any information about Cans and Canning Supplies. Send today for a trial dozen Wax Sealing Cans.

VIRGINIA CAN COMPANY, Box 220 Buchanan, Va.

Rhea Springs Inn

Where the Old Reliable Rhea Springs Water flows. We are pleased to announce that we are again ready to receive guests. We hope to see all of our former patrons and many new ones the coming season. There is no better place for recuperation, health, and pleasure. Usual amusements, good table, sensible rates. Make reservation now. Location has exceptional accessibility. By leaving Birmingham via Q. & C. Ry. at 6:30 A. M. you get to Spring City, our railroad station, at 12.13 noop without any change of cars. Pleased to answer correspondence. Write us

Rhea Springs Company

Rhea Springs, Tenn.

THE STOLEN MELON

See 'em on the fruit stands now and then,
And in the markets—but they're not like when
We stole 'em f'um the old patch in the sun,
A-creepin' through the bushes slick and sly
Until the way was clear to make a run,
With hearts a-beatin' and a tremblin' eye,
So anxious for the triumph that would seem
The height and breadth of boyhood's summer dream.

Great, luscious fellers, big enough to bust
If they should chance to fall down in the dust;
But you were careful not to let 'em slip,
But hugged 'em tight in that immortal grip
A boy's arms only can surround in life
A melon with—and then yuh had a knife
That knew the way to reach the rosy heart
Of Mister Melon from the very start.
The dew was wet upon his glowing rind
The while you stole him; and yuh didn't mind
How many bruises you might get that way,
Just so you'd plunked a ripe one, and could say
You'd never seen a finer one than that,
The while the sweat kept rollin' down yer face
From underneath the broad brim of yer hat
Way off in them old days of boyhood grace.
June tasted in it, and the cool, sweet spell
Of upland meadows and the ferny dell;
And there was somewhere singin' in the sky
A lark that lit the temples of July
With rapture of the morning heart of things—
And that's the secret of it now when I
Go past a melon that inside me sings
A music that shall last until I die.

—Folger McKinsey.

SONG TO SUMMER

Put your pretty posies on,
Deck your dreams with skies of blue
Paint your lips with glow of dawn
All the world is sweet on you,
Wear your loveliest smile today,
Wandering love shall court you then
Fresh with memories of the May
That shall crown your cheeks again
Tie your bonnet of the blue
Skies of sweetness round your chin
Ribboned with the sunshine—few
Shall behold your face within
And not smiling walk the earth
Glad because they've known and seen
In your eyes their look of mirth,
O'er your fields the leagues of green
Take the seawind and the sea,
Take the mountain and the vale—
Pan shall blow his pipes of glee,
Fleecy cloud-ships o'er you sail.
Weave your daisies for a crown.
Set by youth on your fair head,
As you skirt with bloom the town
Where the dead dreams slowly tread
Let your castanets play sweet,
And your harps of golden tone;
Come with swift and tinkling feet,
Dancing life into its own—
Put your pretty posies on,
Wear your crown of smile and light—
Fair one of the sylvan dawn,
Loved one of the silver night.

S. D. MERCER AND SON. Breeders of Percheron horses. Hampshire hogs, and Buff Rock chickens. A few good pigs for sale. Price $15.00. Also young cockerels, price $2. Hens all sold. Forty years in the stock business, most of that time in Iowa. We strive to please. All stock shipped F. O. B. at Tinsman, Arkansas.

How to Make the Most of Your Melons

Don't forget that this is your corner and you are invited to contribute to it to help other women make the most of what they have to do with. Surely you have some practical message or suggestion that will be appreciated a great deal by some other woman. If so send it along. Just address Editor Woman's Corner, Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

PREPARING THE MELON.

There are thousands of people who raise and eat scores of melons every year, who have never thought of preparing them other than just as they come from the field, yet the melon can be so deliciously prepared and beautifully garnished that the very sight of it will appeal to both sight and taste as never before.

Of course there are those who will always prefer their melon "just plain melon," so this is for those who want something a little different as well as unusual recipes for preserving, etc. so as to make our melons do winter duty long after the hot summer months have passed. Here are a few selected recipes:

Watermelon Meat Preserves.

Use only the heart of a melon firmly ripe; cut off all white parts and remove seed. To each pound of heart use three-fourth pounds of sugar, placing melon and half the sugar on the fire until the fruit is thoroughly saturated with sugar, then with a skimmer take up the melon and place on a platter in the sun. Add the rest of the sugar to that in the kettle and cook to a thick syrup. Now put your fruit in again and let come slowly to a boil and remove to the jars. Cook the syrup a few minutes longer and pour over.

Watermelon Rind Preserve.

Peel off the green from the melon rind leaving only the white, cut in squares or strips a couple of inches long. To each pound of rind use a pound of sugar and one lemon sliced, boil lemon and sugar with just enough water to dissolve it, drop in the rind and cook until tender, skim them out on a platter in the sun to firm. Boil the syrup until thick, place fruit in jars and pour boiling syrup over them. A sprig of ginger root added to the boiling syrup improves the flavor.

Spiced Watermelon.

Use eight pounds of melon rind to four pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar, one cup mixed whole spices. Tie spices in small bags and boil in the vinegar and sugar, skim well and add the fruit, boiling until tender. Lift out fruit and pack in jars pouring the boiling syrup over all. This is called "sweet pickle."

Cantaloupe Preserve.

To each pound of fruit use three fourths pound of sugar and a tablespoon of whole mixed spices, boil fruit twenty mintues until tender; remove, cook syrup until thick and pour over fruit in jars.

Cantaloupe Pickle.

Select firm melons, cut in halves. seed, peel and cut in squares. Lay in brine over night. The next day make a syrup of 1 quart of vinegar and three pounds of sugar with eight tablespoons alspice. Boil, wipe fruit dry and drop in boiling syrup, let boil about twenty minutes and pack in jars.

Many Ways To Serve Melon

Dozens of ways can be thought of by the hostess on the look out for something new. I have served watermelon at an afternoon gathering by cutting the heart into cubes about an inch square, remove the seeds and serve the cubes (amounting to a slice) on a bed of lettuce leaves with a fork. Of course the melon was ice cold, having been kept in the refrigerator after being cubed. Each guest could thus enjoy it without the danger to one's frock such as often the case when served in slices.

Once (never again) I ate a slice of melon which had been plugged a few hours before and a bottle of iced wine poured into its heart. It was delicious, but believe me a little of it goes a long, long way. A beautiful table decoration is made by selecting a large very dark green melon, cut it lengthwise to form a basket, scoop out the center and fill with fruits or flowers in a bed of gray green moss from the trees.

Cantaloupe baskets are delicious holders for chicken or fruit salads as well as for jellies or ice cream; and filled with berries are a thing of beauty, making cute little place cards for the midsummer dinners, the little cantaloupe baskets filled with flowers or fruits matching the big watermelon basket centerpiece I have described. The matermelon meat can be sliced in half inch slices, cut a pretty shape with a cookie cutter and several of them served stacked on a lettuce leaf, or pieces of the green rind can be cut in leaf-shaped sections about three-fourths inch wide and three inches long, these being first placed like petals of a flower at regular intervals around the plate, pointing from center to rim, the slices arrayed in the center and mayonnaise (without vinegar, using lemon juice) poured over. Whipped cream may be used if preferred to mayonnaise. The melon used to be considered too plebian to serve to guests but late years have discovered so many ways of beautifying, making palatable this abused fruit that it is now considered a relish, and lucky are we who have only to send to our fields to get it. I'll be glad to help with ideas for a melon party if a stamped envelope is enclosed for reply.

I am glad my recipes are so welcomed by the country sisters and hope all will have success with them for I am anxious to help you and the many nice letters I get encourage me, so sit down today and add your's to the list and tell me what you want me to discuss and help you with, for I find proof of every subject before I write a word on it, so it is not mere guesswork I present to you. No letters will be published unless requested.

Just address me Editor "Conutry Woman's Corner," Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

Things to Do Right Now On Your Farm

By Leonard Lett

1. Since you have finished using the disc harrow, don't leave it out in the field exposed to the weather. Oil it good and put it under the shed until the time to prepare land for fall crops By doing this with any and all of the farm tools they will last longer and give better service. A light coat of paint also will help to preserve machinery and implements and keep them from rusting away.

2. Don't pull fodder any more. This is a waste of time and will injure your yield of corn. If you think you will run short of roughage this winter just get a few peas and some sorghum seed and sow a few acres for hay. Then you will have some real hay. Peas are cheaper now than they have been for some time and it isn't too late to sow them for hay.

3. There are a great many soy beans planted this year and they are extra good. Now to get very best from these beans graze them with hogs. Don't let the beans get too ripe before turning hogs on them. So many farmers do this. Just as soon as the beans have filled out good then is the time to graze them. Hogs will eat the entire plant—leaves, stems and beans. Give the hogs about one ear of corn apiece per day and you will have some cheap meat.

4. Begin to plan your cover crop for this winter. Now is the time to buy crimson clover seed. Have them on hand, get your inoculation material ready and when the proper time comes sow your seed. Cotton middles make an ideal seed bed for crimson clover. Harrow in with any kind of one-horse cultivator To convince yourself of what crimson clover will do for a corn crop get out and look for some patch of corn following clover and you will get inoculated right on the start.

About September 15 to October 15 is the best time for planting.

5. Let's get a few plats of Abruzzi rye planted in every community this year. This rye will afford just twice the grazing that Southern rye will afford, and at less than twice the cost Three pecks to a bushel of seed per acre will be enough. It can be obtained at a price of $2 to $3 per bushel. By a number of farmers clubbing together and buying a large order it can be bought cheaper. This should be sown just as Southern rye is sown—either at the last cultivation of the cotton or by preparing land as for an oat crop. Anyway, sow rye of some kind. Let's have that carpet of green.

6. Every farmer who owns as many as ten head of cows should build a silo this summer. For the man who cannot afford a permanent concrete silo, the wood hoop silo will prove a profit maker, costing about a dollar per ton capacity. Write to the Extension Service of the Auburn College for blue prints of this silo. If the request is made a man will be sent to you to supervise the construction of this silo. Most any farmer can get enough corn or sorghum to fill a forty-ton silo. Corn that is going to make a low yield will be just right to fill a silo with, otherwise it will be a total loss to the farmer.

Keep after the boll weevil. Don't let up. Cultivate your cotton once a week until it begins to open.

Pour Out Standing Water and Use Lime Now

After the heavy storm that have occured in many parts of the Central South, it behooves everybody to take precautions against typhoid fever.

The first thing to do, whether you live in country or town, is to drain of all the puddles around the place. If they are too deep or large to drain. then sprinkle a little lamp oil on them to prevent mosquitoes breeding.

Search out all the tin cans, old buskets, tubs, troughs, etc., around the place and empty the water in them. These receptacles, if water is left in them, breed mosquitoes by the thousands. You would be amazed to see the number of mosquitoes that will breed from one old tin can half full of water.

Drain out everything around your place. Standing water means that your are breeding mosquitoes and it also means that you are inviting typhoid and Death into your family.

The next thing to do is to use lime. Nothing will purify a place better or quicker than some slack lime scattered about. This is most important—so do it at once. Scatter lime around the steps and under them, around the foundations, along the fence and and in the fence corners—in fact, in all damp or shaded places.

Don't put this off a day for it means preserving the health of your family. You would feel mighty bad to see one of your family die of typhoid fever and to know that you were responsible for it by not taking these simple steps to prevent it. If you let water stand about your place and don't use lime and one of your family gets down with typhoid, don't lay the blame on Providence. The Lord didn't ordain it—but your carelessness did. The Lord gives us common sense to use and He gives us purifying remedies, such as lime, and if we fail to make use of what He gives us the fault is our own.

So get some slack lime now, if you have not already done so, and sprinkle it all about the place in the wet or damp spots. Already you may have postponed this important matter too long.

Another thing—if there is any suspicion about the drinking water, boil it. Nothing brings typhoid quicker than impure drinking water. It is not much trouble to boil the water that you and your family drink and boiling it makes it certain that you wont drink any typhoid germs.

Again—drain off the wet places and receptacles holding water, use lime free ly and boil the drinking water if there is the least suspicion that it has been contaminated by the recent heavy rains.

These are simple precautions and ones that are pretty sure. It just takes a little trouble, that is all. Do it now.

Nerve, a little optimism and an extra effort and in a month the floods will be forgotten in preparation for the winter crops.

Mr. W. P. Talbot, manager of Tameny Hall, a fishing resort, Geneva, Ala., writes: "I have tried Calomel, Quinine and other remedies for malaria and biliousness without effect; tried Vega-Cal" (vegetable calomel), which gave relief. Think it a God-send to the people." "Vege-Cal" is sold and guaranteed by all drug stores, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

SORE GUMS

Cause Loss of Teeth and Stomach Trouble
Loose teeth, pyorrhea, Riggs disease yield quickly to my treatment; tested 30 years. Medicine postpaid, $1.50. Money back if not cured. Book of facts sent free. Dr. C. M. DOSS, D. D. S., Dent. A. Cooper, Texas.

WE BUY AND SELL SACKS AND BAGS
Oat sacks—new and second hand. Corn sacks—new and second hand. Also potato and wheat sacks. At reasonable prices.
W. D. STEGALL
123 Coosa St. Phone 3890.

We Buy
Syrup and Sorghum in Barrels.
Samples solicited.
Southern Syrup Co.
Montgomery, Ala.

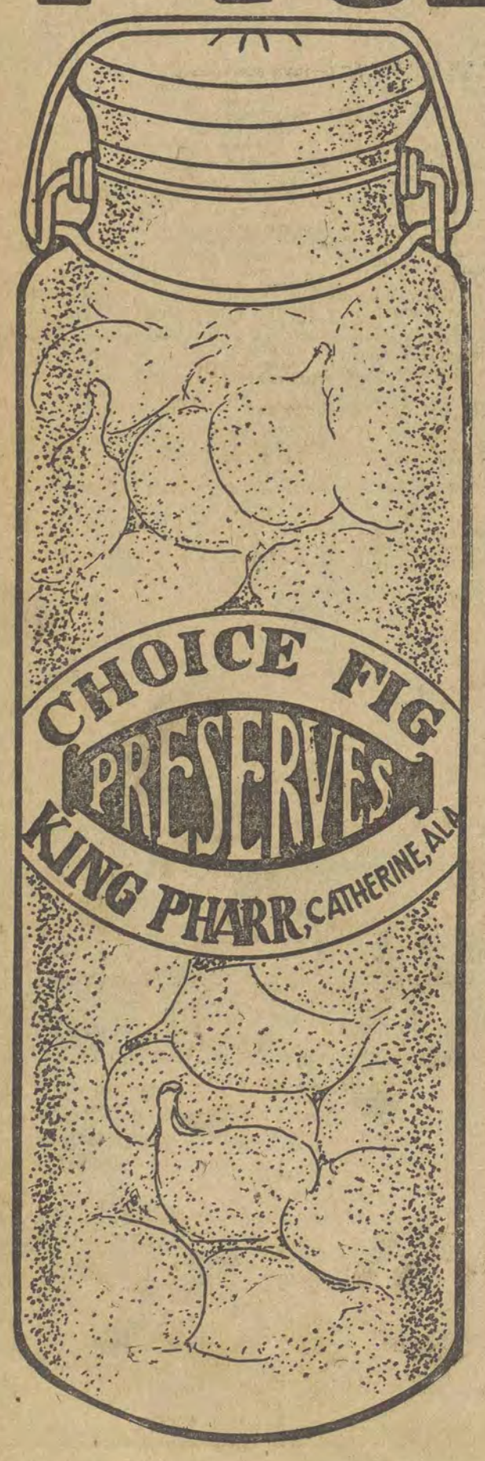
Solomon & Oates
Headland, Alabama
Shorthorn Cattle—Hampshire Hogs—Fulgum Oats

Two Dollars

invested in a pound of Nitra-Germ, and easily applied to the soil, insures the success of an acre of Legumes.

And a good acre of Legumes means an acre highly fertilized without the expense and trouble of commercial fertilizer—with a big, profitable cash crop following.

Nitra-Germ



are cultures that do not fail. They are cultivated especially for their work, and they accomplish results in the field.

For some interesting and valuable information, address:

Nitra-Germ Co.
Dept. B, Savannah, Georgia

PRESERVED FIGS

Most Delicous Dessert Known

FOR FAMILY, HOTEL, RESTAURANT

"The most delicious dessert we have ever enjoyed." Such expressions as this come to me in letter and by tongue from families, hotels, restaurants and clubs that have served on their tables my Fig Preserves, made ONLY from choice Alabama figs and pure sugar. I carefully select my figs and preserve them in small, medium size and large jars and tins for family, hotel or club use. Compare my prices to the prices you pay for ordinary preserves, not nearly so delicious. To make a friend happy send him or her a case of my Preserved Figs. In the North, particularly, they are a rare delicacy.

FOR GROCERY, DRUG STORE OR ICE CREAM MAKER

You can gain new business---and hold it---by selling my Preserved Figs or using them in serving ice cream, sundaes, frappes, etc. For use with ice cream you will find the cost of my Preserved Figs is less than that of other kinds of preserves shipped to you from the East and so often containing poisonous Benzoate of Soda. Order several cases now and take care of the new trade you can get. To get them you must order AT ONCE for once I have filled my orders I quit preserving.

TO GET THEM YOU MUST ORDER NOW

I KEEP NO STOCK ON HAND

I preserve only the figs that are ordered from me in advance. Last season a good many of my customers were disappointed in not getting figs because they were late with their orders. So order NOW while the fig season is on, for this is the only way to secure my pure and delicious Preserved Figs. The crop of choice figs is naturally limited, and I have to know in advance the quantity you want so I can fill your order. So order TODAY, while you are reading this announcement.

PRICES AND SIZES

5-ounce glass jars, FOUR dozen in a case, $4.50 a case and express or freight charges.

11-ounce jars, FOUR dozen in a case, $7.60 a case and express or freight charges.

23-ounce jars, TWO dozen in a case, $7.00 a case and express or freight charges.

Standard pint Mason jars, TWO dozen in a case, $6.50 a case and express or freight charges.

Quart jars, ONE dozen in a case, $6.00 a case and express or freight charges.

Tins holding a short quart, TWO dozen in a case, $9.00 a case and express or freight charges.

King Pharr, Catherine, Alabama

Grower and Canner of Select Fruits and Vegetables, Pure Jellies, Peach, Pear and Fig Preserves.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, AUGUST 3, 1916. NUMBER 18.

HUGHES SCORES MEXICAN POLICY OF WILSON AND FLIRTS WITH ROOSEVELT

Spies Roosevelt in Box and Waives at Him; Briefly Mentions Lusitania For Suffragists.

New York, July 31.—Charles E. Hughes tonight outlined in his speech of acceptance the issues upon which he will conduct his campaign for the presidency. He assailed the administration for the course it has pursued with reference to Mexico, discussed maintenance of American rights during the European war preparedness and other great questions of the day. He declared for a policy of "firmness and consistency" toward Mexico for the "unflinching maintenance of all American rights on land and sea" and for "adequate national defense, adequate protection on both our western and eastern coasts"

Condemns Plots

"We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation," Mr. Hughes said. "Utterly intolerable is the use of our soil for alien intrigues. Every American must unreservedly condemn them and support every effort to their suppression."

The nominee assailed the administration for "its direction of diplomatic intercourse" from the beginning, have been conspicuous strength and expertness there had been weakness and inexpertness. He cited San Domingo as an instance where appointments had gone to "deserving democrats" and to the failure to continue Ambassadore Herrick at his post in Paris after the war had started as "a lamentable sacrifice of international repute."

Endorses Suffrage

"I endorse the declaration in the platform in favor of woman suffrage" Mr. Hughes declared and he added "opposition may delay but in my judgment cannot defeat this movement. I favor the vote for women."

One fourth of the speech was devoted to Mexico. Step after step taken by the administration with reference to Mexico was assailed from the days of Huerta to the note sent the de facto government by the state department June 30 last part of which was quoted in the speech.

The seizure of Vera Cruz the nominee said was "war of course."

Later we drifted from Vera Cruz he said "giving up his noble warfare. Recently the naked truth was admitted by a cabinet officer. We are now informed that we did not go to Vera Cruz to force Huerta to salute the flag. We are told we went there "to show that we were in earnest in our demand that Huerta must go?"

America, Mr. Hughes continued, had no policy of aggression toward Mexico no desire for any part of her territory but wished her to have peace, stability and prosperity.

Demand Protection

"The conduct of the administration has created difficulties we shall have to surmount," he said. "We demand from Mexico the protection of the lives and property of our citizens and the security of our border from depredations."

Safeguarding American rights abroad had not been accomplished, Mr. Hughes said by the administration. There had "been brave words in a series of notes he said, "but what does some of the strongest words known to diplomacy avail, if the words are not to be taken seriously." The nominee reiterated his declaration that had this government left no doubt that it meant to hold Germany to "strict accountability" there would have been no loss of life on the Lusitania.

Discussing preparedness he said it was apparent that the United States was shockingly unprepared.

"The administration has failed to discharge its responsibility," Mr. Hughes continued.

Lasting Peace

"To make peace lasting and effective when the present war shall end, Mr. Hughes advocated the information of an international tribunal to dispose of controversies of an adjustable sort with the cooperation of the nations back of it."

Mr. Hughes also declared "for the conservation of the just interests of labor for conservation of national resources and for national budget.

"Our opponents promised economy but they have shown a reckless extravagance. It is time we had fiscal reform."

"This occasion is more than a mere ceremony of notification. We are not here to indulge in formal expressions. We come to state in a plain and direct manner our faith, our purpose and our pledge. This representative gathering is a happy augery. It means the strength of reunion. It means that the party of Lincoln is restored, alert effective. It means unity of a common perception of paramount national needs. It means that we are neither deceived nor benumbed by abnormal conditions. We know that we are in a critical period, perhaps more critical than any period since the Civil War. We need a dominant sense of national unity; the exercise of our best construction powers; the vigor and resourcefulness of a quickened America. We desire that the Republican party as a great liberal party shall be the agency of ntional achivement, the organ of the old saying, "Dominant Americanism."

America First

"What do I mean by that? I mean America conscious of power, awake to obligation, erect in self respect, prepared for every emergency, devoted to the ideals of peace, instinct with the spirit of human brotherhood, safeguarding both individual opportunity and the public interest, maintaining a well-ordered constitutional system adapted to local self-government without the sacrafice of essential national authority, appreciating the necessity of stability, expert knowledge and thorough organization as the idespensible conditions of security and progress; a country loved by its citizens with a patrioticferver permitting no division in their allegiance and no rivals in their affection—I mean America first and America efficient. It is in this spirit that I respond to your summons."

Waves At Teddy

Mr. Hughes closed with an endorsement of the Republican platform and a formal acceptance of the nomination.

The large audience crowded Carnegie Hall to capacity and cheered for several minutes when Mr. Hughes appeared shortly after 8 o'clock.

The nominee recognizing Theodore Roosevelt in one of the boxes waved to him and Col. Roosevelt clapped his hands in acknowledgment.

Senator Harding of Ohio, chairman of the national committee was cheered at every reference to name of the nominees and a Republican victory in November. When he had finished introducing Mr. Hughes the band played and the crowd arose and cheered again.

Mr. Hughes was frequently interupted by laughter and applause.

After delivering his speech he was host at a reception to the notification committee and the invited guests to the notification ceremony.

THE COTTON SITUATION

We are pleased to announce to our readers that we have completed arrangements with Springs and Company, cotton brokers in the New York Exchange, whereby they are to furnish us with a letter every week regarding the cotton situation in the New York markets.

This is a feature that the weekly papers of this county have never before offered their readers, and we feel that it will be a means of valuable information to the grower of the fleecy staple in our county. It will be no doubt interesting to have this letter directly from the New York market.

SPRINGS & CO. OF NEW YORK ON THE COTTON SITUATION

July 28th 1916.

Contract prices for cotton in New York have frequently during the past two years, covering the duration of th egreat war, sold at 13½ to nearly 14c a pound. Prices have ranged lower at times it is true, and notwithstanding these declines in contracts the South has been able to disregard these fluctuations, and market its crops at satisfactory prices.

During the last year, exports have been greatly reduced, but will for the season prove well in excess of six million bales, and home consumption will be of American Cotton above seven million bales.

Cotton crop conditions for July Will be reported by the Government in a few days. The last condition report for June was 81.1, but with a loss by the Eastern cotton belt as compared with a previous report of from 6 to 8 per cent, from causes well known to the readers of this letter, and notwithstanding the fact that Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas have been favorably reported, we look for an average loss of some importance for the crop as a whole, to be evidenced by the Government report expected. The last report made possible estimates of 14¼ million bales for the crop, exclusive of linters. We do not expect this estimate to be equalled as a result of the Government figures for July conditions.

With the experience of the past two years, the South is not likely to make sacrifice sales of their great product, and indeed there is no reason why they should on any prospect of an over supply of cotton, either of that carried over from the season now drawing to a close, or from any present prospect of a crop in excess of the world's needs. The South has an abundant supply of money, and this condition will undoubtedly continue through the aid of the Federal Reserve banks, and the farmers and merchants of the South need be under no decision as to this backing for the future.

The changed policy of the South in marketing their crop deliberately, cannot be too highly commended and will undoubtedly, if pursued in the future, prove highly beneficial to the farmers and merchants of that section.

SPRINGS & CO.

I Will Buy

All the peas and Corn you have to sell.

I Will pay full market pricss at any time.

Bring me what all you have to sell.

L. H. REYNOLDS
Clanton, Ala.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY AT CLANTON AUGUST 12

Speeches will be made by Pope Long, O. D. Srteet and several others.

All Republicans of Chilton county are expected to come to Clanton on Saturday, August 12th.

Things of interest to the party and its success in November will be given consideration and every white man in the county who believes in the principles for which the party stands is urged and requested to be present.

Hon. Pope M. Long, Chairman of the State Republican Executive committee and Hon. Oliver D. Street, National State committeeman of the Republican party will be here and deliver addresses to the voters at the court house.

The Republican situation—national, state and county, will be gone over in detail, and every Republican in the county should be on hand to take in the whole thing.

This day will mark the firing of the first campaign gun of the contest. If you want to get an even start with the whole crowd, you ought to be in Clanton on that day and hear the things that will be said.

Local speakers will address the people on the county situation.

The Thorsby Brass Band will be here to add music to the other interesting phases of the occasion.

The Republicans of the county are going to show their strength on that day, and you want to be with them.

Tell all your neighbors to fix up for coming to Clanton on that day.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPT. OF EDUCATION

Sykes' School, Barbour County

At Sykes' School in Barbour County there is being conducted an adult school for illiterates. The attendance has grown since the opening of the first session about three weeks ago.

When the teacher first reached this school for the purpose of teaching the adult people of the community to read and write there was only one person in the schoolhouse. This man happened to be a trustee and was particularly interested in the people of his community receiving such education as could be accomplished through a school of this kind. After visiting the homes in company with the teacher he secured a general meeting on that night and the movement to teach the adult iliterates was discussed. At first only 17 enrolled, which number was increased to 29 by the end of the week. The oldest pupil is 71 years of age; there are 5 over 50, and 11 over 40; the youngest is 15. Since the opening of the school the people show great interest and earnestness in their work and are making splendid progress. The school will run six weeks.

The following are some expressions from the pupils in this particular school and are quoted to give an idea of how hungry the older people are for education—especially when the advantages were missing in their childhood days:

"Don't nobody know how I have craved for a little learning."

"If I can just learn to scratch my name I will be happy."

"It's hard for me to learn but I am going to keep trying."

"It will mean so much to me to be able to figure and read a little."

"I didn't have no chance when I was a boy but I am going to do what I can now."

"I think this is the greatest thing that has ever been done."

Alabama Teachers' Reading Circle

The Teachers' Reading Circle has been transferred to the Department of Education by unanimous resolution of the Alabama Educational Association and the course is announced below for 1916-17.

The books should be purchased from Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, Birmingham, Ala.

	List price	To teachers
1. Better Rural Schools —Betts & Hall	$1-25	$1.00
2. Health and the School —Burks	1.50	1.23
* 3. Teaching the common Branches—Charters (Elementary teacher)	1.25	1.00
* 4. Methods of Teaching in High Schools— Parker (High school teacher)	1.50	1.20

* Teachers selecting Book 3 omit Book 4 or vice versa.

The Educational Amendment

A misconsception seems to have arisen in some quarters with reference to the withdrawal of state funds in case the educational amendment is passed. There is notheing stated, implied or contemplated in the amendment that this is to be done. In fact, the amendment specifically states that it will not be done. The county or district tax which may be levied is "in addition to that now authorized under Section 260 of Article XIV of the Constitution." This article guarantees the payment of the state funds for school purposes.

What has been said about the constitutional provision applies with equal force to the legislative appropriation. The same section of the Constitution states "it shall be the duty of the Legislature to increase the public school fund from time to time, as the necessity therefor and the condition of the treasury and the resources of the State may justify."

THE CHILTON COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Chilton County Sunday Association held a most successful convention at Maplesville July 27 and 28.

Many delegates were present, some of them driving twenty and thirty miles to the meeting. All reports were good but especial mention is made of the work of three district presidents, J. B. Northcutt, J. H. Gulledge and J. W. Mitchell.

All debts are paid and the state pledge raised to fifty dollars in view of the increased interest and enthusiasm of the schools.

Miss Blossom Crumpton gave a thoughtful and carefully prepared paper on the "Sunday School equipped for Service" and Mr. Sidney L. Gibson read a paper beautifully emphasizing the reward "Service." The convention showed its appreciation of these papers by asking that they be published. In the discussion of the "Four fold life of the Teen age" Mr. Emmett Thrailkill spoke of the "Physical Development". He is a "Teen age" boy himself and is much interested in the boys' classes in the county, planning a boys conference for later in the year. Mr. Belser of Montgomery made an able and interesting talk on the very necessary "Social Activities" of the boys of this age.

To Mr. H. C. McDonald was given the subject the "Mental Development of the Teen age," knowing that from wide experience he has wrought out practical and valuable knowledge of this most interesting phase of young life, and the association is fortunate in having the good work of this capable and efficient teacher. Miss Freda Bose, the state teen age "specialist," important subject of boys and girls. Miss Bose has an attractive personality and an understanding love and sympathy for young folks, so her work is always helpful.

It is heartsome to have the ministers in the convention and Rev. W. O. Phillips of Verbena, believes heart and soul in the Sunday school and made a splendid talk on Home Cooperation. Always the association will remember with appreciation the faithful, earnest work of Mr. W. E. Thomas as president. His interest and devotion and his cheery enthusiasm will admit no discouragement and he has been a tower of strength to the county workers.

The following officers were elected: President, J. H. Gulledge, Verbena; Vice President, W. E. Thomas, Jemison; Secretary, Miss Della Williams, Verbena; Supt. Adult work, A. A. Blarvell, Maplesville; Supt. Secondary Work, Miss Franklin Lawrence, Maplesville; Supt. Elementary Work, Mrs. S. E. Norton, Thorsby; Pres. District No. 1, J. E. Northcutt, Jemison; Pres. District No. 2, J. S. Wright, Jemison; Pres. District No. 3, H. S. Groomes, Maplesville; Pres. District No. 4, H. C. McDonald, Clanton; Pres. District No. 5, W. A. Calloway, Verbena; President District No. 6, G. W. Fox, Maplesville.

Executive committee, Judge L. H. Reynolds, B. M. Roberts, J. B. Gardner, Rev. E. W. Butler, Prof. H. C. McDonald.

The association remembers with gratitude the kindness of the Press and the Union-Banner in publishing programs and notices.

All delegates and visitors extend sincere thanks to the citizens of Maplesville whose cordial hospitality made comfort and pleasure for the guests. Special thanks are due the ladies whose kind hearts prompted their willing hands in so bountifully supplying the table at the dinner hour.

This convention was a season of refreshing indeed and in truth and may God's blessings, both material and spirtual, abide richly with our hosts in Maplesville.

DELLA WILLIAMS.

PLEASANT GROVE

Health of this community is very good at present.

The farmers are behind with their work on account of bad weather.

Sunday school is progressing nicely

Quite a large crowd from this place attended the singing at Mt. Olive Sunday and reported a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowden of Birmingham have been visiting the latters parents the past week.

Mr. Bert Waller who has been working at Bryee Hospital at Tuscaloosa has returned home again. We are glad to have him with us again.

Messrs. John Lewell, N. L. Broadhead, Grady Williams, Waller and Misses Eva and Birdie Hall attended the Sunday school convention at Maplesville Thursday and reported a nice time.

MT. PLEASANT

Most everybody are done layingby in this section.

The singing school started at this place Monday, July 17, with a good attendance.

Mr. Ab Vickers of Coosa county who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Vickers returned home Monday.

Mr. Calvin Johnson who has been at work up near Birmingham has returned home.

Mr. Bill Riggins and family of Birmingham have been visiting his father, Mr. W. G. Riggins.

Rev. Barney Vickers of near Liberty Hill spent Monday night with B. H. Duke and wife.

Mr. A. D. Duke and wife spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Duke.

The musical entertainment at Mr. W. G. Riggins' Saturday night was fine and enjoyed by a large crowd.

Come on all you good writers and lets make the Union-Banner better than it has ever been.

HUGHES URGED TO PUSH MEXICAN ISSUE IN WEST

Many States to be for Him On Account of that Issue Alone.

New York, July 26.—The importance of bringing the Mexican issue to the front in the campaign for Charles E. Hughes in the middle west, was urged by R. B. Howell, republican national committeeman from Nebraska, today in a talk with William R. Willcox, national chairman.

Howell declared he believed many of the middle western states can be won for Hughes upon that issue. He urged that the national committee make special efforts to bring home to these voters the lack of protection which the national administration has given to Americans in Mexico. He suggested that persons who had been victims of anarchy in Mexico be obtained as speakers for meetings.

George W. Perkins and William Flinn called to tell Wilcox that the Progressives virtually are united in support of Hughes. Julius Rosenwald, head of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, arrived with Flinn.

Rosenwald, who was for the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt, said he would support Hughes. He said he is confident the latter will carry Illinoise by a large plurality. Joseph B. Kealing expressed a similar belief concerning Indiana.

Other callers included Lieut. Gov. Edward S. Schoeneck, Van Vechten Olcott and Frederick Greiner of Buffalo; Lieut. Gov. W. L. Harding of Idaho; Gen. Edward C. O'Brien, formerly minister to Uruguay; R. H. Ferris of Detroit, Geo. W. Wikersham, Herbert Parsons and William McCarroll, former public service commissioner.

Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Chicago, well known as a suffragist, asked Wilcox to consider the establishment of a woman's bureau to work among the woman voters in the thirteen suffrage states. With more than 4,000,000 women voters this year the question of reaching them becomes of great importance, she said.

Willcox declared he is certain the bulk of the Progressive vote will be for Hughes, and in that connection made public letters from two one-time Progressive leaders, T. G. Pownal of Cumberland, Md., and Eugene Lorton of Tulsa, Ok.

Pownal attacked the administration of President Wilson as incompetent, and he is convinced the latter's Mexican policy has been with a view to boosting his waning political fortunes.

"I fear that this incompetency may make disastrous foreign complications for us before March 4," he said. "It is a duty we owe the country to get rid of the present president by the election of Mr. Hughes."

Lorton said nothing President Wilson could do, particular with regard to Mexico, would restore the confidence of the people of Oklahoma in his administration.

"Unless 30,000 voters disfranchised by an iniquitous Southern election law, which the present governor and his supporters are seeking to have adopted by trickery and chicanery, the electorial vote of Oklahoma will be cast for Mr. Hughes," he said.

CENTER HILL SINGING

Last Sunday was set apart by the good people of Center Hill to be devoted to singing the songs of Zion. While the crowd was not overwhelmingly large, but was large enough to have a good singing and all be pleasant. There was another singing not far away which of course devided the crowd. There were eight or ten directors present. The people were interested, there was no time idled away.

At noon all gathered under the beautiful shady oaks and such a dinner as was spread was enough to satisfy the most fastidious. It was rich and bountiful, free to all. This is more evidence of the deep hold the songs of zion have in the hearts of the people, and Cnter Hill is second to none along that line.

Promptly in the afternoon the people re-assembled and sang until four o'clock, when all went home, we believe feeling glad of the day. The day was lovely, skies were blue, everything so quiet, brings to our minds the words of the song writer, Mr. Orr, "All nature smiles so soft and sweet, I'm thinking Lord of thee."

Those song services are grand privileges and we think are increasingly appreciated.

CHILTON COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The Chilton County Singing Convention met in its twelfth annual session with Concord church and rendered the following program:

Called to order at 10 a.m. by President with song.

Rev. W. J. Armstrong, R. A. Smith and E. H. Mims were program committee appointed by the president, and James Franklin, H. M. Eagle, J. M. Dye, W. G. Culp and R. A. Smith were placed on program who directed twenty minutes each which led up to the noon hour.

A bountiful dinner was served.

We re-assembled at 1:30 p.m. with song led by president after which a few minutes business meeting was held. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

R. A. Smith, President; J. W. Lowery, Vice-President; F. Iven Popwell, Sec. and Treasury; James Franklin, Rev. W. J. Armstrong and J. L. Gore Executive Committee.

$2.61 was collected to pay for minutes.

The directors for the afternoon were R. T. Grant, J. L. Gore, J. W. Lowery, J. A. W. Mims, J. M. Dye and H. M. Eagle. A male quartet was also rendered which was fine indeed by James Franklin, R. A. Smith, J. M. Dye and Ira Grant.

Organist for the day were Misses Lillian Robinson, Dummie Varden, and Beatrice Mims, Messrs. W. G. Culp, H. M. Eagle, J. M. Dye and J. B. Hammond.

We were dismissed by Rev. W. J Armstrong after singing "God be with you till we meet again" led by H M. Eagle.

This was a day spent in which everybody seemed to enjoy it to the fullest extent. We had a full class of singers and a house full of attentive listerners all day. We sure had some fine singing.

We, the convention, wish to thank the people for their good behavior and respect shown us and we especially thank the god people of Concord community for their loyal support of the convention.

F. IVEN POPWELL,
Secretary.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission will hold an examination for stenographer and typewriter (male and female) August 8, 1916, to fill seventeen existing vacancies in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and South Carolina, and other vacancies as they may occur. Entrance salaries from $900 to $1,080.

Age, 18 years or over.

Application blanks and full information can be obtained by applying to the Secretary, Local Civil Service Board, your city, or the Secretary, Fifth Civil Service District, Atlanta, Ga.

This is an excellent opportunity for competent stenographers and typewriters to secure government positions.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

The Stockholders of the Farmers Warehouse and Storage Company will hold their regular annual meeting on Thursday, August 10, 1916. All are requested to be present at court house at 10 a. m.

J . N. DENNIS,
Secretary.

ALONZO ARLEDGE CAPTURED

Last Friday night Deputies Gore and Gillespie succeeded in locating and capturing Alozo Arledge at his home in stumps hills. He was the man wanted by the authorities for the shooting of Will Wilson last week. Arledge was brought to Clanton and placed in jail. He will answer to the law for the shooting, and will probably have charges brought against him for operating an illicit distillery.

TICK ERADICATION

While there is still some opposition to tick eradication, the work is making rapid progress in Alabama.

As a result these eleven counties had the quarantine ban absolutely lifted in last December: Dallas, Hale, Jackson, Lauderdale, Limestone, Lowndes, Madison, Marengo, Montgomery, Perry and Wilcox. These counties can ship their cattle anywhere in the wide world without restriction. The result is that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been invested during the past two years in pure bred stock; and Alabama Herefords brought top notch prices in the East St Louis markets this spring.

The following counties are now conducting co-operative tick eradication: Autauga, Bullock, Colbert, Crenshaw, Elmore, Greene, Henry, Jefferson, Lee, Macon, Mobile, Morgan, Pickens, Pike, Sumter, Talladega, Tuscaloosa and Walker. These counties can ship their cattle whither they list upon compliance with minor provisions, such as certificate of dipping, etc.

The other Alabama counties cannot ship their cattle to the outside except for purposes of immediate slaughter. This would prevent the rearing in such counties of pure bred stock for the breeding market and would inhibit investment of large sums of money in the pure bred cattle business.

Every Cow Amenable

Under the new Alabama law, counties must vote in favor of tick eradication before it becomes the law, when they do vote it, however, every cow comes under the law's operations, whether that cow is in an isolated herd, is tick free, or not.

The vats cost around $45. The counties furnish the material and the farmers of the neighborhood have the vats built. The cows are dipped without cost to the farmer. The county pays for the dipping mixture and the men in charge of the work.—From the Birmingham Ledger, by request of W. H. Conway.

ED GANDY ARRESTED

Officers at Lock 12 Tuesday apprehended whiskey on the premises of Ed Gandy, and a search revealed a five gallon jug of white lightening. As this amount of moonshine is above the limit of the lawful allowance, Mr. Gandy was taken over and brought to Clanton where he was placed under bond charged with violating the prohibition laws.

SOUTH IS IGNORED BY PRESIDENT IN MANAGING BOARD FOR FARM BANKS

This is in Spite of the Fact That 75 per cent. of our Farming is in Dixie.

Hugh W. Roberts in Age-Herald.—

Washington, July 30.—In the selection of the members of the farm loan board the President again ignored the south; but while southern senators are grumbling under their breath, they are so accustomed to their "goatships" that in all probability they will proceed to confirm the nominees without question.

It was generally believed that inasmuch as the rural credits bill was designed to aid the farmers, and as 75 per cent of the farming in the United States is done in the south, the President, in appointing the members of the board, would name at least one southerner with an understanding of the southern farmer.

But the south is so certainly democratic that the President, in the opinion of his advisers, was justified in again ignoring that section, and playing for the political favor of other section not so certain.

FARMERS PROFIT FROM WAR ORDERS

Washington, Aug. 2.—Efforts of the Democrats to make political capital of the war-order prosperity enjoyed by certain industries at the present time, were given an effective check in the Senate a few days ago when Senator Curtis of Kansas replied to an address of Senator Shafroth of Colorado. Shafroth had been expatiating upon the wonderful prosperity the country is now enjoying under a Democratic administration, though he had nothing to say about the depression that followed the enactment of the Underwood tariff law. Curtis suggested that Shafroth should entitle his address "A tribute to the European war," and then said:

"We are all glad the farmers are prosperous, and especially those of us from agricultural States, but the truth is that our sale of wheat to Europe during the first year of the war compared with the first year of the present tariff law in time of peace increased from $103,595,000 worth to $316,262,000 worth, a gain of 205 per cent. Our wheat is used to feed the armies of Europe. But what was wheat worth in this country at the beginning of the war? To show the effect that the war has had upon our prosperity let us take for comparison the year from September, 1913, to September, 1914, the year of peace and the first year of the Underwood law, and compare it with September, 1914, to September, 1915, the year of war and the second year of the Underwood law.

"During the year of peace we sold in breadstuffs to Europe $181,484,000 worth. In the year of war we sold $567,607,000, a gain of 213 per cent.

"In the year of peace we sold to Europe horses to the value of $3,177,000. In the year of war we sold them horses to the value of $82,276,000, a gain of 2,490 per cent.

"In the year of peace we sold to Europe mules to the value of $622,000. In the year of war we sold them mules to the value of $18,041,000, a gain of 2,795 per cent.

"During the year of peace we sold to Europe hay to the value of $790,000. During the year of war we sold to Europe hay to the value of $2,263,000, a gain of 233 per cent.

"During the year of peace we sold to Europe meats and dairy products to the value of $138,736,000. During the year of war we sold them meats and dairy products to the value of $243,098,000, a gain of 75 per cent.

"During the year of peace we sold to Europe sugar to the value of $4,341,000. During the year of war we sold to Europe sugar to the value of $36,816,000, a gain of 784 per cent.

"Why should not the farmer of this country be prosperous when he is feeding the greatest armies that this world has ever seen?

Does the Democratic party think that there is a farmer in all America that can be deceived as to the reason of their present prosperity or that has forgotten the conditions that prevailed in this country the year before the war and the first year of the Underwood law upon our statute books?"

Tom McKee and Mat Mahan of Lock 12 were in Clanton Tuesday.

SUBSCRIBERS

We positively will not send The Union-Banner to anyone who is over a year behind with his subscription.

Recently we stopped sending the paper to a number who were in arrears, and took their names from our list.

If you want to be sure to get every issue of the paper you had better look after your subscription.

When it gets a year behind we will take your name off the mail list till it is paid up.

Don't overlook this, as it is important.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.
For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.
For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.
For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.
For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.
For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.
For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

SIGN YOUR NAME

We have repeatedly requested our correspondents to sign their names to communications sent us for publication. No articles, other than mere news items, will be published without the name of the writer is published also. If you have any reply to make to an article written by some body else, we will not publish it unless we are allowed to publish the name of the writer. Remember this when you write to the paper.

Imagine all the Democrats voting for Popwell for Probate Judge, and then right on the same ballot Mr. Popwell votes against everyone of them for all the other county officers.

Rhetoric, Platitudes and Generalities endorse Free-Trade; Facts, Figures and Logic support Protection.—American Economist.

The poison gas now being use along the Somme is said to paralyze the voice. Wonder if Bryan has been having a whiff of it.

Chastising Carranza is peculiarly a function of the Wilson administration, whose child, politically speaking, Carranza is.

Judging from the comment of Democrats, the promotion of Representative Hay to the court of claims is a clear case of a man being kicked upstairs.

President Wilson wants to know if we think there would be any glory in whipping Mexico. Not much. There isn't any glory in killing a bed bug, but there is even less in writing him notes asking him to quit biting you.

News dispatches tell us every day or so of an important political conference the President has had with some of the Democratic campaign leaders. He is evidently of the opinion that the people of the country have in mind changing horses whether crossing a stream or not.

Judge Reynolds returned from Dothan Monday where he went to deliver a speech in the interest of the Republican party on Saturday. The Judge was treated well by the wiregrass Republicans, and brings back an interesting report of prospects. He also spoke at Geneva.

Some highly sensitive observers who make a fetich of figures have been pointing out Hughes' vote for Governor in 1908. The main thing to be remembered from that campaign, however, is that Hughes was re-elected in 1908 and that no Governor of New York has been re-elected since.

Senator Lewis of Illinoise, discussing political affairs in his State, said, "Gov. Dunne will not get out of the race for Raymond Robbins. The Democratic party would not permit it. I would not permit it." Why this excess of modesty in naming the Democratic party first?

Our Free-Trade President's scholastic settlement of the Mexican problem seems to be by addition and subtraction. Additional revenues for the unpatriotic Greasers and subtraction of our patriotic sons from scenes of home.—American Economist.

The Republican platform declares, "The Underwood Tariff is a complete failure in every respect." That raises a direct issue that permits of no quibbling over definitions. If the Democrats think it is not a complete failure, let them come on with their specifications showing wherein it has succeeded. It proposed to reduce the cost of living, and it failed in that. In what respect did it accomplish anything the American people wanted accomplished?—Wilmington (Del.) Journal.

When you hear the colonel being denounced for wht he has just done, try to imagine what would have been said about him if he had done anything else.

A. F. Mims of Thorsby was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

THE "SOLID" SOUTH.

About once every "occasionally" we have the pleasure of calling the attention of our kind Democratic friends and enthusiasts to the great advantages we are getting for being "Solid" Democratic in the South.

As this is another good opportunity to do that we hereby proceed to point it out to them, and beg all to take due notice.

Elsewhere in this issue you will notice what The Age-Herald of Monday has to say about President Wilson appointing the board of control for the Farm loan banks under the new rural credit system recently enacted by Congress. If you haven't seen what The Age-Herald said about these appointments, just stop reading right here and turn to the front page of this paper and read it.

Well now that you have read it, we want you to recall some of the things we have said heretofore on the subject of how the south has always been treated for being "Solid" Democratic.

What has the south ever received at the hands of the national government for being such a solid and loyal supporter of the Democratic party?

If the farm loan act was designed to bring aid to farming sections of this nation, why in the world didn't President Wilson appoint a man, at least one, from the greatest farming section of the country on the board controlling these loans? Could not a man from this section, a man who knows the southern farm and farmer, bring more good to this section than some other man who probably never saw a stalk of cotton growing. Does not the South, which comprises 75 percent. of the farm industries of the country, justly deserve to have representation on this board?

But all these considerations are ignored. Why?

Because Wilson knows that the South "is so certainly Democratic that the President was justified in AGAIN ignoring that section, and playing for the political favor of other sections not so certain."

Yet, the Democrats will come around to you between now and November, with tears of patriotism and sectionalism in their eyes, with a loud and polished rhetorical spiel about the civil war and reconstruction, and laud the "solid" south to the skies.

Will you just coolly stop that fellow when he comes around and ask him about this farm loan board, and get him to tell you how it is that this "solid" doctrine he is preaching will ever vitally render any aid to us fellows who are scrambling with present day problems to keep from starving.

Just ask him to explain how the South has derived any benefit from being solid democratic. Then tell us how it effects him when you hold him to this subject.

We want to repeat what we have always contended for heretofore, namely, that the South will never get what justly belongs to her in returns from this national government until the chains of Democracy are broken and another political party put on an even basis with it.

How long it will take a wronged and downtrodden class of the best of God's creation to realize this, we have no means of estimating. Thanks to goodness, there are some who see and believe it.

Why did Mr. Wilson ignore the South in the appointment of the controlling board of the farm loan banks under the new rural credits bill?

Hugh W. Roberts, staff correspondent at Waskington, for the Democratic Age-Herald of Birmingham gives a very sound reason why the south was ignored. A reason maybe not so sound after all, but in our opinion a very true one..

He says the south is so certainly Democratic that the President is justified in ignoring this section and playing for political favor of other section not so certain.

What? Political favor?

Yes, political favor.

Well was the farm loan and rural credit bills just hatched out for political instruments to be used in gaining favor from certain section that would not have bit some other bait?

We thought they were designed to aid the farmers That is what the Democrats promised to do with the proposition.

But now the first thing off the reel they begin prostituting their purposes to the catching of voters.

And since the south is already "solid" they don't offer her anything at all. She is ignored in renumeration for her loyalty.

Another "benefit" derived from the "solid" south you Democrats boast of.

Wilson As Peacemaker

"President Wilson will take advantage of the first opportunity for renewing his peace overtures to the European belligerents. He desires that negotiation for ending the war, even though they be preliminary, shall be under way, and himself a factor of them, before the November elections."

The European war has been made to play many a role on this side of the water. In 1914 it was used by the Democrats as a cloak for the shortcomings of the Underwood tariff. In 1915 its benefits to our industries were put forward as a false basis for claiming the merits of Democratic policies. In 1916, it is now evident, the President hopes to utilize it as a factor to secure his re-election.

It is from the Washington Post, a newspaper very friendly to the administration, that we take the language quoted above; and from the same journal we learn that our ambassadors in Europe have been instructed to lose no chance to put the President forward as a peace-maker. We doubt, however, if the plan can be made to succeed. In the first place, the British government has lately caused it to be made known that any peace suggestions from the United States would be unwelcome. And, secondly, if peace is to be made it canot be by the toilsome process of endless note-writing such as is the speciality of this administration.

AS SOME SEE IT

According to the present status there will be three tickets to vote on in Chilton county in November.

The Democratic ticket will contain all candidates except Probate Judge. The Independent ticket will contain only the candidate for Probate Judge.

The Republican ticket will be full.

Well, here comes a Democrat, and votes the Democratic ticket all except for Probate Judge. For that candidate he skips over and votes for Mr. Popwell.

Now here comes Mr. Popwell and votes for himself on the independent ticket and moves over and votes the Republican ticket for the rest of the candidates.

So you see Mr. Popwell has killed the Democratic vote of the man who voted for him.

Will the Democrats be very much pleased to vote for a man for Probate Judge who on the same ballot would kill their votes for all the other candidates?

We hear some of them say they do not like such a plan.

It is small wonder that the old-line Democrats are objecting to the presence of the Progressives on their campaign committee. Mighty few Progressives are going to vote the Democratic ticket this fall—certainly not in numbers proportionate to even one member of a committee of a dozen members. Consequently, to give a Progressive a place that might be taken by a deserving Democrat is a sheer waste of a job.

The President couldn't even sign the rural credits bill without making a speech—and in this one he told how his heart had ached for the farmer who found it so hard to borrow money. Therefore the President has signed a bill which compeles the borrowing farmer first to buy somestock in a rural credit association, then to limit the amount of money he wants to borrow, then to confine the use of his borrowed money to a few objects, and then take a long number of years in paying off the debt no matter how much he may accumulate meantime.

The Democrats like to tell us Republicans in the South that we do not get full advantages from the government because we are disfranchised by our support of the Republican ticket. We would like to ask them what they get from the government by being Democrats. They get it about like they got it when Wilson appointed the Loan bank board the other day. Mr. Wilson just says to himself, that those fellows down there are "solid" and will vote for me anyhow no matter what I do, so I will favor some doubtful section with the appointments and maybe I will win some uncertain votes.

Southern Senators are grunmbling under their breaths at the Presidents actions in continually ignoring the South, but they are so accustomed to their "goatships" that they will remain quiet, and dance to the music when the time comes. They are Democrats and from the South, but when the administration ignores them and their constituents in order to gain political favor with some other section not so certain, they accept it meekly, and come back home boasting of the grand old "solid" Democratic south. It is the emptiest nullity that anybody ever heard of.

Those Cincinnati editors who have been throwing fits because a shapely lass appeared on the shopping district streets with her limbs bared almost to her knees should realize where they are. After three years of high cost of living Free-Trade farce, we think the lady deserves to be congratulated on being able to procure sufficient clothing to do even that well.—American Economist.

Which is entitled to more consideration, the regular nominee of the people in their primary election, or the nominee of a handful of men in a pow-wow dominated by a few bosses in Clanton who would rule or ruin?

Probably 200 supersubmarines of the Deutschland type could carry one fair sized ship cargo. It is not yet time to throw a fit.

Mr. A. L. Williams was carried to Birmingham last week for an operation for appendicitis. Last reports from him are to the effect that he is getting along well, and will be home right away.

ALABAMA PICTURES WANTED

"Alabama Pictures Wanted" is the wireless call from Emmet A. Jones, Secretary of the Alabama Development Fund, who desires everyone to aid Governor Henderson's plan to develop all the latent resources of Alabama.

The Fund Trustees want photographs of beauty spots; views of farm crops and country life scenes; pictures of new factories and industrial enterprises of all sorts; attractive street scenes and pure bred live stock.

They request that a concise statement, including name of sender and a description of the view, accompany each picture. They will be filed in a reference album and used, as found available, in the Agricultural Department year book, bulletins, the Alabama Land Book, and in magazines, agricultural journals and in the news publications of the country.

This plan of providing a definite and concrete use for Alabama photos affords every community an opportunity to get free publicity of the most favorable kind, and to aid in the general advertising of the commonwealth.

There is a constant call for good photographs to be used in magazines and newspapers of general circulation as well as in pamphlets, books and bulletins published in Alabama for distribution in other States.

Many an attractive photograph merely adorns its own little corner because not given an opportunity to gladden the eyes of countless thousands. Therefore, boost your own part of Alabam by sending your photos to Emmet A. Jones, State Capitol, Montgomery. There is no commercial advantage in this except as it may help our State and People. If you think well of the plan tell others—if not, tell us.

FREE SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in you paper for a few words. I have been keeping still and letting the other fellows write because I enjoy reading better than I do writing, but it seems that the Democratic party is trying so hard to work some kind of a trick that would cause division in our party I decidede I would write and let the people know where I stand.

I am still where I have been ever since I was old enough to vote. In 1904 I became a qualified voter. I began studying what to vote for and what political party to affiliate with. I soon came to a conclusion. I went to the Peoples party and voted and I am still with that party. When we had a set of republican officers we had money in the treasury to pay all the expenses of the county. When we worked for the county we could go to the treasury and get our money, and the county could hire work done at a reasonable price, it could get material to build bridges at a reasonable price, but look at the affairs of the county now. Who wants to build a bridge for the county now? If we do any work for the county we don't know when we can get the money for it. Saw mill men don't like to cut a bill of lumber for the county because they don't know when they will ever get pay for it.

Boys it's time to wake up and look at some things that have been done. The wet weather has paid us a visit and damaged our crops, the boll weevils did the same thing. We can't help that but we can all pull together and put a stop to this storm of Democratic ruin and extravagance. So lets work to raise our county to the standard of six years ago. With the debt that is hanging over the county at present it will take quite a while to accomplish this but lets do what we can and do believe we can do some good.

I hope to be at the rally on August 12 and see Clanton flooded with Republicans and hear some good speaking.

I am sure glad to see Prof. Howard Roper come into our party. He is a personal friend of mine and a good man. I feel sure he will have a hearty welcome into the party. Mr. J. N. Scott knew what he was talking about when he said the people that left the Democratic party and came to ours were good men.

Boys lets pull together and roll up the largest majority in November we have ever had in Chilton county.

Respectfully,
T. J. HEADLEY.

"Torturing Headaches—don't suffer—Stop them!"

Long hours, close and tedious work are very apt to result in Headaches or other Pains. Don't suffer.

DR. MILES'
ANTI-PAIN PILLS
will quickly drive your Pain away, and
Dr. Miles' Nervine
will assist you by relieving the Nerve Strain.

IF FIRST BOX, OR BOTTLE, FAILS TO BENEFIT YOU, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

DIZZY SPELLS.

"My nerves became all worn out. I had bad headaches and severe dizzy spells. I could not sleep and my appetite was poor. I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they always gave me instant relief no matter what the pain. Then I used Dr. Miles' Nervine regularly and was soon in perfect health again."
MRS. S. L. YOUNG,
324 Pittsburg St.,
Newcastle, Penn.

Do You Need

A New Suit,
A Summer Hat,
A Shirt,
A Tie,
Underwear,
Hosiery,
Collars,
Handkerchiefs,
Shoes,
Slippers,
Dress Goods?

We can supply your every summer want at this store.

We can sell you any article you want, from the most fashionable of wearing apparel to the plainest of every day working clothes.

We can assure you of the high quality and desirability of everything we sell.

These goods are guaranteed both by the manufacturers and by ourselves.

With the advance of summer you will naturall want a number of articles in the wearing or furnishing lines.

Our stock includes everything needen on the farm, and we especially cater to the farm trade.

Don't fail to remember that "Star Brand Shoes Are Better."

The Princess Steel Range is the best for your kitchen and your pocket book.

The needs of your family in the way of Groceries can be supplied from our shelves.

We always are prepared to give you the best prices on Flour and Meat.

If you will take the trouble to call at our store we can demonstrate the economy of buying from us.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store"

Opinions of the People.

MEAT ADULTERATION

Montgomery, Ala., July 28, 1916.
To the Editor:

Will you please give me space in your columns for this statement?:

The use of sulphur dioxide, or salts of sulphuruous acids in the preparation of meats is a violation of the Federal and State food and drug laws. These antiseptic agents, commonly branded on the package "Frostine", "Preservaline," etc., are labled for use in washing refrigerators, tanks, vats, mixers and other machinery, tools, utensils and containers. No establishment where Federal inspection is maintained is permitted to use sulphur dioxide or salts of sulphuruous acids on meats.

Unscrupulous salesmen have lured some of the meat markets in Birmingham, Montgomery and other cities and towns of the State, into the practice of preserving and embalming their meats by using these antiseptic agents. By their use old, dark meats are changed to a new, brightred color; and if the meat is tainted and putrified, the stink is entirely removed.

The dealers know that they have no authority under the labels of the packages containing these pseudo cleansing agents to mix the powders in the meats. I have forwarded a number of samples to the State Chemist and have instructed the four inspectors working out of the department to inspect all meat markets, resturants, etc., in the State and secure samples for analysis. Any dealer found guilty of such practice will be cited into the courts for violation of the food and drug act, which provides in part: "If a food product is mixed, colored, powdered, coated or stained in a manner where-by damage or inferiority is concealed, it is adulterated."

Respectfully,
J. M. MOORE.
Food, Drug & Feed Clerk.

Cranford (N. J.) Citizen—Mr. Hughes will be elected and we trust the control of the legislative branch of the government will at the same time pass from the hands that have made so complete a failure in every department of National affairs except the securing of offices and increasing expenses of administration.

The Democratic platform of this year does not follow its Baltimore predecessor by incorporating a declaration that the pledges of the document are made to be observed in office as well as to be used in seeking votes. The reason for the omission is entirely clear. The promises of the Baltimore platform were so much more uniformly honored in the breach rather than in the observance that the Democrats this year sought to duck the obvious and invidious and odious comparison. However, it is of small consequences, because the St. Louis platform is not the document which will be invoked during the next four years. The chart for this country's progress during that time was drafted in Chicago in the Republican convention.

The biography of President Hayes which Prof. John W. Burgess has just published calls to mind the fact that it was during the Hayes administration that Diaz came to power in Mexico. "Mr. Hayes," says his biographer, "was not more pleased with the way Diaz came to the Presidency than was Mr. Wilson with the supposed or assumed complicity of Huerta in the killing of Madero, and there were the same violations of and dangers to American interests and the same boundary infractions to be dealt with. But Mr. Hayes was a practical statesman of refined manners—and to Mexico were vouchsafed thirty-five years of such peace and prosperity as it had never before enjoyed." The reflection on Mr. Wilson is some too harsh.

THE GOVERNOR DESIGNATES STATE GOOD ROADS DAYS

Montgomery, Ala., July 29, 1916.
Hon. E. B. Deason,
Judge of Probate
Clanton, Ala.
Dear Sir:

Sometime ago, in accordance with the statutes of Alabama, I issued a proclamation naming August 14 and 15 as Good Roads Days. This date is rapidly aproaching, and realizing the importance of keeping before the people the great benefits to be derived from good roads and highways and to create an interest in this work, I would suggest that you keep before the minds of the people from now until the 14th of August the fact that these days are set aside and designated as Good Roads Days, asking all to co-operate. This can be done with a short notice in your weekly press.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. HENDERSON,
Governor.

In connection with the above letter I desire to say that I hope each community in the County will select a piece of road, and on good roads days, August 14th and 15th, meet and fix that piece of road in good shape. If each community will do this, a lot of road can be built. If we give these two days to road building we not only render valuable service to ourselves and neighbors, but we enter into a spirit of co-operation with our sister counties, as well as all other counties of the State. I again urge each community to give their time to the cause of better roads on the 14th and 15th inst.

Respectfully,
E. B. DEASON,
Judge of Probate.

Editor Union-Banner:

Your local of last week in saying I failed to hand you the minutes of the old Veterans' meeting was somewhat erroneous. I told you that I gave the minutes to the Press and ask them to let you have them as we wanted them printed in both local papers. I suppose you misunderstood me, so I trust you will publish this explanation this week.

Respectfully,
J. J. PICKENS.

"If you want to make this fight on the tariff, we will point you to the reflection of the furnace fires which are blushing red against the skies," bawled Collier of Mississippi, to the Republicans, while delivering a home consumption speech on the seven-headed revenue measure which recently passed the House. All right Mr. Collier. And the Republican party is going to place a long grip on each one of your long, furry ears and point you to the wide-furrowed warfields of Europe blushing red with the blood of countless thousands slain with shot shrapnel "made in America," carried to the front on American trucks and railroad cars, and fired from American guns, the manufacture of which revived the furnace fires, which, under the smothering influence of the Democratic tariff law, were mere heaps of ashes before the European war broke out. Can you meet that argument?

HOLINESS MEETING CLOSED

The holiness meeting which has been in progress at the Temple near Clanton for the past week closed Sunday. It wound up by the preacher Adams getting into a fight with his son-in-law, Elijah Johnson. Reports say that Adams was hit in the [illegible] and left with a swollen eye.

The "pickle" of the Democrats in Chilton county is getting worse every time it "gets." What do you suppose it will be in November anyhow? Our guess is that it will be just nothing.

County Probate Court will be held next Monday by Judge Deason.

SHERIFF'S SALE, REAL ESTATE

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Ala., and to me directed whereby I, as Sheriff of said County, was commanded to make the sum of Six thousand two hundred thirty-one and 62-100 Dollars, principal and interest, and nineteen and 25-100 Dollars, costs of suit, the amount of a certain judgment and costs therein obtained at the Special Term, 1916, of said Court of said County, Alabama, in favor of Birmingham Trust and Saving Co., against E. A. Mattehws, P. D. Wilson, etals., I have levied upon and will sell to the highest bidder for cash, at public sale, at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., on Monday, the 21 day of August 1916, all the right, title and interest of the above named P. D. Wilson in and to the following described real estate, viz:

Lots 5 and 6 in block 7, one lot on southwest corner of block No. 2, being 35 feet fronting on second avenue thence running back in a northerly direction parallel with second avenue 87 feet being part of the Thornton Hotel lot. Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in block 18, lots 1, 2 and 3 in block No. 11, lots 5 and 6 in block No. 7 and lot No. 1 in block No. 2 are in the original survey of the Town of Clanton. All the lots mentioned in blocks 18 and 11 are in the P. D. Wilson addition to the Town of Clanton. Also, all that part of NE¼ of SE¼ lying west of the L. & N. Railroad about 7 acres not laid off in lots, also that part of NW¼ of SE¼ west of the L. & N. Railroad, 7 acres all in Section 35, Township 22, Range 14, also one brick stone house and lots 11 and 14 in block No. 7. Lots 1, 2, and 3 in block No. 13, lots 3 and 4 in block No. 16, all of block No. 14 all of block No. 15, also lot No. 1 in block No. 16 except 35 feet across south side of said lot, which has been sold to Mrs. Rosa Thornton, all of said lots are in the P. D. Wlison addition to the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

This 19 day of July 1916, H. A. HARRIS, Sheriff,

Posted at Court House door July 19, 1916.

H. A. HARRIS,
Sheriff.

CLOSE BAPTIST MEET.

Plantersville, Ala., July 30.—A great meeting has just closed at the Baptist Church at this place. The pastor, Rev. R. R. Brasher, was assisted by Rev. L. M. Bradley, of Birmingham. There were added to the church thirteen and ten of these were for baptism. The church has been greatly strengthened.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
All Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Long Time Loans to Farmers on Improved Real Estate

On real estate security in Chilton County, owned by farmers. I can procure long time loansfrom clients who have ample money to lend, at less tha 8 per cent interest. Applicants should bring their land papers with them.

Wm. M. ADAMS, Clanton, Ala.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

GULF COAST RESORTS

SEASHORE EXCURSIONS

Every Saturday, June 3 to September 9

ROUND TRIP FARES FROM CLANTON

Pensacola	$7.15
Pascagoula	8.00
Biloxi	8.40
Pass Christian	9.15
Magnolia Springs	9.50
Ocean Springs	8.35
Gulfport	9.00
Bay St. Louis	9.30

TEN-DAY RETURN LIMIT

Also on sale daily until October 15th, regular round trip Summer Tourist Tickets to Gulf Coast Resorts at slightly higher fares with return limit of October 31st.

L&N

For particulars apply to

J. A. HESTER, Ticket Agent, Clanton

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. P. I. HOPKINS
Practicing Physician
Special attention given t Eyes, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office hours 9 to 12, a. m., and 2 to 5 o'clock, p. m.
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

Are You Prepared for Baby's Arrival?

You are if "Mother's Friend" has been given a place in your home. The dread and agony of childbirth can be eliminated to the greatest extent by this wonderful assistant to nature. Druggists everywhere sell "Mother's Friend."

A Valuable and Interesting Book on Motherhood Sent Free to All Expectant Mothers WRITE FOR IT.
The Bradfield Regulator Co.
200 Lamar Bldg.
Atlanta, Ga.

STATE HAS 553 TYPHOID FEVER PATIENTS NOW

Four Hundred Are in Jefferson County, Tabulation at Capital Shows

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 1.—Alabama has 553 cases of typhoid fever, according to a tabulation made public by the State Health Department Tuesday. Four hundred cases are in Jefferson County. Sumter is second with 38. No reports have been received from Mobile, Montgomery and Dallas Counties.

NEW MATRON FOR OLD SOLDIERS' HOME

Mountain Creek, Ala., Aug. 2.—Mrs. J. D. Eiland has been appointed by the Executive Committee of the Alabama Old Soldiers' Home as matron of the institution.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET

Gadsden, Ala., Aug. 1.—The first political meeting of the Republicans in the Seventh Congressional District will be at Odenville August 12, when Judge T. H. Davidson, of Oneonta, candidate for Congress, will speak. M. W. Howard, former congressman, and the St. Clair County nominees also will speak.

62 CHICAGO BABIES DIE; HEAT IS FACTOR

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Sixty-two babies less than a year old died here in the last 24 hours, 52 of them from intestinal diseases due partly to the heat, Dr. J. D. Robertson, health commissioner, announced today. He said he had instituted a crusade against drug stores selling soothing syrups believed to contain opium.

HUGHES' DATES FOR PACIFIC COAST TRIP

New York, Aug. 1.—Charles E. Hughes expects to leave New York tomorrow afternoon for his summer home at Bridgehampton, where he will remain until Saturday, when he will start on his trip to the Pacific coast. The itinerary of the trip, officially announced today, follows:

Niagara Falls, August 6; Chicago, August 8; St Paul, and Minneapolis, August 9; Grand Forks and Fargo, A. D., August 10; Helena, Mont., August 12; Spokane, Wash., August 13; Coer 'DAlene, August 14; Tacoma and Seattle, August 15; Portland, August 16; San Francisco, August 18; Los Angeles, August 20-21; Reno, Nev., August 23; Ogden and Salt Lake, August 24; Chyenne, Wyo., August 25; Denver, August 26.

From August 27 to September 1, Mr. Hughes will rest in Estes Park, Col.

September 2, Topeka and Kansas City; September 3-4, St. Louis ington, Ky., September 5.

September 6 and 7 will be spent in transit to Maine.

The trip which will be made on regular trains, provides for rest on Sundays instead of traveling.

PATENTS

Obtained through the old established "D. SWIFT & CO." are being quickly bought by Manufacturers.

Send a model or sketches and description of your invention for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. We get patents or no fee. Write for our free book of 300 needed inventions.

D. SWIFT & CO.
Patent Lawyers. Estab. 1889.
307 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SILAGE FOR CATTLE

By Carl G. Filler, Extension Beef Cattle Expert, Alabama Extension Service and U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

It is a well known fact that any animal reaches its greatest production of meat, or milk, when it has access to a good pasture in addition to a suitable ration of dry feed. The BEST and CHEAPEST substitute for fresh pasture grass during the fall and winter, and even during a period of short pasture in summer, is silage. An animal fed slage in addition to a proper ration is rarely troubled with digestive disturbances. No rough feed is more palatable than good corn silage. Sometimes an animal refuses to eat silage until a taste for it has been acquired, but after that the animal will consume large quantities of it, as practically all do from the start.

Silage is most important to the dairyman, and to the man who is finishing or fattening cattle for beef. The feeding of silage is becoming more popular each year. This is because greater daily gains are made when the ration contains a fair allowance of silage, and these gains are made more cheaply than they can be without silage. This is especially true in the South where cotton seed meal is used so largely as the concentrated part of the ration, and where the majority of the hay produced is peavine, soy bean, alfalfa, or some other legume.

Silage can be produced for $3.00 per ton in most cases, and many times it can be produced for $2.00, and even less when sorghum is used instead of corn. Fifty pounds of silage per day is a full ration of roughage for a 1000 pound steer, and only costs 5c to 7 1-2c which is only about half the average cost for a daily ration of good hay. This is a considerable saving and will increase the profits greatly.

Even for carrying the breeding herd or a bunch of stockers, through the winter, silage is as cheap as roughage as can be produced under average Alabama conditions. When one has an abundance of cheap hay, oat straw, or a large acreage of velvet beans, it probably does not pay to build a silo for wintering cattle which were not being finished for market; but for finishing cattle silage is the most satisfactory roughage that one can procure. This is especially true when one is feeding cotton seed meal for the concentrated part of the ration. By feeding all the silage cattle will eat in addition to three or four pounds of hay or oat straw, and a medium allowance of cotton seed meal, one can get good gains and make them very cheaply. Slightly smaller gains are made per day when one does not feed a heavy ration of cotton seed meal, but the gains cost so much less per 100 pounds that the profits are considerably greater per steer. Parties who feed even a poor grade of cattle this past year made excellent profits when they fed them a large allowance of silage, a little hay, and 5 pounds of cotton seed meal per 1000 lbs. steer.

In some cases silage has paid enough profit above the cost of producing and storing in the silo, to pay for the silo the first year. This is frequently done where inexpensive silos are used. I have known renters who did not hesitate to build a wooden silo, when they only had a two year lease on a farm. Where one can, and where one is permanently situated, it is best to build a permanent silo, but one can build inexpensive wooden hoop silos that will give splendid results if they are built air tight. Silage will not keep where the air gets to it. However, where air is absolutely excluded by perfect walls, and the silage is cut short enough (half inch lengths) and tramped hard enough while the silo is being filled, it will keep indefinitely.

Late Cultivation of Corn.

Perhaps the greatest limiting factor in the yield of corn is the insufficient supply of moisture. Corn plants take large quantities of water from the soil, and evaporate it through their leaves. Surface evaporation should, therefore, be rduced as much as possible by keeping a dust over the surface of the ground. Corn is too often laid-by at a time when it is making heavy demands on the soil for water. Of course, late cultivation must be shallow, to prevent cutting the roots, but even a thin coat of dust, such as is formed by breaking the crust after a rain, will do much to check surface evaporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mulli nsreturned Monday from a visit to the parents of the latter in Mississippi.

LARGE QUANTITY OF BOOZE SIEZED AT WHITESBURG

Huntsville, Ala., Aug. 1.—Deputies from the office of Sheriff John C. Lowe, assisted by Chief of Police Dyas, have just made the largest haul of contraband liquor reportedinthis section in several months. In an old store house at Whitesburg, they found 59 cases containing 2,950 half pints of liquor, of a Chattanooga brand. It had, it is believed, been transported to Whitesburg on a stamboat and placed in the storehouse for concealment.

Hay was spread over the stuff and it is not known how long it had been there nor to whom it belonged.

The storhouse is said to be owned by P. E. Brooks and rented to Charles M. Nalls, former Circuit Clerk. Both of these men are in jail in Birmingham, charged with being connected with the murder of Judge W. T. Lawler.

The liquor was intended for bootleggers in Huntsville, it is believed, and probably would have brought $1,425 at blind tiger rates. It was placed in the Madison County jail for safe keeping.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Robinson, Sr., and daughter, Margaret, and Jessie Raines are spending this week at Auburn. Mr. Robinson is attending the Farmers Institute.

26.8 INCHES OF RAIN

During the month of July a total of 26.8 inches of rain fell in the vicinity of Clanton. This is no doubt the highest record of rainfall in the knowledge of any citizen in town.

BANK CASHIER SLAIN; SUICIDE NOTE LEFT

Ruston, La., Aug. 1.—The body of Harry Goodwill, cashier of the Lincoln parish bank of this city, was found beside an unfrequented road through Cypress Creek swamp near here today. A bullet was lodged in Goodwill's heart. Letters found on the body addressed to Goodwill's wife and to an officer of the bank where he was employed, told of the contemplated suicide because of a shortage in his accounts. Officers of the bank tonight stated the amount of the shortage, if such existed, had not been determined.

Mr. C F. Jones' mother from Columbiana and Miss Mary Jones of Sylacauga and Miss Ruth Cunningham of Talladega are visiting him this week.

M. & O. car shops at Whistler near Mobile are working full time.

Li Yuan-Hung is the new President of China. He took the oath of office August 1.

Only one death is reported in Alabama coal mines during July.

Lauderdale county commissioners are doing a great deal of road building.

LOUSIANA MOOSERS REFUSE TO ENDORSE HUGHES AS NOMINEE

Put Parker on Ticket for Vice President—Leave Space for President Blank.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 1.—The Louisiana state Progressive convention held here today endorsed the nomination of John M. Parker for vice president, but failed to ratify the national committee's action in endorsing Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for president. Instead, the convention adopted a resolution instructing that Mr. Parker's name be placed on the ballot under the Bull Moose emblem as vice president, but that the space reserved for the name of the candidate for president be left blank.

The ten presidential electors selected were uninstructed as to the candidate for whom they should vote, if elected.

When a delegate asserted he thought the convention ought to make a specific declaration for Mr. Hughes, he was greeted with shouts of "No, no!" "You're out of order!" "Put him out!"

Good Looks are Easy with Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your city cousins. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle Magnolia Balm will surely clear your skin instantly. Heals Sunburn, too. Just put a little on your face and rub it off again before dry. Simple and sure to please. Try a bottle and see the improvement at once. White, Pink and Rose-Red Colors. 75 cents. Druggists or by mail direct.

SAMPLE FREE.

[illegible] CO., 46 South St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South

Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy f Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three Years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address

CHAS. C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President, Auburn, Ala.

Copyright 1916 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Slip a few Prince Albert smokes into your system!

You've heard many an earful about the Prince Albert patented process that cuts out bite and parch and lets you smoke your fill without a comeback! Stake your bank roll that it proves out every hour of the day. Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

There's sport smoking a pipe or rolling your own, but you know that you've got to have the right tobacco! We tell you Prince Albert will bang the doors wide open for you to come in on a good time firing up every little so often, without a regret! You'll feel like your smoke past has been wasted and will be sorry you cannot back up for a fresh start.

PRINCE ALBERT
the national joy smoke

You swing on this say-so like it was a tip to a thousand-dollar bill! It's worth that in happiness and contentment to you, to every man who knows what can be gotten out of a chummy jimmy pipe or a makin's cigarette with Prince Albert for "packing"!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.
Winston-Salem, N. C.

This is the reverse side of the tidy red tin

THE Prince Albert tidy red tin, and in fact, every Prince Albert package, has a real message-to-you on its reverse side. You'll read:—"Process Patented July 30th, 1907." That means that the United States Government has granted a patent on the process by which Prince Albert is made. And by which tongue bite and throat parch are cut out! Everywhere tobacco is sold you'll find Prince Albert awaiting you in toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors and in that clever crystal-glass humidor, with sponge moistener top, that keeps the tobacco in such fine condition—always!

HUNTSVILLE COTTON MILLS TO BE ENLARGED

Huntsville, Ala., Aug. 2.—The Abingdon Cotton Mills is having plans drawn for an addition to its mill which will cost approximately $50,000. More than 100 additional employes will be used. The company only recently completed a $50,000 addition.

J. A. Cleckler of Route 8 was a visitor here Thursday.

F. F. Merchant of Jemison was in Clanton Wednesday.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble
ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

HON. O. D. STREET

Republican National Committeeman from Alabama.

—and—

HON. POPE M. LONG

Chairman State Executive Committee of the Republican party.

Will Speak at the Court House in Clanton.

Saturday, August the 12, 1916

On the political issues of the present campaign.

Local speakers will also make brief addresses.

It is important that all voters of the county be present.

MUSIC BY THORSBY BAND

(Paid political advertisement, published by authority of L. H. Reynolds, M. D. Foshee, H. A. Harris, J. D. Collins, J. N. Dennis, W. H. Gillsepie, all of Clanton, Ala.)

"FATHER IS IN EINE SHAPE NOW" HE SAYS

Georgia Farmer Suffered For Twenty Years and Paid out Thousands

"My father has suffered from chronic stomach trouble for over 20 years and has paid out thousands of dollars on medicines and dortors," said G. W. Slaton, a well-known Cobb county farmerr, who lives near Smyrna, a short distance out of Atlanta.

"We tried nearly everything trying to cure him, and he went off to the springs, thinking maybe the water would help him, but it just looked like nothing would reach his trouble. Then he tried dieting, and lived on liquid food until he almost starved but even that failed to do any good, and he just kept going from bad to worse.

"I don't guess there ever was a case as stubborn as his, and if there ever was a confirmed dyspeptic he was one of them, and I guess he would have been one yet if it hadn't been for this Tanlac.

"The first we heard of this medicine was when my father saw an advertisement in the papers from parties he knew in Tennessee, who were friends of his, and he knew what they said about it was the truth, so he got it right away and began taking it.

"Well, sir, it acted just like magic —and everybody notices the change in father now—why, he is just like a different man, and gets down to the table and eats just like a farm hand. Only yesterday he ate pork and turnips for his dinner, and ate so much we were actually afraid he was overdoing the thing, but he laughed and said nothing hurt him now, and that he was hungry and expected to eat and make up for lost time.

Now, when a medicine will do things like that, I think people ought to know about it, and I want to say right now that I would not give one bottle of Tanlac for all the other medicines and health resorts in the country put together."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co., and in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon.

DADDY SIMS vs. VERBENA

On Friday afternoon the baseball team of Daddy Sims, which he has lined up to make the tour of Georgia this summer, will play their exhibition game at the ball park in Clanton against Verbena, in a double header. The Sims team expect to start on the trip to Georgia about the 8th of this month.

MONEY IS READY TO PAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Superintendent W. T. Bean and E. E. Upchurch County Treasurer of public school funds announce that the money due to teachers of the county is now ready for delivery to them, and came san be had by application in person to Mr. Upchurch at the Upchurch Drug Company, or by making application through the mail, enclosing addressed stamped envelope for return. This will be interesting news to the teachers of the county, as some of them have been more or less inconvenienced by the tie-up of the school funds, caused by the failure of the Clanton Bank.

AGENT WANTED

We can give a splendid contract to a wide awake man with horse and wagon to handle our business in Chilton County

Singer Sewing Machine Co.
8-3-4t Montgomery, Ala.

DEMOCRATS MAY SLIP IN A THIRD CANDIDATE

As matters politically stand in Chilton county now, there are two candidates for the office of judge of probate, Hon. L. H. Reynolds, regular republican primary nominee and W. L. Popwell, a republican selected by the democrats to head the democratic ticket in place of Rev. S. M. Adams, who declined to futher continue the race against Mr. Reynolds.

Chilton county is republican by a small majority and now with these two republicans pulling against each other for the office of judge of probate it occures to some democrats that this is a good time to "slip a democrat over" them.

Several good democrats are frequently spoken of to do this trick.

Hon. Reese Mullins, Capt. J. M. Simpson, who has managed the soldier's home for ten years and Banker W. T. Callen, each have friends who would vote for them to occupy the chair of probate judge of Chilton county.

There are 80 votes at the soldier's home all democrats except four or five; there is a large list of pensioners in Chilton county and many of these men prefer a democrat to a republican.—Montgomery Journal.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

First Methodist Church of Clanton

Preaching every Sunday at eleven o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M. Everybody cordially invited to worship with us in these services.

REV. I. F. BILBRO, Pastor.

Sunday Schools starts at 9:45 A. M. instead of 10 o'clock. Please do not forget the time and bring someone with you.

J. B. ATKINSON, Supt.

Prayer meeting at 8 o'clock P. M. Wednesday. Make the prayer meeting your services.

PERRY JOHNSON CUT

At the sanctified meeting one night last week, a rather mysterious fracas occurred, in which somebody slashed Perry Johnson with a knife, inflicting slight injuries. It is not known who did the cutting, as it was in the dark. Johnson is a young man about 18 or 20 years old.

SUGGESTIONS FOR EXHIBITORS AT FAIR

The Chilton County Fair Association offeres the following suggestions to those who intend to make exhibits of articles at the Fair next fall.

Carefully preserve your Catalogue. Prepare your exhibit by the Catalogue, having in mind the Department, Class and Number when you desire to compete.

Do not place your name on specimens offered; the judges must not know the owner until after the aword is made.

If you desire to place on exhibit some rare or worthy article for which no place has been provided in the Catalouge, please attach a card to it bearing your name, stating "No contest."

The duplicate entry tag, given by the Secretary when the article is entered, is your receipt for the same, and if you preserve these tags you will have no difficulty in getting your specimens at the close of the Fair.

All exhibits should be in vessels to which the entry tag can be securely tied.

All exhibits must be entered in the name of the maker or owner.

Articles entered for single premiums cannot be used in displays.

Judges to make awards in any department must be satisfied that the article and variety are worthy of a premium before any award is made.

The observance of the above directions will be mutually helpful to directors, officers and exhibitors.

A copy of the Catalogue and premium list may be obtained from Mr. W. T. Bean, Secretary of the Association, Clanton, Ala.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

The Stockholders of the Farmers' Union Warehouse and Mfg. Co. will hold their annual meeting Monday, August 7th, 1916. All are requested to be present at Jemison at 10 a. m.

B. L. COBB,
Secretary.

FOR SALE—Redemption equity in store building at Thorsby worth one thousand dollars, owner has equity of five hundred dollars will sell for one hundred dollars cash, address the Ingalls Iron Works Company, Birmingham, Ala.,

Colds

should be "nipped in the bud", for if allowed to run unchecked, serious results may follow. Numerous cases of consumption, pneumonia, and other fatal diseases, can be traced back to a cold. At the first sign of a cold, protect yourself by thoroughly cleansing your system with a few doses of the old reliable, vegetable liver powder.

THEDFORD'S
BLACK-DRAUGHT

Mr. Chas. A. Ragland, of Madison Heights, Va., says: "I have been using Thedford's Black-Draught for stomach troubles, indigestion, and colds, and find it to be the very best medicine I ever used. It makes an old man feel like a young one."

Insist on Thedford's, the original and genuine. E-67

Flour Mill

We desire to state to the public that our Flour Mill at Coopers is again ready for operation this season, and you are cordially invited to give us your patronage.

We thank you for having given us such liberal patronage last season, and promise you to even more than ever exert every means and effort to serve you satisfactorily. Our Mill will be in continuous operation during the entire season.

Very Respectfully

Cooper M'f'g. Company
COOPER, ALA.

CLANTON ITEMS

T. J. Dorminey of Union Grove was in Clanton Wednesday. He says he is coming back on the 12th loaded for bear.

Wiley Gore of Collins Chapel was in town Wednesday.

Judson Stroek of Verbena was here Tuesday.

SEED OATS

If you belive in preparedness, now is the time to secure your seed oats. This season has proven the merits of the Fulghum oat as to carliness, cold resistance and good yields. I have a limited quantity of raceland pure Fulghum oats to offer at $1.00 per bushel. My crop was free from smut. First come first served. J. N. Dennis, Clanton, Ala.

D. O. Manning of Benson was in town Wednesday.

Jesse Collum of Union Grove was in Clanton Wednesday.

Mrs. M. E. Smith of Sylacauga is visiting relatives here this week.

All varieties of new and fresh Turnip Seed for sale at Upchurch Drug Co., at the right prices.

E. B. Popwell of Thorsby was here Wednesday.

Johnnie Mims of Thorsby was among the visiters to Clanton Wednesday.

Mrs. Mae Foster the lovely and attractive guest of Mrs. B. M. Roberts has returned home.

Mrs. Alex Richards is in the South Highland hospital, having been operated on for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Myrick, after a short visit to Mrs. Myrick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer, are leaving today for Greensborough, N. C., to visit Mr. Myrick's parents.

PLANTED YOUR TURNIPS? Now is the time. Get your seed at Upchurch Drug Co., where they are new and fresh and sure to come up when planted.

Mr. Ben Grey and children have gone to Jemison to make their future home, to the regret of their many friends.

Mrs. Nichelson of Montgomery spent the week with her sister, Mrs. R. E. Luckey.

Mrs. Lena Fulton and children of Sylacauga are visiting the formers parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pyron.

Misses Mabel and Myrtle Wilson of Montgomery are visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Miss Ruth Elliotts the attractive guest of Miss Willie Belle Sartor has returned home.

All kinds new and fresh turnip seed at Upchurch Drug Co.

Miss Kate Davis returned home after a pleasant visit to friends and relatives in South Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson are attending protracted services at Lime Springs this week.

Miss Gladys Wood, former teacher in the grammar school is spending a few days with Mrs. Renfroe Mullins.

Don't forget to come to the Republican meeting at Clanton on the 12th of August. There is going to be something doing that will interest you very highly! Hon. Pope M. Long and Hon. O. D. Street, prominent men in state politics, and local speakers will address the voters in the court house. This is the firing of the fist gun of the campaign, and you ought to be on hand to get an even start.

Gilbert Foshee, a negro,, charged with abondment, was brought to Clanton from Gadsden by Sheriff Harris this week and placed in jail.

Miss Lillian Robinson of Providence is visiting in Clanton this week.

GEORGE TRAYWICK ARRESTED

Charges of selling whiskey were entered against George Traywick at Lock 12 last week, and he was arrested and put under bond to await trial.

Mr. Alvin Jones and Miss Lena Downs and Miss Mary Lane motored to Columbiana Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Calloway of Verbena were visitors to Clanton last Monday, en route to their home from a visit to their son, F. R. Calloway, near Maplesville.

Louis N. Kent Has Cut Out Doctors

Honoraville Man Writes How He Does It

Up until a short while ago Mr. Kent gave a large part of his salary to doctors, but now he spends that money for more useful things. He writes: "I deem it only just to say a few words in praise of Granger Liver Regulator. It is a great saver of doctor's bills. I have tried the Regulator and I know what I am talking about. I shall keep it in my house as long as I can get it." If you want to save your health and your money, ask your druggist about Granger Liver Regulator. He'll tell you.

Miss Izora Callen has been visiting friends in Mississippi for several weeks. She returned here Saturday.

Burton Higgins returned home Saturday from an extended tour of the Western States.

Miss Cora Pruett of Weogufka is visiting at Mr. A. C. Smith's in South Clanton for a few weeks.

You have missed a whole lot if you haven't heard Burt Higgins tell of his experiences on his trip out west this summer.

Mr. H. S. Watkins of near Jemison was in our office on Monday and subscribed for the Union-Banner.

The county fair catalogue is printed and ready for distribution. Get a copy from Secretary W. T. Bean, and see what the Fair is offering this fall. Get your resources together then and help make the Fair another big success.

Miss Agnes Averyt rethurned to her home in Ensley Monday after a visit to Mrs. J. Q. Wade.

A. C. Wade visited Coosada Monday.

W. E. Robinson of Billingsley was in town Saturday.

W. D. Burnett of Bilingsley was a caller at our office Saturday. Mr. Burnett states that cotton prospects in his section are bad. He has 65 acres planted and expects to make about 10 bales.

Dr. V. J. Gragg of Birmingham was in Clanton Saturday on business, and to see his many friends here.

Prof. Jos. F. Bone of New Decatur is in Clanton for a few days visit to relatives and friends. He will teach near New Decatur again next year.

FOR SALE—Mare 8 years old and colt 5 weeks old. Will sell at a bargain right away. Guarantee working qualities and safety. H. H. Hayes, Clanton, Ala., R. 4. adv. 8-3-3-t

C. D. Foshee of Billingsley was in Clanton Tuesday.

Prof. R. A. Smith of Jemison was in town Tuesday.

J. B. Colley, State agent of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. was up here from Montgomery on Tuesday.

L. R. Sawyer of Shelby was in town Tuesday.

Rev. Crumpton has returned from a vacation spent at Talladega Springs.

Miss Hester Robinson of Thorsby has been visiting in Clanton for several days.

FOR SALE—One cow and calf. The cow is half Jersey and half Holstein. Calf is two weeks old. Cow now with first calf. Price reasonable, J. C. Culp, Clanton, Ala.,-R. 7. 8-3-3-t

Squire A. F. Childress of Thorsby was in town Monday.

Charley Bowles of Mineral Springs was here Monday.

Joe Bowles of Billingsley was in Clanton Monday.

TY COBB

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

RANDOLPH ROSE

TY COBB—the more he plays the better he gets. This is his twelfth year in the majors and the way he started out the very first game it looks like he'll do even more wonderful things this year than ever before.

The Giants and Tigers stood tied at two games each in a five-game series at Marters, the first week in April. Cobb, who is allowed to take his time in reporting in the spring, because he gets into condition quickly, was wired for frantically by Manager Jennings to get to Marlin in time to enter the final and deciding game, which Jennings was particularly anxious to win.

Cobb, who is a native Georgian, born in 1886 in Royston, Ga., rode on the sleeper all night and reached Marlin just before game time. No uniform could be found. So he went to center field in an old suit of clothes and a street cap. This is what he did the first game—

Hit two two-baggers, got a base on balls, stole second and third, scored on a short hit; accepted five chances in the outfield. All the flies were hard to catch as the wind was high and the field rough and two of them were simply marvelous catches.

After the game, Manager McGraw of the Giants, who peculiarly enough had never seen Cobb play before, said:

"Well, all they've said about that boy is true, and more, too. He's the most wonderful ball player I ever saw."

There are many marvelous stories about Cobb, such as scoring from first on a single, and feats like that. One I saw myself in Chattanooga, when the Tigers visited my town in the spring of 1912, returning from their training camp, was good.

Cobb was on third with Balenti, Chattanooga third baseman, about twenty feet back of the base, holding the ball where he had fielded it. Cobb lead way off as is his custom. You could see on Balenti's face an expression that said plain as day, "No need to try to steal home on me with me holding the ball right here."

Cobb danced up and down the path just as much as to say, "Oh, I'm just prancing up and down here to see how far I can go. You don't think I'm fool enough to try to steal home, do you?"

That's what it looked like in the grand stand, anyway. Well, Cobb, after he had got a big lead, lit out for home. Balenti was so surprised he made a bad throw. And there went down in history a player stealing home with the third baseman holding the ball. That was good enough for me,

Randolph Rose

REPUBLICANS MEET AT COURT HOUSE

From Dothan Daily Dispatch.—

In accordance with the advertised announcement, Mr. L. H. Reynolds, of Clanton, Ala., spoke to an audience of about 300 white citizens of Houston county yesterday, who gave him close attention and upon several times enthusiastic cheers.

Mr. Reynolds was introduced by H. R. McClintock, Esq., in a few, short appropriate sentences, and the speaker of the day immediately took up the subject, which consisted of an eulogy of the republican nominee for president, Mr. Chas. Hughes. Of President Wilson, he said was a good man, a good school teacher, and that next year he will have the opportunity to go back to teaching school.

Mr. Reynolds spoke of the good times had under republican rule and the hard times under democratic administrations, citing particularly Cleveland's time and Wilson's.

He then took up the subject of state affairs, told of the gradual increase of taxes under 25 years of "reform," each governor promising to "reform" and retrench and each one adding millions of taxation to the burdens of the people.

Mr. Reynolds paid particular attention and emphasis to the Tax Equalizers and the raise of value on property, citing that while taxes were higher government was poorer.

M. C. Williams of Billingsley was in town Monday.

FOR SALE—Printype Oliver Typewriter, latest model; practically new; at a bargain. Apply to Powell Pressing Club, Clanton, Ala.

HUGHES FAVORES WOMAN SUFFRAGE

New York, August 1.—Charles E. Hughes today declared for an amendment to the federal constitution providing for woman suffrage. Mr. Hughes views on the suffrage were made public in a letter he has written to Senator Sutherland of Utah.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rumors are gong around that certain parties are considering the establishment of a Presbyterian church in Clanton. It is good news to say the least of it. Churches are the best assets of a community, and we shall welcome the new house of worship.

The editor has a letter from Henry Mahan, Jr., and Clint Jones, in Indiana, saying they want to keep in touch with Clanton and Chilton county, and requesting that the Union-Banner be sent to them. They are working at a construction enterprise on the Ohio River.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Vines of Thorsby were visitors to Clanton Thursday.

MARRIAGES

J. T. Traywick and Miss Nancy Cagle.

J. L. Hayes and Miss Lilla Maddox.

Colored—J. R. Walter and Francis Gibson; Jim Goodsmith and Mary Sproggies.

AVENGED INSULT TO SISTER

Fort Payne, August 2.—Kirk Sloan, an 18-year-old boy, whose home is near Hanegar, has surrendered to the authorities following the killing of Cal Goodwin at Sloan's home on Sunday night. Sloan alleges that he shot Goodwin because of an insult to Sloan's sister. Five shots were fired into Goodwin's body, either one of which would have proved fatal. Sloan is being held to await the action of the grand jury.

No. 666

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c

An Historical Fact

PURELY VEGETABLE S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

Even before the days of our Forefathers, extracts from the same kind of roots, herbs and barks, now used in compounding the ingredients for S. S. S., were well known and extensively used among the Indians.

Science and modern methods have only changed the Indians way of handling the materials, the essential features are still in evidence in S. S. S.—Natures Greatest Blood Purifier—and a natural sequence of the Indians favorite medicine.

GET THE GENUINE S. S. S. AT YOUR DRUGGIST.

USED FOR 50 YEARS SUCCESSFULLY

S.S.S. Co. Atlanta, Georgia

State Happenings

BIG COTTON DEAL

On Wednesday afternoon 2,000 bales of cotton were sold in Montgomery by McQueen Smith of Prattille. The price paid was a little over 13c a pound, and the deal aggregated over $150,000. The cotton will probaply be exported.

ANOTHER BANK FAILURE; CASHIER COMMITS SUICIDE

The Bank of Guntersville, Marshall county, Ala., has been taken in charge by Alex E. Walker, State Supt. of Banks, and the cashier, S. A. Bradford, has committed suicide. Bradford was suspected of embezzelment by the Directors of the bank, who reported the conditions to the state banking department.

COTTON CROP AROUND PRATTVILLE IS GOOD

Prattville, Ala., Aug. 2.—Some of the farmers of this immediate section are made to feel much encouraged by the advancing price of spot cotton, in view of the fact that there are several fields in which may be seen open cotton. Most prominent of farmers who now have open cotton may be mentioned C. W. Smith, who for the last eight or ten years has been breeding up an early variety of cotton that will resist the ravages of the boll weevil. As soon as the land is dry enough he will start his labor to picking this cotton out. He reports from three to five bolls open on the stalk of cotton and the prospect is good for him to gather even with all the drawbacks, including both floods and boll weevil, as much as 80 per cent. of an average crop.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Downs of Birmingham are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs, near Falakto.

Wanted—50 more young men and 50 more young women to enter

THORSBY INSTITUTE

September 12th, 1916.

To get a High School Education or preparation for it, under vital Christian, tho non-sectarian influence

Teachers Thoroughly Trained.
High Standards, Low Expenses.
Opportunity of work to pay part expenses.
Room rent and good board, $2.50 per week.
Special attention to Music, Voice, Piano, Violin.
Business branches for those who want them.
You should send for catalogue to

Prin. S. H. HERBERT, Thorsby, Ala.

You and Your Friends—and

Coca-Cola

You tried it because we told you how good and delicious it was.

But your friends began drinking it because you told them how good it was. This is the endless chain of enthusiasm that has made Coca-Cola the beverage of the nation.

THE COCA-COLA CO.,
ATLANTA, GA.

10C

Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

New Prices Aug. 1, 1916

The following prices for Ford cars will be effective on and after August 1st, 1916.

Chassis	$325.00
Runabout	345.00
Touring Car . .	360.00
Coupelet	505.00
Town Car . . .	595.00
Sedan	645.00

f. o. b. Detroit.

These prices are positively guaranteed against a reduction before Aug. 1, 1917, but there is no guarantee against an advance in price at any time.

L. J. DUNCAN
CLANTON, ALA.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, AUGUST 10, 1916. NUMBER 19.

REYNOLDS REPUDIATES PRESS' STATEMENT

Will Discuss the Issues of the day with Mr. Popwell Saturday or any other time he may suggest.

Editor Union-Banner:

My attention was called to an article in the Clanton Press which was headed, "Reynolds and his crowd back down and will not have joint discussion." Now this was my first information that anyone wanted a joint discussion, and my policy has always been to divide half of my time I had to speak with my opponent; and I will be only too glad to divide with Mr. Popwell Saturday or any other time he may suggest.

I think the people have a right to know where we both stand on the issues of the day.

I assure my Popwell that I will be as courteous to him as he will to me, for I have never tried to bring any matters into any discussion that was not an issue; and I expect that I have had as many joint discussions as most anyman in Alabama.

We have not selected a campaign committee, but will soon, and I am sure when the committee is selected, that they will be only too glad to arrange a series of joint discussions between myself and Mr. Popwell.

I am sure there are many issues we will divide on, as I remember Mr. Popwell was about the first man in this county to write for bonds and debts, and had his article published in the Press, a democratic paper; and I have always been against debts, and I am now. I am opposed to the high taxes the people are paying, so I think it is but fair to let the people know where we stand.

Respectfully,
L. .H REYNOLDS.

LOVE SPURNED MAN KILLS SELF AND 14-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Selma, Ala., Aug. 8.—Miss Leta Patrick, pretty 14-year-old Wilcox county girl, was killed yesterday by Dr. Charlie Davis, aged 60, who immediately committed suicide, according to the news received here late today.

The girl gave her life as the price of rejected love. She spurned the Doctor's offer of marriage and he shot her twice, one of the bullets penetrating her thigh, as she ran, the other striking her in the head.

Immediately after the killing, Davis' body was placed in a rude pine casket by the enraged people of the Lamison section and buried without ceremony, within a short distance of where he took his own life.

Davis is said to have been paying the girl attention ever since she was a wee bit of a tot. He has a family living near Devil in Choctaw county, but had lived in this section intermittently for several years.

According to advices received here, he made a definite proposal of marriage to the girl yesterday, ubt was refused.

Funeral services were held late yesterday afternoon for the girl, and the body was laid to rest near Lamison.

The shots which killed Miss Patrick were heard by other members of the household, and her sister rushing to the younger girl's aid, was struck and slightly wounded by one of the bullets.

Miss Patrick was the daughter of W. T. Patrick, a wealthy farmer.

W. L. HOULDITCH IS FATALLY HURT BY CAR

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 6.—William L. Houlditch, of Pletchers, was run over by an automobile at an early hour this morning by Letcher McGee, teller of the City National Bank, and as a result of his injuries died three hours later.

The accident happened just opposite the postoffice.

Mr. Houlditch was dragged about fifty feet.

Mr. Houlditch was section foreman of the Mobile and Ohio railroad at Pletchers, and had come to Tuscaloosa to visit his son, who is just out of the hospital from an injury received a week ago. They were crossing Broad street and did not notice the car until it was upon them. The son jumped to safety.

The remains of Mr. Houlditch were shipped to Prattville this afternoon where the funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. He leaves a wife and three children, Mrs. B. J. Smith of Prattville, Louie Houlditch with the Mobile and Ohio at Montgomery, and Edward Houlditch of this city. He was sixty years of age.

Long Time Loans to Farmers on Improved Real Estate

On real estate security in Chilton County, owned by farmers. I can procure long time loansfrom clients who have ample money to lend, at less tha 8 per cent interest. Applicants should bring their land papers with them.

Wm. M. ADAMS, Clanton, Ala.

LETTER FROM CONFEDERATE SOLDIER, MR. E. H. SMITH

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your paper for a few words.

I was very proud indeed to learn that the old Confederate Soldiers met in Clanton on the 20th of July, according to previous arrangements, and through the courtesy of the Editor of the Union-Banner, I send the Secretary's report on said meeting, which was published in the Clanton Press also. I do not wish to criticise the Secretary's report at all, but the gentleman failed to inform the good people who the Hon. John M. Tillman from Arkansas was.

John M. Tillman is a member of the present congress. He has introduced a bill in congress for the benefit of the disabled old Confederate Soldiers, and widows of Confederates.

I hereby endorse Senator Tillman's bill, which is now pending to be acted on in congress.

I wish to state why the old Confederate Soldier should use his influence to have said bill passed in congress:

In the first place, the money that the Tillman bill calls on congress to pass is money that is lying idle in the United States vaults, which was accumulated from the sale of property and taxation immediately after the war.

The United States, at the close of the Civil war, confiscated lands, and put a tax on all cotton that was made from 1863 to 1878, said money obtained from said source was tested in the Unite States Supreme Court, and it proved to be illegal and unconstitutional.

That is the money that Senator John M. Tillman wants the Confederte Soldiers and widows to have. It was taken from the South, and by right, it should be reverted back to the South, from whence it came.

Every son and daughter of a Confederate Soldier should urge the Congressmen from the South to use every honest means in their power to have the bill passed.

The Southern states are doing a noble work for the old veterans, but the Tillman bill, if passed, will give them a great deal more than they are now getting, and they can live with more comfort the remainder of their lives. $500 as a starter and then a dollar a day for the remainder of their lives would be a lift for the old boys in their last days here on earth. So far as eatables and clothing, they would do well.

May God speed the passage of the Tillman bill, if it be consistent with his holy and divine will.

Respectfully,
E. H. SMITH.

FARMERS ANNUAL CONVENTION WILL BE HELD AUGUST 10-12

The State Convention of the Farmers Educational and Co-Operative Union of America, will be held in Birming ham at the County Court House, August 10, 11 and 12th inclusive.

The meeting will be called to order Thursday morning at nine o'clock when the adress of Welcome and respond-in-speeches will be made. Hon. Chas. S. Barrett, National President, will be present which will lend a great deal of zeal and interest to the meeting.

State officials of the Organization have extended a cordial invitation to all members of Organized Labor to attend the opening exercises of the convention, Thursday morning.

The delegates to the Farmers Convention will be entertained on Thursday night by The Legislative and Educational Co-Operative Committee of this city with a banquet at the Masonic Hall, where an entertaining program has been arranged. Several short addresses wil be made and a most enjoyable evening is anticipated.

"DADDY" SIMS' BASEBALL CLUB OFF TO GEORGIA

Perhaps one of the most noted events of the summer will be the tour of the ball team of Mr. J. D. Sims, which left this place on Tuesday.

"Daddy" Sims is known and loved by every true sportsman in this section of the state. Even the little boys point him out as their ideal in the field of innocent pleasure.

The players that have contracts for this tour to Georgia, Mr. Sims' native state, are all well known to the fans of Chilton county.

Howard Roper, the popular school teacher and ball player, has been selected as Captain and Secetary of the club.

The pitching staff will be composed of some of the best ameteur pitchers in the state including Pat Ruddy, Newt Foreman, Albert Pyron, Luther Pyron, and Wibb Parrish. Ross Ellenburg and Fred Sims go along as catchers.

The infield will be composed of; Dr. Adams 1b, George Long 2b, Charlie Thomas 3b, and Claud Shaw ss.

The out field will be played by; John M. Burnett cf, Marvin Marcus rf, and Howard Roper lf.

This is the best all around aggregation that has ever been pulled together in these parts and we predict splendid success for the trip. "Daddy" has had a team of his own for several seasons and has won about 90 per cent. of the games played each season, so we are sure the honor of Chilton county will be in safe hands and that this tour will be long remembered in baseball circles. We join all Alabama fans in wishing much pleasure to the party.

Quite a crowd from Clanton attended the dance out at Mineral Springs last Saturday night.

HUGHES SNEERS AT MEN APPOINTED BY WILSON

Cites Instances where Stock Breeder and Southern Politician Replaced Experts as Department Heads.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—Charles E. Hughes, in the first set speech of his transcontinental trip, tonight assailed the administration vigorously for its foreign policy, its Mexican policy, for appointing men who he termed inexperienced to diplomatic posts and for what he characterized as a "raid upon the civil service of the United States."

"He kept us out of war," Mr. Hughes said, refeering to the President, and a democratic campaign. "Yet we seized Vera Cruz. That was war—very ignoble war. And it was called war over the bodies of those dead soldiers; it was called war of service.

"Talk about what is your policy. What is the President's policy—does any one know? Has the executive ever had a policy for more than six months on the Mexican question? I repeat: Who knows today what the policy of the administration will be three months hence? My friends, the trouble is that this administration has written such a record that no matter what it says, you do not know whether it will stick to it.

Feels Ashamed

"We have had an exhibition during the past three years which, I confess, fills me with a deep sense of shame. I have not a particle of militaristic spirit in my system, but if I am elected President I will see to it that American rights in Mexico are respected."

Mr. Hughes assailed the administration's course toward upholding American rights abroad during the European war.

"When I say that I am an American citizen," the nominee said, "I ought to say the proudest thing that any man can say in this world. But you can't have that pride if American citizenry is a cheap thing, if it is not worthy of protection this wide world over. There is no man who could successfully present to an American community the platform that an American citizen's rights stop at the coast line and that beyond that American life is to be the prey of any marauder that chooses to take it."

The nominee cited the republican platform's declaration that 30,000 government positions had been taken from the operation of the civil service law during the present administration and declared "that sort of thing has got to stop."

Specific Abuses

"Take for example the bureau of census," he said. There was Mr. Durand, an expert statistician, a very competent man, well understood to be such. We have retired him and in his place we have a democratic politician from a southern state. And, he is hardly warm in his place before he is transferred to the trade commission. The trade commission itself was fairly emasculated with the law by the men, for the most part, who were appointed to places on it.

"We had in the coast and geodetic survey an eminent scientist, a man who had won distinction in connection with his scientific work, a man of very eminent rank. He was displaced to make room for an excellent stock breeder and veterinary surgeon."

It was "inexcusable," Mr. Hughes asserted for the administration to "remove men in the diplomatic service who had represented the country with credit and put in men utterly inexperienced."

Past administrations, the nominee said, "had sinned in that particular but standards were being made and there were men in our service of long experience and fine training."

Made Six Speeches

Mr. Hughes also laid stress on what he termed the need for industrial brotherhood and closer co-operation between employers and employes.

After his main address at Arcadia hall, Mr. Hughes delivered a second address at the Light Guard armory, in which he reiterated many of the statements made in the first address.

Mr. Hughes spent a strenuous day in the stifling heat of Detroit. He made six speeches between noon and 10 o'clock tonight. The first talk of the day was delivered in a little room of the hotel which he had made his headquarters, and was addressed to about forty manufacturers interested in the social welfare of their employes The second address delivered in the same room was on suffrage. One hundred women heard him repeat his declaration in New York that he wanted the question speedily settled by granting women the vote through an amendment to the Federal Constitution.

After lunch the nominee went to the ball game. Then he motored to two of Detroit's big automobile factories and addressed crowds at each on industrial co-operation. He left late tonight for Chicago.

ETOWAH COTTON IS DAMAGED 50 PCT

Only Fine Weather Will Save Remainder

Gadsden, Ala., Aug. 7.—The cotton crop in Etowah county is damaged to the extent of 50 per cent, in the opinion of some farmers, and unless fine weather prevails during the remainder of the season, the loss will be extremely heavy.

INSPECTORS REPORT SPLENDID PROGRESS IN DIPPING CATTLE

In the report of the counties of Alabama doing active work and those having completed work, the government shows splendid progress. In the 11 counties having completed work, a very small percentage of the cattle show signs of ticks. Out of 4815 herd composed of 67,452 head of cattle, only 68 herds were found to be infected with ticks in July.

According to the government report, Jefferson county, one of the latest to start the work, dipped 12,716 herds, or 48,284 head of cattle in July. It also showed considerably more infected cattle, the number of herds with the ticks being 3150, of 11,712 head of cattle. The dipping vats in active operation in the county are 186, while several others are being built.

Following is the government report showing the status of tick eradication work in Alabama for the month of July, in counties completing the work:

County.	No. Herds.	Inspected or dipped Cattle.
Dallas	579	8024
Hale	305	4631
Jackson	544	3465
Lauderdale	41	1722
Limestone	502	3317
Lowndes	389	6657
Madison	142	2445
Marengo	1132	18145
Montgomery	345	7401
Perry	471	3935
Wilcox	365	7410
Totals	4815	67,452

Report on counties in which active cooperative work is being conducted in Alabama for the month of July, 1916:

County,	Number Herds.	Inspected or Dipped. Cattle.
Autauga	5263	26,749
Bullock	7330	43,206
Colbert	3512	18,574
Crenshaw	6884	29,674
Elmore	8163	31,674
Greene	5323	32,754
Henry	1492	5,413
Jefferson	12,716	48,284
Lee	6893	32,421
Macon	7604	29,732
Mobile	2018	15,939
Morgan	9405	30,167
Pickens	5783	29,931
Pike	7467	37,351
Sumter	4568	48,495
Tallapoosa	8516	33,250
Tuscaloosa	11,187	48,138
Walker	9674	30,257
	4815	67,452
Totals	128,613	640,463

R. E. JACKSON, Inspector in Charge.

FOR SALE—One Jersey milch cow, young calf. Took two prizes at the County Fair 1914, good condition, third calf. T. E. Williams, Clanton, Ala. adv. 8-10

COLLINS CHAPEL

Health here is good at present.

Our singing school is progressing nicely with Prof. J. M. Dye as our teacher.

Mrs. J. L. Burnett of Birmingham is spending a few days with J. M. Mims.

Mr. Evan Parish of Clanton is attending the singing school here.

Uncle Jack Robinson was in this community Saturday night and Sunday.

Misses Mollie and Lummie Murrah were visitors at J. M. Mim's Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Fed Robinson of Birmingham is visiting in this community this week.

Mrs. Clifton Vance is visiting her father, Mr. Bookholdt.

Miss Roberta Bean and her brother, Willie, went to Union Sunday.

We are sorry to say that Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Murrah leave for Siluria this week.

Miss Stella Lowery spent Saturday night with Mattie Mims.

Best wishes to the Union-Banner.

EVERGREEN

Please give me just a little space in the Banner to say just a few words.

Health is good in this community I am glad to say.

Brother C. A. Taylor filled his regular appointment at Floyd last Sunday and I must say that he preached one of the most interesting sermons that I have ever heard preached from any man.

Sunday school is just fine. We have one of the best Sunday schools anywhere.

Miss Bessie and Clara Wells of Clanton are spendingt this week in this community, expecting to attend Singing School.

Say Mr. Cagle, I am glad to tell you we are going to have an all day singing at Floyd next Tuesday at the close of the Singing School. Everybody is invited to be present and bring your books and a well filled basket with something good to eat. We especially invite all singers and lovers of good music.

With best wishes to the Union-Banner and its many readers.

W S. BEAIRD.

RAISE VALUATION $717,552

Ashville, Ala., Aug. 6.—Raises in tax valuations, ranging from ten dollars to $10,000, made by the county tax equalization board of this county, have increased the valuation of St. Clair county $717,552.

The total tax valuation of the county for the past year was $6,313,637, so with the raise St. Clair will have a tax valuation of more than seven million dollars.

PRIZES ARE GIVEN TO FARMERS IN AUBURN

Summer School for Planting Instruction is Concluded.

Auburn, Ala., Agu. 7.—The last day of the summer school for farmers was begun by Prof. J. C. C. Price with a lecture on pecans. He took up the methods of planting, digging holes, cultivation, fertilzation, pruning, and grafting and budding. Following him Prof. E. A. Vaughan of the etomology department discussed the boll weevil question. This of course was interesting to all the farmers but nothing new was developed. Mrs. H. W. Calvin gave her final demonstration to the ladies and it seemed she could hardly get away in time to catch her train to Washington. The ladies were very much interested in asking questions about subjects which Mrs. Calvin knew so well. Everyone is asking for her return next year. This great woman is doing a great work.

The prizes were then distributed. The following are the prizes given by the business men of Auburn and Opelika:

Business Men's Prizes.

First prize for coach colt, won by C. S. Ellington, Cold Hill, Ala., $5.

First prize for roadster colt, won by R. E. Hudson, Auburn, Ala., $5.

First prize for draft colt, won by C. S. Ellington, Gold Hill, Ala., $5.

First prize for mule colt, sired by Jack "Kentucky Gold Hill," won by J. E. Ellington, Gold Hill, Ala., $25.

Second prize for mule colt, by same sire as above, won by J. E. Ellington, Gold Hill, Ala., $15.

Third prize for mule colt, won by H. W. Smith, Macon, Ga., $10.

First prize for Alabam bred mule colt, won by J. E. Ellington, $5.

First prize for mule team, won by P. Davis, $5.

First prize for stallion, won by W. T. Edwords, Auburn, Ala., $5.

First prize for harness gelding, won by H. N. Hodge, Opelika, Ala., $.

First prize for dairy cow, won by E. G. Barker, Auburn, Ala., $5.

First prize for lard type hog, won by Y. Swearingen, Shorters, Ala., $5.

The following are the prizes given by the college for the best judges of live stock:

Frist best judge of dairy cattle, R. E. Manning, Dixie, Ala., $4.

Second best judge of dairy cattle, Mrs. John Lillie, Salem, Ala., $3.

First best judge of beef cattle, O. E. Walker, Auburn, Ala., $4.

Second best judge of beef cattle, Ralph Gaunt, E. Tallassee, Ala., $3.

First best judge of hogs, J. G. Adams, Gold Hill, Ala., $4.

Second best judge of hogs, S. T. Jones, Newton, Ala., $3.

First best judge of sheep, Mrs. John Lillie, Salem, Ala., $4.

Second best judge of sheep, J. C. Hart, Dixie, Ala., $3.

First best judge of mules, J. G. Adams, Gold Hill, Ala., $4.

Second best judge of mules, J. C. Hart, Dixie, Ala., $3.

First best judge of horses, Bert Brown, Tuscaloosa, Ala., $4.

Second best judge of horses, W. G. Davis, Mt. Creek, Ala., $3.

Many Animals Entered

It will be observed that $25 was the highest prize but this does not indicate the large number of animals entered, nor the numeber of quality of the mules shown. About 40 young mules from three years down, in many cases at their dam's side, were shown and made a sight not often seen in Alabama. Henry Clark, of Wartrace, Tenn., one of the best judges of mules in Tennessee, stated that Alabama had purchased in Tennessee two remarkably good jacks and that he had seen mules at this show that would be a credit to Tennessee, Kentucky or Missouri. This is going some for Alabama. The director of the summer school, Dr. C. A. Cary, in closing the summer school, remarked that he hoped and expected that next year's prizes would be larger and more numerous and that it would bring out a great number of horses and mules, cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry. In spite of the rains and bad weather immediate before and during the summer school, 731 were enrolled.

Everyone predicted that had good weather prevailed immediately before the school the attendance would have been 1200 to 1500. Our slogan is "1500 for the summer school of 1917."

SMITH SCHOOL HOUSE

Exercises were held at the schoolhouse, last Friday evening. The morning was taken up by practicing for the exercises to be performed in the evening.

The exercises for the evening were opened with singing led by Mr. Harrison Lowery, which was followed by a recitation of the Twenty-Third Psalms. After singing again, the First Psalm was recited from memory, then singing again, followed by the Lord's Prayer, after which we were dismissed for dinner.

The students were then sent to the board by the teacher and caused to put up the five important divisions of their arithmetic and tell the meaning of each one. Then they put on the board ten questions, which they had learned this school.

The remainder of the exercises were stories and recitations by the pupils, which lasted for a couple of hours, then dismission was administered by Rev. Reno.

GRADY BURNETT.

WEEKLY LETTER FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Should the Constitution be Amended?

No thinking man would deny that laws should be obeyed or that the Constitution, which is fundamental law, should be considered binding; but to take the position that neither the law nor the Constitution should be changed is to bar the way to growth and progress.

The only way to test some laws is to try them out and in the light of experience, determine whether or not they should be continued. There are more honest men who are conservative from principle and there are would-be honest men who are conservative from prejudice. The former class do the State a distinct service, in that they act as a balance wheel by requiring reason before action. The latter class serve no good purpose; in fact, they are the chief enemies to progressive legislation and to a growing commonwealth.

That Alabama has taken tremendous steps forward since it became a state some ninety odd years ago, no student of history will deny, but this progress has necessitated from time to time changing our fundamental law. In the space of ninety-six years we have had six constitutions, the average life being in round numbers sixteen years. To have refused to change Constitution, either by amendment or by the adoption of a new instrument, would have been to lag far behind in the race. The framers of our Constitution have realized this and have always made provision both for calling a convention and amending the Constitution of the State. This will appear from reading sections 286-7 of the Constitution of 1901.

Aside from all this, if the people are to be supreme in authority and power, and if they have the right to make a constitution, certainly they have the right when the majority desires, to change such an instrument. They not only have the right but it is their duty to change it whenever it interferes seriously with the progress and development of the State along any important line.

It is not the purpose of this article to attack the Constitution as a whole, for in many respects it is a most satisfactory document, but it is at fault in that it does not make it possible to provide satisfactory educational facilities in all parts of Alabama, and for the further reason it denies to the people the right locally to raise revenue sufficient to maintain good schools by requiring adequate support on the part of all property holders.

Under the Constitution, for example, a county like Franklin, which has utilized all the machinery possible, is able to maintain a school term of only 83 days in each year, while a county like Bullock that has not had to utilize all the available educational machinery, is able to maintain a school term of 163 days. The former county is able to spend upon each white child approximately $5 a year, while the latter is able to spend $26. Accoding to statistics, the teacher in the former county will probably hold a third grade certificate,while the teacher in the latter will most likely hold a first-grade. To make the inequality all the more glaring, the Franklin County teacher must teach on an average 40 pupils, while the Bullock County teacher must teach on an average some 20 pupils. It goes without saying that the inequality of school opportunity is about as glaring in Alabama as it could possibly be, even as much so as between the most extreme states in the Union.

This being the case we cannot dodge the conclusion that our Constitution ought to be amended so as to make it possible for the counties in which there are more whites, as in Franklin to give their boys and girls educational facilities and opportunities somewhat in keeping with those offered in the counties of the State in which there are more negroes, like Bullock.

When we further consider the fact that the average length of the school term in city schools is 184 days for the United States and 173 for Alabama, we are apt to rush to the hasty conclusion that we are doing fairly well, but when we go a little further and discover that the boys and girls in the rural schools of Alabama have only 111 days in which they may go to school, and that 82 out of every 100 of our boys and girls live in the country, we cannot fail to see the need of making better school provision for country children. That was the motive, and the only motive, that prompted the preparation of the amendment to the Constitution which is to be submitted to the people for ratification at the November 1916 election.

W. F. FEAGIN,
State Supt. of Education.

ROCKY MOUNT

There will be a working at this place on Thursday before the Third Sunday in August, for the purpose of cleaning off the cemetery. Everybody interested in the cemetery will please come that day and bring your dinner and something to work with.

C. M. NORTHCUTT.

DIVORCED COUPLE ARE MARRIED AT MARBURY

Marbury, Ala., Aug 8.—Walter Hester of Vida and his former wife, who had resumed her maiden name, Miss Mae Hubard, were married again Monday. The young man had enlisted in the army, and through the efforts made by friends a reconciliation was brought about.

HUGHES' FITNESS IS PRAISED BY HARDING

New York, July 31.—Senator Harding, notifying Charles E. Hughes of his nomination as the Republican candidate for president, tonight said:

Mr. Hughes, the committee here assembled, representing all the United States and Territories, chosen by the Republican National Convention, that met in Chicago on last June 7, is directed by the convention formally to notify you of its action in selecting you as its nominee for the presidency of the Republic.

Speaking for the committee, it is my pleasure to say directly what was conveyed to you by telegraph while the convention was yet in session—that you are the unanimous choice of the Republican National Convention for the party standard-bearer.

That party uttered the principles of a confident, determined, united and enthusiastic Republican party, which turns to you in highest respect and trust, as a nominee best typifying the party's purposes and the people's desires.

In as much as the unusual circumstances inspired an informal notice at the time of the Convention's action, and you then made an informal acceptance of the call of patriotic duty which won the plaudits of our people, I shall not refer in detail to any action of the convention or the declared principles to which the Republican party is committed. But it is fitting that I should speak the congratulations of this committee on your most extraordinary nomination. It has no parallel in the history of the American party. As the whole people have approvingly witnessed, you have been chosen for leadership by a convention which comprised the best thought, the highest intention and deepest consecration of a great and historic party, when you were not only not an aspirant, but discouraged all endeavors in your behalf.

Notwithstanding your holding aloof from all conference and participation, that unfailing understanding which directs popular sentiment to highest victory called you to the service of the party and the nation. Your record of public service, yeur well known and courageous views on public questions when in executive positions, your abiding devotion to Republicanism, your posessioin of a confidence which has united all believers in Republican policies under our party banner, your unalterable and abiding Americanism, your high personal character and well-known capacity—all these have fixed you in the American mind as the best exponent of Republican principles, and the wisest leader to restore American prestige and efficient government.

We bring out now the commission of that leadership. We bring it in full confidence that the people will gladly acclaim the Republican restoration under your trusted leadership. We bring it in the highest appreciation of that peace of right and justice, which your unwavering Americanism will hold secure rather than endanger. We bring it in the strong belief that American material under good fortune, under Republican industrial preparedness, will be the glad reflex our own peace and the world's peace, and be held permanent under Republican protection. We bring it in firm conviction that you, sir, will hold that platform principles constitute a sacred party covenant, and the expressed will of the people at the polls must find response in capable and efficient administration.

Aye, sir, we bring it believing you will add to our self-respect, confidence and good fortune at home and to that respect and good opinion abroad, which meets our highest American aspirations.

HOUSE PARTY AT MOUNTAIN CREEK

A number of merry and congenial young people motored Friday evening to Mountain Creek, to attend a house party, given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arledge, complimentary to their daughters Miss Effie, Miss Lexie and Miss Evvie Arledge.

Many social affairs will be given in honor of the guests, among whom are Mrs. F. L. Ellis, Mrs. E. Spain, Miss Marie Singletary, Miss Annie Pearl Glenn, Mrs. J. S. Hubbard, little Miss Lazelle Ellis, and Miss Elizabeth Hubbard, Mr. E. Baxley, Mr. A. Facig of Dayton, Ohio, Mr. J. S. Hubbard, Mr. G. F. Williams, Mr. J. C. Palmer,of Corbin, Ky., Mr. J. Arledge, Mr. L. Strickland and Mr. Will Cooper.

All kinds new and fresh turnip seed at Upchurch Drug Co.

SUBSCRIBERS

We positively will not send The Union-Banner to anyone who is over a year behind with his subscription.

Recently we stopped sending the paper to a number who were in arrears, and took their names from our list.

If you want to be sure to get every issue of the paper you had better look after your subscription.

When it gets a year behind we will take your name off the mail list till it is paid up.

Don't overlook this, as it is important.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.
For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.
For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.
For Tax Collector;
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.
For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.
For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.
For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

SIGN YOUR NAME

We have repeatedly requested our correspondents to sign their names to communications sent us for publication. No articles, other than mere news items, will be published without the name of the writer is published also. If you have any reply to make to an article written by some body else, we will not publish it unless we are allowed to publish the name of the writer. Remember this when you write to the paper.

BAD MEDICINE

Some of the Democrats say it is a mighty bad pill for them to get up before a crowd and make a speech for a Republican. But they have got pumped up with the idea of just anything to beat Reynolds, and for the sake of humanity they put on the aspect of a martyr and proceed to give a few jerks and swallow it down. They get up and exhort the people to vote for Popwell in order to save the county from "Reynoldism."

They whisper it along the line something like this: "It may go a little hard boys for you Democrats to speak to the people in favor of a Republican but take the medicine like men. You know the high mucks have decreed that it b anything to beat Reynolds. They came to the conclusion we did not have a chance to do it by preaching "Democracy," and hit on the plan of a Republican to beat a Republican. Don't go back on our leaders. Sing to their tune if it breaks a string."

From what we learn of the affair out at Mineral Springs Saturday night, it makes a mighty interesting program to hear that mixed triplet sing their latest production entitled "Anything to beat Reynolds." One sings it "Democratically," one sings it "Socially," and one sings it "Independently," They always carry three or four others along to pat and beat straws.

SHEEP RAISING IN ALABAMA

Some Alabamians will learn with surprise that13,000 pounds of wool were sold recently in Covington county at a price which brought $4,420. It is not generally known that sheep raising and wool growing is an old Alabama industry, though it is ignored in totaling up the business resources of the State.

For many years sheep have been grown successfully in herds in Baldwin, Covington, Escambia and perhaps in some other counties. For a great many years a wool mill in Dale county was kept going by home grown wool. Yet,. the industry of raising sheep and growing wool has never assumed any large proportions in Alabama. Our people have always been enamored of cotton as the ready money crop.

But our excellent climate, in which the sheep have to be fed only a few weeks, our well watered pastures and our large areas of cheap grazing lands combine to make South Alabama an excellent field for this particular industry. In late years there has been a revival and an increase in the business of raising sheep. The increase is doubtless due to the advance in the market price of all fresh meats.

The vagrant dog, the nameless hound, the canine brother of the wolf, is the greatest obstacle in Alabama to the permanent establishment of sheep growing as an agricultural industry.—Montgomery Advertiser.

COUPLE PINNED UNDER AN AUTOMOBILE, BUT ARE UNHURT

Gadsden, Ala., August 1,—Though pinned under their automobile, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. West, of Gadsden were unhurt when their car fell from an embankment and was wrecked, ten miles from Reed's Hill near here.

Mr. West, rounding a curve, saw a big truck approaching and steered to the right, putting his foot on the accellerator by mistake. The car went up an embankment to a point eight feet above the level of the road, and fell back.

Mr. and Mrs. West fell into a depression in the road, which saved them. The car had to be pried off before they were released.

DOINGS OF THE DEMOCRATS; BETTER DEFINED "SIDE-SHOWS"

The best name we are able to give to the activities of the Democratic independent Popwell agitators is that they are just in the manner of side shows that are usually found with circuses. They seem to take advantage of crowds of people gathered at places for other purposes, and begin to make a fuss and seek to get somebody to listen to their "grind-organ."

When they iniated their plans, and made the selection of their campeign issues they got off on the side track to start with. They laid aside all principles of politics and methods of government performance, and took up the side issue of personal prejudice and enmity against Reynolds. They even picked up old out of date and half hammered disgruntled "has-beens" to do their nasty "agging-on."

Now their little filibusters campaigning and speech making are too, like their other actions, of the same side show class.

But for them this may be a wise course after all. They must have somebody to talk to, and they, within themselves, have nothing to draw the attention of people and cause them to come together. They seek assemblys of people at any place and time and kind. Then when the crawds are gathered, here pops up the "naggers" and begin their side-show. Thus they get the attention of the few who are always around any place for no particular purpose, and likewise for just any old purpose. The class that either stays on the outside and listens to what is going on because they are crowded out of the "big show" and can't get in, or else are the disinterested worthless kind who don't make any riffle on the tide of importance anyhow.

Last Saturday night there was a big dnace at Mineral Springs. The news of the affair had gone far and wide among the advocates of the various wiggles and trats, and prospects were good for a big gathering.

Pounds and his crowd heard of the incident. They guessed there would be those present who did not care to take part and dance, but would choose to remain on the outside for whatever might show up, and thither they betook themselves. Oh! said they, here is one more chance for us to get to talk to somebody, and who knows but what we might get in a word that would be a solar plexus to the great "Marse Lewis?" We will ge unannounced and in the dark.

And they went. And while the crowd assembled down near the spring "to trip the light fantistic toe," to the tune of Uncle Jim Collins' fiddle, lo and behold another noise was raised at the schoolhouse on the hill above. At once there went from the dance the few who cared not for the dance and music, nor anything else, who only went there to see whatever was to be seen and to hear whatever was to be heard, and go away in the same purjoseless fashion that they came—a few of these went up to the schoolhouse to see what the noise was about. After it was over there was one or two who were interested enough to tell the story. Most of those who heard it passed it by as worthless and unworthy.

"Just any old thing to beat Reynolds," is the little puny song they sang. They had no particular tune to it. One sang it "Democratically," another sang it "Socially," another sang it "Independently," and three or four more patted their feet and beat straws. The few listeners whom they had attracted from the dance sat back in the house apparently asleep, as they made more noise snoring than the "visitors" did with their side show. A couple of them awoke and started out of doors. Pounds invited them to stay and hear something "especially" which he was going to say. They informed him they did not wish to hear it, and stumbled back down the hill to watch the dance.

Now next Saturday they are going to have another side show in front of the court house. We suppose they will have a good crowd to "annoy" with their harangue then, for there will be a great number who will want to get in the house to hear the Republican speeches, but will be barred for lack of seating and standing room. They may get those to hear what they say but it will be with little interest.

They will sing the same little puny song they sang out at the springs, to the same tunes.

The next side show on the schedule so far as we know now will be at the November election. The majority is going to stand by the regular Republican nominees, while a few here and yonder will meander away with the Popwell crowd to be lulled into sleep and delirium by the same little worn out song "anything to beat Reynolds."

This will be the last and least of all the side shows.

The Clanton Camp No. 822, W.O.W. will unveil the monument of the deceased sovereign, G. L. Blalock, in Coopers cemetery next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Camp will meet at the church.

Visiting sovereigns are invited to participate with us.

The public in general is cordially invited to be present.

J. L. RUFFIN, Clerk.
G. C. HARRIS, C.C.

SOLDIER MAINTAINS UNIQUE FARM AT SOLDIERS HOME

The old Confederate Soldier, John P. Whaley, announces that he is going to launch a new and somewhat unique business at the Soldiers Home at Mt. Creek. He is to call the concern the Soldiers Home Rabbitry, and he proposes to breed and ship rabbits of various colors and varieties. He is going to breed the well-known Flemish giant rabbit, that originally came from England. He will handle the animals in all hues—snow white and jet black or gray, or any mixed variety.

Several farms around Collinsville have been sold for from $12 to $20 per acre.

WADES WEEKLY LETTER

Harvesting Peanuts

The best time to dig is generally 90 to 120 days after planting, but this must be determined by examining the fruit constantly and judging when the greatest number of mature nuts are sticking on the vines. New nuts will keep coming, but the old ones will begin to drop off at a certain stage.

For digging use a turn plow without the wing but with a specially made point about 14 inches wide. This runs under and loosenes up the nuts, cutting the tap root and leaving some of the nitrogen nodules to enrich the land. The vines are then taken up by hand, shaken and turned over. Small poles 6 to 7 feet long are stuck in the ground, and cross-pieces about three feet long nailed to these poles about a foot above the ground, so as to give ventilation, the vines are stacked around these poles with the nuts inside to protect them from the weather and the birds. The stack is made about three feet in diameter at the bottom and capped at the top with a bunch of grass. Here they stand for three or four weeks, until the nuts are thoroughly dry.

Picking

As soon as the nuts are thoroughly dry they should be picked. This is done with a picking machine something like a grain thresher. There are two or three makes on the market, but the Benthall picker seems to be the most popular. This machine costs about $400, and is run by a six H. P. gasoline motor that costs $200, making about $600 for the complete outfit, all mounted on wheels and ready to be hauled from one field to another. It picks 300 to 500 bushels per day.

The picking machine is placed at the most convenient point and the stacked peanuts are hauled to it. The easiest way is to pick up the pole and load the whole on the wagon. The poles are slipped out as the vines are unloaded. The vines are then fed to the picker which chops them up in good shape for forage, and picks cleans and sacks all the solid peanuts, and blows out the "pops" along with the vines. The peanuts are then ready for the market, and the vines are ready to be baled up and sold or stacked for feeding the farm animals through the winter. They are said to be as good as the best peavine or alfalfa hay.

JAMES A. WADE,
Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

THE GOVERNOR DESIGNATES STATE GOOD ROADS DAYS

Montgomery, Ala., July 29, 1916.
Hon. E. B. Deason,
Judge of Probate
Clanton, Ala.
Dear Sir:

Sometime ago, in accordance with the statutes of Alabama, I issued a proclamation naming August 14 and 15 as Good Roads Days. This date is rapidly aproaching, and realizing the importance of keeping before the people the great benefits to be derived from good roads and highways and to create an interest in this work, I would suggest that you keep before the minds of the people from now until the 14th of August the fact that these days are set aside and designated as Good Roads Days, asking all to co-operate. This can be done with a short notice in your weekly press.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. HENDERSON,
Governor.

In connection with the above letter I desire to say that I hope each community in the County will select a piece of road, and on good roads days, August 14th and 15th, meet and fix that piece of road in good shape. If each community will do this, a lot of road can be built. If we give these two days to road building we not only render valuable service to ourselves and neighbors, but we enter into a spirit of co-operation with our sister counties, as well as all other counties of the State. I again urge each community to give their time to the cause of better roads on the 14th and 15th inst.

Respectfully,
E. B. DEASON,
Judge of Probate.

J. M. Pearson has been reelected president of the Alexander City high school.

J. T. S. Leonard has moved from Sylacauga to Alexander City.

ALABAMA PICTURES WANTED

"Alabama Pictures Wanted" is the wireless call from Emmet A. Jones, Secretary of the Alabama Development Fund, who desires everyone to aid Governor Henderson's plan to develop all the latent resources of Alabama.

The Fund Trustees want photographs of beauty spots; views of farm crops and country life scenes; pictures of new factories and industrial enterprises of all sorts; attractive street scenes and pure bred live stock.

They request that a concise statement, including name of sender and a description of the view, accompany each picture. They will be filed in a reference album and used, as found available, in the Agricultural Department year book, bulletins, the Alabama Land Book, and in magazines, agricultural journals and in the news publications of the country.

This plan of providing a definite and concrete use for Alabama photos affords every community an opportunity to get free publicity of the most favorable kind, and to aid in the general advertising of the commonwealth.

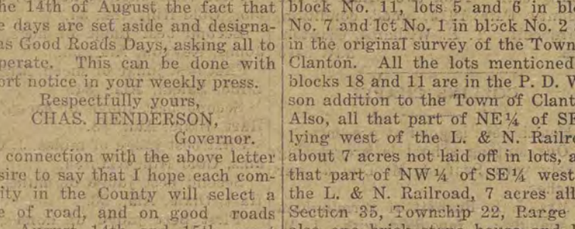
There is a constant call for good photographs to be used in magazines and newspapers of general circulation as well as in pamphlets, books and bulletins published in Alabama for distribution in other States.

Many an attractive photograph merely adorns its own little corner because not given an opportunity to gladden the eyes of countless thousands. Therefore, boost your own part of Alabam by sending your photos to Emmet A. Jones, State Capitol, Montgomery. There is no commercial advantage in this except as it may help our State and People. If you think well of the plan tell others—if not, tell us.

SHERIFF'S SALE, REAL ESTATE

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Ala., and to me directed whereby I, as Sheriff of said County, was commanded to make the sum of Six thousand two hundred thirty-one and 62-100 Dollars, principal and interest, and nineteen and 25-100 Dollars, costs of suit, the amount of a certain judgment and costs therein obtained at the Special Term, 1916, of said Court of said County, Alabama, in favor of Birmingham Trust and Saving Co., against E. A. Mattehws, P. D. Wilson, etals., I have levied upon and will sell to the highest bidder for cash, at public sale, at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., on Monday, the 21 day of August 1916, all the right, title and interest of the above named P. D. Wilson in and to the following described real estate, viz:



Lots 5 and 6 in block 7, one lot on southwest corner of block No. 2, being 35 feet fronting on second avenue thence running back in a northerly direction parallel with second avenue 87 feet being part of the Thornton Hotel lot. Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in block 18, lots 1, 2 and 3 in block No. 11, lots 5 and 6 in block No. 7 and lot No. 1 in block No. 2 are in the original survey of the Town of Clanton. All the lots mentioned in blocks 18 and 11 are in the P. D. Wilson addition to the Town of Clanton. Also, all that part of NE¼ of SE¼ lying west of the L. & N. Railroad about 7 acres not laid off in lots, also that part of NW¼ of SE¼ west of the L. & N. Railroad, 7 acres all in Section 35, Township 22, Range 14, also one brick stone house and lots 11 and 14 in block No. 7. Lots 1, 2, and 3 in block No. 13, lots 3 and 4 in block No. 16, all of block No. 14 all of block No. 15, also lot No. 1 in block No. 16 except 35 feet across south side of said lot, which has been sold to Mrs. Rosa Thornton, all of said lots are in the P. D. Wilson addition to the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

This 19 day of July 1916, H. A. HARRIS, Sheriff,
Posted at Court House door July 19, 1916.
H. A. HARRIS,
Sheriff.

Fourteen marriages occurred in Shelby in July all among white folks.

W. E. Maxwell has moved into his new residence in Alexander City.

"Torturing Headaches—don't suffer—Stop them!"

Long hours, close and tedious work are very apt to result in Headaches or other Pains. Don't suffer.

DR. MILES'
ANTI-PAIN PILLS
will quickly drive your Pain away, and
Dr. Miles' Nervine
will assist you by relieving the Nerve Strain.

IF FIRST BOX, OR BOTTLE, FAILS TO BENEFIT YOU, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

DIZZY SPELLS.

"My nerves became all worn out. I had bad headaches and severe dizzy spells. I could not sleep and my appetite was poor. I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they always gave me instant relief no matter what the pain. Then I used Dr. Miles' Nervine regularly and was soon in perfect health again."

MRS. S. L. YOUNG,
321 Pittsburg St.,
Newcastle, Penn.

Do You Need

A New Suit,
A Summer Hat,
A Shirt,
A Tie,
Underwear,
Hosiery,
Collars,
Handkerchiefs,
Shoes,
Slippers,
Dress Goods?

We can supply your every summer want at this store.

We can sell you any article you want, from the most fashionable of wearing apparel to the plainest of every day working clothes.

We can assure you of the high quality and desirability of everything we sell.

These goods are guaranteed both by the manufacturers and by ourselves.

With the advance of summer you will naturall want a number of articles in the wearing or furnishing lines.

Our stock includes everything needen on the farm, and we especially cater to the farm trade.

Don't fail to remember that "Star Brand Shoes Are Better."

The Princess Steel Range is the best for your kitchen and your pocket book.

The needs of your family in the way of Groceries can be supplied from our shelves.

We always are prepared to give you the best prices on Flour and Meat.

If you will take the trouble to call at our store we can demonstrate the economy of buying from us.

Clanton Mercantile Co.
"The Big Bargain Store"

HIGHEST PRICE IS REACHED BY COTTON SINCE OPEN OF WAR

Montgomery, August 9.—Tuesday cotton reached the higest price since the outbreak of the European war. The staple was quoted at 13½ cents and the suggestion is made that the top price is not reached yet.

The local factors say that the high price is probably due to the storm damage, together with damage from boll weevils, and the realization on the part of dealers that the crop will be from one to one and a half million bales short of the world demand. The crop in sight is estimated at not over twelve million bales, while it takes at least fourteen million to supply the world's consumption.

Just where the price will stop no one dares to say. Probably political factors have some influence on the increasing price. The high price is expected to, in some measure, make up to the farmers for the storm and boll weevil losses. Despite the 12½ percent increase in acreage, the crop will be short, it is claimed.

The government gave the report of Alabama at that time as a little above fifty per cent, whereas normally it should be about eighty per cent.

The condition of the whole cotton belt is five per cent below what it should be at this time,

What effect the top crop will have on prices is yet to be seen, since the top crop does not show up until well along in August. Hope for the top crop is very small.

FARMERS UNION OF ALABAMA HOLD MEET AT BIRMINGHAM

The eleventh annual convention of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of Alabama will convene in Birmingham Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, with more that 200 farmers from all sections of the state in attendance.

The session will be held in the courthouse, and O. P. Ford, State president will be in the chair. The welcome address will be deliverer by Commissioner Hornady, and Judge J. J. Robinson of LaFayette will respond.

Sessions of the convention will continue for three days, and the farmers will discuss the best ways to meet conditions brought about by the recent storms. Charles Barrett, president of the national association will be present and will speak Thursday afternoon.

An address by Oscar Wells, President of the First National Bank, on the farm land bank, for which Birmingham is working, will be a feature of the day.

The program for Thursday follows:

10:00, A.M.—Devotional exercises; welcome address on behalf of the city, J. R. Hornady; welcome address on the part of the Chamber of Commerce, W. Blanks Everette; on behalf of the labor organizations, J.R. T. Rives; response, Judge J. J. Robinson, Jr. of LaFayette; address by Ben Davis, address on good roads by J. A. Rountree.

2:00, P. M.—Address, W. F. Feagin; address by M. E. Morris; address on farm loan banks, Oscar Wells; address by Miss Claudie Tompson; address by Charles S. Barrett, national president of farmers union; short talks.

D. W. Hicks of Sheffield celebrated his eighty-third birthday with a family reunion at his home last week. This is a custom which has been brought up through the Hicks family for several generations.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
All Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

JUDGE REYNOLDS SPEAKS TO OLD CONFEDERATE VETERANS

Judge L. H. Reynolds, with his wife and two daughters, went down to the Old Soldiers Home Tuesday, and participated in the music and other forms of amusement, which were performed at the Home. Piano and violin music was played by the Judge's daughters, and choir music was rendered under the direction of Veteran S. P. Andress of the Home. After the music was over Judge Reynolds was called upon to make a speech, and he responded by delivering to the old veterans an address, which caused them to take up new life, and rejoice because God had spared them to live for their country and for Him.

The speech which the Judge made was a very mellow and touching one, and no mention was made of politics or of his candidacy for the Probate Judgeship.

CHILD LABOR BILL IS PASSED, SENATORS OF SOUTH OPPOSED

Washington, Aug. 9.—The Senate late Tuesday night passed the bill to prevent interstate commerce in products of child labor by a vote of 52 to 12. The measure which had already passed the house was brought to a vote in the senate upon the insistence of President Wilson after the Democratic senate caucus once had decided to defer its consideration until next December.

THE CONTROL OF HOG LICE

By J. C. Ford, Field Agent for Pig Clubs, Alabama Extension Service and U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

It is not possible to get the maximum profits from hogs that are infested with lice. Lice are blood-sucking parasites and when numerous cause marked unthriftiness, resulting frequently in death in the case of small pigs. The loss of blood and the annoyance incident to the presence of the parasites prevent the hogs from making as much gain on a given amount of food as they should.

Fortunately lice are not hard to destroy. The nits or eggs are laid on the animal and attached to the hair near the skin. Lice frequently get off of the hogs and stay for some time in beds of trash, and leaves and then get back onto the same or some other hog, but they do not reproduce except on the animals. If the lice on the hogs are killed every 10 days or two weeks, no young ones will be permitted to grow large enoght to lay more nits. The larger ones that have gotten off in the bedding may be destroyed by burning the bedding or they may get back on the hogs and be killed at the next regular treatment of the hogs or they may starve to death.

There are a number of remedies that are very effective in the destruction of lice. Among the most commonly used are the coal-tar products as creolin, kreso dip, etc. If these are diluted according to directions and used in a dipping vat or the hogs are washed or sprayed with them, good results are secured. Any drug store can supply these products.

Crude oil is cheaper than the coal-tar products and probably more satisfactory in its results, as it lasts longer and gives a good appearance to the hair and skin. If a dipping vat is filled with water and the water covered an inch or more with crude oil, it makes an ideal dip for hog lice. Crude oil can also be used as a spray or a wash, or on a rubbing post. Wrap an old sack about a post and keep it wet with the oil. When hogs are sprayed they should be closely hurdled together to prevent waste of the spray solution.

MAKE GOOD WAGES IN SHORT HOURS IN TRAIN SERVICE

Some Interesting Figures As To Actual Earnings Of Men On Southeastern Roads.

Washington, D. C.—In connection with the movement of train and engine employes for increased wages, a frank statement of the earnings of men employed in freight service in the southeastern territory will doubtless be of interest.

For engineers the prevailing minimum rate in through freight service ranges from $5.15 to $5.65 per day for engines of ordinary types, in local freight service from $5.25 to $6.00 for engines of ordinary types, in both through and local freight service from $6.25 to $7.00 for Mallet type engines.

For white firemen on engines of ordinary types the minimum rate ranges from $2.75 to $3.50 per day in through freight service, from $3.00 to $3.60 in local service, on Mallet engines in both through and local service from $4.00 to $4.25.

For conductors the standard minimum rate in through freight service is $4.10 per day, in local service $4.50 per day.

For white brakemen the standard rate in through freight service is $2.75 per, in local service $3 per day.

The foregoing are the minimum daily rates that must be made by the railways to each employee in the classes named who does any work at all in a day, irrespective of how few hours he may be on duty or of how few miles he may actually run. These rates are paid for any work up to 100 miles with additional pay for overtime if the run is not completed in the specified number of hours.

On the other hand, the earnings of employes frequently exceed these figures as the actual earnings depend upon the number of miles run, and, in the case of fast freight trains, the earnings are much higher for comparatively short hours.

Taking as an illustration a fast freight train running over a division 150 miles long where the daily run can be made in 7 hours and 30 minutes, the engineer would receive for his 7 1-2 hours on duty the sum of $8.10, the fireman $4.70, the conductor $6.15, and the white brakeman $4.10.

Thus while the first figures show the minimum that can be paid an engineer, fireman, conductor, or brakeman for a days work, the latter figures show the wages that can be and are being made by train and engine employes on fast freights on long divisions, such as are being run every day in regular service by a number of roads in the southeast for handling live stock, perishables, and other freight which it is necessary to move on expedited schedules.

In yard service the standard rates for white employees vary from $3.00 to $3.50 per day for day switchmen, and from $3.20 to $3.70 for night switchmen, and from $3.50 to $3.80 for day foremen, and from $3.70 to $4.00 for night foremen. These are the minimum rates that can be paid for a day or any part of a day up to 10 hours, after 10 hours pro rata overtime is paid.

Under the men's proposals the lowest yard employees who now receive $3.00 for a 10 hour day would receive $3.00 for an 8 hour day, or $4.12 for the work at present performed in 10 hours, and the night yard conductor now receiving $4.00 for his 10 hour day would receive this $4.00 for his 8 hour day, or $5.50 for the work at present performed in 10 hours.

No. 666

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

GULF COAST RESORTS

SEASHORE EXCURSIONS

Every Saturday, June 3 to September 9

ROUND TRIP FARES FROM CLANTON

Pensacola	$7.15
Pascagoula	8.00
Biloxi	8.40
Pass Christian	9.15
Magnolia Springs	9.50
Ocean Springs	8.35
Gulfport	9.00
Bay St. Louis	9.30

TEN-DAY RETURN LIMIT

Also on sale daily until October 15th, regular round trip Summer Tourist Tickets to Gulf Coast Resorts at slightly higher fares with return limit of October 31st.

For particulars apply to

T. A. HESTER, Ticket Agent, Clanton

L&N

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

HIGHWAY MEETING CALLED

New Decatur, Ala., August 1.—William E. Crawford, director for Morgan county of the Jackson Highway Association of Alabama, has called a meeting to be held at Hartselle at noon Sturday, August 12, to arouse enthusiasm for the Jackson Highway, and to raise funds for promoting the Association.

Every Woman Thinks

seriously over the question of motherhood—it used to mean such agony and sacrifice, that one could easily overlook the pleasure and honor of children in the home—but "Mother's Friend" has changed the views of thousands of women from that of distress to a pleasant anticipation of the happiness of being a mother.

By external application "Mother's Friend" assists nature in the wonderful transformation of the physical system in ease and comfort. Get "Mother's Friend" at any druggist. An intensely interesting book on Motherhood will be mailed free to all expectant mothers. Address The Bradfield Regulator Co., 204 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

UNION STATE BANK HEARING WAS HELD ON JULY THE 25TH

Some ago Supt. of Banks, Alex E. Walker, who is liquidating the Union State Bank filed a petition in the Circuit Court of Chilton County, in equity, asking, among other things, that he be given the right to sell the real estate and personal property of the corporation, and to compromise and compound doubful debts, and also asking the court to confirm the salary of $150.00 per month to be paid to his agent, Mr. John Patton, Jr. and answer was filed for the bank, declaring that it was not fir the interest of the trust that the Superintendent of Banks have unresricted authority to sell property and compromise debts at such prices as he might choose, and requesting the court to order that the bank's affairs be administered under the very close supervision of the court. The answer further stated that the services of the agent were not worth $150.00 per month, and asked that a hearing be held to investigate all the official acts of the agent, either while he was agent of the Supt., or in the employment of the bank, from and after Oct. 19, 1915. The date set for a hearing on the petition was July 25, 1916, and Montgomery was designated as the place. At that time the committeemen chosen to protect their interests by depositors and stockholders of the bank, at Maplesville and at Thorsby, were present.

During conference before the hearing, Supt. Walker agreed to let the courthouse supervision without any contest on this point. The committee also demanded the removal of the agent, who then held the office. The Superintendent would not agree to remove the agent, and the committee notified him that they intended to fight him to a finish, if he did not. The Superintendent's attorney then informed the committee that a matter had already come up between the Superintendent and the agent, which would almost necessarily cause a severance of business relations between them. An agreement was soon reached by which the court assumed jurisdiction of the trust, and the agent's salary was agreed to as fixed by the Superintendent, namely: $150.00 per month for the first three months, $100.00 per month for the next two, and $75.00 per month thereafter.

Besides e htcommitteemen present, attorneys Curry and Walker of Clanton and Lavender and Thompson of Centreville represented depositors and stockholders of the bank Supt. Walker was represented by three law firms—Smith & Gerald of Clanton, Blokey and Strassburger of Montgomery and Steiner, Crum and Weil of Montgomery.

Bath Robe Came First.

According to some of the old pictures, the patriarchs wore bath robes a long time before baths were invented.

PATENTS

obtained through the old established "D. SWIFT & CO." are being quickly bought by Manufacturers.

Send model or sketches and description of your invention for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. We get patents or no fee. Write for our free book of 300 needed inventions.

D. SWIFT & CO.

Patent Lawyers. Estab. 1889.
307 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SILAGE FOR CATTLE

By Carl G. Filler, Extension Beef Cattle Expert, Alabama Extension Service and U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

It is a well known fact that any animal reaches its greatest production of meat, or milk, when it has access to a good pasture in addition to a suitable ration of dry feed. The BEST and CHEAPEST substitute for fresh pasture grass during the fall and winter, and even during a period of short pasture in summer, is silage. An animal fed silage in addition to a proper ration is rarely troubled with digestive disturbances. No rough feed is more palatable than good corn silage. Sometimes an animal refuses to eat silage until a taste for it has been acquired, but after that the animal will consume large quantities of it, as practically all do from the start.

Silage is most important to the dairyman, and to the man who is finishing or fattening cattle for beef. The feeding of silage is becoming more popular each year. This is because greater daily gains are made when the ration contains a fair allowance of silage, and these gains are made more cheaply than they can be without silage. This is especially true in the South where cotton seed meal is used so largely as the concentrated part of the ration, and where the majority of the hay produced is peavine, soy bean, alfalfa, or some other legume.

Silage can be produced for $3.00 per ton in most cases, and many times it can be produced for $2.00, and even less when sorghum is used instead of corn. Fifty pounds of silage per day is a full ration of roughage for a 1000 pound steer, and only costs 5c to 7 1-2c which is only about half the average cost for a daily ration of good hay. This is a considerable saving and will increase the profits greatly.

Even for carrying the breeding herd or a bunch of stockers, through the winter, silage is as cheap as roughage as can be produced under average Alabama conditions. When one has an abundance of cheap hay, oat straw, or a large acreage of velvet beans, it probably does not pay to build a silo for wintering cattle which were not being finished for market; but for finishing cattle silage is the most satisfactory roughage that one can procure. This is especially true when one is feeding cotton seed meal for the concentrated part of the ration. By feeding all the silage cattle will eat in addition to three or four pounds of hay or oat straw, and a medium allowance of cotton seed meal, one can get good gains and make them very cheaply. Slightly smaller gains are made per day when one does not feed a heavy ration of cotton seed meal, but the gains cost so much less per 100 pounds that the profits are considerably greater per steer. Parties who feed even a poor grade of cattle this past year made excellent profits when they fed them a large allowance of silage, a little hay, and 5 pounds of cotton seed meal per 1000 lbs. steer.

In some cases silage has paid enough profit above the cost of producing and storing in the silo, to pay for the silo the first year. This is frequently done where inexpensive silos are used. I have known renters who did not hesitate to build a wooden silo, when they only had a two year lease on a farm. Where one can, and where one is permanently situated, it is best to build a permanent silo, but one can build inexpensive wooden hoop silos that will give splendid results if they are built air tight. Silage will not keep where the air gets to it. However, where air is absolutely excluded by perfect walls, and the silage is cut short enough (half inch lengths) and tramped hard enough while the silo is being filled, it will keep indefinitely.

Late Cultivation of Corn.

Perhaps the greatest limiting factor in the yield of corn is the insufficient supply of moisture. Corn plants take large quantities of water from the soil, and evaporate it through their leaves. Surface evaporation should, therefore, be rduced as much as possible by keeping a dust over the surface of the ground. Corn is too often laid-by at a time when it is making heavy demands on the soil for water. Of course, late cultivation must be shallow, to prevent cutting the roots, but even a thin coat of dust, such as is formed by breaking the crust after a rain, will do much to check surface evaporation.

A Cullman farmer boasts of more grass than he ever saw in one field before.

FARM BANK BOARD WILL COME SOUTH BUT NOT UNTIL WINTER

Washington, August 8.—Tentative plans of the farm loan board for holding hearings throughout the country to secure information on which to divide the United States into 12 land bank districts and locate in each a Federal land bank, were mads today in a two-hour session of the board. They provide for a first hearing in New England, probably at Partland, Me., August 21. From New England the board will go west over a northern route and down the Pacific coast through California. The trip east will be made through the central section of the country.

The board will spend several weeks in Washington after this trip is concluded, and may hold hearings here then to listen to views of the farmers from Maryland, Virginia, Deleware, Pennsylvania and near-by states. A second trip to cover the South will be undertaken in the fall and the board will then return to Washington to make its decisions.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted at the Spring term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, 1915, for grand larceny, will apply for pardon or parole.

FATE HENLEY.

MAPLESVILLE NEWS

On last Tuesday night Mrs. J. S. Sanderson gave a most delightful entertainment from 8 to 11 o'clock, which was enjoyed by all. The games were enjoyed by everybody, as the four tables consisted of threading needles, building pig pens, picking peas with the hair pin and stringing buttons.

Twenty-two questions were given from the Bible, and the best answers were given by Miss Union Foshee and Tom Woods. They won the gold star.

A most delicious ice course was served those present, which was greatly enjoyed by everyone.

MAUD COBB.

CLANTON POST OFFICE

List of letters remaining uncalled for in this office for the week ending July 22nd 1916.

Ladies

Mattie Oden, Mable Wilson, Josephine Milner, Mrs.H. Calloway. Pearl Cango, Mrs. Genia Driver.

Gentlemen

E. L .Duke, F. B. White, Woodson Peeples, Col., W. G. Weldon, Isac Bright, Mr. and Mrs Morton Gibbons, Floid Hicks, Will Bonnete. Henry Homer.

These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter Office August 5, 1916, if not delivered before. In calling for the above please say "Advertised" giving date of list.

B. M. ROBERTS, P.M.

HORTICULTURISTS TO MEET
A Large Attendance is Expected.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the Alabama Horticultural Society, which is expected to be one of the best in the history of the organization, will be held in the school auditorium, at Brewton, Ala. August 30 and 31. The meeting will be of great interest to all interested in any phase of horticulture.

A number of excellent speakers will be present and give practical talks on the different horticultural subjects.

Brewton is on the main line of the L. & N., and easy to get to, and every person interested in fruit growing or trucking should attend.

Visitors will be entertained free in the homes of the people of the city. Hotels, $1.00 and $2.00 per day.

A full program of the meeting will shortly appear in the various papers of the state. Watch for it.

Exhibits of various fruits and vegetables will be shown in connection with the meeting, and premiums will be awarded for the best products. For full information, address L. H. Reed, Deer Park, Ala., Chairman of the exhibit Commission. Let every member or visitor bring something for exhibition.

Good Looks are Easy with

Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your city cousins. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle Magnolia Balm will surely clear your skin instantly. Heals Sunburn, too. Just put a little on your face and rub it off again before dry. Simple and sure to please. Try a bottle to-day and begin the improvement at once. White, Pink and Rose-Red Colors. 75 cents at Druggists or by mail direct.

SAMPLE FREE.

LYON MFG. CO., 40 So. 5th St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Such tobacco enjoyment

as you never thought could be is yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!

Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

Copyright 1916 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

On the reverse side of this tidy red tin you will read: "Process Patented July 30th, 1907," which has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked before!

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold in toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—that corking fine pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such clever trim—always!

Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P. A. a try-out certainly have a big surprise and a lot of enjoyment coming their way as soon as they invest in a supply. Prince Albert tobacco will tell its own story!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

SEED OATS

If you believe in preparedness, now is the time to secure your seed oats. This season has proved the merits of the Fulghum oat as to earliness, cold resistence and good yields. I have a limited quantity of recleaned pure Fulghum oats to offer at $1.00 per bushel. My crop was free from smut. First come first served. J. N. Dennis, Clanton, Ala.

Charles Morgan of Leesburg in DeKalb county has lost his entire crop, consisting of fifty acres of corn and twice as much cotton.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

HON. O. D. STREET

Republican National Committeeman from Alabama.

—and—

HON. POPE M. LONG

Chairman State Executive Committee of the Republican party.

Will Speak at the Court House in Clanton.

Saturday, August the 12, 1916

On the political issues of the present campaign.

Local speakers will also make brief addresses.

It is important that all voters of the county be present.

MUSIC BY THORSBY BAND

(Paid political advertisement, published by authority of L. H. Reynolds, M. D. Foshee, H. A. Harris, J. D. Collins, J. N. Dennis, W. H. Gillsepie, all of Clanton, Ala.)

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South

Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy f Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three Years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address

CHAS. C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President, Auburn, Ala.

SPENT OVER $2,000 ON WIFE'S HEALTH

Wife of Sou. Ry. Engineer Gains 16 lbs. and Lays Crutches Aside After Taking Tanlac.

"I have received more benefit from four bottles of Tanlac than from medical treatment that cost my husband over two thousand dollars, which he has paid out in the past two years trying to restore my health," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. Elizabeth Hooks of Rome, Ga. Mrs. Hooks is the wife of P. C. Hooks, a well known Southern Railway engineer of that city.

"For fully two years," continued Mrs. Hooks, "I suffered from stomach trouble, extreme nervousness and a bad form of rheumatism. For more than seven months I was confined to my bed and was almost a nervous and physical wreck. My digestion was so por I had to diet myself and rarely ever ate anything but raw eggs, boiled milk and things like that, but even the very lightest of food would nauseate me and lay heavily on my stomach.

"My condition became so bad my husband took me to Hot Springs, Ark., where I remained for a month. I had to use my crutches all the time. The treatment at Hot Springs helped me for awhile and I returned home. The little relief I got was not permanent though, and I soon relapsed into my old condition.

"I was then taken to a specalist in Atlanta. I had fallen off from one hundred and twenty pounds until I only weighed eighty-nine pounds—just a shadow of my former self. The Atlanta specalist prescribed a course of treatment for me, but before using the medicine I decided to give Tanlac a trial. I did this because my husband had heard so many railroad men recommend it.

"That was the best resolution of my life. I am now on my fourth bottle of the medicine and feel better than I have at any time since I was taken sick. I can now eat anything I want and as much as I want, and everything seems to agree with me splendidly—besides that, everything I eat tastes good and I enjoy my meals.

"I have set my crutches aside now and actually feel so much better I told my husband a few days ago that I believed I would turn off the cook, but he insisted that I wait a while longer. I now weigh 105 pounds which is a gain of 16 pounds, and I am still improving right along every day. Tanlac is certainly a wonderful medicine, and I think every woman who sufferes like I did ought to know about it."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co., and in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon.

PINEDALE

Health of thic community is not very good at present. Miss Leila Driver is on the sick list.

Sunday school at this place is just fine.

Miss Emma Lee Mims spent Sunday with Miss Lizzie Driver.

Mr. Manuel Mims of Key West visited his father Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. Jim Littleton and wife spent Sunday with Mr. R. Moates.

Several from this place attended preaching at Mt. Pisgah Sunday.

The revival services will begin at this place the 20th of August, conducted by Rev. Dan Dubose.

Sunday School and prayer meeting every Sunday and Sunday night. Everybody invited to come.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins left for New York Wednesday night, and will not return until the 25. He will then leave for Dothan on September 1, where he will take up the practice of medicine in that city.

MONEY IS READY TO PAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Superintendent W. T. Bean and E. E. Upchurch County Treasurer of public school funds announce that the money due to teachers of the county is now ready for delivery to them, and came san be had by application in person to Mr. Upchurch at the Upchurch Drug Company, or by making application through the mail, enclosing addressed stamped envelope for return. This will be interesting news to the teachers of the county, as some of them have been more or less inconvenienced by the tie-up of the school funds, caused by the failure of the Clanton Bank.

AGENT WANTED

We can give a splendid contract to a wide awake man with horse and wagon to handle our business in Chilton County

Singer Sewing Machine Co.
8-3-4t Montgomery, Ala.

GIRL'S CLUB WORK

A number of successful canning demonstrations were held in the county during the past week, and a great deal of interest was manifested in the work.

Thorsby club, though few in number have thus far, made the best record for quantity at the demonstrtions, having filled ninety-nine containers of tin and thirteen of glass.

Mt. Pleatant had the greatest number in attendance. This wide awake club is making many of the home conveniences, fireless cookers, ironing boards, fly traps, etc. Their splendid home made canners are conveniences indeed.

The fancy and commercial packing of tomatoes at the Cooper Club was very much enjoyed by the members.

The quantity canned was small but the quality was excellent. This club is actively at work securing members for the coming year.

The Clanton club will have an all day canning at the home of its Secretary, Miss Edna Lowe, Friday, August 11th. All ladies interested in canning are cordially invited to attend, and help the girls to make the day a success. Everybody is expected to bring a lunch spend the day and enjoy the work.

One or more demonstrations will be given in every club in the county.

While the fruit and vegetables are ripe each girl should get her exhibit ready for the fair.

GOOD COW FOR SALE.—I have a good milch cow for sale; also one 6-year-old horse. Cheap. Apply to E. HOPKINS.

COTTON DATA FROM OTHER STATES IS GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8.—Arkansas cotton yield this year will be approximately 950,000 bales and Oklahoma's 75,000 to 800,000, as compared with Alabama's estimate of 75,000 bales, according to Commissioner of Agriculture Wade.

Commissioner Wade today announced the response he had received to inquiries sent to these states. Arkansas has increased her cotton acreage some fifteen percent over last year, and the weather has been hot and destructive to the boll weevil, thus aiding the crop.

All varieties of new and fresh Turnip Seed for sale at Upchurch Drug Co., at the right prices.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

First Methodist Church of Clanton

Preaching every Sunday at eleven o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M. Everybody cordially invited to worship with us in these services.

REV. I. F. BILBRO, Pastor.

Sunday Schools starts at 9:45 A. M. instead of 10 o'clock. Please do not forget the time and bring someone with you.

J. B. ATKINSON, Supt.

Prayer meeting at 8 o'clock P. M. Wednesday. Make the prayer meeting your services.

FOR SALE—Redemption equity in store building at Thorsby worth one thousand dollars, owner has equity of five hundred dollars will sell for one hundred dollars cash, address the Ingalls Iron Works Company, Birmingham, Ala.,

Worn Out?

No doubt you are, if you suffer from any of the numerous ailments to which all women are subject. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, weak, tired feeling, are some of the symptoms, and you must rid yourself of them in order to feel well. Thousands of women, who have been benefited by this remedy, urge you to

TAKE

Cardui

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., says: "Before taking Cardui, I was, at times, so weak I could hardly walk, and the pain in my back and head nearly killed me. After taking three bottles of Cardui, the pains disappeared. Now I feel as well as I ever did. Every suffering woman should try Cardui." Get a bottle today. E-68

CLANTON ITEMS

In round numbers there were 500 cases of taxes lowered in the county by the equalization board. About 1000 tax payers were not changed. 2607 cases of raises in tax valuations were made.

Misses Ora Shaw and Sue Etta Gray of Jemison were visitors to Clanton Saturday.

Miss Annie Lee Robinson of Birmingham is visiting Mrs. L. C. Reynolds this week.

W. H. Shaw of Jemison was in Clanton Monday.

Mr. Smith of the State Equalization Board was in Clanton Monday in consultation with the County board.

W. T. Herrod of Plantersville was in town Monday.

Misses Celia and Mary McMillian of Columbiana are the lovely guests of Mrs. J. Q. Wade this week.

FOR SALE—Printype Oliver Typewriter, latest model; practically new; at a bargain. Apply to Powell Pressing Club, Clanton, Ala.

Mrs. Kate Chandler, who has been visiting Mrs. J. Q. Wade for the past week, has returned to her home in Marietta, Ga.

Miss Annie Ree Milner is visiting Mrs. J. Q. Wade this week.

John T. Morgan spent Sunday in Clanton with his mother and sisters.

Mr. Toy Parsons of Montay made his usual visit to friends Sunday.

Dr. Arthur Johnson has returned home from the hospital, where he recently underwent an operation for his throat.

Miss Pauline Woodyard is visiting friends in Centreville.

Miss Ora Shaw of Jemison was circulating among friends here last Saturday.

Mrs. Taylor of Lock 12, with Miss Odell of Michigan were shopping in town Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Higgins and children of Montgomery are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Jones.

FOR SALE—Mare 8 years old and colt 5 weeks old. Will sell at a bargain right away. Guarantee working qualities and safety. H. H. Hayes, Clanton, Ala., R. 4. adv. 8-3-3-t

Miss Alma Jones of Montgomery is now visiting home folks for some few days.

Mrs. B. E. Jones and her mother, Mrs. Palmer have returned from a visit to South Alabama.

FOR SALE—One cow and calf. The cow is half Jersey and half Holstein. Calf is two weeks old. Cow now with first calf. Price reasonable, J. C. Culp, Clanton, Ala., R. 7. 8-3-3-t

O'Connor pleasure and commercial Motor Cars are assembled of World-known Standard Parts, medium priced, and sold on convenient PAY-AS YOU RIDE plan. Catalogue mailed on request. Exceptional agency proposition and exclusive territory for persons desiring to act as representatives. Inquire of The O'Connor Corporation, 6331 South Halsted Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Mrs. H. M. Martin of Rola is visiting her sisters, Miss Rosa Thornton and Mrs. Kate Anderson.

Miss Callie Watts is visiting relatives and friends in Montgomery.

Mrs. Clark Harper has returned home after a week's visit to relatives and friends in Montgomery.

WANTED—YOUNG MEN WITH NERVE. Good pay, short hours, opportunity for travel, advancement; normal physique, good references required. Aviation Dep't. THE O'CONNOR CORPORATION, 6309 S. Eggleston, CHICAGO, ILL.

Mrs. Mary Ashley and grandson, Edwin McMorris of Birmingham is visiting the later's aunt, Mrs. M. L. White.

Mrs. O. E. Lathem of Dothan is visiting old friends in Clanton this week.

Mr. B. F. Teel, one of our county teachers is circulating among friends after an extended visit through Colorado and other western states.

PLANTED YOUR TURNIPS? Now is the time. Get your seed at Upchurch Drug Co., where they are new and fresh and sure to come up when planted.

WHY GIVE CHILDREN OIL AND SALTS?

Little Alabama Boy Writes About a Pleasant Medicine.

Loundas P. Brindley, of Somerville, is a happy little boy, and he has written to say: "I have had a heavy headache and vomited twice to six times a day, and it has taken just four doses of Granger Liver Regulator to make me well." Loundas' mother has found out that there is no use in torturing children by giving them nasty tasting castor-oil and salts when they don't mind taking Granger Liver Regulator, which is a harmless, vegetable compound, that acts on them just right. Your druggist sells it. Ask him.

RECEPTION FOR HUGHES AT DETROIT

Detroit, August 7.—Upon his arrival here Charles E. Hughes headed a long automobile parade from the station to his hotel, a mile and a half away. A brass band played popular tunes and giant firecrackers were exploded along the line of march. Thousands witnessed the parade.

FIRST OPEN COTTON BOLL

The first open boll of cotton of this season was brought into Clanton last Friday, from the farm of Mr. Will Dennis on Route 6. In spite of the great shortage in the crop this season picking will soon be in progress here, as early varieties were planted in order to offset the boll weevil damages as much as possible.

LOCAL UNITED STATES MARINE MAKES GOOD

In an official bulletin issued by Headquarters, United States Marine Corps, Washington, appears the name of Sidney R. Driver, of this place, as having qualified as a sharpshooter in that most interesting branch of the Government service. Sidney, who is a son of Mrs. Susie Driver, of Clanton, enlisted in the United States Marine Corps at its Atlanta, Ga., recruiting station on April 20, 1916, and is now serving at the marine barracks, Port Royal, S. C., awating transfer to expeditionary duty, where he will have many interesting experiences and adventures or to a cruising battleship which will visit strange lands and give the Clanton youth an excellent opportunity to see the world.

Considering the fact that Driver is scarcely more than a recruit, his performance in gunnery is looked upon by Marine Corps officials as very promising.

$122,000 INVOLVED IN 2 COTTON DEALS

Bashinsky And Company Negotiate Big Purchases

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 7.—Two large cotton deals were announced Friday fternoon by E. H. Albert, Montgomery manager for the Bashinsky Cotton company, the sum total of bales handled being 1850. A total of cash involved is given as approximately $122,000.

Mr. Albert, acting for his company, purchased from James McIntyre, representing the Mutual Warehouse company, 1250 bales, for which he paid a trifle over 13 cents perpound. The cash inveolved in this sale approximated $80,000. This sale, it is stated, was consummated Thursday afternoon.

Friday morning Mr. Albert purchased from a merchant on the line of the Mobile and Ohio railroad 600 bales, for which he paid 13.25 cents per pound, approximately $42,000.

All of this cotton was purchased for use in the eastern mills or for export to England, it is stated.

LEGAL NOTICE

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 1, 1916.
Hon. H. A. Harris,
Sheriff of Chilton county,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear sir:

No U. S. Internal Revenue License have been issued to your county in July 1916.

I hereby certify that I have carefully examined the record of the Collector of Internal Revenue and the above is complete and correct.

Yours very truly,
SAM P. JONES.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this first day of August 1916.
J. B. MOSLEY,
Notary Public.

Misses Evelyn and Catherine White are visiting Mrs. M. L. White.

MARANVILLE

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

RANDOLPH ROSE

Up East last summer I saw Walter Maranville of the Boston Nationals for the first time. He's certainly a marvel and a midget and everything good that's been said of him is true, and more, too.

It was in the second inning, when he got his first chance at a fly ball. I watched him catch it.

"Ah, he's dropped it," I thought, but before I could realize it, he had tossed it over to Evers.

And thus I was initiated into what is known as Maranville's patent vest pocket catch. Instead of catching a fly with hands up around his head or shoulders, he catches them down near his waist, and they tell me no matter how many times you see him you shudder every time he catches a fly, thinking he has missed it.

Maranville's father was a tinner and looked upon baseball as a very frivolous thing and didn't want his son to play. The old man said he didn't want his son fooling around getting his mind off his work, when if he stayed at home and settled down he could make his $20 regular every week at the tinning trade. I guess the boy makes that much a day now, without much trouble.

There's another player on that Boston team that appeals to me—Dick Rudolph. Fame is a precarious thing and nobody knows how close Rudolph came to missing it.

He pitched for Toronto five years, all the time figuring he was a major leaguer if he could just get a chance. Well, the Giants tried him out one year and turned him back. When it came time to go to Toronto for the sixth year, Rudolph struck. He realized that if he served up there another year he was a goner as a major leaguer. So he refused to play and held out until he became a free agent and then tried out with Boston. His first year with Boston, 1914, he did more than any other one player to win the pennant, and won the opening game of the world's series. He sure had a narrow escape.

Randolph Rose

State Happenings

MRS. AMANDA SHORT AGED 116 DIES AT HER HOME IN WARRIOR

Mrs. Amanda Short, who had lived in the district of Warrior for the past 60 years and was one of the best known residents of the county, died last week at the home of her grandson, I. R. Short, R. F. D. No. 2, Warrior, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Short lost her husband and four sons in the Civil war, and but one of her thirteen children survive her, her youngest now being over seventy years of age. Many grandchildren and great grandchildren survive her.

Mrs. Short drew a pension from the state, the last having been paid on July 9.

SELMA'S FIRST BALE SOLD AT 24 CENTS

First Cotton Consignment Comes From Safford

Selma, Ala., Aug. 7.—Selma, it is claimed, is the best cotton market in the state of Alabama as was shown on Saturday by the bid of twenty-four cents per pound for the first bale of the 1916 crop. The bale was shipped to V. B. Atkins Crocery company, was sent in by C. E. Shuptrine, of Safford, weighed 562 pounds, and was bought by M. Honenberg.

SPECIAL COURT IN RUSSELL COUNTY NOW IN FULL SWING

Seale, Ala., Aug. 8.—Night session may be held by the special court convened here to hear the liquor cases, growing out of the recent raids at Girard. Attorney General W.L. Martin, who is in charge of the prosecution of the cases, announced today that all cases would be rushed to a trial It is said that no cases will be continued.

Judge A. H. Alston, Supernumerary Judge, who is presiding over the special court, charged the grand jury to bring recommendations for impeachment against any officer found to be derelict in his duty.

Reports in the latter part of the day said that C. C. Phelps, the first citizen of Girard indicted by the recent grand jury for violating the prohibition laws, was the first defendant tried in the special term of the court, which convened here today. After an all-day trial, the jury brought in a verdict at 4:00 o'clock this afternoon finding Phelps guilty in six counts, assessing fines aggregating $25,000. Phelps was remanded to jail by Judge Alston.

Alonzo Ingersoll, the second man tried, was charged with transporting liquor in the state, contrary to law. He was fined $200.

Ben Edmonds, indicted for violation of the prohibition laws, was on trial when the court adjourned for the day.

CALERA CITIZEN HURT BY TRAIN, REPORTED BETTER

The condition of K. Ellison, of Calera, who was carried to St. Vincent's Hospital Monday, has improved. Mr. Ellison is said to have been struct by a Louisville and Nashville train Tuesday morning, but he sustained only a slight scalp wound, and his skull was not fractured as was reported according to information given out from the hospital. He was carried from the train to the hospital that night in an automobile of Shaw Undertaking Co., and will leave the hospital soon they say.

No. 666

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c

An Historical Fact

PURELY VEGETABLE S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

Even before the days of our Forefathers, extracts from the same kind of roots, herbs and barks, now used in compounding the ingredients for S. S. S., were well known and extensively used among the Indians.

Science and modern methods have only changed the Indians way of handling the materials, the essential features are still in evidence in S. S. S.—Natures Greatest Blood Purifier—and a natural sequence of the Indians favorite medicine.

GET THE GENUINE S. S. S. AT YOUR DRUGGIST.

USED FOR 50 YEARS SUCCESSFULLY

S.S.S. Co. Atlanta, Georgia

Wanted—50 more young men and 50 more young women to enter

THORSBY INSTITUTE

September 12th, 1916.

To get a High School Education or preparation for it, under vital Christian, tho non-sectarian influence

Teachers Thoroughly Trained.

High Standards, Low Expenses.

Opportunity of work to pay part expenses.

Room rent and good board, $2.50 per week.

Special attention to Music, Voice, Piano, Violin.

Business branches for those who want them.

You should send for catalogue to
Prin. S. H. HERBERT, Thorsby, Ala.

After the Walk your first and best thought is

Coca-Cola

Oftenest thought of for its deliciousness—highest thought of for its wholesomeness. Refreshing and thirst-quenching.

Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution.

THE COCA-COLA CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Send for Free Booklet, "The Romance of Coca-Cola."

Flour Mill

We desire to state to the public that our Flour Mill at Coopers is again ready for operation this season, and you are cordially invited to give us your patronage.

We thank you for having given us such liberal patronage last season, and promise you to even more than ever exert every means and effort to serve you satisfactorially. Our Mill will be in continuous operation during the entire season.

Very Respectfully

Cooper M'f'g. Company
COOPER, ALA.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

New Prices Aug. 1, 1916

The following prices for Ford cars will be effective on and after August 1st, 1916.

Chassis	$325.00
Runabout	345.00
Touring Car	360.00
Coupelet	505.00
Town Car	595.00
Sedan	645.00

f. o. b. Detroit.

These prices are positively guaranteed against any reduction before Aug. 1, 1917, but there is no guarantee against an advance in price at any time.

L. J. DUNCAN

CLANTON, ALA.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, AUGUST 17, 1916 NUMBER 20.

Republican Rally Saturday Was a Pleasing Prospectus

A wonderful victory for Judge Reynolds and the whole of the Republican ticket in November is Forecast by that Great Gathering of Anxious Voters.

LONG, KENNEMAR AND LONGSHORE MADE SPEECHES.

A crowded court house of hearers braved the heat of a scorching day and listened intently, cheering wildly the ringing indictments against the Democrats as they were pronounced fearlessly by the most stalwart Republicrns of Alabama.

In spite of the many things of one sort and another that may be and no doubt will be said to the contrary, the gathering of citizens and voters at the courthouse last Saturday to hear the Republican speeches, offers the best and most reliable index to the standing of the political situation in Chilton County that has yet presented itself during this campaign.

It was a rally formulated and instituted under the direction of regular Republican organization of the state, by Chairman Pope M. Long and National Committman Oliver D. Street. These distinguished gentlemen had volunteered to come here on that day and address the voters of the county on behalf of the issues of the Notional Republican campaign and the county Republican campaign.

The response of the people of the county thereto was most loyal and pleasing indeed. It showed conclusively that the tenor if sentiment is in direct line with the Republican party principles. By the showing that was made here Saturday it is seen clearly that our voters are with their whole souls and influence, ready and anxiously waiting for the opportunity offered through the ballot in November, to cast themselves in a solid body, behind the fully restored Republican party and its ticket, without a bit of quibbling and speculation on candidates that have no regularity, and no pronounced standing anywhere.

Middleton is Chairman.

That always true and worthy champion of the people's rights, Hon. J. Osmond Middleton, of our city was made Chairman of the meeting Saturday, and in his inimitable manner, administered the duties that were incumbent upon him in the important position which he occupied. The various interesting items and speeches which were made before the crowded audience were interspersed with witty and striking remarks from the Chair. Several illustrative anecdotes struck his hearers most forcibly and always impressed well and fully the ideas which he so appropriately brought before the House.

Resolutions Adopted.

The following stirring resolutions were read and put before the House by Chairman Middleton, and were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, in the campaign six years ago, the Democrats promised the people of Chilton County that if they would elect them to office that they would reduce the taxes, decrease the burdens, and would not place the county in debt;

And whereas, the Democrats of Chilton county, in flagrant violation of their party pledge, have increased the taxes, piled up the burdens, squandered the people's money, and sunk the county two hundred sixty-five thousand dollars in debt;

And whereas, the Democratic leaders in Chilton county believe in dominating the affairs of the county in ruthless disregard of the wishes of the people, which fact is proven by a recent effort on their part to put certain measures through the Legislature, the purpose of which was to deprive the people of this county of the right to elect their own officers.

And whereas, the Democrats of Chilton county, realizing their desperate condition, have nominated an independent candidate for probate Judge, a former Republican, and placed him upon an unlawful platform in that he promises, if elected. to accept only one hundred and fifty dollars per month, and place the other part of the fees to the credit of the school fund; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that this great body of voters assembled in the courthouse of Chilton county on this the 12th day of August, 1916, do hereby affirm our faith in, and loyalty to the Republican party, and we hereby pledge our best efforts to bring about the election of the Republican nominees in county, state and nation;

And that we condemn the Democrats of Chilton County for their failure to keep faith with the people, and we deplore the shameful manner in which they have squandered the people's money;

That we denounce the conduct of the leaders of Chilton County Democracy in seeking to have passed thru the Legislature those damnable measures which had for their purpose the depriving of the common people of this county the right of electing their officers and having them appointed by the Governor. Such measures are conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity;

That we condemn the act of Mr. Popwell in promising, if elected, to accept less than the amount of the fees of the office, as a species of bribery, and an open violation of the Corrupt Practice Act of Alabama;

That we stand for a reduction of the taxes as fast as an economical administration of the affairs of the county will permit;

That we declare our unqualified opposition to unnecessary debts and burdens being placed on the people;

That we favor some prompt business arrangement to care for the debts of the county, so that enough money will be at all times available to pay the current expenses of the county, and thus eliminate the present humiliating system of having to sell county warrants at half price to some scalper or bloated bond-holder. We stand for a redemption of county honor and county integrity;

That we stand for good roads, and we pledge ourselves to improve the roads as best we can, under the deplorable financial condition in which the county is, but we strongly condemn the expenditure of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the construction of comparatively a few miles of road to the exclusion of the best interests to the vast majority of all the people of the county;

That we stand for good schools, and long to see the time when an absolutely free education shall be placed in reach of every boy and girl throughout the length and breadth of this state, but we denounce as an unjust discrimination, for the state to give thirty-five dollare per capita to educate the children in Dallas county, and two dollars and eighty four cents per capita to educate the children of Chilton county;

That we believe in the doctrine of a square deal, and the gospel of the rule of the people.

Mr. Long Introduced.

Hon. Pope M. Long, Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee of Alabama, was introduced to the audience by a few well-chosen and expressive words from Chairman Middleton. Tribute was paid to the sturdy character and stalwort citizenship of the distinguished visitor from Walker county, and he arose in all his magnificence of speech and personality and faced his hearers amid showers of cheers.

Mr. Long assured his hearers of the fact that he came representing the State Republican Organization; and further that this speldid organization was heart and soul, strictly behind the Republican ticket in Chilton county, which is so ably led and headed by Judge L. H. Reynolds. His assurance that the erstwhile differences of Republicans and Progressives had been settled, and that they now faced the common foe in solid phalanx were greeted with loud cheers from the audience.

Judge Kennemer's Speech.

It was impossible for Mr. Street to be present and make a speech as was programmed; but this fact brought but little disappointment to the audience. Mr. Street had his representative here in his stead, in the person of that splendid orator and profound political thinker, Judge Kennemer of Marshall County. The speech that Mr. Kennemer made was devoted to national political issues more than to anything else. He dealt with the arguments favoring the election of Mr. Charles E. Hughes to the Presidency of the United States, in a truly masterful manner.

Longshore of Shelby.

Of all men, who have spoken to an audience of voters in Clanton and Chilton County, there is none so certain to touch the heartstrings of his hearers as that beloved fighter and exponent of the people, Honorable A. P. Longshore of Shelby County. Just as the enthusiasm of the meeting Saturday was at its heighth, who should walk in but Judge Longshore? And once observed by the many citizens who had heard him before, and who knew his worth and ability on such occasions, nothing would do but that he must make a speech. He made a speech and the crowd cheered him wildly. He hit the nail on the head every drive he made.

Judge Reynolds' Speech

Ever and always are the people of the county ready and anxious to hear what is to be said by their honored and beloved fellow citizen, Judge L. H. Reynolds. His remarks dealt fluently with the local political situation in Chilton County; and they met fully and completely the approval and applause of the crowded court room of Chilton County voters.

The Vote of the House.

At the request of some member of the audience, Chairman Middleton asked for a vote of the house whether or not they would suport the Republican ticket in November. This was done; and the pledge was unanimous with everybody to stand by Judge Reynolds and his ticket.

Great Interest Manifest.

It is a matter of fact that when a crowded house like the courthouse was last Saturday stands and listens to speechmaking as long as they did, there is certainly going to be some very grave interest behind the men who did it. They paid no attention to the excessive heat that was almost to the melting point sometimes. All was interest and enthusiasm for the things that were being said by the eloquent speakers. No better showing could have been made for the Republican party in Chilton County. The indications of that meeting last Saturday were so plain that he who runs may read.

The balance of this chapter will be concluded in the sweeping cistory of Judge Reynolds and the entire Republican ticket in November.

Long Time Loans to Farmers on Improved Real Estate

On real estate security in Chilton County, owned by farmers. I can procure long time loansfrom clients who have ample money to lend, at less tha 8 per cent interest. Applicants should bring their land papers with them.

Wm. M. ADAMS, Clanton, Ala.

A DAY AT NEW HOPE SCHOOL

Special exercises were held at New Hope school house on Friday morning August 11.

The program was opened with the recitation of the Twenty-Third Psalm which was read in concert. The next thing was the reading from a library book by the teacher; the name of the book was "Ethics of Success." The chapter which was read was, "What Spare Moments will do." He said that by the right use of your spare moments you can become a doctor, a preacher, a teacher, or anything you really want to be, if you use them in studying good books.

The school then joined in singing three or four songs, and prayer was led by the teacher, and quotations from the Bible were repeated from memory by the pupils, after which they again joined in singing for five minutes.

The teacher then called for the pupils to name over as many songs as they could, and the result was the naming of seventy-five pieces of music.

Then the school was entertained by six pupils, who volunteered to tell stories. They were all splendid.

The teacher asked for volunteers to go to the board and write words, which the other pupils were to give out to them. The were given out something like one hundred sixty expressions to spell, and some of them made the hundred mark, and some scarcely made twenty-five per cent.

About this time it was noon, and all the students played and had a good time.

After dinner we were to spell. The primary class was to spell first, and the one to stand up longest was to get a prize, and George Porter was the prize winner of that class.

There were quite a number of visitors, and we were glad to have them with us. Some of the visiting young people spelled with us, and some of them spelled fine for their first time in a match.

Our teachers's name is Prof. F. B. Williams, and I tell you the day was well spent, and everybody present enjoyed it exceedingly.

The school will be out in three more weeks, and everyone of the pupils will be sorrow to see it close. There is going to be an all-day Educational Rally at the close, which is Friday, September 1st.

CHARLIE PLIER.

CLANTON POST OFFICE

List of letters remaining uncalled for in this office for the week ending August 12, 1916.

Ladies

Annie Cook, Annet Cobb, Exa Losier (2), Mary Bake.

Gentlemen

W. C. Dyer, J. L. Malone, Halk Williams, Rev. W. S. Peeples.

These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter Office, Aug. 26, 1916 if not delivered before. In calling for the above please say "Advertised" giving date of list.

B. M. ROBERTS, P.M.

CARD OF THANKS

The members of the Clanton Camp No. 322, W. O. W., desire to express thanks to the kind neighbors of Bro. A. L. Williams, for their assistance rendered the Committee of the Camp, in finishing the crop of Bro. Williams, who is sick at an infirmary in Birmingham.

Done by order of the Camp, this 15th day of August, 1916.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted at the Spring term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, 1915, for grand larceny, will apply for pardon or parole.

FATE HENLEY.

FREE-TRADE SPELLS RUIN AFTER THE WAR

From American Economist.—

The Republican candidates for President and Vice-President, Hon. Charles E. Hughes and Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, members of the Republican National Committee and the Republican National Congressional Committee and the Senatorial Committee represent the Republican platform adopted at Chicago. The platform comes more nearly to the general policy of adequate protction to all Amrican industries than the platform adopted by th Democratic party at St. Louis.

We ask the prayerful consideration of candidates and members of all committees to the following editorial from the New York Sun and New York Press of July 25th, 1916:

Our Free-Trade Business.

If the American manufacturers are stagered by the increase of our imports that does not begin to tell the story of the tariff's share in it. For the most part, purchasers abroad, even while the war goes on, are free-trade business, pure and simple. Let the records make it clear.

For the eleven months ending last May the increase of our imports taken as a whole, over the corresponding period of 1914, before the war was $215,691,865, the two import figures being $1,952,088,072 and $1,736,396,-207.

But there was an actual loss in our dutiable imports for the eleven months ending last May as compared with the eleven months ended with May of 1914, the drop being from $702,-339,570 to $613,223,526. The increase in the value of imports admitted free of duty, therefore, was $304,-807,909. In other words, despite the huge mass of imports now coming to us and swelling in volume and value every month the dutible imports are so much lower than they were before the war, that the increase of free imports is really 40 per cent. more than appears on the face of the total imports.

How much greater the imports will be after the war, with Germany, Austria, Belgium, and all Europe shipping to us at full capacity, nobody can say; but who can doubt that there will be enough more free, not dutible articles to make comparative American industries look like the battle ruins of Northern France?

STATE DEPT. OF EDUCATION WEEKLY NEWS LETTER NO. 32

Educational Investment.

That DeKalb County is wide awake educationally, is evidenced by the fact that the patrons of schools paid $13,825 last year in matriculation and incidental fees. The interest of the people paying this amount of supplementary funds for good schools can not be questioned. If this same money could be invested in a different way, namely, through the medium of local taxation, it would increase the amount to $34,562.50. This is true, in view of the fact that theindividual of DeKalb County pays only 40 per cent of the total taxes of the county, the remaining 60 per cent. being paid by the railroads, corporations and non-resident individuals; therefore if forty per cent. of the local taxes should equal $13,825, 100 per cent of the taxes paid would be $34,562.50

The Educational Amendment to be voted on at the general election in November, 1916 offers an opportunity for such investment, not only to the citizens of DeKalb County but to the citizens of all counties in the state.

The Public Duty.

"For the purpose of public instruction," said Webster, in his oration at Plymouth on Forefathers' day in 1820 "We hold every man subject to taxation in proportion to his property, and we look not to the question whether he himself have or have not children to be benefitted by the education for which he pays. We regard it as a wise and liberal system of policy by which property, and life, and peace of society are secured. We seek to prevent in some measure the extension of the penal code by inspiring a salutary and conservative principle of virtue and knowledge in an early age. We strive to excite a feeling of respectability, and a sense of character, by enlarging the capacity and increasing the sphere of intellectual enjoyment.

By general instruction, we seek, as far as possible, to purify the whole moral atmosphere; to keep good sentiments uppermost, and to turn the strong current of feeling and opinion, as well as the censures of the law and the denunciations of religion, against immorality and crime. We hope for a security beyond the law, and above the law in the prevalence of an enlightened and well-principled moral sentiment. . . . . And knowing that our government rests directly upon the public will, in order that we may preserve it, we endeavor to give a safe and proper direection to that public will.

We do not expect all men to be philosophers or statesmen; but we confidentally trust, and our expectation of the duration of our system of government rests upon that trust, that by the diffusion of general knowledge and good and virtuous sentiments, the political fabric may be secure as well against open violence and overthrow as against the slow, but sure, undermining licentuousness."

FOR SALE—One Jersey milch cow, young calf. Took two prizes at the County Fair 1914, good condition, third calf. T. E. Williams, Clanton, Ala. adv. 8-10

BRANDON REFUSES CHALLENGE TO DEBATE

Reynolds And Longshore Offer To Discuss Issues with Brandon and McCord

Last Saturday Judge Reynolds and Judge Longshore openly issued a challenge to Hon. W. W. Brandon and Judge Leon McCord, to a buplic debate on the political issues of the day at the courthouse in Clanton on Saturday, August 26, The challenge was announced before the audience in the courthouse Saturday morning.

It was expected that Judge Brandon in his speech in the afternoon, would make a statement of acceptance or rejection of the challenge. But as he failed to do so, Judge Reynolds sent him a letter Monday morning, a copy of which follows:

"Clanton, Ala., Aug. 14, 1916.—
"Judge W. W. Brandon,
Tuscaloosa, Ala.
"Dear Judge:

I was sorry that I did not get to talk with you while you were here, Saturday and discuss the local situation with you.

The crowd invited you to come back here Saturday, August 26, and for you and me to have a joint discussion on equal terms. Write me at once if you will come back, so we can publish the notice this week.

If you can and will, I would like to have a number of joint debates over the county, any date between now and the election that will suit you, and I assure you that our people will be glad to hear you discuss the political situation of the day, and I know we can go together without any unpleasantness.

I hope you can get off Saturday, the 26th and arrange to stay with us for some time.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

The following is a reply from Judge Brandon to the above letter of Judge Reynolds:

"Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 15, 1916.
"Hon. L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Ala.
"Dear Sir:

"Your very courteous letter inviting me to be with you in Clanton on the 26th has been received. I regret that other engagements will not permit. In addition to that, I will not have the time to devote to the local campaign in your county.. I am always willing as far as in me lies ready to do anything I can for the Democratic party, and on last Saturday I delivered my message as best I could to the people of Chilton. I think when the history of the nation is written that Woodrow Wilson will be preeminent as the real statesman of the age. I am sure our personal relations would not be disturbed by a joint debate. And regret you can not be with the Democratic party.

Yours truly,
"W. M. BRANDON."

No Speaking on August 26.

Owing to the fact that Judge Brandan did not see fit to accept the challenge of Judge Reynolds and Judge Longshore to speak at Clanton on the 26th, there will be no speaking here on that day. Probably at some later date, if the arrangements can be made with Democratic speakers, our voters will have the pleasure of hearing a joint discussion between representatives of the two parties.

RESOLUTENESS MEANS PEACE

The outstanding facts in Mr.Hughes discussion of foreign relations are these: He will keep us out of war if possible, but the peace that he values is peace honorable to the nation; his concern is the United States of America; his just demands upon foreign governments will be made as a matter of right and they will be made in terms unmistakable; his aim will be to prevent violations of American lives and property; he will exhibit the might of the country in time to avert humiliation and disaster, not when the damage is done, and a show of force is a vain parading of unused strength. Mr. Hughes will not "but in" a neighbor's affairs, but if he is compelled to adopt forceful measures in the interest of the United States, he will not attempt to excuse a just action as in behalf of some phantasy; nor will he withdraw before his mission has been accomplished.

Resoluteness means peace, not war, says Mr. Hughes. Mere discussion accomplishes nothing, as has been proved by the failure of Mr. Wilson's interminable exchanges of notes with those who have been guilty of aggressions against us. We know the character of Mr. Hughes. There can be no doubt that when he takes the reins of government from the feeble hands of Woodrow Wilson, there will be an end of that condition, which has brought shame upon our peace-loving nation, shame that such peace as is ours has been bought at the price of national honor.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKING

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton will address the voters of Chilton County at Mineral Springs in Beat 12, on Saturday night, August 26, in the interest of the Republican Campaign in Chilton county. All voters are requested and invited to hear him.

H. A. HARRIS,
Chairman Republican
County Campaign Committee.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

WADE'S WEEKLY LETTER

Make Hay and Live Stock Pay for Damage to Crops.

The destructioin of corn on bottom lands by overflows and the damage to cotton by excessive rains and boll weevils constitute a tremendous loss to the farmers of Alabama which, if calculated in dollars would run into millions. It is probably best that the exact estimate be withheld.

Hay Crop Best Ever.—There is one crop that has thrived luxurantly, and that is hay and forage of every kind. Cow peas following oats, velvet beans in the corn fields, sorghum and wild grasses have put on more than double growth and, if properly harvested, cured and stored, will go a long way toward recovering the losses by feeding live stock and putting them in marketable condition, increasing the flesh for corn and as a substitute for corn for wintering breeding stock and draft animals. Save this hay of both domestic and wild varieties. The common waste, if conserved, will tide over adversities like we have just experienced.

Harvesting.—August and September are generally the best months for making hay, as the sunshine is abundant and the air generally dry, thus curing the hay in the shortest time, lessening the weather risk. It is best to wait for favorable weather unless the crop is beginning to suffer from over-ripeness. Hay should be raked and made into small pyramids in the afternoon of the second day after cutting. The pyramids should be made with three poles in pyramid shape and three strips nailed around them two feet from the bottom. About three hundred pounds of uncured hay is sufficient to one pyramid to get the best curing results. If large pyramids are desired, put on a little more every day until the pyramid is as large as desired.

Storing.—Usually much hay is allowed to waste in the field. This is more often the result of pure carelessness than bad weather conditions. It should be baled in the field just as soon as ready and hauled to the barn. Most all hay plants grow so luxurantly in this country as to become coarse and will not turn water and keep unprotected in the field. About one-third of the hay harvested in this state is either damaged or rendered worthless by standing too long stacked in the fields. If you have no room in your barns. take two or three small stacks after they are thoroughly cured and build them into one. Put a canvas top about nine feet square on and weight it down with old plow points or scrap iron anchored with bailing wire. Osnaburg mill ends can be purchased from any cotton mill with which to make the canvas tops. These tops will prove useful for other purposes after they have saved the hay.

Other Methods.—If you have a method of saving hay, particularly your own, that has given you good results, why do it your way. Any way will do that fits your circumstances, just so it saves the hay and prevents its going to waste.

Rough Land.—Land may be too rough for operating a machine and much hay may be saved by hand scythes. This is a slow method but is worth while, as the poorest grades of hay for wlid grasses is worth from $8.00 to $12.00 per ton when properly cured and kept.

JAMES A. WADE.

BAPTISING AT NEW SALEM

The editor had the pleasure of attending a good old-fashioned baptising at New Salem church last Sunday. It was one of those grand occasions where hundreds of people gathered out on the bank of the creek and witnessed the scared ordinance as it was administered to fifteen converts by Rev. W. P. Lowery. After the baptising the services at the church brought the conclusion of the weeks revival services.

LANGSTON FAMILY REUNION

The annual reunion of the Langston family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thomas, near Ashby, August 8, 1916.

Rev. J. M. Langston, who died in 1900 was a pastor of churches for 30 years. His widow, Mrs. Mary C. Langston still lives and was made happy by the presence of her children grand children and great-grand children.

Prof. J. M. Langston, the oldest son, is principal of one of our Mountain Mission Schools, of the Southern Baptist Convention, which is situated at Pisgah, Ala. His aim is to raise the life of mankind to a higher level of existence.

A. D. Langston is a Deacon and an earnest worker in Lineville Baptist church, of Lineville, Ala.

D. C. Langston is a faithful worker in the cause of education and religion of Sherman, Miss.

Rev. I. N. Langston is a most successful pastor of the First Baptist chourch in El Paso, Texas.

Mrs. Mattie E. Thomas of Ashby, the oldest daughter living is one of God's noble women.

Mrs. Maggie R. Thucks of Ensley, is living a life worth while.

A. W. Langston stands hard by and guards the great and grand mother in her declining years.

The daughters and sons of the deceased daughters, Mrs. Virginia Smitherman, Mrs. Luxora Morgan and Mrs Sallie Cooper represented their respective families in a manner that was pleasing.

Miss Madge Cooper spent several days with her mother's people after the reunion.

MR. POPWELL'S CANDIDACY AS VIEWED FROM A LEGAL STANDPOINT.

Opinions and Citations that Invalidate his Claims, and indict his actions and promises

It has developed from recent words and actions of those in direct support of the candidacy of Mr. Popwell for Probate Judge, and from certain promises that he has made in his platform, that there have been committed open and specific violations of the election laws of the state as embodied in the corrupt practice act enacted by the last legislature.

The main body of the illegality committed seems to come out of Mr. Popwell's declaration, wherein he promises to the voters that he will accept a certain amount as his salary if elected to office, and will refund the balance to the public school fund of the county. This manner of getting favor with the people assumes a peculiar aspect of bribery to obtain votes, and we find very explicit and definite treatment for such action laid down very plainly in the law.

Mr. Middleton last Saturday before the audience at the courthouse rendered his opinion on the attitude of Mr. Popwell's candidacy in this matter. He cited an instance in the action of the Supreme Court of Ohio, dealing with a case very like that of Mr. Popwell, under a law of that state from which our own corrupt practice act is derived. The general circunstances of the Ohio case are practically the same as those embodied in the offer of Mr. Popwell to refund a certain amount of his salary to the school funds; and the decision of the court was to the effect that the candidate so offering to do these things was guilty of a corrupt practice, and a violation of the law.

Mr. Middleton read and commented on the section of the corrupt practice act of Alabama, dealing with cases of this nature of the one with which Mr. Popwell and his supporters have brought before the people of this county. Below we copy the section as it is taken from the general acts of the last legislature, found on page 250 thereof:

Sec. 4. Any person is guilty of a Corrupt Practice, if he directly or indirectly, by himself or through any other person, or through any political committees, in connection with or in respect of any election, pays, lends or contributes or offers or promises to pay, lend or contribute, any money or other valuable consideration for any purpose than the following matters and services at their reasonable bonafide and coustomary values: For his traveling expenses while campaigning or fee for quailfying; stenographic work; clerks at his campaign headquarters to address, prepare and mail campaign literature; telegrams; telephones; postage; freight; express; stationery; a list of voters; office rent; newspaper advertising; preparation, printing and publication of posters, lithograph, banners, notice in literary material, reading matter, cards and pamphlets; the compensation of agents to supervise and to prepare and distribute such articles and advertisements; the rent of halls, in which to address the voters; the hire of bands or musicians and the reasonable traveling expenses of his agents, clerks and speakers. Any payment, contribution or expenditure, or agreement or offer to pay, contribute or expend any money or thing of value for any purpose whatsoever, except as herein provided is hereby declared to be a corrupt practice.

This promise on the part of Mr. Popwell strikes us as cheap "peanut politics." Mr. Popwell is reported to be a wealthy man. How much money has he contributed heretofore to the support of schools and churches in his community? We challenge Mr. Popwell to sign a statement saying just how much of his fees he will give to the schools if he is elected.

But after all, cannot the insidious hand of the Chilton County Democracy be seen in Popwell's platform? Who knows but that it is a deliberate scheme on their part to run Popwell on this platform, and, if by any perverse circumstances he should be elected, institute ouster proceedings against him, remove him, and have their Democratic governor appoint a Democrat as Probate Judge.

But the Republicans of Chilton county are alive to the situation, and there is not a fool among them.

W. M. WYATT,
Clanton, Ala., August 16, 1916.

SUBSCRIBERS

We positively will not send The Union-Banner to anyone who is over a year behind with his subscription.

Recently we stopped sending the paper to a number who were in arrears, and took their names from our list.

If you want to be sure to get every issue of the paper you had better look after your subscription.

When it gets a year behind we will take your name off the mail list till it is paid up.

Don't overlook this, as it is important.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.
For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.
For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.
For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.
For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.
For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.
For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

SIGN YOUR NAME

We have repeatedly requested our correspondents to sign their names to communications sent us for publication. No articles, other than mere news items, will be published without the name of the writer is published also. If you have any reply to make to an article written by some body else, we will not publish it unless we are allowed to publish the name of the writer. Remember this when you write to the paper.

Mr. Hughes took a trunk-full of documents along with him on his western trip. He also carried as usual a head full of brains, which will enable him to use trunk full of documents to the best advantage.

Hon. J. O. Middleton last Saturdty, at the great Republican meeting, exploded a bomb in the Popwell camp by showing up the falacy of the Popwell platfarm. In clear-cut, logical manner, Mr. Middleton proved that the promise of Mr. Popwell, if elected Probate Judge, to give a portion of his fees to the school fund, was in contravention to the law, and a flagrant violation of the corrupt practice act of Alabama..

How do you compare the 90 votes that nominated Mr. Popwell for Probate Judge with the hundreds who rose to their feet Saturday in response to the inquiry for all who were going to vote the Republican ticket, headed by Judge Reynolds in November? Think of those two instances, and compare them. Then see if you can read between the lines as far ahead as November 7th.

Do you want to vote for a candidate who was duly and legally nominated by the people in their primary, and who is a lawfully qualified candidate for the office he seeks, or do you want to vote for a man who was not nominated according to the way prescribed by law, and who has violated the laws in his condidacy since his illegal nomination? These are the two kinds of candidates you have the privilege of voting for for Probate Judge of Chilton County in November.

Southern newspapers are complaining because the new rural credits board does not contain a member from the South. "It is noted at Washington," says the New Orleans Times Picayune, "that the Southern Congressmen are amazed at this action." So are we. The South has received such a preponderance of favor from this administration that we had supposed it to be second nature, at least, with the White House to send the bulk of the plums below the Mason and Dixon's line.

Did anybody ever see a convention of public officials—like those postmasters in Washington—which made its policies so conspicuous and was encouraged by the head of the nation, in his address to consider themselves as Democrats rather than public servants. In old days befor the civil service reform came, they used to charge that Republican postmasters were the most offensive partisans in the whole bunch, but they didn't get together and label themselves a partisan organization.—Weterbury American.

RUINED HIS CHANCES

Prior to the arrival of Judge Brandon here Saturday, he was heralded as the future Governor of Alabama, the Judge being a Democrat, came and made a Democratic speech. But somehow, the Democracy of Brandon does not hardly correspond with the brand of Democracy in Chilton County. His speech did not quite apply to all the phases of the local county fight in which there are a few who claim to be Democrats, a few Socialists and a few Independents. In other words, he did not give the Anti-Republicans much consolation in their "general mixtry" to beat Reynolds.

It is reported that before he left Clanton, one of the Democrats told the Judge that his speech had ruined his chances for being elected Governor of Alabama.

All kinds new and fresh turnip seed at Upchurch Drug Co.

NO DANGER OF WAR

Cincinnati Inquirer.—

Our readers should not take too seriously statements as to trade reprisal, or any action save the familiar "Strong Note" or "Vigorous Protest" by the administration of the United States against Great Britain's recent publication of a "black list" of American business men.

Neither should they become in the least excited by verbal outbreaks of friends of the adminstration in congress relative to this transaction. An administration that has so frequently called 30,000 or 40,000 of its own peaceful and law abiding citizens out of Mexico rather than protect them and their rights in that country, is not likely to grow indignant, save in words over the British blacklisting of 80 American business men, as published, or even the 8,000 names which are said will follow in subsequent black lists. An administration which only "protests" when British, German and French mine the high seas and blow up neutral's vessles, without regard to the flag they carry, will not worry over a British blacklist of American business men.

An administration which only sends a "strong note" when United States mails to neutral and peaceful countries and from peaceful and neutral countries are taken off neutral vessles by British cruisers, is not likely to do more when its merchants are blacklisted by the British government.

An administration that has for 16 months permitted the seizure of American vessles flying the United States flag, under British "orders in council" which it has denounced as unjust, illegal and indefensible six months ago, is not apt to become excited over this ostaricism and blacklisting of American business men in Great Britain.

An administration which for three years has seen hundreds of its citizens mudrered by Mexican bandits, a score of itssoldiers recently slain by Mexican troopers, thousands of its nationals, men women and children, compelled to fly before Mexican assailants, and at all times is ready, not to punish, but to placate the officials of the murderous violaters and assaulters, can be depended upon to take no serious step to check the blacklisting of our merchants.

There may be "strong notes" that avail nothing; there may be "vigorous protests" that will be ignored; there may be loud denunciations for the people to read, but there are not the days of Washington or Jefferson, Jackson or Polk, Grant or Cleveland.

WHAT SHALL THE ANSWERS BE?

Among the questions for voters asked by the New York Evening Sun are the following:

Do you believe in preparedness for a flood of cheap European wares as soon as peace comes?

Have you noticed the significant increase of imports in the past year, despite the war?

How did fool free-trade hit your line of business before August, 1914?

And your friends?

Were you all cheered by the Underwood Tariff Bill?

Do you think the doubling of the income tax is fair while millions' worth of competitive imports come in free?

Where are you going to be when the war babies die and business slips back to the cold, hard normal basis?

Can you perceive of any possible good to you or to the country from another presidential term like the presnt one?

Will you perpetuate sectionalism, greed, ignorance, stupidity—general ineptitude in cangress?

Here are questions—vital questions—that every wage-earner, every wage-payer and every man in every line of business should ask himself? The answers can be deposited in the ballot boxes next November. If answered rightly, there will be an end of free-trade folly and a return to the same policy of protection.—American Economist.

Do you, the tax payers of this county, know that the L. & N. Railroad Company's taxes have been reduced in this county $4,000.00, and that nearly all the farmer's taxes have been raised. We predict that after the reduction of the big interest taxes and the expense of the equlization board comes out, there will not be any extra money to go into the county treasury.

How long will the few people listen to the cry of a few politicians while they are being held and robbed in a pretended legal manner?

Read what the Birmingham Ledger says in its editorial columns the 14th, about the Legislature and taxes. The Ledger is a leading daily Democratic newspaper if Birmingham:

"Why Citizens are very Angry Still.

"County tax assessors are busy getting their books in accord with the heavy raise in citizens' taxes so that a great corporation could be exempt from taxation. We believe that there is no parallel in the state's history. The state's whole tax system has been re-arranged to relieve one corporation of taxes by increasing all other taxation. Think of it—a legislature devoting its time to raising all taxes on private property and on much other property, in order that one corporation might be relieved of all taxation.

"There is a political rebellion brewing because the men who worked this scheme did under the guise of helping the great moral cause. All citizens were wronged that one very rich corporation might be relieved of tax burdens.

"Finally the farmers expressed their round disapproval of exempting from taxes one of the largest interests in the state, while steps were taken at the same time to increase the tax burdens of he remainder of the people to make up fir the deficiency."

Hampton (Ia) Recorder—The Demonstrations against Mexico will serve one useful purpose for the Democratic administration—all the big appropriations can be charged up against it.

Girls' Club Work

The Club work has had another week of successful demonstration, five having been given Tuesday in the Samaria neighborhood, Wednesday at Vermont School House, Thursday at New Hamrony. Friday the Clanton Club had a most successful day's work. They led in variety canning. Their products in glass were beautiful.

Saturday a number of club members and visiting girls at Mulberry did some good work, and enjoyed it very much; it was a means of getting several new members. We give every girl and housekeeper in the community where the demonstrations are held, a cordial invitation, to attend. The club members are glad to share their information with anyone that is interested in home improvement, and cares for the products on the farm.

Girls, it is time now to begin to prepare for that winter garden.

Put a cover crop on your land on the tenth. Clover mixed with turnips will make you something for home use, as well as build up the land. To enrich yourself at the expense of your land is not successful farming.

Remember also the lettuce bed. The city and town housekeeper will want it for winter use. Why not supply them?

Viewing the management of our relations with Mexico at close range, and having personal knowledge of the way the national guard has been handled, a prominent guardsman from New York says that if the boys ever get home again and get a chance to return to private life, practically none of them will ever be caught in a similar predicament again. The sins of this administration will rest upon the country for many years to come.

Germany is sending every incapacitated soldier to the factories as soon as he has recovered sufficiently to do any form of work. Germany is also aiding the factories to keep busy by advancing funds on the credit of warehouse receipts for goods produced. The goods are accumulating in vast quantities awaiting the time in which the close of the war will permit shipments. At the close of the war Germany will be under the necessity of realizing quickly on the accumulated goods upon which she has made loans. It will not be a question of getting a high price but of getting some price immediately. The question with the United States is whether these goods, held under such circumstances, shall be dumped upon our markets without the payment of an import duty fairly representing the difference in cost of production here and in Germany, together with a reasonable profit to the American manufacturer, who has invested and risked his capital. Every American workman is interested in the answer to that question, and he will have a chance to help answer it at the polls in November. If he wants those cheap goods dumped upon our markets, he will vote the Democratic ticket; if he believes in "America first", he will vote the Republican ticket.

FLORIDA'S MESS

From the Marion County News.—

The political mess in which the state of Florida finds herself will be repeated in Alabama, and the control by party organization will soon be a thing of the past. The first and second choice voting and the many interpretations that can be made upon the law has got the people wrought up until good Democrats all over the state want to get rid of the election laws at all hazards. Abolishing the rule of the majority at the best of the hand picked crowd will bring about some surprises in the November election.

HUGES ARRIVES AT PORTLAND

Portland, Oregon, Aug. 16.—Charles E. Hughes, Republican presidential nominee, arrived at Portland early today from Tacoma. Three receptions, two addresses and an automobile ride over the Columbia River highway were before him.

He will leave Portland early Thursday morning for San Francisco.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

ALABAMA PICTURES WANTED

"Alabama Pictures Wanted" is the wireless call from Emmet A. Jones, Secretary of the Alabama Development Fund, who desires everyone to aid Governor Henderson's plan to develop all the latent resources of Alabama.

The Fund Trustees want photographs of beauty spots; views of farm crops and country life scenes; pictures of new factories and industrial enterprises of all sorts; attractive street scenes and pure bred live stock.

They request that a concise statement, including name of sender and a description of the view, accompany each picture. They will be filed in a reference album and used, as found available, in the Agricultural Department year book, bulletins, the Alabama Land Book, and in magazines, agricultural journals and in the news publications of the country.

This plan of providing a definite and concrete use for Alabama photos affords every community an opportunity to get free publicity of the most favorable kind, and to aid in the general advertising of the commonwealth.

There is a constant call for good photographs to be used in magazines and newspapers of general circulation as well as in pamphlets, books and bulletins published in Alabama for distribution in other States.

Many an attractive photograph merely adorns its own little corner because not given an opportunity to gladden the eyes of countless thousands. Therefore, boost your own part of Alabam by sending your photos to Emmet A. Jones, State Capitol, Montgomery. There is no commercial advantage in this except as it may help our State and People. If you think well of the plan tell others—if not, tell us.

SHERIFF'S SALE, REAL ESTATE

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Ala., and to me directed whereby I, as Sheriff of said County, was commanded to make the sum of Six thousand two hundred thirty-one and 62-100 Dollars, principal and interest, and nineteen and 25-100 Dollars, costs of suit, the amount of a certain judgment and costs therein obtained at the Special Term, 1916, of said Court of said County, Alabama, in favor of Birmingham Trust and Saving Co., against E. A. Mattehws, P. D. Wilson, etals., I have levied upon and will sell to the highest bidder for cash, at public sale, at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., on Monday, the 21 day of August 1916, all the right, title and interest of the above named P. D. Wilson in and to the following described real estate, viz:

Lots 5 and 6 in block 7, one lot on southwest corner of block No. 2, being 35 feet fronting on second avenue thence running back in a northerly direction parallel with second avenue 87 feet being part of the Thornton Hotel lot. Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in block 18, lots 1, 2 and 3 in block No. 11, lots 5 and 6 in block No. 7 and lot No. 1 in block No. 2 are in the original survey of the Town of Clanton. All the lots mentioned in blocks 18 and 11 are in the P. D. Wilson addition to the Town of Clanton. Also, all that part of NE¼ of SE¼ lying west of the L. & N. Railroad about 7 acres not laid off in lots, also that part of NW¼ of SE¼ west of the L. & N. Railroad, 7 acres all in Section 35, Township 22, Range 14, also one brick stone house and lots 11 and 14 in block No. 7. Lots 1, 2, and 3 in block No. 13, lots 3 and 4 in block No. 16, all of block No. 14 all of block No. 15, also lot No. 1 in block No. 16 except 35 feet across south side of said lot, which has been sold to Mrs. Rosa Thornton, all of said lots are in the P. D. Wlison addition to the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

This 19 day of July 1916, H. A. HARRIS, Sheriff,

Posted at Court House door July 19, 1916.

H. A. HARRIS,
Sheriff.

THE CROWD WAS TOO BIG

Several Democrats say they wanted to hear the Republican speeches last Saturday morning, and came up to the courthouse, but they say they found such a crowd they could not get in hollering distance.

"Stop that headache! it's stopping your work"

Pain and Ill Health rob you of all your efficiency.

DR. MILES'
ANTI-PAIN PILLS
quickly relieve Pain, but at the same time, when over-work or nervousness is the cause,

Dr. Miles'
Restorative Nervine
should be used to relieve the cause.

IF FIRST BOX, OR BOTTLE, FAILS TO BENEFIT YOU, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

SEVERE HEADACHE.

"I once had terrible headaches and feared La Grippe. I could not attend to my work. I took some of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and the pain was quickly gone. Then I started using Dr. Miles' Nervine and the trouble vanished completely and I felt well and active once more."

HENRY FARNHAM,
Spring Valley, Minn.

We sell the Goods

BECAUSE

We always have them right here to sell.

ALL THE TIME WE ARE ADDING NEW GOODS TO OUR LINE. ONLY RECENTLY WE RECEIVED A LARGE SHIPMENT OF LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS—THINGS THAT EVERY PERSON NEEDS FOR SUMMER-TIME WEARING

The Late Summer

From now till the opening of the Fall and Winter Season there will be many Little Items you will need in Wearing Apparel.

You will not want to make a Big Purchase possibly—Only a Little Item or two now and then to make out on till you get ready to lay in your Supply of Winter Goods.

To both Men and Women, Boys and Girls, we want to say that we can give you want for such Odds and Ends. And our Stock is not just merely Cast off Stuff either.

Everything is Brand-New and Up-to-Date.

Fall and Winter

The opening of the Fall and Winter Trading Season is going to find us "Prepared" to fill the many needs of our Every Customer.

We have already Calculated the needs of our Customers, and we have the Goods coming to supply your various Needs of Such.

In our buying we have spared no effort and means in getting the things you need, and we want you to remember this on the day you come down to look out for the things you intend to buy for the Autumn Season.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store."

Opinions of the People.

UNITY CHILTON BAPTIST SCHOOL TO OPEN SESSION

The school is committed to my management for the coming scholastic year, and we wish to announce to the public that an ample corps of teachers will be in charge of all departments, and all who wish their boys and girls educated in a religious atmosphere are enjoined to send them at once.

Board in private families can be had at $8 to $10. The Thorsby people are willing to do all they can for the uplift of the youths of this county, hence the low rate of board.

This is a Baptist School, and Baptists everywhere should take sufficient interest in this part of their own work to supply the school with students at least. Each Baptist should talk up for this school, and become a self-appointed agent to send in pupils, and any donations will gladly be received, proper credit given the donor in a published record at stated times.

Because it is a Baptist school does not exclude others, We invite all, who shall have our best instructions.

This is a peculiar age of the world's history. Never before since the gloom of the dark ages did the student body need the heart development along with that of the intellect in order that his education may be worth while, enabling this preparedness for accomplishment to lead the scholar out of the sordid selfishness, causing him to render assistance to those about him, his lot being cast wherever it may be.

We are not prophets over here, but we think we can read prophecy, "The Signs of the Times," are opening up their great truths when paralleled by history. Never before was there any greater intellectual accomplishment, more charity in the world, and yet, less religion.

A Photo-film movie of deception, sly and artiful, instigated by our archemory is being seen upon the canvas of mental actions, namely educate the intellect, prepare the boy or the girl to make money, and this is the end of education. What a mistake! So the religious school today is sadly needed to correct some of these evils.

Send us your earnest boys and girls, and we promise our best efforts at preparing them to fill the missions in life's battles, which in the future, are to be more trying than in the past.

Tuition is made so cheap—$2.50-$3.00; board at $8 to $10 per month makes it almost as cheap as leaving them at home. Expecting to meet you at the associations, and your children in our school, and lest I worry the Editor, I shall here finish.

Respectfully yours,
(Rev.) W. C. WOOLDREDGE.

ONLY ONE CONCLUSION

The laboring men of the country learned in 1913-14, before the war began, that reduction of tariff duties did not reduce the cost of living. Several millions lost their jobs or went on part time. From their point of view, therefore, they could not have been any worse off if the protective tariff had continued. They were considerably worse off with it reduced. Now that the war has brought another era of prosperity and they have work and good wages, they can not be convinced that it is the Underwood tariff which has brought about such conditions. There is only one conclusion for them to reach as to their interest in the tariff question.—Doylestown (Pa.) Intelligencer.

RECRUITING OFFICER COMING

The folowing letter received from the Atlanta office of the U. S. Army recruiting corps, to the Union-Banner explains itself:

"Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 11, 1916—

"Publisher of the Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala.,

Sirs: It is the intention of this office to have a member of the recruitingparty visit your city, canvassing for recruit on Aug. 24, 1916. This visit will be repeated from time to time. Will inform you of other dates later.

"Any publicity that you can give by an article in your paper, and any aid you can give us in securing recruit for the army will be appreciated.

"Very respectfully,
G. O. HEUETT,
1st Lieut. Infantry."

WRITING AND ARITHMETIC SCHOOL AT NEW CEDRON

I will start a writing and arithmetic school at New Cedron Church on Aug. 20, 1916. Will teach 10 days. Tuition, $1.00 per pupil. Patronage respectfully solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed.

J. C. BROWN.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The Chilton County Singing Convention using the Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony music, will be held at Lomax Church the first Sunday in September and Saturday before.

All are invited.

Several visitors are expected.

T. J. JACKSON, Pres.,
Z. J. JONES, Secy.

The Democratic press boasts of the passage of a rural credits law but it fails to point out how any man is to get money under that law, who could nit get it before, or how he is to get it under more favorable conditions.

THE DEMOCRATIC HOPE

It is of utmost importance to the country's future that voters shall analyze critically the present government's course of action and determine whether it indicates ability to advance our interests and insure our safety in the troublous times approaching. By such analysis alone can we judge intelligently whether it was because of Mr. Wilson's action or in spite of it that we have been kept out of war, and only by such analysis can we estimate what the price of our present peace is and is likely to be and what the future promises.

If the American people are so weak and degenerated from its former vigorous self that it will blindly accept the sop of immediate peace and refuse to consider whether it has been wisely purchased or how it has been achieved, then by all means let us have no criticism of the last four years and merely drift into the future. If, however, we wish to have foresight, we must first use hindsight.

The hopes of the Democratic campaign depends on the acceptance of the majority of the American people of the theory that the country is now enjoying "peace and prosperity" as a result of the Democratic policy. If there were no analysis of the nature of our peace and of the sourecs of our prosperity, this theory might well prevail. We have confidence that a majority of the American people will see its falacy.—Chicago Tribune.

MORE "FACTS TO BEAR IN MIND"

Under the heading, "Facts to bear in mind," the literary bureau of the Democratic National committee hands out this to the confiding editors of the country: "In 1912, Mr. Taft carried only the states of Vermont and Utah, and each by mere pluralities, not majorities."

While bearing these facts in mind, we hope the innocent Democratic editors will not overlook the further fact that Mr. Wilson did have majorities and not mere pluralities in some states—and that these states were every one of them in the South, where by "Grandfather Laws" and other devices, none but Democrats are permitted to vote and to have their votes counted. These states, it may be desirable to recall were Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. These states gave Mr. Wilson 126 electorial votes—and every one of them were secured by force or fraud. In 1912, Mr. Wilson secured 309 other electorial votes, but he got none of them by a majority vote, and was actually in the majority as compared only to the combined vote for Taft and Roosevelt in every state where both of these candidates were voted for.

And another "fact to bear in mind" is that a plurality is all that is required to secure the electorial vote of any state.

If Democrats, whether editors or laymen, can get any comfort out of these facts, we sincerely hope they will "bear them in mind."

THE PRICE OF PAPER

A committee of the Democratic congress has been holding some hearings to determine why paper is so high in price. This subject is one which affects every publisher and every reader of a newspaper—but despite our direct interest in the question, we cannot see how a Congressional committee holding a few private hearings and listening to the accusations against and the denials by the manufacturers of paper, can accomplish anything worth while.

The Clayton Trade Commission was supposed to do something like this. It has the machinery, it has the agents and it has the appropriations for such purpose. Why does not this great body, which Mr. Wilson has so highly praised, make a searching inquiry into this question, and take steps to remedy it? The great trouble with the Democrats in Congress and in the administrative departments and bureaus is that they delight to start things, which hey do not know how to finish. The probable net result of the present investigation will the publication of the stenographic report of the testimony taken—thus using up some more of the available stock of print paper, and there the matter will end. The Democrats always talk like people who want to help everyone, but they act like people who don't want to and never do help anybody.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
All Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

GULF COAST RESORTS

SEASHORE EXCURSIONS

Every Saturday, June 3 to September 9

ROUND TRIP FARES FROM CLANTON

Pensacola	$7.15
Pascagoula	8.00
Biloxi	8.40
Pass Christian	9.15
Magnolia Springs	9.50
Ocean Springs	8.35
Gulfport	9.00
Bay St. Louis	9.30

TEN-DAY RETURN LIMIT

Also on sale daily until October 15th, regular round trip Summer Tourist Tickets to Gulf Coast Resorts at slightly higher fares with return limit of October 31st.

L&N

For particulars apply to

J. A. HESTER, Ticket Agent, Clanton

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

HIGHWAY MEETING CALLED

New Decatur, Ala., August 1.—William E. Crawford, director for Morgan county of the Jackson Highway Association of Alabama, has called a meeting to be held at Hartselle at noon Sturday, August 12, to arouse enthusiasm for the Jackson Highway, and to raise funds for promoting the Association.

"WOMAN'S RIGHTS"

The above subject will be the theme of Rev. H. T. Crumpton at the Baptist church next Sunday. It should not be confused with the suffrage aggitation that is so widespread in our land, even if, at the first glance, it does bear a little resemblance.

Bro. Crumpton is going to back up his text with selections from the scriptures in his most able and pleasing manner. Come and hear him.

PATENTS

obtained through the old established "D. SWIFT & CO." are being quickly bought by Manufacturers.

Send a model or sketches and description of your invention for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. We get patents or no fee. Write for our free book of 300 needed inventions.

D. SWIFT & CO.

Patent Lawyers. Estab. 1889.

307 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

THE MEXICAN BUNCOMBE

(From the Boston Transcript.)

The administration at Washington announces today a new "peace treaty" with the administration at Mexico City. Officially it is hurled as "an arrangement for the adjustment of the differences between the United States and Mexico, through the offices of and international joint commission." Textually, it is another offensive note from the Wilson Secretary of State to the Carranza-Mezico Secretary of State accepting, upon Carranza's own terms, his proposal to intrust to a commission of three Mexicans and three Americans, the drafting of a "protocal or agreement definitely to settle the difficulties, now pending or those which may arise between the two countries." Those difficulties are defined and specified as concerning exclusively the "reciprocal crossing of the frontier by the forces of both countries, also to determine the origin of the incursions to date," in order to fix the responsibility therefor. The reply is sent forward in the same spirit of frank cordialty in which Carranza has addressed the Wilson administration, and the Wilson Secretary of State offers to the Carranza Secretary of State in conclusion the "assurances" of his "highest considerations." The decisions of the commission are made dependent upon their acceptance by both of the governments.

All of which is merely more Mexican buncombe. Woodrow Wilson and Venustiano Carranza are companions in political peril, therefore allies in political purpose. Both are struggling to remain in office. The one is dependent for his power upon the people of the United States, the other upon the bandits of Mexico. Out of their mutual emergency they have hit upon a scheme with which to deceive their respective constituents and if possible to divert attention from their respective failures until after election day. The scheme is foredoomed to failure for two reasons: (1) Woodrow Wilson slanderously misrepresents the spirit of America in abandoning the American soldiers and sailors, whos blood has been poured out upon Mexican soil from Vera Cruz to Carrizal, and the pioneering American citizens, whose bones are scattered from one end of Mexico to the other. (2) Carranza stupidly misrepresents his own situation when he pretends to be the executive head of the Mexican Republic. He is not even the acknowledged head of all the Mexican bandits.

One thing, however, this shameful sham should settle the political future of Mr. Wilson. Once again he makes Mexico an issue that Mr. Hughes will not dodge or the nation longer ignore. Once again his fatuous course confronts the country with the question—Is America a nation, or only "an aggregation of old women of both sexes?"

MRS. E .HOPKINS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Tuesday night Mr. J. E. Robinson had his family and Mrs. E. Hopkins out riding in his automobile, when a slight accident caused the car to get out of control. The result was a painful injury to Mrs. Hopkins. None of the other occupants were hurt.

Mr. E. Hopkins is in Dothan looking after a home. He plans to move to the Wiregrass City in a short time.

It is remembered that the family of Dr. P. I. Hopkins is planning to move to Dothan, where the Doctor intends to resume the practice of his profession.

Weekly papers are charging cash.

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR THORSBY INSTITUTE

Thorsby Institute is constantly adding to its equipment. Its library is one of the largest high school libraries in the state but new books are being constantly added. The latest addition is a set of five bound volumes of the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature, which enables one to locate in a few minutes any article that has appeared in any standard magazine for the years 1910 to 1914. The library also has the unbound numbers for nearly of the 1915 and the first five months of 1916. Succeeding numbers will be received later.

A number of new pieces of laboratory equipment have been ordered and will be in place when school opens September 12. These will include a Static Electricity machine, an Aneroid Barometer, a large air pump for vacuum work, a demonstration organ pipe, a voltammeter, and a slated globe with meridian attachment, besides other small articles. With the equipment which the school already has, these additions will make possible, careful and exact experiments in physics and other sciences.

Principal S. H. Herbert has just returned from a short vacation, and reports the prospects for a large attendance—better than ever before.

WAR ORDERS STILL LARGE

Washington, Aug 16.—Although the high tide of war order business has probably been reached, it is evident that there are still coming to American manufactureres large orders for ammunition, arms, foodstuffs, clothing and other military equipment, that are needed by the armies in the fields of Europe. It is also probable that the conflict in Europe will continue for many months, and that as a consequence, the American business will have the protection and stimulus that rescued it from the depression brought on by the Democratis tariff legislation in 1913.

The American Steel Founders Company is completing an $18,000,000 order for 86-inch shells, and has another order for $20,000,000. The Bethlehem Steel Company is making 25,000,000 shells daily and shipping 1,000,000 shells monthly.

Three concers, the American Locomotive Company, the Ney York Air Brake Company and the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, which joined in taking an order for 5,000,000 shells, have been turning out 30,000 shells daily on that contract, besides filling some smaller orders.

During the last week of July, two batches of contracts were made aggregating $142,000,000. In addition to these, several minor concerns have taken small orders for shells to be delivered before the end of the present year.

From Baltimore comes the information that there is great activity in the chemical wood industry—turning out material for use in manufacture of explosives. This gives profitable employment not only to the men working in the factories but also to men working in the timber or in hauling wood to the factory.

Dispatches from Pittsburg convey the information that there is an active demand for steel bars for export, though the domestic demand is disappointing. Birmingham, Alabama, also reports a heavy demand for iron for export. The Iron Trade Review reports that 200,000 tons of pig iron will be shipped abroad during the next six months, but that the domesic demand for pig iron is light.

All this activity in purely munition business, gives rise to an enormous indirect business, for the employees of the munition factories are receiving unprecedently high wages and are buying freely of food and clothing and are spending liberally for amusement and recreation.

This revival of business has had its influence upon the railroads, which are now enjoying the largest net revenues in their history. Conditions brought about by the war continue to keep up the demand for foodstuffs, with consequent high prices. Sugar producers, who were two years ago threatened with destruction as a result of the enactment of the law repealing the sugar duty, are now reaping large profis, because the German product is shut off from the market and there is an enormous demand for American sugar.

The recent decline in the values of war stocks is taken as an expression of careful conservatism and an indication that the cautious business man has not lost sight of the fact that present business activities is due chiefly to the war and that the bottom may suddenly drop out of the war order trade at any time, though it is not expected that the war will end any time soon.

In the New York market recently here was a cale of nine cars of Italian lemons and one car of similar fruit from California. Evidently the Italian lemon lobby got its money's worth when it spent $140,000 to induce the Democratic party to cut the duty on lemons. If California lemon producers want any consideration, in tariff matters, let them raise that $140,000 bid.

IS BLACKMON'S RECORD BETTER NOW THAN THEN?

You remember the campaign back in 1914, when Deason and Blackmon were scrapping with each other for Congress, don't you?

Well just bring a few of the incidents of that year back to your mind, and that will give you a starting point for a bit of thought.

You know the Clanton Press was bitter against Blackmon. They told all sorts of tales on him and his official record. They charged him with neglect of duty, representation of the "Corporate Interests" and virtually said he had not represented the interests of the people of this District at all.

Following is the exact words they used in putting Mr. Blackmon's record before the people of the District:

"Mr. Blackmon's Record.

"We have in the campaign of the Fourth District the same old fight between the allied interests and the people.

"Our present Congressman, Hon. Fred L. Blackmon, in his first political utterences of the campaign showed where he stands, and above all things he says he stands on his record, to ask the people of the Fourth District to return him to Congress. In another paragraph of this article, we will show the people of this District by his record what he has accomplishedfor them and convince them of the astounding fact that none of the bills which he introduced became a law. We believe with all our might and patriotism that it is beyond the power of human knowledge to legislate out of a man the appetite for the desire that afflicts frail humanity, but we do believe in the cardinal principles of local self-government, and that the particular locality should have the absolute right to determine this question. The Webb Bill, introduced in the Congress of the United States, and which became a law, was for the purpose of prohibiting the shipping of liquor into dry territory for unlawful purposes. We find our Congressman casting his vote against the law which prohibits the shipping of liquor into dry territory. Mr. Blackmon says that he rests his claim for re-election upon his record. We do not care to scrutinize him too closely, but submit the following as Mr. Blackmon's record of achievements: Mr. Blackmon, during his services in the Sixty-Second Congress introduced the total of twenty-one private bills and fourteen public bills, none of which were enacted into law. He introduced no private bills in the first session of the Sixty-Third Congress; he introduced eight public bills during his service in the first session of the Sixty-Third Congress, none of which were enacted into law.

"Mr. Blackmon's record is rather an unfortunate one. It very rarely happens that a Representative is not able to procure the passage of some private bills during an entire Congress, especially when that Congress had three sessions in which to accomplish favorable action on some of them. During Mr. Blackmon's period, enumerated above, no bills introduced by him ever passed beyond the committee stage with the exception of two joint resolutions."

According to the Press up to 1914, Blackmon represented the allied interests, or corporations, and not the people. What about his record since then, in the Sixty-Fourth Congress? Has he been of a different disposition during his last term to that which he held out in former times—the times and incidents of which are enumerated by the Press as above. If he represented the allied interests, against the welfare of the people, then, don't you suppose he still represents the same crowd?

Will the Press extend its remarks of 1914, and bring the record of its candidate for Congress up to the present and show wherein he is now the logical candidate of the people, instead of the candidate of the allied interests as in 1914?

Why not elect a man, who will accomplish something for the people? You have an opportunity to do so this coming November by casting your vote for Hon. J. B. Atkinson, who, if elected, will represent the people of his district and not the allied interests

(Paid political advertisement by J. B. Atkinson, Clanton, Ala.)

Good Looks are Easy with

Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your city cousins. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle Magnolia Balm will surely clear your skin instantly. Heals Sunburn, too. Just put a little on your face and rub it off again before dry. Simple and sure to please. Try a bottle to-day and begin the improvement at once. White, Pink and Rose-Red Colors. 75 cents at Druggists or by mail direct.

SAMPLE FREE.

LYON MFG. CO., 40 So. 5th St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South

Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy f Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three Years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address

CHAS. C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President, Auburn, Ala.

Such tobacco enjoyment

as you never thought could be is yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!

Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

On the reverse side of this tidy red tin you will read: "Process Patented July 30th, 1907," which has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked before!

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold in toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—that corking fine pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such clever trim—always!

Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P. A. a try-out certainly have a big surprise and a lot of enjoyment coming their way as soon as they invest in a supply. Prince Albert tobacco will tell its own story!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

A STRAIGHT ISSUE

The Republican platform declares, "The Underwood tariff is a complete failure in every respect." That raises a direct issue that permits of no qpibbling over definitions. If the Democrats think it is not a complete falure, let them come on wth their specifications showing wherein it has succeeded. It proposed to reduce the cost of living, and it fail in that. It proposed to raise revenue and it failed in that. In what respect did it accomplish anything the Americans wanted accomplished?—Wilmington (Del.) Journal.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

SEED OATS

If you believe in preparedness, now is the time to secure your seed oats. This season has proved the merits of the Fulghum oat as to earliness, cold resistence and good yields. I have a limited quantity of recleaned pure Fulghum oats to offer at $1.00 per bushel. My crop was free from smut. First come first served. J. N. Dennis, Clanton, Ala.

WILSON AND DANIELS

(From the New York Evening Sun.)

A vote for Wilson is not a vote for Daniels.—The Wall Street Journal.

When the Rockefeller foundation finishes its survey of the feeble-minded in Chicago, theres work for it in the office of the Wall Street Journal.—The World.

Having pulled the wheeze ourself some weeks ago, we claim the attention of the alienists before they get to the Wall Street Journal.

Our feebleness of intellect impels us to elaborate our thought for the benefit of the World. President Wilson, in spite of the demonstrated and notorious inefficiency of Josephus Daniels, his windings, his dodgings, his failures, his unteachableness, his stupidities, his asininities, his lack of candor, has kept the Daniels in his place, has endorsed him implicltiy and tacitly, has given thecountry to understand by his attitude that Wilson does stand for Daniels through thick and thin.

The World is closer to President Wilson than we ever expect to be,—than we should ever desire to be,—and may have inside information to th effect that Mr. Wilson, if reelected proposes to reform his cabinet and charactr to the extent of getting rid of the Daniels; but if Mr. Wilson has promised this to the World, he has promisd it to no one else. As far as the public in general is able to judge, Mr. Wilson is so pleased with what Secretary Daniels has done to and for the navy that he proposes to retain Daniels in the event of a Democratic victory.

So, in the defectiveness of our mentality, we shall continue to reiterate, until Mr. Wilson presents physician words of promise to our feeble brain, that a vote for Wilson is a vote for the Daniels, and all that the Daniels implies.

The Daniels, in his efficiency and vagueness as to actualities, is one side of Mr. Wilson himself—without the dubious Wilsonism glibness of phrase.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

"Mother's Friend"

What Does the World Owe a Mother? ALL

All that love can give—for cheer.
All that science can give—for relief.

And science has contributed "Mother's Friend" to alleviate pain and render aid preceding, and at confinement, to assist nature in preparing for rapid recovery and assuring the mother and child perfect health. It is easily applied by anyone. Get it at your druggist, and write for free book on Motherhood. Every mother should have a copy. Address The Bradfield Regulator Co., 205 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Motherhood FREE BOOK to every Expectant Mother

L. H. REYNOLDS FINDS DIVISION AS TO MERCHANTS' CONCLAVE

From Montgomery Journal.—

Judge L. H. Reynolds of Clanton, presidnet of the Tri-State Merchants Association was in Montgomery this morning to confer with local merchants regarding the annual merchants conclave in this city. Mr. Reynolds found a division among the merchants as to the logical time for holding the conclave and decided to call a conference of representative merchants to decide on the dates. This conference will be held in Montgomery in a few days.

Mr. Reynolds states that som of the merchants want to hold the conclave during the wildstock exhibition, and others contend that it should be held in September, as an opening for the fall season. He declared he desires to secure a harmonious settlement of the dates and will call a conference so that the merchants can decide among themselves which dates are the most logical.

Mr. Reynolds returned to Clanton this afternoon. He is a prominent merchant of that city, and was elected president of the merchants association during the conclave in Montgomery last year.

MAPLESVILLE, ROUTE 2

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to ask for a small space in your good old paper to give the good people of Pleasant Grove church my thanks and good wishes for their kindness to my brother, Clifford last Thursday night, when his mule threw him and broke his leg.

It is a bad thing to get a limb broken, but if we never had any bad luck, there would be a lot of us who would forget all about God, who is the loving and cheerful giver.

We al lhave sorry crows up here, and it seem that bad luck strikes us all the time, but let us remember that there is one who can care for us if we only put our trust in Him and Him alone.

Now, good people, as times are so hard, come on with your mub slinging and politics, and let's put a set of men in office, who will look after our interests in our county offices, and let us have an easier time.

I will come again. Hoping all good luck, and best wishes for you.

NATHANIEL HEADLEY.

AFTER 23 YEARS CONVICT IS CAUGHT

After 23 years of freedom, Frank Benson, a convict, who was serving a life sentence for murder, has been recaptured. Twenty-three years ago Benson, a man of thirty-eight was one of the state's wards at Hand's Lumber Camp, near Dolive, Ala. He was known as a man, who had several times made sensational escapes, and when he disappeared one day, it did not bring great surprise, though a diligent effort was made to apprehend him.

In time the search was abandoned. Today a messenger reached the office of President Brooks Flowers of the state convict board saying that Benson, now a man of sixty-one years of age, had been caught at Bay Minette by the sheriff of Baldwin county, and is being held pending the arrival of officers who will take him to the penitentiary at Wetumpka. Benson admitted being the man sought.

Prof. H. C. McDonald and family have returned from Atlanta.

WELL-KNOWN RETIRED MERCHANS SAYS FERRALINE IS THE WONDERO F CENTURY

Mr. W. F. Doughety of Frankville, Says Ferraline Saved His Life.

Wants People Everywhere to Know What Ferraline Did For Him

Yes, certainly, yes, I want the people everywhere to know what Ferraline has done for me. It is true that I have never allowed my name to be used before, but I would feel that I would be doing the people of the United States a very great injury if I did not allow you to say in public print mhat the wonderful compound, Ferraline did for me. Because I consider that this wonderful tonic saved my life.

I was first troubdled with a chronic sore leg, and anyone that has this knows that it is considered incurable and all that my medicine or prescription would do would is to ease this pain for a while, nad then it is just as bad as ever. I had this trouble for eleven years, and was getting worse all the tmie, and the specialisits all said that my leg would have to come off, and that even then, this trouble would likely break out in another place.

I heard of the wonderful cures that Ferralins was making, and I decided to give it a chance, and strange to say, but from the first week, my leg began to improve. I took the regular tonic dose three times a day, and kept my leg moist with this wonderful compound, by applying a bandage to the part affected. The dose that I took kept me with fine appetite and my leg began to heal from the first week's treatment; and in three week's time it was all healed over and entirely well. Of course, my leg is naturally tender at this place, and occasionally I get a scratch on this tender part, but I at once apply Ferraline and the soreness disappears.

Nine months after my leg was cured, I had to go to my bed with Typhoid fever, and when this left me I had the worst form of stomach trouble and indigestion, had the very worst time you ever saw, and passed blood, until I laid all prescriptions aside and began with Ferraline. And from the first dose I did not see any more blood, and after I had used three bottles I was completely cored. I know that Ferraline saved my life, for it was a well-known fact that I would never get well, and all my friends and neighbors consider that Ferraline saved my life.

I would not be without Ferraline, if I had to pay $10.00 a bottle for it, for it is one of the best all-round remedies that I know of today, and I know that it is strictly nature's own remedy, and there is not one drop of medicine in Ferraline but what nature placed it in there.

Sold in Clanton by Alred Drug Co., and in Randolph by C. W. Brand.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted in the Special Term Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, in June, 1916, for violation of the Prohibition Laws, will apply for pardon or parcle.

8-17-3t. NINNIE JONES.

BALE BRINGS 18¼ CENTS

New Orleans, Aug. 10.—The first bale of Louisiana 1916 cotton to reach New Orleans reached here today from Churchpoint, Arcadia Paris, and was sold at auction for 18¼ cents a pound. It was classed as good middling.

ROOSEVELT TO MAKE SPEECHES FOR HUGHES

New York, Aug. 10.—Col. Roosevelt will make his first campaign lecture in behalf of Hughes in Lewiston, Maine, on August 31, it was announced today. The speech will deal only with national issues it was announced.

MONEY IS READY TO PAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Superintendent W. T. Bean and E. E. Upchurch County Treasurer of public school funds announce that the money due to teachers of the county is now ready for delivery to them, and came san be had by application in person to Mr. Upchurch at the Upchurch Drug Company, or by making application through the mail, enclosing addressed stamped envelope for return. This will be interesting news to the teachers of the county, as some of them have been more or less inconvenienced by the tie-up of the school funds, caused by the failure of the Clanton Bank.

AGENT WANTED

We can give a splendid contract to a wide awake man with horse and wagon to handle our business in Chilton County

Singer Sewing Machine Co.

8-3-4t Montgomery, Ala.

HANS WAGNER

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

RANDOLPH ROSE

OLD Hans Wagner, the beloved Dutchman, is about as substantial a fixture, both physically and temperamentally, as the Rock of Gibralter. He's so reliable they ought to call him "Old Reliability."

It was a happy day for Hans, the 22nd of June last year, when he hit a home run wallop, for it was his hundredth home run and that's a good many home runs for any one player, when you stop to think about it.

At the time of his hundredth home run Wagner had participated in 2486 championship games, and had made 2220 singles, 575 doubles, 236 triples, or 3131 hits for a grand total of 4478 bases. Wagner's best home run year was in 1898 when he made eleven and followed the next year with ten.

Aside from being a great baseball player, Wagner is a great hunter and a lover of fine dogs. They tell many stories of Wagner, his dogs and his hunting expeditions.

Wagner has made good account of the money he has earned as a player. He has neither been stingy nor extravagant. He simply didn't see any need of throwing his money away and now when he must be nearing the end of his playing usefulness he knows he can retire whenever necessary and live in comfort.

One of his many peculiarities is that he never cashes a pay check during the playing season. While other players may be "broke" and anxiously waiting for the "ghost to walk" that event makes no difference to Wagner. He keeps his checks until the season is over and then banks them all at one time.

This is Wagner's seventeenth consecutive season with Pittsburg and his twentieth season in professional baseball, having been with Louisville, three years before joining Pittsburg, but that isn't all. He played semi-professional ball six years before that, making this his twenty-sixth season in baseball.

He batted over .300 for seventeen consecutive years in baseball and never fell under that until the 1914 and 1915 seasons, and he says he is out to retrieve his record this season.

A few years back Wagner covered more ground than any shortstop that ever lived. While it is true he has slowed up a little lately, he still has room to slow up some more and still be faster than a lot of men twenty years younger than he.

Randolph Rose

CHURCH DIRECTORY

First Methodist Church of Clanton

Preaching every Sunday at eleven o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M. Everybody cordially invited to worship with us in these services.

REV. I. F. BILBRO, Pastor.

Sunday Schools starts at 9:45 A. M. instead of 10 o'clock. Please do not forget the time and bring someone with you.

J. B. ATKINSON, Supt.

Prayer meeting at 8 o'clock P. M. Wednesday. Make the prayer meeting your services.

FOR SALE—Redemption equity in store building at Thorsby worth one thousand dollars, owner has equity of five hundred dollars will sell for one hundred dollars cash, address the Ingalls Iron Works Company, Birmingham, Ala.,

Now Well

"Thedford's Black-Draught is the best all-round medicine I ever used," writes J. A. Steelman, of Pattonville, Texas. "I suffered terribly with liver troubles, and could get no relief. The doctors said I had consumption. I could not work at all. Finally I tried and to my surprise, I got better, and am to-day as well as any man." Thedford's Black-Draught is a general, cathartic, vegetable liver medicine, that has been regulating irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels, for over 70 years. Get a package today. Insist on the genuine—Thedford's. E-70

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

CLANTON ITEMS

Miss Amy Callen of Birmingham is visiting relatives here this week.

Mr. Will Wilson has returned from a week's visit to friends and schoolmates at Highland Home.

FOR SALE—Printype Oliver Typewriter, latest model; practically new; at a bargain. Apply to Powell Pressing Club, Clanton, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude White of Birmingham are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White, and will go from here to Deatsville, to visit their mother.

Miss Lena Downs is visiting friends and relatives in Laurel, Mississippi.

GOOD COW FOR SALE.—I have a good milch cow for sale; also one 6-year-old horse. Cheap. Apply to E. HOPKINS.

Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Broadhead are visiting friends and relatives here.

Mrs. O. O. Roper and her daughter, Miss Dovie, returned Sunday after a pleasant visit to friends in Montgomery.

FOR SALE—Mare 8 years old and colt 5 weeks old. Will sell at a bargain right away. Guarantee working qualities and safety. H. H. Hayes, Clanton, Ala., R. 4. adv. 8-3-3-t

Miss Carrie Smith of Birmingham is visiting her aunt and cousins, Mrs. Annie Bilbro and daughters.

Miss Callie Watts hes returned after a pleasant visit to friends and relatives in Montgomery.

FOR SALE—One cow and calf. The cow is half Jersey and half Holstein. Calf is two weeks old. Cow now with first calf. Price reasonable, J. C. Culp, Clanton, Ala., R. 7. 8-3-3-t

Miss Pauline Woodyard has returned from a pleasant visit to friends in Centreville.

O'Connor pleasure and commercial Motor Cars are assembled of World-known Standard Parts, medium priced, and sold on convenient PAY-AS YOU RIDE plan. Catalogue mailed on request. Exceptional agency proposition and exclusive territory for persons desiring to act as representatives. Inquire of The O'Connor Corporation, 6331 South Halsted Street, Chicago, Illinois.

MISS ROBERTS' PORCH PARTY

Last Monday evening Miss Myrtle Roberts was hostess to a delightful porch party, in honor of Miss Hazel Robinson of Birmingham.

Beautiful pot plants with graceful and fragrant cut flowers made the porch most attractive.

Many spirited games were enjoyed and punch and sandwiches were served the guests throughout the evening.

Those who enjoyed the cordial hospitality of Miss Roberts were Misses Myrtle and Mabel Wilson, Hazel Robinson, Alice Stanfield, Conradine Lane, Lucile Smith, Sarah Adams, Marjerie Pinckard, Ola McKee, Inez Higgins; Messrs Grady Aldridge, Race Jennings, Edgar Teel, Evan Edwards, Milton Smith, Omar Reynolds, Wallace Jones, James Mullins, Leslie Langerier and Flem Higgins.

WANTED—YOUNG MEN WITH NERVE. Good pay, short hours, opportunity for travel, advancement; normal physique, good references required. Aviation Dep't. THE O'CONNOR CORPORATION, 6309 S. Eggleston, CHICAGO, ILL.

MISS ROBINSON ENTERTAINS

Miss Hazel Robinson delightfully entertained at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vines, with a lawn party last Tuesday evening.

Those participating were Misses Mable and Myrtle Wilson, Willie B. Jones, Myrtle Robers, and Hazel Robinson; Messrs Grady Aldridge, Race Jennings, Jim Mullins, Leslie Longcrier and Candy Smith.

All varieties of new and fresh Turnip Seed for sale at Upchurch Drug Co., at the right prices.

Aunt Sarah Robinson, wife of our Commissioner, is in Clanton this week on a visit to her son, J. E. Robinson, Sr.

WANTED—To buy a three-horse Feed Chopper at once, Apply at Union-Banner office. tf.

Mr. Chester Maltby of Bristow, Oklahoma is visiting Mr. Lee Smith.

PLANTED YOUR TURNIPS? Now is the time. Get your seed at Upchurch Drug Co., where they are new and fresh and sure to come up when planted.

WHY GIVE CHILDREN OIL AND SALTS?

Little Alabama Boy Writes About a Pleasant Medicine.

Loundas P. Brindley, of Somerville, is a happy little boy, and he has written to say: "I have had a heavy headache and vomited twice to six times a day, and it has taken just four doses of Granger Liver Regulator to make me well." Loundas' mother has found out that there is no use in torturing children by giving them nasty tasting castor-oil and salts when they don't mind taking Granger Liver Regulator, which is a harmless, vegetable compound, that acts on them just right. Your druggist sells it. Ask him.

HAWKINS SAYS HE GAINED 31 POUNDS

Joints Would Cramp So He Couldn't Raise Hand to Comb His Hair

"I have actually gained thirty-one pounds on three bottles of Tanlac, and I now feel like a new man in every way," was the remarkable statement made by J. T. Hawkins, living at 335 Johnson place, Memphis.

"Rheumatism had me so tight in its grip for twelve months," continued Mr. Hawkins, "that I was just up and down, and down more than up, and I couldn't tsrike a lick of work. I was wrecked with pain from head to foot all the time, and no kind of medicine I took inside, and nothing I rubbed on the outside, ever did me a particle of good until I got this Tanlac. My joints would cramp me so I could hardly raise my hands to comb my head or stoop enough to tie my shoes. I hurt so bad and was so nervous I could not sleep; it would pain me to turn over in bed, and no matter what position I took I would suffer torture. I got in such a bad shape I could eat nothing scarcely and I suffered with indigestion all the time. I dwindled away to one hundred and eight pounds and was nothing but skin and bones, and was forced to spend most of my time in bed.

"I decided to give Tanlac a trial and its a positive fact, I've gone up in weight from a hundred and eight to a hundred and thirty-nine pounds—an actual gain of thirty-one pounds—and all the rheumatic pains have left me. My joints do not cramp me at all now and I can use my arms and bend about and work with as much ease as I ever could before I had rheumatism at all. I can eat anything I want and as much as I wish, and nothing hurts me in the least. I can work all day every day, and when night comes, I can sleep like a child. Yes, sir, I feel like a new person and I must look it, too, for my friends who haven't seen me since I took Tanlac, actually do not know me when they meet with me now. Tanlac has certainly been a great blessing to me, and I'm a living monument for what it will do."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co., and in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon.

A party consisting of Mrs. P. C. Smith, Mrs. A. S. Killebrew and Misses Mary and Conradine Lane and Car. Smith and Mr. Daw Smith went to Wetumpka and out at the convict camps Sunday.

Mr. Dow Smith of Birmingham is visiting his cousins, the Misses Killebrew.

Miss Conradine Lane has returned from a pleasant visit to Birmingham, where she has been visiting friends and relatives.

DANCE GIVEN BY MISS MARY LANE

Miss Mary Lane entertained the younger set at a dance last Monday night, in honor of her visitors.

Those present were, Misses Willye Reynolds, Maud Mullins, Izira Callen, Mary and Roberta Curry, Rilla Smith, Kathleen Mullins, Leona Pipes, Eleanora Teel, Mary Sue Mullins, Willie B. Jones, Lola Robers, and Amy Callen of Birmingham, and Mr. John Deramus of Verbena, Mr. Meadow Lyrie, Frank Palmer, Erle Pinckard, and Oscar Jones.

UNION GROVE

Kind Editor:

Will you please allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words.

Health here is very good at present; some few are sick, but not serious.

Farmers are looking blue after so much rain and so much destruction from the ball weevils.

A number of our young people went to Salem Sunday.

Miss Vergie Davis spent Saturday night and Sunday with Misses Lessie and Bessie Robinson.

Miss Bessie Chandler visited Miss Lessie Vinzant Sunday.

Misses Mae Dorminey, Bertha Conway and Joshua Sorrel spent Sunday afternoon with Misses Bessie and Lessie Robinson.

Miss Myrtle Connell has returned to her home in Sylacauga.

Mrs. Vernon shaw of Birmingham is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dorminey.

Mrs. Alonzo Shrader has been visiting relatives and friends here.

Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Conway were among relatives here Saturday night.

Miss Irene Collum spent Sunday with Miss Hattie Honeycutt. Mr. Lewis Sorrell visited home folks Sunday night.

Mr. Julius Simmons has gone to Birmingham to work.

Miss Minnie Martin has returned to Birmingham after a months visit to friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Martin spent Sunday with the latters parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robinson.

LEGAL NOTICE

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 1, 1916.

Hon. H. A. Harris,
Sheriff of Chilton county,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear sir:

No U. S. Internal Revenue License have been issued to your county in July 1916.

I hereby certify that I have carefully examined the record of the Collector of Internal Revenue and the above is complete and correct.

Yours very truly,
SAM P. JONES.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this first day of August 1916.

J. B. MOSLEY,
Notary Public.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

State Happenings

COURT SHOT UP; ONE DEAD; DEPUTY DYING

Dothan, Ala., Aug. 10.—Deputy Sheriff Alvin North is at a Dothan hospital with a bullet hole through his abdomen and John Newman is dead from a bullet hole above the heart, as the result of a pistol battle in the store of John T. Brown, a Justice of the Peace at Ardilla, twenty miles from here.

The shooting match took place at about 1:00 o'clock this afternoon.

Fears are entertained for the wounded deputy's recovery.

It is said that Robert Newman, brother of John had been warned by Deputy North from jumping on passenger trains at Ardilla and stealing rides.

This afternoon North arrested the youngster on the above charge and arraigned him before Justice Brown who levied a fine of one dollar or thirty days in jail.

About the time court was over, Jeff Newman, the father and John Newman entered the store armed.

Some words were passed, it is reported, and Jeff Newman fired upon the Deputy, who fell to the floor, and from that position whipped his revolver out and opened fire.

John Newman got a bullet just over the heart.

It is said as many as seventeen shots were exchanged. It is claimed that the Deputy with his right arm wounded crawled to the door and fired his last shot at Jeff Newman, who was retreating.

Some reports say that John Newman did not participate in the shooting, and that all bullets were fired by Deputy North and Jeff Newman.

It is said that as many as eight men were in or near the store when the duel started. Sheriff John A. May was notified by telephone and Deputy Sheriffs Alerk, Clarence May and Will Reeves rushed to the scene in an automobile carrying blood hounds.

They placed Jeff Newman under arrest, and he is now in the county jail here charged with assault with intent to murder. John Newman was too badly wounded to be moved, and died later at Ardilla. Deputy North was brought to Dothan where an operation was performed at 9:00 o'clock.

Upon their arrival at Ardilla the three Deputies placed the belligerents under arrest, and collected a one dollar fine and three dollar cost which had been imposed by Justice Brown against young Bob Newman.

At 7:25 tonight information from Dr. Davies Infirmary where North was taken said that his chances for recovery were very slim.

Sheriff May said that John Newman participated in the shooting.

"They just came there to shoot up the justice court," concluded the sheriff.

If Deputy North succumbs to his wound, it will make the second Deputy that has been shot while on duty during Sheriff May's administration.

The first man was Deputy Grady Granger, who was shot while attenmpting to search for liquor about six months ago.

Deputy North underwent an operation here at 9:00 o'clock and the result was in doubt at a late hour.

MRS. R. B. THORNTON DEAD

Mt. Creek, Ala., Aug. 13.—Mrs. R. B. Thornton, aged 72 years, died at 11:20 o'clock tonight from a stroke of paralysis suffered last Friday. The funeral services will be held from the Home here at 10:00 o'clock Monday morning, with Rev. J. A. Cannon, pastor of the Baptist Church, officiating. Enterment will be made in the cemetery at Marbury.

Mrs. Thornton is survived by one son, E. L. Thornton of Opelika; four daughters, Mesdames R. W. Walker of Jackson, Miss., M. J. Munich, of San Antonio, Texas, Ruby Knox of Mt. Creek, and Miss Lilla Thornton of Montgomery.

An Historical Fact

PURELY VEGETABLE S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

Even before the days of our Forefathers, extracts from the same kind of roots, herbs and barks, now used in compounding the ingredients for S. S. S., were well known and extensively used among the Indians.

Science and modern methods have only changed the Indians way of handling the materials, the essential features are still in evidence in S. S. S.—Natures Greatest Blood Purifier—and a natural sequence of the Indians favorite medicine.

GET THE GENUINE S. S. S. AT YOUR DRUGGIST.

USED FOR 50 YEARS SUCCESSFULLY

S.S.S. Co. Atlanta, Georgia

Get All You Can

FOR YOUR TIME AND MONEY. THAT IS GOOD COMMON CHRISTIAN SENSE.

STUDENTS OF THORSBY INSTITUTE HAVE SOMETIMES SAID, "I CAN GET

Twice As Much

HERE AS IN ANY OTHER SCHOOL I HAVE EVER ATTENDED." PERHAPS YOU COULD TOO. IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO KNOW HOW, WRITE TO US AND WE WILL EXPLAIN (NO TRIFLERS ARE WANTED).

Thorsby Institute

S. H. HERBERT, Principal

Thorsby, Ala.

ELEVENTH YEAR BEGINS SEPTEMBER 12, 1916.

Whew, It's Hot!

Let's go and get some good old

Coca-Cola

When you're hot and thirsty, or just for fun, there's nothing comes up to it for deliciousness and real refreshment.

Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution

THE COCA-COLA CO.
ATLANTA, GA.

WANTED

HORSES AND MULES

WILL BE IN CLANTON, ALABAMA

Saturday, August 19th

To Buy Mules 14-1 and up, 5 to 10 Years Old, No Whites. Horses, 14-2 and up, 5 to 10 Years Old, No Whites or Mares. All Stock must be Sound and in Good Condition. No Blemishes.

FIES AND SONS

BIRMINGHAM, ALA

Ford

New Prices Aug. 1, 1916

The following prices for Ford cars will be effective on and after August 1st, 1916.

Chassis	$325.00
Runabout	345.00
Touring Car	360.00
Coupelet	505.00
Town Car	595.00
Sedan	645.00

f. o. b. Detroit.

These prices are positively guaranteed against any reduction before Aug. 1, 1917, but there is no guarantee against an advance in price at any time.

L. J. DUNCAN

CLANTON, ALA.

Flour Mill

We desire to state to the public that our Flour Mill at Coopers is again ready for operation this season, and you are cordially invited to give us your patronage.

We thank you for having given us such liberal patronage last season, and promise you to even more than ever exert every means and effort to serve you satisfactorily. Our Mill will be in continuous operation during the entire season.

Very Respectfully

Cooper M'f'g. Company

COOPER, ALA.

THE UNION-BANNER

Farm and Immigration SUPPLEMENT

CLANTON, ALA., AUGUST 17, 1916

Building Up Real Homes Is Greatest Work

Only Way We Can Pay Debt We Owe to Our Children—The Methods That Will Do It

After all everything goes back to the home.

In most everything we do, the home should be considered. Is it good for the home? Is it building a better and happier home? These are the questions we should ask ourselves in what we are doing on our place.

This has not been the question that the cotton planter has asked himself. He has figured on what his crop will cost and what it will sell for—how much money profit will be his. He has seldom asked himself what sort of a home his system is building up for his children. The result is that in many cases his land has become depleted of fertility, he lives in town and his boy is looking for a "job" somewhere.

You don't see boys on the livestock farms of the Central West looking for "jobs." They have all the job they want staying at home and looking after the feeding and care of the stock the barns, the corn crop, the pastures, etc. The business that does not look to the establishment of a permanent and self supporting home is a business lacking in a vital way.

The Old Plantation.

Some of our resent generation of cotton planters are going to leave their children mighty little. They will leave them big plantations but these plantations, in many cases, will be a burden on the children rather than a source of constant production.

The old generation of cotton planters is going fast. It is a system that was doomed to end. The time is coming when no man can have a big plantation, live in town and work it with tenant labor. The time is coming when no man can operate a big plantation—even if he lives on it—and not put some of that land into pastures, some of it under fence and some of it into gardens.

The handwriting is on the wall, though there are still many who will not open their eyes to see it.

Things That Help.

We must quit talking about "the old Southern home" and really make it a home. There are encouraging signs. The Canning Clubs and the Home Economics work is helping a great deal to make our homes more productive and better. The desire for home watersworks systems is helping. The desire for home lighting systems is another help.

The increase in livestock is the biggest help. The livestock man must stay at home most of the time and he and his family must give considerable time and attention to the stock. It cannot be done by the "tenant system." It is astonishing how interested a boy or girl will become in pure-bred pigs, pure-bred cattle, grade calves, or good chickens. It puts life and spirit into farm work. It gives the boys and girls something to learn and something that is interesting. It tends to keep them at home and thought of "jobs" out of their heads. It builds up the farm for their use when the old folks begin to get up in years.

The Only Way.

In short it is the only permanently profitable method of farming. It is the only method that builds real homes in the country and builds real citizenship. And to the cotton men it means more cotton to the acre than he is getting now out of the system that some of them sill hold onto.

We surely owe a debt to our children. The only way to meet this debt is to leave them a home that will take care of them if they take care of it. The man with land can leave his children in good circumstances if he has a mind to. He can leave them the best things that any man can leave to his children—a good name and a productive farm. Leaving children a worn-out plantation, worked altogether by tenants, is not a heritage that bodes much good for children.

It means that they will live in a house in town and try to exist on the pittance that comes in from the rent of the plantation. A good many children of former big plantation holders are living this sort of a life now it is not very satisfactory living at best. In time these people will lose their holdings, on which tenants are now paying rent, and a goodly number of them will go into old age in poverty.

Look around you and if you can't see this picture then your eyes need attention. How many men do you meet who "once had a plantation?" How did they lose it The answer is too simple almost to print—by the old one-crop system and tenant rent money.

You don't see many farms in Illinois getting away from the owners. You don't see many in Iowa or Missouri or Kansas. In these states the land and the farm home is value too highly to be left to others to run while the owners coop themselves up in a house in town.

Good people, we must look to the home. If we are not building up a real home for our children on the farm then some day we are going to be weighed in the balance and found wanting.

The good forces are at work—increased interest in livestock and pastures and building up the soil, better schools, more garden and canning the surplus, pig clubs and corn clubs, home comforts and conveniences. These forces are gradually doing much to make our homes what they should be. The home and the land go together. The homes that remain with families and become real homes in every sense of the word are farm homes where farming is intelligently done by the people who live on the farm.

One of The Morristown District's Hundred Egg Farms. This Big One Has 2,500 Laying Hens and 300 Selected Breeding Fowls

Hen Lays $2,500 Egg for Morristown

Morristown, Tenn., has a population of 6,200.

Not a large town, but—

Morristown has a poultry business that amounts every year to $2,250,000 and a livestock business amounting every year to $1,000,000—a grand total yearly from poultry and livestock of $3,250,000!

Do you know of any town Morristown's size, or even very much larger, that has any such business each year from the cotton production in its territory?

What poultry has done for Morristown and the Morristown district should make other sections feel somewhat ashamed of themselves, for most any section in the Central South has as good opportunities in land and climate. But Morristown has taken advantage of her opportunities. That's the difference.

Right now, any town or territory that has a mind to, and a will to, can do to a large exent what Morristown has shown can be done with poultry and eggs. There is no limit to the demand for dressed poultry and eggs, and your section need not fear that it may "overdo" the business. It is one business that cannot be "overdone."

Read what Morristown and the Morristown district have accomplished. The article is writeen by F. Roger Miller, a Morristown man who has seen the remarkable development of the poultry-and-egg business in the last several years and who has had a part in it. Surely it points the way for your town or your community.

BY F. ROGER MILLER.

Poultry and eggs to the value of more than $2,250,000 have been shipped from the Morristown, Tennessee, district during the past year. The totals in carlots follows: Eggs 440 cars; live poultry 163 cars, dressed poultry, 116 cars; total 721 cars: increase over 1914, 168 cars. These figures apply only to the Morristown district proper and do not include shipments billed from other points.

Vast Business.

The 440 cars of eggs contained 176,000 cases, 5,280,000 dozens, or 63,360,000 eggs. The bulk of eggs, as well as live and dressed poultry, was sent east on the poultry special operated from Morristown to New York every week. Several shipments of eggs, however were sent to Cuba and numerous shipments of dressed poultry to various sections of the south.

The broiler industry has flourished this year, the local plant running its full capacity of 25,000 to 35,000 birds daily dressed product every week. Morristown milk-feds are now served on dining cars in leading hotels and cafes through-out the eastern half of the United States.

Broiler Farms.

Broilers for the fattening station are the chief product of the broiler farms, the by-product of the commercial egg farms carrying poultry flocks of from one to three hundred fowls. Poultrymen specializing in broiler production and egg farmers who find in the broiler market a dependable demand for their surplus cockerels, have equipped their farms with modern incubator and brooder plants, and give particular attention to the rapid development of the young chick from the time it is hatched until it is ready to go to the feeding station, to be fattened, finished, and sent to market. These specialists seldom allow the chicks to touch the ground, confining them in floored runs, feeding them a special ration, and produce a quality bird for which the packers are glad to pay a better price than the average market. General farmers, on the other hand, give the young cicks little attention, allow them free range, require them to forage for most of their feed, and the result is an over-muscular, improperly developed young fowl which requires more care in fattening, and command only the ordinary price.

Fattening Station.

The fattening station is a two-story frame structure having a maximum capacity of 35,000 fowls. It is lighted by a double row of windows and ventilated by screened openings placed at intervals along the side walls, ends and roof centers. The floor is concrete and the center of the building is an open aisle from end to end. Ranged around the walls on both sides and along the balconies above the first floor are double rows of five-tier crates that the young birds occupy during the two weeks of the fattening process. In the center of the building on one side are the feed hoppers and storeroom and on the other side are the electric mixer. Implement room and stairway leading to the balconies. Over the center, between the hopper and mixer, is suspended the traveling crane that is used for hoisting coops of chickens and carloads of feed.

The fattening crates stand in double rows facing narrow aisles across the building. The implements are eighteen inches wide, fourteen inches high and from six to twelve feet long, provided with double bottoms to facilitate cleaning and to maintain proper sanitary conditions. Feed troughs are placed outside the crates and within easy reach through an opening running the entire length of the compartment.

Fee Produces Money.

During the fattening process the broilers are fed, three to five times daily, a mixture of buttermilk, ground wheat and oats and corn meal. No water is provided, the food mixture supply all the liquid needed. Fourteen days are required to properly "finish" a broiler for market. During this period the average bird will consume a sixth of a pound of food daily, about two and a third pounds in two weeks. The average increase in weight is from forty to fifty per cent. and the finished product, dressed and packed for shipment, weighs from twenty-two to twenty-four pounds per dozen, net.

A complete station record is kept of every lot of broilers received, giving weight when delivered, amount of food consumed, daily records of labor general operating and other expenses. After fourteen days in the station the broilers are slaughters, dry-picked, graded and shipped to market. Milk-fed squabs roasters and other select products are given similar treatment.

Poultry Clubs.

Poultry clubs for boys and girls being organized in the rural schools of Hamblen county, give special attention to the production of early spring broilers. Some of the clubs also specialize in eggs for hatching and breeding stock, while others using the Leghorn exclusively devote most of their attention to commercial egg farming, using a special club brand to be adopted for all egg clubs of the Morristown district.

Egg Farms.

A hundred or more commercial egg farms in the immediate vicinity of Morristown are marketing sterile eggs from flocks ranging in size from hundred to fifteen hundred hens. The largest and most modern of these a section of which is shown in the accompanying illustration, is owned by John R. Calhoun, son of Rev. John Calhoun, of Knoxville. Another of the largest and most completely equipped is owned and operated by R. W. Barrow, for several years prior to entering the poultry business a successful wholesale dry goods merchant.

A number of Morristown business men have, during the past few years, established commercial egg farms in the suburbs or immediate vicinity of town, placing them in charge of practical poultrymen as superintendents. Dairy farmers and general farmers, becoming convinced that poultry affords a revenue worth while, have placed large laying flocks of pure bred fowls on their farms and have housed them in modern, comfortable plants.

Quality Eggs.

Poultrymen specializing in sterile eggs ship direct to northern and eastern markets demanding eggs uniform in size and color, sterile and guaranteed fresh. Because of the excellent transportation facilities provided by the Southern Railway company in the special train operated from Morristown to New York every week, the farmer producing a quality egg is able to compete successfully with local dealers and with northern and eastern poultrymen: the demand is continually increasing and always far in excess of the supply. Other sources of revenue on the egg farm are from the sale of surplus cockerels for broilers, day-old chicks, eggs for hatching and fancy fowls for breeding.

Poultry Houses.

Generally speaking, poultry houses are built on southern slopes, with open fronts facing the south and the north side entirely closed. The average house is sixteen feet wide, and from fifty to two hundred feet long. Some located on side-hills are two stories high, the floor of the second story resting on the ground, and the ground story being provided in the space underneath, with dry, sloping dirt floor. The windows facing the south are screened with wire and in very severe cold weather covered with canvas curtains at night, remaining entirely open throughout the day to afford ample ventilation and sunshine. Inside the buildings are equipped with modern roosts and droppings boards with nests underneath. The floors are covered with straw litter six to eight inches deep.

The buildings are given all possible ventilation without drafts. The layers are usually given a wet mash in the morning, grain in the litter twice daily, dry mash, grit and oyster shell in the hoppers all of the time. Water is supplied fresh either in metal troughs connecting with city pipes or the farm tanks, or in earthenware crocks which are washed and refilled twice daily. The eggs are usually gathered once a day, at the last feeding time in the afternoon. They are carried directly to the egg cellar, where they are sorted and packed, the dirty eggs carefully washed and dried in open trays on wire netting. In this room the temperature is kept at the proper average coolness in the summer and barely sufficient heat to prevent freezing in the winter.

Turkey Raising.

Although turkeys are raised on a large majority of the general farms in the Morristown district, and several poultry men have acquired considerable reputation for breeding Mammoth Bronze birds of unusual size and quality, the bulk of the supply dressed and shiped by local dealers for the eastern holiday trade still comes from mountain sections. Back in the hills, thirty and forty miles from Morristown, they have free range, to roam far and wide, and thrive. In November and December they are assembled in "drives" of from two to five hundred and like cattle are driven down the mountain roads along the macadam highways of the lowlands, and over the asphalt streets of the city to the feeding pens of the dealers and packers. The turkey, cost of production, care and market conditions considered, is the most profitable product of the farm, according to a Hamblen county breeder who keeps careful tab on expenses. This farmer is seldom able to supply the demand for breeding fowls, but occasionally sells a bird for Thanksgiving or Christmas and never for less than three dollars for fat hens or four to six for toms, and the actual cost of feed from egg to maturity never exceeds fifty cents a head. Because of the short crop and very favorable market conditions, farmers who were successful in carrying their young flocks through the rainy summer and finished them fat and fine for the holiday trade, reaped a harvest this season, selling their fowls at sixteen cents per pound wholesale on foot and for twenty to twenty-five cents per pound dressed to city consumers.

Farmers Are Getting Wise

While the poultry industry of the Morristown district has already reached astonishing proportions, it is still in the early stages of development and all present indications are that the next five years will witness greater progress than has been made in the past quarter of a century. Farmers, surprised and impressed by the success of men depending solely upon poultry raising, are beginning to recognize the importance of the industry as a cash revenue producer. Little barnyard flocks are giving way to larger flocks of pure bred fowls of either the egg or utility types, and these are housed in comfortable quarters, fed a balanced ration, and managed in accordance with the methods approved by experienced poultrymen. Favored by natural conditions ideal for the industry, excellent transportation facilities and markets affording unlimited demand, there is every indication that East Tennessee already the greatest poultry producing section of the South, will one day become the greatest poultry producing section in the world

WEEVIL INCREASE

Now a boll weevil is an inconspicuous insect. Just one little boll weevil doesn't seem formidable. A dropped form is nothing to cause worry—just one dropped form. But suppose that form contains an egg laid by the lonely boll weevil. That makes just one-half of a great deal of trouble. Now suppose that there is another dropped form nearby which contains another weevil egg. That makes a pair. In fifteen days the pair will hatch. In ninety days there will be about 600,000 weevils from that pair, if they do not have any bad luck and boll weevils do not usually have bad luck.

If that first inconspicuous insect that was observed a paragraph ago had exercised her constitutional right she laid not one pair of eggs, but seventy-five pairs. Consequently the receipts at the end of ninety days should be multiplied by seventy-five. Even that does not represent the situation accurately. No boll weevil ever thought of going into a cotton field alone. Hence the number of weevils that may result at the end of ninety days is inconceivable.

If anyone doubts what that family of boll weevils can do to a cotton crop, he has merely to ask some of his neighbors who have had boll weevil experience. Then if he cannot believe it he can wait.

E. S. Pace, district agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, has been advocating destruction of dropped forms. In most sections the weevils are becoming numerous, but it is never too late to destroy them. The weevil in those dropped forms will multiply themselves 150 times in about thirty days.

NEW VEGETABLES

The Department of Agriculture scours the world for new food plants that will thrive in the United States. It has been successful in acclimatizing two excellent vegetables: one is especially suited for the South, the other for the North.

The Chayote is a climbing vine of the cucumber family, which is a native of Porto Rico and will thrive in the Southern United States as far north as the Carolinas. It bears a large pear-shaped fruit which tastes something like summer squash, but is much more delicate. Its tuberous roots are also good to eat and resemble yams. The fruit makes an excellent salad and may be baked creamed fried, boiled or made into a sauce. Experimental farms in Florida are now planting the Chayote in order to produce a supply of the seed.

The Department expects to have enough seed of the Chayote by next year for distribution.

Get ready to plant that winter cover crop.

"A carpet of green over every farm in winter."

A good pasture cannot wash away.

Pick the cotton as soon as you can.

Plow under the stalks as soon as the cotton is picked and be ready to put in that cover crop.

Boll weevils soon will be moving on into new territory.

Boll weevils will gain another fifty miles before spring.

PACKING SILAGE

Silage making is just canning on a large scale. Consequently the same principles which hold good for canning serve for silage. The first step is to remove the air. That is all that is necessary to make the silage keep. It provides the sterilization itself. In silos from twelve to fifteen feet in diameter three or four men will be required to pack the silage while the cutter is running. They should be provided with tampers weighing from thirty to forty pounds. The middle will take care of itself because it is free to settle, but the outside near the walls should be tamped and tramped solid. According to C. L. Willoughby, professor of animal husbandry in the University of Florida College of Agriculture, tamping cannot be overdone. The better the silage is packed the better it will keep.

When silage begins to ferment the temperature rises high enough to drive out the air and leaves only water and plant juices. Unless it is packed well the air is not driven out and spoilage occurs. The men in the silo should also distribute the material. If corn is cut the pieces of ears and heavy particles fall in the center. These should be spread nearer the walls.

It is almost impossible to make silage too wet, but it may be too dry. If it is made of dry material, water should be added at the cutter or fan. It may be added after the silage is in the silo. About a barrel to the ton is enough.

There is always a certain amount of material at the top of the silo which is exposed. Usually a layer of silage about eight inches deep spoils. This may be avoided by running straw, hay or grass through the cutter. Oats sown on top will form sod that will protect the silage beneath.

SEED CORN

The best seed corn is produced under average conditions. Average conditions recur, and corn that has an advantage may not do so well when it is grown under average or adverse conditions. C. K. McQuarrie, state agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, gives the following points which should be considered in obtaining seed that can be depended upon to give good yields.

Go into the field when the corn is still green. Select a place away from roads, ditches, trees, extremely wet or dry areas. In other words, go to a place where average conditions obtain. Select stalks that are growing in competition with other stalks, and which have no advantages of light, air, fertility, space or moisture. Select short stalks with large, well-balanced leaf surfaces. Note the position of the ear on the stalk, the shank, covering of the ear, and finally the size. If stalks which have two or more good ears can be found, so much the better. Note that the size of ear stands last in field selection.

Stalks that are selected should be marked with some cloth that can be easily seen after they have dried. When the ears are mature they can be harvested and further selections made to eliminate undesirable specimens.

Cattle and hog buyers will soon be coming along looking for our stuff.

The grade calf is the money maker sure as you are born.

The fellow who has got a silo is strictly in it.

Farming without a fence or a silo is like a kitchen without salt.

Boys are getting their pigs in show shape for the fairs.

The corn club boys can teach the old folks a few things about getting yields.

Will You Give Your Kiddies Good Schools

Big Question Will Be Put Up to Alabama Fathers to Decide This Coming Fall

There is going to be a big question come up before the voters of the State of Alabama this fall.

It is not a political question. If it were you would see nothing in these columns about it. The writer wouldn't walk across the road to vote one way or the other on any political question that comes up in any other State.

But even in Alabama questions come now and then that are not fostered by politicians for political purposes—questions that pertain to the well-being of the people.

The question in mind is the local-taxation-for-schools amendment to the constitution of the State. It is the most important question that has come up in Alabama for years or that is apt to come up in several years.

What it Does

In brief, this amendment gives any county the right to say whether or not it shall tax itself to keep up its own schools. If the amendment is adopted it levies No Tax. Make no mistake about this. The amendment is not tax levying. It simply gives a county the right to say whether it will tax itself for its schools or not. If the amendment is passed and your county does not want to tax itself for its schools then it need not do so. If it does want to tax itself for its schools then it has the right to do so under the amendment.

The amendment would simply give your county the right to tax itself to support its own schools if it wanted to.

If the amendment is passed some counties will not want to levy a tax to improve their schools. Other counties will want to levy taxes to improve schools and they will do so. The amendment simply gives the progressive counties a chance to tax themselves for better schools.

Now this fact is made plain for you going to hear somebody say that the amendment "levies taxes" when it does nothing of the kind.

It will be a great thing for Alabama when the progressive county can have the kind of schools it wants by paying for them. Those counties that do not want good schools can lag behind but those that do want them can have them.

Mothers For It.

How many mothers, and fathers too over Alabama would rejoice if their children out in the country could have as good school advantages as the children in some of the towns. How often do you hear the country parent lamenting that his or her children do not have the educational advantages that town children have. It is a sad fact that throughout so many rural districts the school terms are so short and the educational equipment so poor.

At present the county cannot do much to improve its schools. Under the amendment it would have full right to go ahead and levy taxes—if it wanted to—in order to have the kind of schools it needed.

It is believed that if the amendment is passed many counties will take advantage of it and adopt local taxation for their schools. This will mean the beginning of a new and better and more progressive Alabama. It will in truth be the breaking of a new day for the State.

It is no hip-hip-hooray election with the useless excitement that marks Governorship elections. It is a bigger question than the election of a governor or a legislature. It is a question of the intelligence, efficiency, and citizenship of the coming citizens of Alabama.

Give Children a Chance.

Shall we give our children the right sort of a chance or shall we not? Shall we give the counties the right to give their children a chance or shall we not?

Alabama cannot afford to lag behind in the march of education. Alabama has plenty of the "higher" schools. They are all well and good but what Alabama needs is schools of the right sort and terms of the right length for her country boys and girls. Very few people, comparatively, go to the "higher" schools. But many thousands of children go to the public schools and we must make these schools of real value to our children. We cannot do this under the present out-of-date system. Each county must contribute to its own schools and then the kind of schools a county has are the measure of that county's progress.

You fathers and mothers, this is a matter to take to heart. You women would vote for the amendment if you had a vote. But as the vote has not come to you yet, you can do a great deal by getting the men folks to vote to give the country kiddies the chance that the town boys and girls have.

Industrially and agriculturally Alabama is going ahead pretty fast. Alabama must move just as fast in education. Alabama owes it to her name among states and to her children within her borders to adopt the amendment. Alabama spends a mighty small sum on her public schools. She can stand no comparison to Eastern or Central Western or far western states in this matter.

LITTLE McCLUNG.

Way to get rid of boll weevils for next year is to have the land in a legume this winter.

Remember, the dairy herd brings in cash every week in the year.

Lazy people have no business with a dairy.

Going to be lots of big money going to the livestock winners at our fairs this year.

What Does Farmer Make? Is He Better Off Than Other People?

By E. A. Goldenweiser, Special Investigator

A comparison of the farmers's income with that of other classes of workers is difficult because the farming business has not been entirely reduced to a money basis.

The average farm family has earnings, including house rent and the value of food and fuel supplied by the farm, about equal to those of the average industrial family, but the farmer has the advantage of a much lower cost of living and has, in addition to his earnings, the interest on the money he has invested in his farm business.

The wages of the average farmer are about $600, composed of about $200 in cash and about $400 supplied by the farm. The average wage earner in a factory earns about $460, and the average salaried employee about $1,200. Thus the farmer's wages are higher than those of industrial wage workers but lower than those of salaried employes in industry.

In view of the lower cost of living on the farm and the fact that two-thirds of the farmers have interest in addition to wages, it appears that farmers, as a class, are better off than the majority of persons engaged in other pursuits.

Nature of Farm Business.

The business of the farm is so complex and so different in many particulars from that of other enterprises that it is a difficult task to measure the income earned by farmers in terms comparable to incomes of persons in other pursuits. The farmer lives at his place of business and pays no cash rent for the use of his house, while his fields and groves are nearly as much a part of his residence as the rooms in his farm dwelling. The farmer derives two-thirds of his food and fuel from the farm and pays no cash for them. When a value is placed on these items it is a wholesale farm value, which is much less than the price paid for the same articles by the city dweller, who has to pay in addition a series of transportation charges, commissions and profits of middlemen. Furthermore, the products supplied by the farm are generally superior in quality to those obtained at groceries by the average city dweller. It is impossible, however, to place a correct money valuation on this difference.

Four Incomes.

The farm owner's capital is his farm. This includes not only his real estate investment but also his entire working capital. The farm generally represents all of his savings and the inherited savings of his ancestors. The income derived from the farm is composed, from this point of view, of four different elements—the cash earnings of the farm family during the year under consideration, the living supplied by the farm, the annual return on the accumulated savings of the farmer's own life, and the annual returns on the inherited savings of his forbears.

The City Man.

In comparing the farmer with the city man who draws a weekly wage for his labor and spends it in providing the necessities of life for his family, the outstanding difficulty involved is the fact that the farm altogether to as yet not been reduced altogether to a money basis. The city man sells his labor for money and buys all he consumes at the cost of money. He invests whatever savings he may have or whatever capital he may have inherited in enterprises that often have no connection with his own activities. In other words, the city man's life has been entirely reduced to a commercial basis, his income and outgo may be measured in terms of the medium of exchange, while the farm is still to a large extent a self-sufficient unit producing values not all of which have been reduced to exchange prices and an income that contains elements measurably only by the amount of satisfaction derived by the owner.

The comparison of the earnings of farmers with those of other classes of population, which is attempted in this bulletin, can be, in view of the foregoing considerations, only of a very general nature, and the results are only approximately representative of actual conditions.

Earnings of Farm Family.

The office of Farm Management has made intensive studies of 4,018 farms in widely scattered sections of the United States. In each region selected all the farms were investigated; but the regions themselves generally represent better than average conditions. The average earnings of these farm families were $932 of which about $400 represented the value of the house rent and of food and fuel supplied by the farm, and about $550 the cash income of the farm family. The two figures $402 and $952 the one derived from a census of all farms, including many that are not bona fide farm enterprises, the other from a survey of sections in which the average farm ranks higher than the general average, may be considered as the extremes between which the true average lies. It is significant that the averages obtained by actual investigations of industrial families fall approximately halfway between these two extremes. Thus a study of 25,000 families of wage earners made by the Bureau of labor in 1902 shows an average income of $750 per family and a study of 16,000 industrial families made by the Immigration Commission in 1909 shows an average of $721 per family. These figures are about what students of social conditions have determined upon as being the minimum necessary for the support of an average family. While the farm families of the United States thus seem to be making about the same amount as the industrial families, there are three factors resulting from the nature of the farm business that make the conditions of farm families more advantageous.

Cost Is Less.

Owing to the fact mentioned above that the values allowed for the items supplied by the farm are wholesale farm values, the cost of living on the farm is much less than in the cities, and if the figures were based on retail city prices, the average would have been not less than $200 above that given. In other words, the average farm family saves at least $200 on its annual bill for rent, food, and fuel, as compared with a city family of the same size.

In addition to the income earned by the labor of the farm family farm owners have the interest on their farm investment, which amounts to about $322 per family. About two-thirds of the farmers are owners and have the use of that money. It is true that out of their income they are obliged to make payments on their indebtedness, but this does not average more than $100 a year for the farms that have mortgages, and only about one-third of the farms are reported as being mortgaged. In practice the farmer does not distinguish between the interest on his investment and the earnings of his family, and the income available for his expenses is derived from both sources.

Increase In Value.

In addition to earnings and interest the farmer benefits by increases that may occur in the value of his property During the decade preceding 1910 the increase was enormous, amounting to over $20,000,000,000, or $2,000 000,000, annually, so that assuming that the increase was evenly distributed through the decade the average farm family had property valued at about $300 more in 1910 than in 1909. While this item does not directly increase the farmer's financial resources, for unless he sells his farm the money is not available, but his taxes increase; and while it is a question whether this increase in value is likely to continue long (and it seems probable that will at least not continue at the same rate), nevertheless, in so far as the increase represents genuine value and not inflation, it is an increase in the farm capital, or in the earning power of the farm. It also has the advantage of strengthening the borrowing family of the farmer and thus increasing the amount of cash upon which he may draw. That the rise in farm values exerts a decided influence on the economic conditions affecting farming is seen from the fact that in many regions landlords are content with very small cash returns on theirinvestmen int the expectation of making up the difference in the increase in the value of their property.,

Is Best After All.

To sum up, it appears from the discussior that the average farm family makes approximately as much for its labor as the average industrial family but owing to the lower cost of living on the farm and to the interest earned by the farm investment, the average farm famIy occupies a much more secure economic position than does the average city family. This statement refers to averages, and it should be remembered that a great many farmers fall far below those averages while others rise far above them. In a study of 4,400 farmers conducted by the Farm Demonstration Service of this department, it was shown that the most successful fifth of the farmers made about four times as much as the next to the least successful fifth while the poorest fifth made considerably less than the interest on their farm investments. While it is doubtless true that the distance separating the richest from the poorest farmer is not as great as that separating the men at the lowest and at the topmost rung of the ladder in the industrial world nevertheless there is a wide range of variation in prosperity even among farmers.

Alabama Gets Over $100,000 For Good Roads In 1917

The secretary of agriculture has certified to the secretary of the treasury and the governors and state highway departments of the several states the following apportionment of the $5,000,000 of Federal road funds available for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917.

This is the first installment of Federal moneys to be apportioned to the states under the Bankhead Good Roads Bill. Before making the division among the states, the secretary, in accordance with the act, deducted 3 per cent, or $150,000, needed for administering its provisions. This left $4,850,000 to be apportioned among the states, one-third in the ratio of area, one-third in the ratio of population, and one-third in the ratio of mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes. The apportionment on this basis gives the following amounts for the several states:

Alabama	$104,148.90
Arizona	68,513.52
Arkansas	82,689.10
California	151,063.92
Colorado	83,690.14
Connecticut	31,090.44
Delaware	8,184.37
Florida	55,976.27
Georgia	134,329.48
Idaho	60,463.50
Illinois	220,926.23
Indiana	135,747.62
Iowa	146,175.60
Kansas	143,207.40
Kentucky	97,472.91
Louisiana	67,474.66
Maine	48,451.50
Maryland	44,047.22
Massachusetts	73,850.95
Michigan	145,783.72
Minnesota	142,394.06
Mississippi	88,905.84
Missouri	169,720.41
Montana	98,287.19
Nebraska	106,770.81
Nevada	64,398.30
New Hampshire	20,996.62
New Jersey	59,212.68
New Mexico	78,737.81
New York	250,720.27
North Carolina	114,381.92
North Dakota	76,143.06
Ohio	186,905.42
Oklahoma	115,139.00
Oregon	78,687.37
Pennsylvania	230,644.17
Rhode Island	11,665.71
South Carolina	71,807.64
South Dakota	80,946.02
Tennessee	114,153.48
Texas	291,927.81
Utah	56,950.15
Vermont	22,844.47
Virginia	99,660.71
Washington	71,884.28
West Virginia	53,270.46
Wisconsin	128,361.07
Wyoming	61,196.82
Total	$4,850,000.00

Later Appropriations.

The apportionment indicated above is only of one year's funds. For succeeding fiscal years the act appropriates the following amounts:

1918	$10,000,000
1919	15,000,000
1920	20,000,000
1921	25,000,000

The act requires that the apportionment for each year shall be made in the same manner. Different sums are appropriated for each year and the apportionment must also take into consideration the population as shown by the latest available Federal census and the mileage of rural delivery and star routes as shown by the certificate of the postmaster general for the next preceding fiscal year. A new apportionment, therefore, must be announced for each fiscal year.

Federal aid, under the provisions of the Bankhead Good Roads Bill, is immediately available.

The states will at once be notified of the amounts each is entitled to receive for the year 1917. Senator Bankhead believes this initial appropriation is the beginning of an era of road improvement in the United States, and that within ten years the government will be spending $50,000,000 annually for road construction. He expects that the history of the growth and development of the rural delivery service will be repeated with respect to Federal road improvement in rural communities. He stated he has numerous requests for information with regard to it and in order to advise the public gave out the following statement:

"During the next five years Alabama will receive about $1,561,000, as follows:

1917	$104,148
1918	208,213
1919	312,320
1920	416,426
1921	520,533

"The state must provide either in money, labor or material an amount equal to that offered by the government. Application should be made through the State Highway Department for improvement of such rural post roads in the various counties in the state for which Federal aid funds are desired. If approved, the Highway Department must make necessary surveys, plans and specifications. Provision will be made for partial payment as the work progresses. The states and counties, however, must give proper assurance that roads improved with Federal aid funds will be properly maintained.

Kinds of Roads.

"In the selection of the roads deviation will be permitted, with the consent of the post office department, where changes and modifications will improve the rural delivery service. The government will insist that the roads to be constructed or improved shall be such as afford the greatest good to the community affected and of real importance in the transportation of rural products and the mails. Encouragement will not be given roads that begin nowhere and end nowhere. It is not intended to require expensive construction, but the improvements must include proper location, easy grades, suitable drainage and reasonably permanent surface. The cheaper type of road such as sand, clay and grovel so prevalent in Alabama will not be disqualified, but their construction must be thorough and efficient. Aside from the improvement of post roads it is expected that proper road authorities in the various counties, in co-operation with the State Highway Department, will select roads for improvement that will better enable the rural communities to reach centers of trade and education and to connect with similar points in adjoining counties, with a view to building up a splendid system of inter-communication within the state.

"Alabama may use its convict labor to great advantage in procuring Federal aid and thus further supplement the state aid it already renders the counties ,and materially assist in bringing about a great system of road construction in the state.

"The rights of the states are properly protected and guarded since each state selects the roads to be improved, determines the character and extent of the construction and through its own agencies expends both state and Federal funds under the careful scrutiny of government engineers."

The Country's Best

In every line of manufacture there is always one who knows how to make some one article better than anybody else. For instance, it does not seem that anyone can make a pump as good as Myers or a plow as good as Oliver.

The Mitchell stands in the wagon line right there; the other fellow doesn't make one "Just as Good."

Loeb Hardware Co.

Montgomery, Alabama

Babcock Buggies Oliver Plows Myers Pumps

FERTILIZING ALFALFA

Alfalfa is a rich land crop. Much of the difficulty in growing it can be attributed to the low fertility of the soils on which it is being tried. A crop that produces three or four and occasionally five cuttings a year requires plenty of plant food. The man who wishes to grow alfalfa on medium to poor land cannot expect high yields and in most cases he cannot secure a satisfactory stand without manuring or fertilizing.

In general, barnyard manure is the best fertilizer for this crop. Ten, twelve or even fifteen tons an acre can well be supplied if the manure is available. A crop as valuable as alfalfa warrants expensive fertilization if necessary. The man beginning alfalfa culture on poor land had better limit the amount sown so that more manure will be available for use on this land.

If manure is available in small quantities only, fertilizers may be used in addition. On most Missouri soils the experiment station has found that the application of phosphates is usually accompanied by best returns. Three or four hundred pounds of bone meal are applications which may be expected to give returns. The manure applied in connection with these fertilizers should be at the rate of six or eight tons an acre. Finely ground raw rock phosphate turned under with the manure at the rate of 1000 pounds an acre is a good application. Since this form of phosphate is rather slow in acting, 200 pounds of acid phosphate may well be applied with the manure or drilled in deeply, with a fertilizer drill after the seed bed is prepared.

It must be understood that some soils need lime in addition to fertilization, most of them need inoculation, and all require thorough preparation of the seed bed.

CASH MONEY FOR YOUR SPARE TIME.

We want intelligent, energetic men and women in every locality who want to turn all or some of their time into cash with steady employment and good profits. We do not handle trash or make-shifts, our lines are all first class, useful articles covered by our absolute MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. LADIES, get our SECO Sanitary and other propositions; MEN, get our Chemical Specialties and other propositions. Get our GREATLY REDUCED PRICE LIST of all the Standard Drugs and Cosmetics guaranteed genuine and fresh. OFFICE Supplies at bargain prices. HOUSEFURNISHINGS on easy payments.

MAIL ORDER SERVICE CO., LOCK BOX 235-A, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

VICTROLA CLUB

A small amount each week and you can have a Victrola delivered to your home Christmas.

Write today for full information.

DAHLBERG TALKING MACHINE CO.

Montgomery, Ala. South's Largest Dealers.

How Town Folks and Farmers Came Together And Liked Each Other

BY C. C. KIRKPATRICK

Some cities, just like some men, now and then get a real vision of the things which mean true growth.

In western Pennsylvania, in a county underlaid with rich deposits of coal, I recently found evidences of a new order of city develoment. The little city of Washington, with a population of about 25,000, owns a community building, and in and around this building are centered all of the city's public welfare activities. A brief story of how this community found it self, or how it awoke one day and put on the garments of real economic and civic growth seems to me to be worth narrating.

Hitching Posts Came Down

The community building movement was started in Washington, Pennsylvania, in the month of September, 1914. At the very outset was capitalized the Trenton (Missouri) slogan "Get acquainted with your neighbor, you might like him." And Washington Pennsylvania is like many other communities in America. As the town in its early history, began to grow out of its swaddling clothes and take on city ways, and to develop its manufacturing, the city fathers began to enact laws and make regulations looking to the comfort and ease of the residents of the city, and designed to make trading irksome for those who came in from the rural sections. Hitching posts were abolished on the main streets and around the court house square.

Farmers Resented It.

Like all self-respecting farmers everywhere, the Washington county farmers resented this invasion of their personal liberties and the old fight between the town and country was on in earnest. The mail order business began to pick up and the smaller towns of the county cried out in holy wrath against the intrigues of the big town and, by this well ordered sympathy for the rural residents, gained some of Washington's trade.

Board of Trade Wakes up

About this time the Washington board of trade got busy, and after a careful survey found that $2,500,000 annually was going out of the county to the mail order houses. This condition opened the eyes of business men and many demanded the return of the hitching post, but to this the city fathers turned a deaf ear. Then the board of trade found eight men who had a real vision. These eight men put up $5,000 each to buy and remodel an old building in the very center of the business district, back of which was a large wagon yard. In this building they at once installed the executive offices of the Board of Trade provided offices for the county agricultural agent, fitted up rooms for the free use of the farmers and the farmers' wives—reading rooms and reception rooms for the women, and smoking and waiting rooms for the men. They also provided hiting racks in the rear yards for more than half a hundred teams.

Country Folks Welcome.

When a farmer or his wife or family comes to town the program is somewhat as follows: They can drive into the hitching ground which is covered with cinders and therefore clean and know that they are welcome. There walk leads into the first floor in the Community building to a large waiting room which is supplied with telephone, writing materials, magazines and agricultural bulletins, and exhibits of prize winning products of both town and cocntry.

Everything Convenient.

For the women there are two cheerful rooms and toilet on the second floor that are greatly appreciated by town and country people. Extra wraps can be left at the building. The farmer can either go directly from the meeting room, or if he has any inquiries to make can find the County Agriculturist on the second floor in a large room set aside for the use of the Agriculture Bureau. If he has some matter pertaining to town he wishes to present he can do this to the Managing Secretary of the Board of Trade across the hall where the headquarters of the Board of Trade are located in two large rooms.

A Lunch Room, Too.

There is a lunch room and place for holding small group meetings or cooking demonstrations, in another room on the first floor. The basement and attic convenient for storage comprise the other conveniences of the building.

Did They Use It?

The question that concerned the Board of Trade most was whether the country people would take advantage of such a building if it were provided. This has been answered most emphatically i nthe affirmative. During the opening week of the building several thousand country people have made use of the hitching grounds or building have have been unanimous in their expressions of approval.

A Big Time.

One Saturday a farm auction and chicken and waffle supper were held The country people were invited to send in products for the auction and responded with close to 300 packages which were sold at auction to townspeople totaling close to $100. About 400 people were served at the chicken and waffle supper. The majerial for this super was largely donated by town merchants and country people. The proceeds from this are to be used in defraying some of the expenses of fitting up the building. In addition to the hitching ground in the rear, there are two other hitching grounds maintained in town and plans are being made for more. When either the town or countryman is asked what he thinks of the building, the common expression is "This is fine, we ought to have had it years ago," It does seem now rather strange that some such meeting place has not been provided long before this.

The merchants and business men of Washington began to go out in groups and call on the neighbors in the rural sections, carrying with them a new vision of the meaning of co-operation. They urged the smaller towns and the farmers to organize community betterment clubs.

A 'Funeral."

On one of these trips into Canonsburg, a smaller city in their county, two hundred business men formed a procession and marched down the main street, led by a band playing a dirge and with pallbearers carrying a huge coffin contining the body of "Mr Vicious Competition." They were met by throngs of their rural neighbors and in front of the Yorick club Vicious Competition was cremated with fitting ceremony. From the ashes of Vicious Competition there sprang into existence a new being—"Community Spirit and hundreds sang together. "We Believed in Washington county and want to Know Others Who Do,' to the tune of "We Won't Go Home Until Morning."

A Great Fair.

Just a couple of illustrations will suffice to tell the story of the new spirit.

In the fall of 1915 the Washington county fair had 35,000 paid admissions while the largest number in attendance any previous year was only 18,000 The county community picnic had been an established affair for a number of years. The attendance at this annual event last fall was over 25,000, while the former high mark in attendance had reacned only 5,000.

The Results.

Officials of the Board of Trade estimate that the community building is used daily by more than 100 people, 75 per cent. of whom are farmers. A nominal membership of five dollars a year is now provided for farmers in the board of trade and scores of them are availing themselves of the privilege. The farmers and business men now unite in campaigns for good roads, better live stock, cow testing associations, and in the production of more and better fruit and truck. Five free wagon yards are now found in various sections of the city. They have become acquainted with each other and they really do like each other, and they are building their community by the use of their community building.

And best of all, this idea is growing rapidly until today more than sixty cities and towns in America are living together in peace and harmony with the surrounding country because they use a community building to build up their communities, and because they have learned to abolish the boundary line between town and country.

Biggest Demand for Office Help In Decade at Draughon's College

Any Draughon Graduate, Unemployed, Who Can Write Shorthand, Requested to Call at College Office, Corner Church and Catoma.

J. C. EAGERTON, Manager.

For a quarter of a century Draughon's has been the guiding star to commercial training and has often been imitated, but never equalled. This chain of fifty-two colleges located in sixteen states has more indorsements from bankers than all other business colleges in the South combined which is the strongest evidence of the thoroughness and reliability of these popular and well-equipped schools.

Draughon's "Double Entry Made-Easy and special column feature of bookkeeping saves at last 50 per cent of time and worry to the practical bookkeeper and will enable him to show an exact statement of the business at any day, hour or minute; in other words, it is a complete system of bookkeeping.

Draughon's Colleges teach the Graham-Pittman system of shorthand, which according to the records, is used by over 75 per cent. of the official court reporters of the United States, and Draughon's simplified text-book on this subject is the best known method of presenting shorthand thoroughly and practically.

Draughon's Colleges take no stock in the short systems, but aim to so train their students that they may step from the college to a business office and take up the work without embarrassment. That is why business men want Draughon's Trained students and that is why Draughon's College has a greater demand for office help than it can supply.

Here is an extract from a letter from Robert Abercrombie, stenographer for the Tullis-Gamble Hardware Company, Mongomery, Ala., and which is self-explanatory.

"Allow me to express my thanks and gratitude to you and your teachers for the treatment I received during the two months I was in your Shorthand Department learning Graham Shorthand.

"Several years ago I learned Gregg shorthand in another business college in Montgomery and used it in stenographic work for several months reporting one case for the lawyers in Anniston for whom I worked.

"The outlines in writing Gregg Shorthand were so long and cumbersome that my arm ached when my day's work was done, and I was unable to do satisfactory work. A friend in an adjoining office, writing Graham Shorthand, showed me the simplicity and ease of writing this system; the difference was marked in favor of Graham until I finally gave up stenographic work entirely and entered the mechanical department of a large Southern corporation.

"Last winter I was persuaded by my brother to take up the study of Graham shorthand with you, accepting my present position with the Tullis-Gamble Hardware Company about two months later at a good salary. I am pleased with my position and wish to thank you for referring me to them for the place. I never fail to recommend Draughon's Business College and Graham's Shorthand.

For catalogue, giving ful information about LOW SUMMER RATES, call, phone or write, J. C. Eagerton, Manager Draughon's Practical Business College, Montgomery Ala., corner Church and Catoma streets

How to Market Corn With Success In the South

By H. M. Cottrell

Husk it in the fields as soon as the grains and cob are dry. The kernels usually get dry before the cob. The usual method in the South has been to snap the corn, because it was supposed to protect the kernels against weevils. Careful experiments have shown that snapped corn stored in cribs is often more badly damaged by these insects than corn that is husked.

Throw Out Bad Ears.

While gathering corn in the field, throw out all the rotten, moldy and damp ears, and ears that have been damaged to any considerable extent by weevil. This is easily done by making a box in one end of the wagon and throwing all damaged ears into it. The damaged corn may be fed to hogs or cattle. Do not feed damaged corn to horses or mules. It does not always kill them, but the deaths from this cause are so frequent and so numerous that no planter or farmer can afford to take the risk.

Kill the Weevils.

The worst enemy of corn in the cotton belt is the weevil. When corn shows signs of weevils, it should be fumigated at once with bisulphide of carbon. This chemical is usually called "High Life."

The corn affected by the weevil must be placed in a tight bin or room; every crack and knot-hole must be stopped up. In a building fairly tight, these cracks may be stopped by pasting cloth or paper over them. "High Life" is a gas, and if all cracks in the floor, the sides and upper part of the bin or room holding the corn are not closed airtight, the "High Life" will simply flow out into the air and do no good.

Use of "High Life."

Three pounds of "High Life" are required for each one thousand cubic feet of space in the bin or room in which the corn is stored. An easy rule is to multiply the length, width and height of the bin in feet and divide the result by 330. This will give the number of pounds of "High Life" needed.

Suppose the bin is 30 feet long, 15 feet wide and 12 feet high. Thirty multiplied by 15 equals 450, and this multiplied by 12 equals 5,400; 5,400 divided by 330 gives 16 and a little over. Buy 16 pounds of "High Life" to fumigate the corn. In figuring the space, multiply by the total height of the bin or room, and not just the height of the corn. Suppose the bin is 15 feet in height, and the corn stands only 10 feet high in it. You must use sufficient "High Life" to fumigate the entire 15 feet in height.

Put the "High Life" in shallow pans, scattered over the surface of the corn, or dig holes two or three feet deep in the corn and pour the "High Life" into them. It will not hurt the corn either for seed or feed.

Keep the bin or room tightly sealed for at least 24 hours after applying the "High Life." Three days is better. Open up the bin and air it.

Be Careful.

Keep all lights, lanterns, lighted cigars and pipes away from the bin and the building while "High Life" is being used, and until the bin is opened and ventilated. "High Life," when mixed with air, is likely to explode if it comes in contact with a fire.

Examine the corn two weeks after fumigating, and if there are any signs of weevils, treat again with "High Life" in the same manner as before. It is often necessary to fumigate in January or February.

Store the corn in the ear; examine it two or three times a week, and if it shows signs of becoming damp or of heating, shovel it over and give it thorough ventilaton. Much of this kind of trouble can be avoided if the corn is not gathered until it has become thoroughly dry.

Preparing For Market.

It is best to shell the corn before shipping. It may be shipped in the ear or just as snapped, but the cob and shuck add to the freight.

While shelling, pick out all ears damaged by mold, weevil, dampness or vermin, and do not allow them to go through the sheller.

Grain is graded in all the large markets and paid for on the basis of the poorest grade in the car. A few bad ears in each bushel will lower the grade so as to make a severe cut in the price. When there are only a few damaged ears, the culling out of these few may improve the grade to secure a marked increase in the price. If you have different lots of corn—some good and some damaged—ship them separately, or else the good corn will be sold at the price of the bad.

Men with little experience in shipping often think they can mix a few bushels of rotten, moldy or heated corn with a car load of good corn and not be detected. Usually they lose heavily from this dishonesty.

Shipping Corn.

Ship in carload lots only. The buyers at the large markets are not prepared to handle corn in less than carload lots, and the freight on small lots is much higher per bushel than it is with full carloads.

Ship in bulk unless you know that the buyer wants the corn sacked. When shipping in sacks, have the same weight of corn in each sack. Make this weight per sack either 100, 112 or 140 pounds net. The Federal Food and Drug Act requires that with all corn shipped in sacks from one state to another, each sack shall have the quantity it contains stamped in plain figures.

Do not mix white and yellow corn. White corn usually brings several cents more per bushel in Southern markets. When the two colors are mixed the corn sells at the lower price.

If You Have No Sheller.

Merchants in small towns and cotton ginners should put in shellers. In case individual farmers have small quantities only, the owner of a sheller can arrange to shell on certain days. One man can then bring 50 bushels, another 25 bushels and another 100 bushels, and so on. In this way a full carload can easily be accumulated in one day.

Superior Duplex Grinding Mills

"The Mill That Fills the Bill"

They cover a wider range of grinding than any line of mills made. These mills will successfully grind corn on the cob, corn in the shuck, alfalfa, peavine hay, cotton seed and all small grain.

Rapid Fire Hay Pressers
Full Circle Double Stroke

They Please Others;
They Will Please You

Horse Power Presses $75 to $125
Belt Power Presses $300 to $500

Alabama Machinery & Supply Co.

Montgomery, Ala.

"Quick Shippers" "Service"

Your Cattle, Hogs and Sheep will bring the HIGHEST MARKET PRICE if Shipped to the National Live Stock Commission Co.

National Stock Yards, Ill.

MARKET REPORTS FREE ON REQUEST.

You Can Make Good Money

Write me for particulars regarding my proposition. NO CAPITAL REQUIRED. INFORMATION WITHOUT OBLIGATION.

Our Perfect Protection Policy Guarantees Big Income to Live Agents.

FLOYD B. POWELL,

AGENCY MANAGER.

BELL BUILDING, MONTGOMERY, ALA.

CONIFER LUMBER COMPANY Long Leaf Yellow Pine

Lumber, Laths Shingles, Flooring, Ceiling, Siding, Finish Timbers.

All kinds and grades Heart Lumber. Quick Service. Phone 1315.

Retail Yard N. Court St., Montgomery, Ala.

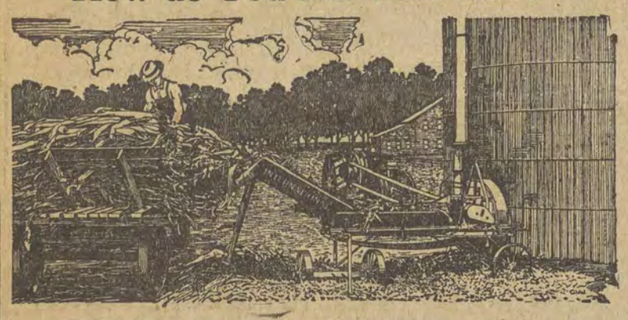
To Farmers of Boll Weevil Sections:-

THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG will do effective and rapid work in brushing to the ground boll weevils and punctured squares.

THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is a strong, practical and economical device for getting rid of the most weevils in the QUICKEST TIME and the CHEAPEST WAY. It is used and highly recommended by some of the most successful farmers in Mississippi and Alabama.

THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is the best device known for the use of tenant farmers in fighting the weevil.

THE DRAG DESCRIBED



The Drag is a steel rod that holds a light durable chain, the rod and chain being attached to the beam of the plow stock with a casting arranged so as to be adjustable to the size of plants at the time for plowing. The rod is placed at an angle to the beam and as the plow proceeds down the row the rod bends down the plant over towards the middle between the rows and the chain agitates the plant sufficiently to cause the Weevil and infested squares to fall off into the middle of the row. The attachment is reversible as well as adjustable, up and down, and can be used on either right or left side of the plow below or above the beam.

We do not desire to create the impression among farmers that any device will prevent all the damage the weevil usually causes, unless the approved measures for control be carefully followed.

Write us so we can take care of your order before the growing season starts.

Robinson-Erhart Co. Selma, Ala.

How do You Fill Your Silo?

CORN—always a wonderful crop—is more of a king each year. That is not to be wondered at since ensilage is proving so cheap and economical a feed. More and more we realize the extra profits in the all-year-'round use of green fodder.

In the same proportion International ensilage cutters have grown popular. Here are some International big points.

There's the famous special concave knife, with inward shear cut, cutting at outer edge first, hence the greatest volume is cut near the shaft with least power. The handy knife grinder that is always on the machine grinds one of the two sets of knives while the other is working. It's a water stone, leaving the temper in the knives. Perfect adjustment of knife blades to cutter bar can always be maintained, saving power and doing good work. Heavy channel steel frame, trussed, hot riveted, so that working parts can't get out of line. Self-feed keeps cutting always even; silage may be cut in various lengths. Blower pipe is adjustable to any angle; silage may be delivered to a silo of any height. Full equipment of safety devices.

These features make the International the best to buy. See the dealer who sells them. Write to us for the interesting booklet, "A Silo for Every Farm."

International Harvester Company of America
(Incorporated)

CHICAGO USA

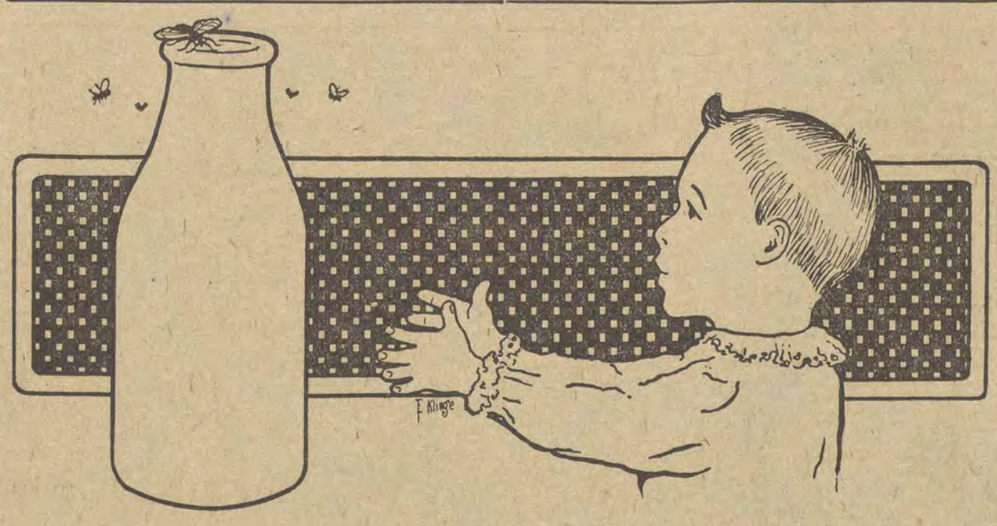
Champion Deering McCormick Milwaukee Osborne Plano

WHITE FARMERS ON SMALL FARMS

Have Made Covington County the Most Progressive In Alabama

The farmers in Covington County have gotten out of debt. White farmers raising corn, cattle and hogs on small farms are the answer. Covington County not only raises enough to feed itself, but ships out thousands of dollars worth. Of course Covington County has grown faster than any county in Alabama. Things are going to be even better. The most modern packing plant in the South is just being completed at Andalusia, which will take care of all the cattle, hogs and poultry that can be produced.

All we need now in Covington County is more people. That's why we want you. That's why we will sell you 20 to 40 acres of cut over land and give you



10 to 20 Years to Pay For Your Farm

This is an opportunity you can't afford to neglect. At least write us for full information.

WAITS REALTY CO.

ANDALUSIA, ALABAMA

Guarding Milk to Prevent Spread of Dangerous Bacteria

The hot days also bring the flies, the great germ carriers, and the clouds of dust laden with bacteria, which, when coming to rest on milk receptacles, may easily contaminate the milk.

Bacteria Increase.

Milk is regarded as a natural culture medium for bacteria, and the rapidity with which the various forms will multiply under the proper temperatures is astonishing. It has been shown that if a cubic centimeter (about one-half teaspoonful) of milk containing ten bacteria is kept at 68 temperature for twenty-four hours, the bacteria will have multiplied into about 61,000. In the same milk, if held at 50 degrees, the growth of bacteria would be very small, possibly as low as 40 in twenty-four hours. Milk which contains a large number of bacteria is either not fresh or has come from a diseased cow or has otherwise been contaminated.

Flies Are Dangerous.

Flies are possibly the most dangerous bacteria carriers which are likely to come in contact with milk. These scavengers may convey the germs of typhoid fever or other contagious diseases from the sick room or excreta to the milk. Typhoid epidemics have been caused by flies spreading the germs. Milk should be guarded from flies as vigorously as you would avoid exposure to disease.

Must Be Cooled.

Cows are now out on pasture, and milk is more easily produced under sanitary conditions than during the winter months when the cows are stabled more. Milk may be handled by the most correct and sanitary methods known, and yet if it is not cooled immediately after milking and kept cool until consumed, it very soon begins to change and grow sour. In fact, the bacterial content increases rapidly as long as the milk remains above fifty degrees. The bacteria are dormant or increase slowly at a lower temperature. For this reason every precaution for keeping milk cold from the time it is produced until it reaches the consumer is essential, and especially so during the warm weather.

Cleanliness Necessary.

Milk may absorb impurities whenever it is exposed to the air or placed in unclean vessels. The amount or degree of contamination depends on the cleanliness of the air and of the utensil. Even the air of a so-called clean room contains some impurities. If the producer and dealer have done their duty, there is left at the consumer's door a bottle of clean, cold, unadulterated milk. But the consumer also has responsibilities in handling milk so that it continues to be fit for consumption, especially as food for babies. The milk in the home may be placed in unclean vessels, or exposed unnecessarily to the air, or not kept cool until the time of using. Thus things may happen to the milk affecting its quality many of which occur through carelessness.

Receiving Milk at Home.

The expression, "a bottle of clean, cold, unadulterated milk," describes the kind of milk which should be delivered to the home. The method of dipping milk from large cans and pouring it into the customer's receptacle in the street with all the incident exposure to the air, not always the cleanest, is a bad practice.

Drawing milk from the faucet of a retailer's can is almost as bad as dipping milk, although the milk is not exposed to the air as long as by the dipping process. Besides the insanitary part of this method, some consumers, unless the milk is kept well agitated, are likely to receive less than their proportion of cream.

The custom of setting out at night an uncovered vessel which collects thousands of bacteria from the street dust before the milk is put into it is obviously very insanitary, and yet it is practiced to a large extent. If milk is to be received in a bowl or pail by the consumer, it is worth while to have it delivered personally to some member of the family, or, if the receptacle is to be placed in waiting for the milk deliverer, it should be covered with a plate, or better still, a glass preserving jar may be used in which nothing but milk is put. The jars with the glass tops are preferable; no rubber bands should be used.

Avoid Sunlight.

Direct sunlight on the bottle of milk warms it rapidly and increases the bacterial content. Milk which is delivered very early in the morning, say 4 a. m., and remains out of doors until 9 or 10 o'clock, is very likely to become warm and less fit for human consumption than if it were taken in the house and placed in the refrigerator early in the morning.

Keep Covered.

Milk should be transferred from the original bottle into another receptacle until just before consumption. The bottle should be kept covered with a paper cap or an inverted tumbler as long as the milk is in it. Milk deteriorates by exposure to the air in the pantry, kitchen or nursery. Housewives are familiar with the ability milk has to absorb smells from strong foods like fish, cabbage or onions. It is obvious, therefore, that such foods should be kept out of the refrigerator which contains milk.

If the milk is received in a bowl, pail, or other receptacle instead of a bottle, the same rules apply to the keeping of the milk as those mentioned above for bottled milk. Milk from the grocery store or bakery which is kept in a can, open most of the time, and possibly without refrigeration, is to be strictly avoided.

Care of the Refrigerator.

The refrigerator, unless kept scrupulously clean, often is in itself a source of the bad flavor in milk. The refrigerator should be inspected at short intervals, at which times the outlet for the melted ice should be freed, the ice rack cleaned, and the place where the food is kept scalded with a sal-soda solution. Even though the refrigerator is cold, a few drops of spilled milk, or a small particle of food neglected, wil soon contaminate it.

Care of Bottes and Utensils.

Milk bottles are made for milk and not to hold sundry other foods. As soon as the milk bottle is empty, it should be rinsed with lukewarm water until it is clean and then set bottom side up to drain. Bottles should never be returned in a dirty or filthy condition. All utensils with which milk comes in contact should be rinsed, washed and scalded every time they are used. When cleaning these utensils, do not wash them in dishwater or wipe with ordinary dish towels. First rinse them and then boil in clear water and set away unwiped. If the receptacles are hot, they will soon become dry without wiping.

When a baby is bottle fed, every time the feeding bottle and nipple are used they should be rinsed in lukewarm water, washed in hot water to which a small amount of washing soda has been added, and then scalded. Never use a rubber tube between the bottle and nipple.

Butter and Egg Club Helps Us Get 30 Cents a Pound for Butter

By J. T. McKee, Florence, Alabama

A great deal of time is spent talking about what we might do or make if we only had certain things that we have not. Why not take care of what we have? Peddlers are going throughout Alabama buying, along with other things, butter at from ten to fifteen cents a pound. This butter, taken up by the peddlers is sent to the packers, worked over, shipped back into the state and is sold under the name of "Renovated Butter" at from thirty to thirty-five cents a pound wholesale.

The only thing necessary to enable us to market hundreds of thousands of pounds of country butter at not less than thirty cents a pound is to standardize the quality of the butter and the kind of package in which it is shipped.

A club has been started known as the "Normal Butter and Egg Club." The members of this club are all following the same directions in making and packing their butter and are shipping it by parcel post. On the 22nd day of June three families, living fifteen miles from Florence, mailed twenty pounds of butter at a cost of thirty-two cents postage, put up in two packages. This butter was mailed at nine a. m. stayed on the rural deliverman's buggy until three p. m., was put into the St. Joseph, Tenn., postoffice where it stayed until eight p. m,. was then put on the train and brought to Florence where it was kept in the postoffice the rest of the night and finally delivered to the person to whom it was addressed the next morning. Every pound of it was in first class condition and was sold at thirty cents a pound. Not one of these families kept ice. Before they began to ship butter by parcel post, they sold it at fifteen cents a pound. What they are doing hundreds of homes in every county in Alabama can do and furnish Alabama markets with Alabama butter.

The requirements for membership into our club are simple and practical. Each member signs an agreement to do the following things:

To guarantee every pound of butter by agreeing to replace any package that is unsatisfactory or to refund the money upon the return of the butter.

To read carefully Bulletin No. 541, "Farm Butter-Making" and to follow as nearly as possible any suggestion sent out by the club.

To use a dairy thermometer in regulating the temperature in handling the cream and milk.

To use in molding the butter a brick shaped mold of the type selected for the club.

To use the parchment paper, butter cartons and carton containers selected for the club.

To stamp every pound of butter with my initials and the date the butter was made.

To forfeit my membership in the club when I find I cannot make the grade of butter that will satisfy the trade worked up by the club.

Directions For Success

Now here are the directions that we give every member in order that he or she will make a complete success of the work. Read these directions and you will agree, I am sure, that they should be followed whether you are making butter for market or your own table.

Cleanliness in everything connected with the handling of the milk is absolutely essential.

Keep the hair from around the udder of the cow clipped short and use a good brush to clean off the cow before milking.

Wash off the udder and dry with a clean towel and use the towel during milking to keep the hands dry.

Tie a piece of cheese cloth over the milk pail and milk through it.

Strain through a double piece of cheese cloth.

Boil the strainer cloths every day. Scald and air all vessels used in milking and churning every day and wash out the churn with lime water twice every week.

Do not allow flies to get in the milk the milk vessels or the strainer cloth because they may leave the germs of typhoid fever, tuberculosis, dysentery, etc., in the milk or on the butter.

Immediately after straining the milk, cool it down just as cool as your water or spring will make it. Hold it at this temperature until you have enough for churning. Never mix warm and cool milk.

When the milk is put out to ripen or turn, it should be kept at about 70 degrees temperature until a nice clean acid taste has developed, then the milk should be cooled down to 55 degrees, if possible, in the summer time, and to about 60 degrees in the winter time before churning.

Cream can be handled more easily than milk and will make a better grade of butter than the whole milk.

By using the deep setting cans or jars the milk can be kept in enough water to keep it cool while the cheam rises after which it can be skimmed without the loss of much cream.

While the cream is ripening, it should be stirred occasionally so that the ripening will be uniform throughout.

When through churning remove the milk and put into the churn with the butter as much water as there was milk and churn a few times in order to wash the milk out of the butter.

Take up the butter, work out the heaviest of the water, salt the butter and put it into a vessel that can be put into fresh water until it is as cool as fresh water will make it.

Take the butter, work out the water, mold in a brick-shape mold. Push the print from the mold to the middle of a sheet of parchment that has been dipped in cold salt water; wrap at once never touching the butter with the hand; lay the wrapped print in a vessel lined with a soft towel; cover with the towel and put away to harden. This vessel can be suspended in a well or put into a cold water tank if a spring house is not convenient.

A few minutes before you are ready to mail the package, put the pounds of butter into the cartons, put the cartons into the container, wrap the container with several thicknesses of newspaper and then wrap with heavy brown paper and mail your package.

Milk, cream or butter should never be left where there are any distinct odors, such as onions, or cheese or damp musty cellars.

Use the finest grade of table salt for butter.

Water that is to be used in washing the buttermilk out of the butter should be strained through a good cloth strainer to keep all trash that may be in the water out of the butter.

The barrel churn is the best form of churn to use.

Do not churn until the butter has gathered into one solid mass or even into masses as large as your first, but quit when the grains of butter are about the size of grains of corn so that the buttermilk can be more thoroughly washed out and the salt more evenly distributed.

It a spring house is impossible, a cold water tank can be made similar to the one on page 28 of Bulletin No. 541, "Farm Butter Making."

Always use a wooden ladle in handling the butter. Never handle it with the bare hands. See page 25 of Bulletin No. 541.

Learn how to use coloring so that you may keep your butter of a uniform color throughout the year.

Read and re-read, constantly, Bulletin 541 and you will become an expert butter maker.

How if you want any further information about our Butter and Egg Club and if you would like to start one in your community I will be glad help you if you will write me.

J. T. McKee, Florence, Ala.

Ticks Knock Prices Down All the Time

There are two reasons why cattle in a ticky country are worth less than in a tick-free one. They weigh less and they bring less per pound. They bring less because they cannot be sold on the open market but must be disposed of in quarantine pens for immediate slaughter only. Experienced dealers estimate that buyers offer from fifty cents to two dollars a hundred weight less for cattle from below the quarantine line and the owner, who cannot transship his herd to another market or sell the animals as feeders, is in no position to stand out for a better price.

Ticky cattle weigh less because they are scrubs to begin with and because the tick sucks the blood they need to make flesh. Experiments have shown that when the ticks are abundant they will take in the course of the year 200 pounds of blood from a thousand-pound steer. They don't take it all at once, of course, but they take it nevertheless and the steer, in order to live, has to make new blood. While he is busy at that, he is not likely to put on much weight. Fattening ticky steers is like trying to keep a leaky barrel full; there is a lot of waste in the process.

Furthermore, as all cattlemen know, there is more money in grade stock than in scrubs. Elsewhere in the country farmers are turning their attention to grading up areir herds, to securing animals that will respond to good treatment and feed; in the tick-infested sections of the South this has been impossible for no one will risk bringing pure-bred bulls into a ticky county to die from Texas fever.

Both directly and indirectly, therefore, the tick keeps down the weight of Southern cattle and the eradication of the pest is essential if the Southern beef producer is to compete on even terms with producers elsewhere. The matter is as vital to the small farmer as to the large cattle owner. Students of agriculture are all agreed that the average Southern farm today has too little stock upon it for its own good. The reason is obvious. Under the conditions created by the tick, cattle raising is not a sufficiently attractive industry to appeal to the average man. Without the tick, the business assumes a different aspect. This has been abundantly demonstrated in those sections in which the tick has been eradicated. Almost invariably the tick.s disappearance is accompanied by an increase in the quantity and an improvement in the quality of the county's live stock.

FARM LOANS

Loans of $1,000 to $50,000 on well improved farm lands at low rate of interest.

Five years to pay.

L. W. Martin, 27 S. Perry St., Montgomery, Ala.

COMFORT CONVENIENCE SERVICE

The Gay-Teague Hotel

(FIRE PROOF)

MONTGOMERY, ALA. E. C. TAYLOR, Manager.

Alabama Products Co.

The Farmers Exchange

115 Coosa Street Montgomery, Ala.

We make it our business to find you a market for anything you may have to sell. Farm products, beef and milk cattle, hogs, pork and stock, sheep, goats, etc.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

The Best Gravel——

Washed and Screened Sand and Gravel for Concrete Silos and Tanks and all kinds of concrete work. Prices right.

Cook & Laurie Gravel Co.

14 COOSA ST. MONTGOMERY, ALA.

Good Salesman Wanted To Sell Our Fruit Trees

Best terms known to the Nursery World. Steady employment good money made selling our excellent stock. Satisfaction guaranteed. The chance of a lifetime for Hustlers—none other need apply.

Cedar Hill Nursery and Orchard Co.

WINCHESTER, TENN.

DO IT TODAY

Farmers and Stock Raisers should keep in close touch with the markets. If you would be well informed as to LIVE STOCK PRICES on the most important live stock market south of the Ohio river, subscribe for

Bourbon Stock Journal

Published tri-weekly, price $1.00 per year.

Write William A. Burnett, Editor, Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, Ky.

ARE YOU RAISING FRUIT OR FEEDING INSECTS?

STOP FEEDING INSECTS!
RAISE FRUIT!!!
SPRAY YOUR TREES!
WITH
Van Antwerp's
THE BEST ONLY
IMPROVED
SCHNARR'S INSECTICIDE
ONE GALLON CANS $1.00
BY THE BARREL 50¢

WRITE FOR COMPLETE PRICE LIST, DIRECTIONS, TESTIMONIALS

VAN ANTWERP'S SEED STORE

INSECTICIDE DEPARTMENT

VAN ANTWERP BUILDING., MOBILE ALA.

WE WILL TELL YOU THE NEAREST DEALER HANDLING SCHNARR'S

Get In Touch With Kratzer

You can ship him all the milk and cream from your herd and get in CASH FROM YOUR COWS.

A steady market all the year.

It will pay you to investigate. Just write, phone or call on

Kratzer's Creamery

Montgomery, Alabama

A Texas Wonder

The Texas Wonder cures kidney and bladder troubles, dissolves gravel, cures diabetes, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and irrgularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist, will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two months' treatment, and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Send for testimonials from this and other states. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2926 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists.

Poland Chinas

Bred gilts and pigs, 2 months to 6 months. Big bone type, all subject to registration. Very best breeding.

Clearview Farm

MULBERRY, ALA.
F. M. Howard, Owner.

Hampshire Hogs

Herd Boars, Brood Sows, Gilts bred and open. Pigs all ages for sale at all times. Nothing but well belted stock shipped. Prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed.

LAKE VIEW STOCK FARM,
Putnam, Ills.

Beef cattle prices will probably never go down very much. There has been more and more money in cattle from year to year.

How much stuff have you got canned for family use this winter.

Time to get that garden clean of weeds.

Get ready to turn under the cotton stalks as soon as the crop is picked. "A carpet of green over every farm in winter."

Be gettin gthe hogs ready to market.

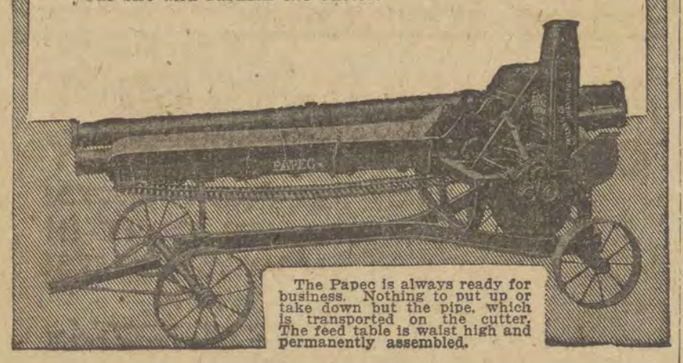
YOU'VE TRIED THE REST

Now Use the Best
No Dosing—No Drenching
Stock Lick It—
Stock Like It
Every Animal
Its Own Doctor
Drop Brick in Feed Box—
It Will Do the Rest
A Handy Medicine—
It Salts 'em Too
Saves Time, Labor and
Veterinary Bills
Best Worm Medicine and
Tonic Ever Produced
Contains Copperas for worms, Nux Vomica a tonic, Sulphur for the blood, Saltpetre for the kidneys and the purest Dairy Salt.

Blackman Stock Remedy Co.
Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Diversification This Fall

We need it now more than ever—winter cover crops and livestock pasturing on them to make up for summer losses. We believe in and aid in real diversification for Alabama.



Autauga Banking & Trust Co.

Prattville, Alabama

C. E. Thomas, President
C. G. Smith, Cashier
R. L. Faucett, Vice-Pres.
M. A. Graham, Vice-Pres.

Papec Silage Cutters
and
Concrete Silos

Will make up this winter for summer losses. Our hands are full building silos and supplying Papec Cutters so write, call on, or wire us at once so we can build your silo and furnish the cutter.

The Papec is always ready for business. Nothing to put up or take down but the pipe, which is transported on the cutter. The feed table is waist high and permanently assembled.

Let The Papec Cutter Fill Your Silo

Montgomery Lime & Cement Co.

Montgomery, Ala. A. C. Davis, President.

Builders of Concrete Silos.

Everybody stops at the
Exchange Hotel
Leslie D. Fairchild, Mgr.

Holstein Heifers

30 Well Bred, Good Colored Individuals.
GIBSON & BELL
Bourbon Stock Yards,
Louisville, Ky.

BLACK BELT FARMS IN DAL LAS COUNTY

You will find your opportunity on a Dallas County Farm.

E. E. SECOR

Selma, Alabama.

W. D. SCOTT
LIVESTOCK AUCTIONEER
Sales Conducted Anywhere
ARLINGTON, GA.

Care of the Boar, the Sow, and Feeding Pigs for Good Profits

By H. M. Cottrell

This is the third of a series of splendid articles by Mr. Cottrell on raising hogs for profit in the Central South. These articles should be of great value to those farmers who are raising only a few hogs or who are growing herds of considerable size. This is the practical, sensible information that our people want and Mr. Cottrell gives it. Read and remember the facts in this article and watch for the next one.

Boar and His Management.

The young boar should be pushed with growing feeds so that he will make a good gain every day. Stunting even for a short time will permanently injure his value. He should weigh 350 to 400 pounds when a year old.

After reaching full growth, he should be fed, when not in service, bulk feeds that will keep him full and contended, in good flesh, but not fat. Pasture in summer and in winter alfalfa or cow pea hay sweet potatoes, turnips and a small allowance of grain will do this.

A few weeks before the beginning of the breeding season, the rough feed should be reduced and the grain increased so that he will be in perfect condition and good flesh, but not fat. He should be fed liberally during the breeding season and his bowels kept in good condition.

He should serve a sow but once, and not more than two sows a day. The chief cause of pigs being born dead or so weak that they soon or live to be puny is from allowing the boar to serve a sow many times. It is a sure way to reduce the number of strong pigs in a litter. The boar should never be allowed to run with the sows. It will keep him better natured if he runs outside the breeding season with the shotes.

The boar should have daily attention to see that he is healthy, comfortable, in clean quarters, has an abundant supply of clean water and is free from lice, worms and skin diseases. He should have a half-acre pasture for exercise. His tushes should be cut off as often as they show considerable length. He should not be used until 12 to 18 months of age, and rightly fed and handled, is profitable for six or eight years.

Sow and Her Management.

The sow should be pushed the first year of her life with muscle and bone making feeds, such as alfalfa or clover pasture, skim milk, tankage, mineral matter and a moderate amount of grain. She should weigh 300 to 375 pounds when 12 months of age. Where this method of feeding is followed, it is safe for her have the first litter of pigs when she is a year old. A sow, properly fed and handled, should be a profitable breeder for eight or nine years.

The mature sow in the cotton-growing states should have two litters a year. The period of gestation is 112 to 116 days. The beginner will find it easier to have the first litters come early in April and the last litters the last ten days of September. He will have the most favorable weather conditions, in both spring and fall in which to learn how to manage young pigs. The experienced breeder can arrange to have the pigs farrowed any month in the year that best suits his feed and labor conditions.

Before Farrowing.

The sow, while pregnant should have muscle and bone-making feeds that will develop size and strong vital organs in her unborn pigs—alfalfa or clover pasture or leafy hay from these crops, skim milk, cow peas, tankage and a full supply of mineral matter. Corn is deficient in the materials necessary to develop the unborn pigs. The sow should have much exercise.

A blow or a strain of any kind to to belly of the pregnant sow is likely to result in pigs dead at birth, or pigs born the wrong way, with the consequent injury to the sow, or her death. Sows had to step over a six-inch board in passing through an opening between their yard and pasture. There were many dead pigs at farrowing, and some of the sows died from trouble while giving birth. The ground next to a hog pen was eight inches lower than the floor, and the brood sows had to climb over this step—dead pigs and dead sows at farrowing time was the consequence. Potatoes were dug with a plow and the land left in ridges. Pregnant sows had to travel over these to get to a field. At farrowing time there were many dead pigs, and two sows died. A boar allowed to run with sows that are bred will frequently knock them around and bring the same trouble. Horses or cattle running in a lot with brood sows will often injure the sows the same way. Not over five or ten bred sows should be allowed to sleep together, as crowding in cold weather may result in losses at farrowing time Pregnant sows should not be allowed to run with fattening hogs.

Pig-eating is usually caused by constipation or over-feeding, immediately after the birth of the pigs. The bowels should be kept in proper condition by exercise and pasture or alfalfa, clover or pea vine hay. Small feeds of roots are good, but heavy feeding of roots to the pregnant sow causes pigs dead or weak at birth.

At Farrowing.

Two weeks before the pigs are expected the sow should be placed in a farrowing pen with a small yard attached where she can exercise. An "A" house makes a good shelter and a pen can be made of three panels of wire or board fencing. Give her dry shelter free from draft, and keep her bowels loose. A small feed of tankage twice daily is beneficial. Keep a record of breeding and arrange to have all the sows farrow at about the same time, so that they can be watched day and night.

Have just enough bedding or comfort. Let the sow alone while she is farrowing; it is rare that a sow needs any help at this time if she has been treated right before farrowing. In severe weather, if the sow is in an "A" house hang a lantern to the roof and it will supply sufficient heat to keep the new-born pigs from chilling.

After Farrowing.

Give the sow all the water she wants for the first twenty-four hours after the pigs are born, but no grain. For the first three or four days after the first twenty-four hours, give her all the water she will drink and just a small quantity of feed. Increase the quantity of feed slowly after the first week, until at the end of the third week. she is given all the feed she will eat.

When the sow is given warm, rich slop or a full feed of grain just after the pigs are born a strong flow of milk is forced. The new-born pigs get too much milk and have diarrhoea, which oten kills them. Whole litters are lost from this cause. The pigs can not take all the milk and the sow's udder becomes swollen feverish and sore. When the pigs start to suckle the pain is so intense that in agony she jumps up, kills and eats them.

The profits of a whole year are frequently thrown away by neglect at fraquently thrown away by neglect at farrowing time and the week following. Many farmers lose half to two-thirds of the pigs at this time.

Watch the sow and pigs and slowly increase the feed as the pigs can safely take the milk. You can tell by their dropping. Three weeks after farrowing the sow should be given all the milk-producing feeds she will eat—pasture, skim milk, tankage, peanuts and some grain. One of the best and cheapest home-grown milk-forcing feeds is Spanish peanuts; the tops and nuts cured together like hay. The sows and young pigs will eat the nuts and the leaves, and the pigs will make an unusually rapid growth. The sow and pigs should have all the mineral matter they will eat.

Pigs will begin to nibble at feed when about three weeks old. Give them a little skim milk in a trough separate from the sow. After they get to drinking well, let them have a little Spanish peanuts, corn or oats. Clean the trough before each feed and do not give them more than they will eat up clean. They should have access to pasture after they are three weeks old.

Pigs should not be weaned until they are 8 or 9 weeks old. When it comes time to wean, cut down the sow's ration to water and alfalfa or cow pea hay. She will dry up quickly without injury to her udder. When the pigs are taken away from a sow while she is giving a large quantity of milk, her udder is often ruined and she becomes unable to suckle a second litter.

The pigs should be fed from three to five times a day when first weaned. They should have skim milk, Spanish peanuts or tankage to take the place of their mother's milk, and all the mineral matter they will eat.

Cheap Growth On Pigs

The amount of money made on a pig between weaning and marketing it determined chiefly by the large quantity of cheap forage and the small quantity of grain that can be used and have him make good gains every week. The first object is to develop bone, muscle, frame and size. When the desired size has been reached he should be fattened quickly.

After the pig gets over weaning and gets to eating pasture well, feed some grain twice a day. When he weighs 75 pounds, feed grain once a day and that at night. When given no grain in the morning, his intense appetite will force him to get up early and eat a large quanity of pasture. This will make him grow fast on a cheap feed and will round him out and give him a large capacity. A small feed of grain at night will bring him home to feed, rest and shelter, and some grain is necessary for a profitable growth. The pasture must be abundant. This method is a failure with scant pastures.

A pig should have some grain every day. A 75-pound pig needs 1 1-2 pounds of grain daily, while having abundant, tender pasture; a 100-pound pig needs 2 pounds of grain daily, and a 150-pound, growing pig needs 3 pounds of grain daily.

On a farm with rich land, corn is the cheapest grain to raise; on thin land, Spanish peanuts will furnish two or three times as much feed as corn. Soy beans make a good grain feed and are adapted to thin land.

Growing pigs should have fresh, clean water and mineral matter always before them and should have shade in summer.

Fattening The Pig

In the cotton-growing states the pig may be fattened largely on feeds that he will harvest himself when the fattening is done in the fall. Plant early cow peas, early and medium soy beans, Spanish peanuts and sweet potatoes in separate patches. When the earliest crop is ready, set posts and stretch a woven wire fence around a field that they will harvest in ten days or two weeks. When the first field is about finished, stretch wire around a second, and so on until all the fields have been "hogged down." A roll of wire is not expensive, and it is cheaper to cultivate all the crops when they are in one large field than if on land divided into several small fields by permanent fences.

Early cow peas will mature in August, soy beans early in September and Spanish peanuts and sweet potatoes in late September and October. Turn the pigs into the cow peas as soon as the first pods are ripe. Have enough cow peas to last until the soy-beans are ready. Keep the pigs on soy beans until the peanuts and sweet potatoes are ready. Let the pigs pasture the peanuts and sweet potatoes at the same time.

The hogs will gather all these crops themselves and if the supply is sufficient will be fully fattened by the time they have finished the peanuts and sweet potatoes. While well fattened, the fat will be too soft. The hogs should be put in a clean dry pen having comfortable shelter, and the fat hardened by about three weeks feeding of corn and cotton seed meal.

For fattening in the winter and spring sweet potatoes may be stored in a cheap house, and Spanish peanuts harvested with the nuts and and tops cured together like hay. The two fed together make a cheap fattening ration. Sweet potatoes and cotton seed meal may be used for fattening according to the method of Dr. Morgan.

Cow peas may be sown in the corn and after the corn is harvested, pigs may be turned in to eat the cow peas and the corn that was missed. On rich land, the hogs will make $10.00 an acre for each acre that they glean in this way.

A row of corn and a row of speckled early velvet beans may be planted, alternating through the field. Harvest the corn and turn in the pigs to fatten on the feed that in left.

Planting Bur Clover the Great Cover Crop

Among the special advantages of bur clover is the fact that good stands can often be obtained from year to year without additional seeding. When once established on pasture lands bur clover will reseed itself indefinitely, provided the plants are allowed to mature some seed at least every other year. Its use has also resulted in many instances in materially increasing the yield of cotton.

Sowing The Seed.

Bur clover should always be shown in late summer or fall. In the cotton states the best tie for seeding is the month of September, but it may be seeded in August, and seedings as late as October often give favorable results even as far north as South Carolina. Seedings later than October, however, are to be avoided whenever possible, as but little fall and winter growth is usually secured from such plantings.

When the seed is sown in the bur, broadcasting is the practicable method To obtain a full stand by this method from three to six bushels of seed per acre are necessary. After sowing, a light harrowing should be given. In the regions however which are well adapted to bur clover it is also much more economical as a rule to begin with a light seeding and to depend in subsequent years on the volunteer crop when this is practicable.

Lack of inoculation apparently has often been the cause of failure in establishing bur-clover crops especially when hulled seed was sown. Usually when seed is sown in the bur there are enough bacteria in the dust on the burs to insure inoculation. It is desirable, however, in planting b clover for the first time ,that farmers do not go to the expense of purchasing a large quantity of seed, but that they plant a comparatively small area, inoculating the soil by the use of pure cultures. When once a patch of bur clover has been grown successfully on a farm the whole farm can easily be inoculated by scattering soil from the places where the bur clover grew successfully.

Rotating With other Crops.

Bur clover may be used as a winter crop in rotation with any cultivated summer crop. Among rotations that have been suggested the following seem desirable:

First year: Cotton; bur clover sown between the rows September 1.

Second year: Corn or soy beans, followed by bur clover.

Third year: Cotton.

A less simple rotation is the following:

First year: Cotton; bur clover sown between the rows September 1.

Second year: Corn, followed by winter oats.

Third year: Oats, followed by soy beans or cowpeas, preferably in rows. Bur clover sown in the rows September 1. If the soy beans or cowpeas are broadcasted, the bur clover should not be sown before the crop is harvested.

Fourth year: Cotton.

After bur clover has been once successfully grown stands can usually be secured in such intertilled summer crops as cotton, corn, soy beans, or sorghums. In broadcasted crops, however, such as soys beans, millet and cowpeas the shade is so dense that the young bur-clover plant for the most part perish.

Keep Up Milk Flow Throughout August

During the hot weather of August the milk flow of the average herd drops down nearly half. The heat and the condition of the pastures common at that time of the year are the main causes of this drop. The flies generally blamed are of much less importance than other conditions. The real cause is the failure of the animals to eat sufficient feed. Poor pastures, heat, and flies may all contribute to this result. It will be observed that during the hot weather, the cows will graze but little and come to the barn at night evidently hungry. To produce three gallons of milk a day a cow has to gather at least 100 or 125 pounds of grass. If the pastures are short and the weather hot, generally this much grass will not be gathered and soon the milk flow goes down.

The influence of these summer conditions cannot be removed but may be improved. The main thing is to see that the cows do not lack food. They should be in the pasture at night and during the earliest, coolest part of the day. If the pasture is short, feed silage or green crops. It is well known to all experienced with dry cattle that when the milk flow goes down once for lack of feed it is impossible to bring it back to where it was before by better feeding later. To get a high production of milk during the year the cow must be kept at a high level of production all the time. For this reason do not neglect the cows during the hot weather and expect them to come back strong again when conditions become better in the fall. Keep them going all the time.

RIVERSIDE DUROC HOG FARM

FOR SALE—125 March and February pigs by Superba Star No. 68191 and Defender's Wonder 1st. 20 fall gilts and six fall boars by Superba Star. The best blood lines. Every pig guaranteed.

T. J. RILEY,
158 St. Frances Street, Mobile, Alabama

SOUTHERN BRED HAMPSHIRES

REGISTERED—I am booking orders for January, February and March pigs sired by the $800 Paulsen's Model, out of sows of quality. Prices right.

JNO. J. SHAFFER, JR., Ellendale P. O., La.,

ADMIRAL, 58,909, SON OF ILLUSTRATOR HEADS MY HERD OF DUROC-JERSEYS

Right now I have a number of registered pigs for sale. Write for description and prices.

VANDIVER DUROC FARM

H. F. Vandiver, Mgr. Montgomery, Ala.

KENTUCKY HERD OF HAMPSHIRES

Largest herd in South. Has won over 500 premiums. Write us

HUGHES ATKINSON, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

PURE BRED DUROCS

Boars, Sows, bred and open Gilts , and Pigs to those who want best breding. Write for prices and p edigrees.

CREOLA STOCK FARM, Creola, Ala:
ELMER R. S LY, Manager.

DUROCS

Registered boars and pigs, bred gilts and sows of most noted blood lines. Write for pedigrees and prices.

W. H. KING, Luverne, Ala.

PURE BRED HAMPSHIRE HOGS

Boars ready for service, bred gilts and pigs of the best blood lines at reasonable prices. For pamphlet and information write

WATERPROOF PLANTATION
John D. Minor, Houma, La.

HAMPSHIRES for SOUTHERN FARMERS

Get in touch with me when in the market for the best bred hogs.
W. F. YINGST, State Center, Iowa.

LOOKOUT LAD 20371—GENERAL WICKWARE 26879

Two of largest boars of the breed at head of my herd. Some fancy Sept. boars and bred gilts for fall farrow. Write for descriptions and prices.

1380 acres devoted to Hampshires.

WICKFIELD FARM, Box 101, Cantril, Ia.

FAIR VIEW FARM

Special Berkshire offering. 50 3 mo. old registered pigs, $10.00 and $15.00, liberal discount on 3 or more. Few more big bred sows, bred and open gilts and service boars. Quality and breeding unexcelled.

Write for particulars.

FAIR VIEW FARM
PALMETTO. GA.

MOST PROFITABLE GRASS HOG IN THE WORLD

THE HAMPSHIRE HOG has won the title of being the greatest Grass Hog and able to put on more pounds at less cost than any other hog in America. This statement has been proven by experiment test and large feeders for the market. For information and free literature address,

E. C. STONE, Sec'y, HAMPSHIRE RECORD,
703 E. Nebr. Ave. Peoria, Ill.

500 Men Wanted Durocs Last Fall

At the Southern fairs and at Atlanta in October there will be 10,000 new breeders looking for the right kind of boars and sows. Come to the show with your show stuff, and pick up some of this good patronage. $2,000 in prizes in Durocs. Will also sell fifty head in public sale. Send for particulars.

ROBT. J. EVANS

Secretary American Association; 819 Exchange Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Bourbon Chief Heads Our Herd

Of Durocs. No better anywhere. Write for pedigrees and prices of pigs, gilts and sows.

Dunaway & Lambert, Orrville, Ala.

PAINT UP NOW

With Sherwin-Williams

High Grade Paints

Best for Homes, Porches, Halls, Barns, Fences, Sheds

For Interior Work S W P Flat Tone

DURR DRUG CO.

Montgomery, Alabama

The One Flour That's Always Good Is Alabama Perfection Flour

Made of good clean wheat in a modern mill where only methods that insure Perfection are employed.

The Flour for Alabamians
Alabama Perfection Flour

The H. M. Hobbie Co.

Montgomery, Ala.

SORE GUMS

Cause Loss of Teeth and Stomach Trouble
Loose teeth, pyorrhea, Riggs disease yield quickly to my treatment; tested 30 years. Medicine postpaid, $1.50. Money back if not cured. Book of facts sent free. Dr. C. M. DOSS, D. D. S., Dept. A. Cooner, Texas.

NOW OPEN
Beersheba Springs Hotel
Located on Cumberland Mountain.
Altitude 2200 feet.
Special rates for June.
J. TROUSDALE SMITH, Mgr.
Beersheba Springs, Tenn.

RHEUMATISM

"I have been suffering with rheumatism for about three years, and had taken lots or medicines without relief. I was advised to try DUNCAN'S ANTISEPTIC PINE OIL. I felt relieved soon after I commenced taking same. I used nearly two 25 cent bottles, and am entirely well. I can highly recommend same for rheumatism," writes Mrs R. I. Moore, Rutledge, Ala., Route No. 1.

None Genuine without This Trade Mark on Every Bottle.

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTES.

If your dealer does not carry it in stock have him to order it for you from his jobber.

Manufactured by
YELLOW PINE MEDICINE COMPANY
Montgomery, Alabama

Have You Fruit, Fowl, Fish or Vegetables for Sale?

Ship Them By

To the hungry city trade which is clamoring for just what you have too much of.

Get our Express Agent to put your name, address and products for sale in our Market Bulletin. We will help you find a market.

Low Rates on Foodstuffs.—Quick Service.—Prompt Delivery

Southern Express Company

3 "Serve the Public"

Two Dollars

invested in a pound of Nitra-Germ, and easily applied to the soil, insures the success of an acre of Legumes.

And a good acre of Legumes means an acre highly fertilized without the expense and trouble of commercial fertilizer—with a big, profitable cash crop following.

Nitra-Germ

are cultures that do not fail. They are cultivated especially for their work, and they accomplish results in the field.

For some interesting and valuable information, address:

Nitra-Germ Co.

Dept. B, Savannah, Georgia

Why Will You Suffer With Pellagra Rheumatism or Indigestion?

SULFERRO-SOL Never Fails

At all druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of $1.00

THE SUL-FERRO-SOL CO.

Birmingham, Ala.

Rhea Springs Inn

Where the Old Reliable Rhea Springs Water flows. We are pleased to announce that we are again ready to receive guests. We hope to see all of our former patrons and many new ones the coming season. There is no better place for recuperation, health, and pleasure. Usual amusements, good table, sensible rates. Make reservation now. Location has exceptional accessibility. By leaving Birmingham via Q. & C. Ry. at 6:30 A. M. you get to Spring City, our railroad station, at 12.13 noon without any change of cars. Pleased to answer correspondence. Write us

Rhea Springs Company

Rhea Springs, Tenn.

Cucumbers a Cash Crop In Covington Co.

Something over a year ago after it was clearly shown that the boll weevil had removed the 1915 cotton crop long before time for the first bolls to mature and open, Mr. J. E. Wright, an enterprising farmer and also a member of the Wright Bros. and Caton Firm at River Falls, made a trip out in Mississippi to study the cucumber business as they carried it on there.

He was well pleased with their returns per acre from cucumbers and was quite sure that they could be grown in this county to an advantage as we have about the same grade of land and seasons; but these men did not want to go into the cucumber business too heavily the first year and at the same time they saw that it would require 300 to 500 acres in cucumbers to justify them in building salting stations, etc., so that the crop could be handled profitably. The farmers around Red Level, River Falls, and Opp got together and agreed to plant 100 acres or more in cucumbers near each of these places and Wright Bros. and Caton agreed to put up salting stations at each place and pay at least 50 cents per bushel for number 1 cucumbers.

As the outcome of this we had about 600 acres in cucumbers this year in the county. It requires something like 40 salting vats to hold them and each vat holds from 800 to 1000 bushels. This would give about 60 to 75 bushels per acre for the average, making the cash returns $30 to $40 per acre notwithstanding the very bad weather conditions we have had for such a crop this year.

We hope to have 1000 acres or more in cucumbers next year and have each farmer grow just a few acres as they did this time. A cash crop returning $30 to $40 per acre comes in quite well to most farmers and especially when it comes on the market in the summer time.

Some of the cucumber patches are being put in potatoes but most of them will have a "catch" crop of peas or be used for summer pastures.

J. P. WILSON,
Farm Demonstration Agent, Covington County, Alabama.

TO SAVE OILCLOTH

Before using table oilcloth paste at each corner of the wrong side a square of cotton material. This will prevent the unslightly cracking of the corners which so often comes long before the body of cloth shows any sign of wear.

London has 73,500 miles of telephone and telegraph lines.

King Constantine, of Greece, is very strict with his soldiers.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, is past 81 years of age.

SEND THEM FOR CLEANING BY PARCELS POST.

YOUR GLOVES, SUITS OR GOWNS.
Long gloves 15c, Short gloves 10c
Returned next day and return postage paid on any article. Most modern, sanitary, dry cleaning equipmnt. Everything DONE RIGHT—and promptly.

Stewart Dry Cleaning Co.
SELMA, ALA.

GOD'S WONDERFUL CREATURE AND MAN'S FRIEND—THE BEE

S. E. WESSON

Practical Questions About Bees

Here are a number of practical questions and answers about the successful raising of bees. S. E. Wasson, bee editor, is asked many questions about bees and here he answers some of them with the idea of giving real help to the one who is raising bees and trying to do the most with them. If you have any questions about bees that you want to ask, just write to S. E. Wasson, Bee Editor Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Alabama. His advice will cost you nothing.

1. Where can bees be kept?

Answer—A small lot, say two or three colonies, enough for any family use, can be satisfactorily kept in any place anywhere in the South. On the farm, the garden, the orchard or the back lot is probably the best place. In a city or town one may use the back lot or even the roof of the residence or barn.

2. How far do bees range from their hive?

Answer—Generally not more than 1 mile, but sometimes as far as 5 miles. A circle with a diameter of 3 miles is probably the average territory which bees can be depended upon to work.

3. From what do bees gather honey?

Answer—Flowers like the sunflower, hollyhock, goldenrod and many other pollen-bearing plants furnish them a feeding place when in search of food for the young. Honey is gathered from flowers and the buds of tres. Nearly all our flowering plants under varying conditions furnish some nectar. The crocus, the buttercup, the lily, blossoms of fruit trees, willow blooms, elder flowers, alfalfa, clover pea blooms, cotton blooms, locust blooms and almost an interminable list of flowers yield honey. At certain times of the spring the leaves of hickory and even of the oak trees are laden with a "honey dew" which is the richest opportunity for the bees.

4. Do bees injure ripening fruit?

Answer—No; they are sometimes falsely accused of this. Bees never puncture fruit. Apples, peaches, plums, grapes, cherries or any other fruit is absolutely immune from injury by working bees unless first punctured by birds or some other intruder.

5. How many bees can one man take care of?

Answer—If all his time is given to the bees he can take care of probably 400 hives, which is sufficient for ten apiaries in most localities. However, some asistance will be needed in the busiest period, say about May and June.

6. What may be expected as a profit?

Answer—Properly handled there should be a profit of from $2 to $10 per hive. This will vary and will depend on the attention and also on the seasons.

7. Does ringing a bell or beating a pan cause bees to settle when they swarm?

Answer—No! That is a purely ignorant superstition.

8. Is there any way to prevent stings?

Answer—No. Any bee can be relied on to sting under some circumstances. If one will use bee-gloves, a good veil, a practical smoker, and due caution, stings may be reduced to a small number. But after a few things in the early season, the bee-keeper becomes practically immune.

9. What kind of hive is best?

Answer—Under no circumstances permit your bees to live in any other than a modern house. Whether it is an eight-frame or a ten-frame hive, is a matter of little consequence. The now common rectangular box provided with an extra upper box for honey to be taken is the only respectable housin gfor the bee. It is cruel to the bee, and bad economy for keeper, to make any use of the old-fashioned hive.

10. How am I to recognize the queen?

Answer—Her appearance is unusual regal. She is much longer, rarely at rest, graceful, and certain ti impress you as not common.

11. How can I tell when the colony is raising a new queen?

Answer—An inspection of the breed combs, taking out each frame and carefully looking it over, will reveal a small number of enlarged brood cells, peculiarly shaped, resembling a Spanish peanut hull. These are queen cells. If they are open and empty you have nothing to fear. If they are closed or if there is an egg, a larva or a pupa in sight, you know what is coming soon.

12. How may I know a drone?

Answer—He sings bass. His note is coarse and strong. He blusters about the hive in a fussy manner, never working, but always loafing. He is larger than the others, full and round, and you will easily note his extra size as well as hear his unmusical hum.

13. What is propolis?

Answer—The gummy, sticky stuff with which the bees stop the leaks and daub the air vents, and fasten the loose frames. It is a dark brown substance and a strong glue. Bees get it from the trees, buds, and oozes of plants.

14. How can I wash it from my hands?

Answer—Soak it in kerosene, and then use good soap and hot water.

15. What is to be done when moths get in the hive?

Answer—Probably the best thing is transfer the bees to new comb foundations, and burn the combs and frames and scorch the interior of the hive. But if they are not too bad, cut out the infected portion and burn it. Watch closely for several days and make sure that every trace of them is gone.

What is a bee moth?

Answer—A small fly similar to the familiar candle-fly. She is little, pale, dingy, sly creature darting around and stealing into the hive to deposit her eggs. These soon hatch into a soft white worm which immediately starts to cut into the combs, eat the honey, and web up the living rooms of the bees. In an astonishingly short time the entire hive will be smothered out.

17. What sort of a smoker is most useful?

Answer—One not too large. As a rule, it is no more than a small hand bellows with a small apartment for slow burning material to create smoke.

18. What is best for smoke material?

Answer—Dry jute bagging, rags of old quilt, rotten wood, anything that will burn slowly and not go out too quickly. Even the smoke from a pipe, or cigar, if used very sparingly, is sufficient.

19. Why do bees sometimes refuse to store honey in the supers

Answer—Very likely there is a dearth of nectar. The colony may have become weak, not strong enough to feed the young and store extra supplies. Sometimes the bees have overstored their brood combs and there is a lull of brooding and work.

Winter Cover Crops--Best Ones to Plant

By W. O. Carpenter

The planting of winter cover crops offers farmers their greatest opportunity for soil improvement. Corn and cotton fields are kept free from grass in the summer and left bare and unprotected during the winter. Because of our mild climate and heavy rainfall these fields are leached, the surface soil washed away and often they are so gullied that they are unfit for cultivation. The humus or vegetable decaying matter, being light, is washed away and as a result crops on this land are poor.

Three Benefits Derived

Three separate benefits are obtained from growing cover crops and each is important. These crops, such as wheat, rye, oats, crimson and burr clover, protect the land during the winter. They afford pastures and they provide a fertilizer that can be plowed under in the spring and which will build up the soil as will no other fertilizer.

The Best Cover Crops.

Under present conditions the most practical cover crop for most of our lands is Southern grown rye. The seed is plentiful and low-priced. This crop may be turned under sufficiently early to permit the planting of corn, soy beans and other summer crops.

The newly introduced variety, Abruzzi rye, will be very valuable in future years, but as the supply of seed is very limited every acre of Abruzbi rye sown this fall should be harvested for seed. At one demonstration farm this rye has shown itself much more valuable as a cover crop than any other grain. It grows all winter and makes a much heavier pasture for early spring.

Crimson and Burr Clover.

Crimson and burr clover, being leugmes, are more valuable as soil builders than grain if they can be grown successfully. The clovers are accompanied by a bacteria which lives in the nodules or little knots in the roots. This bacteria secures nitrogen from the atmosphere. Part of the nitrogen is used by the growing plant and part remains in the soil for future crops. The entire clover plant is relatively rich in nitrogen. When clover is plowed under it adds this nitrogen, the second great soil need, and also increases the humus supply.

Crimson clover will do well on good soil and a well prepared seed bed, but failure may be expected on poor soil unless the season is exceptionally favorable. Because of the uncertainty of the commercial supply of crimson clover seed, every farm should plant at least one acre this fall to furnish seed for next year's planting. The balk of our present supply was imported from France one year ago and it is probable the germination will be very poor.

Spotted Burr Clover.

The supply of burr clover seed is ample. As the bulk of this supply will be seed in burrs and germination will be slow, the seed should be boiled to hasten germination. This is done by placing the burrs in a sack and submerging them in boiling water for one minute. If it is desired to return the inoculation, that is, the bacteria which accompanies clovers and which is generally in the dirt and trash accompanying seed in the burrs, the seed may be placed in cold water a short while before boiling and then returned to the cold water before it is sowed.

To Raise Clover Successfully.

For successful growth of these clovers, the soil must contain the bacteria which produce the little nodules on the roots of the lant. If the soil does not contain these bacteria they should be supplied. This may be done by scattering over the field that is to be planted 300 pounds of top soil from a field that has previously grown the variety of clover to be planted. This should be immediately harrowed into the soil because light will kill the bacteria. Pure cultures may also be used. These may be secured from seed houses.

Sow Between September 1 and 25.

All cover crops should be sown before September 1 and 25 to obtain the best results. Where practicable they may be sown in the cotton middles after the first picking. The best time for the clovers is just before or just after a rain.

A good place for the seed plot will be on cowpea stubble which has been thoroughly disked, the seed sown, and the land rolled. Good results need not be expected with clovers, especially crimson clover, unless the surface of the soil has been thoroughly fined.

The Amount of Seed.

The grains should be sown at the rate of one bushel per acre and the clovers at the rate of 15 pounds of hulled seed and two to three bushels of unhulled seed. In most cases, better results are reported from seeding unhulled crimson clover than the hulled seed. This, taken with the fact that commercial seed costs about $2 to $3 per acre, while the unhulled seed can be grown for from 30c to $1 per acre, is an additional reason why farmers should grow their own seed.

The time when these crops may be turned into the soil in the spring will depend upon conditions at that time, but as a rule rye will have made sufficient growth in April to be plowed under and the clovers may be turned early in May.

AUGUST NIGHT

The grasses are alive tonight with song
That busy insects of the summer dusk
Through all the breathing countryside prolong;
The air is laden with the harvest-musk.
Above the western gable hangs a glow
Of silver beauty in the turquoise sky
And there the moon has bent her silver bow,
And all the dreams of ancient powers go by—
The orient trembles in a mist of moon
And hidden cities swing into the loom
Of woven magic purple lilies bloom
On tall stalks bending to an alien breeze.
And yonder come strange sails from foreign seas,
Triremes of Greece, and those feluccas blown
By Naples in the fairyldreams of time
On wondrous oceans men have never known.
Except in breathings of pellucid rhyme
The stars are not so brilliant, but they shape,
And through dim spaces hung with mists of gray
The visages of nymphs and satyrs gape
It is a magic moment of the earth,
When lovers pray ,and priests on towers of prayer
Call to the gods of mystery and of mirth,
And scatter incense through the holy air
The cricket and the katydid make sweet
The closer spaces, and in dim woods there
Late whippoorwills their mournful call repeat,
A Bob White choirs, the mocking-bird replies.
The brooding light grows softer in the skies,
The river gurgles oars beyond us sweep.
Out of the night look down a thousand eyes—
For one could waste such lovely hours in sleep!

—Folger McKinsey.

Fumigating Against the Corn Worms

Losses from the pink corn worm in certain sections of the South have become so great in recent years that the Department of Agriculture has conducted a study of the best methods of controlling this pest.

The insect first attacks the corn in the field, but is carried with it into the crib, and there does the greater part of its damage. Cor.. which has already been damaged b ythe corn-earworms is particularly susceptible to the pink-corn worm. For this reason Bulletin 363, a professional paper of the department which contains the results of the study of this pest points out that in infested regions no corn should be left in the field any longer than is absolutely necessary to dry it. It should be husked as soon as possible, the badly infested ears fed to swine or poultry, and the others fumigated, in order to prevent the spread of the pest to other corn stored in the same crib.

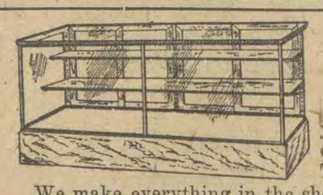
For fumigation, carbon, bisulphid is recomended by the author of the bulletin, F. H. Chittenden. This is less poisounous to human beings than hyrocyanicacid gas, but its inflammability makes precaution against fire imperative. On this account fumigation should always be done in daylight, and no artifical light of any kind allowed in the neighborhood. Even electric light should not be used ,on account of the sparks caused by turning it on and off

Disinfection with carbon bisulphid is accomplished by allowing it to evaporate from flat vessels which should hold one-half pint or more each. These evaporators are placed in the higher parts of the bin or room to be fumigated. The gas settles downward and suffocates the insects it encounters. From 2 to 3 pounds of carbon bisulphid are usually sufficient for 1,000 cubic feet of air spale. In practice this is equivalent to one pound to 100 bushels. After fumigation the bin should be kept as tightly closed as possible for about 36 hours. This can be done without destroying the germinating power of the seed. In open crib of course, this method of fumigation is not successful, and the corn must be covered with heavy tarpaulin or canvas.

The pink corn-worm does not confine itself to the kernels but attacks the husks and cobs of corn as well. The eggs are deposited in ears, the tips of which are more or less open as the the result of the work of the corn-earworm. When hatched the young insects penetrate the kernel, destroy the embkroy or germ and work outward to the crown. The layers of husk just under the outer sheath are also badly eaten in many cases. Although it has been known for many years, this inesct was not recognized as a serious pest in corncribs until 1914. In that year many complaints were received by the department, particularly from Mississippi. The pest is also found along all of the State bordering on the gulf and in Arkansas, Tennessee, South Carolina and Georgia.

BRAN FOR CHICKS

A mess of bran for the chickens is always beneficial. Bran contains more phosphates and mineral matter than ground grain and it also assists in regulating the bowels, especially when a small quantity of linseed meal is given with it. In the summer season a mess three times a day may be given. It may be fed by scalding it and feeding it in a trough, or it may be sprinkled over cooked potatoes or turnips. No other grain food need be given in the summer if the fowls have free range. Some poultrymen feed bran in the dry state, giving their fowls all they will eat of it.



Solomon & Oates
Headland, Alabama
Shorthorn Cattle—Hampshire Hogs—Fulgum Oats

We Buy
Syrup and Sorghum in Barrels. Samples solicited.
Southern Syrup Co.
Montgomery, Ala.

ROOFING

Any kind Anywhere To Anybody
Bargain Prices for Cash
Money refunded if not satisfied.

Chattanooga Builders Supply Co.
Roofing Dept. Chattanooga, Tenn.

SHOW CASES Are The BEST BOOSTERS

They never stop boosting your goods, never worry a customer and are always THERE at the right time.

We make everything in the show case line. Our catalogue will show you the latest improvements and help you to make the needed changes in your store. Write us today.

NASHVILLE SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

Drain Your Land Now and Double Your Crop

We make a specialty of this and can supply maps and make surveys of your land. Write us for expert information, or call to see us.

THE GRABLE DRAINAGE COMPANY
321 Bell Bldg. Montgomery, Ala.

Tile Drainage Means Better Crops

Properly tiled under-drainage removes quickly the excess water and enlarges the root zone, creating and making available a larger storage capacity for moisture needed in a long drouth.

LET US TELL YOU MORE ABOUT PROPER DRAINAGE.

Jenkins Brick Company

Montgomery, Alabama

To the Farmers of Alabama

The farmers of IOWA are the most prosperous on the face of the Earth. They borrow money on their lands on long periods of time, with options as to re-payment, leaving their stock and crop unencumbered, so they can hold them for the highest market.

Figure the rate of interest you are paying on money borrowed on your crop and stock, and the rate you can borrow it on your lands, and you will see why Iowa farmers are so prosperous.

Let us lend you money on the IOWA plan.

The State Abstract Co.

Montgomery, Alabama

J. S. PINCKARD, President
JACK THORINGTON, Vice-President

Helpful Banking

The right kind of a banking connection builds up prestige.

You cannot find a better stimulus for advancement than is to be derived from the acquisition of a bank account.

There is a greater value behind a bank account than the amount of money you have saved, and when you begin to put money in the bank you will at once realize the full force of being virtually a part of an institution that represents the strength of a community.

Begin with $1.

4 % Interest Paid On Savings

The Fourth National Bank

Montgomery, Ala.

The boll weevil will get you next season if you leave a lot of cotton stalks in the field this winter.

If you have any respect for your land get a cover crop on it this fall and let some stock eat it.

Well, why not get rid of so many mosquitoes by draining off the wet places around the house?

Scatter slaked lime around your premises and prevent disease after the many rains.

Don't get discouraged, keep on working and by next spring you will quit thinking about the floods.

Classified Wants

POULTRY AND EGGS

West's Single Comb White Leghorns

Those Everlasting Layers.

My this year's stock is the best in type I have ever seen or raised. Remember this fall that I sell guaranteed winners for any that I sell guaranteed winners for any show. Visitors welcome.

MRS. ROBT. WEST

132 Carter Hill Road, Montgomery, Ala.

PERSONAL

LADY 19, worth $10,000, would marry. C-Box 35, League, Toledo, Ohio. —16

BACHELOR girl, worth $20,000, would marry. M-Box 35, League, Toledo, Ohio. —16

WIDOW worth $120,000 or more, will marry. "I dare you write." (Sincere) Mission Unity, San Francisco. —16

Prattville Stock Farm

Prattville, Ala.

Hampshires of most noted blood lines and highest individual merit. None better in United States.

C. E. THOMAS, Pres.

G. P. WALLS, Manager

Here's the Handiest Crate for Taking Eggs to Market

The HUMPTY-DUMPTY holds twelve dozen eggs. It can be knocked down for close packing.

Write us for illustrated price list of egg packing goods.

MONTGOMERY PAPER & WOODENWARE CO

Feeding Dairy Cows For Large Returns

One of the most common mistakes in the feeding of dairy cows on the farm is that good cows are not given a sufficient quantity of feed above that required for their physical maintenance to obtain the maximum quantity of milk they are capable of producing. Successful feeding of dairy cows involves the providing of an abundant supply of palatable, nutritious feed at a minimum cost and feeding in such a way as to receive the largest milk production from the feed consumed.

From the standpoint of economical milk production, a dairy cow generally should not be fed more than she will consume without gaining in weight There are times however when it is desirable to make exceptions to this rule. Practically all heavvy milk producers lose weight in the early part of their lactation period; that is, they produce milk at the expense of their body flesh. When such cows approach the end of their milking period they normally regain the flesh they have lost and the farmer can well afford to feed them liberally, with the assurance that he will be repaid in the form of milk when the cows again freshen.

Pasture is the natural feed for cows and for average conditions, with ample pasture of good grasses or legumes in good, succulent condition, good production can be scureed.

Feeding Grain.

Grain should be fed to heavy-producing cows under all pasture conditions. The following table is furnished as a guide to feeding grain with an abundant pasture. Variations should be made to suit different conditions and individual cows.

Jersey Cow.

Daily milk production pounds) 20; three pounds of grain.

Daily milk production pounds) 25; Four pounds of grain.

Daily milk production pounds) 30; Six pounds of grain.

Daily milk production pounds) Eight pounds of grain.

Daily milk production pounds) 40; Ten, pounds of grain.

Holstein-Friesian Cow.

Daily milk production pounds, 25; Three pounds of grain.

Dail milk production pounds, 30; Five pounds of grain.

Daily milk production pounds) 35; Seven pounds of grain.

Daily milk production pounds, 40; Nine pounds of grain.

Daily milk proluction pounds, 50; Ten pounds of grain.

Some Mixtures.

Pasture being an approximately balanced ration, the grain ration should have about the same proportion of protein to other nutrients. The following mixtures are suggested for supplementing pasture without other rough age:

Mixture No 1—Ground oats 100 lb. wheat bran, 100 lbs., Corn meal 50 lbs. Per cent digestible protein, 10.3.

Mixture No. 2--Wheat bran 100 lbs., Corn meal, 100 lbs.; Cottonseed meal 25 lbs. Per cent digestible protein, 12.7

Mixture No. 3 Corn and cob meal 250 lbs.; Cottonseed meal 100 pounds; Per cent digestible protein 15.5.

Mixture No. 4—Wheat bran 100 lbs.; gluten feed, 50 lbs.; Corn meal, 50 lbs. Per cent digestible protein 13.6.

To carry cows over a period of short pasture without a falling off in milk, soiling crops are growing in favor. For this purpose alfalfa, oats, or peas, are excellent. Corn is also available in summer. An acre of corn in the form of silage will provide succulent roughage for several cows for a season. During periods of drought when both pastures and soiling crops fail. a silo filled with well-matured silage grown the previous year is most valuable.

Vast Sums Lost to Farmers by These Feeding Methods

A vast quantity of feed available for cattle is now either wasted absolutely or put to some less profitable use, say livestock experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Failure to utilize the full value of this material has increased unnecessarily the cost of producing meat, has diminished the profits from cattle feeding, and has discouraged many farmers from engaging in an industry essential to their permanent prosperity.

$100,000,000 Loss.

According to the report already mentioned, the loss in grain, straw and corn stover amounts to more than $100,000,000 annually. Both of these products are disposed of most economically when fed to cattle in connection with some form of concentrated feed. Straw is especially valuable in carrying the breeding herd through the winter, in wintering stockers, and as a supplementary roughage for fattening cattle. Stover, too, is an excellent feed for wintering cattle, especially mature breeding cows. Nevertheless, in many sections of the country where these products are abundant, little attempt is made to take advantage of their value for these purposes.

Burning Dollars.

Of an annual straw crop of approximately 120,000,000 tons, it is estimated that only two-thirds is put to its best use—live stock production. Of the remainder, a little more than one-half is sold or turned under and the rest, 15 per cent of the total crop, is burned. Burning is practically an absolute waste, and although plowing under does contribute something to soil fertility, the benefit to the land is less than that which would be derived from the use of the straw to produce manure. Of all systems of obtaining permanent

The average value of all kinds of soil fertility none is so practical or as easily available as that of feeding live stock.

straw is placed at about $5 a ton. In many sections, of course, no such price can be realized for it, and as a matter of fact only about 8 per cent of the crop actually is sold.

Waste in Stover.

The production of corn stover is about twice that of grain straw, amounting to approximately 245,000,000 tons a year. A larger per centage (81.5) of this is fed than of the straw, but the waste is nevertheless astonishing. For this, poor methods of feeding are largely responsible. By far the most economical method of handling corn is by ensiling, but as a matter of fact only 8.1 per cent of the acreage was put in the silo in 1914, the year in which these investigations were made. About 11 per cent was cut for green feed and 81 per cent allowed to mature for grain.

Unthrifty Methods.

It is in the last portion of the acreage that the greatest waste occurs. Stripping the leaves from the stalks which are subsequently burned, removing the stalk above the top ear only, leaving the stalks to stand in the field until the loss of leaves and leaching have removed much of their fertilizing value, are all unthrifty methods, Furthermore, almost 4 per cent of the stover is burned, as though, instead of being a potential source of revenue, it was merely a nuisance to be gotten rid of as a preliminary to plowing. In some states the per centage of stover that is thus thrown away is as high as 7 or 8 per cent and the total loss to the country from the practice is estimated at nearly $15,000,000 a year.

Loss in Concentrates

To obtain satisfactory results from the feeding of farm roughages, such as straw and stover they must be combined with some form of concentrated feed. At the present time large quantities of such feed, in the form of cottonseed meal and cake, corn, molasses, peanuts, and beans are exported for the use of European feeders. If the straw and stover that are now wasted were employed to feed more cattle, these concentrates could be consumed at home. The result would be a tremendous saving not only in the cost of producing beef but in the cost of enriching the soil as well. In 1914, for example, about 1,000,000 tons of cottonseed meal—half the total production—were applied directly to the soil as fertilizer. If this had been fed to cattle instead, three-quarters of the fertilizing value would have been returned to the soil as manure. The loss of the other fourth would have been far more than counterbalanced by the profit on the meat produced economically by the meal and the necessary roughages. Much the same thing is true of the other oil meals.

European Farmer is Wise.

The value of these meals is far better appreciated in Europe than here. Denmark, for example, feeds annually 478 pounds of oil cake to each of her mature cattle, the United States approximately 24 pounds. Furthermore, the European feeder is aware of the fact that the high-protein meal, while more expensive to buy, is more economical to use. Meal of this quality is seldom sold on the domestic markets because the American farmer has not yet learned its value. Cottonseed and linseed are perhaps the best known of the oil meals, but there are others the use of which as feed could be profitably extended. Both peanut and soy bean meal and cake, for instance, are in good demand in Europe.

The efficient use of these and other feeds is of the utmost importance to the American farmer because the day when close calculation in feeding was not necessary is, in all probability, past. Hereafter it is likely that success will depend upon ability to put to the best use all available products. A greater knowledge of what these products are and of the ways in which they can be fed will result in the elimination of enormous waste.

FOR MOTHER

For her they come across the miles
With tenderness and love and smiles;
For her they brave the briny deep,
For her they climb the mountain steep;
For her they face the dolly strife,
For her they give the better life;
For her through all that care may do
They stand unsullied, clean and true.

For her they win the golden way,
For her they kneel at night to pray;
For her they come with happy heart
No matter how the leagues may part;
For her they toil and laugh and sing,
For her they soar on tireless wing;
As fledgings to their bough-swung nest
For her they seek her mother-breast.

For her they delve in dark and gloom,
For her they pluck the living bloom
Of life and joy and skill and grace;
For her they triumph in the race.
For her they rise through strife and pain,
For her they face the loss and gain;
For her, through all the wondrous years,
They strive to heal her heart of tears.

For her they leave their tasks to come,
To cheer her heart; the calling drum,
The trumpet and the roundelay
Of battle that the bugles play,
Are nothing, nothing when they feel
The poignance of her sweet appeal;
For her they fly o'er land and wave,
For her, the constant and the brave.

For her they smile and sing and laugh,
For her they brush away like chaff
The cares and shadows that possess
Her heart sometimes; for her they press
Against the tide and through the weeds
For her they dwell in manly deeds,
For her they shine, to her they flee
Like homing birds across the sea.
—Folger McKinsey.

Take the winter cover crop route to prosperity.

An Appeal For Mute Animals That Suffer from Cattle Ticks

By W. A. McRae, Commissioner of Agriculture of Florida

The little things of life when magnified become annoying and often serious. A grain of sand is a necessary thing in concrete, but when in your eye it is decidedly out of place and painfully annoying. A little thing, in a multiplied form, has long been the source of immense loss to the South, a cost in a financial way running into millions upon millions of dollars, not to speak of the suffering and misery it has caused and continues to cause to helpless animal life.

This little thing in its egg form is almost microscopic. The egg produces an insect with six legs,--usual to most insects--but before it reaches its real activity the "little cuss" has an added pair, making eight legs. It leaves behind a large progeny, the female laying as high as 5,000 eggs. For its size it has a formidable name: "Margaropus (Boophilus) aunalatus." It is better known, however, as the Cattle Tick, and has become the greatest menace and obstacle to the profitable raising of livestock of anything else in the South.

Like Chiggers On People

It carries a disease peculiar to cattle, and variously termed Texas fever, Tick fever, Splenetic fever and Bloody Murrain. The disease has its seat in the blood, through an organism which preys on the red corpuscles-- as in malaria in the human body when inoculated by the bite of the Mosquito --and when in its acute form destroys from five to ten pounds of blood a day. In the severely acute form of fever the animal rarely recovers, and the general loss in this way alone would supply and operate dipping vats in every neighborhood. In addition to carrying this dangerous disease the cattle tick is a blood sucker and the cause of constant torment and torture. A person who has suffered from the bite of a "chigger," or red bug, or who has been annoyed by a flea crawling up and down and nipping his back, may be able by comparison to appreciate what suffering our dumb beasts are subjected to when covered with ticks, thousands in number. Through the perforations made in the hide by the bitting of the ticks blood serum or water oozes out keeping the hair moist and matted often, resulting in abscesses and ulcers inhabited by maggots from eggs laid by other insects.

Suppose You Had Them

Suppose for example that you--the reader--had a patch on your back, inaccessable as in case of the steer--a festering sore. Imagine if possible your maddening distress and pain. Nature would heal the agonizing spot --except for the fact that the bugs keep it alive and burning. Extend this affliction as an epidemic among the human race and the appeal for help would sound to heaven.

This humane side of the horrible tick infestion of a faithful, useful, patient and profitable animal friend, unable to speak and tell of its long torture, except in its silent and emaciated appearance, is a mute appeal to man for help.

Loss From Ticks

It is usually viewed from an economic standpoint, and that means:

1. Small and stunted animals;
2. Inferior in puality;
   (a) as to meat;
   (b) as to price;
   (c) as to hides of little value;
   (d) as to diminished milk supply;
   (e) as to poorness of milk;
3. Liability to other diseases;
4. Large mortality;
5. Difficulty in exporting to tick free territory, where they cannot be sold in open market.
6. Difficulty in supporting improved animals from free territory, without danger of infection and death.
7. Objection among outsiders to invest or engage in the industry on account of tick ravages.
8. Loss to individuals, as well as to State and Nation by allowing the tick to exist--and thus too, when the remedy is so easily and cheaply available.

The concrete economic situation in this matter, showing the value of tick eradication, was most forcibly set forth by statements made before the Texas Cattlemen's Convention held recently at Houston, by Drs. L. J. Allen and Harry Grafke, of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry. These investigators said:

"Ticks are costing Texas $10,000,000 a year. Southern States are paying a board bill of $80,000,000 a year.

"Five dollars can be added to the value of every beef annimal in the tick country by the eradication of the tick.

"One dollar can be added to the hide value of every cow or steer in the tick infested area.

"Ticks can be eradicated in one year at a cost of 20 to 50 cents a head.

"Any man can eradicate the ticks from his range in a year; any county can do the same, or the state could become tickless in a year if it would try."

Dr. Grafke furnished the convention with facts showing what ticks do to dairy cows, his findings being based on careful experiments. A dairy was divided into three parts, A third of the cows had been freed from ticks, a third remained "slightly ticky" and the remaining third were range cows badly infested. The "slightly ticky" cows gave 19.6 per cent less milk than the tickless cows, while the infested cows gave 42.4 per cent less.

We Need Laws

The life history of the tick is simple. It rarely appears on animals other than cattle. It matures its eggs while feeding and ravaging upon its host, and dropping to the ground delivers them, and they hatch in from two to six weeks, depending upon conditions. They often remain alive for months without apparent increase in size. In the pastures these diminutive pests find their way to the animal and attach themselves in large numbers to the tender portions of the underside of the body and gradually spread to all parts.

We have laws prohibiting under penalties personal cruelty in any form to our domestic animals, and yet we allow this unspeakable agony to exist --this unceasing tragedy to be perpetrated upon dumb beasts when relief is easily and cheaply possible, through either the dipping vat or restricted pastures.

The continuous sucking of blood naturally diminishes and improverishes the circulation and the perforations not only injure the hide, but allow the entrance of pus-- producing germs and organisms which give rise to abscesses which frequently terminate in maggot infested ulcers. On calves ticks retard growth. On cows the added injury is a diminished flow of milk of impoverished quality. An examination of a well filled tick shows blood and nutriment taken from its host which should go to the formation of bone, flesh, fat and milk.

Dipping Vat

Various methods have been followed in trying to rid cattle of ticks, by picking or brushing them off, by spraying with disinfectants, and by dipping--formerly in petroleum solutions-- but successfully practiced at this time with an arsenical compound. The dipping vat is a simple device, merely a narrow swimming tank with a chute at one end for the entrance of the cattle and a sloping exit at the other end. The cost of building and operating a vat is a mere song compared to the benefits—financially and humanely.

Congress has expended several hundred thousand dollars in carrying on investigations to help rid the South of ticks and the dipping vat solves the problem. It is now up to the stock raisers and farmers to energetically push this most desirable work to a successful conclusion and put the South on the highway to a prosperity not otherwise in this important industry. It is not only a humane movement but an economic proposition of highest importance.

Dipping vats have already been established in many progressive localities and let the whole people join in the effort and not await legislative enactments. Laws are often rendered necessary to force people to save themselves.

Washington Solution

The owner of a few cattle—kept under fence--who does not feel able to build a vat can make the arsenical solution and wash the animals himself, by using the following formula: One pound of white arsenic, three pounds of sal soda, and one quart of pine tar. Dissolve the arsenic in two or three gallons of water, and boil until the arsenic is all dissolved. After the solution is cool, add the pine tar. Add to this solution 45 gallons of water. Use this mixture every 21 days. It should not be used at more frequent intervals. Keep the solution where children, fowls or animals cannot get access to it.

Sugar Beets---Southern Farmer Must Produce Them Now

By A. E. Kennedy of Louisiana

We clip the following from the Arcadia, Louisiana, Argus published in the red clay hills of North Louisiana —Similar to the upland section of Alabama where small farms are worth about $10 per acre.

One of our prosperous farmers of ward one has given us a list of the farm products that he has sold from his farm for the past 12 months. This farmer, Mr. Philip Brantley of the Bethel neighborhood, is always on the job when it comes to farming. Nearly every time he comes to town he brings something to sell, and instead of leaving money in town, he always carries some back with him. He owns a 120 acre farm. He sold a total of products from this farm during the past year of $1,126. The items are as follows: Live stock, horses and cows, $300; meat $100; potatoes $75; wood $65; cotton $440; eggs, $30; cotton seed, $90; melons, butter and poultry, $26 and lived off the farm.

Mr. Brantley has in a large crop this year and the prospects are that he will exceed this splendid record another year.—Arcadia Argus.

From Shreveport Times we find this item:

It Certainly Does.

Editor Shreveport Times:

Dear Sir—I'm sending you by parcel post a sample of sweet otato raised on my place this year. The slips from which these came were set out April 10, 1916, and we have been eating potatoes since July 6.

This speaks well for our climate and the richness of the land around Shreveport, doesn't it?

Yours truly R. A. GROUNDS.

Dixie La., July 14, 1916.

The new variety of pedigreed sweet potatoes run from 300 to 400 bushels of graded and merchantable roots per acre and are handled in bushel baskets (graded in field) direct to storage ware house on switch track where they are kiln dried in bins and stored for a better market in December January and February. Potatoes average fifty cents when harvested in October. There is 20 per cent loss in drying out by heat of furnace—making the price advance to 60 cents per bushel. The selling price in car lots packed in crates, of 120 lbs. ranges at $1 per bushel, f. o. b. cars. This gives the cooperative farmers 5 cents for his potatoe crop while the "other fellow" gets 50 cents in trade from the country merchant.

Root crops such as potatoes onions, carrots and sugar beets are very important sources of food for man and domestic animals. As the cost of meat foods throughout the whole world advances, vegetable foods are more largely consumed and the use of sugar in cereal foods increases. At this time it requires four millions tons of sugar to supply the American ration, and the source of supply is sugar beets and sugar cane. Our growing crop of sugar beets this year will yield 25 per cent of our supply. From our island possessions an dfrom Louisiana we will make 25 per cent and then we will go out on the world market and buy 50 per cent of our sugar consumption at high prices. If the American nation really and truly believe in "Preparedness" the cotton states must learn to grow sugar beets as "there are millions in it." The by-product of he sugar beet equal that of cotton and consists of hay (2 tons per acre) from leaves, beet pulp, evaporated like apples and molasses, said by-product fed to sheep and cattle in feeding pens, similar to hulls and meal from cotton plant.

"Our table beet is the wild variety from which the sugar beet has been developed that now contains as high as 20 per cent of sugar in the juice. The tendency of people to leave the farm and dwell in cities is based largely on our past educational ideas and ignorance of the science of agriculture. Somebody is going to own and occupy southern plantation lands.

BUY YOUR STOCKINGS NOW!

There comes a time each year when goods and materials may be bought a possibly 25 per cent less. The white linen sales which occur every January and the August fur sales are examples Here is a word of advice that may not come in amiss before some of the largest sales of the year; buy your stockings now not because they will be offered any cheaper, but because the price of stockings, silk, lisle and even cotton is steadily and alarmingly increasing. It is even now difficult to procure certain kinds of stockings. Drop-stitch white silk and lisle hose are not to be found at all in many of the stores and compromise must be made with the French drop-stitch which is said to be less durable. If you are lucky enough to find your favorite hose there is no doubt that buying a large supply will be real economy.

Plow deep for oats or wheat and if next spring is dry your deep plowing will have stored up winter moisture in the soil for spring use.

WHY BE STOUT?

To prove that ADIPO, a pleasant, harmless Obesity Treatment, will take fat off any part of the body, we will send a to any one who is too fat. Adipo requires no exercising or dieting, nor does it interfere with your usual habits. Rheumatism, Asthma, Kidney and Heart troubles, that so often come with Obesity, improve as you reduce. Let us prove it at our expense. Write today for the FREE 50c Box and illustrated book. Address ADIPO CO., 3074 Ashland Building, New York City.

50c BOX FREE

NEWSPAPER CUTS IN THIS PAPER MADE BY

Service Engraving Co.

ADVERTISER BLDG., MONTGOMERY. J. M. ENGLER, Prop.

ORANGES, APPLES, POTATOES, CABBAGE, ONIONS, TURNIPS

M. P. WILCOX

Wholesale

Produce and Commission

We Buy and Sell

Quality First.

214-216 North Court Street.

Montgomery, Ala.

SAFETY — SERVICE PROGRESS

These are the three outstanding features of The New Farley National Bank. We offer to depositors 100 per cent safety, personal service in starting accounts or investing money, and a progressive management. We have special facilities for banking by mail. No matter where you live you can start an account with us and it will be just as convenient to you as if you lived next door to us.

The New Farley National Bank

Montgomery, Alabama.

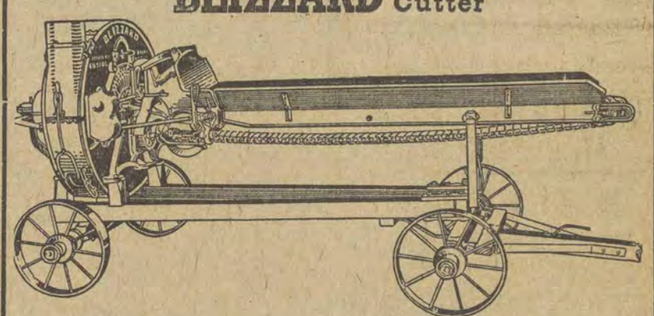
They Can't Stand It

Greil's "Mosquito Go"

Mosquitoes regard you as a juicy meal every time you lie down for a night's sleep. Of course, if you want mosquitoes banqueting on your person all night the pleasure is yours. But if you have any regard for your health and comfort and the health and comfort of your family, you will go to your druggist today and get a 25-cent bottle of Greil's "Mosquito Go." Just scatter a little of it around and you will not be troubled with mosquitoes.

Can't Stain; Odor is not Unpleasant

Except—to Mosquitoes! Get It Now.



Greil Bros. Co.

Wholesale Druggist, Montgomery, Ala.

The Best Made — Big Silos filled with small power — Get the Best

The regular farm gasoline engine furnishes plenty of power to operate the easy running

BLIZZARD Ensilage Cutter

It's very light running because so simple and compact. Heavy fly wheel carries both cutting knives and elevating fans. The BLIZZARD is a work eater—self-feed table saves one man's work—runs like clock work, always cuts evenly—elevates to any height—repair expense little or nothing. Many still in use after 10, 12 and 15 years service.

Come in and let us tell you about the BLIZZARD ENSILAGE CUTTER.

Teague Hardware Co.

132-134 Commerce Street Montgomery, Ala.

Winter Legumes Seed

Buy Now

Our advice to our many patrons throughout Alabama and others who want the best seed is to buy your winter legumes seed NOW. Prices have advanced in the last month and owing to demand and the shortage in supply they are apt to advance again. With this shortage in the supply we cannot keep prices down but we can save money for you by urging you to order at once.

At present we have a limited supply of the very best cleaned seed of the following legumes and winter cover crops.

Abruzzi Rye	Crimson Clover
Brooks County Rye	Bur Clover
Fulghum Oats	Hairy Vetch
Appler Oats	Essex Rape

Write, Wire, Call or Phone for Prices.

Greil Bros. Company

"Top Brand Seeds" Montgomery, Ala.

Cover Crops to Plant Right After Stalks Are Destroyed

By W. O. Winston, Lowdes County, Alabama

It is not too early for farmers of this section to begin thinking of crops to be planted this fall. As much land should be planted to cover crops as possible. The planting of these crops is not a general practice among farmers here, but many are beginning to adopt their use and it is always a sign of an improvement in farming when a man begins to do this.

The reasons to be given for the use of cover crops are many; they prevent washing and leaching of the land during the winter months. They help to hold the moisture in the soil for use of the crops to be planted in the spring; they furnish grazing for live stock during the winter and early spring and where plowed under, furnish a splendid means of building up land cheaply.

It is to be hoped that every man who has planted cotton this year will destroy the stalks as soon as what cotton has been made has been picked out, and there is no better method of handling these cotton fields than uprooting the stalks, plowing the land and sowing a cover crop to occupy the fields during the winter month

We have a number of crops which can be used to splendid advantage in this way. About the best which could possibly be used is crimson clover. Many of our farmers here made starts with this clover last fall and will increase their acreage this year. Only one peck of seed is required to plant an acre and where the land is not too poor, good results will be had the first year. The fertilizing value of a good crop of crimson clover plowed under is worth $8 an acre to a crop of corn planted after the clover.

Another great chop to be used in this way is rye, especially the new variety known as Abruzzi. This makes about three times the growth made by any other of the small grains and furnishes excellent pasture all winter One bushel of the seed are required to plant an acre and it is not uncommon for an acre to produce fifteen to twenty bushels of grain. Oats, wheat, barley and burr clover are also good as cover crops and their use is highly recommended, although we doubt if any of them will come up to crimson clover and Abruzzi rye.

Simple Rules For Success With Poultry Houses

By Roy F. Irvin

Many poultry raisers still hold to the belief that chickens can be raised successfully without paying any attention to housing them. They are allowed to roost in the trees, in drafty sheds, and, in some cases, under the dwelling house. The purpose of this publication is to point out the necessity for poultry houses in this State, and to describe types of houses suitable to this climate, that may be economically constructed.

It is true that, in the wild state, chickens roosted in the trees, but every day they lived through conditions which would kill the domesticated fowl of today. Under these conditions, the wild fowl laid but twelve to twenty eggs per year, and these solely for the perpetuation of the race. When man went into the chicken business, he took these birds from the jungle and placed them near his home. He found that by taking the eggs from the nest as fast as the hen laid them, he could induce her to lay many more. One reason for this was that the hen kept trying to lay enough eggs to perpetuate the flock, but as these kept disappearing as fast as she laid them, she had to keep on laying more. Another reason for the increase in egg production is that man took a hand in the breeding of the fowls. He selected those heis which laid the most eggs and bred from them, and carried this selection down through many years, until we now have the production per bird increased many fold. Along with increased egg production, the domesticated fowl has been made to grow larger than its ancestor. It puts on more flesh which is of a more delicate flavor, and more tender.

When man accomplished these improvements in the wild fowl, he left its trace on the vitality of the races. The domesticated fowl could no longer live under its primitive, outdoor conditions. This is the penalty all must pay when we improve upon nature. Therefore, to get the best results with domesticated chickens, it is necessary to house them comfortably. The experience of thousands of poultry keepers all over the world bears out this statement.

A Good Chicken House.

A chicken house is not necessarily any structure in which chickens are kept. A successful chicken house must embody certain features, which are peculiar to this class of building. The most important of these are as follows:

The house must be water-proof. A water-tight roof and tight sides are necessary in the chicken house, as well as in the dwelling. The birds become more liablie to disease in damp houses.

There should be no drafts in the poultry house. A chicken will catch cold quicker in a drafty house than it will by roosting in a tree on a windy night. However, that is no argument in favor of the tree.

There should be a constant supply of fresh air. This may be accomplished by building three sides of the building tight, and allowin the fourth side, which should face toward the south, to be two-thirds open. This will allow fresh air to circulate through the house and not cause drafts.

The poultry house must have a dry floor. A tight roof does not always insure a dry floor. The house should be located on well drained land. A gentle slope running to the south is an ideal location.

The house should be located so that there will be plenty of sunlight in the building as many hours as possible during the day. Sunlight is the best germicide that nature provides, and it is the cheapest. Houses that are open to the sun are less liable to contain disease germs, and more liable to contain healthy birds.

The house should be economically constructed. Our mild climate does not require an expensive type of house. One should consider the cost of the house in relation to the number of birds it will hold, and should never waste money on fancy houses. Returns on capital invested in expensive chicken houses are usually a minus quantity. Good poultry houses should be constructed at a cost not exceeding fifty cents per bird capacity ,and may often be constructed at a much lower cost. Many farms have various odd buildings which may be torn down and the lumber from these may be converted into a good house at a small labor cost.

Consider Before Building.

Before deciding upon the type of house, it would be well to consider a few factors which are important. Briefly ,these are as follows:

Location of the house. The best location is o na gentle southern slope, with the open side of the house facing south. The matter of yard room should be carefully looked after. There is greater danger of allowing too small a space for yard room, rather than too much. Give all the space you can.

Number of birds to be housed. Allow three to four square feet of floor space per bird. This will be ample, as the birds will spend most of their time out of doors. It may be cheaper for you to build one large house rather than several small ones.

Prospects of enlarging the ofick. When the flock is being added to each year in large numbers, it might be economical to build a house of double or triple the capacity that would be required for the present flock.

Money to be spent on the house. This factor will have some effect upon the kind and grade of material used, and also the dimensions. It is far better to build a small house well than a large one poorly. A few, well housed birds will ay more eggs than many birds kept in a cheap, drafty house.

Whatever type you build, make it comfortable for the chickens. Comfortable, healthy birds are the ones which lay the largest number of eggs. Do not make the house highly ornamental, for chickens will not do any better in them for that reason.

SUNSHINE

Sunshine on your temper, and you'll never have a grouch,
Nor make your friends to fear you till they greet you with an ouch.
Sunshine in the morning.
And its welcome dream at night,
And you'll never go in darkness
For the beauty of its light.
Sunshine on your feelings, and they'll always be as sweet
As the dew-kissed summer blssoms in the grasses at your feet.
Sunshine every moment,
And wherever you may fare,
Your heart will ring with gladness
And be lifted from despair.

Sunshine in your system and you'll never flunk and fail
As you climb the rugged mountain or go plowing through the vale.
Sunshine in your bosom.
And the rays it sends afar
Will come back to guide you homeward
When you don't know where you are.

—Folger McKinsey

May Manton's New Patterns For Mother, Big Sister and Boys and Girls

All of the patterns shown here are by May Manton, the noted authority on womens, misses and children's garments. The patterns for the designs, besides allowing for all seams, give the true basting lines and show diagrams for cutting and making. Whe necessary each piece of pattern is lettered for identification. Patterns for any one of the designs shown here will be sent you upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps. Send stamps to Pattern department Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala., Send now while these designs are before you. Note the number of the patterns in small figures on the pictures and corresponding description below.

PLAY SUIT

9094 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Child's Dress , and 4 years.

This is one of the latest and quaintest developments of the play suit. It can be worn by the little boys and little girls and it consists of straight little trousers with a smock over them Girls who love to romp and to play will like the suit as well as the boys and it is quite correct for their wear. Linen, galatea, gingham and such similar washable materials are the suitable ones and the suit is designed to be worn much as rompers are. It is indeed just a ariation of the romper or play suit. In the picture, it is made of blue chambray, trimmed with white linen and it is very smart and at the same time practical. In the back view, the smock is made of white while the trousers and trimming are of rose color. Plaid ginham or any material of the sort could be utilized. The smock is made with a slight opening at the front so that it is easy to draw it on over the head. The trousers are just simple plain ones that can be attached to any under-waist. For the boys, the belt is a desirable feature and one is included in the pattern.

For the 4 year size will be needed, 3 yards of material 27 inches wide, 2 5-8 yards 36 or 2 1-4 yards 44, with 1-2 yard 36, for the trimming.

The pattern No. 9094 is cut in size for children of 2 and 4 years of age.

DAINTY FROCK

9106 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Child's Dress, 4 6 and 8 years.

Long waisted effects are very generally becoming to the little gir This frock shows the kimono sleeves that are always graceful and attractive and at the same time greatly simplify labor. They can be made short or long and the dress can be made with V-shaped or with a high neck. It is available not alone for present needs but also for the future ones, for it can be copied in light weight wool material quite as successfully as in cotton and other materials of the summer. Here embroidered cotton crepe is trimmed with lace but challis could be made to produce a similar effect, or a plain colored challis would be pretty with bands of velvet ribbon as trimming. Even in midsummer there are cool days when such a frock would be welcome.

For the 6 year size will be needed 4 1-4 yards of material 2 inches wide 3 yards 36 or 2 1-2 yards 44, with 5 yards of banding and 4 yards of edging.

The pattern No. 9106 is cut in sizes for girls from 4 to 8 years of age.

YOKE SKIRT

9109 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Box Plaited Skirt 24 to 32 waist.

This is a skirt that is exceedingly simple and easy to handle and it can be made to give two entirely different results. It consists of a circular yoke and straight lower portion, but this lower portion may be either box plaited or gathered. The box plaited skirt is appropriate for silk, for linen, for cotton gabardine and for all materials of such sort. The gathered skirt can be used for flouncing or for embroidered material or any thin material with a plain edge that is trimmed appropriately. Taffeta could be made in both styles with success. There is a plain yoke and over it is a yoke that is laid in folds or plaits For the medium size will be needed, 6 3-4 yards of material 2 inches wide 5 1-4 yards 36 or 4 yards 44, or 3 1-2 yards of flouncing 36 inches wide and 5-8 of a yard of material 36 inches wide for the yoke.

The pattern No. 9109 is cut in sizes from 24 to 32 inches waist measure.

NIGHT GOWN

9110 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Night Dress, Small 34 or 36 Medium 38 or 40, Large 42 or 44 bust.

It would be difficult to find a daintier or more fashionable night gown than this one or one that is simpler or easier to make. It is all in one piece there being only two seams to be sewed up. It can ze finished as it is here with a V-shaped neck and sleeves, or with a round neck and sleeves. The fullness that is held by smocking i a very novel and attractive feature but embroidered slits can be substituted and ribbon passed through them to regulate the size, or the gown can be left quite plain. In the illustration it is made of handkerchief lawn scalloped and smocked with white, but a great many women will like batiste, others linen and others again will like such underwear silks as crepe de chine and Habutai.

For the medium size will be needed 4 1-2 yards of material 27 inches wide 3 3-8 yards 36 or 44.

The pattern No. 9110 is cut in three sizes, small 34 or 36 medium 38 or 40 large 42 or 44.

Remember, each pattern is only 10 cents. Send order today, enclosing stamps to Pattern Department, Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

Watching the "Little Things" In Southern Farming

By Dr, J. W. Beeson

The writer of this article takes us to task for our watchfulness of the "little things" on the farm. But he does it with a kindly spirit and only with the idea of showing us how we can make money all the year off the entire farm. The Danish, the German or the French farmer would make a good living off the things that we waste--the vegetables, the fruits, and the land we let lie idle parts of the year. This lesson of the "little things" needs to be brought home to us, and Dr. Beeson is a man to bring it home for he is a man who values the "little things" and knows from experience how profitable they can be made. Read his article and then write editor Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala., how you are using the "little things" on your farm and your letter will be published.--Editor's note.

The average Southern farmer wants to do things on a big scale. He wants to make money first of all instead of making a living first of all. He wants to see his money come in big lumps. He spurns the idea of a few cents or a few dollars each day. He thinks that is hardly worth his notice. He has been accustomed to hauling one bale, or many bales of cotton to town in the fall of the year and getting a big roll of money. He does not realize that money rarely hits his pocket but must be paid out for something he bought during the year.

÷ ÷

The Southern farmer must learn first of all to make every thing for man and beast on the farm, that can be provided for in his section of the country. Then, he must not despise the small things. A few cents each week for eggs and a few cents more for surplus butter, a few fowls for ale occasionally, a cow or steer for ale and a colt or two or three to sell, a few lambs or a few kids for sale each year ought to be in his plans. He should have a few thorough bred pigs for sale as breeders besides what he can raise for meat. He should have a few cured hams for sale during the summer months.

÷ ÷

He will have to learn to make a garden the year round instead of planting in the spring only and letting he weeds take it the balance of the year. There are fourteen kinds of vegetables that can be grown in the winter in the Gulf states. He should plant a garden every month of the year. Heretofore, the Southern farmer has let go to waste the vegetables he did not need. He will have to learn how to "gather up the fragments, that nothing be lost." instead of letting snap beans get hard, and tomatoes rot and squashes and okra get hard, he should get in the habit of canning that he cannot consume on his own table so that he will have a variety of fresh vegetables for his family all the winter, and then when it is properly sealed and labeled he can sell the surplus to a good advantage in winter. He should see that the blackberries on his farm are gathered and canned for winter use and for market. Strawberries, raspberries, dewberries, peaches, pears and apples should never be allowed to go to waste, but should be canned for winter use and for market.

÷ ÷

The farmer should raise Irish potatoes to last all the year and have a surplus to sell. He should raise large quantities of sweet potatoes and build a dry house to dry them out and keep them for his own use and for sale in the spring.

He should raise plenty of syrup cooked by steam, use a sachrometer so as to make it of uniform density. He should seal it with solder in tin cans like tomatoes, label it and it will keep for an indefinite length of time. He can find a good market for it in the North and in Europe as well as in the South. The crushed cane stalk should not be wasted but cut up and run into the silo, and packed for winter use instead of buying feed. It is better food than cotton seed hulls and makes fairly good ensilage. The skimmings from cooking syrup should be fed to pigs, cows or horses, or put into the silo.

÷ ÷

The Southern farmer must learn to take care of the waste and by products. We are too wasteful. Things grow so easily here, we do not value them as we should. "Come easy, go easy" can be applied to our Southern people as a rule. We have such a long growing season with good rainfall, and it is so easy to grow a crop that we do not see the imporance of saving every particle of it. If we rotate our crops we will build up our soil, and when we raise many things on the farm, if one thing misses, the other will hit and we will not be troubled so much with hard times, drought, boll weevil or low prices.

Woman Farmer Bathes Pigs Once a Week

A ranch where pig pens are palaces, where pigs get baths once a week, where blooded cows are protected from flies by screen paddocks—such a place is Santa Anita Ranche, owned and run by Anita M. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, famous millionaire turfman and picturesque pioneer of the early day West.

Santa Anita rancho—3,600 acres—home ranch of "Lucky" Baldwin, headquarters for the vast 70,000-acre domain that stretched 12 miles in one direction by five in the other, lies in the fertile San Gabriel valley at the foot of the steep Sierra Madre Mountains which threaten to topple over on the ranch.

Part of 70,000-Acre Domain.

Of the tremendous principality that once constituted Santa Anita Rancho, approximately 18,000 acres are left. Much of this is now selling at a price ranging from $1,000 to $6,000 an acre. But Santa Anita ranch, the home place, where still stands the home of Baldwin, vacant, hid amid the trees, yet spic and span, a monument to the genius and foresight of its departed owner, will remain intact. And Mrs. Baldwin will farm it.

"It is a matter of sentiment with me, this ranch life," said "Lucky" Baldwin's daughter. "I am trying to carry out my father's ambition with Santa Anita, in perhaps a more modern way than he would have done."

Model Stock Ranch.

To make it a model stock ranch is Mrs. Baldwin's ambition. Nothing but registered stock finds place at Santa Anita. Holstein cows, Berkshire hogs and fine Poland Chinas, thoroughbred English race horses, Arabians and best blood Percherons that weigh a ton when 3 years old—such is the stock Mrs. Baldwin is specializing in. She is crossing the Arabian with the English thoroughbred for polo ponies and cavalry mounts, thus producing a steed entirely new, fleet of foot and with phenomenal endurance.

"My ranch," says Mrs. Baldwin, "must be practical and artistic."

Piggery is a Hog Palace.

Geraniums grow around the piggery, which is scrubbed every day, and peacocks strut about, spreading their gorgeous plumage. The nostrils of the visitor are not offended by the filth smell with which most pig sties reek. The pigs are dipped once a week to prevent disease.

Every new building on the ranch is of reinforced concrete of mission-style architecture, fireproof and sanitary, designed by Mrs. Baldwin.

The management of Santa Anita Rancho is largely directed from an office on the thirteenth floor of a building in Los Angeles, 16 miles away. Here behind a desk in much the fashion of a general directing an army sits Mrs. Baldwin, her finger on the pulse of every department of the ranch.

Records Kept on Charts.

She knows the record of every animal, its physical condition and all pertaining to it by merely referring to the charts that the foremen of the various departments have turned in. Telephones communicate with every department. Needed information is supplied on demand over the wire. In case of sickness a veterinarian is at hand for any animal on the ranch.

Afternoons Mrs. Baldwin spends in the office; mornings on the ranch. She has personal knowledge of all that goes on, in addition to the reports of her various bosses. The hog boss is an expert; the dog boss is like him; also the dairyman, the hostler who handles the percherons, the man who handles the jacks and mules, and all the rest of them.

In time Mrs. Baldwin hopes to have 10,000 thoroughbred hogs, 500 Holsteins and as many registered horses as she has pasturage for. Her start is the best in the world.

Prize Dogs in Her Kennels.

Her kennels house 40 dogs, among them the world's best English bull, Failsworth White Knight; the best male and female of the Airdale breed —Tintern Tintop and Cherrytree Queen A dairy not yet two years old has already broken the state record for seven days' production of butter fat from one cow, and more records are forthcoming.

"Although sentiment and not love of agriculture made me a farmer," said Mrs. Baldwin, "I find I like it very much. I have always been a great lover of horses—a love inherited perhaps from my father. I would rather handle animals than to deal with most people."

Farming without a silo is like having a pitchen and no cook.

Legumes, silage and livestock will never fail you in the long run.

Clover is the cheapest and best fertilizer ever put on land.

PHARMACY

Thoroughly Taught at Southern College of Pharmacy.
Largest Pharmacy School South. Dispensary in the college. Full equipment, three laboratories. Eight faculty members. Complete course in 12 months. Moderate expenses. Demand for graduates exceeds supply. Fall session begins Oct. 2. Write for catalog J.
R. C. HOOD, Ph. G., Dean,
65½ Walton St., Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. W. P. Talbot, manager of Tameny Hall, a fishing resort, Geneva, Ala., writes: "I have tried Calomel, Quinine and other remedies for malaria and biliousness without effect: tried Vega-Cal" (vegetable calomel), which gave relief. Think it a God-send to the people." "Vege-Cal" is sold and guaranteed by all drug stores, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

FREE TO KODAKERS

Send us one roll films, we will develop and print it free just to show you how much better our work is than the other fellow's. Expert on films. THE KODAK MAN BOYLE, 164 Dauphin St., Mobile, Ala.

ARKANSAS VETERINARY COLLEGE

A practical school. Graduates successful practitioners.
FAYETTEVILLE, ARKANSAS

A School for Farm Boys and Girls
Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, Alabama.

While giving a High School Course that prepares for any College or University, it also gives a Practical Education, preparing for life in the Home, in Business, or on the Farm.
Special classes for those not ready for High School Work.
$75 AND A WILLINGNESS TO WORK will carry you through nine months of school, if you "make good."
For further information, address
Fall Term Opens Sept. 12, 1916. Principal S. H. HERBERT, Thorsby, Ala.

Alabama Girls Technical Institute
Montevallo

offers superior advantages to young women in thorough cultural and practical courses in all academic subjects, in Home Economics, Music, Art, Manual Training, Commercial branches, Physical Training, etc.
Graduates receive first grade teacher's certificates.
Boarding accommodations unsurpassed and expenses the lowest. Best provision made for care and protection of health of students.
Write for catalog.
T. W. PALME[illegible], President

Alabama Polytechnic Institute
The Oldest School of Technology in the South.
Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.
COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.
I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.
II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)
III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics, Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy of Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.
IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three years.)
For General Catalogue and detailed information, address
CHAS C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President. AUBURN, ALA.

Starke's University Home School for Boys
1887 Montgomery, Ala. 1916
WANTED---Parents and Guardians to Consider the Following.

1. A 1915 graduate of Starke's School earned $500 his first year, among rank strangers, at a Pennsylvania college, where he led the freshman class, session 1915-'16.
2. Starke's School is pronounced by a Sewanee professor as one of the best 5 or 6 preparatory schools in the South.
3. Eight of the honor men announced at University of Alabama, June, 1916, had attended Starke's School.
4. Starke's boys have earned more than $10,000, inclusive of 2 Rhodes Scholarships, since 1902.
5. Classes are small at Starke's School.
6. Individual attention is intensive and thorough at Starke's School.
7. Starke's teachers are college men with years of successful experience.
8. Starke's methods are daily being vindicated at college, in professions and in business.
9. Spanish is taught at Starke's School.
10. For Preparedness, try Starke's School and the motto, "Work Wins."

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA CAPSTONE OF THE PUBLIC School System of Alabama.
Letters, Science, Engineering, Education, Law Medicine---A Standard Institution of Learning
Modern Buildings and Equipment, 130 Instructors, 1,500 Students.
FREE TUITION IN ACADEMIC AND ENGINEERING DEPARTMENTS.
All friends of higher education in Alabama are invited to consider the impartial and expert classification of the University of Alabama by the National Bureau of Education at Washington and by the Carnegie Foundation at New York, the only recognized standardizing agencies of the country. President Prichett of the Carnegie Foundation, in referring to the academic department, characterizes its work as "of first grade," while the engineering school is described as "of standard excellence."
Expenses exceedingly moderate. Next session begins September 13, 1916.
Address President George H. Denny, M. A., Ph. D., LL. D., D. C. L., University of Alabama.

Alabama Synodical College
A Safe Place For Your Daughter
Next Term Will Open Sept. 14
Conservatory of Music, Art and Expression.
Full Literary Courses, Usual Degrees Conferred; Able Facutly.
Home Economics, Complete New Equipment. Successful Teachers' Training Department. Bookkeeping, Short Hand, Typewriting.
Each department strong; individual and personal attention given each pupil; Christian influence, dancing and card playing not being allowed; splendid buildings; Modern equipment; Steam heat; Electric lights; Baths; Artesian water; Ideal climate, situated in the mountains of Alabama; Beautiful campus of nine acres; Out-door games; Gymnasium.
Expenses reasonable.
Write for Catalogue. Address,
J. R. Thompson, President
TALLADEGA, ALA.

LADIES WANTED in every locality to sell LA PRINCESS TOILET PREPARATIONS AND FLAVORING EXTRACTS. Earn good income. Every home your customer. We furnish sample outfit. No money required. Write today for particulars. NATIONAL MFG. CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Miller's Antiseptic Oil Known as
Snake Oil
Creating a Sensation Throughout the South—Many Thousands are Now Using It With Gratifying Results.
For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Stiff and Swollen Joints, Corns, Bunions or whatever the pain may be, it is said to be without an equal. For Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Sore Throat, Croup, Diphtheria and tonsilitis it has been found most effective. Accept no substitute. This great oil is golden red color only. There is nothing like it. Every bottle guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents or money refunded by leading druggists.

Beautify Your Skin
Free your system from toxic poisons. Get a package of ELLA R. BERRY'S
CREOLE TEA
Drink a cupful every night.
ALL DRUGGISTS, 10c

LADIES!
When irregular or delayed use Triumph Pills. Safe and always dependable. Not sold at drug stores. Do not experiment with others; save disappointment. Write for "Relief" and particulars. its free. Address: NATIONAL MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Milwaukee, Wis.

Send Your Films
To us to be developed and printed. Prompt and satisfactory work. Special attention to out of town orders.
Tresslar's Studio
Montgomery, Ala.

Auto Vacuum Freezer
The New Way to Make Ice Cream
Velvety ice cream with no work. That is the new way to make ice cream. You simply fill the Auto Vacuum Freezer with ice, pour in cream mixture—and let it alone. Thirty minutes later, perfect ice cream is ready to serve. No more turning. No more churning. Throw away the dirty, soggy, old - fashioned bucket and get this clean, neat, crankless freezer.
We sell AUTO VACUUM FREZERS and will be pleased to explain them in detail. Why not get yours today?
Jernigan & Haltiwanger Agents
Montgomery, Ala.

Special Live Stock Report From East St. Louis

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, ILLS., Aug. 13—The breaking of the drouth in a partial way has to some extent reflected in a more active trade for killing cattle of all kinds, though 'twas the lower priced killers that had the real benefit of the improved demand. Fat steers and she stuff has sold little if any different than two weeks ago, but canners and cutter stuff are 15 to 25 cents higher while yearlings and heretcis are now selling 25 to 40 cents per cwt. higher than our last report.

Rain has been badly needed to stimulate the trade and should there be goodly rains in these sections from now on it will thoroughly liven the markets. However, as far as the strictly good fat cattle are concerned do not look to see any great change in prices, but the needed rain fall will surely reflect in a rising price scale on all cheap and low priced killers.

Quotations: Choice to prime grass steers $6.75 to $7.25; good to choice grass steers $6.25 to $6.75; medium to good grass steers $5.50 to $6; common to medium grass steers $5 to $5.50 Canners $4.15 to $4.25; Cutters $4.50 to $5; medium cows $5. to $5.50, with fat cows $5.50 to $6. Light weight bulls $4.75 to $5; heavy bulls $5.25 to $5.75; yearlings $4.75 to $5; heretcis $6 to $6.50 with light veal calves at $6 to $11.

Despite the fact that rain has fallen it has not been in sufficient volume to maintain the confidence in stockers and feeders necessary for any improvement in the trade. Nevertheless, slim receipts has been the chief cause of the price level being sustained steady with two weeks ago. At this time good to choice quality thin steers are selling at $6 to $6.50; medium to good $5.25 to $5.75; common to medium $5 to $5.25, with the good quality stock heifers at $5 to $6.

The hog trade during the past two weeks has been a repetition of former weeks, ruling erratic and very changeable from day to day, yet withall the trade has hovered right around the $10 level right along and has a sufficiently good undercurrent to sustain a friendly feeling for present market values to be maintained during the near future. The extreme top of the market was $10.15 with the bulk of the good hogs 160 pounds up selling at $9.80 to $10; rough hogs $8.75 to $9.25; pigs 120 to 140 pounds $9.40 to $9.80, with lighter pigs at $8 to $9.25.

Making Sweet Potatoes A Paying Crop

By T. H. McHatton

No particular or special methods are required in the cultivation of the sweet potato crop. Any of the ordinary tools used to make and maintain a soil mulch will answer the purpose. The cultivation should be shallow and often; once every ten days or two weeks and after every rain. When the vines begin to interfere with cultivation they should be thrown back and each alternate middle cultivated. The vines can then be placed back in this middle and the other middle cultivated. When the ground is pretty well covered with vines, cultivation should cease.

Harvesting.

The successful keeping of the sweet potato crop begins with harvesting. Do not harvest immature potatoes. The maturity of the potato may be told by breaking it and exposing it to the light for a few minutes. If the exposed part dries off, the potato is mature. Potatoes should not remain in the soil after maturity, as a wet growing spell may start them into a second sappy growth, which greatly militates against their keeping in storage.

The harvesting should be done at a dry time, so that the soil will not stick to the potatoes. Potatoes harvested in wet weather are apt to rot, as they cannot be dried in the field. The work of harvesting on a small scale can be done with a middle burster or with a one-horse turn plow. Where large areas are grown in potatoes ,a potato digger is a useful tool. Every effort must be made to prevent cutting and bruising potatoes. All damaged and diseased roots should be sorted out. All boxes, crates or baskets used for gathering potatoes may be well padded with burlap or sacks, in order that bruises incidental to the handling of the crop may be reduced to a minimum.

Storing.

The most up-to-date and most satisfactory method is storing in a potato house. This house is built with dead-air space in its walls in order that the cold may be kept out, as well as the heat. The potatoes are taken from the field and placed in bins in this storage house. Arrangements are made for heating this house up to 90 to 100 degrees F. The temperature is kept at this point from ten days to two weeks after first storing, or until the potatoes show that they have pretty well dried out. As soon as the drying-out is finished the temperature should be reduced to between 50 and 60 degrees F., and held at this point throughout the period of storage. To maintain a temperature of from 50 to 60 degrees F. will require artificial heat at some time and ventilation at others. Farmers' Bulletin No. 548 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture outlines in great detail the making of storage houses and the methods used for heating the same, as well as giving a most worthy discussion of the whole question of sweet potato storing.

Marketing.

Early potatoes may often be sold at a profit directly from the field. As a rule, however, the greatest returns are obtained when the potatoes are stored and sold through the winter and spring. When the main sweet potato harvest is on, from 40c to 50c per bushel is a good price, but often the price is less than this. Early potatoes quite often bring as much as $1.00 per bushel, and potatoes carried over winter, move at the prevailing price of $1.00. It takes about 500 bushels to make a carload. Smaller quantities will have to be used for home consumption or disposed of on the local market, unless several neighboring farmers ship together. Sweet potatoes for shipping purposes are packed in bushel Delaware baskets, in sacks, and sometimes in barrels. Occasionally a car is shipped in bulk, but this is not considered advisable.

Canning

There is sure to be a great number of smal land undersized potatoes, as well as many damaged ones, harvested. These potatoes may be fed to stock or put in cans. There is quite a demand for canned sweet potatoes, a demand that seems to be on the increase, with the supply not keeping up. Recent investigations at the Georgia College of Agriculture resulted in the following recommendations regarding the canning of sweet potatoes:

"A small steam canner will cost about $15.00. The potatoes should be peeled by hand after cooking forty-five minutes, packed in the cans while hot and sealed. Cans are preferable to glass jars for sweet potatoes, especially for commercial purposes. The processing should be done at 10 pounds steam pressure for seventy-five minutes. The cans should then be cooled by filling the retort with cold water before the product has a chance to air-cool. This water is introduced into the retort as soon as the steam has escaped, after the processing has been finished. By following these directions, the color of the product will be good and the loss caused by spollage reduced to a minimum."

Feeding Value of Potatoes.

Sweet potatoes are not only valuable as human food but may also be used for stock. In nutritious properties this root excells all others except the carrot. Potatoes analyze as follows: water, 71.1 per cent; ash, 1.0 per cent; crude protein, 1.5 per cent; crude fiber, 1.3 per cent; nitrogen free extract, 24.7 per cent; ether extract, 0.4 per cent. The addition of these per centages, with the exception of water and ash, gives 27.9 per cent organic matter. A comparison with Irish potatoes shows that the sweet potato contains 7.8 per cent less water, the same amount of ash, 0.6 per cent less crude protein, 0.7 per cent more crude fiber, 7.4 per cent more nitrogen free extract, 0.3 per cent more ether extract and 7.8 per cent more organic matter. It is said that for feeding stock that three bushels of sweet potatoes are equal to one of corn. When the amount that may be raised to the acre is considered this shows that a yield of 150 bushels of sweet potatoes is equal to 50 bushels of corn. Yields exceeding this are not uncommon.

LADIES Take Cotton Root Compound Tablets, Sure relief for monthly afflictions. Sent in plain wrapper. Price $2.00. Welch Medicine Co., Chula, Ga.

Protect Your Barn and Silo

This is the time of year when you should paint your barn and silo. It means protection to your buildings and everything in them.

Lowe Brothers Standard BARN PAINT

is of the highest quality—made expressly to protect your barn and outbuildings. The colors and the quality are vastly superior to those generally used for barn paint. It withstands the wear and tear of the severest weather and keeps your barn weather-proof, always looking new.

It's fine, too, for shingles, roofs, fences, sheds, etc. Color card upon request.

There is a Lowe Brothers paint, varnish, enamel or stain for every farm purpose. Tell us what you want to paint and we'll help you select the best finish for the purpose.

G. W. BARNETT HARDWARE CO.
Montgomery, Ala.

Making Ice-Cream Without a Freezer

If one wishes to freeze a pint or quart of cream when there is no freezer at hand it may be done in a tin pail in from 20 to 30 minutes. Put the cream in a two-quart tin pail and cover it with a mixture of coarse salt and finely pounded ice in the proportion of 1-3 salt to 2-3 ice. Put a quart of this mixture in an ordinary wooden pail, place the tin pail in the center and pack it firm in within an inch of the top.

Then remove the cover of the tin pail and stir the cream with a wooden spoon constantly detachment the frozen cream from the bottom and sides of the pail until the whole is stiff. Smooth it over the top, replace the cover, pour off the water, repack, cover the whole closely with a piece of carpet and leave for hour or two is as cool a place as can be found.

In winter the pail may stand in a chair in the kitchen while the cream is being stirred in summer in any shady place in the open air. This method gives the pleasure seeing the freezing process, which is hidden in an ordinary patent freezer.

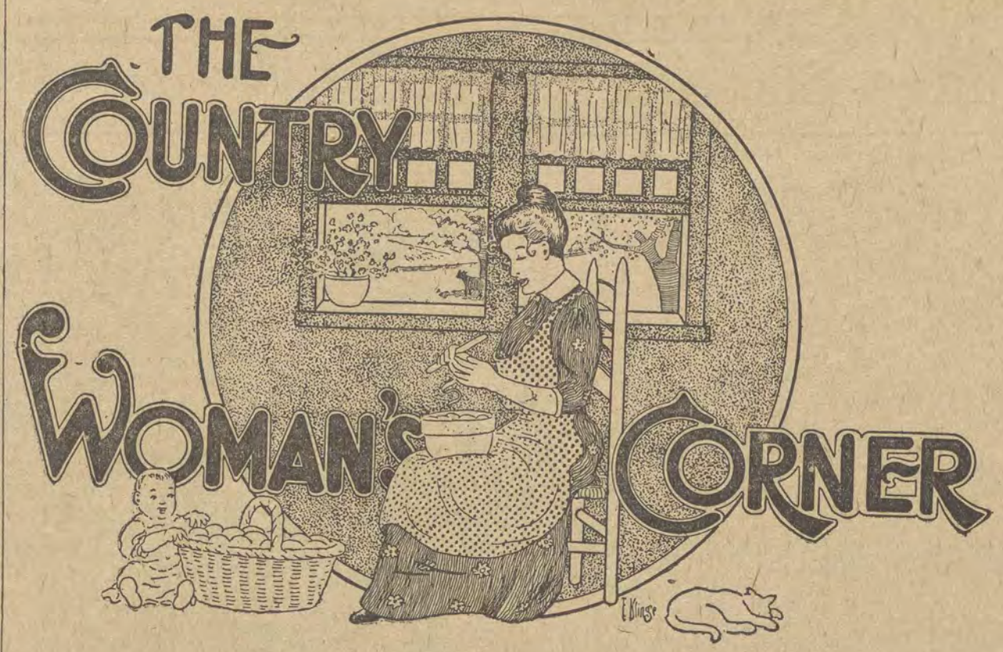
SING A SONG OF SHIRT SLEEVES.

Sing a song of shirt sleeves
Early in the morn.
Cellar filled with cider,
Crib is full of corn.

Fried cakes in the larder,
Sausage by the yard.
Bless me! it is pleasant—
Farming's not so hard (?)

Sing a song of shirt sleeves!
Tallow on his boot;
Hair is full of hayseed—
Got the tutti-fruit!

Price of cheese is uppish,
Butter's on the rise.
Bless me! this is pleasant—
Oven choked with pies.



Sing a song of shirt sleeves!
Farming is a dream (?)
Ma is in the pantry
Skimming off the cream.

—Horace Seymour Keller.

Crimson clover seed are a little high but an acre of crimson clover will put upwards of ten dollars worth of nitrogen and humus into your soil.

Try to make up for summer losses by a good winter cover crop on that cotton or corn field.

The fellow who has got a silo is in the fight to make some money this winter.

A Plea to Mothers For Young Folks

In this issue the editor of the "Country Woman's Corner" takes up a social question that goes home to mothers and daughters in every country community. It is a big theme but the editor will try to help you with it if you write her a letter, enclosing stamp for reply. Write editor "Country Woman's Corner," Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

A few years ago I read a magazine article which laid great stress on the dangers of village girls congregating at the little depot of their home town at train time, and I agreed with the writer that there was a possible danger (I lived in a city then)

But since living in a village where there is nowhere to go, I realize that this depot-visiting each afternoon is not so much to see who comes and goes, or to flirt with some passing stranger, as it is a general meeting place where all spend a jolly hour of chat and joke, their only break in the day's monotomous routine of home duties. There they learn what little news is to be gained and exchange ideas along many lines, as their only recreation.

You Were Young Once.

Young people will be young people and it is criminal to try to make them older than their years. Youth is ours but once and when gone can never be recalled, for like lost opportunity it returns no more. You had your good times when you were young; if you didn't you were cheated, but you have no right to pass the cheat along to your children. It is your duty to stay young with them, but if you will not you haven't the right to make them settle into your rut of life, and expect them to be content. Some people when they marry seem to think raising a family is the last thing to be accomplished in life, so while that family grows up, the parents grow down, and when they realize they have a grown family around them, they have become so "sot" in their ways that they have given up the good times of yore and now call them dissipations, thus begrudging the young folks their natural dues in life.

You parents are the ones to promote the pleasures of your children and if you will make your home a meeting place for your boy's pals or your girl's chums and lend your presence to their efforts to entertain, you can keep an eye on all that takes place and be a jolly good fellow besides, for when both boys and girls are entertaining at home you know where they are and who they are with, which is more than you can be sure of if they seek pleasures elsewhere.

Nearly every one has a musical instrument of some kind these days, and nine out of every ten young persons love to sing, thus they could be formed into a singing club, or, if they have talent, form a dramatic club to study little plays to give from time to time, which brings the young folk together each week for a few hours of fun and practice, and gives them an interest in life.

Every village should establish a recreation center for singing, social or study clubs; let the club house be lighted and good times going on a couple of nights (or one at least) each week.

Those Sunday Nights.

Even on Sunday nights instead of roaming or sitting around let them spend an extra hour of song at the church or club house, or different ones can take turns in inviting the crowd to their home to sing an hour or so, and chat and be happy. Let the parents form these clubs for the interest of the young and if a boy knows he can be one of a good checker or domino game with a good player he will not sneak off to shoot crap and start the downward pace that leads to disgrace and shame.

What One Village Does.

Nor will the girl through lack of excitement go to the city to slave for a mere pittance at possibly the final cost of her soul.

You think I am over drawing things but you are mistaken, boys and girls do this very thing else the reformatories or prisons would not be so full, but don't blame them, you are to blame; One village has such a club hall where the ladies of the settlement take turns at presiding each week and the young people in all walks of life are invited to attend these weekly meetings of song and games. Once a month all the members furnish refreshments and the parents are invited to spend the evening as their guests, thus seeing how and who their children entertain.

Make a Start.

Why don't you make a start toward a club of this kind for the young people of your town? You have only to make the start, they will keep the venture going and soon there will be a new interest in life for them and not a lonely or discouraged person among them. How could there be when the lovely sincere Christian women of the place are banded together to mother them and work for their pleasure. Won't you be the first one to offer your parlor or living room to these young people and start the ball rolling to make good men and women of these future citizens of your town, or will you wait for some one else to wake up, in the meantime letting things drift along as always, the young people cheated of their just dues, nothing in view but everlasting work, grown sour in life before their time; or will you wake up some morning to find your boy or girl gone while you slept, because the home town was "too dry" or "too slow" and under the delusion of a good time they are fast on the down grade of life's toboggan beyond the reach of your recall and your cup is turned to gall the bitterness of which will linger until that final sleep which passeth all understanding.

Maybe I Can Help You.

Don't "Stop, Look, Listen!" but RESOLVE, MOVE, ACT! I'll be glad to help anyone form such a community club giving you programs with simple and amusing contests for an evening's entertainment, if you will write me enclosing a stamp for reply.

Helping your people enjoy life is one of my hobbies, my latch string always on the outside for them to help give them an evening of good, wholesome fun.

Address me Editor "Country Woman's Corner," Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

Keep Sane Over Rural Credits. A Few Facts That May Be of Aid to Farmers

Fight Shy of "Coupon" Schemes and Wait Until the Federal Land Banks Are Established and Then Be Organized in the Right Way to Get Loans on Your Land for Permanent Improvements — Saneness and Patience Necessary to the Quick Establishment of the System Next Spring

There is considerable excitement about the Rural Credits Bill, which is now a law, and the twelve Federal Land Banks that are the backbone of rural credits.

Every town on the map thinks it should have one of the banks. Towns that heretofore have shown little interestin farming and that have done very little to cooperate with the the farmers are puting forward their claims. All this excitement will die down and when the Farm Loan Board, of which Mr. McAdoo is ex-officio member, gets through its investigations some of the towns are going to see things in a different light.

The Land Banks will be established in well located points in the twelve districts and most likely in cities that that have shown a real interest in the upbuilding of the farms around them. The claims of cities like Birmingham, a steel center and of Savannah, a port, are absurd on their face. The banks should be and will be established in agricultural centers and not under smokestacks or near drydocks.

Foolishness.

Also, we note that one agricultural paper in the South printing coupons and asking farmers who want loans to sign the coupons and send them in. Why such a perforcance as this we do not understand. The paper cannot get anybody any loans. It has no more to do with it than you or I. These coupons filled out will give the paper a lot of names on which to work for subscriptions for the paper but otherwise we cannot see their value.

Sanity Needed.

The Rural Credits System is a great plan and one that must be put into operation sanely and with patience. Filling out some publication's coupons for loans does not tend to system and patience, in our opinion. We suggest to the editor of this particular paper and to others who forget themselves that they withdraw their coupon schemes, quit trying to get publicity for themselves and try to guide the farmers sanely and wisely in this matter.

It will be several months yet before the twelve Land Bank districts are platted off and before the Land Bank centers are decided on. Then it will be some little time before the system is in good working operation.

In operation the system to some extent will do for the farmer what the federal reserve system does for the business men. The farmer will be given opportunity to secure money on his most available commodity, his land, just as the merchants and manufacturer has been enabled through the federal reserve system to have his paper based on commercial transactions find a ready market.

The new scheme has many points of resemblance to te federal reserve system in many essential features it is entirely different. In no way will the banks created under it do commercial banking, and while it is possible that in years to come they may have funds to loan that will amount to several hundred million dollars, it is not believed probable that the system ever will have the resources of the reserve system.

Twelve Land bank Districts

The act provided for a division of continental United States into twelve land bank district with a federal land bank in each. The work of designating these districts and selecting the centers at which the loan bonks are to be located will be the first important duty of the farm land board and is expected to result in just as many bitter contests as preceded the announcement of the lines of the twelve federal reserve districts and the location of federal reserve banks. The only directly provision on the farm loan act says that land banks shall be located with particular reference to the farm loan needs of the country, so the board will have wide discretion. Many applications from cities, particularly in the northwest and southwest already have been filed in the treasury but the board will not make public its conclusions until it has traveled over the country and held hearings in many states.

Each federal land bank must have minimum subscribed capital of $750,000 before it can start business. If within thirty days after books are opened for subscription to the stock of any of these banks individuals or corporations have not subscribed that amount the secretary of the treasury is directed to subscdibe for the United States in the needed sums. Stock in the banks may pay dividends when earned ,but the United States as a stockholder cannot participate with others.

Loam Association.

The banks will not except in special cases loan direct to farmers, but through the agency of national farm loan associations, which may be organized to any number i na land bank district by any ten owners or prospective owners of farm land who desire to secure loans on farm property. Applications for charters for these associations must go up to the farm land board and may be refused by it. No association will be chartered unless it is shown that signing members desire loans totaling at least $20,000.

Must Take Stock.

In applying for membership in an association a farmer must take five per cent of the face value of the desired loan in stock of the association.

Applications for loans are to be passed upon by a loan committee of the farm loan association. Loans will be made only on first mortgages or farm property and the value of tne land will be the main consideration. The land will subject to inspection by an appraiser of the farm loan board. Loans will be made only for purchase of land, for its improvement, or for purchase of live stock, equipment, fertilizers, or to provide buildings on a farm or to liquidate indebtedness, existing when the first association is formed in the county where land is located. No loan will be made of more than $10,000 nor less than $100. Interest will not be charged greater than six per cent. The loan itself will be reduced through an auorthization plan providing for reduction by annual or semi-annuel payments on the principal. No mortage shall run for more than forty years nor less than five and there are the necessary provisions in the law for satisfaction of overdue or amortization payment.

Farm Loan Bonds

The money to be loaned will come through the federal land banks, passed to the hands of the national farm loan association and to the farmer. The capital stock of the land banks will not give them much loaning power so congress increased that power greatly by authoribing the banks to issue farm loan bonds and sell them in the open market. The act provides that when a federal land bank has loaned $50,000 to farmers it may issue a corresponding amount of farm-loan bonds and that the total that may be issued by any one bank on a minimum capital of $750,000 is to be twenty times that capital. This would give each bank $15,000,000 and the whole system $180,000,000 to loan on first mortgages.

Rate of Interest.

Farm loan bonds are to be made attractive by payment of not more than five per cent interest and a provision that they shall be exempt from federal state or municipal taxation. They are made legal investments for trust funds. They are not to be obligations of the United States, but will have behind them the first mortgages on farm lands. These mortgages also are exempt from taxation.

ON SATURDAY

Sittin' down on Saturday, with Dolly by my side;
Countin' up the gold and gray that the week has brought;
Tryin' to strike a balance with the ebbin' of the tide,
Sittin' down on Saturday to take a little thought.

Fold your hands a while, and then you open them and sight;
You smile a little as you look into each other's eye;
She tells you what she thinks of this and you tell her of that.
And then you look at her again and twiddle with your hat.

Sittin' down on Saturday to count the loss and gain,
The week of profit and of joy of gladness and of plain;
After all you've figured out and gone into, you say
That Dolly's still the sweetest thing you've left on Saturday.

Folgar McKinsey.

HOME, LITTLE PEOPLE

Home, little people, to supper;
And home little people to bed.
Home to the dear breast of mother,
The gathering hearts that are true
Who waits for each wee little head
Home to the scenes of the twilight,
In the sweet of the evening of summer
When the moon lays her beams on the dew.

Home, little people, to supper;
And home, little people, to rest;
Home to the heart of your mother,
To lie in sweet dreams on her breast.
Home to the love and affection,
The ties that bind ever more tight
The hearts that are rich in the laughter
That comes from life's love and its light

Home, little people, to supper;
And home, little people to dream
In the dusk of the day of adventure.
Where the lamps of the fairyland gleam
Home to the comfort and cooing,
From the play, from the stress and the strife—
From the shards of the battle's pursuing—
To the peace and the beauty of life.

Folger McKinsey

Are you getting ready to lay that carpet of green on your farm?

Nothing will go over a dry spell like a crop planted on land that has been plowed deep. Deep plowing is the surest safeguard against a dry spell in springtime.

With wheat soaring up the way it is, don't you wish you had planted a little more wheat last fall?

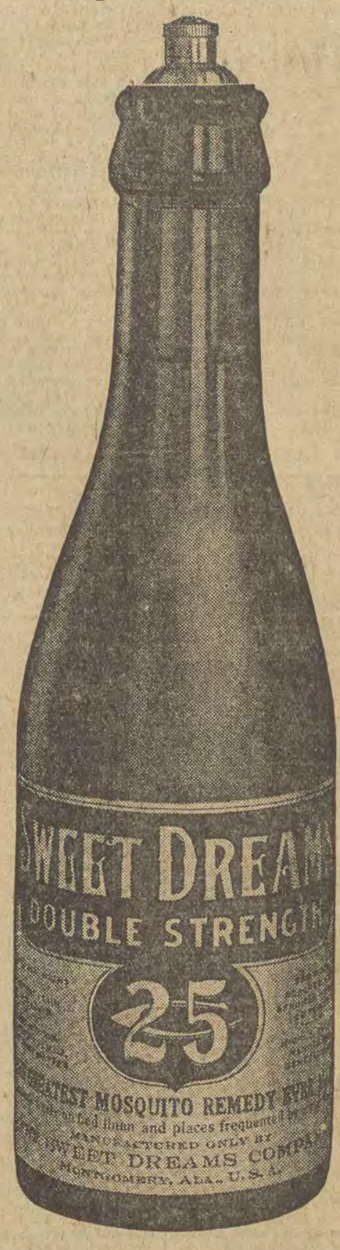
Get rid of the cow that isn't paying her board.

BIG, SMOOTH POLANDS

I have for sale big boned, prolific Poland Chinas, sired by 1,000 pound boars and out of 600 pound sows. Can fill Boys Pig Club orders from either sex not related. Safe arrival and a square deal guaranteed. Write us your wants. ERNEST B. BAKER, Route 2, Knox City, Mo. Pres. Knox County, Mo., Poland China Breeders Assn.

McCormick Mowers

The McCormick Mower is known for its simplicity and durability, wherever hay is grown. There are several good reasons why the experienced farmer selects a mowing machine that is simple in construction. The McCormick has fewer parts than any other mower. Its flexibity makes it more acceptable than any other because it is adapted to the irregularities of the field. Its durability makes it the most practical mower on the market, because it will stand the test. The McCormick will clean your field more nearly than any other mower. Alabama farmers who KNOW use the McCormick mower. Write or call for descriptive literature and prices.



TULLIS-GAMBLE HARDWARE CO.

Harvesting Machinery a Specialty

Montgomery, Alabama Wetumpka, Alabama

SWEET DREAMS

Highly Recommended for Keeping Mosquitoes Away

Exact Reproduction.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, AUGUST 24, 1916. NUMBER 21.

ROBINSON PLANING MILL IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Together with a Residence and About 200,000 Feet of Lumber.

Just at noon Wednesday fire broke out in the shaving room af John M. Robinson's Planing Mill at the railroad yards just south of the L. & N. depot at Clanton, and quickly spread over the entire plant and the adjacent lumber yards. The result was the complete loss of the mill and machinery, and upwards of 200,000 of lumber, and the destruction of the residence of Leonard Eubanks.

The rapidity with which the fire advanced in the dust and sawings where it caught, prevented any action by the fire department toward saving the mill and the stacks of lumber, and the residence which was close by. All the efforts that could be made with the water had to be directed toward preventing the fire from reaching the barn and residence of Dr. J. P. Hayes, and some other residences which were in grave danger, owing to a wind that was blowing the flames into a seething madness.

Several lumber men of this place entailed losses from the fire. They had lumber stacked at the mill for planing and dressing. J. H. Roberts is the heaviest loser in the lumber, he having about 150,000 feet stacked on the yards. W. C. Robinson, J. W. Stanfield, W. W. Fox and others sustained losses also.

"There was not an item of destruction that carried a penny of insurance," is the statement of Mr. John M. Robinson, the owner and operator of the mill. He said the rate of insurance was so high that he could not afford to carry it on his mill.

Some freight cars that were on the siding for loading lumber to be shipped caught fire and would have been destroyed but for the fact that a freight engine that was on the yard was brought quickly into action in removing the cars from danger.

COLLINS CHAPEL

Health is good at present.

Fodder pulling is the go now.

Prof J. M. Dye's singing school closed Saturday last, and a nice program for the day was arranged, and quite a crowd came out to listen to it. We want to thank Prof. Dye for the good work he did here.

Mr. Evan Parrish, who has been attending the singing school here has returned to his home near Clanton.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. A. P. Oslin's father

Miss Pearl Oslin has returned from Birmingham,

Miss Mollie Murrah is spending a few days with her brother in Siluria.

Messrs Clarence and Evan Parrish, George Wyatt and Uncle Jack Robinson and Miss Lummie Murrah spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Nora and Mattie Mims.

Miss Gertia Mae Martin dined with Delean Burnett Sunday.

Miss Linnie Collins, who has been attending Prof. Dye's singing school, has returned to her home in Clanton.

Miss Lula Belle Foshee spent Saturday night and Sunday with Roberta Bean.

Mr. Herlie Mims and Mattie Mims began Monday morning to attend the remainder of Prof. J. L. Harris' singing school at Cross Roads.

Mrs. J. L. Gore, of Clanton visited Mrs. J. M. Mims Sunday.

Much success to the Union-Banner,

MINERAL SPRINGS

Health here is very good at present.

The singing given by Miss Mary Robinson was enjoyed by all present Tuesday night.

Mr. J. M. McKee, V. C. McKee and J. Henry Robinson spent Saturday at Jemison.

The dance at Mr. Jim Collins' was carried off nicely Saturday night, as there was no political speaking here.

There is going to be preaching at this place Saturday night by Rev. Tom Daniel. Everybody come and make good of it.

JAS. I. ROBINSON.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKING

Honorable J. Osmond Middleton, and Prof. J. W. Moore, each will address the voters of Chilton County at Mineral Springs in Beat 12, on Saturday night, August 26, in the interest of the Republican Campaign in Chilton county. All voters are requested and invited to come and hear them.

H. A. HARRIS,
Chairman Republican
County Campaign Committee.

Long Time Loans to Farmers on Improved Real Estate

On real estate security in Chilton County, owned by farmers. I can procure long time loansfrom clients who have ample money to lend, at less tha 8 per cent interest. Applicants should bring their land papers with them.

Wm. M. ADAMS, Clanton, Ala.

PROF. H. C. McDONALD WRITES ABOUT EDUCATION IN CHILTON

Mr. Editor:

As the anonucement of the opening of the High School appears in this issue of your valuable paper, I am asking you to allow me the privilege of saying some things to the people of our county, which is seems to me, are pertinent to the advancement of the education in Chilton just now.

In the first place, there is some reason why I am in the position to write on educational issues. The authorities with the power have placed me at the head of your county high school, and by so doing they have said that they consider me competent to have the charge of your interests.

In the next place, being a comparative stranger to a large part of the county, I am frank to confess that I know but very little of your political wrangles and misunderstanding, and your strivings for political preferment. I am actuated by no man or set of men to put anything over. I do not pose as a man seeking office at your hands, but it is the heighth of my ambition to be a champion of educational interests of Chilton County, just now as she is passing through what I conceive to be the crucial moment of her existence.

The last legislature, whatever it may have done that we deem unwise, will go down in history as the most constructive, educationally speaking, that this state, made great by its men, has ever seen. The laws in the interest of education, which they enacted, are accounted so wise and fair and progressive, by the experts of other states that they are being studied and copied for use in other states.

The law of which I wish to speak in this article, is the County Board law. I want to be heard in the interest of our boys and girls,—the hope of the future, the care of the present—they who need our most unselfish thought just now, so that when the morrow shall have come,, and they shall have taken their places at the helm, their vision may be more lofty, their hands more steady, their hearts more unselfish than ours.

Membership on the county board of education ought never for an instant be thought of or sought as a political job. Proof of the fact that the champions of the law so considered it, has found in the fact that women may be chosen as active members of the board. Another proof is found in that only experienced business men and business women are recommended by the state department.

It seems to me that an excellent opportunity is offered us at this time to show that we really want to be cured of some of our ills. If we must just go on through our natural lives, submerged in political strife and turmoil, lets see to it that we do not bequeath this monster evil to our children by bringing it in and enthroning it as part of the parcel of our county educational system. Lets look around us and find four competent men and a woman, with a successful experience in administering business affairs, who will be unselfish enough to undertake the management of the school interests of our county without money and without price, looking to the coming generation for their pay, which shall be given in love and honor merited by a service beyond money and beyond force.

If you persist in running the future members of the Board through on opposing party tickets, one side or the other, will, in the nature of things, be elected, and being thus elected, they will feel bound by the edicts of the party electing them, and THIS IS THE VERY THING WE WANT TO AVOID. We want a Board elected by all the people, and then they will feel free to serve all the people, untrammelled by any behests of any party or any faction. This is the middle ground on which all parties, all factioins, whether gruntled or disgruntled, may meet and smoke the pipe of peace.

Now fellow citizens, I think the leaders of whatever parties or factions we may be possessed of ought to be given a chance to come together and consult with the nominees on the different tickets, taking the general public into their councils and agree on some plan to obtain this result; but in the event they refuse to do so, then the voters, the men to be served, ought to rise up and demand this bit of reformation which will reach out into the future to bless our people beyond what may now be apparent.

Now friends of education, do not simply read this and throw it aside; read it again; see if it is worth while; see if it is wise; see if it will bring results; if in your opinion, this ought to be done, arise to the point of being heard and assert your freeborn right of having a voice in public affairs.

Yours for our boys and girls,
H. C. McDONALD.

APPLICANTS PASSED COUNTY TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

Third Grade, (Extension.) Geo. E. Kilpatrick, Marble Valley.

Life Grade.—L. J. Howell, Marion W. Mims.

First Grade.—Claude M. Baker.

Second Grade.—Eloise Honeycutt, Bertha Littleton, J. Z. Mims, Louise Mullins, Bessie Davis, J. T. Hughen, Felston Mullins, Gertrude Popwell, Phala B. Roper.

Third Grade.—Margaret C. Graves, Amy Hand, G. R. Lewis, Mrs. Olive Littlejohn, G. E. Culver, J. C. Dennis, T. M. Hammond, Etta L. Headley, Mrs. E. W. Mahan, E. C. Popwell.

COLORED, Third Grade.—Anna C. Allison.

The total number making application were 43, 24 of whom passed and 19 failed.

CAMPAIGNING AT THE EXPENSE OF PUBLIC

All Officials Draw Salaries While Campaigning for Wilson.

Among the movie films that the Democratic managers are to use to put "pep" in the Wilson campaign will be scenes showing the members of the cabinet at work and other scenes to indicate the activities of the administration. We are told that some films will be made showing the ships of the fleet at manouvers—and we are not so guileless as to think that the price of this will be paid from the Democratic war chest, plethoric as it is reputed to be. On the contrary, the expense will be bonre by the Federal treasury and we shall have the money of all the taxpayers used to provide a partisan argument for a Democratic president. The campaign for Wilson's re-election will furnish a considerable drain on the nation's purse, inasmuch as all the members of the cabinet, every assistant secretary, every chief of bureau, and every other underling who can raise his voice is to be pressed into service on the stump. The salaries of these men will go on just the same when they are out spouting around for Wilson as if they were at their desks in Washington doing the work that the government pays them for—and it may be that, in addition, someone will have to be takenon to do some of the tasks which they are neglecting. At any rate, the public service and the treasury are not to be freed from the burden of trying to keep the present job holders on the payroll. We had almost said "on the job." Nothing apparently could do that.

PLEASANT GROVE

Mr. Editor, Please allow me space in your valuable paper to express my many thanks to Mr. W. H. Conway, and the other citizens of Chilton county who awarded the great reward of taking the second valuable trip to Auburn, wher I attended the short course of the Agricultural school for the Boys Corn Club. I duly appreciate the help of every citizen who contributed to the cause of sending the Chilton County Boys to the school, as I believe it means very much in the future to our county, for soon the responsibility of our county government will be resting on the rising generation, and without better preparations our county con no longer prosper.

Hoping that this valuable work will spread and continue to do good in the whole county, I am one in its service,

GRADY PRICE.

THORSBY MUNICIPAL TICKET

A mass meeting was held at Thorsby on Monday, August 14 for the purpose of nominating a mayor and five councilmen. Wallace C. Edler was elected Chairman, and E. W. Butler Secretary.

After a discussion, a motion was adopted instructing the new council not to pay the new mayor over $50.00 per annum for his services. The vote was 19 in favor and 2 against. E. F. Mead was named for mayor and Felix Eiland, R. M. Scott, L. C. Robinson, George Freeman and P. K. Villadsen for Councilmen.

WHICH COST WILL YOU PAY?

Young man, do you think that you cannot pay the cost of an eudcation? Father, do you think that you cannot send your boy or girl to school because it costs too much? Did you ever realize that it costs more not to have an education than to have one.

A young man earning $10 a week was offered a position paying $20 a week, but he found that he could not do the work because he did not have the necessary education, so he is still working at the $10 job. His lack of an education is costing him $500 a year. Many others are paying the cost of not having an education.

It will cost you a little now to get an education, but it will pay big returns in the future. The United States Commissioner of Education figures that each day in school is worth on the average $10. Surely it is short sighted economy for a child to stay out of school to save 25 or 50 cents when he is thereby losing ten dollars.

If you have finished the schooling offered by your home school, Thorsby Institute offers you an opportunity to secure more advanced education at the lowest possible cost. A year in school according to the above figures should add $1800 to the value of your life, but will cost only $125 to $150, if you pay it allin cash, while the boy or girl who has only $75 and is really in earnest will be given a chance to earn the rest. Do not continue to pay the cost of not having an education, but resolve now to get one.

Principal S. H. Herbert, Thorsby, Ala., will be glad to help you, if you will write to him.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted at the Spring term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, 1915, for grand larceny, will apply for pardon or parole.

FATE HENLEY.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

VEGETABLES TO PLANT AFTER RECENT FLOODS

Recent destruction of crops in the low lands of different parts of Alabama and neighboring states has necesitated the planting of various farm vegetable and truck crops for fall and winter use. Supplies for individuals need to be first, but there will doubtless be opportunities for marketing any surplus. For the most satisfactory results act promptly.

At the present price Irish potatoes are a promising truck crop for this fall. The recent short spring crop caused the price to go high and the outlook for a fall crop is good, if the grwer is so located that he can successfully market them. At least Irish potatoes should be grown for home use to help relieve the present food shortage. In the southern part of Alabama, plant up to September 1, but preferably by the 15 of August. The early triumph variety has met with most favor in this section. Either cold storage or new potatoes, the latter sprouted in advance, may be planted. To sprout potatoes place them on moist ground in a shaded place and cover with wet gunny sacks or straw and leave them for a week or ten days. Plant preferably uncut, small potatoes. Cut potatoes are more liable to rot.

Sweet potatoes may be grown still. Use slips or preferably cuttings of vines. Plant as late as August 15.

Nancy Hall, Porto Rico, and triumph are good varieties. Sweet potatoes, rutabegas and carrots may be stored and kept through the winter. Write for detailed intsructions.

Under normal conditions feed to live stock. It can be more economically produced though from corn and other crops than from root crops, but under the present critical conditions, turnips and other root crops for stock feed as well as for table use may be of special value. Sow the early varieties of turnips in July or August, the late varieties during August, and the salad varieties up to September 15. Early White Dutch, early red or purple top, and long white cow horn, are cecommended. Norfolf globe and and white sweet German are stock varieties, while Dixie and seven top are salad varieties.

If planted during the early part of August, rutabegas and carrots should produce a profitable yield.

Snap beans maybe planted until the middle of August. Bush beans only should be planted at this season.

Plant garden peas preferably in the early part of August, but in case this is not possible, later plantings may be made.

Table beets and table raddishes for fall use should be sown during July or the first part of August. Early varieties of radishes may be sown up to October. Sow fall lettuce in August and transplant when ready. It needs rich, moist soil. Grown in the open it stands light freezes. Mustard sownas late as October comes in well and can be easily grown.

Onion sets may be put out from early fall to late winter, but September is the best time to plant for winter use. Onion seeds should be sown in beds in August or September, and when the plants reach the size of a goose quill they should be transplanted, which increases the yield and sometimes doubles it.

There is yet time to grow tomatoes from large cuttings taken from healthy plants and firmly set in prepared soil. It is too late to grow plants for seed.

The above mentioned vegetables thrive best on a clean, well-prepared fertile soil. Use only well rotted manures. Nitrate of soda acts quickly; dried blood and tankage also supplies nitrogen. Ground lime, Thomas slag or bone meal, mixed in the soil are desirable forbeans, peas and other legumes.

Be careful to get only fresh good seed. Secure seed at once so that no time will be lost after the ground becomes dry enough to plant. They are obtainable from all reputable seedsmen, of which there are reliable firms in Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile-Atlanta, and Augusta, Ga. On application the writer will be glad to furnish information concerning southern and other salesmen.

For taking care of the surplus beans and tomatoes and fruits, a moderate priced home canner may be obtained and will pay its cost many times over. This insures supplies long time after the season is out.

For information write the Horticultural Department, or your Demonstration Agent.

(We are glad to give space to the We are glad to give space to the above bulletin. Hope every Club Girl and Home Demonstrator will read it carefully.)

PUBLIC SPEAKINGS ON FORAGE AND WINTER CROPS

There will be public speakings on Forage and winter cover crops by Government experts at the following times and places, for the purpose of encouraging the farmers to plant something that will help to tide over the disasters of rain and boll weevils:

September 13, 1916.
Jemison, 9:00, a.m.
Thorsby, 11:00, a.m.
Cross Roads, 2:00, p.m.
Collins Chapel, 4:00, p.m.
Union Grove, 7:30, p.m.

September 14, 1916.
Liberty Hill, 9:30, a.m.
Clanton, 11:00, a.m.
Cooper, 2:30, p.m.
Verbena, 4:00, p.m.

We cordiall invite every farmer and business man to attend and hear these very important lectures.

We especiall ask the merchants and business men t help get out a good attendance.

W. H. CONWAY.

ABOUT FALL GARDENS HERE IN THE SOUTH

U. S. Department of Agriculture Issues Suggestions on Fall Gardens.

Home gardening in may sections of the South and Southwest, where crops are gathered or are now near maturity, need not reconcile themselves to the existence of bare or unproductive land from now until next Spring, according to garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. With judicious choice of crops and locations, they may plant seed from now until October or November and should, as a result, have fall, winter and spring vegetables. The successful farm garden is a possibility, the department garden specialisits say, with nearly all vegetables grown in spring and summer, in practically all parts of the Southern States, except in areas of high altitude, and in the more northerly portions of the region.

In many sections of the South, tomato plants have succumbed to the strain of high temperatures and dryness. In some localities they will live and continue until fall, but in others they will not survive. A new crop should be planted now, and it may be preferable to try the experiment of planting both in the open ground, where the plants are to remain, and in frames for transplanting. The frames should be located in a relatively cool or shady place. The same plan of field and frame planting may be used for cabbage seeding. With this crop promising results have already been reached, by planting several seeds in a hill and thinning to one plant. If the field planting should not survive, however, in some instances, the grower, it is pointed out, is protected by having on hand the frame grown plants. Ordinarily the seed planted directly to the field will produce an earlier crop than seed planted in a frame and transplanted.

Among the vegetables that may be planted at practically any time during the summer, with fair success, are beans. Bush squash may also be planted even, in the hottest weather, if they have not been made a part of the garden of the earlier season. With the beginning of August practically the entire list of ordinary vegetables is open to the fall gardener for choice. Beets, parsnips, carrots, celery, sweet corn, radishes, lettuce and peas may be planted at this time, many of them in succession crops at frequent intervals. Later in the month and during the earlier yart of September, kale, spinach, mustard, turnips, collards, and parsley may also be planted. During September onion seeds may be planted for the spring crop.

Among the crops of these late plantings, which the Southern gardeners will find available for winter use, are beets and other root crops, such as parsnips and carrots, and kale, colard and spinach and mustard. Many plants, he will find, may be carried by slight protection, even into quite cold weather without suffering damage. To the crops which will be carried over for development in the spring should be added salsify or oyster plant, which may be planted practically any time during the late summer or early fall.

The following specific directions for fall planting of certain seeds in the South have been prepared by the department's plant specialists:

Beets—Beets planted in the South in August and early September, will produce a crop for late fall and early winter use. Where hand cultivation is to be given, sow the seed in the drill 14 to 18 inches apart and cover to the depth of about 1 inch. For horse cultivation, the rows should be 2½ feet apart. As soon as the plants are well established, thin them to a stand of two to three inches apart. Give frequent shallow cultivation. The beets may be left in the ground, thru the winter to be pulled when wanted. Varieties recommended are Crosby's Egyptian, Bassano, Early Eclipse and Blood Turnip.

Turnips.—Turnip seed may be sown during the latter part of August and throughout September and the first part of October. Sow turnip seed thickly in rows 15 to 18 inches apart, and when the plants reach a heighth of 4 or 5 inches, begin thinning, using the young plants for greens. For good roots thin the plants to about 3 inches apart in the row. Keep the land well cultivated to keep down the weeds and to leeve the surface loose and fertile. In a small garden cultivation with the hand is most practicable. Turnips may be left in the ground until needed for the table, or may be pulled as soon as they mature and stored in a cellar or buried in banks or pits. The variety of turnips commonly grown in the South are Purple Top Globe, White Globe, Seven Top, White Milan, and Yellow Milan, and Yellow Aberdeen.

Collards.—Collards can be sown in the same way as outlined for turnips.

Kale.—Kale can be grown in the open throughout the winter in practically all seasons of the South. Sow the seed in September or October in drill 18 inches apart for hand cultivation and 30 inches apart for horse cultivation. As soon as the plants reach a heighth of 4 or 5 inches they should be thinned. The plants may be used for greens. The cultivation for kale should be the same as for turnips.

Varieties recommended are Dwarf Curled, Tall Scotch, and Siberian.

Spinach—Spinach is one of the best crops grown for greens and should be found in every home garden. It can be grown in the open during the autumn and winter in all sections south of Norfolk, Va. Sow the seed in the latter part of August, in September, or in October, in drills 15 to 18 inches apart at the rate of one ounce to 100 feet or row. When the plants begin to grow the plants should be thinned.

The larger plants are selcted first, and the smaller or later ones are thus given room to develop.

WEEKLY NEWSLETTER FROM STATE SUPT. WM. F. FEAGIN

Pickens County Institute.

Aliceville, as host of the Pickens County Institute, offered the teachers of the county variety in the work of the week by furnishing several social entertainments. Ice cream suppers, automobile rides, and moving picture parties were enjoyed. In addition board was furnished free of charge by the citizens of the town.

This recalls the offer of the people of Eufala, who promised the teachers free entertainment if the Barbour County Institute were held there during the next scholastic year.

Altogether, the teachers who attended the Pickens County Institute, pronounced the week to have one of much profit and pleasure.

Facts not generally Known.

DO YOU KNOW THAT ALABAMA

1. Has fewer pupils enrolled for each 100 of school population than any state in the Union except Louisiana and New Mexico?

2. Has fewer pupils in daily attendance for each 100 enrolled than any state in the Union except Oklahoma?

3. Has fewer days in attendance on the part of each pupil enrolled than any state in the Union except South Carolina?

4. Expends less per capita of her total population on schools than any state in the Union except Mississippi, North and South Carolina?

5. Expends the smallest per capita on school population than any state in the Union except Mississippi,* North and South Carolina?

6. Contributes less according to wealth than any state in the Union except Wyoming, Maryland and New Mexico?

7 Has only 26 pupils in high school grades for every 1,000 in the elementary schools?

8. Has a greater number of illiterates in the population from ten to fourteen years of age, than any state in the Union except Lousiana and South Carolina?

9. Has a school term for rural schools of only 111 days?

10. Gives a larger part of the total state revenue to the public schools than any state in the Union?

BECAUSE

The right of local taxation, which all the other states in the Union enjoy, singularly enough is denied in Alabama, making it necessary to raise a large portion of the school funds through fees, tuitions and supplement which tend to crash out rather than build up local interest and support.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO KNOW THE REASON?

Accept the verdict of experience, VOTE FOR THE EDUCATIONAL AMENDMENT in November, and see the schools of Alabama go forward.

5 NEGROES HANGED ON ONE OAK TREE

Gainesville, Fla., August 19.—Five negroes, three men and two women, were taken from the jail at Newberry, Fla. and hanged by a mob early today and another negro was shot and killed by Deputy Sheriffs, near Jonesville, Fla., as the result of the killing yesterday of Constable S. G. Wynne and the shooting of Dr. L. G. Harris by Boisy Long, a negro. The lynched negroes were accused of aiding Long to escape.

Posses consisting of several hundred men tonight are searching the woods about Newberry, 18 miles from here, for trace of Long. Further trouble is feared.

Dispatches from Newberry tonight said that the mob which lynchey the five negroes was composed of about 200 men and worked quietly and rapidly. After gaining entrance to the jail, they took their victims to a point about a mile from town and hanged all five of them on one large oak tree. Not a shot was fired, the dispatch said.

The negro that was shot near Jonesville also was said to have aided Long to escape.

Wynne and Dr. Harris were shot when they went to Long's home, at Newberry early yesterday morning to arrest him on a charge of stealing hogs. It is said Long drew a pistol from his night clothing and fired. Wynne was rushed to Jacksonville, where he died at noon.

Several hundred negroes are employed in phosphate mines near Newberry.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted in the Special Term Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, in June, 1916, for violation of the Prohibition Laws, will apply for pardon or parole.

8-17-3t. NINNIE JONES.

AGENT WANTED

We can give a splendid contract to a wide awake man with horse and wagon to handle our business in Chilton County

Singer Sewing Machine Co.
8-3-4t Montgomery, Ala.

13TH ANNUAL MEETING ALA. HORTICULTURISTS

To be in School Auditorium, Brewton, August 30 and 31st.

PROGRAM

Wednesday, Aug. 31, 9, a.m.

Invocation by Chaplain—Rev. J.W. Cary, New Decatur, Ala.

Address of welcome—Dan Gillis and J. E. Moses, Brewton.

Response—D. C. Turnipseed, Union Springs.

Annual address of President—J.H. McCary, Birmingham.

Annual report of Secretary—Prof. J. C. C. Price, Auburn.

Annual report of Vice-Presidents.

Dovetailing horticulture and the farm—W. L. Whitehead, Greenville.

Value of horticultural societies,—L. H. Reed, Deer Park.

2:00, p. m.

Clearing New Island.—S. E. Washburn, Bolling.

Pecan Growing in the Sounth—Dr. Shaw Whatley.

Varieties of Pecans—J. A. Kernoodle, Camp Hill.

Marketing Pecans—F. H. Lewis, Pascagoula, Miss.

The Satsuma Orange—Dr. O. F. E. Winberg, Silver Hill.

8:00, p. m. (Illustrated Lectures.)

Waterworks for the Farm,—Prof. R. U. Blasingame, Auburn.

Insects, farm and garden—Dr. W. E. Hinds, Auburn.

Thursday, August 31, 9:00, a.m.

Soil improvement and sanitation for the orchardist and Trucker—Prof J. F. Duggar, Auburn, Ala.

Dormancy in plants means of shortening it—Dr. W. J. Robbins, Auburn

Progressive Horticulture—D. C. Turnipseed, Union Springs.

Work of the State Board of Horticulture—Prof. Ernest Walker.

Question Box—Geo. E. Murrell, Washington, D. C.

2:00, p.m.

The gas engine and its use—Prof. R. U. Glassingame, Auburn.

Truck for profit—L. T. Rhodes, Bay Minette.

The Rural Credits bill—L.A. Nevin, Atlanta, Ga.

Marketing perishable products—P. K. Villadsen, Thorsby.

How to deal with the commission man—Hon. J. A. Wade, Montgomery, Ala.

The meeting will be called to order promptly, and every fruit grower and trucker should attend. Program is subject to change.

J. W. McCARY, Pres.,
Birmingham.
J. C. C. PRICE, Sec-Tres.
Auburn.

EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION URGES MEMBERS TO HASTEN SUFFRAGE IN EVERY POSSIBLE WAY

The National Educational Association at its convention recently in New York went on record more strongly than ever before in favor of woman suffrage. Only one dissenting vote was cast out of the entire body. This years' resolution urges of the association to, "endeavor in every possible way to hasten the confirmation of woman suffrage."

22 SQUARES UNDER ONE STALK

Mr. O. O. Roper brought to our office Wednesday twenty-two cotton square which had been punctured by boll weevils, and he said he picked them all up under one stalk of cotton about two and one-half feet high. The stalk was found on the old Culp place about six miles south-west of Clanton, which now belongs to Mr. Joe Gray.

A YOUNG CHILTON MAN COMES TO THE FRONT

The many friends of Mr. Cleveland Kicker, a Chilton County young man, will be glad to know that Mr. Kicker has been appointed Adjutant to the Soldiers Home, near Mt. Creek.

This is a decided recognition of Mr. Kicker's usefulness and ability; he is well liked by the old veterans, and the officers of the Home.

Mrs. Kicker, wife of the Adjutant has been placed in charge of the dining room, and the wife, like her husband is a favorite of the old men at the Home.

WANTED—YOUNG MEN WITH NERVE. Good pay, short hours, opportunity for travel, advancement; normal physique, good references required. Aviation Dep't. THE O'CONNOR CORPORATION, 6309 S. Eggleston, CHICAGO, ILL.

SUBSCRIBERS

We positively will not send The Union-Banner to anyone who is over a year behind with his subscription.

Recently we stopped sending the paper to a number who were in arrears, and took their names from our list.

If you want to be sure to get every issue of the paper you had better look after your subscription.

When it gets a year behind we will take your name off the mail list till it is paid up.

Don't overlook this, as it is important.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.

For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.

For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.

For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.

For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.

For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.

For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

The announcement of the Wilson independent League, that the Bull Moose have stampeded to the Democratic fold recalls the conversation of an old Dutchman with his small boy at sundown: "Jakey, have you got de gooses all in?" "Yes, Fader." How many vas dey?" "Vun." Dot is r-right."

Mr. Bryan criticises Mr. Hughes' speeches and says the Republican candidate has shown himself too partisan to be a judge. Never mind, William J., his successor is a "deserving Democrat," all right. Judge Clark hustled for the party in Ohio and contributed to the campaign fund in 1912.

Speaker Stone was entirely within his rights in criticising the "leak" in the Danish treaty—but he enumerated with care all the agencies thru which the "leak" might have occurred, and everyone of them happens to be Democratic. It is evident that the Democrats can hold nothing but office—and they won't hold even that for any length of time.

When Republicans advocate an increase in import duties as a means of raising more revenue and also affording protection to American industry, Democratic leaders try to give an impression that Republicans oppose an income tax. As a matter of fact, there is no Republican opposition to an income tax, but there is strong desire that additional revenue shall be raised from an import tax, which will also provide needed protection against the dumping of foreign goods after the war.

Some of our editorial colleagues express surprise that Mr. Hughes succeeded so early in his campaign, in putting the Wilson administration in the defensive. To us it would have been more surprising, if he had not done so. The fact is that the administration is extremely vulnerable. Its record is replete with broken promises, with examples of bad faith, with evidence of intellectual and political instability—to say the least—and with constantly recurring proofs of inefficiency. This record is being set forth by Mr. Hughes with remarkably explicit force—and the administration, must perforce, defend itself, though weakly.

The vote in the two last elections shows that this county soon got sick of a Democrat in offoce. Six years ago a Democratic sheriff and probate jodge were elected by a small majority. Two years later, which was four years ago, the Republicans elected their ticket by two hundred and fifty majority. Two years ago, they elected their ticket by five hundred and fifty majority. This year the Republicans will win by a majority of at least eight hundred, and in all probability the vote will reach a thousand majority over the opposition of the Democrats, Socialisits and Independents combined.

Present estimates are that it will require 13,000,000 bales of cotton to meet the world's immediate demands of this season's crop. And the reports currently turned in do not show that there is that much cotton in sight. Prospects are that the price in a very short time reach the 15 cent mark. It is already up to 14 cents.

ABOUT CHANGES OF POLITICS

The Press seems to overlook every other issue in this campaign except Judge L. H. Reynolds; they are just chasing one man.

A great deal is being said about Reynolds changing his politics. Well, there have been some political changes in this county in the past few years; but when the Press has mentioned every political change, they can truthfully, (if they will) state that Mr. Popwell has made every change that Reynolds has made, and then there is one other to the credit of Mr. Popwell. He changed and went into the "Duke's Mixtry," on July 15, and was nominated by the Democrats and Socialisits for Judge of Probate. Now if Mr. Popwell's statements are to be taken for anything, he is booked for one more change. He says he will still be a Republican after the election and go back to the Republican party. But we fear he is forever lost. When this Clanton crowd of Democrats gets through with a man, he is politically ruined.

THE SAME FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

Speaking of political changes in Chilton County, we would like to drop the thought right here that the people who are fighting for their liberties are the same ones who were fighting for their rights under the Populist Banner, and they are fighting the same old enemies. When Judge Reynolds changed his politics he was only going with about twelve hundred of the best citizens of the county. It now looks like the twelve hundred have gathered strength and will number fifteen hundred in the elections this fall. Two years ago the same kind of a campaign was conducted by the Democrats; they had the same writers in the Press; they resorted to the same mud slinging; and when the election was over we had carried this county by five hundred and fifty majority. If the same methods are used until the campaign closes this fall, the majority will very likely be over a thousand.

The people of this county are not interested in personal matters between a few men, nor will the people indorse the idea of a few men venting their spleen through the Press. There are great issues to be settled—the question of high taxes,—the liberties of the plain people are at issue. They have peen suppressed since the Democrats have had charge of the affairs of the county, and they will be as long as the Democrats have control.

HOW HE HAS SAVED CLANTON

The Press says Mr. Popwell has been a great help to Clanton and has pulled it out of the hole. It is our information that the Town of Clanton owes over $75,000.00, and is still going. This is the way Mr. Popwell has pulled it out of the hole by being one of the Aldermen.

But from the editorials and records of the Clanton Press, and the sentiments of Mr. Popwell in the past, this method of debts seems to be their ideas of government. They have both been shooting some mighty big guns for bonds in the last few years.

Back in 1911, when the matter of bonds was being agitated by the Press, Mr. Popwell made a statement in regard to the matter, which we quote in this letter, published in the Press of August 3 of that year as follows:

"I do not wish to enter into any prolonged discussion of the matter. My people know me. They understand that I am not easily led by the sophistries of others. When I take any interest at all in a measure, I first give it proper consideration from every point of view, and then decide on which side I shall stand. At first I was opposed to a bond issue. I felt that we might secure good roads otherwise, but I have given the matter much thought. I have tried to be guided by the experience of others, and I am now convinced that a bond issue is the only way in which we can secure desirable results. Feeling this way, I wish to announce that when the proposition is submitted to the people, I shall unhesitatingly vote for bonds.

Respectfully,
"W. L. POPWELL."

The above letter was written and published by Mr. Popwell while he was the Republican representative in the Legislature from this county. It marked the turning point in his career. The place where he began to digress from the service in the interest of the people, and go off with the crowd that was advocating debts and burdens on he tax payers. It was the beginning of the course that has led him to the "goatship" which he is now serving at the expense of the Democratic bosses in Clanton.

The Press speaks of what Mr. Popwell has done for the Town of Clanton since the Democrats elected him as Alderman. Look at the public roads running through Clanton. See what he has done for them. About all the work that has been done for them was paid for by the county; or that is, county warrants were issued to cover it.

What became of the platform upon which Mr. Popwell was elected? The platform pledged the mayor and aldermen to itemize the money received and paid out by the town, and have it published so every voter could tell where his taxes went to. Has anyone seen such a statement? Is there a single tax payer that knows anything about the spending of the money of the town?

Every voter knows that the platform upon which Mr. Popwell was elected, has been violated, and the town is head over heels in debt. Every form of business that could be thought of has had a high license put on it. Taxes and licenses have been increased since he has been a member of the Board of Aldermen.

But this may be the reason the Press refers to his record and commends it to the people. It has always been the policy of that paper to stand up and defend the policies of debts, burdens, and bonds.

If Mr. Popwell should happen, by some mysterious crook or turn to be elected Judge of Probate, all we could reasonably expect is the continuance of this policy of debts and burdens on the people of the county. It has been his record and the record of his supporters, in the past; and there is nowhere any indication that they have made a change.

Democratic newspapers in Richmond, Virginia, are boasting in their news columns that a large portion of the recent order received by the American Locomotive Company for shell steel for the Allies will be filled at the Richmond plant of the company. And, yet in the editorial columns, those same papers endeavor to make their readers believe that war orders have nothing to do with the present business activity. Richmond has always been a direct beneficiary of ammunition production at Hopewell, near by, and the people of the state are not deceived as to the nature of the business they are getting.

Opinions of the People.

VIEWS OF MR. R. W. KENDRICK

I sincerely think it is time for the younger citizens of our county to begin to open their eyes and begin to post themselves as to the condition of things and how they are going on in the county. I have never said anything publicly before but have been watching the way things have been going. I can no longer keep from telling the people how I feel about things. There are all kinds of tricks being hatched out to deceive the people. That is why I appeal to the younger citizens of the county to post themselves as their needs as private citizens and as citizens of the county, for as surely as the interest of the whole people is advanced, the advancement promotes the welfare of individuals. For this reason, we should feel the county's interest our interest.

Think of the condition of the county a few years ago. and then think of it today. Look how smoothly she used to rock on. paying all bills as they came due. Look at the indebtedness hanging over the county today. Warrants for election services and such like unpaid—money which the poor people need and can't get. And these long-time warrants. Who shall pay these, if they are ever paid?

Our now little infant children and those yet to be born. Yes born in bondage, as it were. When they become citizens their rights shall be taken away from them, just as ours were when this was made a law. For no matter how time may present the things to them, thhis debt is on them and they must pay it. Is this not leading further and further toward a monarchial government?

It is a pity and a shame—not only that but a sin before Almighty God that some of the older men who have to do with the affairs of the county, are so selfish and greedy as to want everything for their own present satisfaction, and loose sight of the future generations. I don't see how any man with a right heart in him could endorse a man for Probate Judge who believes in such policies as these. A man who has held the confidence of the majority of the people of the county, who gave one of the highest honors of the cunty, and now lets the Democratis schemes induce him to run for Probate Judge just in order to down a man and the people, who heaped honors they heaped upon him. He wants a job, doesn't he?

And these eloquent, all-important letters that have been in the Press from Mr. Pounds, that he could not understand why Reynolds and none of his crowd would answer. It is plain to see why no one has replied to such letters. It is a rule among intelligent people not to say anything when they don't hear anything. Certainly this rule applies here. Besides this harsh taffy, this is the wrong kind of examples to set before children, and is far from being an epic of the present day. I can't see why any normal minded man can be influenced by any such rot. On the other hand, Mr. Reynolds has acted the part of a gentleman. And now since the campaign has opened up, he offers to give any man who wishes to oppose him half of his time to speak. Who is it that cannot see that this looks much nicer and more gentleman-like than to writing all kinds of personal criticisms and insults to the people?

Mr. Pounds may be ready to call me a fice dog, and such like, but never will he hear of me trudging at the heels of Popwell for even a fice dog knows better than to follow one who has betrayed it.

Neither is Reynolds any more of a "joss god" to me than any other man who stands for the rights of the people. I believe that the rights of a free and unprejudiced, independent people should prevail. May each man cast his ballot in the November election so as to insure the domestic tranquiity if Chilton county.

R. W. KENDRICK.
Plantersville, Ala.

And the Clanton Press speaks of boss rule. Why, this would make a horse laugh. It is an open secret that back yonder a while ago Mr. J. W. Stanfield was defeated for the Legislature in your Democratic primary, simply because he did not stand for the few bosses of the Democratic party. Then he went to Montgomery on his own expense to try to keep the bosses of the Democratic party from passing the most vicious and corrupt legislation that has ever been hatched out against any people, namely, the abolition of the Commissioners Court of Chilton county and the establishment of a new court with added costs to the tax payers. Why then did Judge Adams come down out of the race? Everybody knows that he did not belong to the few bosses of the Democratic party, the select crowd that are designed to run the campaign; hence he was run out to make room for some candidate that could be managed as they wished, and run on a platform of bribery and deception.

Where did this platform come from anyway? Who has arranged this campaign? Republicans, when you come to town, listen and see who you hear advocating the election of Mr. Popwell. Look back and see when and where these fellows have ever advocated anything for the good of the common people. See if his supporters are not the very worst enemies the people of this county have ever had.

COMING OR GOING

Anti-Suffragists often say: "Woman suffrage is going, not coming." Today there are twelve states where women can vote for president. At the last presidential election, there were only six. When the number of suffrage states has doubled in the last four years, it is idle to say that suffrage is going, not coming.

STANDING OF COMMISSIONER R. J. WILLIAMS

Union-Banner:

I wish to correct a statement made by L. H. Reynolds on the 12th, wherein he said that F .L. Popwell was accountable for my acts as commissioner. I wish to say that I was not influenced by no particular man. I did as the majority of the voters wanted me to do, and feel that I have pleased the majority of the people in which I have done. L. H. Reyonlds and Marion Foshee tried to dictate to me and how I should vote in the commissioners court. They know good and well that they could not fool me about and know too, that no one else can and he knew that I was not influenced by no one when he made such a remark. L. H. Reynolds has seen fit to criticise me for a selfish motive, like as in the pretended effort he made, wherein he took sides with parties to carry the Maplesville and Clanton Speedway by Jonestown, not that he wanted a road over there, but to prevent the road being built by way of the Benson or Jonestown or anywhere else, but thinking to make friends of parties around Jonestown, and create an issue, wherein he hoped to ride into office.

My efforts as a commissioner were honest and sincere. I have stood for the best interest of the people. I close by asking all who stand for honesty, integrity, loyalty, and virtue to cast their vote for Popwell.

Respectfully,
R. J. WILLIAMS.

LETTER FROM MR. O. D. STREET TO JUDGE REYNOLDS

"Guntersville, Ala., Aug. 17, 1916.
"Honorable L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Ala.
"Dear Louis:—

"I was very much disappointed that I could not be with you all at Clanton last Saturday. Kennamer says you had a great day and that you are sure to sweep Chilton. I certainly hope so.

"The failure of our bank and the resulting complications make it well nigh impossible to get away from Guntersville.

"If at some later stage of your campaign you desire me to come down to your county, I will be very glad to do so. The prospects for the Republican party throughout the nation appear to me to be very fine. If Hughes is not elected, I shall be very much surprised. With best wishes.

"Your friend,
"O. D. STREET."

SPLENDID COMPLIMENTS

The greatest compliments we have ever heard paid to any candidates in this campaign are those attributed to Judge L. H. Reynolds and M. D. Foshee, by Mr. Robert Williams in his letter published in this issue of the Union-Banner.

The compliment lies in the fact that Mr. Williams says these two gentlemen opposed his actions as Commissioner in voting the big debts on the county for building roads. We feel sure that the people of the county will be greatly pleased to know that they opposed such action. It is far greater to their credit to haveit said that they opposed Mr. Williams in his actions than it would be to have it said that they upheld him.

I fthey had been in accord with the actions of Mr. Williams, they would now be in the same obscurity with the people that Mr. Williams himself is situated.

Mr. Williams said that Reynolds and Foshee tried to dictate to him how he should vote and act as a commissioner. The real fact in the case is that they simply reminded Mr. Williams of the pledges and promises he had made the people before he was elected, and insisted that he keep the faith that was invsted in him when he was given the office.

It was and is yet a matter of general knowledge! that the people demanded in Mr. Williams that he endeavor while in office to stop the tremendous debts that had already begun to heap upon the county by the Democratic management. Mr. Williams made specific promises that he would use his efforts to accomplish these things.

The first shot he made after taking hiseseat in the Commissioners Court was to vote for an additional debt on the county. Judge Reynolds and Mr. Foshee anlong with other fellows in the county who had voted for Mr. Williams, were sincerely astonished at the actions, and were sorely grieved at the fact that he had so utterly betrayed the confidence of the people of the county. It was then and there that hey reminded Mr. Williams of the promises he had made and broken so soon.

Even if Mr. Williams did not possess the ability to stand up to the promises he made while seeking election, we are glad that men like Judge Reynolds and Mr. Foshee and hundreds of others in the county who believe in standing by the people, and keeping their own promises faithfully, have the courage and fortitude to denounce such tratorious actions, and let the perpetrator know that they believe in honesy, sinceriy, and integrity in the performance of the duties of office, just as much and as honestly as they believe in pledges and promises before election.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The Chilton County Singing Convention using the Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony music, will be held at Lomax Church the first Sunday in September and Saturday before.

All are invited.

Several visitors are expected.

T. J. JACKSON, Pres.,
Z. J. JONES, Secy.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

We sell the Goods

BECAUSE

We always have them right here to sell.

ALL THE TIME WE ARE ADDING NEW GOODS TO OUR LINE. ONLY RECENTLY WE RECEIVED A LARGE SHIPMENT OF LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS—THINGS THAT EVERY PERSON NEEDS FOR SUMMER-TIME WEARING

The Late Summer

From now till the opening of the Fall and Winter Season there will be many Little Items you will need in Wearing Apparel.

You will not want to make a Big Purchase possibly—Only a Little Item or two now and then to make out on till you get ready to lay in your Supply of Winter Goods.

To both Men and Women, Boys and Girls, we want to say that we can give you want for such Odds and Ends. And our Stock is not just merely Cast off Stuff either.

Everything is Brand-New and Up-to-Date.

Fall and Winter

The opening of the Fall and Winter Trading Season is going to find us "Prepared" to fill the many needs of our Every Customer.

We have already Calculated the needs of our Customers, and we have the Goods coming to supply your various Needs of Such.

In our buying we have spared no effort and means in getting the things you need, and we want you to remember this on the day you come down to look out for the things you intend to buy for the Autumn Season.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store."

THEN AND NOW

You remember back there when the last legislature was in session, there was a bill introduced to have a part of Chilton County cut off and annexed to Dallas County. Indications were that the said bill had a good chance of passing; and a meeting was called at the courthouse in Judge Deason's office to see what could be done to defeat the measure, and there by save Chilton of that part of her territory that was about to be taken from us.

Somebody in this meeting at the courthouse suggested that they secure the aid of Judge Reynolds; and some of the Democrats threw up their hands in holy horror. They said that part of the county about to be taken away, being a Democratic Beat, of course Reynolds would not try to prevent its being cut off. They figured that Reynolds had rather see the measure pass the legislature, for it would mean the taking away of some of his political opponents in this county.

But there was one Democratic citizen present who remarked that Reynolds was too big and broad minded a man to sit by and see his county cut and slashed up, even if the part under controversy did embrace mostly Democratic voters.

Judge Reynolds was sent for and went to Judge Deason's office to confer with the other citizens of our county, who were there for the same purpose. They asked him to call up Mr. J. W. Green, the member of the Legislature from Dallas who was pushing the bill, and make arrangements for a hearing on the matter.

Everything was set and planned for a hearing, and those Democrats who were interested, along with Judge Reynolds, all went down to Montgomery to go before the committee, which had the bill before it. The Democrats who went along saw what weight it would have for Judge Reynolds, who was a Republican, to oppose the bill, even though it meant the lightening of the political hill for his own interests to have it passed, implored and persuaded him to make a speech against the measure.

Now these Democrats, when they reach the place where they cannot use Judge Reynolds for their own personal interests, they turn against him with all their vile vituperation that could be invented against a man.

We do not say that Judge Reynolds secured the defeat of the bill, that meant the taking of a part if our county, and incidentally a part that is Democratic in politics. But we do say that Judge Reynolds was their means in reaching the representatave from Dallas, who was in behind the bill and trying to gt it passed. He was about the only man in Chilton County who was personally acquainted with Mr. Green.

We would love to know the feeling of some Democrats when they get to the end of their rows and have to come sneaking and whining around to get Judge Reynolds to figure out something for them. It has been done in instances other than the one cited above. And they had to get him to help them save the Democratic voters being put into Dallas County.

Oh, goodness, they said. Don't you know that Reynolds will just be tickled to death to see the Democratic Beat taken off from Chilton County and put on Dallas. So he will not have to contend with those Democrats politically. But the one was right. Reynolds was too big and too broad minded and too much concerned by the interests of the county and her citizens to sit by and see our borders entered and lines smashed and cut according to the estimations of somebody on the outside in some other county.

Judge Reynolds on that public question, acted as he always acts on such questions and matters concerning the people of the county. He acts in the favor of the best interests of all the people, regardless of what political parties are concerned.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

WRITING AND ARITHMETIC SCHOOL AT NEW CEDRON

I will start a writing and arithmetic school at New Cedron Church on Aug. 20, 1916. Will teach 10 days. Tuition, $1.00 per pupil. Patronage respectfully solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed.

J. C. BROWN.

The attempt of the president to hold up action on the immigration bill is giving many a Democratic Congressman numerous sleepless hours.

Bargains in Used Cars

1 Five Passenger Cadillac.
1 Five Passenger Maxwell.
One 1916 Ford Roadster.
All in good condition.
Part cash; balance easy terms.
Call and see them.

L. J. DUNCAN

CLANTON, ALA.

Kiln Dried Lumber

Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Dressed 1x12 Board, Window and Door Casing; also Heart 1x12 and 2x4 for Well Curbing.. If you want any of the Above, bring your team with you, as You can Always Count on Getting it. If any Lumber is wanted that we do not Carry in Stock, We will get it for you.

E. V. Speer Lumber Co.

MARBURY, ALA.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

CHARGES ALL NEGATIVE

The fundamental reason for equal suffrage is its justice. It is normal, sane, and in line with all the wholesome tendencies of the age. The fact that it is all right is proved is proved in the same way that the Irish man proved himself to be a man of good behavior, he said he could prove it by the chief of police. "By me?" siad the astonished chief of police. "Why, I never saw or heard of the man before!" "That proves it," said the Irishman. I have lived in this town for twenty years, and if the chief of police has never had anything to do with em, that shows that I am a law-abiding citizen."

Almost all the accusations made against equal suffrags by its opponents in the east are that it has not done this, or has not done that in the way of bringing in a millenium. If they could show that it has done anything bad they would. Since they can only think about what it has not done, It must at least be guiltless of any harm.

Those who know it more intimately, in the suffrage states, say with Judge Lindsey, that it has proved not only harmless, but destinctly beneficial, and they show their sincerity by defeating every suggestion for its repeal. The Hon. John W. Kingman of the Wyoming Supreme Court said that the last time the legislature made a proposal to repeal woman suffrage, "his motion failed for want of a seconder, and he was laughed down by the House." That was many years ago, and the attempt has never been renewed.

EDUCATIONAL RALLY.

There will be an all-day educational rally at the Smith Schoolhouse on Friday, September he first. The pupils will entertain the public; and also we will have addresses by H. C. McDonald, C. M. Williams, S. H. Herbert, and W. T. Bean. Everybody is invited to come.

A state examiner is in Clanton this week examining books of county officials.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
All Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

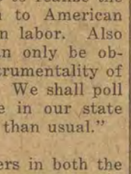
HEARD AT CAPITAL CITY OF THE NATION

Significant Utterances from Men who see bright prospects for Republicans in coming elections.

Washington, Aug. 23.—"The Democrats are not going to fool the working men of this country with their 'prosperity speeches,'" said Representative Thomas S. Williams of Illinois. "I find the voters of my district right up to the minute on this issue. They know that the present prosperity is fictitious, that it is directly traceable to the European war and that when that conflict is over, it is going to burst like a bubble. The working men of Illinois are looking forward, not backward, and they do not see any hope for the future in Democratic promises or Democratic fiscal legislation."

That Missouri is slipping away from Democracy, is best evidenced by the way the Democratic membership from the state is on the anxious seat just at this time. The veteran Democrat, Dorsey W. Shackleford, has spent several weeks in his district and evident it is that he is displaying much anxiety as to the outlook. "Joe" Russel, who has served a number of terms, is greatly alarmed over his prospects, and about every Democratic member except Speaker Clark, is wondering, more or less, what is going to happen to him.

"I am the only Republican member from North Carolina in this congress, but I expect to have one or two more associates here with me in the next Congress," said Representative James Jefferson Britt, to a group of his colceagues on the floor. "North Carolina is developing into a fertile Republican field. With the great development of manufacturing in our state our citizens have come to realize the benefits of protection to American industry and American labor. Also They know that it can only be obtained through the instrumentality of the Republican party. We shall poll a big Republican vote in our state this year, much larger than usual."



Administration leaders in both the House and Senate, got a terrible jolt when Raymond Robbins of Illinois, Chairman of the recent Progressive National Convention at Chicago came out for Hughes and Fairbanks. It was the most bitter pill they have had to swallow, with the exception of the policy and attitude of Col. Roosevelt. It went down mighty hard, for the reason that they had been sure that they were going to capture Mr. Robbins. It has certainly had the effect of convincing all of the thinking Democrats of both branches of Congress, that they can expect little help from the former progressives in the coming campaign.

Representative "Tom" Heflin of Alabama, spokesman of the administration, made a sorry spectacle in attempting to reply to the able and forceful speech of Representative Rodenburg of Illinois, who flayed the administration of Wilson, fore and aft. Heflin, acting purely on the defensive, like the Democratic party, had too big a job for him to handle.

"The pacific slope states will be back in the Republican column, with the old time majorities," said Congressman Albert Johnson of Washington. "There is no doubt about this. The differences of the past few years have been buried and all Republicans are enthusiastically and harmoniously pulling together. The size of the majority is all there is to it in our section of the country."

Good Looks are Easy with

Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your city cousins. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle Magnolia Balm will surely clear your skin instantly. Heals Sunburn, too. Just put a little on your face and rub it off again before dry. Simple and sure to please. Try a bottle to-day and begin the improvement at once. White, Pink and Rose-Red Colors. 75 cents at Druggists or by mail direct.

SAMPLE FREE.

LYON MFG. CO., 40 So. 5th St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

A MAN WITHOUT A PARTY

Is a Man Who Opposes Woman Suffrage—Because.

The Democratic Party — The Republican Party
The Progressive Party — The Socialist Party
The Prohibition Party
All Have Endorsed Suffrage in Their Platforms.

The Democratic Plank:

"We recommend the extension of franchise to the women of the country by the States upon the same terms as to men."

The Republican Plank:

The Republican party, reaffirming its faith in government of the people, by the people, for the people, as a measure of justice to one-half the adult people of this country, favors the extension of suffrage to women, but recognizes the right of each State to settle this question for itself."

The Progressive Plank:

"And we believe that the women of the country, who share with the men the burdens of government in times of peace, make equal sacrifice in times of war, should be given the full political rigts of suffrage, both by State and Federal action."

LEADERS CONSTRUE PLANKS

The Progressive Plank is absolutely unequivocal in its endorsement of suffrage, without specifying method and so are the planks of the Prohibition and Socialist parties. The Republican plank also endorses the principal though it tacks on a rider, recognizing "the right of each state to settle this question for itself." Some doubt was expressed in various quarters os to whether the Republican plank represented an unqualified endorsement of Woman Suffrage, but all such doubt was eliminated upon the receipt by Mrs. Catt of the following telegram from the Republican leader, Senator W. E. Borah, who thus construes the plank for his party:

"Suffrage plank of Republican platform is an unqualified endorsement of Woman Suffrage. It unmistakably "favors the extension of suffrage to women' and favors it 'as a matter of justice.' This is not subject to possible ambiguity. The only question left open is that of method of securing it. The plank recognizes the right of each State to settle the question for itself, but it does not declare against the taking away of that right. It was my belief at the time of the adoption of the amendment and it is still my view, that upon the question of the Federal amendment the plank was silent and neither rejected it nor indorsed it. (Signed)

"WILLIAM E. BORAH."

The Democratic plank is even more ambiguous than the Republican, and some fear was expressed that it might mean endorsement, not of the principle of woman suffrage, but only of the method of granting it. However, the Democratic press seems united in the belief that the plank is intended as an out-and-out endorsement and this opinion seems borne out by the President's own construction of it in the following letter to Mrs. Catt:

"The White House,
"Washington, June 19, 1916.
"My Dear Mrs. Catt:

'I was away from the city and did not get your telegram of June 16th promptly.

"I am very glad to make my position about the suffrage plank adopted by the convention clear to you, though I had not thought it was necessary to state again a position I have repeatedly stated with entire frankness. The plank received my entire approval before its adoption and I shall support its principle with sincere pleasure. I wish to join with my fellow-Democrats in recommending to the several States that they extend the suffrage to women the same terms as to men.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
(Signed)
"WOODROW WILSON."

The important point is that suffrage is written into the platforms of all the political parties in the United States. It remains to be seen how the party leaders will redeem these pledges. Certain it is that the Western woman vote will play a large part in deciding the fall election.

It behooves every suffrage organization in a democratic state to test the earnestness of the Democrats by demanding a suffrage amendment to the state constitution. Their party platform pledges them to such a course. The State Democratic committees in Arkansas, Tennessee and South Carolina have recently endorsed suffrage. The Suffragists will see to it that the other Southern States, particularly Alabama, fall into line.

STATE SUFFRAGE LEADER

MRS. JULIAN B. PARKE of Selma
President of the Alabama Equal Suffrage Association

Mother's Friend for Expectant Mothers

Beauty and Grace After Childbirth

Many women are disheartened by the fear of losing their graceful figure by childbirth. By using "Mother's Friend" the natural beauty will be preserved and most of the pains incidental to confinement will be eliminated, because the influence of "Mother's Friend" goes into every ligament, thus preparing it for the awful strain with ease. Get it at any druggist. Send for the free book on Motherhood. Address The Bradfield Regulator Co., 206 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Write for FREE BOOK on Motherhood

An External Remedy for Expectant Mothers

No. 666

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c.

HEADED IN EVERY DIRECTION

(From the Hartford Democrat.)

Mr. Wilson says his mind is progressive. But those who try to follow his progress can never tell the direction it is taking. It is just as likely to be progressing backward as forward.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South

Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy f Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three Years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address

CHAS. C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President, Auburn, Ala.

DETROIT'S IMPRESSIONS OF A MAN

Governor Hughes' visit to Detroit opened the presidential campaign for 1916 and if we may forecast the events that are to follow by the omens of Monday, we would prognasticate an intensely warm, vivid and humanly interesting period of the next few months.

Setting aside the suspicions of meteorological conditions in the provision of the future, although they are approved by numerous professional augurs, and by a host of commonality as well, we base this prophecy on the characteristics of the candidate, whose too brief stay with us has been enjoyed by all, with whom he came into contact.

The misguided individuals who have expected that Charles E. Hughes would prove to be a cold proposition and therefore easy to beat, are in for a shock that will make them think that they have been hit by an uninsulated trolley wire. There is nothing cold about Mr. Hughes, Detroit has learned. He is about as intensely human a piece of humanity that has ever captured the hearts of a crowd, and the more people in the United States he meets between now and November, the more votes will be cast for him. As a campaigner he is a revelation. He likes his fellow beings, and they like him because they see that he likes them.

And where his personalities begin his remarkable powers of intellect and utterance finish. He drives his points home with tremendous force. What he says sticks. There are thousands of Americans today who can tell every step in the arguments he made 8 years ago on the Bryan trust policy, yet, in 1908 Mr. Hughes was not an especially prominent figure, and there was no particular reason why his address more than others should have remained in the memories except the gift of the man to send his own thoughts so deep into the brains of others. They are clear in his own mind first now undoubtedly. He knows precisely what he wants to say, because he hasreasoned it out before he speaks it out. Probably that has to do with the ease with which he conveys his meaning. But it is a very rare quality he possesses in his ability to master subjects so thoroughly as to make the most abstruce simple to himself and to his hearers. It is a quality eminently desirable in a political enditde; it is infinitely more to be desired in a president of a great country like the United States.

Detroit's impression of Charles E. Hughes is all favorable. The thousands of people who have studied him at close range are convinced that if he is elected president next November he will be a great president, one of the greatest this nation has ever known, worthy to stand in history with George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, a custodian to the republic's fate, to whom that fate may be confidentally intrusted. If that conviction is shared by the people of other states whom he is still to meet, the outcome of his great swing around the great American circle cannot fail to be propitious to him.—Detroit Free Press.

But speaking of political shanges, isn't the Clanton Press now very consistent in indorsing a Republican for Probate Judge? Go back to your files, brother, and see what you have been saying about the Republicans for the last few years. What did your speaker, Judge Brandon, say about your Republican-Democratic-Independent-Socialist candidate in his speech on August 12? Did he make it plain to you where your candidate has the right to offer a bribe to the people in order to obtain votes? Or did he decline to mention the local situation? Will any lawyer come out and defend your platform? Will the Press say over the signature of its editor that they propose for Mr. Popwell, and advocate for him, that if he is elected he will give a part of his fees to the schools. Mr. Popwell says to the people, if you will elect me I will give you a part of my fees; if you do not elect me I will not give you anything. The fees of the office are just as much the property of the Judge of Probate as are the bales of cotton he raises.

HOPEFUL HEFLIN

The Democrats at national headquarters, are greatly cheered up.

Congressman Tom Heflin of Alabama lately dropped in upon them and announced his firm belief that Wilson will be overwhelmingly reelected. He also stated that he had been asked to take the stump in twenty states.

We hope he accepts. We hope, too that all of these states are in the North; and preferably—or should we say "preferencialmente?"— we hope Connecticut is among them. The voters of Connecticut should be glad to see and hear Heflin— for it was he, who during the debate on the Underwood Bill in 1913, threatened to take a Democratic Congressman from Connecticut outside and lick him, simply because the nutmeg Democrat had merely voiced his disappointment that the Southern framers of the new tariff had seen fit so consistently to give the short end of it to the North and its inudstries. Heflin is also that member of Congresse who bounded into fame a while back, by getting into altercation with a colored fellow-passenger on a Washington street car. He drew his gun on the negro, but his usually calm nerve was somewhat flustered and he shot a white man in the leg. Later he added to his repute by going into a Washington Department store to ask for some hosiery. "Black or white," asked the polite sales-girl. "White," exclaimed Heflin, with great indignation, adding, "and by Gad I won't buy 'em here."

Marked, "Exhibit A" and sent out into the Northern States, Heflin and his hopes should make a pronounced hit—for the Republican party.

Subscribe for the Union.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND THE RACE PROBLEM IN THE SOUTH

By Pattie Ruffner Jacobs.

It is a fallacy to contend that Woman Suffrage would involve the race problem or any other complication. Both sexes will be obliged to meet all requirements of citizenship imposed by the State and each State can still protect the exercise of the franchise to the fullest extent of its power.

The actual working out or application of the principle would be, in the South, to enfranchise a very large number of white women and the same sort of negro women as there are negro men now permitted to exercise the privilege.

In the 15 States below Mason and Dixon's line there are 8,788,901 white women and 4,316,565 negro women, or 4,472,236 more white women than negro women, which is nearly four and one-half million more. The total negro population, that is both men and women, in these States is 8,294,274, so that white women alone outnumber the total negro population by 494,627. In Mississippi and South Carolina there are more negro women than white women, but the same condition exists as regards the men of these States, and there is no reason to assume that the negro women of these States would be able to meet the State qualifications in any larger numbers than the negro men of these States.

In Alabama there are 143,453 more white women than negro women. So far if the wish of the southern people is to maintain white supremacy, according to Chief Justice Walter Clark, of North Carolina, the white women of the Southern States must, at least, be elevated to the same political plane as the negro man. Says Justice Clark: "It has been stated as an objection to woman suffrage in the South that our negro cooks could vote. We can not justly disfranchise white women to keep their cooks from voting when we do not disfranchise white men to keep the cook's husband from voting."

As things stand in the South an incentive is held out to the negro man to become educated that he may meet that test; to practise industry and frugility and acquire property and so meet the taxpaying qualification; but no such incentive is held out to the white women who meet the insuperable barrier of sex at every turn which might lead to citizenship.

It is said that 2,500 negro men vote in Alabama. Possibly the figures should be higher, but it is an incontrovertible evidence of our inferority that no taxpaying educated white woman votes in Alabama, and Alabama's case is merely illustrative of conditions in most of the other Southern States.

The symbolism of the ballot, especially in the South, where the franchise is restricted and professedly based upon intelligence and morality, unmistakably and forever places a stigma upon the white women of the South. This is not our idea of Chivalry, for chivalric people love justice supremely.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

Driving the brain starts the pain

Over-work, worry and the constant strain of a business life are often a cause of much trouble. Dr. Miles' Nervine is highly recommended for all Nervous disorders. It is particularly invaluable to business women. Regulate your bowels by using

DR. MILES' LIVER PILLS

IF FIRST BOTTLE, OR BOX, FAILS TO BENEFIT YOU, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

NERVOUS ATTACKS.

"I suffered with nervous attacks and headaches. Then my liver got out of order and it seemed as though my whole system was upset. I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine and also took Dr. Miles' Liver Pills and now I feel perfectly well in every way. My bowels also are in good shape now."
MRS. AUGUSTA KEISER,
1149 Portland Ave.,
Rochester, N. Y.

THE MATHEMATICS OF IT

"That famous unknown person who declared on one occasion that 'figures never lie, but that liars figure,' might modify his epigram by suggesting that this year it is true figures that do not lie but political statisticans twist 'em sometimes," remarked William H. Shoah of Collumbus, Ohio at the Williard.

"Democrats are claiming that they will win the coming election, but for the life of me, I cant figure how they will, if it is true that figures neverlie. In order to win the Democrats will have to get 266 electorial votes, the total number of the votes in the electrial college being 531. Grant that they carry all the Southern states, with a total number of 110 electorial votes, they will then have to carry all the border states not properly classed as Southern states, including Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Tennessee, and in addition to these Arrizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Deleware, Idaho, Indiana, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, and still they would be shy 24 votes. If they were to win in all the states enumerated, and it is very doubtful whether they will win in Colorado, Connecticut, Deleware, Idaho, Indiana, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada and New Jersey, they would also have to carry Illinois, with its 29 votes. Of course, if they were to carry New York, they could loose a few of the states that are counted for them as possible.

"On the other hand, the Republicans could lose New York and by carrying Colorado, Connecticut, Deleware, Idaho, and Montana, all of which are likely to go Republican, still have enough votes to win. In the law of chance, it seems to me that the Republicans have all the best of it, for there are so many combinations that can give them victory, whereas there are only one or two or three that can give the Democrats the election."—Washington Post.

The Wilson administration now proposes to turn our chronic Mexican question over to a commission for settlement. This is another job for the Democratic boys, at good pay, and with nothing but a momentary interlude to result from it. It seems to be impossible for this administration to decide anything for itself.—Hartford Courant.

SPEAKING AT COX CHAPEL.

Judge L. H. Reynolds will speak at a Farmers Union meeting at Cox's Chapel, just across he Chilton county line at ten o'clock on Thursday, August the 31st, 1916.

You ought to hear Mr. Middleton and Prof. Moore at Mineral Springs next Saturday night.

CLANTON'S FIRST BALE.

The first bale of cotton of the 1916 crop was brought to Clanton Thursday by Henry Burnett and was sold to Clanton Mercantile Co. at 14 1-2 cents a pound. It weighed 438 pounds.

MRS. CARTER MAKES PHENOMENAL GAIN

Says She Actually Gained Fifty Pounds on Four Bottles of Tanlac.

"It may sound strange, but I have actually gained fifty pounds since I began taking Tanlac, and I have only taken four bottles," says Mrs. Ella Carter, who lives at 4032 First Ave., North, Birmingham. Mrs. Carter is the wife of J. B. Carter, an expert machinist at the A. G. S. shops.

"I had stomach trouble and rheumatism for two years, and was all nervous and run-down. My appetite fell off to nearly nothing, and what little I did eat didn's seem to agree with me. Sometimes I would just feel like I would never want anything else to eat.

"I suffered with rheumatism nearly all the time, too, and this trouble together with the stomach trouble had pulled me down until I only weighed one hundred and thirty pounds. I was so nervous and up-set I couldn't sleep hardly any, and I would get so blue and discouraged over my condition, I just felt like sometimes I would never get well.

"That's just the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac—but just look at me now—honestly I have gotten so fat and have changed so people hardly know me. Everybody is at the way Tanlac has helped me, and all my friends and neighbors say I look like I have neveh had a sick day in my life. But that's not all. Tanlac has relieved me of all my troubles, and I can eta and sleep now as good as anybody."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co., and in Mt-Creek by J. E. Deon.

Henry Morgenthau, who was the chief financier of the last Democratic campaign, and who went as ambassador to Turkey, as a consequence, estimates that the Democrats will need fifty per cent. more campaign money this year than they had four years ago. The estimate is far too low. They will need five hundred per cent. more. Four years ago the party had no record to defend, and now it has. In 1912 there was a divided Republican party and now there is a reunited Republican party. Four years ago Woodrow Wilson had a good reputation as a statesman. Now he has a reputation as a spoilsman, a weakling, a vacillator and a trimmer. A party with that sort of a candidate needs more funds than it can possibly get, even if it gets all its wants.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

NAP RUCKER

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

RANDOLPH ROSE

NAP RUCKER is the beloved idol of the Brooklyn fans. For years he was one of the greatest pitchers in the National League. His fast ball was a marvel. It had everybody scared as no player cared to be "beaned" by a fast one from Nap Rucker.

But one day his arm gave him trouble. It became serious and soon Rucker had to find a new motion—practically had to learn to pitch over again. In doing this he developed a slow ball—not just an ordinary slow ball but the slowest slow ball and the most tantalizing one that any batter ever faced. While his slow ball was a great success, be it known his fast was not the same old fast ball of old.

In a game against New York, with Otto Miller catching Rucker, Nap threw his "fast" ball. Chief Meyers who was batting missed it.

"What kind of a ball was that?" asked Meyers.

"That's Rucker's fast ball," said Miller.

"Huh," grunted the chief, "I can't tell Ruckers' fast ball from Walter Johnson's slow one."

Talking about pitchers reminds me of a story on Hub Purdue and Miner Brown. Purdue is a Tennessee product—the Gallatin squash, they call him, and Brown is noted as the three-fingered marvel who gained his greatest fame with the old Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance machine six or seven years ago.

Purdue joined the Cubs at Birmingham on their way north in 1908. He was an ambitious pitcher and marveled at the skill and speed of Brown. That day on the field Purdue said:

"Say, Brown, how did you lose those fingers?"

"In a corn sheller," replied Miner.

Purdue walked away very suddenly. "Where are you going in such a rush," asked Brown.

"Going to look for a corn sheller," was the rejoinder.

Randolph Rose

HOW LITTLE TALK AVAILETH

I met a stranger on my walk upon the street,
Who told me very thoughtfully that women were astray,
Who said that commerce was the thing that drove their bloom away.

I met a stranger on my walk amidst the subway crush,
Who told me very haughtily that women like to rush,
Who said that traveling in a crowd took off the maiden blush.

I met a stranger late one day as I stepped in a lane,
Who told me all this woman's war was nothing but insane,
"Just think," the stranger sadly said, "Its causing men great pain."

I met some women on my walk, who have to toil all day.
They didn't talk of woman's war, of bloom or charm's decay.
They said they couldn't stay at home, they had their rent to pay.

JUDGE.

SHERIFF'S SALE—PERSONALTY

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court, Beat No. 2 of Chilton County, Ala., and to me directed, whereby, I as Sheriff of said County, was commanded to make the sum of Sixty two and 85-100 Dollars, principal and interest, and eight and 40-100 Dollars, cost of suit, the amount of a certain judgment and costs therein obtained at the August Term 1915, of said Court of Chilton county, Alabama, in favor of Jefferson Fertilizer Company, against J. V. Scott. I have levied upon and will sell to the highest bidder, for cash at public sale, between the hours of 11 o'clock, A.M., and 4 o'clock, P.M., at Clanton, Alabama,

On the 28 day of August, 1916.

all the right, title and interest of the above named J. V. Scott, in and to the following described personal property viz: One white mule colt, about 3 years old; one mouse-colored mule, about 3 years old.

This 17th day of August, 1916. H. A. Harris, Sheriff.

Posted at the courthouse door, Aug. 18, 1916. H. A. Harris, Sheriff.

LEGAL NOTICE

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 1, 1916.

Hon. H. A. Harris,
Sheriff of Chilton county,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear sir:

No U. S. Internal Revenue License have been issued to your county in July 1916.

I hereby certify that I have carefully examined the record of the Collector of Internal Revenue and the above is complete and correct.

Yours very truly,
SAM P. JONES.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this first day of August 1916.

J. B. MOSLEY,
Notary Public.

FOR SALE—Redemption equity in store building at Thorsby worth one thousand dollars, owner has equity of five hundred dollars will sell for one hundred dollars cash, address the Ingalls Iron Works Company, Birmingham, Ala.,

---

"Cured"

Mrs. Jay McGee, of Stephenville, Texas, writes: "For nine (9) years, I suffered with womanly trouble. I had terrible headaches, and pains in my back, etc. It seemed as if I would die, I suffered so. At last, I decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it helped me right away. The full treatment not only helped me, but it cured me."

TAKE

Cardui

The Woman's Tonic

Cardui helps women in time of greatest need, because it contains ingredients which act specifically, yet gently, on the weakened womanly organs. So, if you feel discouraged, blue, out-of-sorts, unable to do your household work, on account of your condition, stop worrying and give Cardui a trial. It has helped thousands of women,—why not you? Try Cardui. E-71

CLANTON ITEMS

Citizens of Clanton will be glad to see the announcement of Mr. P. C. Smith that he will open the Dixie Theatre on Saturday, September 2. It is mighty nice to have a movie to go to when you have an idle hour after supper; and we hope Mr. Smith will be able to keep the show going.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robinson of Birmingham are in Clanton this week visiting the family of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Robinson.

John Bibb of the State University was in Clanton Monday and Tuesday in the interest of the institution.

Quite a number of young people of Clanton attended the dance at Shelby Springs Tuesday night.

Messrs J. W. and Clarence Henley of Maplesville were in Clanton on Wednesday attending to some business matters.

FOR SALE—Printype Oliver Typewriter, latest model; practically new; at a bargain. Apply to Powell Pressing Club, Clanton, Ala.

J. E. Robinson, Sr., was in Birmingham on Tuesday.

Miss Margaret McMillan of Columbiana is the guest of Mrs. Wade this week.

Mrs. J. Q. Wade was hastily called to Marietta, Ga., Wednesday on account of the illness of her sister, Mrs. Chandler.

GOOD COW FOR SALE.—I have a good milch cow for sale; also one 6-year-old horse. Cheap. Apply to E. HOPKINS.

Miss Juliet Marcus of Montgomery is visiting Mrs. Clark Harper.

Mrs. McwSain was hostess to the 42 Club Wednesday.

Miss Eleanora Teel is visiting her brother, Joe Teel, at Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ruffin and Addie Ruffin of Deatsville motored up to Clanton Friday and spent the day with relatives here.

FOR SALE—Mare 8 years old and colt 5 weeks old. Will sell at a bargain right away. Guarantee working qualities and safety. H. H. Hayes, Clanton, Ala., R. 4. adv. 8-3-3-t

---

Mrs. Sears of Titus visited her nephews, Messrs Jeff and Mack Ruffin last week.

Mr. G. H. Jones of Montevallo, is visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Mrs. Mike Williams has retunred from a visit to her daughter in Birmingham.

Mrs. J. F. Palmer and Miss Golder Palmer have returned from Birmingham, where they went with Julius Palmer, who was operated on for appendicitis Monday morning.

FOR SALE—One cow and calf. The cow is half Jersey and half Holstein. Calf is two weeks old. Cow now with first calf. Price reasonable, J. C. Culp, Clanton, Ala., R. 7. 8-3-3-t

---

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Eiland and children of Montgomery, are visiting their parents and friends this week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Jones of Evergreen is visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. McSwain.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson are visiting relatives and friends in Vincent this week.

O'Connor pleasure and commercial Motor Cars are assembled of World-known Standard Parts, medium priced, and sold on convenient PAY-AS YOU RIDE plan. Catalogue mailed on request. Exceptional agency proposition and exclusive territory for persons desiring to act as representatives. Inquire of The O'Connor Corporation, 6331 South Halsted Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The Boy Scouts of Clanton are having a few day's outing at Mineral Springs this week.

Miss Annie Figh of Montgomery is visiting Mrs. P. T. Hinkle.

WANTED—To buy a three-horse Feed Chopper at once, Apply at Union-Banner office. tf.

Miss Willye Reynolds is visiting friends in Collumbiana this week.

PLANTED YOUR TURNIPS? Now is the time. Get your seed at Upchurch Drug Co., where they are new and fresh and sure to come up when planted.

GADSDEN LADY HAS THE RIGHT IDEA

Believes in Regular Attention to Health

When Miss Jenie Usy, of Gadsden Ala., wrote to Granger Medicine Co., ordering two more boxes of Granger Liver Regulator, she stated that this wonderful medicine was a continuous benefit to her, and said: "I never expect to be without it in my home." Miss Usy has found out, like thousands of others, that a little Granger Liver Regulator taken regularly will tone up the body, keep one continually well and stop doctors' bills. It is a vegetable product, free of alcohol, harmless, and easy to take. For sale by your druggist.)

Miss Amy Daniels has returned after a pleasant visit to relatives and friends in Coosa County.

Mrs. C. Reese Mullins is in Atlanta buying fall goods, and will return by way of Gadsden.

Mrs. Claude Reynolds is visiting in Montgomery this week.

Prof. J. Alex Moore, principal of the Walker County High School, of Jasper, Ala., was in Clanton Wednesday shaking hands with his many friends here. Prof. Moore is one of the state's best educators, and it is interesting to hear him talk of some of the educational features of his splendid county.

All varieties of new and fresh Turnip Seed for sale at Upchurch Drug Co., at the right prices.

Mr. W. A. Kemp has recently purchased a new Ford.

Mr. A. L. Williams who was operated on at the South Highlands Infirmary in Birmingham some weeks ago for appendicitis, was last week operated on the second time for an absess on the liver. The last reports from him say that he is doing very well; and will probably be able to return home in a week or so.

Mrs. Addie G. Robinson visited her mother at Marbury Tuesday.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins announces the opening of offices in the Farmer Building, September 1, at Dothan, Ala. Practice limited, eye, ear, nose and throat. His many friends here regret to see him leave. His family will be missed in Clanton.

Mrs .E .Hopkins, who was slightly injured in an auto accident last week has about recovered to her former health.

A LOGICAL SUMMING UP

(From the Wall Street Journal.)

Mr. Wilson is not to be envied in his perusal of the speech of acceptance of Charles E. Hughes at Carnegie Hall. It is a cogent, logical summing-up against the defendant, by an emminently competent judge, with all the facts before him, finding his decision from the evidence of the defendents themselves. In this most remarkable speech occurs this most significant passage. It sums up not merely the foreign policy of the present administration., but its attitude to all questions, even of the domestic character.

"The chief function of diplomacy is prevention; but in this our diplomacy failed, doubtless because of its impaired credit and the manifest lack of the disposition to back words with action. Had this government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said 'strict accountability' we meant precisely what we said, and that we could unhesitatingly vendicate that position, I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania."

This phrase "strict accountability" was used three months before the sinking of the Lusitania. One of the greatest American statesmen now living, perhaps the greatest, said that the state department then in the hands of Mr. Bryan had used the last word first. The phrase "strict accountability" is a last resort of diplomacy. These are fighting words. They do not mean that we resort merely to the bombardment of the German or British foreign officers with notes. They mean and should have meant in this case, that the German ambassador would have returned without ceremony to his own country at 24 hours notice, and that the United states government would take immediate and effective means to protect its citizens.

But Mr. Wilson is a man of words and not of deeds. Like Mr. Bryan he has made the discovery that a large section of the public is willing to accept the words as if they meant something. All the rest follows. Mr. Hughes' speech is not an arraignment or an indictment, or an address for the prosecution. It is a judicial decision, which will stand the test of an appeal to the court of public opinion. There is no difference because Mr. Wilson and his astonishing cabinet have furnished all the evidence necessary for conviction.

And if this were the case with our relations with the belligerents, how much more so was it in the case of our relations with Mexico? The immediate related question of preparednessonly makes the damnation the deeper. Almost the single secretary in Mr. Wilson's cabinet with a soul of his own and a proper conception of his business, who was not the result of a political dicker, was forced out becaused he believed in deeds and not in words.

Mr. Hughs has done well for he has put the administration in the defensive. It must be admitted that it has had a unique experience in defending the indefensible.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

First Methodist Church of Clanton

Preaching every Sunday at eleven o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M. Everybody cordially invited to worship with us in these services.

REV. I. F. BILBRO, Pastor.

Sunday Schools starts at 9:45 A. M. instead of 10 o'clock. Please do not forget the time and bring someone with you.

J. B. ATKINSON, Supt.

Prayer meeting at 8 o'clock P. M. Wednesday. Make the prayer meeting your services.

No. 666

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c

---

GAINED IN WEIGHT CURED OF INDIGESTION, 10 YEARS' STANDING, SAYS MR. J. B. CLEILAND

Used One Bottle of "Ferraline"—Is Now in Good Health.

Mr. J. B. Cleiland is a prominent stock raiser and planter of Clarke County, Ala. In talking with a representative of the Frankville Medicine Co., Inc., Mr. Cleiland said that he had been a victim of chronic indigestion for ten years, and that Ferraline—just one bottle of it—had completely cured him.

"Nothing that I ate agreed with me," said Mr. Cleiltnd, "I suffered with gas, and that tight feeling after anything I would eat. My Back and head ached and I gradually lost in weight. I had very little energy and believed I could not live unless I found some relief.

"I would spit up what I ate, and my stomach was sour and my breath foul, I have bought medicines, anything I thought would help me, or was told would benefit me, but I could not get relief.

"I had headr so much about 'Ferraline' and after noting the results it had accomplished for more than one of my friends in this locality, I bought a 12-ounce bottle and began taking a teaspoon full in a half glass of water after meals.

"After the first few days I could see that I was being benefitted, I would not have that tightness and belching after eating. My stomach began to lose its soreness and my appetite improved.

"Before I had finished the first and only bottle that I have had to buy of 'Ferraline' I was so much improved that I did not suffer with my back and head any longer, neither was I troubled with dspepsia nor indigestion. I had gained several pound in weight and was feeling better than I had in years, and could attend to my business with some satisfaction.

"I have never heard of any medicine giving as much satisfaction as 'Ferraline' is giving in my locality. As a general tonic and remedy for indigestion, I believe it is in a class by itself."

For sale in Clanton by Alred Drug Co., in Jemison by Shaw Drug Co., and in Randolph by C. D. Brand.

THEY WANT A CHANGE

A Democratic paper asks: "Do the American people want a change in the present tariff law?" and then proceeds to answer its own question thus: "Ask a dozen well assorted people, and you will find that a majority of them are in favor of taking the tariff question out of politics by way of a competent, non-partisan tariff commission."

The answer which the American voters seem morally certain to make to the above question will be that they want a change in the present tariff law. The present tariff law is an utter failure as a revenue producer, and it is a free-trade law which gives no protection to the American producer be he farmer, manufacturer, or artisan working for wages.

So far as taking the tariff out of politics by way of a non-partisan tariff commission, the voters of the country will scarcely look to the Wilson administration to abolish that, because one of the first perfonmances of the Democratic congress was the abolition of just such a commission, which was created by a Republican Congress during President Taft's administration.

The American people not only want a change in the present tariff, but they want an entire change in the present national administration, president, senate, and House of Representatives, to make sure that they will get it.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Senotor Tagarat of Indiana says President Wilson will be re-elected because "the people admire him for his firmness." There are so many who are not sure whether they got you right on the "firmness."—Nevada, (Mo.) Herald.

Dr. Hopkins performed operations for adenoids on two children of Rev. W. J. Armstrong this week.

THE FOREST IS THE SOURCE OF S.S.S.

Every Ingredient Purely Vegetable

VEGETABLE vs MINERAL MEDICINES

If you were as careful of the medicines you take when sick as you are anxious about the disease it is taken for—a wonderful difference in your future health would result.

In a vegetable product like S.S.S. there is no violent after effect—as is found in mineral medicines— but a natural an efficient means of reaching the blood and purifying it, so that it may perform its functions readily.

Remember—any mineral is a violent material to cast into your delicate interior. Demand genuine S.S.S. at your druggist, it is purely vegetable and the Standard Blood Remedy.

THE MINE IS THE SOURCE OF VIOLENT MINERAL DRUGS

Swift Specific Co. Atlanta, Ga.

Get All You Can

FOR YOUR TIME AND MONEY. THAT IS GOOD COMMON CHRISTIAN SENSE.

STUDENTS OF THORSBY INSTITUTE HAVE SOMETIMES SAID, "I CAN GET

Twice As Much

HERE AS IN ANY OTHER SCHOOL I HAVE EVER ATTENDED." PERHAPS YOU COULD TOO. IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO KNOW HOW, WRITE TO US AND WE WILL EXPLAIN (NO TRIFLERS ARE WANTED).

Thorsby Institute

S. H. HERBERT, Principal

Thorsby, Ala,

ELEVENTH YEAR BEGINS SEPTEMBER 12, 1916.

LUMBER

I have on hand at Clanton, and Jemison, several Thousand Feet of

Steam Kiln Dried

LONG LEAF YELLOW PINE FLOORING AND CEILING WILL SELL AT A BARGAIN

Come and see or write

Joe Van Derveer, Jr.,

CLANTON, ALA.

We will buy your

COTTON SEED

This Season.
Highest Market Prices Paid.
Be sure to see us when you want to sell any.

Clanton Mercantile Company

CLANTON, ALA.

The Dixie Theatre

Will open under new management

Saturday, September 2nd,

Putting on three shows a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Others when occasion justifies.

Will give you the best of Pictures and Service.

Chilton County High School

FOR

The Boys and Girls of Chilton County.

Course of Study Standardized and fully Articulated with the Elementary Schools and Colleges. Full Course of Four Years leading to any College Degree, a Completion of which carries with it entrance into any Standard College, Without any Examination.

If you do not care to go to College, this is the place to get that High School Training, which will place in your hands the working tools of Life. The High School needs you.

You Cannot hope to make your Life a Success Without it. The World needs and must have Farmers, Mechanics, Teachers, Preachers, Doctors, Lawyers, and Merchants,—in fact, Men and Women in every Walk and in every Professional Business in Life.

This School Stands for the Training of all, except the Deadbeat, the Gambler, and the Tramp—These last named need not apply to Enter into our Classes or Departments.

Our Departments of Art, Music, Expression and Penmanship are open to Everybody, Whether they are Taking part in any of the Regular Courses of the Institution or not.

Especially at this time, we are able to commend to the Public our Course in Piano Music and Voice. Mr. Tinsley needs no introduction; his work is his Advertisement.

This being a State Institution, Tuition is Free.

Next Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1916.

Every Teacher College Trained, Holding a College Degree. This Session will Eclipse the Past. Get in the Procession and let Your Allegiance be Known to Others.

H. CLIFFORD McDONALD, Principal.

CLANTON, ALA.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, AUGUST 31, 1916. NUMBER 22.

YOU CANNOT NEGLECT EDUCATION OF CHILD

Prof. McDonald Makes Another Appeal for our Boys and Girls.

On September 6th, 10 A. M. the High School will open its doors for the session of 1916-17. Everybody is most cordially invited to be with us. We are arranging an enjoyable program for the occasion.

In reviewing the past session we find many things of which we ought to be proud. In the first place we are proud of the excellent student body that was ours. We rejoice in their spirit of loyalty and devotion to duty. Then again we are proud of our faithful and efficient corps of assistant teachers, they were loyal painstaking and competent. Some of these have been called away from us into other fields, some of them come back to us for this year's work. In the place of those called away we have others whom we believe likewise worthy, competent and true. So we are looking forward to another successful year.

But the whole field of endeavor does not lie at this end of the line. A corps of teachers, however competent and devoted, cannot make a school a success. The student body, however loyal and enthusiastic, cannot make the school a success. There are three elements, all must act. All must help. All must be interested and let it be known. Your teachers must be alert and on the job. The pupil must be there and do his work. The parent must be there with his interest and helping hand.

Throughout the county we must interest the young men and young women. We must call to our help the fathers and mothers, the citizens at large. There must be fastened upon everybody the fact that this school is one of the county's best assets. That here we meet on common ground to fight a common enemy and to gain common victory. We need and must have higher and better education for a larage part of our population, and that it the work of your county high school.

When we come to realize that all progress and development rests on education as its basic principle, I think we shall have gone a long way toward solving many of our problems.

If I mistake not, we need just now to turn our faces resolutely toward the future. The floods have come upon us with their devastation and ruin. The boll weevil has arrived on schedule time. The crop of cotton is short and there are numerous things which distract and discourage. But sitting like Marius of old amid the ruins of Carthage, weeping for the treasure that was lost, will not mend the condition nor cause the earth to bring forth its fruit in its season. I think that we can see that some sacrifice and some privation will be necessary, but what shall we sacrifice? Who shall suffer the privation? Listen parent. You can afford to sacrifice almost anything except the education of your child. The child's mind and body grows and develops together, and you cannot any more let the education of your child wait for a season or until times are more prosperous than you can let it thus wait for food for its physical development.

Prosperous times will come again, but when they arrive will they find that you have been a hero and not a wheedler. In that you have refused t be discouraged by unfriendly circumstances and with an uncloded eye have been able to see where-in your best intereste lay? So now if your eye falls on this article all I ask is that you let it help you to decide in favor of your best interest, and place your faith and your confidence where faith and confidence will pay. If you are a parent, send your child to school. If you are a young man or a young woman with an unfinished education, go to school and do it now. If you are not interested in the cause in either of the ways mentioned above, become a booster for education and grow ten inches in height in a single night in your own estimation and that of your fellow man. In this way you may be a benefactor for the moment. You may have to burn jealousy at the stake, but can we not sink a part of our selfishness in the unselfish thought of others?

Yours for our boys and girls.

H. C. McDONALD.

FOR SALE—Printype Oliver Typewriter, latest model; practically new; at a bargain. Apply to Powell Pressing Club, Clanton, Ala.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Long Time Loans to Farmers on Improved Real Estate

On real estate security in Chilton County, owned by farmers. I can procure long time loansfrom clients who have ample money to lend, at less tha 8 per cent interest. Applicants should bring their land papers with them.

Wm. M. ADAMS, Clanton, Ala.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

The graduates of the Chilton County High School met in the high school auditorium last Friday afternoon, and organied themselves into an AlumniAssociation. Mr. O. B. Thompson was Chairman of the meeting.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—President, O. B. Thompson; Vice-President, O. W. Jones; Secretary, Miss Bessie Davis; Treasurer, T. E. Wyatt.

After the newly elected president took his chair, he proceeded to appoint the following committees:—On By-Laws, Edgar Teel, Jean Wyatt, Willie Edwards. On Refreshments, Bessie Davis, Beverly Hester, Annie Gragg and Ara Mullins.

The Association decided to hold its annual meetings on or about August 25, of each year.

WADES WEEKLY LETTER

Winter Cover Crops

September is the best time to sow crimson and burr clovers for soil fertility and winter grazing. Clover can be planted in October and succeed if the weather is favorable and frost occurs late. It is always best to plant in September to provide plenty of time for germination and thorough inoculation before cold weather begins.

Crimson Clover

Crimson clover may be sown for grazing, hay or be plowed under for fertilizer in the Spring. I have known one crop of clover turned under in the Spring to double the yield of corn or cotton. A good crop of crimson clover turned under in the blooming stage is said to be equal in fertilizer value to fifteen hundred pounds of cotton seed meal per acre.

Sowing Crimson Clover

Crimson clover seed cost from five to eight dollars per bushel and will seed about three or four acres to the bushel. The soil must be inoculatted with soil taken from a field where crimson clover or white clover has grown successfully the year before and a thousand pounds or more per acre be scattered over the land to be seeded when the soil is in a moist condition. Sow the seed and drag or harrow lightly. Artificial inoculation of the seed before sowing with commercial bacteria is the next best thing where inoculated soil is not available. Pulverize the surface of the soil finely before sowing. Deep preparation is not necessary.

Burr Clover

Burr clover is the ideal winter grazing crop for all pasture lands that are fairly fertile and well drained. All bermuda pastures should be sown to burr clover. No preparation or inoculation is necessary. Sow Southern burr clover in the burr over your pastures in July, August or September at the rate of four or five bushels per acre and let the stock and Fall rains settle it. The clover will catch on all good well drained land and take care of itself. It will be permanent and get better every winter unless pastured too closely at blooming season. Bermuda and burr clover combined is the best crop that can be sown on and Southern farm and should be sown on all rough land where cultivatable crops are never expected to grow.

Destroy Cotton Stalks

Destroy cotton stalks by grazing with cattle or plow them under deeply just as soon as you can get the cotton picked. When the stalks are plowed under, sow rye or winter oats for cover crops and winter grazing. This will be good for the soil and help control the boll weevil next year. It will make winter pasture, protect and improve the soil and make your next year crop easier to cultivate. Do not let your cotton stalks stand until frost and produce weevils for you to fight next year.

JAMES AW.ADE,
Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

FAMILY REUNION

On last Friday the 18th inst. the children and grand children of Mr. and Mrs. Z. W. Langston gathered in happy reunion at the residence of Mr. Frank Langston, Jr., near Mars Hill.

Mr. Z. W. Langston and wife, the deceased father and mother, were well and favorably known in this section of the county having spent their lives here. They were church officials, Deacon and Deaconess.

The children and grand children that were present are as follows:

Mrs. Mattie Johnson of Jemison and four children and four grand children, Mrs. Mollie Atchison of Randolph and five children, Mr. Frank Langston Jr. and wife and four children of Mars Hill, Mr. James Langston and wife and five children of Lawley, Mrs. Ada Glass and husband and four children of Sand Mountain, Mr. Sim Langston and wife and child of Birmingham, Mrs. Maggie Watson and eight children of Jemison. And in addition to the family we presume there were one hundred others who came in to enjoy the happy gathering. When the noon hour came a rich and bountiful dinner was spread. In the afternoon all visited for a short while the home of Mr. C. L. Langston, uncle of the family, then to the nearby church house where a short time was spent in sacred song, where the happy family had so often met in by-gone days. Then came the sorrowful leave taking. Oh, who but those who have passed through the trying ordeal know how hard to suppress the involuntary tears or the chocking sensation as we try to cheerfully, bravely seperate from loved ones. We part in hope of meeting again, but this hope may never be realized.

ECHOS FROM SPEAKING AT MINERAL SPRINGS

A Big Crowd Listen To Moore, Middleton and Reynolds

It was a rousing meeting of the Republicans of Beat 12 at Mineral Springs Saturday night. And the interest shown by those who were there to hear what was to be said by the speakers was fully rewarded by the gentlemen who went before them in address.

The speeches, the enthusiasm of the listeners and the open expressions of one kind and another, all in all, speaks well for the cause of the Republican party in Chilton county and the success of the ticket in November.

Prof. Moore Keeps Faith.

The chairman, W. H. Conway, with a few introductory remarks, presented the first speaker, Prof. J. W. Moore.

Mr. Moore began by reference to his candidacy a few months ago, against Judge Reynolds for the nomination. He reminded his audience of the pledge he made then that if he were defeated and Reynolds nominated, he would be true to honor and support the nominee and help elect the ticket in November.

The way Mr. Moore has proven himself true to his pledge was admirably proven by the speldid remarks he made in his speech.

His reference to the condition of the county six years ago, and the matter of the way the Democrats have expended the efforts they have made in building public roads in the past few years were a sound indictment against the incompetency and unjustness of the administration of our county affairs.

He showed where it would have been possible to have built fairly good roads all over the county with the money that has been squandered in the building of comparatively a few miles of highways that touch and benefit only a very small number of people.

He closed his remarks by appealing to the voter to put the county government back into hands that will control expenses, economize, and pay debts as fast as possible—into control of those who will listen to the petitions f the common people, and not be guided and governed by the whims and desires of a few Democrats in Clanton.

Middleton's Deep Thought

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton began with a striking comparrison of times under Republican and Democratic rule. He represented facts and figures showing that the present semi-prosperity which the country enjoys is due to the trade increase brought about by the war.

The speaker cited parts of Mr. Wilson's platform on which he went into office, and proved that this solemn contract had not been kept and that his pledges and promises had been forgotten and utterly disregarded.

Instances where the Democratic platform promised better times to the country, and to lower the cost of living and to reduce the former extravagance of government were taken up and handled manfully by Mr. Middleton.

The Federal Reserve Bank system and the Rural Credits bill were exposed from start to finish, and their worthlessness t the farmer was forcibly shown and pronounced.

Mr. Middleton continued his remarks from national affairs, on down to the state. He impressed his audience with the unjust discrimination that has been made between various counties in appropriation of our school funds.

He said the Democrats had been in control of the state long enough to have a good educational system established if their efforts and policies had been directed toward such; but as it is and has been they have us yet at the bottom of the list. Their failure in this is the strongest indictment of their party methods.

He spoke of the county conditions, showing the many failures and shortcomings of the Democratic administration.

Judge Reynold's Remarks

The crowd insisted on hearing a few words from Judge Reynolds who was present. He pleased his hearers with a short speech dealing with Chilton county affairs fully and freely.. The crowd was wild with cheers at everything he spoke.

The Vote Taken

At the close of the speeches a request was made for a vote of the house between Reynolds and Popwell.

All except half a dozen stood up, pledging to vote for Reynolds and the Republican ticket.

Not a single man stood up and said he would vote for Popwell.

MARBURY EXCITED OVER THE WEDDING OF POPULAR COUPLE

Marbury, Ala., Aug. 29.—Marbury is all excitement today. Mr. Walter Warrick, part owner of the leading drug store, manager of the dry goods department of a big department store, a general good fellow and a most popular bachelor in town, took Mrs. Barnett Barefield to the Baptist parsonage last night and had the knot tied for life. Both parties are very popular, and the wedding is the occasion of much pleasurable comment. Rev. S. E. Moorman officiated.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE CARLTON BURNETT

On August 19th, 1916, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Burnett and waifted the sweet spirit of their little six year old Carlton through the beautiful gate that stands ajar to receive the flowers of earth. His illness was brief but painful. All that willing hands of loving friends and devoted parents did proved naught, and in submission as in the garden of Gethsamane we say thy will be done not ours.

Carlton was a child of rare intellect, always wearing a pleasant smile making home a scene of joy, and adding to his score a host of friends.

To the parents and relatives we plead to say weep not as those who have no hope, Carlton will be at the gate to meet you on that resurrection morn where there is no more good by.

ICIE DUPRIEST.

PUBLIC SPEAKINGS ON FORAGE AND WINTER CROPS

There will be public speakings on Forage and winter cover crops by Government experts at the following times and places, for the purpose of encouraging the farmers to plant something that will help to tide over the disasters of rain and boll weevils:

September 13, 1916.

Jemison, 9:00, a.m.
Thorsby, 11:00, a.m.
Cross Roads, 2:00, p.m.
Collins Chapel, 4:00, p.m.
Union Grove, 7:30, p.m.

September 14, 1916.

Liberty Hill, 9:30, a.m.
Clanton, 11:00, a.m.
Cooper, 2:30, p.m.
Verbena, 4:00, p.m.

We cordiall invite every farmer and business man to attend and hear these very important lectures.

We especiall ask the merchants and business men t help get out a good attendance.

W. H. CONWAY.

DEATH OF ARRIE EASTERLING

On August 23rd, 1916, the death angle visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Easterling, when God in his infinite wisdom saw fit to take from them the darling of the home, Arrie, who was about twenty-four years of age. After being sick for twelve months God saw fit to take her to that heavenly home where there would be no more suffering nor pain.

Arrie prayed for the Lord to take her and said she was ready to go. She wanted to go with Jesus where she could rest for ever more.

She leaves a mother, step-father, and three sisters besides a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Willie Wilson, Thursday, at 11 A. M., after which her remains were laid to rest in Walnut Creek cemetery. May God's richest blessings be upon us and the Holy spirit comfort and guide us at al times is the prayer of this body.

Jesus loved our precious one, mother, sisters as you loved her. Would your hearts be sad and heavy if in heaven you only knew that the rose bud planted there, watered by a thousand tears, blooms today in glory land, free from sorrows and from tears? Weep not dear mother for Arrie is at rest in the sweet beyond. While we sadly miss her. His will on earth must be done. For we all can be prepared to meet her in that great beyond. Although she has gone and left us God is waiting to give us a home in the sweet beyond.

Her cousins,
NORA and JANIE TAYLOR.

FARMERS UNION MEETING

The Chilton County Farmers Union will meet with Mineral Springs Local No. 315, five miles northeast of Thorsby, on Friday and Saturday Sept. 15-16.

Those coming by rail to Thorsby should write C. C. Bowles, Jemison Route 4, for conveyance. First day will be public everybody invited.

J. M. SMITH,
County Sec.

APPLICATION FOR PARDON

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted of bastardy at the special term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, June 26, 1916, and sentenced to one year hard labor for the county, will make application to the Governor of Alabama for pardon or parole.

LAFAYETTE DOWNING.

COLLINS CHAPEL

Health here is good at present.

The singing at J. W. Collins Saturday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Mr. Elijah Mims and family visited at Commie Collin's Saturday night and Sunday.

Misses Stella Lowery and Lucile Mims visited Rilla Vance Sunday.

Misses Lummie Murrah and Mattie Mims spent last week at J. D. Colilns.

Miss Addie Vance spent Sunday with Misses Olive and Myrtle Pate.

Mr. Melvin Collins of Birmingham is spending a few days with home folks this week.

Miss Delean Burnett spent Saturday night and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. H. H.Hayes.

Miss Molie Murrah has returned from Siluria.

Best wishes to the Union-Banner.

COUNTRY IS FACING GREATEST RAILWAY STRIKE IN HISTORY

Employees will Strike for Eight hour day Labor.

Great Tie-up is Scheduled in Commerce to take effect Monday.

Congress Can Prevent Strike

Washington, August 30.—All railroad brotherhood heads were obviously pleased tonight after a careful study of the proposed bill to fix an eight-hour work day for trainmne in interest commerce, at present wages, and for an investigation of results by a commission. W. G. Lee, head of the trainmen's brotherhood, made the unequivocal statement that enactment of such a law by midnight Saturday would aver a strike. He said:

"Enactement into law of the President's eight-hour day bill, as now drawn, guaranteeing the present 10-hour day wage, will be egarded as a satisfactory settlement of our differences with the railroads and there will be no strike. In order to prevent a strike, however, this bill must become a law before next Saturday night."

MILLIONS WILL BE IDLE AS A RESULT OF STRIKE.

New York, August 30.—Representatives of New York city and its various industries were making feverish efforts tonight to prevent a complete paralysis of traffic in the event of the threatened nation-wide railroad strike. Millions of persons, it was estimated, may be thrown out of work almost immediately if the strike becomes a reality.

With the tying up of the railroads, steamship service out of New York and other American ports, particularly freight traffic, virtually would be at a standstill, it was admitted by representatives of steamship lines. It was regarded as doubtful whether European freight traffic would be able to continue any length of time.

Coastwise shipping lines announced that as a result of the railroad freight embargo they will be unable to accept freight except for terminals and points which can be reached by water. Official notices to this effect will be issued tomorrow.

HESTER RECEIVES NOTICE

Thursday morning Mr. Hester the freight agent of the L. & N. Railroad at Clanton received a telegram from officials of the road, instructing him not to receive and freight for shipment that could not be delivered at its destination by Sunday night.

Mr. Hester states that the strike will take effect on Monday morning if some means of prevention is not reached before then.

He says the railroads are planning to fight their contentions against the labor organizations to the bitter end.

SOUTHERN GROWERS FACING ENORMOUS LOSS BY REASON EMBARGO ON PERISHABLES

Atlanta, August 30.—Melon and fruit growers of the south face enormous loss if the embargoes on perishable freight announced by southern railroads is not lifted soon.

Most of the southern roads issued embargoes today directing that no shipments which would deteriorate if delayed en route should be accepted for destinations that would not be reached before Sunday. In some cases the ban was extended to include explosives and some roads made the embargo immediately effective. The several lines which had not issued embargo orders tonight were preparing to do s tomorrow.

Large crops, especially in the southeastern states, are in the fields or in cars on sidings waiting shipment to eastern and middle western markets and will be worthless if allowed to remain so for any extended time.

Although the embargo applies also to live stock, poultry and truck, these industries will suffer less than the fruit growers. Thousands of truck growers and produce farmers dispose of their products in nearby markets, and it is believed wagon roads will be sufficient to relieve congestion.

WANTED—YOUNG MEN WITH NERVE. Good pay, short hours, opportunity for travel, advancement; normal physique, good references required. Aviation Dep't. THE O'CONNOR CORPORATION, 6309 S. Eggleston, CHICAGO, ILL.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted in the Special Term Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, in June, 1916, for violation of the Prohibition Laws, will apply for pardon or parole.

8-17-3t. NINNIE JONES.

AGENT WANTED

We can give a splendid contract to a wide awake man with horse and wagon to handle our business in Chilton County

Singer Sewing Machine Co.
8-3-4t Montgomery, Ala.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER FROM DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Do we need Longer School Terms?

The following record of a teacher's struggle for a livelihood on the annual salary received during a short school term is typical. It is the account of a man, now 24 years of age, educated in the rural elementary schools and a county high school. For obvious reasons the name of the teacher and the place of his residence are withheld.

"First year. Salary $40 for 5 months. $25 supplement. Pleasant Cherry School. In summer made 1½ bales of cotton.

Second year. Salary $45 for 5 months. $50 supplement. Bethsada School. Between the second and third years' teaching I spent $200 going to school.

Third year. Salary 47.50 for 7 months (5 plus 2). $75 supplement. Poplar Springs School. Between the third and fourth years made $100 in farming. Married during that summer.

Fourth year. Salary $50 for 6 months (4 plus 2). No supplement. Bethel School. Made 2 bales of cotton and some corn between fourth and fifth year.

Fifth year. Salary $62.50 for 6 months. No supplement. Sunny Point School. Between fifth and sixth years worked enough on farm at 75c a day to pay house rent.

Seventh year. $50 for 6 months. $60 supplemnt. Popwell School.

I have two children and a wife. It costs us $20 a month to live. By keeping a cow and raising my own meat I manage to live on my salary. I lost a $160 mule between my third and fourth years' work. I still owe $100 on this account and have been paying interest on it. I have a contract to teach next year at $50 for 6 months. Am doing day labor this summer to make a living for my family."

Is it any wonder that two-thirds of the white teachers in our elementary schools have had no proffessional training.

ARE YOU TOO OLD TO GO TO SCHOOL?

Some of the world's greatest men got practically all of their education after they had passed the age of twenty. No matter if you are already twenty-five or thirty years old and have had not even a common school training, you need not give up your hope for an education. You will doubtless not want to attend a strictly graded school, where you would have to be placed in classes with little children. The teacher of a crowed district school could not give you enough time to help you make the rapid progress you desire. For such as you, Thorsby Institute offers peculiar advantages. Here you will be in special classes with others of your own age, and the teaching will be adopted to the maturity of your mind. Do not stay away because you think you are too old, but come and let us help you. Write at once to Principal S. H. Herbert, Thorsby, Ala. for a catalogue and further information.

UNITY

Health here is good at present.

We are having a revival meeting here this week.

Misses Lummie Murrah and Mattie Mims are spending a few days with Mrs. J. D. Collins.

Miss Nora Belle Thompson was a visitor at Misses Alma and Eva Pool Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bean spent Saturday night and Sunday with the latters parents.

Miss Vedie Retherford spent Saturday night at Mr. J. D. Collins.

Miss Annie Lowe called on Mrs. Will Duke Saturday afternoon.

Messrs. Clarence and Evan Parrish and their sister, Ledie, and George Wyatt attended preaching here Sunday night.

Misses Margarite, Mary and Thelma Farley and Jessie Baker attended the singing at Misses Alma and Eva Pool's Sundy afternoon.

Misses Lummie Murrah, Mattie Mims and Limmie Collins dined with Miss Ledie Parrish Sunday.

Mr. Eugene Gore went to Mountain Creek Saturday night.

Misses Clarace and Bessie Wells spent Sunday afternoon with Lillian and Hazel Gore.

Much success to the Union-Banner.

FARMERS UNION SPEAKINGS

W. S. Cox will speak at the following times and places in the interest of the Farmers Union and will also organize by apointment of the state officers:

Fairview, Sept. 2, at 2 p. m; Highland, Sept. 2, at 6 p. m; New Cedron, Sept. 4, at 1 p. m.; Bethsalem, Sept. 4 at 3 p. m; Enterprise, Sept. 5 at 2 p. m; Evergreen, Sept. 5, at 6 p. m; Maple Springs, Sept. 6, at 2 p. m; Poplar Springs, Sept 6, at 7 p. m; Cooper School House, Sept 7, at 10 a. m; Corinth, Sept 7, at 7 p. m; Rroivdence, Beat 16, Sept. 8, at 10 a. m; Concord, Sept. 8, at 3 p. m; McCary School House, Sept. 11, at 10 a. m; Wayside, Sept. 11, at 6 p. m; Pletcher, Sept 12, at 10 a. m; Alpine, Sept. 12, at 6 p. m; Stanton, Sept, 13, at 2 p. m; Benson, Sept. 13, at 6 p. m; Cross Roads, Sept. 19, at 2 p. m; Thorsby, Sept. 19, at 6 p. m; Collins Chapel, Sept. 20, at 10 a. m; Union Grove, Sept. 20, at 6 p. m; Providence, Beat 2, Sept. 21, at 2 p. m; Mars Hill, Sept. 21, at 6 p. m; Freeman, Sept. 22, at 10 a. m; Macedonia, Sept 22, at 6 p. m; Pleasant Grove, Sept. 23, at 10 a. m; Pates Chapel, Sept. 23, at 2 p. m.

HUGHES WILL NOT BE A MINORITY PRESIDENT

Figures Complied by Republican Publicity Association, for various Votes by States

The Republican Publicity Association through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., today gave out the following statement at its Washington headquarters:

If the country votes at the presidential election this year as it voted at the Congressional election of 1914, Hughes will carry California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

"These States have 286 votes in the electorial college, a majority of which is only 266.

"In each of these States, two years ago, the Republican Congressional ticket received a clear plurality of votes. In these States combined the Republican candidates for Congress received 4,075,157 votes, while the Democratic candidates for Congress received only 3,132, 568 votes—the total Republican plurality being 942,-589.

"In each of these States, in 1914, there was an organized Progressive campaign—except in Nevada, North Dakota, Utah and Wisconsin, although in Utah there was a Fusion ticket running in opposition to the Republicans. The total Progressive vote in these States was 746,341; and the combined Republican-Progressive plurality over the Democrats was 1,688,930.

"Two years ago there were five states—Indiada, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, and Ohio—which are fairly to be classed as normally Republican but where the Democratic Congressional ticket received a plurality of votes ranging from a beggarly 365 in Maine to an impressive 42,752 in Indiana. But the Progressive vote in each of these five states was far in excess of the difference between Republican and Democratic totals, and ranged from 3,111 in Nebraska to 90,040 in Indiana. In Kansas the Progressive vote in 1914 amounted to 74,441; in Ohio it was 47,981; and in Maine it was 17,985.

"These five states will cast 63 votes in the electoral college. How will they vote this year?

"Hopeful Democratic statisticians estimate the division of the former Progressive vote upon different proportions—in each instance, however, giving the long end of it to th Republicans and in no instance claiming that more than 30 per cent of the Bull Moose will support Wilson. Upon this extreme hypothesis, let us examine the vote of the five states where a Democratic plurality was found in the Congressional elections of 1914.

"The Republican vote of Indiana in 1914 was 233,140, the Progressives casting 90,040 and the Democrats 275,892. Dividing the Bull Moose strength on the basis of seventy and thirty per cent, respectively, to the Republicans and the Democrats, the vote of Indiana this year should be: Republican, 296,162; Democratic, 302,904. The margin is too small for comfort on either side; an Indiana must remain as fighting territory until the votes are counted. The Progressives—aided, it is said, by Democratic funds—are maintaining an organization in that state; but competent observers believe that from 85 to 90 per cent of the Moose will vote for Hughes and that the number who will support Wilson are negligible. Upon this basis, Indiana should go for Hughes and Fairbanke by nearly 30,000.

"The seventy-thirty division applied to Kansas would give that state to the Republicans by the following figures: Republican, 240,215; Democratic, 218,162.

"In Maine the result would be: Republican, 72,888; Democratic, 66,-071.

"In Nebraska the figures should show: Republican, 113,376; Democratic, 113,820. This is another hairline of demarcation—but there is no Bull Moose ticket in Nebraska this year; and while the contest will be a hard one, the indications are that Hughes will carry the state.

"The same division of the Progressive vote in Ohio would produce figures for 1916 in this wise: Republican, 511,038; Democratic, 498,653.

"It is therefore a fair assumption that, in addition to retaining the states which disclosed a clear Republican plurality in 1914—and which assure a majority of the electorial college—the Republican will this year gain Kansas, Maine and Ohio without question and secure for Hughes and Fairbanks a total of 326 out of 531 votes in the electorial college—with more than a fighting chance to add the 23 votes of Indiana and Nebraska to that number, making 349, or a majority of 167.

"Hughes will not be a minority President."

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, convicted .t the Spring term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, 1915, for grand larceny, will apply for pardon or parole.

FATE HENLEY.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.
For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.
For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.
For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.
For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.
For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.
For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

The Press says it is going to put L. H. Reynolds, J. B. Atkinson and W. M. Wyatt up at the county fair for public amusement. All right. That suits us. We never fail to get the crowds. But we are not waiting till the fair. We are furnishing the Clanton Press crowd all that they can swallow. And about the November election we will give them some real amusement indeed. Get up your crowd Brother. We had as soon meet you at the Fair as anywhere. If you want to meet us in joint debate we are ready. Don't hover around claiming that you offered us debate the other day and we wouldn't accept. There is plenty of time yet before the election; and if you want to meet us we are ready to arrange it any time and any place. We will guarantee to amuse you.

The publicaion in the Congression al Record of the list of contributors to the Democratic campaign fund of 1912 reveals the name of Abram I. Elkus of New York, who gave $5,000 to "the cause" and who now receives his reward by appointment as Ambassador to Turkey. Mr. Elkus's "dividends on watered stock," as Senator Sherman calls it, are larger than those received by Ambassadore Penfield at Vienna, who gave $10,000, but not so large as those of Ambassador Willard at Madrid, who gave only $2,000. It seems that there was not a fixed rate for embassies or legations, and, like all speculative enterprises, the element of luck entered very largely.

When Wilson summoned his campaign managers to luncheon at the White House he carefully separated the sheep from the goats. That is, he entertained the faithful Democrats on one day and the co-operating Progressives on another. This is typical of the manner in which Democracy is dealing with the Bull Moose as distinguished from the manner in which the Republicans act toward them. The Progressives who are assisting in the management of the Hughes canvass are full fledged members of the committee. Their presence and their activities there are proof of a complete and genuine amalgamation between the two elements who warred against each other —and against the interests of the nation—in 1912. The Democrats, on the other hand, do not admit the Progressives to fellowship. Their attitude is that the Bull Moose may help Wilson in his campaign for reelection, but they must not be permitted to know too much about the fight nor are they to be allowed to count themselves members of the family. Their assistance is accepted, but it is none too welcome. They can help if they want to, but they must not expect to eat with the family.

The 60 per cent reduction which the Democratic tariff law made in the duty on oats—from 15c under the Republican law, to 6c—raised hob with the American market during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, nine months of which was under the Democratic law. During that fiscal year 22,266,000 bushels of oats came in from Canada, valued at $7,880,000, compared with an importation of 708,000 bushels in 1913, valued at $275,550 under the Republican tariff law. Then the war came along, and Canada was obliged to divert the bulk of her oat crop to the theater of hostilities. The same situation presented itself in regard to hay, the Democrats reducing the duty on that product 50 per cent. Our markets were being stuffed with Canadian hay, when the war broke out and that crop went to Europe. Recently the embargo on exports of hay from Canada to neutral countries was raised and the prospect is bright for Canadian farmers, many of whom have carried over a portion of their last year's crop, and they plan to unload that on our market, thanks to the Democratic tariff law. Do our farmers stand for a policy which opens the American market to competition from Canada limited only by the productivity of Canadian soil? Isn't the Republican policy of protection a pretty good one?

The Unino-Banner is late this week on account of a break in our printing press. The Clanton Press is kind enough to print our paper on their press, for which we acknowledge thanks.

"STILL A REPUBLICAN"

Some of the advocats of the candidacy of Mr. Popwell for Probate Judge persist in saying that they are still as much Republicans as ever, and that Mr. Popwell himself is, and that they are going to vote for Mr. Hughes for President, etc., etc.

There are some things in this regard which we cannot just exactly get reconciled.

Back on August the 12th, when the State Republican Chairman, Mr. Long, was here to make a speech in the interest of the Republican party, and Mr. Oliver D. Street, the National Republican Committeeman from Alabama, was programmed to be here—on that day which wa s necessarily a very important day for all who claim to be Republicans in Chilton county; a day when all who are Republicans should have been present to see and benefit by the things that were to be said and done by these important characters in the Republican party; on that day where was Mr. Popwell? He was out on the streets of Clanton, alienating himself from the organization and welfare of the Republican party in the state and nation, chinning around the corners with the Democrats of Clanton.

If he has always been a Republican, is still one, and always will be one, as they say about him, why in the world was he so badly off his cazipp on the above mentioned occasion of so much importance to Republicans?

Back there on July the 15th, when the Democrats, under cover of the Socialists, independents, and any other pretext they could throw around themselves, met at the court house, in a last desperate effort to drag some fellow into the slaughter pen of leadership for their deserted county ticket; that day when the greatest enemy of Chilton county took on the boldest affront that has ever been assumed by a malignant clique of pretenders, and crouched itself in our temple of justice, and from a bulwark of deception and fraud, sent out its fallacious declarations; on that day where was Mr. Popwell?

He was there in the midst of the enemy of the common people of this county, being swerved and enticed from the path of honesty and integrity which he has always traveled with his fellow country men; he was there clapping his hands frantically for the diabolical schemes that were acting as an undercurrent of the whole procedure to perpetuate the rule of ruin in this county. He was there dancing to the tune that was being played by the Democrats.

If he is such a good Republican, why is he found in such company as those who compose that crowd assembled at our court house on July the 15th?

If he is such a good Republican, why did he not prove himself ture to honorand duty and obligations of the last primary election, and support the man who was legally and lawfully nominated. The Man whom Mr. Popwell supported in that primary has been true to himself and his promises; he was not nominated, but he is supporting the man who was nominated; who does not Mr. Popwell not follow the lead of the man whom he pledged to follow when he was supporting him for the nomination in May?

What about the fellow, prominent man of Clanton, who hung around Montgomery when the Legislature was in session, trying to secure the passage of those bills, depriving the people of this county of their honest rights? And now, he comes out and is the first man with his name signed condemning that crowd of politicians for trying to enact such legislation against the county at Montgomery. Well, we are glad he has changed. But we want to call the attention of our people to the fact that those fellows are of the two-faced kind, and should be examined well and carefully before they are trusted with anything.

We were amused at the vacillations sought and employed by the Clanton Press last week, in trying to evade the fact that there was ten thousand dollars in the county treasury when Judge Reynolds went out of office six years ago.

After they had exhausted all means of obtaining deductions from the amount that was in hand; after they had subtracted all the warrants they say were outstanding; after they had deducted debts that were liable to occure for even monts later than the date Reynolds surrendered the office; even after all these suppositions and then some more, they were obliged to admit that there was over four thousand dollars in the Treasury.

Well, we wuld like for them to tell us how much better that is, even at the distressing conclusion they reach in the case, than the condition the Democrats have reached at the end of their term. Do you suppose that the conditions will be as good when the Democrats turn it over to Judge Reynolds again as it was when he turned it over to the Democrats?

Every citizen of the county knows that when Judge Reynolds was Probate Judge, and even at the time Deason took charge, when a man had an acount against the county he received pay for it in cold cash. And furthermore, every citizen knows that those conditions have been unknown since the Democrats have had a whack at us.

In spite of the way the Clanton Press juggles with the records and mixes up the facts as to the actual amount of money, we all know that under Reynolds the county paid its debts, and under Deason is has not. It had money then and it hasn't any money now.

Now will the Press compare the conditions under which Reynolds left the county with the conditions under which Deason will leave it? It would be interesting for the readers of the Press and citizens of the county if they would do this.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Opinions of the People.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space to say a few words in regard to the speaking at this place Saturday night, August 26.

There were about three hundred hearers and I want to say there was something to listen at. We had a fine speech by Prof. J. W. Moore first and following it we had a fine speech by Hon. J. O. Middleton, and he didn't leave anything out. And then we had a speech from Judge Reynolds he made an extra good speech, and everybody liked it except just a few and you know where they stood. I think they would have left the house but they were crowded until they couldn't handy.

Now I want to say a few words in reply to the writer from Mineral Spring in last week's Press. He says he has been waiting for someone to say something about the speaking they had some time ago. I don't see why he was waiting for someone else, for he knew there was but very few of his class around Mineral Spring to say any thing about it. If you will just take Mr. L. H. Reynolds out of his speech there won't be but just a little left, not enough to mention. I tell you boys we voters ought to think a heap of Reynolds for if it wasn't for him we would never hear a Democratic speech, and we do think a heap of him, and we people in Beat 12 will show you that we do in November. It has been reported that Beat 12 is a Popwell Beat, but the fellow that made that report will be made to feel bad on election day. Popwell men are about as scarce up here as $20.00 bills and you can guess how scarce they are.

If you will just take Popwell out of the Clanton Press it will look blank. I was looking over the last issue and there were just eight different letters in there about Reynolds. The Popwell men up here remind me of a drowning boy. They are catching at every thing that comes along. There are some men in this Beat that are having the Press sent to some mighty good Republicans, but I want to tell you it will take something besides the Press to convert them.

A REPUBLICAN.

THEY SAY WE WERE WRONG

Some of the officials of the Town of Clanton have informed the editor of the Union-Banner that our statements last week in regard to the indebtedness of the Town of Clanton were wrong.

In this regard we will say that it is our intentions to give publicity to only facts. We would not try to reach any desired end by the use of false statements and unjust means.

What we said about the amount the Town owes was based on information which we received from other persons. If it is not right we will be glad to give the officials or anyone else who desires an opportunity to state what the correct amount is.

In fact the present officers of the Town were elected on promises that they would publish detailed statements of the finances. And they should give the citizens what they promised.

Something was said to the editor of The Union-Banner some time ago about publishing a statement of the finances of the Town; but after we agreed to publish it we never heard anything more from the matter.

If the officials are not willing to go by the current information obtainable as to the conditions, let them do as they promised—get up a financial report and publish it so that all may read and know the facts correctly and officially.

The town of Clanton, and the se lect few who always control the destinies of the little municipality, ought to think a great deal of the Clanton Press, for it is always looking out for the things that pertain to the town's welfare, Chilton county, Alabama and the rest of the world take care of themselves.

They pretended to answer our question about what Mr. Popwell had done for schools and churches in his home community before coming to Clanton; but somehow their answer only dealt with his record after coming to Clanton.

But after all, what they said will bring out our former contentions forcibly enough for the citizen of the county outside of Clanton to see and understand.

Yes, he has done great things for Clanton since he came here. He has contributed to schools, churches, various benevolences, etc. And too he has become a member of the Town Council, and virtually saved the whole outfit by consenting to have a debt of thousands of dollars heaped upon us.

It seems that Clanton ought to think nearly as much of Mr. Popwell as it does the Clanton Press, since he has done so much to help the city along. We suppose that is the reason the crowd in control are running him for Probate Judge. You know it is the same crowd that has had control of the county for the past six years, and now they are seeking to reward Mr. Popwell for his services to the Town by placing him as the nominal head of the county affairs.

But what we want to know is what has Mr. Popwell done for this county, outside of the Town of Clanton. But we suppose we will not be able to find this out. The Press said last week that they did not know anything of his record, other than that part which deals with the municipality.

BOARDERS WANTED

Wanted table boarders at $3.50 a week; excellent table aways; can also accomodate a few roomers; meals any day.

tf. MRS. ADDIE G. ROBINSON.

THE PRESS IS ASKED TO CORRECT ITS STATEMENT

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 28, 1916.

Editor Union-Banner:

Permit me to say a few words in your paper.

I want to reply to a paragraph I saw in the Press last week, and most especially to the last part of it.

It reads that, "they are of anti-Democratic stock, but they say if they live in the South they will align themselves with the Democratic party."

It is true, we are of Republican stock and we are glad of the name, therefore we are forced to thank the editor for the compliment that he passed on us in the first part of the paragraph.

We have been called every kind of plugulies that could be thought of except Democrats and for God's sake don't call us that.

Now, Mr. Editor of the Press, we will tell you what we said. We said, as Alabama is a Democratic state, it seems uselesse to vote anything except a Democratic ticket in the state election or in other words for a state official, but as for the county, we elect Republicans some times. We also told you that we were taught to be gentlemen when you speak of us voting the Democratic ticket. So please correct in the next issue of the Press as we don't want to be misrepresented by such a thing if we can help it.

Well I guess we have said enough to straighten things on our part.

JAS. I. and J. HENRY ROBINSON.

MT. PLEASANT

The twenty day singing school taught by Prof. J. W. Lowery closed the 16th with a splendid concert. Prof. Lowery, with an enrollment of over eighty pupils, did some splendid work.

A protracted meeting was held here last week and enjoyed by every one that attended.

Rev. Buford Lawrence, who has preached for us this year, has left for Howard College, where he expects to attend school.

E. L. McKinney and family of Cooper spent Sunday with J. A. Duncan and family.

B. H. Jones and family of Mulberry spent Saturday night at J. J. Culp's.

Prof. H. L. Foshee and wife of Eclectic visited relatives here last week.

Rev. W. S. Cox lectured at the school house Monday night about the work of the state Union at Birmingham.

Ed Ward recently visited relatives in Blount county.

L. O. Vickers attended the speaking at Mineral Springs Saturday night.

W. M. Pierce and wife spent Sunday at D. H. Gentry's.

Miss Sula Hall of Talladega Springs recently visited her sister, Mrs. Belle Baxley.

D. P. Robinson and family and Miss Alma Dozier spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives near Mineral Springs.

Mrs. A. J. Duncan is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Joyner, near Sylacauga.

Mrs. Robinson spent last week with her son, G. W. Robinson.

Our tomato club is doing some good althought the tomato crop is very short. Mrs Jones was out here last Wednesday giving instructions and demonstrating on fancy packing. I fear we do not appreciate as we should the great effort she is putting forth to make the work a success.

Lets every one begin to get something ready for the community fair, and have the best one in the county.

WAR PROSPERITY "SPOTTED

Washington, Aug. 30. (Special Correspondence) "British trade restrictions and Great Britian's of ocean tonnage are preventing the farmers of my district from sharing in this war order prosperity", declares Hon Norman J. Gould, of the 36th Congressional District, New York. "Some of our manufacturers have experienced a period which, compared with the pre-war paralysis of our industries, may be called a prosperous one, but the outlook for the farmers is anything but cheerful.

"To begin with, the British authorities placed apples on their list of luxuries, the importation of which, by the United Kingdom, is banned. My district is a large apple producing section, and before the publication of very satisfactory prices, receiving as high as $5.00 a barrel for the fruit, but since the publication of this list the price has gone down to $1.75 and $2.00, and a barrel of selected Northern Spies can be bought for the latter price. As a result of this slump in apple prices a very large fruit storage company in Wayne, a heavy producing county, has gone into bankruptcy, and others are pulling in their belts.

"In addition, the grain outlook is poor. Wet weather has greatly injured the oat crop. Wheat has stood it better, but here again the heavy hand of Great Britian is felt. She has put the freight rate on wheat so extortionately high that in order to deliver it in Liverpool in competition with Argentine wheat, our farmers must dispose of their crop at relatively unsatisfactory prices, or carry it over. If, under present conditions, Argentina can force us to cut our prices on wheat to the quick in Liverpool, think what that country can do in our own market when the war is over, if the Democratic free trade provision is then in operation.

"The effect of the British black list has also been felt in my district. Only the other day a firm in the 36th lost a sizable contract on account of this black list. Appeals to the State Department are barren of result. The appeal that this country must make is to the people for a change of Administration that we may have the application of brain, bone and sinew to our foreign affairs. My district is solid for protection, the Democrats are thoroughly demoralized, and a record Republican vote will be hung up in November."

When the fiscal year was only six weeks old the deficit in the United States Treasury was more than $23,000,000 and only a few hundred thousand dollars less than it was for the same period last year. Yet the revenue receipts for this year's period were more than ten millions above those of last year. What's the answer? It would appear that the more money the Democrats can get or plan for, the more they spend.

A COUNTY MATTER

Because the cattle tick always has been in the South is no reason why it always should be. When the Federal Government, as a result of its investigations into the harm done by the pest, determined in 1906 to undertake the work of systematic eradication, its first step was to quarantine the infested area. It has since been reduced to 444,022 square miles and tens of thousands of miles are being freed from quarantine each year.

It is obvious, therefore, that the tick can be driven out. The process is a simple one and its effieiency proven. Regular dipping in arsenical baths of all the cattle in a county will put an end to the pest in the course of one season. This fact is indisputable. The lack of success in some cases has invariably been due to conditions which have made dipping irregular or incomplete. There are always some persons who, if left to themselves, will shirk their share in the work and neglect to bring their cattle to the vats. In some way these must be forced to do their part. Again, the number of vats may be too few to handle all the stock and the consequent delays may seriously interfere with the progress of the work. Such obstacles, however, always can be overcome. They don ot effect the essential point that the tick can be eliminated whenever and wherever the people are determined to do so.

Primarily tick eradication is a county matter and must be accomplished by county effort. The United States Department of Agriculture however, stands ready to lend the services of its trained men to any county which is sufficiently in earnest in the matter to build the necessary vats and enforce the necessary dipping regulations. If the county is not willing to do this, it is useless to expect anything from Federal men. They can only help those who want to help themselves.

The first step, therefore, is to determine by an election whether the people really do want the ticks to go. If they decide they go, the Federal inspectors will supervise the construction of the vats, the preparation of the baths and the actual dipping of thecattle. They will assist the local men in every way within their power but they cannot supply the money that the work demands. That must come from the county funds. As a matter of fact, however, the amount is not large. In a number of counties which are now free from quarantine, tick eradication has been accomplished at a cost to the county of from 19 to 50 cents per head of cattle. As it is a conservative estimate that cattle in a tick-free county are worth $10 a head more than in a ticky one, the investment seems to be a sound one.

We sell the Goods

BECAUSE

We always have them right here to sell.

ALL THE TIME WE ARE ADDING NEW GOODS TO OUR LINE. ONLY RECENTLY WE RECEIVED A LARGE SHIPMENT OF LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS—THINGS THAT EVERY PERSON NEEDS FOR SUMMER-TIME WEARING

The Late Summer

From now till the opening of the Fall and Winter Season there will be many Little Items you will need in Wearing Apparel.

You will not want to make a Big Purchase possibly—Only a Little item or two now and then to make out on till you get ready to lay in your Supply of Winter Goods.

To both Men and Women, Boys and Girls, we want to say that we can give you want for such Odds and Ends. And our Stock is not just merely Cast off Stuff either.

Everything is Brand-New and Up-to-Date.

Fall and Winter

The opening of the Fall and Winter Trading Season is going to find us "Prepared" to fill the many needs of our Every Customer.

We have already Calculated the needs of our Customers, and we have the Goods coming to supply your various Needs of Such.

In our buying we have spared no effort and means in getting the things you need, and we want you to remember this on the day you come down to look out for the things you intend to buy for the Autumn Season.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store."

Omaha Bee—There are no strings or mental reservations to the public pledges of administrative reform given by Charles E. Hughes. His record as governor of New York guarantees the fulfillment of every promise.

Baltimore American—Twenty-five tons of note paper have been sent to the Mexican border for the use of the National Guardsmen. Many will be surprised to learn there is that much left in the country.

SEND THEM A "NOTE."

It seems that Mr. Woodrow Wilson is having quite a time in getting the railway strike situation settled in some way that will add another star to his crown and bring him more votes in November. We have been wondering why he don't send somebody a "note" regarding a matter. That is the way he settled the trouble with Germany and Mexico.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Ford
THE CAR OF UNIVERSAL SERVICE

The New Ford

ON DISPLAY AT OUR SALES ROOM.

New Stream Line Effect—A Thing of Beauty.
New Radiator, New Hood, Pressed Steel Crown Fenders.
MORE VALUE FOR LESS MONEY.
We are Booking Orders for This New Car Rapidly, Which will be Filled in Relation as they are Booked.
Let us Have Your Order at Once, So as to Insure An Early Delivery.

L. J. DUNCAN

FORD DISTRIBUTOR FOR CHILTON COUNTY.
CLANTON, ALA.

Kiln Dried Lumber

Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Dressed 1x12 Board, Window and Door Casing; also Heart 1x12 and 2x4 for Well Curbing.. If you want any of the Above, bring your team with you, as You can Always Count on Getting it. If any Lumber is wanted that we do not Carry in Stock, We will get it for you.

E. V. Speer Lumber Co.

MARBURY, ALA.

PRINCE ALBERT
TOBACCO IS PREPARED FOR SMOKERS UNDER THE PROCESS DISCOVERED IN MAKING EXPERIMENTS TO PRODUCE THE MOST DELIGHTFUL AND WHOLESOME TOBACCO FOR CIGARETTE AND PIPE SMOKERS.
PROCESS PATENTED JULY 30TH 1907
R.J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY WINSTON SALEM, N.C. U.S.A.
DOES NOT BITE THE TONGUE

P. A. puts new joy into the sport of smoking!

YOU may live to be 110 and never feel old enough to vote, but it's certain-sure you'll not know the joy and contentment of a friendly old jimmy pipe or a hand rolled cigarette unless you get on talking-terms with Prince Albert tobacco!

P. A. comes to you with a real reason for all the goodness and satisfaction it offers. It is made by a patented process that removes bite and parch! You can smoke it long and hard without a comeback! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

Prince Albert affords the keenest pipe and cigarette enjoyment! And that flavor and fragrance and coolness is as good as that sounds. P. A. just answers the universal demand for tobacco without bite, parch or kick-back!

Introduction to Prince Albert isn't any harder than to walk into the nearest place that sells tobacco and ask for "a supply of P. A." You pay out a little change, to be sure, but it's the cheerfullest investment you ever made!

Prince Albert is sold everywhere in toppy red bags, fifty-cent tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors and that clever crystal-glass pound humidor with sponge moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such splendid condition.

PRINCE ALBERT the national joy smoke

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C. Copyright 1916 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

Kenosha (Wis) News—Justice Hughes does not seem to be greatly worried over the retorts of Dmeocrats. His judicial experience has led him to know that it is well to have the facts before you decide a case. His summing up of the failure of Democracy can be depended on as facts not fancies.

Philadelphia Ledger—It is grieving the old-fine Democratic newspapers very much to see how apt the Hughes women are at planning a campaign. The Democrats fear for the fireside and the homes if this keeps up, but would see no menance if the women would only vote for Wilson and let the fireside go hang.

Get The Habit

Not When, But Where the Best Place in Clanton to EAT

Goodgame Cafe

And Quick Lunch

Our Delightful SOFT DRINKS are Unsurpassed

W. H. GOOEGAME, Proprietor.

Next Door to Clanton Press.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South

Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy f Education, School Supervision and Administration, Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three Years.)

For General Catalogue and detailed information, address

CHAS. C. THACH, M. A., LL. D., President, Auburn, Ala.

WARDEN TOOK MONEY FROM CONVICTS FOR "INFLUENCE," CHARGE

Centervile, Ala., Aug. 30—The report of the grad jury just adjourned bordered on the sensational in that it charged that the evidence before that body showed or tended to show that J. D. Evans, warden of convics at Lucile, Bibb county, received money from convicts in order to use his influence to get such convicts pardoned or paroled. Cruel and brutal treatment of State convicts confined at Lucile was also charged by the report of the grad jury. When the report was made to Judge B. M. Miller he ordered clerk of the circuit court, R. L. Avery, to send a certified copy of same to Governor Charles Henderson for his information.

MARRIED

On Thursday morning at thec ourt house the rights of matrimony were solemnized between Mr. Barney Knox and Miss Rosebud Mims, Judge Deason officiating.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

PATENTS

obtained through the old established "D. SWIFT & CO." are being quickly bought by Manufacturers.
Send a model or sketches and description of your invention for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. We get patents or no fee. Write for our free book of 300 needed inventions.

D. SWIFT & CO.
Patent Lawyers. Estab. 1889.
307 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

THIRTY-THREE MEN OF MEMPHIS ARE MISSING

Many Others Injured When Cruiser Went Ashore in sudden storm off San Domingo.

Washington, August 30.—Reports to the navy department tonight said 33 enlisted men were missing, most of them probably drowned, two were known to be dead, two officers and six men seriously injured and 67 others hurt, as a result of the wrecking of the armored cruiser Memphis by a hurricane yesterday in San Domingo City harbor.

Most of the missing were in a small boat overturned by wind and waves, while returning to the Memphis. It is believed by the navy department perhaps a dozen of these may yet be alive on shore and will be discovered by a later muster.

The known dead are:

J. H. Townsend, fireman (address not given), and George W. Rud, North Minneapolis.

The cause of the wreck has not yet been explained fully in messages from Rear Admiral Pond, in command at San Domingo, and an investigation will be started by navy officers soon.

A message from Admiral Pond tonight said:

"Sea smooth. Memphis solidly ashore, eight feet out of water. Working party on board securing records and landing stores. Crew quartered in town. Hospita facilities ample. From first indication of trouble until ship struck, less than one hour."

BESSEMER'S CLERK ACCUSES HIMSELF OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 30.—Jame B. Houston for the last nine years city clerk of Bessemer walked into the office of Solicitor Hugo L. Black of Jefferson county this afternoon and announced that he desired to surrender himself, that he was short in his accounts $6,000 and that he was unable to refund the city. A warrant was gotten out by M. S. Allen, of the Solicitors office charging embezzlement and bond was fixed at $10,000. Houston stated that he did not expect to make bond, wanted to be indicted by the grad jury and would enter a plea of guilty and ask for the lowest possible sentence. He told the Solicitor that he had spent the money. He is a man of sobriety and good character and the announcement of his confession aroused great sympathy among his big following of friends.

HUGHES WILL TOUR IN AUTOMOBILE IF STRIKE ON RAILROADS IS CALLED

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 30.—The committee incharge of Charles E. Hughes' speaking trip through this state next week, has arranged to bring the republican presidential candidate from Nashville, Tenn., to this city next Tuesday by automobile, in case of a railroad strike interfering with his present plans. The distance is 250 miles.

FARMERS TAKING MUCH INTEREST IN RAISING LIVE STOCK

Auburn, August 30.—Reports from the forage crop and live stock campaigns held in Jackson and Etowah counties the last two days show that the meetings have been well attended, and hat the farmers in these counties are especially interested in crimson clover and oats. A report from Jackson county states that at least one community bull club and several individual purchases of pure bred animals will result from the campaign in that county. In addition to talks to farmers the party in Jackson county talked to 85 high school students.

Campaigns were conducted this week in Madison and DeKalb counties. Next week campaigns will be conducted as follows: Morgan, Thursday and Friday, August 31 and September 1; Fayette and Cherokee, Friday and Saturday, September 1 and 2.

BLOODY PROSPERITY

"No one disputes a temporary prosperity in our land today. But it is sectional in its factory aspect, abnormal in its fevered rush, fictitious in its essentials, and perverting in its tendency. Worse, it is gould sluiced from the river of blood, qoured out by the horrifying sacrifice of millions of our fellow men. God forbid that we should boast a prosperity wrought in such waste of human life. We had rather rejoice in the prosperity of peace."—United States Senator Warren G. Harding.

CLANTON GIRLS WILL VISIT OLD SOLDIERS HOME

A company of accomplished Clanton young ladies will visit the old Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek some day in the near future, and furnish a musical entertainment for the Veterans.

Judge Reynolds is gone Thursday to speak at a Farmers Union meeting at Cox Chapel in Bibb county.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

WILSON SIGNS ARMY AND NAVY BILLS AND PHILIPPINE MEASURE

Paogram of 157 Warships Three years; and peace Army of 216,000.

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Wilson today signed the army bill, the navy bill and the Philippine bill at the White House, in the presence of cabinet officers and other members of his official family.

The army bill appropriates $257,596,530 for financing the new army of 216,000 peace strength, called for under the Hay-Chamberlain army reorganization bill.

The naval bill appropriates $313,384,389 and provides a three year building program of 157 warships, including 10 battleships and six cruisers, four of each of which are to be begun this year.

The Philippine bill provides a more autonomous form of government for those islands.

FIRE ALARM DISTURBED CHURCH SERVICES

Last Sunday about eleven-thirty, just as services were in full swing at both the churches in Clanton, the fire alarm was sounded, and all the people rushed out and to their homes. The fire was located at the home of Mr. Houston Nelson, on the west side of town. The prompt work of the fire department succeeded in extinguishing the flames before much damage was done to the house. But the alarm destroyed the preaching services. Dr. Bomar was preaching at the Baptist church. His sermon was delayed, and delivered at a later hour in the evening.

If the administration succeeds in its announced object of enforcing fairness in the Nicaraguan election, it may pluck up courage to try the same thing on Mississippi, Virginia and a few more of the states where Wilson's party has put the "mock" into democracy.

Vice President Marshall says that Governor Hughes' acceptance speech had "the length and tone of a dissenting opinion." If Mr. Marshall will put his ear to the ground on election night he will get the full force and effect of a very brief and decisive dissenting opinion.

Well in case wheat gets too high we thought we might be able to make bread out of potato meal but now they tell us potatoes may go to $2 a bushel. The "New Freedom" evidently doesn't contemplate to eat.

OLD ORIOLES

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

"WHAT was the smartest team in baseball?" That's a question I've often been asked. The answer is so simple, I don't think any well-informed fan will dispute me.

It was the old Orioles, back twenty years ago in Baltimore. On that team was John McGraw, the little Napoleon of baseball, now manager of the Giants; Hughie Jennings, the foxy manager of Detroit; Wilbert Robinson, who as manager is pulling Brooklyn out of the cellar; Willie Keeler, one of the wisest players that ever lived; Joe Kelly, now a scout for the New York Americans, and others I don't recall.

Those fellows played baseball, ate baseball, and slept baseball. In spirit they were more like a college team than any team that ever played. They did work at baseball. They played the game for the sheer love of it, and would rather die than lose.

After a game they'd hold a council in the evening. They'd go over the game of the day and figure out where they had made mistakes and where they could improve the play. They'd plan something new. Then in the morning they'd go to the diamond and work out their new theory in practice.

Right here is where inside baseball was originated. They invented the hit and run. Keeler invented the bunt. Up to that time a batter was judged according as to how far he could hit the ball, but Keeler proved a puny little hit was better sometimes than a long hit.

Out of these games came the plan of hitting to right field with a man on first or second, so that the right fielder would have a longer throw from right field to third than the left fielder would.

This is about the only team that ever had a reunion. Each year at the baseball league meetings in New York the old team gets together and talks over old times. Keeler, although out of baseball and a wealthy real estate operator in Brooklyn, crosses the bridge to attend the meeting. It is said that this is about all he ever goes to New York for—to meet Hughie and Johnny and the other old boys, and talk over how they invented plays that everybody accepts as matters of fact nowadays.

Yes, I think this is the smartest team of ball players that ever got on the diamond together.

Randolph Rose

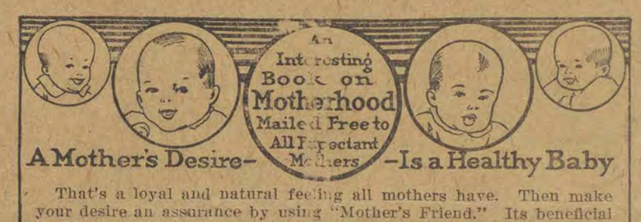
Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials. free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
All Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Subscribe for the Union.

TAX NOTICE

Collector's and Assessor's Round.



We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes for Chilton County for the year 1916, and assessing taxes for the year 1917.

Minooka	Beat 13,	October 2, 1916
Jemison	Beat 2,	October 3, 1916
Thorsby	Beat 9,	October 4, 1916
Mt. Creek	Beat 5,	October 5, 1916
Coopers	Beat 10,	October 6, 1916
Enterprise	Beat 6,	October 7, 1916
Pletcher	Beat 15,	October 9, 1916
Riderville	Beat 8,	October 10, 1916
Maplesville	Beat 7,	October 11, 1916
Macedonia	Beat 14,	October 12, 1916
Robinson's Store	Beat 12,	October 13, 1916
Mullins Acadamy	Beat 1,	October 14, 1916
Verbena	Beat 5,	October 16, 1916
Evergreen	Beat 10,	October 17, 1916
Kincheon	Beat 6,	October 18, 1916
Culp Schoolhouse	Beat 15,	October 19, 1916
Shoults	Beat 7,	October 20, 1916
Stanton	Beat 8,	October 21, 1916
Benson	Beat 3,	October 23, 1916
Concord	Beat 13,	October 24, 1916
Mars Hill	Beat 2,	October 25, 1916
Mineral Springs	Beat 12,	October 26, 1916
Cane Creek	Beat 11,	October 27, 1916
Providence	Beat 16,	October 28, 1916
Clanton	Beat 4,	Nov. 6 to 11, 1916

Take notice that under Section Number 34, of the Revenue Code of 1915, it is the duty of every person liable to taxation in each election precinct, to attend on person on the first day of the appointment in your Precinct, and then and there render to the Assessor a full and complete list of all the property, of which he or she was owner on the 1 day of October of that year.

All taxes and assessments are delinquent after December the 31st, 1916.

J. D. COLLINS, Tax Collector.
J. N. DENNIS, Tax Assessor.

A Mother's Desire—Is a Healthy Baby

That's a loyal and natural feeling all mothers have. Then make your desire an assurance by using "Mother's Friend." Its beneficial qualities will conserve your own health and strength and make baby's coming easier and its future health secure. Get it at your druggist. Send for the free book.

The Bradfield Regulator Co. 201 Lamar Bldg. Atlanta Ga.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

Driving the brain starts the pain

Over-work, worry and the constant strain of a business life are often a cause of much trouble. Dr. Miles' Nervine is highly recommended for all Nervous disorders. It is particularly invaluable to business women. Regulate your bowels by using

DR. MILES' LIVER PILLS

IF FIRST BOTTLE, OR BOX, FAILS TO BENEFIT YOU, YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

NERVOUS ATTACKS.

"I suffered with nervous attacks and headaches. Then my liver got out of order and it seemed as though my whole system was upset. I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine and also took Dr. Miles' Liver Pills and now I feel perfectly well in every way. My bowels also are in good shape now."
MRS. AUGUSTA KEISER,
1149 Portland Ave.,
Rochester, N. Y.

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF JACKSON, ALABAMA

Praises Ferraline, and Saye he is Entirely Cured.

Superintendent of the First District Agricultural Farm.

"Yes, you may say to the general public that I am cured of indigestion of many year's standing," says Mr. Fleetwood York, who is superintendent of the First District Agricultural Farm at Jackson, Ala., to a representative of the Frankville Medicine Company, Inc.

"I do not remember exactly how long I have had this trouble," says Mr. York, "but I do know that I ahve tried everything that I could hear of, or that I saw advertised, and this was just like throwing money away so far as any good that it did me was concerned, for I got worse all the time, and had begun to think that there was no cure for me.

"The first time I noticed this trouble was when I commenced having attacks of acute indigestion. When these spells came on me, I would just swell up like a mule with the colic, and sometimes I would get as limber as a rag. My breath would get short, and my pulse so weak I was afraid my heart would stop beating. Finally my kidneys began to give me some trouble, and then I began to take notice and buy some more medicine. I had no appetite and could not digest anything. To tell the truth I was in the worst condition that anyone could get in. Anyone that has indigestion certainly has my sympathy, and they are never going to get cured until they use Ferraline for it is the only thing that I know of that will cure it, and I ought to know for I have been spending all that I made for years, and I think that I have tried them all. There is no Alcohol in Ferraline, and in place of leaving the stomach in worse condition, like the remedies with Alcohol in them does, it heals all the sore and tender places, and you can feel the effects from the first few doses.

"Ferraline was recommendede to me by one f my best friends, who has been cured of Stomach Trouble of many years' standing. I had full confidence in this friend or I never would have bought the first bottle. I also asked my friend that sold Ferraline what he thought of it, and he said that it must be all right, for people were coming in after the second bottle, and if he happened to be out that they would ask him to rush up the shipment.

"I thought this was a good sign and took home a bottle, and I want to say that from the first few doses I could feel that it was curing me. Before I finished the first bottle I was cured, but to be sure I finished the first bottle, and am happy to say that I am now completely cured.

"Ferraline is the popular Tonic in this section and everyone now knows what Ferraline will do for them."

Ferraline is for sale in Clanton by Alred Drug Co., in Jemison by Shaw Drug Co., and in Randlph by C. W. Brand.

CITY SCHOOL IN CLANTON OPENS SEPTEMBER 11

Prof. J. L. Johnson announces that the city school of Clanton will open its next sessin on Monday, September 11th. The splendid and efficient principal will have the assistance of a thoroughly competent corps of teachers. We predict and expect for the public school the coming session a great and enduring success.

LUMBER FOR RUSSIA

The last three cars of dressed lumber, which makes the third shipment of a large order received through Pittsburg agents for the Russian government, has left Clanton and goes to Nova Scotia, where it is worked into shapes before being shipped to Russia.

CARRIAGE BUILDER'S MEET

The Carriage Builder's National Association, organized in 1872, will hold its forty-fourth annual convention in Cincinnati next September. Manufacturers from all parts of the United States will come together at that time and place, to discuss the state of their indusry, and to congratulate each other on the remarkable showing made by the carriage business despite all the competition and tremendous advertising of the automobile.

Perhaps not one of the larger manufacturers of buggies have closed their plants because of automobile competition. Some of them, however, are doing a wonderful business in building automobile bodies in connection with their carriage production. A few have gone altogether into the automobile body line, and are said to be making money.

In the neighborhood of one thousand vehicle manufacturers and makers of vehicle parts will be in attendance at the Cincinnati convention, and every man of them will be contented, prosperous and glad he is still in the business of supplying the country with buggies and surreys.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words?

Rev. Daniel preached a very interesting sermon to a large crowd Sunday.

Miss Mrytle Scroggins will leave next Friday for Sylacauga where she will attend school.

Miss Lillie Litleton visited Misses Nancy and Clara Smith Sunday.

Miss Nora Smith is visiting relatives in Sylacauga this week.

Miss Virgie Davis returned home Sunday from a pleasant visit to friends near Clanton.

Miss Alma Dozier spent Saturday night and Sunday with Misses Icie and Inie Dupriest.

Mr. Fonza Jones visited at Mr. A. J. Davis's Sunday.

FOR SALE—Mare 8 years old and colt 5 weeks old. Will sell at a bargain right away. Guarantee working qualities and safety. H. H. Hayes, Clanton, Ala., R. 4. adv. 8-3-3-t

BOY SCOUTS RALLY

There will be a public rally of the Boy Scouts on Tuesday night September the 5th, at the court house in Clanton, at eight o'clock. There will be music by the Collins string Band, and some interesting talks. If you interested in your boys and your neighbors boys, come.

FARM FOR SALE

Twenty acres with house and outbuildings, located a mile and a half northeast of Clanton. Good land, well situated for truck and general farming. For particulars and fur ther information apply to The Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala.

MARRIAGES

Stanley Thornton and Miss Gulma Baker.

H. J. Taylor and Miss Ophelia Hughes.

Colored—Bennie Williams and Sadie Campbell; Richard Harrison and Sarah Craigs; Nathaniel Mitchell and Bikey Peeples; Leon Fike and Allie Johnson.

GOOD COW FOR SALE.—I have a good milch cow for sale; also one 6-year-old horse. Cheap. Apply to E. HOPKINS.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

First Methodist Church of Clanton

Preaching every Sunday at eleven o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M. Everybody cordially invited to worship with us in these services.

REV. I. F. BILBRO, Pastor.

Sunday Schools starts at 9:45 A. M. instead of 10 o'clock. Please do not forget the time and bring someone with you.

J. B. ATKINSON, Supt.

Prayer meeting at 8 o'clock P. M. Wednesday. Make the prayer meeting your services.

FOR SALE—Redemption equity in store building at Thorsby worth one thousand dollars, owner has equity of five hundred dollars will sell for one hundred dollars cash, address the Ingalls Iron Works Company, Birmingham, Ala.,

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper. E66-13

CLANTON ITEMS

Judge L. H. Reynolds went over to Centerville Tuesday on business matters.

Rev. Crumpton Walker of Columbiana was in Clanton Tuesday on a visit to Rev. H. T. Crumpton.

Harry Kanjutzky is away in the Eastern markets, getting up his stock of goods for the fall and winter.

All varieties of new and fresh Turnip Seed for sale at Upchurch Drug Co., at the right prices.

Clarence Evans has gone to Montgomery where he will accept a position with Alex Rice.

Mrs. Lilla Collins and children of Birmingham, spent the week end with Mrs. H. F. Downs.

Mrs. Davis of Birmingham spent the first part of the week with Mrs. H. F. Downs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Swan and children of Ensley, are visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Mrs. Ida Smitherman of Montgomery is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Jones.

WANTED—To buy a three-horse Feed Chopper at once, Apply at Union-Banner office. tf.

Miss Willie B. Jones is visiting Miss Ola Mae Seals of Maplesville.

Master Gordon Gray visited Clanton friends Wednesday.

Miss Bessie McCary of Montevallo is visiting Mrs. Alex Richards.

Miss Louise Haley of Marion is visiting Miss Leona Pipes.

Mrs. Lula Wlliams and daughter, Miss Mae, of La Grange, Ga., are visiting Mrs. J. M. Potts.

Miss Trypena Chase of Birmingham is visiting Misses Winnie and Willye Reynolds.

PLANTED YOUR TURNIPS? Now is the time. Get your seed at Upchurch Drug Co., where they are new and fresh and sure to come up when planted.

Prof. J. L. Johnson has been called to Alexander City by the recent death of his father. Soon he will return to Clanton to complete arrangements for the opening of the city school on Monday, September 11.

Improvements and renovations are being made at the Dixie theatre, preparatory to the opening next Saturday by Mr. P. C. Smith.

Miss Annie Gragg of Birmingham was in Clanton Friday, Saturday and Sunday, visiting old friends and acquaintances. She attended the meeting of the Alumni Association of the Chilton County High School, which was held Friday afternoon.

Mr. R. E. Manning a Chilton county boy who is a student at the Mt. Berry School, Rome, Ga. was a visitor to The Union-Banner Saturday.

R. M. Butler and son of Route 4 were in town Saturday.

Charles Edwards of Fairview was in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Robinson of Providence were here on Saturday.

T. G. Taylor of Route 2 was a visitor to Clanton Saturday.

Dr. Macon, Professor of Biology at Howard College, was in Clanton Saturday on business connected with the College.

Mr. A. C. Smith and daughters, Misses Bertha and Rilla, and Miss Ruth Smith spent Saturday with friends in Wetumpka.

Thos. M. Parrish, Kemp Bros. most efficient book keeper, is taking a much needed vacation this week.

G. W. Gore and L. A. Gore of New Salem were in town Saturday.

Crayton Culp was a visitor here Saturday.

On Monday Dr. Hopkins performed operations on Hugh Champion, Jasper Edwards and Erwin Wilson for tonsilitis.

Misses Sue Etta Gray and Marie Thomas, lovely little girls of Jemison, were visitors to friends in Clanton Wednesday.

Prague (Okla) Record—The only instance in which the Democratic party has subscribed to the doctrine, "America first" is in the levying of higher taxes on the folks at home.

RECOMMENDATION BY ALEXIS, ALA. DRUGGIST

Mr. T. E. Cothram Sells and Uses Granger Liver Regulator

A druggist is certainly in the best position to judge a medicine, and it's a mighty good sign when he uses it in his own family. Mr. Cothram writes: "This is to certify that I have handled Granger Liver Regulator for years. Have sold it and used it in my family, and can safely say there is none better." Mr. Cothram is one of thousands who have pronounced this vegetable, non-alcoholic remedy the very best system purifier known. Your druggist has Granger Liver Regulator in airtight tin boxes.

Israel Kanjutzky has returned from Walker county.

Mr. F. E. Titus, an experienced machinist, has opened up an automobile repair shop in Clanton, known as the Speedway Garage. Mr. Titus holds a commission as master mechanic from the service of the United States on a big battleship, and his ability is not to be questioned. He is assisted in his work by young Mr. Brand

FOR SALE—Two Weber wagons, 2¾, good as new; one one-horse wagon; blacksmith shop; grain drill, new; disc turning plow, two 10-inch Oliver turning plows; two head Durock Jersey pigs; one disc harrow, section harrow, one Cole planter, one Cole grain distributor, one John Deere planter, three cultivators, one horse clipper and other farming implements; at my house at the old rock quarry. For further particulars see E. H. Foshee, Clanton, Route 5. 8-31-4t.

DR. BOMAR PREACHED AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. Paul V. Bomar, President of the Judson College at Marion, was in Clanton, and preached to a congregation at the Baptist church on Sunday night. He is a profoundly interesting speaker, a man of superb intellectual attainments. His hearers were delighted with his discourse.

LEE HAYES DEAD

The death of Mr. Lee Hayes, a well known citizen of Clanton, occurred at his home Wednesday night after a long illness. His death was not unexpected by those who were acquainted with conditions as he has been in a critical condition for a long time.

CLANTON POST OFFICE

List of letters remaining uncalled for in this office for the week ending August 26, 1916.

Ladies

Inears Donlap.
Salie Jackson.
Lula Simmons.
Lula Sunipkins.
Velmer Thomas.
Emma Lewis.
Mary Marlow.
T. B. Cosby.
Bessie McCary.
Susie H. Eles.
Albiret Ivery.
Emma Dudley.

Gentlemen

George Lanes.
Hollie Cooper
P. H. Corning.
T. L. George.
S. T. Morgan.
Hill Wilder.
E. E. Williams.
W. C. Mims.
Dr. J. P. Whaley.
M. L. Ware.
Walter Jackson.
R. M. Payton.
Fred Ceaser.
Francis W. DuBose.
D. B. Askins, Frank Brewer
D. B. Askins (2),
Frank Brewer.

These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter Office, Sept. 9, 1916, if not delivered before. In calling for the above please say "Advertised" giving date of list.

B. M. ROBERTS, P.M.

REVIVAL AT METHODIST CHURCH

Next Sunday morning a revival will begin at the Methodist church in Clanton. The community is invited and solicited by the pastor, Rev. I. F. Bilbro, to assist and cooperate in making the services a success and a benefit.

MATHEWSON

FAMOUS PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By RANDOLPH ROSE

RANDOLPH ROSE

I saw Christy Mathewson this spring when the Giants stopped in Chattanooga for a game with the Lookouts on their way back from spring training camp at Marlin, Texas. He looked in fine fettle, but whether he will ever be the same old Matty as of yore, time only will tell. There's a great deal of misunderstanding about Matty. In the first place he's not nearly so old as most people think. He's taken such good care of himself that age hasn't had any effect on him. It isn't a question of age at all. I happen to know Matty's correct age. He's thirty-six the 12th day of August this year. That's not specially old for a pitcher. This is his sixteenth year with the Giants.

Matty's pitching trouble—the trouble that handicapped him last season, isn't in his pitching arm at all. As you know, he's a right hander, but his trouble is in his left arm and shoulder.

In a game sometime back he hurt his left shoulder. This grew more bothersome until now it affects his wind-up. If you ever saw him work you'll remember he brings both arms up in front of him, straight over head. Both arms come up with great force prior to delivering the ball.

Now, after Matty pulls his left arm high overhead a few times it begins to pain him. He has to ease up on his wind-up and that hurts his pitching.

But Matty is a resourceful fellow. He's always been given credit for pitching more with his head than his hands and if his trouble is really in his left shoulder and not his right, I believe he is a smart enough player to invent a new wind-up and practice it until he gets as great perfection the new way as he had the old way.

I asked McGraw what he thought of Matty's chances. McGraw just smiled that wise smile of his, but it made me think maybe he knew something he wouldn't tell. Mathewson had been a wonderful player and a fine gentleman, and I would like to see him come through with several more good seasons. It will be interesting to watch his progress this year.

Randolph Rose

FEELS JUST LIKE WRITING A BOOK

Mrs. Bond Would Like To Spread Broadcast Story Of Her Recovery

"If everybody realized the good Tanlac did me the factory wouldn't be able to make it fast enough to supply the demand," said Mrs. Mattie C. Bond, 510 Mosby street, Memphis, Tenn., in conversation with the Tanlac representative a few days ago.

"I had suffered for ten years," she continued, "and was just about as near a physical wreck as a person could be. But look at me now—I've gained fifteen pounds since taking Tanlac and I feel as well as I ever did in my life. I had trouble with my kidneys and my stomach. I got to where I had to live on the very lightest food and could eat very little of that. The pains in my stomach and back were awful. I was extremely nervous and couldn't sleep, and was seldom free from headaches. I felt tired all the time and was easily irritated and worried. I lost a great deal of flesh and finally got so weak and run down I could hardly drag myself around. My color was bad, too, and finally doctors told me I had gallstones and wanted me to go to the hospital and be operated on. I just felt that I could never live through the operation as my constitution was too weak to stand it. All the medicine I took seemed tom ake me worse instead of better and I became so despondent I didn't care much whether I lived or died. This is the very shape I was in when I began taking Tanlac.

"I have actually gained fifteen pounds on Tanlac and I feel like a new woman in every way. I can eat just anything I want and everything agrees with me perfectly. Honestly, I wouldn't take all the money in Memphis for the good Tanlac did me. I have no more pains about my back or stomach, am not nervous like I was and sleep fine every night. I don't know what it is to have the headace now. All the tired, bad feelings have left me and took with them that dread of an operation. I can now do my house work with a pleasure. Tanlac has done me so much good I can hardly keep back the tears of gratitude and I feel like writing a book on Tanlac and sending it broadcast where it will reach those suffering as I did."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co, in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon, in Jemison by Langston Drug Co, in Thorsby by A. K. Horn & Son, in Cooper by McSwain Mercantil Co, in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co, in Stanton by W. C. Dyer, in Riderville by E. E. Jackson Lumber Co, in Marbury by Platean Drug Co, and in Verbena by Gulledge Bros.

MISS REYNOLDS ENTERTAINS

Miss Willye Reynolds delightfully entertained a party of friends at a surprise birthday picnic Wednesday. They motored out to Dake's Pond, where they played rook and had lunch. Those present were Misses Typhena Chase of Birmingham, Bessie McCary of Montevallo, Lessie, Annie and Myrtle Reynolds of Jemison, Winnie Reynolds, L. E. Morgan, Lurline Harper and Mary Lane. Mesdames Hosea Downs, Clark Harper, Alex Richards, J. P. VanDerveer and G. H. Reynoldsc chaperoned the party.

Master Crit Jones is spending the week in the country with his uncle, Charlie Jones.

No. 666

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c

THE FOREST IS THE SOURCE OF S.S.S.

Every Ingredient Purely Vegetable
VEGETABLE—MINERAL MEDICINES

If you were as careful of the medicines you take when sick as you are anxious about the disease it is taken for —a wonderful difference in your future health would result.

In a vegetable product like S.S.S. there is no violent after effect—as is found in mineral medicines— but a natural an efficient means of reaching the blood and purifying it, so that it may perform its functions readily.

Remember—any mineral is a violent material to cast into your delicate interior. Demand genuine S.S.S. at your druggist, it is purely vegetable and the Standard Blood Remedy.

THE MINE IS THE SOURCE OF VIOLENT MINERAL DRUGS

Swift Specific Co. Atlanta, Ga.

Get All You Can

FOR YOUR TIME AND MONEY. THAT IS GOOD COMMON CHRISTIAN SENSE.

STUDENTS OF THORSBY INSTITUTE HAVE SOMETIMES SAID, "I CAN GET

Twice As Much

HERE AS IN ANY OTHER SCHOOL I HAVE EVER ATTENDED." PERHAPS YOU COULD TOO. IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO KNOW HOW, WRITE TO US AND WE WILL EXPLAIN (NO TRIFLERS ARE WANTED).

Thorsby Institute
S. H. HERBERT, Principal
Thorsby, Ala.

ELEVENTH YEAR BEGINS SEPTEMBER 12, 1916.

LUMBER

I have on hand at Clanton, and Jemison, several Thousand Feet of

Steam Kiln Dried

LONG LEAF YELLOW PINE FLOORING AND CEILING WILL SELL AT A BARGAIN
Come and see or write

Joe Van Derveer, Jr.,
CLANTON, ALA.

We will buy your
COTTON SEED
This Season.
Highest Market Prices Paid.
Be sure to see us when you want to sell any.

Clanton Mercantile Company
CLANTON, ALA.

Chilton County High School
FOR
The Boys and Girls of Chilton County.

Course of Study Standardized and fully Articulated with the Elementary Schools and Colleges. Full Course of Four Years leading to any College Degree, a Completion of which carries with it entrance into any Standard College, Without any Examination.

If you do not care to go to College, this is the place to get that High School Training, which will place in your hands the working tools of Life. The High School needs you.

You Cannot hope to make your Life a Success Without it. The World needs and must have Farmers, Mechanics, Teachers, Preachers, Doctors, Lawyers, and Merchants,—in fact, Men and Women in every Walk and in every Professional Business in Life.

This School Stands for the Training of all, except the Deadbeat, the Gambler, and the Tramp—These last named need not apply to Enter into our Classes or Departments.

Our Departments of Art, Music, Expression and Penmanship are open to Everybody, Whether they are Taking part in any of the Regular Courses of the Institution or not.

Especially at this time, we are able to commend to the Public our Course in Piano Music and Voice. Mr. Tinsley needs no introduction; his work is his Advertisement.

This being a State Institution, Tuition is Free.

Next Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1916.

Every Teacher College Trained, Holding a College Degree. This Session will Eclipse the Past. Get in the Procession and let Your Allegiance be Known to Others.

H. CLIFFORD McDONALD, Principal.
CLANTON, ALA.

The Dixie Theatre

Will open under new management

Saturday, September 2nd,

Putting on three shows a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Others when occasion justifies.

Will give you the best of Pictures and Service.

THE UNION-BANNER

Farm and Immigration SUPPLEMENT

CLANTON, ALA., AUGUST 31, 1916

Must Grow More Wheat This Fall

Gives Fine Winter Pasture and Will Help Us to Feed Ourselves and Save Money

The past season wheat was a failure in Tennessee. It has failed to an astonishing extent in the Northwest, one of the greatest wheat growing sections of the world. Of course this shortage in wheat production was due to unseasonable weather.

Alabama is just as apt to have unseasonable weather for wheat as Tennessee. But the fact remains that last spring the wheat crop in Alabama was a success. And it was a success despite the dry weather. The wheat in Alabama last season, as you doubtless know, fared far better than oats.

Deep Plowing.

Wheat can stand considerable drought. In fact if it is planted on land that is deep-plowed, it can stand any drought that we are apt to have in the spring. That is the main thing—deep plowing before planting, whether it be wheat or oats. Deep plowing permits the water that falls in the autumn and winter to soak to a considerable distance into the earth. And the deep-plowed ground on top of the soil into which the water has soaked, prevents this moisture from being drawn out of the land by the dry spells of spring.

Some farms, that had been plowed deep, produced a good crop of oats last spring despite the dry weather. It is remarkable how long deep-plowed land will supply moisture to a maturing crop in a drought.

Must Have Wheat

Supposing you had planted wheat last fall over a considerable portion of your good land. Well, you would "be in clover" now. With talk of "two dollar wheat" is it any wonder that those men who planted wheat last fall are going to plant again this year? Is it any wonder that others are talking of planting who did not plant last year?

Now what is the one necessary crop of the world. We must have wheat or its product no matter what else may be lacking. Flour is high because wheat is high and the higher wheat goes the higher flour will go. We cannot cut down our consumption of flour We must have it every day—three times a day.

Free Rent Of Land

It would seem that under the circumstances and with prospects of higher prices, we should raise some of our own wheat. The suggestion is made by one of Alabama's leading men that it will pay some of the landlords to give the tenants rent of land free and furnish seed wheat in order to keep the labor on the land. It will be a sad mistake to let the labor get away because of flood conditions in some sections. Give them a chance to stick and make their living. Give tenants who have lost their crop the land and the seed wheat and let them stay and raise their own bread to feed themselves and their families.

What One Tenant Did

The growing of more wheat is of necessity a part of the "Feed Ourselves" movement. One negro tenant who had never seen wheat grow before, produced a good crop last year. Now he will have biscuits three times a day, if he wants them. He is the envy of the other tenants on the place. He went at it right, taking a good piece of land and preparing it thoroughly for the crop. Surely any energetic man can do what this negro tenant farmer did this past season.

Early Planting.

Experience has shown that an early planting of wheat is best in Alabama. October is the month for planting. It has been shown. This gives pasture early and pasturing, of course, improves the crop that is to come. In fact about half the value of the wheat crop in Alabama and other parts of the Central South is the fall and winter pasture that it offers. Wheat, of course, is rather hard on the soil and should be followed by soy beans, peas, etc. But wheat has proved a valuable crop for many farmers.

Raise More Wheat.

We hope that you will take an interest in the planting of more wheat. We hope you will see the value of deep plowing and winter pasture. There is no danger of over-doing it. We are not apt to rival Missouri or Kansas in the production of wheat. But if we can raise wheat here and there over the country we will be that much better off in pocket and peace of mind.

No End In Sight.

No end to the European war is in sight. The wheat production of Russia is "way off." The wheat production of this country, owing to unfavorable weather, is "way off." The world must have wheat and there is less wheat to be had than for a long long time. The battle lines of Europe must be fed largely from American wheat. Our own people must be fed by our own wheat. Prices are uncertain and even "two dollar" wheat need not cause amazement.

In getting back to first principles and "Feeding Ourselves" let us include a little wheat. It paid last season and it will pay again the coming season.

THE CAUSE.

"Going away on your vacation?"

"No."

"Then why the radiant expression?"

"Just learned that the wife's relatives aren't coming here for theirs."

Great Winter Cover Crops Campaign Over Alabama

More Pasturage and Fertility On Alabama Farms

Now is the time to get ready for changes in our farming system, made necessary by present and future ravages of the boll weevil.

These changes, which call for a more varied agriculture, including the raising of a much larger number of livestock, and greater attention to soil fertility, are emphasized by recent weather conditions. For example, while the recent period of extremely wet weather has wrought untold injury to cotton and corn, even on upland soils, its effect on grasses, except on land submerged for many days, has been to make the growth much more vigorous. At the same time, the complete destruction of crops on the overflowed lands makes it now more imperative than ever that farmers should promptly take steps to secure feed for carrying their livestock through the winter.

÷ ÷

No worse mistake could be made by the farmer who has suffered a loss of a large part of his cultivated crop and a part of the forage on which he would have maintained his livestock in winter than to sell off or greatly reduce his livestock. Instead, as the conditions grow worse for exclusive reliance on cotton, he should hold to and increase his livestock as the best substitute for cotton as a sale product. To do this, however, the average farmer will have to give much more attention than heretofore to the growing of feed crops, including plants that may be used for pasturage, for hay, for silage, or otherwise.

In doing this he can so select his forage crops that most of them will rapidly improve the soil, at the same time they enable the farmer to increase his production of livestock.

The writer is fully aware of the tremendous financial and other difficulties now confronting many farmers in making any change in their system, and especially in procuring the seed necessary to provide larger areas of small grain, winter pasture crops, etc. Yet, in some way, this must be done if farmers and the townspeople are to have a reasonable degree of prosperity in the future. The sooner such arrangements are made the less the expense of such change and the greater the resulting prosperity.

÷ ÷

In some cases the changes necessary will depend on the hearty cooperation with the farmers of the local business men, including merchants, bankers, etc., for in the end hard times for the farmer will bring hard times for all business people.

It is to assist farmers in planning for more winter pastures, more small grain, and more rapid soil improvement, and to stress the necessity of cooperation in these matters between business men and farmers that the Alabama Extension Service has undertaken a Forage Crop and Livestock Campaign. The meetings connected with this campaign are to be held in practically every county in Alabama, except some in which the Extension Service has already this summer held Extension Schools. This State-wide character of work for these specific ends is possible only by reason of the fact that there is a demonstration agent in practically every county, and that these agents are an essential part of the Alabama Extension Service.

In every county it is planned that the speakers will remain two full days, holding from 4 to 6 meetings at places and hours arranged by the demonstration agent. There will usually be two visiting speakers in each party, besides the county agent. One will be a specialist from Auburn or a district demonstration agent, and the other will usually be an agricultural agent of the railroad traversing the territory of that particular county.

÷ ÷

The Director of the Extension Service has been promised in this Forage Crop and Livestock Campaign the hearty cooperation of all railroad agricultural agents. All other agencies interested in the prosperity of the farmer are invited to cooperate. Especially do we count on the moral support of the local business men whereever meetings are held.

Plans for this series of meetings already worked out at Auburn provide for three crews of speakers, each one of which will begin in the northern tier of counties on Tuesday, August 22. Each will cover the counties to the southward until the conclusion of the campaign the first week of October in the southern tier of counties. That is, most of the counties in the northern third of the State will be visited between August 22 and September 9; those in the central part of the State from about September 11 to about September 23; and those in the southern part of the State between September 25 and October 7.

Among those who will take an active part in the campaign are:

J. T. Watt, State Demonstration Agent.

C. M. Mauldin, District Demonstration Agent.

W. L. Lett, District Demonstration Agent.

A. D. Whitehead, District Demonstration Agent.

D. J. Burleson, Agronomist for Alabama Extension Service.

F. E. Boyd, Assistant Agronomist for Extension.

Carl G. Filler, Beef Cattle Expert.

J. P. Quinerly, Dairy Expert.

J. C. Ford, Pig Club Agent.

In addition to the above speakers there will be other specialists from Auburn, a number of agricultural agents of the various railroads, and others.

It is expected that the commissioner of agriculture will speak as a member of one of these crews in a number of counties.

J. F. DUGGAR.
Director Ala., Extension Service.

This timely appeal to the people of Alabama by Prof. J. F. Duggar, head of the State Extension work, should meet warm response in every community in Alabama.

This great winter cover crops campaign is the biggest and best work ever planned in Alabama by the Agricultural College at Auburn, the United States Farm Demonstration forces and the railroads.

This campaign should literally be worth millions of dollars to Alabama. It should mean making up for some of the flood losses this summer and putting nitrogen and vegetable matter in the soil for that part of the land that will be given over to cotton next season. It should mean more oats and rye and wheat. And right here a word on wheat. Flour seems due to go up two dollars a barrel. The advanced prices on floor will make the buying of it hard for many people. So why not raise a little wheat of our own and make our own flour? This past season one negro tenant, who had never seen a wheat field before, prepared his ground as best he could, planted wheat and got a good crop. Now he has all the flour he will need until another wheat crop is ready to be harvested. Surely others can do what this negro farmer did? If we could only raise enough wheat to make part of our flour we would be better off than raising none, for wheat is the first necessity in "feeding ourselves." Wheat, as a rule, stands considerable dry weather, especially if the land is plowed deep in the fall and it furnishes fine fall and winter pasture, of course Let us not, good people, neglect wheat in planning our fall crops.

÷ ÷

Another suggestion in connection with the State-wide campaign. In some sections tenants who have lost their gardens and a good deal of their cotton are coming to town in search of jobs. Don't let this labor get away, for once gone it will not return In such cases it will pay to give these people free rent of the land and give them seed also to plant a fall and winter garden. This is a business proposition that in dollars and cents will pay the landlord.

Now, good people of Alabama, do all you can to aid in this campaign. The business men ,as Prof. Duggar suggests, ca nbe of great aid. Go out to the meetings and get into closer touch with the farmers and see what the situation is in your community and how you can help. There is something that you do if it is no more than to come back home and plant a fall garden back of your own house. It may be that you can assist in the buying of pure-bred bulls for use in the community or pigs for the pig club boys and girls. It may be that you can lend some worthy farmer money to get a little more livestock on his place. One banker in the state has already arranged to lend several hundred dollars to each of half a dozen or more farmers to buy steers. Then, when these steers are ready for market, these farmers will make up a car or two among themselves.

It may be that you can aid some tenant in getting seed for a little patch of wheat or oats or clover. Seed is high now but cover crops will pay despite this—pay in winter pasture and in the nitrogen put into the soil for the use of the follow crop.

÷ ÷

Good people, why not lay aside your politics for a little while and devote your attention and energy to this campaign that means so much to every community that it covers?

Politics is not getting you very far and it is not getting your State anywhere. This campaign is so much bigger and more profitable than any political issue. It means dollars and cents to the farming and business interests of the State. It means building up the land. It means more livestock and the getting in shape for better times the coming year. It means the making this coming season and seasons to come of more cotton on less acreage. It means PROGRESS in capital letters.

Everybody can help some. If it is only to encourage the men who are working in the campaign. Be sure to be at the meetings in your community. Tell the farming men that you are glad to see them and that you will join with them in their efforts to aid the farmers of the State. Make the campaign a great get-together event. Let's make it cement the business interests and the farming interests closer than they have been drawn together before.

It is a great effort, will you aid in it

LITTELL McCLUNG.

DIVERSIFICATION IS THE ANSWER TO IT

A letter from a banker at Midland City, Alabama, contains the following interesting paragraphs:

"Our people have made an abundant amount of feed and food crops this year and cotton was fine until the floods struck us.

"Thousands of acres are planted to peanuts and they are not hurt much by the heavy rains.

"There are more cows and hogs than ever before and more stuff to feed them on. Our section will make twice as much corn and feedstuffs as it will take to do us, and this has been made in the face of unprecedented floods. Diversification is the answer."

THE CHANGE.

Binnie used to be a poet;
Couplets formed her favorite rhyme;
Marriage caused her to outgrow it—
Triplets take up so much time!

Wise—"Can you accommodate myself and family for summer board?"

"What's your politics?" inquired Farmer Corntossel.

"Does that make any difference?"

"Yep. I'm not goin' to take another chance on havin' the whole place stirred up with arguments day an' night. All the folks that board here this summer has got to have the same politics."

Two Papas And Their Two Sons

An illustration of the great importance of the attitude of parents toward the work of members of the boys, agricultural clubs which have been organized throughout the country by the Department of Agriculture is found by specialists in cooperative demonstration work in two cases reported from the same State. The incidents are accepted as showing the value of parental sympathy and consideration, particularly in the solution of the problem of keeping the members of the younger generation on the farm.

In one case it was found that the boy of the family kas helpedand encouraged from the time he first joined a corn club. His father permitted the use of one of the best acres on the farm, gave him barnyard manure and allowed the use of the necessary horses and machinery. The young club member produced more than 100 bushels of corn on his single acre the the first year and has been consistently successful since. He has even established reputation as a breeder of fine seed corn. During the four years of his membership in the corn, pig, and other clubs, he has won more than $400 in prizes, and with his profits, has acquired ownership of seven head of pure-bred Duroc Jersey hogs, six head of well-bred cattle, and a horse. The home is said to be ideal, the father and son being reported as "chummy as school boys." The boy has no thought of taking up life in the city, but is planning a constructive future on the farm.

In the second case the recults have been wholly different. The young son of this family joined a Kafir slub, but when the crop was gathered the grain was placed in a general farm bin and he received no value from it. The following year he joined a pig club and when his father called attention to the lack of feed, he hired himself to aneighboring farmer to secure funds. The money which he earned was, however pocketed by the farmer. Wholly discouraged, the young boy shorely afterwards ran away from home and is now working in a city of a neighboring State.

The incidents have been used by the State demonstration agent of the State in which they occurred as the text for an urgent appeal to all parents to encourage their children in the construction work they are undertaking in the clubs. One factor which will be helpful, it is pointed out, is permitting the young people to receive the full financial profits of their industry.

Farming Is One Great Avocation

Only on Farm Can Men and Women Live a Thoroughly Well Rounded Life

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

If, like many young men whose requests for advice I read, I stood in the morning of life, but possessed of the experience that, in its evening, illuminates, like a sunset, the road behind, I think that I should choose agriculture for my vocation. I was born among farmers, and farmers who have never left their fields are among my most faithful and most admired friends. So I can speak with knowledge of farm life. There never has been a time in the history of our country when such speaking was more needed.

A Grave Error.

One of the gravest errors that can enter the minds of young people is the widespread belief that farm life and farm work are incompatible with the best development of the social and intellectual qualities of men and women. If I did not know that that is untrue I should not have made such a statement as the one with which I began this writing. I would shrink with horror from any occupation that shut me off from mental exercise, books, study of nature and of man, converse with intelligent fellow creatures and social enjoyment. Life on the farm does not shut off any of these things, while to some of them it gives double value.

College Men Farmers.

Many of the most successful young farmers now are "college men." Their preliminary intellectual training equals that of lawyers, doctors, bankers and merchants in the cities, and no more than these are they prevented by their work from pursuing the intellectual avocations which every well-endowed mind should have in addition to the vocation which is the main stem of life.

It is through these avocations, these "side issues," that half, and sometimes much more than half, of a man's influence over his fellows, and upon his times, is exercised. The vocation is the trunk of the tree, which establishes it in its place and gives it individuality and stability; the avocations are the branches and the leaves, the flowers and fruits, which are useful and pleasant to others as well as to itself.

In Touch With World.

Now, for some concret examples among farmers. I know a man, eighty-five years of age, whose formal education was obtained within the walls of a "district school," who has never been off the farm, except for occasional visits to towns and cities, who in his active years, exercised the industry and frugality that are necessary in every occupation and that never fail to insure the acquirement of independence, and who now is one of the wisest men in all my acquaintance.

He is abreast of the times. If he has not read novels, he has read newspapers and solid books. He has not neglected his Winters, when farming is play. Last summer I got from him in a few vernacular sentences sounder judgments on the European war and on our own political affairs than I have heard from anybody else. He has never had any vocation but that of a farmer, yet he is as truly in touch with all the world as the best-informed city man that I know.

What He Has.

If he had gone to the city when young he would have become a rich merchant or a successful lawyer, and would probably have died and been forgotten years ago. But on the farm people live longer and are remembered longer.

He, at least, bids fair for ten years yet to enjoy the aroma of the same dewy hay-fields that he mowed when a boy, and to listen to the tinkling music of the same bob-o-links that then entranced his ears at sunrise. Has he lost anything by staying in the country among the green hills within sound of the romantic Schoharie roaring down its rapids and scooping out cool, deep pools for fish in the lee of its huge boulders?

Center of Life.

And now, a more modern instance. In that same land which the red Iroquois loved for its beauty and its gifts, I know a young farmer, descended from a line of farmers, a university graduate, instilled with the knowledge of scientific agriculture, armed with the best and most ingenious implements and accessories that invention, aided by steam and electricity, can furnish, whose farm is as instructive and interesting to visit as any shop or factory or store in existence, and where the visitor feels that, far from having left the world behind him, and plunged into a side current of existence, he has rather found a centre of life, society and intelligence of the most refreshing and inspiring kind.

His wife is also a college graduate, a woman of beauty, cultivation, refined taste, wide reading. They have their automobile, their telephones, their instrumental music, their newspapers, books and social relations. To converse with them is a privilege and a pleasure. Their children live in the free, fresh air, and are sent to schools where the "advantages," I suspect, are greater than in the great city schools. They would not exchange farming for any vocation that you could offer them.

Farming is working with nature. It came in with Adam, and it keeps Adam's descendants as close to Paradise as man can get.

A Texas Wonder

The Texas Wonder cures kidney and bladder troubles, dissolves gravel, cures diabetes, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and irrgularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist, will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two months' treatment, and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Send for testimonials from this and other states. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2926 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists.

W. D. SCOTT
LIVESTOCK AUCTIONEER
Sales Conducted Anywhere
ARLINGTON, GA.

A HANDY MEDICINE

It Salts 'em Too
No Dosing—No Drenching
Stock Lick It—
Stock Like It
Every Animal
Its Own Doctor
Drop Brick in Feed Box—
It Will Do the Rest
Saves Time, Labor and
Veterinary Bills
Best Worm Medicine and
Tonic Ever Produced
You've tried the rest—
Now use the Best

Contains Copperas for worms, Nux Vomica a tonic, Sulphur for the blood, Saltpetre for the kidneys and the purest Dairy Salt.

Blackman Stock Remedy Co.
Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Two Dollars

invested in a pound of Nitra-Germ, and easily applied to the soil, insures the success of an acre of Legumes.

And a good acre of Legumes means an acre highly fertilized without the expense and trouble of commercial fertilizer—with a big, profitable cash crop following.

Nitra-Germ

are cultures that do not fail. They are cultivated especially for their work, and they accomplish results in the field.

For some interesting and valuable information, address:

Nitra-Germ Co.
Dept. B, Savannah, Georgia

Tells Why the Poland Chinas Win

I have been breeding Poland Chinas for several years. The longer I breed them the more I like them, which also is a fact concerning anything that is good.

A few reasons why I breed Poland Chinas: They are the largest of all breeds; with good length; broad, well arched backs; full, square head and shoulders; heads short, with drooping ears; good depth of body; heavy bone and full square hams. For excellence and flavor nothing excels a well fattened ham of the Poland China. They bring the highest price on the market, develop even and are true to type. Flesh and bone are solid, and they arrive at market with little shrinkage or loss of prime condition. Polands are neat killers and profitable cutters, also being noted for their wonderful production of lard. Poland Chinas won the grand champion pen, grand champion barrow prizes, and grand champion carcass, at the International Livestock Exposition held in Chicago. But this was not the beginning; their winnings dated back many years. In 1869 a Poland China sow won the $700 pork packers prize at St. Louis. This shows that no other breed responds so well to the best of feed and care.

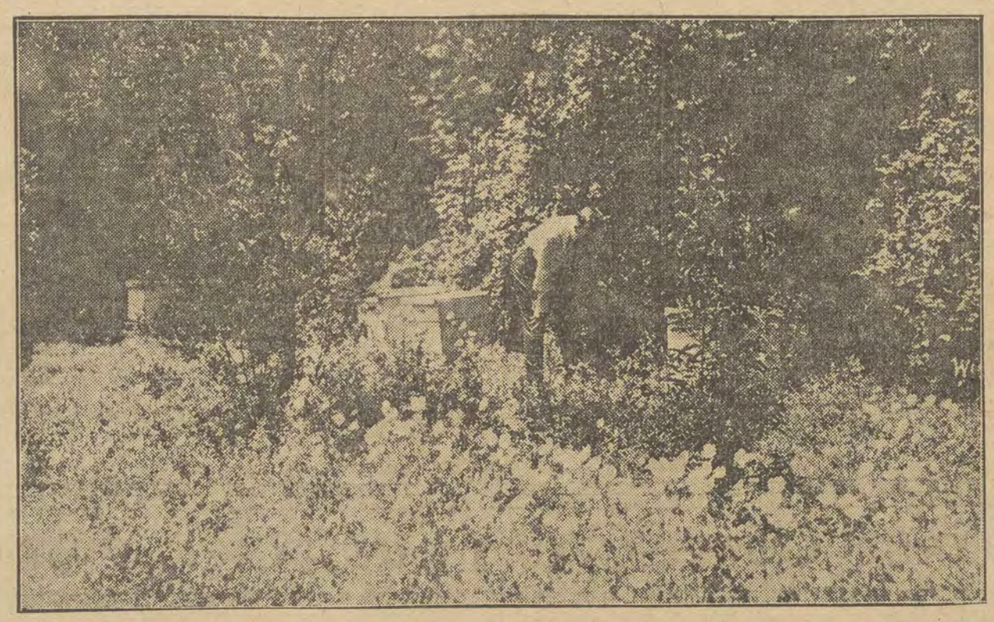
Polands have a beautiful coat and color. When properly housed and cared for the coat becomes soft, smooth and is easily kept in show condition. Denied reasonable shelter the coat grows long and thick which enables them to endure, where lighter coated hogs would perish. They also are free from skin diseases. Polands are known to be among the longest lived swine; boars are known to have been in service up to nine years.

Many farmers use under year old gilts for brood sows. This provides a demand for boars with bone and size. Poland Chinas only can meet the demand, and when used as a cross they improve any breed, thus making an outlet for more sales.

Poland Chinas have been considerably abused on the grounds of not being prolific. My gilts farrow from 6 to 8 pigs; older sows from 8 to 12 and raise a large percentage of them. Experience has taught me that better results are obtained from sows that farrow good, even litters than larger littens with from two to three runts. From March 1, 1915, to March 1, 1916, Collosal Lady farrowed 29 pigs and is raising 25 of them. My sows are quiet, careful mothers, and good sucklers. The gentle disposition of the Poland China is not excelled by any other breed. They are good grazers and quiet feeders, therefore I consider them the most economic to produce. When I hear people speaking of "rustlers" in this day and age it reminds me of a story about a good old Southerner who took his hogs to the county fair. A prospective purchaser was looking over the animals and each exhibitor was explaining points of merit, until finally he asked the old Southerner the advantages of his hog. The old gentleman quickly replied, "Speed, begad sir, speed!"

Restlessness is a great disadvantage to hogs being fattened for market.

Knox City, Mo. E. B. Baker



NATURAL HISTORY.

"How do you keep moths out of clothing?" asked the girl with a needle and thread.

"Why," replied the girl with a story book, "I didn't know they wore any."

Answers to Some Questions That Are Asked Me About Bees

By S. E. Wasson, Bee Editor

Examining bee hives at Morningview, the great diversified farm of M. B. Houghton in central Alabama. Note the trees that give shade back of the hi ves.

Here are some more practical questions and answers about the successful raising of bees, S. E. Wasson, bee editor is asked many questions about bees and here he answers some of them with the idea of giving real help to the one who is raising bees and trying to do the most with them. If you have any questions about bees that you want to ask just write to S. E., Wasson, Bee Editor Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Alabama. His advice will cost you nothing.

PRACTICAL QUESTIONS.

20. How can I take hone from a hive?

Ignorant bee keepers used to place the hive over a hole in a box and burn sulphur in a pan in the box letting the fumes rise into the hive until all the bees were dead. Now you can merely crack the space between the super and the brood chamber and slip into place a bee-escape late i nthe afternoon, next morning every bee in the super will go down to work, but cannot come back into the super because its trap excludes them. By the noon hour of the next day you can lift the super with absolute safety. One other way the most common: You may use a little smoke in a judicious manner and the bees will retire. You can take off the super, remove the sections, replaces the empty ones, set it back on the hive and be gone about your business in ten minutes.

21 How long do bees live?

That depends. During the work season bees live only about three months. During winter bees hibernate and live several months.

22 What is best to do for a sting?

Nothing lil prevent some sweeling Some persons experience far more inconvenience from strings than others. If you do not rub the place at all, but wait till you can quickly secure a knife and by pressing the edge lightly against the surface of the flesh scrape the sting out, most of the poison will come with it. Never pinch, or pull out the sting. That merely squirts the poison. Ammonia rubbed in helps to allay pain.

23. What particular kind of place should the hive be given?

Better let it front the east and have the early sunshine fall right on the entrance if possible.

Do not set it where shrubbery or vines or grasses will obstruct the passage in and out. Have an open way up to the sky so the bees can bring home their load without a carrier at their door.

Don't place the rear of the hive too near the fence or a wall, but leave room to pass behind them.

If practicable let the shade begin to fall on the hive during the hottest hours of the day.

Be sure to tilt the hive a bit by raising the rear end end so the front may be nearly one inch lower. This will make it easier for the floor to be kept clean and allow the water blown in by rains to run out so the hive can be clean and dry.

24 When is the best time to begin bee-keeping?

In the latitude of the north half of Alabama it may be safely begun in April, May or June. In south Alabama it may be started in February or March.

25. How shall one begin?

My advice is to buy one full colony of bees of the variety you choose to handle. However you may bu a nucleus and the equipment for completed furnishing the hive and let them build up to a full hive.

26. What is the cost of a start in the work?

A colony of bees will probably cost you from $5 to $10. If you purchase a nucleus the entire cost will approximate $5 before you have developed it.

27 How are bees shipped?

By express. A colony is simply wired in the hive so they cannot find any escape. The top and bottom are so fastened that they cannot be moved and a simple crating is placed about the hive. The express company carries them at a rate a little higher than the usual.

28 Can bees be moved?

Yes. By closing te hive and letting them be confined for a few days they may be moved short distances and not be liable to return. In that way they can be moved only a few lots in cities—a few blocks change may be made over night and no trouble arise. If one wishes to move them on his own premises only a few yards or feet it is necessary to do so gradually a few feet a day so as not to confuse them.

29 What hive is preferable?

This is a matter of individual choice There are several good ones. Not much advantage in the choice. I like the Langsstroth style. Whether it shall be an eight or ten frame is a choice. I prefer the eight-frame hive And I prefer to use what is designated as the Hoffman frame for the brood chamber. But that is a small matter

30. Is it necessary to sow special seeds for a pasture for the bees?

Not in Alaboma. There is nowhere in this section that there is not a vast range of natural honey plants.

31. How can I have a swarm?

I can only tell you what I would do. If they are on a bush, vine or limb of a tree, I set a hive as nearly under them as ispossible. Better spread a sheet or some cloth under it. I try to place on the ground some smooth board foundation, spreading the sheet over that. In that way you have a smooth surface for the hive no spaces under its bottom. If they are calmy settled, I proceed at once if they are restless I spray them gently not too much. Then I suddenly shake or jar their resting place. The bees fall in a heap and proceed at once to go right in. If they are on a post, I strike it with an ax to jolt them off. If they are in a solid body. I sweep them off after spraying them. Well, yes, it is always safest to wear a veil and even gloves. However I do not wear either. At night, I move them where I wish them.

32 How much hone ywill one colony make in a season?

That varies. Rainfall, disease the bee moth or a sterile queen may dis-appoint you entirely. However it is safe to expect from twenty-four to forty-eight pounds from any well-managed colony. Further south the work-ing season is longer, and the changes are better but anywhere in Alabama is a good place for bees.

33. In what kind of a place should honey be kept?

Never in a refrigerator. Preferably dry and warm place. Cellars and refrigerators are generally full of other odors and the honey will absorb them. Cold rather inclines honey to granulation.

34. Should the hive be painted?

That will not increase the honey yield but as a matter of decency and economy, it is best. It looks like you cared for the business.

35. Where can I get some literature

Your congressman will have some sent you from Washington if you ask him for it.

How Hogs Are Raised Successfully on Covington Co. Farm

By J. P. Wilson, Demonstration Agent, Covington County, Alabama

The size of a farm has no interest for the man who is exercising every effort to become a better farmer, for he is looking for plans and principles that he can use on his farm that will enable him to make more economical gains than could have been made without studying and applying the plans and principles of more successful farmers, and I find it very easy to get farmers to try new methods of farming after they see where more money can be made or money saved.

We have a good many nice farms in this county and many successful cotton growers. Most of these are becoming good stockmen since the weevil came and in a few years we will have some of the best pork producers in the country here close to the Andalusia Packing Plant.

Had Usual Difficulties

One of our most up-to-date hog farms is owned by Mr. C. A O'Neal and managed by Mr. J. P. Tilley, Jr., Mr. Tilley has the same difficulities before him that confront every man who undertakes to establish a first class stock farm on what has been a cotton farm and at the same time make the farm self sustaining. He is handling the proposition well by closely studying every proposition that arises and by exercising the same business judgment that is necessary in any successful business.

This farm is two miles from Andalusia on a graded road. There are two hundred forty acres in the farm one hundred and fifty of which are in cultivation. It was a four mule cotton farm up to 1916 when it was converted into a hog farm.

Selected Hampshires.

After studying closely the different breed of hogs the Hampshire was selected and in a short time seventeen bred sows from the best herds in Ohio and Indiana and one herd boar of the best blood lines were placed upon this farm. This boar, Grand View Lad is if the Messenger, Pat Miloy and Gen. Allen strainsan any Hampshire breeder would like to own him. He is a fine individual, and his get show that he is excellent in marking his pigs.

Feeding the Sows.

Permanent pastures are to be cultivated and at present bermuda and native grasses are used for grazing. The sows and pigs are run on these grasses and then fed equal parts of ground corn and velvet beans. Before farrowing this feed is replaced with a lighter ration and the sows are put into individual farrowing pens with farrowing boards around the beds. The feed is cut just before farrowing, and following farrowing a mash of shorts is fed ater a period of twenty-four to thirty-six hours, during which time water is all that is given the sows. The sow and pigs are kept in the pens for a time and then put on the grass pastures during the day and penned at night.

Care of Boar.

The boar is not allowed to run with the sows or to serve a sow more than once. He has a pasture lot and house to himself and is fed about the same ration as the sows. He is handled every day and as a result is very easily managed and never shows any sign of viciousness.

Weening of Pigs.

The pigs are weaned at eight to ten weeks and the sows rebred. These pigs are fed in a creep from the time they begin eating and at weaning are accustomed to eating almost a full ration. The change caused by weaning is very slight and the pigs never have any set-back. Feed is kept before the pigs at all time as much as possible, and it is so arranged that the larger pigs and hogs cannot feed with the pigs. The pigs are marked before weaning, the litter mark system being used altogether. This litter mark is recorded in the herd book and simplifies any trouble in establish-a pig's pedigree.

Winter Pasture.

Native grasses, Bermuda, and early corn compose the principal part of the ration now. Oats, rye and rape will be planted for winter pasture, and very probably a small acreage will be planted to crimson clover. These will be followed by sorghum, peas and Spanish peanuts in the spring.

Double Treatment Given.

During the past winter a number of hogs were put on the place before the installation of the Hampshire, and about seventy-five hogs died with cholera. Every Hampshire has had the double treatment against cholera, after which inoculation the hogs treated were quarantined for twenty-one days This pen is isolated and can be easily disinfected after use. All pigs are inoculated a few days after weaning with the double treatment, and during the quarantine period they are fed a light ration, with practically no corn. As a result of this system they have not lost a single hog or pig from cholera or the inoculation. This inoculation costs about fifty cents per head and will be continued as a permanent system on the place.

Controlling Lice and Worms

Lice are controlled at present with spraying with coal tar preparations and crude oil and by carefully disinfecting the beds and premises. A dipping vat is being installed as a further preventitive against lice. The government formula of ashes, charcoal, lime, etc. is kept before the pigs at all times, keeping the hogs free of any worms.

Coming Ahead Fast.

A great many improvements are being made in this farm in the way of pastures, self feeders and other ways The farm has been run in a practical way, two plows being used to cultivate one hundred acres in corn; beans, and peanuts.

I am sure that it will be only a very short time before this farm will be numbered among the best stock farms in the South.

Vegetables For Garden In the Fall

Fall gardens form one of our natural advantages. Not only can every farmer prolong his summer table luxuries by planting now for fresh vegetables this fall but he can conserve the health of the family and cut down grocery bills. This is the opinion of A. B. McKay, of the Mississippi A. and M. College, who is enthusiastic over the increase interest being taken by Southern farmers in year-round gardens.

In recently giving out some very valuable information on what and when to plant in a fall garden, Mr McKay urged a thorough preparation of the seed bed as the main essential to success. A finely pulverized soil and deep seed beds not only store up the moisture that will be needed in the dry fall months, but greately reduce the labor of cultivation.

Among the vegetables that need to be planted immediately, Mr. McKay recommends Irish potatoes, cabbage-seed planted where they are to grow, collards, cauliflower, onions-either seed or sets,-early maturing field corn for roasting ears, butter beans, cucumbers, squash and Kentucky Wonder beans. A month of ripe tomatoes can usually be secured if strong, healthy plants are started the first of August. A quicker method is to bend down the old vines where they have new leaves on the tips, and cover them with earthjust back of these leaves. If the covered parts are bruised or twisted roots quickly form, and the vine can then be cut away from the old stalk leaving a healthy plant which will bear quickly. The first planting of turnips or mustard can also be made at this time.

Two or three weeks later cooler weather plants can be started; among these are recommended bunch beans, spinach, beets, lettuce, carrots, parsnips, parsley, and celery. Radishes can be planted in succession every two or three weeks as can turnips, mustard and lettuce.

FOREIGN CROPS.

A cablegram to the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture, from he International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, Italy received July 24, gives the production of wheat in Spain as 152,823,000 bushels, or 109.3 per cent. of last year's crop, and 117.2 per cent. of a 5-year average; in Italy, 191,068,000 bushels or 112 per cent. of last year's crop and 102.2 per cent. of a 5-year average; and in Tunis 7,164,000 bushels, or 65 per cent. of last year's crop, and 115.1 per cent. of a 5-year average.

The production of rye in Spain is 31,438,000 bushels, or 120.4 per cent. of last year's crop, and 113.8 per cent of a 5-year average; and in Italy, 5,-512,000 bushels, or 126.4 per cent. of last year's crop, and 103.4 per cent of a 5-year average.

The production of barley in Spain is 84,373,000 bushels, or 101.9 per cent. of last year's crop and 113 per cent of a 5-year average; in Italy, 11,023,-000 bushels, or 99.8 per cent. of last year's crop and 109.1 per cent. of a 5 year average; and in Tunis, 6,800,-000 bushels, or 60 per cent. of last year's crop and 88 per cent. of a 5-year average.

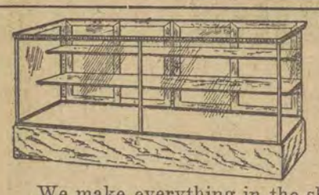
The production of oats in Spain is 34,937,000 bushels or 94.6 per cent. of last year's crop, and 121 per cent. of a 5-year average; and in Italy, 28,-925,000 bushels or 92, per cent of last years' crop and 78.3 per cent. of a 5-year average

FARM LOANS

Loans of $1,000 to $50,000 on well improved farm lands at low rate of interest.
Five years to pay.

L. W. Martin, 27 S. Perry St., Montgomery, Ala.

Drain Your Land Now and Double Your Crop



We make a specialty of this and can supply maps and make surveys of your land. Write us for expert information, or call to see us.

THE GRABLE DRAINAGE COMPANY
321 Bell Bldg. Montgomery, Ala.

Your Cattle, Hogs and Sheep will bring the HIGHEST MARKET PRICE if Shipped to the National Live Stock Commission Co.

National Stock Yards, Ill.
MARKET REPORTS FREE ON REQUEST.

SHOW CASES Are The BEST BOOSTERS

They never stop boosting your goods, never worry a customer and are always THERE at the right time.

We make everything in the show case line. Our catalogue will show you the latest improvements and help you to make the needed changes in your store. Write us today.

NASHVILLE SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

To the Farmers of Alabama

The farmers of IOWA are the most prosperous on the face of the Earth. They borrow money on their lands on long periods of time, with options as to re-payment, leaving their stock and crop unencumbered, so they can hold them for the highest market.

Figure the rate of interest you are paying on money borrowed on your crop and stock, and the rate you can borrow it on your lands, and you will see why Iowa farmers are so prosperous.

Let us lend you money on the IOWA plan.

The State Abstract Co.
Montgomery, Alabama
J. S. PINCKARD, President
JACK THORINGTON, Vice-President

Monarch of the Road

Not a wagon put together cheaply, made to sell, but a wagon MADE TO LAST. Built in the old-fashioned way—the kind that won't be in the repair shop when you need it most, MITCHELL WAGONS are known as the best the world over.

Loeb Hardware Co.

Montgomery, Alabama

Babcock Buggies | Oliver Plows | Myers Pumps

"Top Brand Seeds"

Winter Legumes
Buy Now

Our advice to our many patrons throughout Alabama and others who want the best seed is to buy your winter legumes seed NOW. Prices have advanced in the last month and owing to demand and the shortage in supply they are apt to advance again. With this shortage in the supply we cannot keep prices down but we can save money for you by urging you to order at once.

At present we have a limited supply of the very best cleaned seed of the following legumes and winter cover crops.

Abruzzi Rye
Brooks County Rye
Fulghum Oats
Appler Oats
Crimson Clover
Bur Clover
Hairy Vetch
Essex Rape

Write, Wire, Call or Phone for Prices.

Fall Price-List Ready—Copy Mailed on Request

Greil Bros. Co.

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA
"Top Brand Seeds"

WHITE FARMERS ON SMALL FARMS

Have Made Covington County the Most Progressive In Alabama

The farmers in Covington County have gotten out of debt. White farmers raising corn, cattle and hogs on small farms are the answer. Covington County not only raises enough to feed itself, but ships out thousands of dollars worth. Of course Covington County has grown faster than any county in Alabama. Things are going to be even better. The most modern packing plant in the South is just being completed at Andalusia, which will take care of all the cattle, hogs and poultry that can be produced.

All we need now in Covington County is more people. That's why we want you. That's why we will sell you 20 to 40 acres of cut over land and give you

10 to 20 Years to Pay For Your Farm

This is an opportunity you can't afford to neglect. At least write us for full information.

WAITS REALTY CO.
ANDALUSIA, ALABAMA

PAINT UP NOW

With Sherwin-Williams
High Grade Paints
Best for Homes, Porches, Halls, Barns, Fences, Sheds
For Interior Work S W P Flat Tone

DURR DRUG CO.
Montgomery, Alabama

We Buy

Syrup and Sorghum in Barrels.
Samples solicited.

Southern Syrup Co.
Montgomery, Ala.

Solomon & Oates

Headland, Alabama

Shorthorn Cattle—Hampshire

Hogs—Fulgum Oats

BLACK BELT FARMS IN DALLAS COUNTY

You will find your opportunity on a Dallas County Farm.

E. E. SECOR
Selma, Alabama.

Miller's Antiseptic Oil Known as

Snake Oil

Creating a Sensation Throughout the South—Many Thousands are Now Using it With Gratifying Results.

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Stiff and Swollen Joints, Corns, Bunions or whatever the pain may be, it is said to be without an equal. For Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Sore Throat, Croup, Diphtheria and tonsilitis it has been found most effective. Accept no substitute. This great oil is golden red color only. There is nothing like it. Every bottle guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents or money refunded by leading druggists.

SEND THEM FOR CLEANING BY PARCELS POST.

YOUR GLOVES, SUITS OR GOWNS.
Long gloves 15c. Short gloves 10c
Returned next day and return postage paid on any article. Most modern, sanitary, dry cleaning equipmnt. Everything DONE RIGHT—and promptly

Stewart Dry Cleaning Co.
SELMA, ALA.

It Is Unnecessary For

Deformed Children

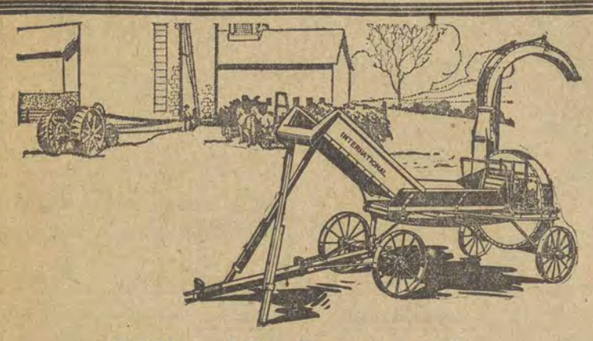
to go through life in such a condition. In the 41 years we have been established, we have relieved hundreds of little sufferers, with disease of the Spine, Hip Joints and other afflictions. Many remarkable cures of Club Feet and Infantile Paralysis. Write for catalog.
NATIONAL SURGICAL INSTITUTE,
72 S. Pryor St. Atlanta, Ga.

Send Your Films

To us to be developed and printed. Prompt and satisfactory work. Special attention to out of town orders.

Tresslar's Studio
Montgomery, Ala.

THE BEST IN ASPHALT SLATE SHINGLES AND THREE PLY ROLL ROOFING SLATE COVERED



We also handle Rubber Belting, Lace Leather and all kinds of Packings. Plumbers Supplies in Rubber Goods.
Anything in Hardware at Factory Prices.

JERNIGAN & HALTIWANGER, Montgomery, Ala

Big Bone Type Poland Chinas

CHOLERA IMMUNE Bred Gilts, Boars and Weaned Pigs of both sexes for sale. Pedigree and individual merit.

L. F. Sessions, Ozark, Ala.

Fills Highest Silo

AN International ensilage cutter, Type A, filled a Pennsylvania silo 110 feet high and 27 feet in diameter, said to be the highest silo in the world. This machine has tremendous capacity. It pours a stream of ensilage into the silo at the rate of 16 to 25 tons an hour, cutting as fine or as coarse as may be desired. This is our largest cutter. Type B cuts 12 to 16 tons; Type E, 10 to 12 tons; and type F, 3 to 6 tons per hour. On all models knives and blower are attached to the flywheel, the simplest arrangement and the one that uses the least power. The knives can be adjusted to absolute accuracy, and, once set, are held firmly in place. Their clean shear cut begins at the outer edge, throwing most of the work close to the center, where the power is greatest. No power is wasted.

International ensilage cutters are safe. All working parts are carefully housed. The lever that starts, stops, and reverses the machine is so placed that a man cannot reach his hand as far forward as the knives without stopping the machine.

The power cost is low. The machine will fill any silo. The operators are carefully protected from injury. Here are three good reasons for seeing the machine at the local dealer's place of business, or writing to us for full information.

International Harvester Company of America
(Incorporated)
CHICAGO USA
Champion Deering McCormick Milwaukee Osborne Plano

How to Treat the Horse, Man's Oldest Friend and Man's Best Friend

The horse is man's oldest friend. The horse has been side by side with man since the earliest ages.

The horse has shared man's sorrows, borne his burdens with him and taken full part in his glories. It was the horse that carried Jacob and his sons through the land of famine down into the land of Egypt. It was the horse that carried out the Greek armies to civilize the world, and Alexander's horse is almost as famous in history as Alexander himself. The horse had full share in the triumphs of Caesar, Hannibal and Napoleon.

The horse has been man's most useful friend. He has helped man till the fields of the world since the world's beginning. Without him fields could not and would not have been tilled and man would have lived off the nuts and berries and fruits that Nature offereds Without the horse man never would have made any progress and he may have degenerated back into the strata of lower animals.

And so this very old friend of ours, that has made possible the earth's production and man's journey and civilization's progress over the earth, is entitled to all the consideration that man can give him. In this age of steam and steel, rubber and gasoline, some of us in our thoughtlessness have slighted our ever-faithful, ever-useful friend, the horse. We have said that he is "out of date," that his "day of usefulness has ended," that we do not need him any more.

How childish, how foolish—how ungrateful. On a million fields the horse is still pulling the plow. Over a million roadways he is stil drawing to market the produce of these same fieds that shall feed the earth. Where the automobile cannot go, he can. Where the steam engine cannot pull the grade he can. Upon thousands and thousands of hillsides and slopes where the tractor cannot work, the horse plods along just as he did in the ancient days—producing for man the food that will sustain him through another season. With a natural speed possessed by no other animal, the horse is content to walk with man the peaceful, steady paths of thrift and production.

Probably until the end of time the horse will be with man in plenty and in want, in his triumphs and despair, in peace and in war.

Having been with man longer than any other animal and having been closer to man that any other animal, the horse understands man better than any of the beasts of the field. But, O how woefully man often misunderstands the horse. How often he misjudges him and how often he mistreats him. And how careless man is of the comforts and well being of this his best animal friend. How thoughtless, how ignorant. It is a wonder that the horse has any respect for man.

Let us do better by this friend of ours that we cannot do without. Let us think more of his health and his comfort. He is not just a "dumb beast." He has a high degree of intelligence and he has a good deal of temperament. He has pride and spirit. Let us give him a warm, well ventilated place to sleep in. Let us look after him in his work and at his meals. He will repay this thought and attention in continued strength, continued willingness to work, continued health and peace of mind.

Now there are some very definite things that we can do for this friend. Below are a number of them. Read them carefully and remember them. Then go back later and read them over again. Give them to a friend and let him read them. Every man on the place should know them and go by them. Let us quit mistreating, willfully or through carelessness or ignorance, this friend of ours who has never failed man since the world began.

NOON FEEDING

1. Horses should be fed in the stable at noon, if possible, and the harness stripped off.
2. If it is necessary to feed in the street, unfasten the outside traces of a pair, and loosen the harness of a single horse, as they will rest much better that way. Especially loosen the hames and collar so that the shoulders can cool.
3. The large, galvanized iron pail with broad leather strap is, we believe, better and safer than the nosebag. The pail should be scoured out with boiling water occasionally.
4. Tighten the strap of the pail as the horse's nose goes down in it so that he will not throw up his head, and lose part of his dinner.
5. Fasten a cord or strap from the pail to the belly girth, if the horse is in the habit of throwing up his head; but do not have this cord or strap too tight, for in that case the pail strap would cause a sore where it passes over the horse's head. A ring on the bottom of the pail is useful for this purpose.
6. Take pains to remove nosebag or pail as soon as the horse has finished, so that he can breathe comfortably.
7. Feed your horse at exactly the same hour every day, or else he will fret; and if you are obliged to work him before he has finished his grain, do not give him the rest of it later. Oats take about two hours to digest, and if the horse has in his stomach oats partly digested and also oats not digested at all, colic is very apt to result.
8. For the same reason, that is, to avoid colic, accustom your horse to drink before his noon feed, and do not water again until two hours after he has finished his grain.
9. In very hot weather make your noon feed a mixture of half oats and half bran. A handful of hay before the horse eats his grain is always beneficial.
10. On account of glanders do not borrow or lend a pail. Keep your pail for your own horse, and always have it with you.

DRIVER'S RULES

1. Start at a walk and let your horse work very easily for the first half hour.
2. A heavy draft horse should never be driven faster than a walk, with or without a load.
3. Look to your harness. Avoid these faults especially:
   Bridle too long or too short.
   Binders pressing on the eye or flapping. (An open bridle is best for most horses.)
   Throat-latch too tight.
   Collar too tight or too loose, or dirty on the inside.
   Shaft-girth too loose.
   Traces too long.
   Breeching too low down or too loose.
   Inside reins too long, in the case of pairs.
4. Do not let your horse drive himself; but handle the reins gently. Never jerk the reins; to do that is the sure mark of a bad driver.
5. If you get angry with the horse, or if the horse gets angry with you, stop at once. Wait a few minutes, and thus avoid a fight with your fellow-worker and friend.
6. Try to deliver your load with as little backing as possible. Backing a heavy load is apt to strain the hind legs.
7. Take the horse out of the shafts as much as possible; and if you drive a pair or four, unfasten the outside traces while the horses are standing; they will rest better that way.
8. Teach your horses to go into the collar gradually. When a load is to be started speak to the horses and take a firm hold of the reins so that they will arch their necks, keep their legs under them, and step on their toes. A loose rein means sprawling and slipping, often with one horse ahead of the other.
9. Water your horse as often as possible. Water in small quantities will not hurt him, so long as he keeps moving.
10. Blanket your horse carefully when he stands, especially if he is at all hot. Repeated slight chills stiffen and age a horse before his time.
11. Bring your horse in cool and breathing easily. If he comes in hot, he will sweat in the stable; and, also, the sudden stoppage of hard work is bad for his feet.
12. In hot weather or in drawing heavy loads, watch your horse's breathing. If he breathes hard, or short and quick, it is time to stop.
13. Remember that the horse is the most nervous of all animals, and that little things annoy and irritate him. Remember that he will be contented or miserable accordingly as you treat him.

STABLE RULES

1. The best order in feeding is: Water, hay, water again, grain.
2. Never give grain to a tired horse. Let him rest and nibble hay for an hour or two first. Grain in the manger before the horse comes in looks bad.
3. Water the horses as often as possible; but let the horse that comes in hot drink a few swallows only, until he is cool.
4. Always water the horse after he has eaten his hay at night. Do not go to bed leaving him thirsty all night.
5. Do not forget to salt the horse once a week; or, better yet, keep salt always before him. He knows best how much he needs.
6. Give a bran mash Saturday night or Sunday noon; and on Wednesday night also, if work is slack. After a long day in very cold or wet weather, a hot mash, half bran and half oats, with a teaspoonful of ginger, will do the horse good. Put very little salt, if any, in the mash.
7. If the horse does not eat well, or slobbers, examine his teeth.
8. Keep a good, deep, dry bed under the horse while he is in the stable, day or night, on Sundays especially. The more he lies down, the longer his legs and feet will last.
9. In order to do well, the horse must be kept warm. I Give him a blanket on cool nights in late summer or early fall, and an extra blanket on an extra cold night in winter
10. In cold rains do not tie up the horse's tail. The long tail prevents the water from running down the inside of his legs, and keeps off a current of air from his belly.
11. Take off the harness, collar and all, when the horse comes in to feed. He will rest better without it.
12. Never put a horse up dirty or muddy for the night. At least brush his legs and belly, and straighten his hair.
13. In hot weather, and in all weathers if the horse is hot, sponge his eyes, nose, dock, the harness marks and the inside of his hind-quarters when he first comes in.
14. When the horse comes in wet with rain, first scrape him, then blanket him, and rub his head, neck, loins and legs. If the weather is cold put on an extra blanket in 20 minutes. Change the wet blanket when the horse dries. Do not wash the legs. Rub them dry, or bandage loosely with thick bandages. It is far more important to have the legs warm and dry than clean.
15. To prevent scratches, dry the horse's fetlocks and heels when he comes in, especially in winter; and rub on a little glycerine or vaseline before he goes in snow or mud.
16. Examine the horse's feet when he comes in, and wash them if he does not wear pads. If a horse in the city is not shod in front with pads, tar and oakum, which is the best way, it is absolutely necessary to keep his feet soft by packing them, or by wrapping a wet piece of old blanket or carpet around the coronet, or by applying some hoof dressing or axle oil, inside and out, at least three times a week.
17. Let the horse have a chance to roll as often as possible; it will rest and refresh him. Give him a little clean earth or a piece of sod to eat now and then; he craves it, and it is good for his stomach and blood.
18. Speak gently to the horse, and do not swear or yell at him. He is a gentleman by instinct, and should be treated as such. The stable is the horse's home, and it is your privilege to make it a happy one.

HEIGHT.

"Is that young woman dressed in the height of fashion?"

"Judging from the distance between ankle and skirt she must be."

THE LONG AND THE SHORT OF IT.

"Ah! life is too short," sighed the Optimist.

"Well, you'll find it shorter before long," growled the Pessimist.

THE NEVER, NEVER LAND.

"Pa, where is Utopia?"

"That's the place where we all expect to obtain summer board."

Bachelor—When I marry I shall put my foot right down, and insist on being the boss!

Benedict—Perhaps you will. But I'll bet you'll take your shoes off first, to avoid waking her up.

Why Will You Suffer With Pellagra Rheumatism or Indigestion?

SULFERRO-SOL Never Fails

At all druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of $1.00

THE SUL-FERRO-SOL CO.
Birmingham, Ala.

To Farmers of Boll Weevil Sections:-

THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG will do effective and rapid work in brushing to the ground boll weevils and punctured squares.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is a strong, practical and economical device for getting rid of the most weevils in the QUICKEST TIME and the CHEAPEST WAY. It is used and highly recommended by some of the most successful farmers in Mississippi and Alabama.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is the best device known for the use of tenant farmers in fighting the weevil.

THE DRAG DESCRIBED

The Drag is a steel rod that holds a light durable chain, the rod and chain being attached to the beam of the plow stock with a casting arranged so as to be adjustable to the size of plants at the time for plowing. The rod is placed at an angle to the beam and as the plow proceeds down the row the rod bends down the plant over towards the middle between the rows and the chain agitates the plant sufficiently to cause the Weevil and infested squares to fall off into the middle of the row. The attachment is reversible as well as adjustable, up and down, and can be used on either right or left side of the plow below or above the beam.

We do not desire to create the impression among farmers that any device will prevent all the damage the weevil usually causes, unless the approved measures for control be carefully followed.
Write us so we can take care of your order before the growing season starts.

Robinson-Erhart Co. Selma, Ala.

A MAN IN DEBT

is just once removed from CRIME. If you are living a little beyond your means—spending more than you earn—the day of reckoning must come. You are harassed—worried—lose your grip—become desperate and soon fall an easy victim to temptation.

SAVE just a little. The dollars and cents are not the greatest value to your SAVINGS account. It's the satisfaction of an accomplishment. You will get just the same service by mail that we could give you in person.

The Fourth National Bank

Montgomery, Ala.

Mr. Alabama Farmer

Mr. Alabama Land Owner

Do you know that there is a flour mill in Montgomery? Yes, there is a modern flour mill which is neither a makeshift nor a toy; complete in every detail; fully equipped with up to the minute machinery; efficient and thoroughly sanitary; turning out soft, fine white flour better than which money can not buy.

Not so very far from Montgomery there is a big land owner who is also a merchant. Last October he planted a part of his land, heretofore used for cotton, in wheat. During July he sent a little more than three thousand bushels of wheat to this mill and had every grain ground and the flour stored. This six hundred and odd barrels of flour will run him nearly a year. Now that wheat has advanced more than forty cents per bushel, does this merchant pay any extra tribute or an added tax to the already wealthy Western wheat farmer?

No! His Land, His Wheat, His Flour, Make Him Absolutely Independent.

The advance of more than two dollars per barrel in flour, in his case, is an added profit accruing to him by reason of his foresight, his energy, and his efficiency.

This mill last year paid its owners a 3 per cent dividend; very small you say; yes practically nothing. But it has this year already paid this Mr. Land Owner a 40 per cent dividend. The wheat raiser, therefore, received ten times more benefit than the owner; and really above all that is the real purpose for which it was built.

Mr. Land Owner, Mr. Farmer This Same Privilege is Yours.
WE URGE YOU TO USE IT.

Poland Chinas

Bred gilts and pigs, 2 months to 6 months. Big bone type, all subject to registration. Very best breeding.

Clearview Farm

MULBERRY, ALA.
F. M. Howard. Owner.

Hampshire Hogs

Herd Boars, Brood Sows, Gilts bred and open. Pigs all ages for sale at all times. Nothing but well belted stock shipped. Prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed.

LAKE VIEW STOCK FARM,
Putnam, Ills.

Prattville Stock Farm

Prattville, Ala.

Hampshires of most noted blood lines and highest individual merit. None better in United States.

C. E. THOMAS, Pres.
G. P. WALLS, Manager

Will Plant Crimson Clover Along Roads

The country roads of South Carolina are to be lined with practical agricultural exhibits advertising crimson clover, in accordance with instructions just issued by the state agent of cooperative extension work in agriculture to his county agents to seed small roadside plots with this legume.

Determined efforts are being made to extend the use of crimson clover in the state as a soil improvement crop. A large number of free demonstrations are to be conducted and in addition the latest plan has been adopted for its value in familiarizing large numbers of farmers with the growth of the plant. Large fields of crimson clover grown in the usual way, perhaps far from the roads, may attract less attention, in the opinion of the state extension work officials, than the numerous small plots which every passerby will see.

In carrying out the plan, the sixty or more county agents of the State, as they travel from farm to farm, are now securing the permission of demonstrators and cooperators for the sowing of the plots along the roads adjoining their property. During September and October the demonstrators will make a second trip armed with a supply of seed, a garden rake, and a bag of well-inoculated soil, and will sow the small demonstration patches.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

You Can Make Good Money

Write me for particulars regarding my proposition. NO CAPITAL REQUIRED. INFORMATION WITHOUT OBLIGATION.

Our Perfect Protection Policy Guarantees Big Income to Live Agents.

FLOYD B. POWELL,
AGENCY MANAGER.
BELL BUILDING, MONTGOMERY, ALA.

ORANGES, APPLES, POTATOES, CABBAGE, ONIONS, TURNIPS

M. P. WILCOX

Wholesale
Produce and Commission
We Buy and Sell
Quality First.
214-216 North Court Street.
Montgomery, Ala.

Good Salesman Wanted To Sell Our Fruit Trees

Best terms known to the Nursery World. Steady employment good money made selling our excellent stock. Satisfaction guaranteed. The chance of a lifetime for Hustlers—none other need apply.

Cedar Hill Nursery and Orchard Co.
WINCHESTER, TENN.

CONIFER LUMBER COMPANY

Long Leaf Yellow Pine

Lumber, Laths Shingles, Flooring, Ceiling, Siding, Finish Timbers.

All kinds and grades Heart Lumber. Quick Service. Phone 1315.

Retail Yard N. Court St., Montgomery, Ala.

DO IT TODAY

Farmers and Stock Raisers should keep in close touch with the markets. If you would be well informed as to LIVE STOCK PRICES on the most important live stock market south of the Ohio river, subscribe for

Bourbon Stock Journal

Published tri-weekly, price $1.00 per year.
Write William A. Burnett, Editor, Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, Ky.

ARE YOU RAISING FRUIT OR FEEDING INSECTS?

STOP FEEDING INSECTS!
RAISE FRUIT !!!
SPRAY YOUR TREES!
WITH
Van Antwerp's THE BEST ONLY
IMPROVED
SCHNARR'S INSECTICIDE
ONE GALLON CANS $1.00
BY THE BARREL 50¢
WRITE FOR COMPLETE PRICE LIST, DIRECTIONS, TESTIMONIALS
VAN ANTWERP'S SEED STORE
INSECTICIDE DEPARTMENT
VAN ANTWERP BUILDING., MOBILE ALA.
WE WILL TELL YOU THE NEAREST DEALER HANDLING SCHNARR'S

The Marketing, Health and General Management of Hogs In the Central South

By H. M. Cottrell

This is the last of a series of articles by Mr. Cottrell on hog raising in the Central South. They are the most valuable articles on successful hog raising that we have ever published. Doubtless you have saved the articles that have gone before and will make profitable use of them.

Marketing.

The way to market hogs under our conditions is for the farmers in a township to hold a meeting and find how many hogs they have above home needs. One farmer will have 2, another 3, another 7, and another 1. In a number of townships there was a total of two or more cars to ship. At the meeting the farmers should decide when the first car load will be fat and ready to ship. A day can be set when they will have all hogs ready and each man should bring his rogs to the railroad station that day and load them on a car. Each man can mark his rogs with a little paint so that they can be separated when sold.

Where the farmers in a community will join together in this way to market their hogs, they will find the money from hogs is just that much more added to their usual income. There will be a large increase in the number of hogs raised in that section, and in a year or two buyers will come in and compete with each other. A car of fat hogs will bring a thousand dollars to the farmers that ship them and that much extra money comes mighty handy.

The country merchant can do a great service to his customers and make a profit himself if he will arrange for the collecting and shipping of hogs, thereby developing hog raising.

Health and Disease.

The loss from cholera and from carelessness in feeding and handling pigs up to weaning amounts to a total tax of $1.00 per hundred pounds live weight on all the hogs marketed in the United States. Much of this loss can be avoided.

The selection of breeding hogs with strong constitutions forestalls a large proportion of ordinary losses. Strong lungs, heart, liver, kidneys, stomach and intestines are as necessary as good shoulders, loin and hams. Strong vitality is indicated by a well arched back, deep, well-sprung ribs, the body thick through the heart and broad between the fore legs and the animal standing well up on its toes. Avoid breeding animals that are sway-backed, that drop behind the shoulders, are narrow through the heart and between the fore legs and have weak pasterns.

To secure vigor and health, the sow, as soon as bred, must be fed flesh and blood-making feeds and mineral matter to develop fully the unborn pigs. The growing pigs must have muscle and bone-making feeds, healthful surroundings and plenty of exercise. There must be an ample supply of pure water, comfortable shelter and freedom from lice and worms.

Men who select, breed and feed their hogs for strong vitality do not have 25 per cent of the loss from disease as do the average farmers who raise hogs carelessly.

Whenever a pig has good feed, water and surroundings and is unthrifty, look for lice. Much of the loss laid to cholera, worms and mysterious diseases is caused by lice. Oil is the destroyer of lice. Crude oil is the cheapest; kerosene is dangerous.

Oil may be applied with a rag where only one hog is to be treated. Automatic hog oilers are sold by hardware and implement dealers. Several short posts may be set in the hog yards and pastures. Wrap each post with several thicknesses of old sacks. Once a week soak the sacks with crude oil. A louse bites a pig, the pig rubs the spot on the oiled sack, the oil kills the louse.

A dipping vat may be filled with water which is covered with a thin film of crude oil. Lice will be kept in check if the pigs are run through the vat once a month. The most convenient way to keep pigs free from lice in hot weather is to furnish them a hog bath. They will rid themselves of lice when they have this bath.

Worms.

Worms probably cause the greatest losses in hog raising next to cholera and poor feeding. The hog affected by worms deposits the eggs and the embryo worms with his droppings. These get in the dust and dirt in the feed lot, around the buildings and in the pasture, and are taken into other hogs' bodies with the feed. Eggs and worms are frequently washed into streams and ponds, and hogs take them in with their drinking water. The worms develop in the hog's body and feeding on it, make him unthrifty.

The best preventive of worms is clean feed lots and shelter, the daily cleaning of troughs and feeding floors and a frequent change of pasture. One great advantage of the portable hog house and the hog waterer attached to a barrel is that with these two aids, a change of feed lots and pasture can be made easily and cheaply.

The loss from worms is largely reduced by keeping soft coal always before the pigs. An effective remedy is santonin. Use an ounce for each 5,000 pounds live weight of swine, 50 hogs weighing 100 pounds each. Mix it thoroughly with thick slop. Keep the pigs off feed from night until the next noon, and then divide them into small lots so that every pig will get his share.

There is a temporary shortage of santonin, due to the European war. Fairly good results may be secured by using as a substitute one teaspoonful of turpentine for each 80 pounds live weight of pig, putting the turpentine in milk. The pigs should be allowed to become hungry and should be divided into small lots, the same as when giving santonin.

Hog Cholera.

This disease is as certainly and easily prevented in hogs as is smallpox in human beings. There are two methods of protecting hogs from cholera: The serum inoculation and the double inoculation with serum and virus. The protection from the serum lasts about five to six weeks and is adapted to hogs that are being finished for market. The double inoculation protects the hogs for life. It is most dangerous in the hands of untrained men and safe in the hands of experts who use the proper safeguards and have both serum and virus of the right strength. Inoculation is a preventive, not a cure. It should be applied before the animals are attacked by the disease.

In case hog cholera appears in the neighborhood or on the farm, notify your county agent at once and get him to secure serum by telephone or wire at once and inoculate as quick as possible.

General Management.

Money making in raising hogs comes from daily and sometimes hourly attention to details, not from general expenditure of money. Two neighbors started in the hog business. One said that sows could take care of their own pigs and he would not bother with them. It was a cold, wet time when his sows farrowed and this man saved 15 pigs to weaning from 14 sows. The other stayed with the farrowing sows night and day through the stormy weather. Heated bricks and put them beside the new-born pigs to keep them from chilling. When a sow laid down, he covered her and the new pigs with a blanket. He raised to weaning time an average of eight pigs to a litter.

It does not cost more than ten minutes' time to knock off the lower board in an opening through which brood sows have to pass. Many farmers do not take the time and leave the board in place, with the result that pigs are born dead and sometimes sows die when farrowing.

The man starting in hog raising should start slowly and learn, with a couple of sows, how to handle them, so as to secure large litters at weaning, twice a year. Not one man in fifty who raises hogs does this, and yet it is the foundation for profits.

The arrangement of crops and pastures is a different problem for each farm. The beginner must learn what crops to grow in order to furnish continuous pasturage for most of the year. When this is learned, information has to be gained by experience as to the acres needed for each crop per sow. Then comes the problem of securing rapid gains through the use of large quantities of forage and the least quantity of grain.

Another problem is keeping the herd in good health cheaply. This includes the propositions of shelter, sanitation, water, vermin and disease.

On a large proportion of the farms, the arrangements of buildings, yards, feed and fields is such as to require an excessive amount of labor. This makes a deep cut in the profits. This problem has to be worked out on each individual farm.

Profits frequently disappear because the fattened animals are not marketed to advantage. Most hog growers in the cotton belt insist on keeping hogs until they are too heavy to bring profitable returns. The best Southern markets want well finished hogs, weighing 75 to 125 pounds each. A large number of hogs are marketed at a loss because they are not fully fattened and well finished. The hog raiser should read market papers regularly and should consult the buyers frequently in regard to what the market wants.

Pick Quick, Plow Under Stalks and Get In Legume or Grain Crop

Now is our chance to get rid of the boll weevil for next season and head him off in sections that he has not yet hit in full destructiveness.

Some people, when they have trouble sit down and bemoan their bad luck Others look about and try to see if they can't turn their bad luck to some good.

Many sections have been hit by the floods, but right now we have a chance to turn these flood losses into real money next year.

Most everywhere early varieties of cotton were planted last spring. Most everywhere harder cultivation took place than has been seen in many years. Most people aimed to make their cotton quick.

Then came the floods and the cotton field all through the central south section, particularly in Alabama, were hit pretty hard. Some folks took on long faces. Recent the sun came out in its greatest summer intensity and the cotton fruited forth with astonishing quickness.

Pick Quick, Destroy Stalks.

Now, good people, here is the way we can turn this hot sunshine and the past hot nights into real money. The cotton has come on fast and in some of the field in southern Alabama and southern Georgia it is ready for picking.

Now the thing to do is to pick the cotton just as soon as possible, then right after that plow under the stalks to a depth of five inches—and no boll weevils next year

Picking in southern Alabama and southern Georgia should begin September 1; in central Alabama about ten days or a little more later and in northern Alabama toward the last part of the month. However, you can go by the cotton better than by the calendar. The thing to do is to pick the cotton just as soon as it is possible. Leaving a few bolls at the lower part of the stalks will not be any loss. Better lose them and get the stalks under the ground and get rid of the weevils.

A Wonderful Chance

The people have a wonderful opportunity to clean their fields of boll weevils and make a banner cotton crop next years, even without a plentiful supply of fertilizer.

If you wait until chilly weather before plowing under the stalks then it will be too late. Then the boll weevil will have gone into fall and winter quarters and you will not kill him out by stalk destruction.

Just after the earliest possible picking of cotton is the time to plow under the stalks and they should be plowed under to a depth of five inches or more In this way you will practicaly eliminate Mr. Weevil and start with comparatively clean fields next spring

If we don't do this, then the boll weevil is going to go through the winter and continue his northward and eastward march another fifty miles the last of this summer and next spring But bury him while he is still waiting to eat the cotton that should be picked as soon as it is ripe.

Pick as soon as you can, and pick fast, then plow under the stalks and clean up around the edges of the fields and along any ditches that may be in or close to your fields.

Get In a Cover Crop.

Then get in a winter cover crop. This cover crop will not only help to kill out the weevil but it will put your land in shape for the next cotton planting or else give you a grain crop for next spring.

There will be no chance of getting fertilizer to any amount next spring. You may be able to buy a couple or hundred pounds to the acre but putting two or three hundred pounds on an acre is that much money and work wasted.

Use Legumes.

Get in a legume—alfalfa, vetch or clover. A good winter legume on your cotton land will mean a bigger cotton crop next year. The legume, if the seed are inoculated and a good stand is secured, will put more nitrogen into your soil than you could ever buy—and will do it free. Four-fifths of the air is nitrogen and it is free Four-fifths of the air is nitrogen and it is free and the legume, by means of its root nodules, will gather this nitrogen from the air while you sleep and store it up in your soil for the crop that is to follow. And nitrogen as you know, is the thing that the soils most need. We can get along pretty well without potash if we have some nitrogen and vegetable matter in the soil and the legume gives us both.

Plow Deep.

If a grain crop is put in then you will get a cash harvest next spring and have some grazing through the fall and winter. Rye, wheat and oats —we should have everywhere a great increase in them this fall. In putting in a grain crop, be sure to plow deep. This Central south section, as you know, is subj ct to dry weather in the spring. But real, honest-to-goodness deep plowing will offset the usual effects of this dry spell.

But whatever you do, pick the cotton just as soon as you can and don't stand around and wait for a few backward bolls to fruit out. Get the stalks under and forget about these few bolls. If the boll weevil hasn't done any damage on your place it will pay you anyway to get the stalks under and to get the land in shape for a winter legume or a winter grain crop.

Winter should really be the time that our people should make most from their farms. While the farmers of the north are producing little or nothing on their farms, owing to the cold weather we should be "mopping up as the saying goes. The reason we aren't "mopping up" is that we haven't yet really appreciated how much production and profit there is in our mild winters and because so much land is not plowed deep enough to because there is not enough livestock, despite the livestock progress we have made.

Winter is the time for us to get a lap ahead of the northern farmer. But the central west farmer comes out of his home after a long winter and beats us with corn, oats, pasture and little pigs.

Lets make this fall and winter an exception and show the world and ourselves just what we can do. Let's wipe out the boll weevil as far as possible by burying him before he moves in or goes into winter quarters. Let's plow deep and get in a winter cover crop. Let's go in for some more hogs and a few more cattle. Let's put ourselves into shape that next spring we will be smiling and the future will look bright.

Hard work will do it.

The Fall Garden and What Vegetables to Plant In It

Now is the time to be getting that fall and winter garden stirred up and planted.

By making a fall garden now you can have fresh vegetables all through the chilly and cold season. If your summer garden has been badly hurt by the recent floods, then there is all the more reason why you should have a fall garden.

Don't put it off another day but get out the spade and the hoe and get busy and save all the money you can through the fall and winter by having products from your garden. With a good choice of crops and locations, you may plant seeds from now until October or November and should, as a result, have fall, winter and spring vegetables.

The successful fall garden is a possibility with nearly all vegetables grown in spring and summer, in practically all parts of the Central South.

Among the vegetables which may be planted at practically any time during the summer, with fair assurance of success, are beans. Bush squash may also be planted even in the hottest weather if they have not been made a pert of the garden at an earlier season.

Many Things

Practically the entire list of ordinary vegetables is open to the fall gardener for choice. Beets, parsnips, carrots, celery, sweet corn, radishes, lettuce and peas may be planted at this time, many of them in succession crops at frequent intervals. Late in August and during the earlier part of September, kale, spinache, mustard, turnips, collards andparsley may also be planted. During September onion sseds may be planted for a spring crop.

Among the crops of these late plantings which the Southern gardener will find available for winter use, are beets and the other root crops, such as parsnips and carrots, and kale, coolards, spinache and mustard. Many of the plants, he will find, may be carried by slight protection even into quite cold weather without suffering damage. To the crops which will be carried over for development in the early spring should be added salsify or oyster plant, which may be planted practically any time during the late summer or early fall. The following specific directions for fall planting of certain seeds in the South have been prepared.

Beets

Beets planted in August and early September will produce a crop for late fall and early winter use. Where hand cultivation is to be given, sow the seed in drills 14 to 18 inches apart and cover to the depth of about one inch. For horse cultivation the rows should be 2 1-2 feet apart. As soon as the plants are well established thin them to a stand 2 to 3 inches apart. Give frequent shallow cultivation. The beets may be left in the ground through the winter to be pulled when wanted. Varieties recommended; Crosby's Egyptian, Bassano, Early Eclipse, and Blood Turnip.

Turnips

Turnip seed may be sown during the latter part of August and throughout September and the first half of October. Sow turnip seed thickly in rows 15 to 18 inches apart, and when the plants reach a height of 4 or 5 inches begin thinning, using the young plants for greens. For good roots thin the plants to about 3 inches apart in the row. Keep the land well cultivated to keep down the weeds to leave the surface loose and friable. In a small garden, cultivation with a hand cultivator is the most practicable. Turnips may be left in the ground until needed for the table, or may be pulled as soon as they are matured, and stored in a cellar or buried in banks or pits. The varieties of turnips commonly grown in the South are Purple Top Globe, White Globe, Seven Top, White Milan, and Yellow Aberdeen.

Collards

Collards can be grown in the same way as outlined for turnips.

Kale

Kale can be grown in the open throughout the winter in practically all seasons of the South. Sow the seed in September and October in drills 18 inches apart for hand cultivation and 30 inches for horse cultivation. As soon as the plants reach a height of 4 or 5 inches they should be thinned. The plants pulled may be used for greens. The cultivation for kale should be the same as for turnips. Varieties recommended: Dwarf Curled. Tall Scotch, and Siberian.

Spinach

Spinach is one of the best chops grown for greens and should be found in every home garden. It can be grown in the open during autumn and winter. Sow the seed in the latter part of August, in September, or October, in drills 15 to18 inches apart at the rate of one ounce to 100 feet of row. When the plants begin to crowd in the row they should be thinned. The larger plants are selected first, and the smaller or later ones are thus given room to develop.

Alabama Products Co

The Farmers Exchange
115 Coosa Street Montgomery, Ala.

We make it our business to find you a market for anything you may have to sell. Farm products, beef and milk cattle, hogs, pork and stock, sheep, goats, etc.

HAMPSHIRES for SOUTHERN FARMERS

Get in touch with me when in the market for the best bred hogs.
W. F. YINGST, State Center, Iowa.

KENTUCKY HERD OF HAMPSHIRES

Largest herd in South. Has won over 500 premiums. Write us

HUGHES ATKINSON, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

BIG, SMOOTH POLANDS

I have for sale big boned, prolific Poland Chinas, sired by 1,000 pound boars and out of 600 pound sows. Can fill Boys Pig Club orders from either sex not related. Safe arrival and a square deal guaranteed. Write us your wants. ERNEST B. BAKER, Route 2, Knox City, Mo. Pres. Knox County, Mo., Poland China Breeders Assn.

PURE BRED DUROCS

Boars, Sows, bred and open Gilts and Pigs to those who want best breding. Write for prices and p edigrees.

CREOLA STOCK FARM, Creola, Ala:
ELMER R. S LY, Manager.

RIVERSIDE DUROC HOG FARM
FOR SALE—125 March and February pigs by Superba Star No. 68191 and Defender's Wonder 1st. 20 fall gilts and six fall boars by Superba Star. The best blood lines. Every pig guaranteed.
T. J. RILEY,
158 St. Frances Street, Mobile, Alabama

PURE BRED HAMPSHIRE HOGS

Boars ready for service, bred gilts and pigs of the best blood lines at reasonable prices. For pamphlet and information write

WATERPROOF PLANTATION
John D. Minor, Houma, La.

SOUTHERN BRED HAMPSHIRES

REGISTERED—Herd Headed by the $800.00 Grand Champion Paulsen's Model. Boars, Sows, Bred and Open Gilts and Pigs of the finest breeding.

JNO. J. SHAFFER, JR., Ellendale P. O., La.,

SHORTHORN BULLS FOR SALE

Also females of very best breeding and individual merit. Guaranteed breeders. Farmers of Alabama, write me for pure-bred sires at reasonable prices.

MORTON CRABB, Gallion, Ala.

LOOKOUT LAD 20371—GENERAL WICKWARE 26879

Two of largest boars of the breed at head of my herd. Some fancy Sept. boars and bred gilts for fall farrow. Write for descriptions and prices.

1380 acres devoted to Hampshires.

WICKFIELD FARM, Box 101, Cantril, Ia.

ADMIRAL, 58,909, SON OF ILLUSTRATOR HEADS MY HERD OF DUROC-JERSEYS

Right now I have a number of registered pigs for sale. Write for description and prices.

VANDIVER DUROC FARM
H. F. Vandiver, Mgr. Montgomery, Ala.

DUROCS

Registered boars and pigs, bred gilts and sows of most noted blood lines. Write for pedigrees and prices.

W. H. KING, Luverne, Ala.

500 Men Wanted Durocs Last Fall

At the Southern fairs and at Atlanta in October there will be 10,000 new breeders looking for the right kind of boars and sows. Come to the show with your show st uff, and pick up some of this good patronage. $2,000 in prizes in D uroes. Will also sell fifty head in public sale. Send for particulars.

ROBT. J. EVANS

Secretary American Association, 819 Exchange Ave., Chicago, Ill.

MOST PROFITABLE GRASS HOG IN THE WORLD

THE HAMPSHIRE HOG has won the title of being the greatest Grass Hog and able to put on more pounds at less cost than any other hog in America. This statement has been proven by experiment test and large feeders for the market. For information and free literature address,

E. C. STONE, Sec'y, HAMPSHIRE RECORD,
703 E. Nebr. Ave. Peoria, Ill.

FAIR VIEW FARM

Special Berkshire offering. 50 3 mo. old registered pigs, $10.00 and $15.00, liberal discount on 3 or more. Few more big bred sows, bred and open gilts and service boars. Quality and breeding unexcelled.

Write for particulars.

FAIR VIEW FARM
PALMETTO, GA.

Bourbon Chief Heads Our Herd

Of Durocs. No better anywhere. Write for pedigrees and prices of pigs, gilts and sows.

Dunaway & Lambert, Orrville, Ala.

LADIES WANTED in every locality to sell LA PRINCESS TOILET PREPARATIONS AND FLAVORING EXTRACTS. Earn good income. Every home your customer. We furnish sample outfit. No money required. Write today for particulars. NATIONAL MFG. CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.

LADIES!

When irregular or delayed use Triumph Pills. Safe and always dependable. Not sold at drug stores. Do not experiment with others; save disappointment. Write for "Relief" and particulars. Its free. Address: NATIONAL MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Milwaukee, Wis.

FREE TO KODAKERS

Send us one roll films, we will develop and print it free just to show you how much better our work is than the other fellow's Expert on films. THE KODAK MAN BOYLE, 164 Dauphin St., Mobile, Ala.

Beautify Your Skin

Free your system from toxic poisons. Get a package of ELLA R. BERRY'S CREOLE TEA

Drink a cupful every night. ALL DRUGGISTS, 10c

NOW OPEN

Beersheba Springs Hotel

Located on Cumberland Mountain. Altitude 2200 feet. Special rates for June. J. TROUSDALE SMITH, Mgr. Beersheba Springs, Tenn.

Negro Boys and Girls to Have Clubs

To help negro boys become practical farmers, and to assist negro girls in becoming competent housewives, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the State colleges, is organizing throughout the South, Farm Makers' Clubs for rural negro children.

This activity, begun experimentally last year by the office of Extension Work, South has grown rapidly, and already is thoroughly organized in Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Mississippi. The work also is being carried on to some extent in each of the other Southern states.

The chief object of these clubs is to encourage negro farmers, particularly in the cotton sections, to raise some food instead of devoting their entire attention to a single crop.

In the clubs for boys, the plan is to encouage and help the members to use an acre, one-half of which is devoted to corn, one-fourth to potatoes, and one-fourth to peanuts. This teaches a desirable rotation, and at the same time furnishes three food products for human consumption, and two that are useful for cattle or hogs. The girl members of these clubs receive practical instruction in gardening, canning, cooking and housekeeping.

According to reports, the county superintendents of schools and teachers of negro elementary schools are supporting the work actively, and state agricultural colleges and the technical schools established for the race are active cooperators in the larger phases of the work.

GROUND LIMESTONE FOR SOILS.

Ground limestone will be used as commonly as barnyard manure by many Missouri farmers of the coming generation," says M. F. Miller of the Agricultural Experiment station of the University of Missouri at Columbia. The results of the experiments on the university soil experiment fields, according to Mr. Miller, give reason for this statement. On some of the fields absolute clover failures have been changed to clover success by the application of two tons of ground limestone. This does not mean that lack of lime is the cause of all clover failures. A soil depleted in its supply of humus, with a consequent deficiency of available plant food, the removal of the best of the surface soil by washing on some of the rolling lands and the lack of an adequate drainage on some lands are just as certain to cause clover failure. Very often two or three of these conditions exist. Where a soil has been reasonably well cared for, when it is well drained and still grows clover poorly, lack of lime may be the jointly responsible cause. Very often a lack of humus and a lack of lime are jointly responsible for clover failures. Both must be added if the clover is to be entirely satisfactory. Where lime is badly needed, however, it must be supplied before clover stands are sure.

The silo is and always will be one of the biggest money makers on the farm.

LADIES Take Cotton Root Compound Tablets. Sure relief for monthly afflictions. Sent in plain wrapper. Price $2.00. Welch Medicine Co., Chula, Ga.

Mr. W. P. Talbot, manager of Tameny Hall, a fishing resort, Geneva, Ala., writes: "I have tried Calomel, Quinine and other remedies for malaria and billousness without effect: tried "Vega-Cal" (vegetable calomel), which gave relief. Think it a Godsend to the people.' "Vege-Cal" is sold and guaranteed by all drug stores, 25 and 5 cents per bottle.

Auto Vacuum Freezer

The New Way to Make Ice Cream

Velvety ice cream with no work. That is the new way to make ice cream. You simply fill the Auto Vacuum Freezer with ice, pour in cream mixture—and let it alone. Thirty minutes later, perfect ice cream is ready to serve. No more turning. No more churning. Throw away the dirty, soggy, old - fashioned bucket and get this clean, neat, crankless freezer.

We sell AUTO VACUUM FREZERS and will be pleased to explain them in detail. Why not get yours today?

Jernigan & Haltiwanger Agents

Montgomery, Ala.

Rhea Springs Inn

Where the Old Reliable Rhea Springs Water flows. We are pleased to announce that we are again ready to receive guests. We hope to see all of our former patrons and many new ones the coming season. There is no better place for recuperation, health, and pleasure. Usual amusements, good table, sensible rates. Make reservation now. Location has exceptional accessibility. By leaving Birmingham via Q. & C. Ry. at 6:30 A. M. you get to Spring City, our railroad station, at 12.13 noon without any change of cars. Pleased to answer correspondence. Write us

Rhea Springs Company

Rhea Springs, Tenn.

Get In Touch With Kratzer

You can ship him all the milk and cream from your herd and get in CASH FROM YOUR COWS.

A steady market all the year.

It will pay you to investigate. Just write, phone or call on

Kratzer's Creamery

Montgomery, Alabama

Okra---Some New Ways of Preparing It

Here are some remarkably fine okra recipes by the editor of the Country Woman's Corner. There are recipes that she has worked out herself and used herself with cuscess and they should be of real value to those housewives who want to get the best out of okra.

Maybe you have some that you think will be valuable to the other women readers of "the Corner." If so wont you send them along? Any questions you want to ask will be answered gladly if you will emclose a stamp for reply. Address Editor Country Woman's Corner, Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

Okra, tho' grown extensively in the South and becoming better know in some Northern markets at certain seasons, is by no means given the attention it deserves by cooks and those who compile cook books. This little vegetable, for dainty flavor, stands in the class with squash and asparagus but unlike these, okra can he most delicately prepared either cooked or raw, and has much in nutritious qualities to recommend it, being a great aid to digestion in children as well. There must surely be a greater demand for okra as it becomes better known through it many uses and dainty flavor. The following receipes are my own origin so far as I know.

Riced Okra

Wash and boil until done 1 1-2 cups rice. Cut stem ends from one pint of okra; slice crosswise in rings 1-4 inch thick and fry in bacon or salt meat drippings, (or even lard if neither of the former can be had) until tender. Remove okra from pan, add a little more fat to the pan, drop in a couple of thinly sliced onions until brown, then add a cup full of tomato pulp and lastly a cup of the juice thickened slightly with a spoonful of corn starch or flower. Stir until it thickens, adding pepper and salt to taste. Place on a platter a layer of rice, a layer of okra etc. Pouring the tomatoe gravy over all and serve hot. Garlic can be used with the onions if a stronger flavor is desired.

Lazy Okra

Another way to prepare rice and okra is to fry thin slices of salt meat or bacon. Boil two cups of rice half done in a vessel large enough to hold all, add three cups of okra (raw) cut in inch lengths, pour over all the meat and drippings and set on back of stove until rice is entirely done. As a rule if the fryer is wrinsed out with a little of the rice water to get the salt from the meat no more salt is needed, only pepper; otherwise salt to taste. I call this lazy okra because it is easy, quick, and requires so little attention, which is a help in itself on busy days.

Stewed Okra

Cut stem ends from as much okra as desired. Leave whole and boil in salt water until tender—about 15 or 20 minutes. Drain off water, sprinkle okra with pepper, salt and two tablespoons of vinegar and set on back of stove to simmer. When ready to serve take up on a warm dish, pour over melted butter slightly thickened with cornstarch and serve. Dainty and delicate.

Okra Hot Slaw

Cook okra in salted water as in above recipe without the vinegar. When tender drain and serve with following dressing. Sift together a half teaspoon salt, same of ground mustard, quarter teaspoon of pepper add two likhtly beaten egg yolks; two tablespoons butter, quarter cup of water (cold) four tablespoons of vinegar and a finely chopped onion. Heat dressing until it thickens and pour over okra while both are hot. Serve at once.

Okra Croquettes

Top and slice okra thin as cardboard. Sprinkle with pepper and salt. Have ready eggs beaten well (one egg to each cup of okra). Pour eggs over okra and mix well; drop by large spoonfulls into cracker crumbs or coarse meal, again in egg and fry golden brown. Okra cooked this way taste very much like oysters. It can also be prepared thus and fried in bulk, but I think the croquettes daintier.

Baked Okra

One pint of okra, one pint sweet milk, four eggs and quarter cup of butter placed in a shallow pan, salt and pepper to taste and bake one half hour. Pour raw eggs over raw okra, have milk hot, but not enough so as to cook the eggs, and pour over all. An invalid or small child can eat this.

Okra Salad

Two cups raw okra sliced thin; one cup each of sliced tomatoes and cucumbers, and 1-2 cup fine chopped onion. Mix thoroughly and serve with this dressing. One half teaspoon salt; quarter teaspoon pepper; two tablespoons vinegar; one third cup olive oil, (peanut oil is delicious as well as new), and one clove of garlic.

Crush garlic in the bowl, leave only the juice; add pepper, salt, and vinegar, and lastly the oil. Drop in a piece of ice, beat quickly and thoroughly and it will thicken to a velvety smoothness. Place in ice box or cool place until needed.

Pepper Okra Stuffed

Boil okra until tender but not soft Select good size sweet peppers, clean and remove seed. Chop okra and cold meat together; mix with above salad dressing and fill pepper. Place in ice box at least a half hour before serving. A few sweet pickles chopped fine and added to the stuffing gives a good flavor.

Okra Pie

Boil okra five minutes in meat stock. Make a good crust, line pan and fill with two cups of okra and one of cold meat chopped fine. Add seasoning and a half cup of stock. Instead of top crust whip four eggs, whites and yolks separately, adding pepper and salt to the latter. When each is well beaten fold lightly together and pour over filling and bake.

Canned Okra

Select young tender okra. cut in small lengths, (or if small, leave whole), and pack into jars; cover with brine made of 1 teaspoon salt to 1 quart water. Put on rubber rings and place tops on lightly. Before placing jars in water have it hot, place jars in water one inch below the tops and bring to boil quickly. Boil one hour each for 3 days. Screw tops on firmly, cool, and put away.

PICKLED OKRA

Select young okra (when it feels velvety) and place in strong brine 3 days; remove place in sieve or cloth where water will run right through, and pour boiling water over them; dry immediately and place in jars; cover with vinegar and any spice you prefer.

Do not cut tops off when pickling okra.

Of course I am only giving plain recipes without any extras such as "serve on lettuce leaves," "surround with olives" etc. I am only striving to show the daintiness of flavor and my own experiments in bringing it out.

Not everyone likes it, just as squash and asparagus come in for their share of criticism but surely I've here given you variety enough to experiment with, that if you do not like it one way you can try it another.

In conclusion let me add a few suggestions, hints, or warnings, whichever you choose to call them.

Never cut the stem end of your okra down to the seed; it will be slimy and boil to pieces. Always boil in salt water.

Okra is always a little "gummy" but a little vinegar in cooking overcomes this. Also use vinegar in the dish water to prevent slime.

Don't let okra boil after it is tender enough to pierce with a fork as it quickly goes to pieces. Always pour off water as soon as done.

Question Box

Mrs. E. M. Massy thanks for kind words; they help so much. Find directions for canning okra above. For canning corn the method is the "3 day" method, as it is always a success. Select young tender corn, slice from cob, pack in jars adding 1 teaspoon salt to a quart of corn, fill with water Put ring on jar and place top on loosely. Place jars in boiler of cool water, (a folded cloth under them to keep from breaking) not letting jars touch each other, cover boiler. Three or four inches of water is enough, or up to within an inch of the neck if you prefer. Count time when water begins to boil and boil it for one hour and a half keeping boiler tightly covered. At the end of this time remove boiler cover to allow steam to escape, screw down jar top immediately and allow to cool until next day, when you will again loosen the top (don't take it off slightly, replace in boiler and boil as on day before, one hour and a half and again on the third day when the tops are tightened for good and when they are cold, put away. This seem tedious but is the surest method known for corn, even the Canning Clubs recommending it. Have you a Canning club in your community. Write me again when I can serve you as I am so glad to do so.

A Farm Is Like A Bank Account

A bushel of corn, so the wise ones say (and no doubt it is true).
Takes eighteen cents from the land away, and puts it up to you,
To return to Nature her generous loan of fertility in your soil,
Or she'll foreclose on you some fine day—her laws no man can foil.

For a farm is like a bank account, to keep on drawing out.
You have to keep on putting in, and you must just about
Maintain your balance with your land the same as with your bank,
For a ban kof land is just about like any other bank.

And that is why, my Farmer Friend, a silo you should buy.
If you can't see the point just wait, I'll try to show you why.
It's in cattle, Mr. Farmer, that your salvation's lying,
It's for cattle, Mr. Farmer that your played-out land is crying.

With a silo you can carry just about three times the cattle
That the farmer who hasn't one and it's stock that wins the battle.
For with cattle fertilizer that "eighteen" comes down to "three."
That's why farmers everywhere are buying silos, don't you see?

With cattle fertlizer you return to Natures hand
The native wealth she loaned to you, thus you enrich your land
By conserving in Nature's way the richness of her fields;
She comes right back, enriching you with bigger, better yields.

New Record For Spotted Poland Chinas

A new world's record was established for public auctions of Spotted Poland China hogs on August 7 when Mrs. Jennie M. Conrad, Conrad, Ind., made a hundred dollar average on fifty-four head. Big Paul No. 20, the boar that headed the Conrad herd and the most noted boar of the breed, sold for $995, a record never equaled in the Spotted Poland China breed and one seldom equaled by any breed of swine. Nothing speaks better for the favor that has been gained in the swine breeding world for this "New Old" breed of swine than this magnificent public sale average. It means that these hogs have taken rank with the old established breeds.

In Indiana there have been lots of spotted hogs for years. Those Hoosiers are a pretty progressive bunch, too. They saw the possibilities of this breed and they knew that the hogs were adapted to general farm conditions because of their ruggedness, their prolificacy ,their easy keeping qualities and their ability to convert economically home grown grains and forages into profitable pork.

If you have never seen any Spotted Poland hogs just ask your father or grandfather about them. Men of the last generation will remember this remarkable old hog.

A few years ago when many farmers began breeding for fads and fancy points, they got away from the old spotted hog with the big litters, but in some sections a few of them had the foresight to keep the spotted hogs on their farms and breed them in the old-fashioned practical way. Just lately when farmers began to realize that one cannot breed for fads and make money raising hogs, they were only too glad to get some of the good old original Spotted Poland China blood to begin all over again.

And now this breed of hogs has come into its own. The demand for breeding stock is tremendous, as was demonstrated by Mrs. Conrad's sale. These hogs come in big litters, they grow fast, sell well, and make profit; and that's what the farmer wants.

THE MEAT YOU EAT.

The yearly consumption of meat in the United States is estimated to have averaged 181.5 pounds for each person in 1900 and 170.6 pounds in 1909, a decrease of 10.9 pounds in 9 years.

HIS PROPER SPHERE.

"What will they do with that eldest son of theirs? I heard his father say he had neither judgment nor foresight."

"Then why don't they make him a weather sharp?"

Banks Loan $15,000 For Good Bulls

The part that banks play in promoting the local cattle industry is illustrated by the action taken recently by a group of southern bankers.

A few farmers in Gibson county, Tenn., started a movement looking toward diversification of crops by raising less cotton and increasing the number and quality of cattle. The movement was encouraged by the beef-cattle extension agents of the State college and the United States department of agriculture. All the banks in the county grew interested, and as soon as the group was ready to bring in a car of pure-bred cattle the bankers agreed to lend up to $15,000 to defray the cost.

Sixty-five head, including bulls, bred heifers, and cows with calves at foot, were delivered in the county, all in good condition, at an average cost of $150 per head, exclusive of the calves. These were distributed to individual farmers, not more than three head going to any farm. The owners then either paid for the cattle or gave long-time notes at reduced interest to the banks. One bank acted as agent in the transaction for all the banks in the county.

The bankers figured that by helping the farmers to buy a large number of pure-bred cattle they not only would get interest on safe loans but would foster an industry the benefits of which would be accumulative and permanent in the locality. This is borne out by frequent experiments which have established that even a few good bulls introduced in a county soon have a marked influence on the size and quality of all local cattle.

Great Reduction in Crops Over Country

The composite condition of all crops of the United States on August 1 was 2.6 per cent. below their ten-year average on that date. 4.1 per cent. cent lower than on July 1, and 9.3 per cent lower than final yields last year Conditions are generally above average in the North Atlantic States, and below average elsewhere with few exceptions.

The total production of important products this year compared with last year is estimated as follows: Corn 90. 9per cent.; wheat 64.6 per cent.; oats 82.7 per cent; barley 82.3 per cent; rye 85.2 per cent: buckwheat 108.2 per cent:; white potatoes, 101.4 per cent.; sweet potatoes 95.6 per cent.; tobacco 112.8 per cent.: flaxseed 102.2 per cent.: rice 118.3 per cent.: hay (all tame) 99.3 per cent: clover. hay, 108.8 per cent.; sugar beets 116.2 per cent.; cotton 115.2 per cent. apples 93.4 per cent; peaches 63.5 per cent.

VICTROLA CLUB

A small amount each week and you can have a Victrola delivered to your home Christmas.

Write today for full information.

DAHLBERG TALKING MACHINE CO.

Montgomery, Ala. South's Largest Dealers.

Needed Hogs and Cattle

All over Alabama, livestock and winter pastures are our greatest need and will do more for us than any other farming combination. This bank aids ambitious farmers to have livestock and build up pastures.

Autauga Banking & Trust Co.

Prattville, Alabama

C. E. Thomas, President — R. L. Faucett, Vice-Pres.
C. G. Smith, Cashier — M. A. Graham, Vice-Pres.

PHARMACY Thoroughly Taught at Southern College of Pharmacy

Largest Pharmacy School South. Dispensary in the college. Complete equipment, three laboratories. Eight farulty members. Complete course in 12 months. Moderate expenses. Demand for graduates exdeeds supply. Fall session begins Oct. 2. Write lor catalog N.

R. C. HOOD, Ph. G., Dean, 65½ Walton St. ATLANTA, GA.

ARKANSAS VETERINARY COLLEGE

A practical school. Graduates successful practitioners.

FAYETTEVILLE, ARKANSAS

A School for Farm Boys and Girls

Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, Alabama.

While giving a High School Course that prepares for any College or University, it also gives a Practical Education, preparing for life in the Home, in Business, or on the Farm.

Special classes for those not ready for High School Work.

$75 AND A WILLINGNESS TO WORK will carry you through nine months of school, if you "make good."

For further information, address

Fall Term Opens Sept. 12, 1916. Principal S. H. HERBERT, Thorsby, Ala.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute

The Oldest School of Technology in the South.
Next Session Begins Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.

I. College of Engineering and Mines—Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering, Architecture, Metallurgy, Mechanic Arts, Technical Drawing, Machine Design, etc.

II. College of Agricultural Sciences—Agriculture, Horticulture, Animal Husbandry, Botany, Entomology, Chemistry.
Department of Pharmacy—(Four-Year and Two-Year Courses.)

III. Academic College—History, English, Mathematics, Latin, German, French, Spanish, Physics and Astronomy, Political Economy.
Department of Education—Psychology, Educational Psychology, Sociology, Educational Sociology, History of Education, Philosophy of Education, School Supervision and Administration. Methodology.

IV. College of Veterinary Medicine—(Three years.)
For General Catalogue and detailed information, address
CHAS C THACH, M. A., LL. D., President. AUBURN, ALA.

Starke's University Home School for Boys

1887 Montgomery, Ala. 1916

WANTED---Parents and Guardians to Consider the Following.

1. A 1915 graduate of Starke's School earned $500 his first year, among rank strangers, at a Pennsylvania college, where he led the freshman class, session 1915-'16.
2. Starke's School is pronounced by a Sewanee professor as one of the best 5 or 6 preparatory schools in the South.
3. Eight of the honor men announced at University of Alabama, June, 1916, had attended Starke's School.
4. Starke's boys have earned more than $10,000, inclusive of 2 Rhodes Scholarships, since 1902.
5. Classes are small at Starke's School.
6. Individual attention is intensive and thorough at Starke's School.
7. Starke's teachers are college men with years of successful experience.
8. Starke's methods are daily being vindicated at college, in professions and in business.
9. Spanish is taught at Starke's School.
10. For Preparedness, try Starke's School and the motto, "Work Wins."

Alabama Synodical College

A Safe Place For Your Daughter

Next Term Will Open Sept. 14

Conservatory of Music, Art and Expression.
Full Literary Courses, Usual Degrees
Conferred; Able Facutly.

Home Economics, Complete New Equipment. Successful Teachers' Training Department. Bookkeeping, Short Hand, Typewriting.

Each department strong; individual and personal attention given each pupil; Christian influence, dancing and card playing not being allowed; splendid buildings; Modern equipment; Steam heat; Electric lights; Baths; Artesian water; Ideal climate, situated in the mountains of Alabama; Beautiful campus of nine acres; Out-door games; Gymnasium.

Expenses reasonable.

Write for Catalogue. Address,

J. R. Thompson, President

TALLADEGA, ALA.

SALT FOR COW.

The dairy cow requires an ounce or more of salt a day, and while she should be given all she needs, she should not be forced to take more than she wants. It is best, therefore, to give only a small quantity on the feed, and to place rock salt in boxes in the yard.

Crimson clover will put that old field in mighty good shape for next year's corn or cotton crop

President Wilson Gives Data on Farm Legislation

Several days ago President Wilson wrote a letter to Hon. A. F. Lever, chairman of the committee on agriculture of the House of Representatives, in which he outlined all the legislation that had been passed by the national congress for the farmers of America.

As this letter of President Wilson goes into detail on all farming legislation that has been passed by congress it will doubtless be of interest to all our farmers and business men readers. So this letter, a copy of which we have secured, is reproduced below and gives all the facts on legislation of interest to farmers that has been acted by this congress.

"The White House, Washington, Aug. 11, 1916—My Dear Mr. Lever: It has given me much satisfaction to approve today the bill making appropriations for the department of agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, and for other purposes, because the bill not only makes every generous provision for the improvement of farm production in the nation and for investigations and demonstrations in the field of the marketing of farm crops and of the organization of rural life, but also contains three well-conceived measures designed to improve market practices and the storage and financing of staple crops. As the passage of this bill marks the practical completion of an important part of the program for the betterment of rural life which was mapped out at the beginning of the administration, I feel that I cannot let the occasion pass without conveying to you and to your associates in both houses my appreciation of the service rendered to the nation in strengthening its great agricultural foundations.

$8,600,000 For Education.

"The record, legislative as well as administrative, is a remarkable one. It speaks for itself and needs only to be set forth:

"First—Appreciation of the importance of agriculturel has been shown through greatly and intelligently increased appropriations for its support.

"Second—Particular pains have been taken to foster production by every promising means, and careful thought has been given especially to the matter of increasing the meat supply of the nation.

"Third—Greatly increased provision has been made ,through the enactment of the Co-operative Agricultural Extension Act, for conveying agricultural information to farmers and for inducing them to apply it. This piece of legislation is one of the most significant and far-reaching measures for the education of adults ever adopted by any government. It provides for co-operation between the States and the Federal government. This is a highly important and significant principle. When the act is in full operation there will be expended annually under its terms, from Federal and state sources alone, a total of over $8,600,000 in the direct education of the farmer; and this amount is being and will be increasingly supplemented by contributions from local sources. It will permit the placing in each of the 2,850 rural counties of the nation two farm demonstrators and specialists who will assist the demonstrators in the more difficult problems confronting them.

Fourth—Systematic provision for the first time has been made for the solution of problems in that important half of agriculture which concerns distribution—marketing, rural finance and rural organization.

Better Marketing Conditions

"Fifth—Provision was made promptly for the creation of an office of markets and Rural Organization and the appropriations for this office including those for enforcing new laws designed to promote better marketing have been increased to $1,200,000. The more difficult problems of marketing are being investigated and plans are in operation for furnishing assistance to producers of perishables through a market news service. A similar service for livestock interests will be inaugurated during the year.

"Sixth—The problem of securing the uniform grading of staple crops, of regulating dealings and traffic in them of developing a better system of warehouses and of providing more available collateral for farm loans has been successmully dealt with.

"Seventh—Under the Cotton Futures Act standards for cotton have been established, the operations of the futures exchanges have been put under supervision and the sale of cotton has been placed on a firmer basis.

"Eighth—The United States Grain Standards Act will secure uniformity in the grading of grains, enable the farmer to obtain fairer prices for his product and afford him an incentive to raise better grades of grain.

"Ninth—The United States Warehouse Act will enable the Department of Agriculture to license bonded ware houses in the various states. It will lead to the development of bettter storage facilities for staple crops and will make possible the issuance of reliable warehouse receipts which will be widely and easily negotiable.

Good Road Building.

"Tenth—of no less importance for agriculture and for the national development is the Federal aid road act This measure will conduce to the establishment of more effective highway machinery in each state, strongly influence the development of good road building along right lines, stimulate larger production and better marketing, promote a fuller and more attractive rural life, add greatly to the convenience and economic welfare of all the people and strengthen the national foundations. The act embodies sound principles of road legislation and will safeguard the expenditure of the fund arising under the act not only but will aiso result in the more efficient use of the large additional sums made available by States and localities.

"Eleventh—The Federal Reserve act benefits the farmer as it does all the other people of the nation, by guaranteeing better banking, safeguarding the credit structure of the country, and preventing panics. It takes particular note of the special needs of the farmer by making larger provision for loans through national banks on farm mortgages and by giving farm paper a maturity period of six months.

"Twelfth—It was essential, however that banking machinery be devised which would reach intimately into the rural districts that it should operate on terms suited to the farmers needs and should be under sympathetic management. The need was for machinery which would introduce business method into farm finance, bring order out of chaos, reduce the cost of handling farm loans, place upon the market mortgages which would be a safe investment for private funds, attract into agricultural operations a fair share of the capital of the nation and lead to a reduction of interest. These needs and these ideals have been met by the enactment of the Federal farm loan act.

"I am glad to have had an opportunity to take part in the execution of this large program, which I believe will result in making agriculture more profitable and country life more comfortable and attractive and therefore, insure the retention in rural districts of an efficient and contented population. Faithfully yours.

"WOODROW WILSON,"

Hon. A. F. Lever, chairman Committee on Agriculture, House of Representatives.

Razor-Back Passing Out In Walker

You ask for information as to what Walker county is doing along the line of hog growing.

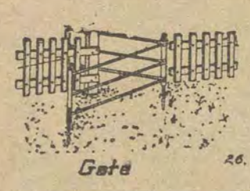
First I want to advise you that the "razor back" is fast passing out of existence in this section, in fact, we can't afford to longer give him two or three years in which to make his hogship growth.

We have no large herds in the county. Eighty head is the largest herd I know of, but nearly all our farmers either have good grades or pure-bred stuff. The lard type, Berkshire, Poland China and Duroc lead. We have some small herds of Hampshire and Tamworths that are being tried out. A few of our farmers are devoting some time to breeding pure-bred stuff for stock hogs for those who do not care to keep up the regular breeding lines. Thus we are able to keep the farms fairly well supplied with good hogs.

Our winter pastures are bur clover, crimson clover, oats, wheat and rye. We use lespedeza mostly for summer grazing. Many of our best farmers are growing summer and fall grazing crops of peanuts, soy beans, cowpeas and this year we have about four thousand acres of early speckled velvet beans for grazing, soil building and hay.

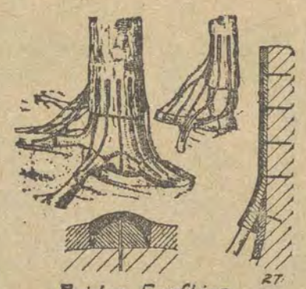
Our country fair has been a splendid factor in helping to create a desire among our farmers for better hogs.

The pig club movement has also contributed its full share to the cause of pure-bred hogs on the farms of the fathers of the boys in the clubs.

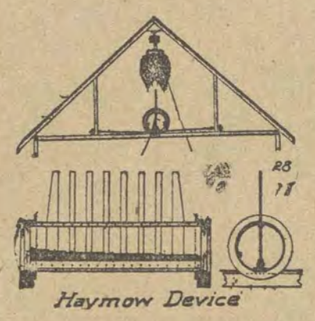


J. W. SARTAIN, County Agent.

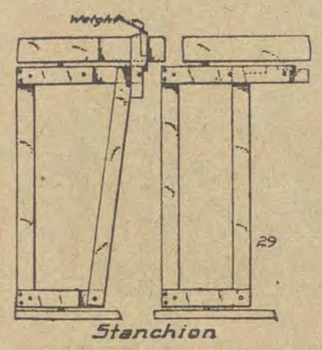
New Inventions That Are of Value to Many Farmers



BY C. J. LYNDE



Threshing Hood



Gate

Bridge Grafting

Haymow Device

Stanchion

Bottle Holder

Threshing Hood.

The object of this hood is to protect the thresher from dust and fine bits of straw. It is made of unbleached muslin and the large eye holes are covered with fine wire guaze.

Gate.

This gate provides a passage for men but not for horses and cattle. The imrovement claimed is that the passage can easily be made wider by pulling up the bolts at the ends of the posts and swinging the arms apart

Bridge Grafting.

Bridge grafting is used to save trees which have been girdled or to connect live roots to a side of the tree on which the roots have died. Here the scions are prepared as usual and tacked in grooves in the bark, then candle wicking is laid in the crack between the scion and the bark, and the whole is covered with gum. The wicking prevents the gum from running under the scion where it would stop the flow of sap.

Haymow Rocker.

This device is used to distribute the hay dropped by the hay fork. It has two circular flanged rockers which roll on the tie beama and which are connected by a weighted bar at the bottom and a light bar at the top. The upright fingers are six inches wide and one foot apart. t Is operated by means of a rope, and the distance it rolls is limited by two cables on each rocker.

Stanchion.

This simple stanchion is opened by hand but is closed automatically. When the cow puts her head between the bars she forces the free bar out. This tips the weighted lever which in falling, closes and locks the stanchion.

The holder shown here is made of a single piece of sheet metal It supports the bottle by its flanged top.

Results of Giving "Single" and "Double" Treatments

In order to get the results of long-experienced hog breeders in giving the "single" and "double' treatments for cholera, W. A. Wadsworth, Alabama breeder, whote to McKee Brothers, Kentucky breeders.

The reply that Mr. Wadsworth received from the Messrs. McKee, who are eminently successful hog breeders, should be worth a great deal to all Southern farmers who are raising hogs. The answer in full follows:

Your letter received and in reply will say that we do not give the double treatment in our herd at all as we have found it to be very unsatisfactory and use only isolation, sanitation and serum alone in case of an outbreak. We have found it a very easy matter to head off cholera since we have discontinued the double treatment but when we were constantly giving the double treatment, our place was infected at all times and whenever a bunch of pigs came, it was necessary to be constantly administering serum until they were old enough to give the double treatment.

Sows that are cholera immune will carry their pigs 21 days without any serum before they will take up any infection, as soon as the pigs commence to eat, they will certainly take up the germ and as soon as they are 21 days of age if there is infection on the place, we would advise giving them 10 C. C. of serum, this will immune them for 8 weeks and after they are weaned and placed on their feed, we would suggest that the double treatment be given at that time.

When we give the double treatment, we usually administered two doses of serum 8 weeks apart and at the end of 11 weeks we give them the double treatment. Hogs that receive the simultaneous treatment at this age will not all be permanently immuned for life as some of them frequently outgrow it and we have no assurance that a hog is immuned from chouera unless he is vaccinated after he weighs as much as 125 pounds.

Don't Mix Them

After hogs have received the double treatment, we do not think that it is safe to mix hogs with them that have not been treated any time within 6 months afterwards. The government has shows that hogs are common carriers some of the 2 years after being treated and when you commence to give the double treatment, you have to continue it on all the animals on the place.

Depends On Virus and Serum

I have seen whole herds of hogs vaccinated with a very small per cent of loss where the double treatment was administered and I have seen 50 per cent and as much as 90 per cent killed at one time from the effects of the double treatment. If the virus is potent and the serum is of a good quality and has a high resisting power, there should not be much sickness apparent when hogs have received the double treatment. It is natural for some of them to run a fever but this should not be perceptible to any extent only by a thermometer.

The per cent that you lose will depend entirely upon the serum and virus that is administered. If you should be fortunate enough to get hold of good serum and virus there is not much of a chance of you losing over 1 per cent or 2 per cent but if the virus is very bad and the serum weak and of a poor quality as over half of it is, you can figure on from 10 per cent to 60 per cent loss.

Sometimes Stunts Hogs

We have found that hogs that receive the double treatment in a number of cases have been very much stunted and in lots of instances where they were quite sick after the double treatment with a high fevor a number of the sows failed to breed and a great many of the boars were impotent. We have found that where hogs receive the double treatment, they are never as economic producers of pork as those that have not had any treatment at all.

Means Of Infection

When you have vaccinated one bunch of hogs and have another bunch close at hand that have not received the double treatment, you are almost sure that cholera will break out in this bunch at any time. It is impossible to keep the infection out as birds are common carriers of the germ also dogs and people passing through the lots. If there is a chance of keeping the infection out, we would have a trough with a strong solution and let the attendant dip his feet in it whenever he goes and comes out of the lot.

Time To Administer Serum

An immune sow will carry her pigs as a rule 21 days before they will take up the cholera germ but if the pigs were exposed to cholera in fact if they had been running where it was, I would not take these chances but would administer serum when they were about 15 days of age, this will immune them from 6 to 8 weeks and at the end of that period they should have another dose of serum to carry them until they are old enough to give the simultaneous treatment.

We would not figure on the serum protecting them for more than 6 weeks and we are sure that 10 C. C. of serum will protect any pig for this length of time if the serum is all O. K. You should first decide whether you will give the double treatment or whether you will resort to the treatment followed by a number of the best breeders in the country, isolation, sanitation and serum alone. If you follow the first named treatment (Double treatment) we would advise that you have all your boars and brood sows immuned and have your pigs come in Febuary and March and September and October, in this way you can give the entire bunch the double treatment at the same time and they will have an opportunity to get out of the way before the second litter is farrowed. You can give a sow the double treatment while she is open but under no circumstances should it be administered while she is carrying pigs as nine times out of ten it will cause abortion. You can give a sow that is pregnant serum alone and protect her and there is not usually any bad results if the sow is carefully handled and is not allowed to get excited or freightened.

There is no medicine or tonic that you can give hogs that will be of any value before administering serum and virus. If your hogs are in good heathly thrifty condition, we would advise that they be taken off their feed one day before treatment and given nothing to eat for 12 hours afterwards and only a limited amount at that time If this is not the information requested, please do not hesitate to let us know and we will be glad to do what we can to assist you in the way of information or anything else in the management and care of hogs.

Some of the Things the Silo Does

Good silage is the best, cheapest, most palatable, most healthful, greatest milk and meat producing roughage known.

Farmers have many reasons for building silos this year. In response to a recent inquiry, "Why Build A Silo?" several of these reasons were enumerated, and are given here for the benefit of others who are asking themselves this question.

The silo furnishes palatable feed of uniform quality that is always near at hand. In addition to high food value, silage supplies succulence which makes it easily digestible, and keeps the systems of the cows toned up. This tends to provide June conditions in the dairy in January and results in a full milk flow.

The silo preserves the corn crop with a minimum amount of loss, as the entire plant is made fit for food. It increases the number of cows that can be kept on a given number of acres. This has been estimated at double the number possible without a silo.

It economizes space, time, and building costs in storage. The entire crop can be stored in a short time at a relatively low labor cost in about one third of the space required to store an equal amount of food value in the form of hay.

Silage makes the most economical convenient feed for supplementing short pastures during a period of drought. A silo equalizes the supply of feed by carrying it over in good condition from one year to another. Cases are on record where silage has kept in perfect condition for several years.

A silo can be used for ensiling clover or alfalfa during a spell of wet weather when it would be impossible to cure it for hay. There is still enough time to erect one of these "watch towers" of prosperity.

SHE KNEW.

"How useless girls are today. 'I don't believe they know what needles are for."

"How absurd you are, grandma," protested the girl. "They're to make the graphophone play."

WHAT HE'D LIKE TO SEE

"Would you like to see your wife go into politics and be a boss?

"Certainly," replied Mr. Meekton. "I'd really enjoy having Henrietta step in and show some of these practical politicians what a real boss is like."

PRETTY GOOD EVIDENCE

Polly—Of course he loves you, and all that, but how is he fixed financially For instance does he carry any insurance?

Dolly—Oh, he must. At any rate he said he would go trough fire and water for me

Rid the Farm of Weeds That Will Re-seed

By preventing this year's crop of weeds from reseeding themselves a long step will have been taken toward ridding the pastures and fields of weeds. This is the suggestion offered to farmers by J. M. Beal, of Mississippi, who states that by observing the following rules many noxious weeds, such as bitter weed, giant ragweed, cockle burr and cypress weed, may be practically eradicated in one or two seasons.

1. Allow no weed seeds to ripen
2. Kill weeds in the tender seeding stage.
3. Induce fall sprouting by giving a late cultivation.
4. Burn weeds bearing mature seeds. Never plow them under.
5. Thoroughly compost stable manure if contaminated with seeds of noxious weeds.
6. Sow only pure seed.
7. Watch for weeds new to your locality.
8. Practice rotation of crops.
9. Turn weeds into pork, beef, and mutton by grazing them.
10. Plant smothering crops, winter and summer.

90,000 Homers Ready to Go Out for War

Ninety thousand homing pigeons, birds, by training qualified to perform the arduous task of keeping open the lines of communication between the various forces of the United States army in Mexico and on the Mexican border, should war be declared, have been offered the government by the members of the American Racing Pigeon Union, of which the Greater Pittsburg center is one of the strongest branches.

The Homing pigeon is being used with marked success in the European war. Belgium has reduced the flying of homing pigeons to as near an art as can be done. The allies are sending to the front automobile trucks equipped with lofts for the Homers. Aviators fly out over and in the rear of the German lines, gather the information desired, write it and fasten it to the leg of a Homer and then set the bird loose. A homing pigeon is a high flyer. He usually travels 3,000 feet above the ground.

John L. Carney, secretary of the Pittsburg center, said that there were 10,000 Homers, owned by the 300 members of the center, which had been offered the government. They represent in money anywhere from $50,000 to $1,000,000. The 90,000 birds offered by the national body are worth from $150,000 to $9,000,000. The offer of the pigeon owners carries with it the services of experienced trainers and loft-builders.

A Balanced Ration For Dairy Cows

The feeding of a dairy cow should be governed by the cow's capacity to produce milk. By keeping a daily record of each cow's production, the skillful feeder soon finds that some cows in the herd respond to an increased allowance of feed and return a good profit on it, while others are limited in milk capacity and overfeeding them is unprofitable. Profitable feeding requires a thorough knowledge of the individual cows as well as of the values of feeds.

The following general rules are given as a guide for winter feeding by the inexperienced feeder:

Under most circumstances the cow should be fed all the roughage that she will eat up clean, adjusting the grain ration to the milk production. Only when the cow tends to become overfat should the quantity of roughage be restricted.

A grain mixture should be fed in the proportion of 1 pound to each 3 pints or pounds of milk produced daily by the cow, except in the case of a cow producing a flow of 40 pounds or more, when the ration can be 1 pound to each 3 1-2 or 4 pounds of milk. An even better rule is 1 pound of grain each day for every pound of butter fat produced by the cow during the week.

Feed all the cow will respond to in milk production. When she begins to put on flesh, cut down the grain.

BETWEEN GIRLS.

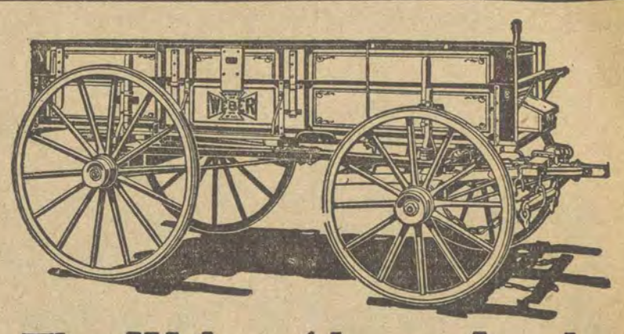
"She says she wishes she could see herself as others see her."

"That's just an excuse for spending a lot of time in front of a mirror."

ONE AND ONE MAKE TWO

The family were seated at dinner when Willie's mother returned from answering the 'phone and announced that the Smiths next door had a baby girl.

Willie continued devouring pie, with apparent unconcern.



Just as his mother finished speaking, the 'phone rang again.

"Hooray," shouted Willie, evidencing a sudden inspiration, "it's twins."

THE EXCEPTION

Nipp—Nothing is so contradictory as a woman.

Tuck—Oh, I don't know. Do you ever read war news.

The Weber Always Leads

ABOUT 1845, when the first Weber was built, you could not buy a better wagon than a Weber. There were no better built. Weber made "the best" his standard.

That was nearly seventy years ago, but the standard has been the same every year since. You know that, from the good work you have seen Weber wagons doing. You know they have been always popular.

We can show you, if you come in, that "the best" is the Weber standard to-day. We want to show the wagon to you in the up-to-date form, with every improvement, some of which you can't find on any other make of wagon.

You can see, here in the store, the new fifth wheel, the folding end gate, the link end rods, the strong construction of gears, wheels, and boxes. Come in the first chance you have and see this wagon,

Tullis-Gamble Hardware Co.

Montgomery, Ala. Wetumpka, Ala.

Barbecue and Picnic Supplies

Mapleware Sets for outdoor affairs. Paper plates, trays, drinking cups, napkins, forks, etc. Everything for picnics, fishing parties and barbecues.

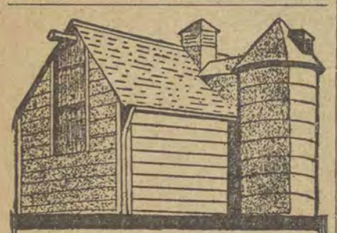
Freight paid on purchases of $5 and over.

MONTGOMERY PAPER & WOODEN WARE CO.

Montgomery, Ala.

RHEUMATISM

"I have been suffering with rheumatism for about three years, and had taken lots or medicines without relief. I was advised to try DUNCAN'S ANTISEPTIC PINE OIL. I felt relieved soon after I commenced taking same. I used nearly two 25 cent bottles, and am entirely well. I can highly recommend same for rheumatism," writes Mrs. R. I. Moore, Rutledge, Ala., Route No. 1.



None Genuine without This Trade Mark on Every Bottle.

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTES.

If your dealer does not carry it in stock have him to order it for you from his jobber.

Manufactured by
YELLOW PINE MEDICINE COMPANY
Montgomery, Alabama

Protect Your Barn and Silo

This is the time of year when you should paint your barn and silo. It means protection to your buildings and everything in them.

Lowe Brothers Standard BARN PAINT

is of the highest quality—made expressly to protect your barn and outbuildings. The colors and the quality are vastly superior to those generally used for barn paint. It withstands the wear and tear of the severest weather and keeps your barn weather-proof, always looking new.

It's fine, too, for shingles, roofs, fences, sheds, etc. Color card upon request.

There is a Lowe Brothers paint, varnish, enamel or stain for every farm purpose. Tell us what you want to paint and we'll help you select the best finish for the purpose.

G. W. BARNETT HARDWARE CO.
Montgomery, Ala.

Tonight's The Night

For Greil's "Mosquito Go"

It Is Sure.
It Is Quick.
Cannot Stain.
Ends Mosquitoes
Brings Comfort.
Hastens Sleep.
Any Store 25c.

GREIL BROS CO.

Wholesale Druggists. Montgomery, Ala.

Tile Your Land-It Pays

During the continued rains of this season, crops have not yet been drowned out on land that is tiled. The investment has paid these farmers and it will pay you.

If you have no land tiled, PLAN NOW to put in a few acres this fall. For wheat, Oats or other winter crops, perfect drainage will give greater yields.

Jenkins Brick Company

Montgomery, Alabama

GUARANTEED ROOFING

Ten Years Without Paint

Tell us the character of your building and the size of your roof and we will tell you the quality and quantity of roofing you need and the cost

Delivered At Your Station.

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Write today.

Chattanooga Builders Supply Co.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

NEWSPAPER CUTS IN THIS PAPER MADE BY
Service Engraving Co.
ADVERTISER BLDG., MONTGOMERY. J. M. ENGLER, Prop.

WE WANT TO EXCHANGE
REAL MONEY FOR YOUR SPARE TIME

We want intelligent, energetic men and women in every locality who want to turn all or some of their time into cash with steady employment and good profits. We do not handle trash or make-shifts, our lines are all first class, useful articles covered by our absolute MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. LADIES, get our SECO Sanitary and other propositions; MEN, get our Chemical Specialties and other propositions. Get our GREATLY REDUCED PRICE LIST of all the Standard Drugs and Cosmetics guaranteed genuine and fresh. OFFICE Supplies at bargain prices. HOUSEFURNISHINGS on easy payments.

MAIL ORDER SERVICE CO., LOCK BOX 235-A, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Things to Do Right Now on the Farm---Pasturss

By Leonard Lett

1. Rush your cotton picking and get ready to destroy the cotton stalks. By destroying the stalks you will reduce the number of old weevils for next year. With favorable weather we are going to beat the old weevil next year, so let's break up his nest in plenty of time.

2. Hurry to get your crimson clover seed, as it will soon be clover planting time. Be sure to inoculate. Sow about twenty pounds of inoculated seed per acre, harrow in lightly.

3. September is the month for sowing rye. Rye can be sown in the cotton fields—about one bushel per acre. It will give you fine winter grazing for all kinds of livestock, prevent your soil from washing away and add fertility to the soil. Abruzzi Rye has proven good in Alabama. Sow just a small patch and see for yourself how much grazing it will afford.

4. Don't forget the turnip patch and the rape.

5. Don't forget to field select your seed corn. Good seed corn is going to be scarce next year and those who have good corn should save it. The field is the place to select your seed for another year.

PASTURES

Under the present conditions of farming and the kind of farming to be done in Alabama in the future, the pasture should be given a great deal of attention, certainly more attention than in past years.

In many sections of Alabama where livestock in being increased very little has been done towards improving the pastures. Every pasture should be mowed just as soon as possible. If a pasture has too many trees and bushes to be mowed it really isn't a pasture. Our best grasses will not grow where there is too much shade.

In my trip through west Alabama, the greatest pasture lands in the State, I have seen only one pasture that has been mowed and if other men could just see what a great improvement this made they would certainly get busy with the mowing machine. Since the many rains the bitterweed and other pasture pests have made very rapid growth, reducing the growth of the best grasses and lespedeza.

This month and the next are the main months for lespedeza, so by cutting off these weeds it will make much better growth, consequently more and better grazing. In many cases the lespedeza will make enough growth for a good cutting of hay and by getting the weeds out you will get better hay and it will be easier to save the lespedeza seed.

It isn't entirely too late to put out Bermuda sod in the pasture. Then by the middle of next summer you will have a perfect sod. Select your land break it broadcast with a double turn plow, drop small sprigs of Bermuda in about every third furrow. Then by the fifteenth of September drill in about two bushels of oats per acre. You can cut the oats next spring and not interfere with the Berduma at all.

Alabama farmers must spend more time on their pastures. We will never produce livestock without pastures. The dairymen will never produce milk without good pastures. The pork producer will never produce pork successfully without pastures.

It is about time to put out bur clover on the Bermuda sod. Don't neglect this. Bur clover seed are plentiful and very cheap. Sow from two to four bushels per acre, get a stand the first year and it is always with you.

Hope to Check Vast Waste In Marketing Farm Products

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—Plans to check the annual billion-dollar waste in the marketing of farm products and a comprehensive program in rural credits beyond the present scope and powers of the farm loan board will be the chief work of the Fourth National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits, called today, to meet in Chicago December 4-9.

The marketing section of the conference will take practical and immediate steps to rectify certain abuses in marketing, and to tighten up the loose methods now prevailing in the handling of the chief crops of the nation. It is expected that the crops considered wi l be livestock, cotton, hay and whole milk and its products. Hearings will be held to develop the movement of these crops and the conditions surrounding their handling.

The rural credits section will analyze the scope and limitations of the Farm loan act. "Interest centers chiefly this year in the new board," said Secretary Charles W. Holman of Madison, Wisconsin, "and many people are under the impression that the rural credits problem has been solved. But that is far from the case. The farm loan act barely scratches the surface of the problem. It was designed to handle credit for the landed farmers only, and there are many classes of them who will not be able to come under the provisions of the act. Reports will be made at the conference from each state by competent men, as to the handicaps and the advantages of farmers under this act. The conference will then go into the question of the next steps. Those steps will include facilities for personal credit and aid-machinery for turning 2,600,000 tenant farmers into home owners, and moving landless men to the land. How to handle the immigrant will be an important feature of the work of this section and the farm labor problem will also be discussed.

Wife Loses Argumeut! Husband Shows 175 Per Cent Profit In Sheep

Somebody has said that no man ever won an argument with his wife. Well, here is one who did. We publish this farmer's letter in full but we don't use his name because we don't want his wife to make any trouble for him. However, we daresay that she is really glad she lost the argument and that she will increase the 175 per cent the coming year. The writer of the letter is one of the leading farmers of Alabama—and one of the most successful. His letter should show you the way to profits. Here it is, read it and remember it.

Have you ever noticed the great number of "Missourians" in our midst

Regardless of the articles by such practical men as Sam Farish, Yancey Swearingen and others who have written on sheep husbandry, almost every day one hears inquiries as to whether there is any money in the business.

I want to say here that there is a greater net profit in a small flock of sheep than in any other branch of farming that I have ever tried.

Probably, however, the trouble is that our people have never stopped to give the matter a second thought.

For instance: I was sitting at my desk the other day when my wife, who had just picked up the Farm and Immigration Section, rather suddenly remarked: "Well did you ever? I don't think people should be allowed to publish such stories?"

Of course I was interested in knowing what had stirred her up so as she is generally of a very placid temperament and so I made inquiry.

"Well," she said, "here it tells of a Mr. Ford over near Demopolis who bought 100 sheep for $360 last fall, had sold $630 worth of lambs and wool and still had his 100 ewes left. Now did you ever hear of anything so ridiculous?"

"Well," I said, "just go easy and let us do some figuring."

"You didn't have to buy them but you had on hand last fall (for she is the shepherdess) 46 ewes and one ram which at the price Mr. Ford paid would have brought $169.

"You sold 26 lamb rams for $1.30, as they brought 7 1-2 cents per pound and averaged nearly 68 pounds. You have 19 ewe lambs which you refused to sell at that price, or $95, on hand. You sold $57 worth of wool, about one half of it at 22 cents and the other half at 31 cents; if you had held it all and sold at the same time it would have brought about $9 more or $66 for your wool. You killed two small lambs worth, say $5, thus making a total profit of $296 on an investment of $169. If you figure this out I believe you will find it to be 175 per cent, while Mr. Ford's profit of $630 on an investment of $360 figures out identically the same, 175 per cent.

"It does seem rather ridiculous, but it figures very satisfactorily."

This is not a fairy tale but exact facts and is even more remarkable as among the 46 ewes were several late spring lambs which were too young to breed.

Our summer pasture is entirely Bermuda and lespedeza which I think is as good a permanent pasture as can be found. During the winter the sheep had some melilotus to graze on, and I fed nothing of any consequence all winter. With the exception of about five acres which I took in this year, this Bermuda pasture which brought them through is the same pasture that I keep for my calves, work horses and mules nights and Sundays, and my milk cows at night, so practically the sheep are all profit and the weeds and bushes which formerly grew up so luxuriantly that you could hardly make your way through them have nearly all vanished.

Now don't run away with the idea that it is all "ups" and no "downs" in the sheep industry.

One friend informs me that with about 50 ewes and a high priced, long pedigreed ram, that he hasn't a lamb this year. Another friend with about double this flock has about fifteen or twenty lambs. I believe the sheep men who were caught in the high water met with serious losses. There is no business that will run itself and there is no business that hasn't its risks, but it is about as near a sure thing that a small flock of sheep carefully looked after, their pasture changed frequently, and dogs eliminated, will prove profitable as will anything I have ever run across in my business career.

Remarkable Campaign For Water Works on Farms

According to announcements now being sent out, November 12th to 18th is the date set aside for Water Works Week in Mississippi, when the campaign for installing water works in every farm home will be brought to a whirlwind finish. Indications are that other duties will be overshadowed and the whole attention of the state focused on Water works.

Daniels Scoates, of the Mississippi A. and M. College, who is in charge of the campaign, announces the partially completed program which will be carried out by the organizations of the state as follows:

On Sunday, November 12th, all ministers in Mississippi, will be asked to cooperate by preaching sermons on the subject of sanitation and a pure water supply piped into the house as a means of health and comfort. All school teachers will be asked to assist the movement by devoting that week to teaching the children rural sanitation and hygiene and the important part the water supply plays in the health of the community; All demonstrations agents and home economics agents will devote that week to holding water works meetings and helping the farmers of their counties install home water works. In addition the extension specialists and the agricultural workers of the state will lecture on water works and give demonstrations in all parts of the state. Score of these water works meetings are being scheduled.

In order that the farmers will have no trouble in securing material all hardware men in Mississippi will be asked to display in their show windows during week the necessary outnts for simple inexpensive systems.

State and county fairs in session before or during water Works Week will put on special exhibits of the systems designed by the agricultural engineers of the college. There are four of these systems, ranging from a simple pitcher pump that brings the water to a kitchen sink fitted to a drain pipe, to a more elaborate system of supplying both hot and cold water to kitchen and bathroom. Any resident of Mississippi can get plans and approximate costs of these systems now by writing to the agricultural engineer at Agricultural College, Miss.

Bought at the local farmers' hardware store, the cost of the materials for putting in these systems is within the reach of every farmer and is the lowest of any complete water works system yet designed. As figured by the agricultural engineers the cost of the first system should not be over $18.40 for the second $33.15; for the third. $50 and for the fourth $128.80. By the the end of the summer it is expected that 10,000 farmers will have put in duplicates of these systems

May Manton's New Patterns For Mother, Big Sister and Boys and Girls

All of the patterns shown here are by May Manton, the noted authority on womans, misses and children's garments. The patterns for the designs, besides allowing for all seams, give the true basting lines and show diagrams for cutting and making. When necessary each piece of pattern is lettered for identification. Patterns for any one of the designs, shown here will be sent you upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps. Send stamps to Pattern department Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala., Send now while these designs are before you. Note the number of the patterns in small figures on the pictures and corresponding descriptions below.

GRACEFUL GOWN

9136 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Evening Bodice, 34 to 44 bust.

9099 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Gathered Skirt with or without Over-Portion, 24 to 30 waist.

Both the smartness and grace of this gown are apparent at a glance. The tunic completely covers the back of the skirt while it is short at the front and forms jabot-like folds at the sides The straight skirt beneath is joined to the straight yoke. The bodice is all of the lace with the overportion matching the tunic. It is a very fascinating costume and at the same time it is one that comes easily within the scope of the home dressmaker. Satin and lace are the materials shown here and the blouse is made from lace banding with lace edging for the sleeve frills.

For the medium size will be needed 2 1-4 yards of lace 15 inches wide with 2 1-8 yards 5 inches wide for the blouse and 3-4 of a yard 36 inches wide or 44 for the overportion and for the skirt, 4 yards of flouning 36 inches wide with 1-2 yard of material 36 for the yoke and 3 yards 36 or 44 inches wide for the tunic.

The pattern of the blouse No. 9136 may be had in sizes from 34 to 44 inches bust measure and of the skirt No. 9099 in sizes from 24 to 30 inches waist measure. They will be mailed to any address.

FROCK WITH FRILLS

9129 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Gathered Blouse, for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

8807 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Tunic Skirt for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

This is one of the prettiest frocks that the young girl can wear. It is essentially simple and youthful and at the same time it is absolutely up to date. The material illusrated is Georgette crepe and it is doubtful if there is any other so generally useful or so well liked, but the design will be found available for various materials. Soft finished taffeta would be pretty or crepe de chine, or if a simpler summer frock is wanted, one of the fine cotton voiles. The picot edge is always pretty and especially so for the crepe but the finish can be hemmed edges with lace insertion above or it could be lace banding with lace edging or it could be bands of ribbon. As it is shown here, the blouse is made with a bertha and with a neck frill that is eminently picturesque and smart, but fundamentally it is the simple one shown in the small view. Just that bodice, without the trimming, is always a charming one for the young girl. The tunic is made with straight edges and consequently is adapted to flouncing and the like as well as to plain materials.

For the 16 year size will be needed 3 1-2 yards of material 36 inches wide or 3 yards 44 for the blouse with the frills, 1 5-8 yards 36 or 1 3-8 yards 44 without the frills. For the skirt will be needed. 2 5-8 yards 36 or 44 and for the tunic, 3 1-2 yards 36, 3 1-4 yards, 44.

Both the blouse pattern No. 9129 and the skirt No. 8807 are cut in sizes for 16 and 18 years. They will be mailed to any address on receipt of ten cents for each.

FLOUNCED SKIRT

9133 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Gathered Skirt 24 to 30 waist.

This is really a very charming, graceful and attractive skirt and an exceptionally becoming one for while it gives the fashionable flounced effect and breadth it also gives long lines at the front and at the back. It may be shirred to form a girdle or it may be cut off and joined to a belt. In whichever way it is treated it makes an exceedingly good effect. The frill at the upper edge is a new finish and a pretty finish when the skirt is to be adjusted over the blouse For wear with a girdle the skirt with the belt of course to be preferred. The fluunces may be made with scalloped or with straight edges.

For the medium size will be needed 8 1-4 yards of material 27 inches wides 6 1-4 yards 36 or 5 1-4 yards 44. The width at the lower edge is 4 yards.

The pattern No4 9133 is cut in sizes from 2 4to 30 inches waist measure. It will be mailed to any address on receipt of ten cents.

SCHOOL FROCKS

8993 (With Basting Line and added Seam Allowance) Girl's Dress, 8 to 14 years.

This is a season when school frocks are sure to be under consideration by the mothers however much they may be forgotten by the litle girls themselves. This model is carming for it is childlike and simple while at the same time it is smart. It can be developed in linen or in gingham or in cotton poplin or in any material of such sort; or, it could be made of one of such material with the center portion of a thinner one, as linen with handkerchief lawn or crepe witt handkerchief lawn or it could be made of voile throughout. The box plaits give long lines, the smocking is very fashionable and the trimming gives an opportunity for color contrast Here, white is trimmed with blue but plaid material could be trimmed with plain or plain material with plaid.

For the ten year size will be needed 5 3-4 yards of material 27 inches wide 4 yards 36 or 3 1-2 yards 44, with 3-4 yards 36 inches wide for the trimming.

The pattern No. 8993 is cut in sizes for girl's from 8 to 12 years of axe. It will be mailed to any address on receipt of en cents.

"Squab Breeding In the South" and "How to Feed and Water Pigeons"

By Geo. A. Collins and C. B. Burden

Dr. C. S. Burden will be glad to answer for you any question you may ask about the best methods of raising pigeons and producing squabs for market. Dr. Burden is one of the most successful and experienced pigeon men in the South and his experience is at your command. All you have to do is address. Dr. C. H. Burden, Pigeon Editor Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

I am persuaded to write this article from the many questions asked me regarding the South as a pigeon section and realizing that many people who ask for this information are vitally interested but lack the courage to try it, thinking no doubt that the pigeon is a hard bird to raise.

This is a mistake as the pigeon will and has stood more confinment than other feathered bird and produce their offspring as regularly as if at large. The only thing is, when you get pigeon be sure they are Southern bred birds as the difference in our climate and the north is so vast that a bird from the north unless a strong, healthy bird, will not stand our climate. Here in the South we use open front house, even in the coldest of weather and breeders and squabs don't seem to suffer, while in the north many pigeon men have installed steam heat in their plants. The South has been so engrossed with the production of fruits and vegetables that we have overlooked the gold mines that can be developed in our back yards.

Large capital is not required to start with pigeons in the South on a moderate scale. Lumber being cheap and climate always moderate, the open front house can be constructed cheaper and many a pigeon can be raised in the back yard lot.

Pigeon raising in the South is growing more and more each year and as a source of profit makes it especially attractive to men and women of moderate means. The squab has taken the place of the qail since the game laws have become so stringent. The thirty husband or his wife in the residence section can produce squabs in their back yards to supply the family table, and sell the others and help to reduce the high costa of living. The pigeon business can never become a monopoly. Attempts have been made and will be made to corner the market on squabs and breeding of pigeons, but as long as breeding pigeons can be bought and the space for constructing a squab house can be established in your back yard there will be no corner or monopoly of pigeons.

The first and essential thing to do is to get good acclimated breeders from men you know to be reliable and guarantee their birds no matter what breed you install.

The second essential should be your feed and water, especially the water which should be clean and fresh, and the feed free from dirt and dust. Then your sailing will be easy. The facts as I find them are experiences that all breeders find and are a few facts why the pigeon business in the South should prove a paying proposition.

Geo. A. COLLINS.

Feed and Water

It is absolutely necessary that pigeon feed be the best quality for there will be trouble if old or musty feed is used. Many of the beginners are making a mistake in using the chicken feeds on the market and some are having fairly good results with them. But this quality of seed is not good enough for the best results with pigeons. The feed must be good and pure and then it must be fed right. It is the purpose of this short article to tell you how to feed and not what to feed.

In order that food be kept in a good clean state after it has been fed to your birds it is necessary that some recepticle be provided that will keep it free from droppings or dirt. In order to do this an automatic feeder should be employed. In these feeders the feed cannot possibly get soiled and keeps clean as the birds use it up. It cannot get musty by moisture as there is no exposure to the atmosphere except where the feed falls down. Do not under any consideration throw grain out in the fly. Place enough feed in the feeders to last all day and then go about your business for the birds will be provided for until you see them the next morning.

Water.

Pigeons are almost as bad about water for bathing as ducks and they should be supplied with bath pans each day except i nthe severest weather. They will meet you with the bath pan and as soon as you place it on the ground some of them will light right ina nd splatter water all around Often they will get in too deep and in a few minutes you will not have much water left in your pans. In this way they keep themselves free of insects and keep the feathers in good condition. Drinking water should be given in automatic fountains so that it will keep clean and pure. Do not allow the bath pans to remain in the fly all day for they will drink from them after they have all had a plunge and you will have trouble if you allow them this privilege.

Grit.

Pigeons require a good grit and this should contain saltfi oyster shells, charcoal, venetian red, Gentian root and a tonic. There are several prepared health grits on the market and one of them should be kept before your birds all the time. Do not try to save on this as it is almost as important as a good feed.

Nesting Material.

Pigeons make their own nests but should be provided with the boxes and with nest bowls. Nest bowls will save you many an egg and squab and should always be used.

Pine straw is best in winter but in the hot summer months when insects are more liable to give you trouble tobacco stems should be used.

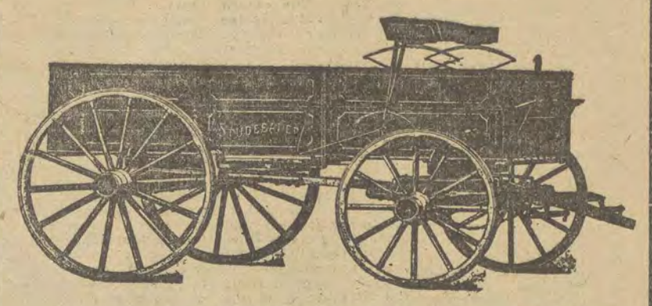
C. S. BURDEN.

All South Interested In Water Works Campaign

The campaign to establish water works systems on Mississippi farms launched some months ago by the Agricultural and Mechanical College of that state is drawing attention throughout the South. Local interest in the project was stimulated by the visit to New Orleans of Dr. Scoates, professor of agricultural engineering at the Mississippi A. and M. College and director of the movement. Dr. Scoates sought and secured the cooperation of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce. Louisiana is thus enlisted, in a way, with Mississippi to promote the spread of plumbing and the comforts of "hot and cold water all over the house" through the farm country.

Mississippi's college engineers began their work by designing four waterworks systems adapted to farm homes. Their idea was to make these systems as simple and inexpensive as possible. One will put running water into the farm kitchen with pump, sink and drain pipe equipment, for a cost estimated at $18.40. Another, a little more elaborate, costs $35. A system providing both hot and cold water in the kitchen is figured out to cost, installed, about $50. The fourth and most elaborate is to supply hot and cold water to both kitchen and bathroom; its estimated cost, complete, is about $130. The college authorities are conducting an active campaign among Mississippi farmers and have offered, we understand, to supply plans and specifications of the standardized systems mentioned above to any Mississippi farmer who applies.

"The idea of having running water in the house appeals most strongly to the farm wives. The burden of the kitchen drudgery in thousands of farm homes, falls mainly upon the 'woman and the kids.' Even the simplest of the systems outlined above would save the farm mothers many steps in the course of the day's work. Its adoption would not only prevent the 'wear and tear' upon human energy by the frequent toting of water from the well or spring, but it would make farm life more comfortable and healthful. The menfolks have learned that the 'new-fangled contraptions' for farm work are money savers as well as labor savers. So that the introduction of farm water works systems—particularly when the cost is so moderate and it is so plainly the next step toward making farm life better worth living and keeping the young folks on the farm should not prove very difficult, after all.



"The campaign in Mississippi is said to be well organized and vigorous. The heads of the corn club and canning club movements, the leaders in agricultural and educational work and many of the business organizations of the state are co-operating. The work has drawn the attention of the governors of four Southern states who have given it hearty endorsement. 'There is not a farmer of moderate means,' one of them wrote, 'who cannot have running water and sewerage in his house, and this would contribute more to the health and comfort of his family than any other improvement.' The slogan 'water works on every farm' might have seemed fantastic not many years ago, but Mississippi's energetic campaigners are making practical progress toward its transformation from a slogan into solid accomplishment."

The Wagon That Answers Every Purpose Is

The Studebaker

64 Years of Satisfaction

Built With The Studebaker Guarantee

All timber used is air-dried from 1 to 3 years and is many times inspected, first in the tree then at the mill, again in the yards and last in each department through which it passes in the factory. Studebaker Paints are carefully tested, as well as all metals and other materials, and high class workmanship is guaranteed thoughout.

GET OUR PRICES ON

Studebaker Farm and Log Wagons"

We Have a Complete Stock of All Sizes.

Teague Hardware Co.

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

"A Studebaker Customer Is a Satisfied Customer"

Vast Falling Off In Grain Production

Last season's yield of winter and spring wheat over the United States was 1,012,000,000 bushels. The estimate for this year's production of winter and spring wheat throughout the United States is 654,000,000 bushels. The average production per year for the past five years has been 728,000,000 bushels.

So you see that this year's production of spring and winter wheat falls 74,000,000 bushels short of a five-year average. This is an alarming reduction in wheat production right at the time when the world needs more wheat than it ever has. Russia is a great producer of wheat but Russian production of everything, except debt, has fallen off terribly.

The situation now is that the United States is again called upon to furnish a large supply of the bread to the Allied armies. We hear talk of "two dollar wheat" and it is not at all impossible.

The lesson in this for us is that we must raise all the wheat we can for our own use. The man who does not put in some wheat of his own, despite the high price of seed, is going to pay for his neglect to grow his own biscuits.

The oat crop last year amounted to 1,540,000,000 bushels. The estimate of this year's oat crop is 1,274,000,000 bushels. So you can see that the oat production has fallen off fearfully also and that oats are going up along with wheat.

Likewise the corn crop for 1915 was 3,055,000,000 bushels. The estimated corn crop for this year is 2,777,000,000 bushels. So you see that you are going to have to pay for the corn you buy from the Central West.

All these vast figures should again bring home to our people the eternal truth that we must raise our own grains for our own tables and our work stock and some to sell besides.

HER DETORT.

"People often preserve the pens with which historic documents are signed."

"Quite so," said his wife. "I think I'll preserve the pen with which you signed that $5 check you gave me the other day."

TOO LONG.

Edit.—Haven't you and Jack been engaged long enough to get married?

Ethel—Too long He hasn't got a cent left.

THEY GAVE HIM UP

"Do you see tat strong healthy-looking man over there?"

"I was just admiring his physique."

"The doctors gave him up years ago

"You surprise me."

"Yes; they found out they couldn't get anything out of him."

WHAT HE WAS CHARGED WITH

"What is this man charged with?" asked the magistrate.

"Dynamite" was the unaimous reply of the six policemen who had made the arrest.

NOT GUILTY

"What did the jury do to Si Hawkins fer stealin' Bill Bailey's sheep?

"Found him not guilty but said that if they was him they'd take the sheep back.

NOT IMPRESSED

Newly arrived Spirit—Who is that old angel over yonder—the one who looked so bored when I told him about the man-eating sharks?

St. Peter—That's Jonah.

After two bad springs, next spring ought to be a banner one for oats. "It's a long lane that has no turning," you know.

Furnishing pasture and putting humus and nitrogen into the soil, it is a wonder that everybody who has a piece of land does not put it into a winter cover crop.

A carpet of green over the farm in winter means more greenbacks in the farmer's pocket next spring.

Mosquitoes breed wherever there is stagnant water. Drain off the puddles.

West's Single Comb White Leghorns

Those Everlasting Layers.

My this year's stock is the best in type I have ever seen or raised. Remember this fall that I sell guaranteed winners for any show. Visitors welcome.

MRS. ROBT. WEST

132 Carter Hill Road, Montgomery, Ala.

Everybody stops at the

Exchange Hotel

Leslie D. Fairchild, Mgr.

Classified Wants

PERSONAL

WIDOW, worth $120,000 or more, will marry. "I dare you write." (Sincere.) Mission Unity, San Francisco. —16

HONORABLE, business man, worth $75,000, will marry. (Write me quick.) "Lewis," 57 4th St., San Francisco. —16

WIDOW 25, worth $12,000, would marry. H-Box 35, League, Toledo, Ohio. —16

WANTED TO BUY

WANTED—To buy, several cars of good feeding hogs and sheep. Paul Finch, Crab Orchard, Ky. —9

WANTED—To buy white oak timber in large or small quantity. Also white oak staves of all kinds. King Stave Company, P. O. Box 364, New Orleans, Louisiana.

WANTED

WANTED—Partner in the dairy business. Have hundreds of acres of bermuda, clover, near railroad, 16 miles from Montgomery. Will furnish houses, lands, one-half of cattle. References exchanged. Address Dairyman, care Farm & Immigration, Montgomery, Ala. —1

WANTED—Intelligent, energetic men and women in every locality, can pick up ready cash with pleasant employment. Particulars from Mail Order Service Co., Box 235-A, Birmingham, Ala. —1

30 WOMEN to work in underwear mill; light work, sanitary building; whole families wanted especially. Collier Mfg. Co., Barnesville, Ga. —4

FOR SALE

SINGLE Comb White Leghorn yearling hens, $1 each. Alabama Leghorn Farms Co., Ensley, Ala. —10

PEDIGREED Duroc-Jersey Spring Pigs—$10 each, or will trade some for pure Brabham or Iron Cowpeas. D. W. Dennis, Dendridge Acres, Theodore, Ala., near Mobile. —10

RAISE Belgian hares, squnk, minks, squnks, frogs, etc. Big profits. Postal brings free literature. Tells how. J. G. Mahr, Mobile, Ala. —10

SOUTHERN Burr Clover Seed 35c per lb. Large orders 75c. R. C. McCrackin, Oak Hill, Ala —10

WRITE us for prices on Johnson grass, alfalfa hay in car lots delivered. Billiken Place, Gallion, Ala. —10

ENGLISH Bloodhound puppies. W. N. Cavin, Mt. Holly, N. C. —10

WANTED—AGENTS

MAKE BIG MONEY SELLING OUR FAST SELLERS

New Patent Star Hair Straightening Comb, Star Quinine Hair Dressing, Bright Brown Face Powder, LaBelle Face Powder, LaBelle Shampoo Powder, LaBelle Vegetable Soap, LaBelle Quinine Hair Tonic, LaBelle Face Lotion, LaBelle Face Cream, French Perfume, French Toilet Water.
Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Quick Service.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL MFG. CO.,
218 N. Main St., Memphis, Tenn.

PIGEONS

HIGH CLASS Utility Carneaux $3, $3.50 to $5 per pair. Crescent Pigeon Lofts, Girard, Ala.

FARM AND TIMBER LAND

GUARANTEED TIMBER KILLER.

"Sure Shot" kills timber in 10 to 15 days. Write for particulars.
SUMMERFIELD BROS.,
322 Randolph Bldg., Memphis, Tenn.

FOR SALE—Thirty-eight acre farm with new five room house, barn, etc. Land well drained, planted in corn, peas, velvet beans, peanuts, sugar cane, sweet potatoes. A mare, ten young hogs, wagon, buggy, harness, plows. Corn crop ready to gather. Two thousand dollars gets it all, will take half cash, other half on terms. One hours ride from Montgomery, twenty-five miles. A big bargain for someone! Address "Quick Sale," this office. —11

POOR CONTROL

"Don't you think Miss Howler has wonderful control of her voice?"

"No, I don't. She sings every time anyone asks her to."

Largest Yields That World Has Ever Known

The Bureau of Crop Estimates is frequently asked for information as to the largest yield per acre of various crops produced on single fields or plats in different parts of the United States. In the past such records have not been kept and the information could not be furnished. This year, for the first time, county and township crop reporters were asked to report for various products the largest known yield per acre in 1915, the size of field or plat, and name of owner or grower. The highest reports are summarized below. It is probable that some of these yields were obtained from specially prepared land, while others were not. In this inquiry no attempt was made to distinguishe between the two classes.

It will be observed that some reports were made in round numbers, as 3,000 pounds of tobacco, 6,000 pounds of seed cotton, indicating a lack of precise measurement. Although the bureau has endeavored to eliminate all erroneous reports it can not vouch for absolute accuracy of the figures quoted; nevertheless, they are not without interest.

Washington First in Wheat.

Wheat—The largest yield of wheat reported is 117 bushels per acre from 18 acres in Island county, Wash.; the second largest is 108 bushels per acre from 12 acres in Twin Falls county, Idaho. In the last named county are found also the three next largest reported yields, 105 bushels per acre from 11 acres, 102 bushels per acre from 6 acres, and 98 bushels per acre from 8 acres.

Washington Wins in Oats.

Oats—The largest yield of oats reported is 183.7 bushels per acre from 8.5 acres in Skagit county, Wash.; the second largest is 166 bushels per acre from 8 acres in Logan county, Colo.; the third, 165 bushels per acre from 2 acres in Ottertail county, Minn.; the fourth, 141 bushels per acre from 20 acres in Skagit county, Wash.

Barley Prize to Idaho.

Barley—The largest yield of barley reported is 122.5 bushels per acre from 4 acres in Twin Falls county, Idaho, and the second largest is in the same county and is 116 bushels per acre from 4 acres. The third largest is 115 bushels per acre from 60 acres in San Luis Obispo county, Cal.; the fourth, 109 bushels per acre from 2 acres in Franklin county, Idaho, and fifth in rank are two reported yields of 100 bushels each, one from 50 acres in Baker County, Oreg., and one from 40 acres in Comanche county, Kans.

Montana First in Flaxseed.

Flaxseed—The largest yields of flaxseed reported are two of 30 bushels per acre, both in Montana, one from 50 acres in Fergus county, Mont., and one from 20 acres in Teton county, Mont. The next largest are two of 29 bushels per acre, one from 25 acres in Potter county, S. Dak., and one from 16 acres in Ottertail county, Minn.; the next in rank is 27 bushels per acre from 20 acres in Blaine county, Mont.; and the next 25.5 bushels per acre from 10 acres in Perkins county, S. Dak. Yields of 25 and 24 bushels, respectively ,are reported as obtained from several fields in Minnesota and in the Dakotas.

California in White Potatoes.

White Potatoes—The largest yield of white potatoes reported is 790 bushels from 1 acre in Eldorado county, Cal. That was from a previously selected and fertilized 1 acre in a potato field of 30 acres, the average of the entire field being 550 bushels per acre. The second largest yield reported is 743 bushels per acre from 4 acres in Yakima county, Wash.; the third, 700 bushels per acre from 30 acres in Canyon county, Idaho; the fourth, 668 bushels from 1 acre in Nevada county, Cal.; and fifth, 667 bushels from 1 acre in San Juan county, Utah. The foregoing white potato yields are probably all from irrigated land. Definite information has been received that such is the case for the largest yield reported and little doubt is entertained as to the others.

Sweet Potatoes To Tennessee.

Sweet Potatoes—The largest yield of sweet potatoes reported is 600 bushels per acre from 2 acres in Roane county, Tenn. The second largest is 575 bushels from 1 acre in Williamsburg, county, S. C. Then follow three reported yields of 500 bushels per acre—from 5 acres in Caddo Parish, La.; from 1 acre in Weakley county, Tenn.; and from 1 acre in Jefferson county, Fla. The next largest yield reported is 456 bushels from 1 acre in Caddo Parish, La.; and the next, 450 bushels per acre, reported both from 10 acres in Northampton county, Va., and from 2 acres in Iberia county, La. In Jackson county, Tenn., 1,000 bushels are reported as having been obtained from a selected 1 acre out of an 8-acre field.

Georgia First in Tobacco.

Tobacco—The largest yield of tobacco reported is 3,000 pounds from 1 acre in Effingham county, Ga.; the second largest, 2,500 pounds per acre from 2 acres in Jefferson county, Ind.; and next follow two 2,300 pound yields—from 1 acre in Washington county, Va., and from 1 acre in Forsyth county, N. C. Yields of 2,000 pounds per acre are reported also as from 8 acres in St. Marys county, Md.; from 6 acres in Montgomery county, Tenn.; and from 1 acre in Montgomery county, Ohio.

Georgia First in Cotton.

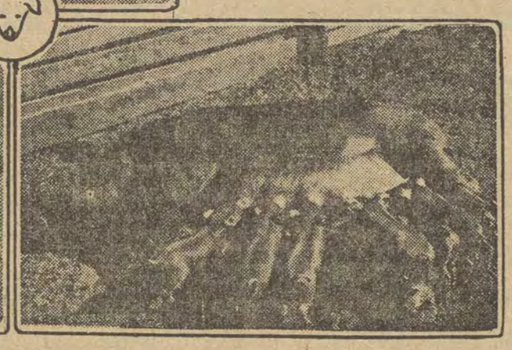
Cotton—For yields of cotton in the seed the largest reported is 6,000 pounds per acre from 2 acres in Toombs county, Ga.; the second largest is 5,000 pounds per acre from 4 acres in Fannin county, Tex.; the third, 4,800 pounds per acre from 12 acres in Hampton county, S. C.; the fourth, 4,500 pounds per acre from 3 acres in Greene county, Ark.; and fifth, 4,200 pounds per acre from 13 acres in Marlboro county, S. C. In Waller county, Tex., 4,500 pounds are reported as having been obtained from a selected 1 acre out of a larger field.

Rye Prize to Nebraska.

Rye—The largest yield of rye reported is 54 bushels per acre from 18 acres in Loncoln county, Nebr.; the second largest is 47 bushels per acre from 25 acres in Roseau county, Minn.; the third, 44 bushels per acre from 9 acres in Sully county, S. Dak.; and then follow three reported yields of 42 bushels per acre—from 100 acres in Todd county, Minn.; from 60 acres in Potter county, S. Dak.; and from 30 acres in Meade county, S. Dak.

Sugar Cane Acreage Increased 15 Per Cent

The Louisiana field agent of the Bureau of Crop Estimates places the cane acreage of Louisiana this year at about 15 per cent above 1915. His figure is based upon an average increase as shown in reports covering 69,416 acres. The condition of the crop on August 1, 1916, was about 14 per cent. above the 10-year average condition on August 1.



In 1915 about 183,000 acres of cane were harvested for sugar making in that state and 275,000 pounds of sugar were made. The condition of the crop last year about harvest time (November 1) was 24 per cent. below the 10-year average on November 1

Farewell to Razor-back! How Pure-bred Hogs Are Pushing Him Out on Our Progressive Farms

By G. V. Stelzemuller, Farm Demonstrator Baldwin County, Ala.

At top hogs are shown grazing on crimson clover pasture near Loxley, Alabama.

The picture below at the left is the Duroc boar King Minette 54,813, grand champion boar of all breeds at the Gulf Coast fair at Mobile in 1915. Weight 750 pounds. Owned by F. C. Hall of Oak Hall Farm in Baldwin county.

The picture below at right is Mr. Hall's Alabama Daisy 283,994, the Duroc sow that has not been beaten in a prize ring. Her five litters netted over $600, her last litter selling for $320.

Down here in Baldwin county, we have discovered the hog, and we have decided that he is one of the biggest money-makers in existence. Not only have we figured out a profit in the hog business, but we have actually demonstrated that, properly managed, hogs will put money in anybody's pocket; and we are ready to give the reasons why.

Razorbacks Must Go

In the first place, we find that we must have good hogs. "Razorbacks" can outrun blooded hogs, because they experience less air-resistance, but it takes more of them to fill a car, and more car-loads of them to fill the farmer's wallet with money. The razorback is not an efficient machine for converting feed into pork. He had a mission in the world, but that mission has been fulfilled. Now let us assist nature in "the survival of the fittest, the elimination of the unfit." We are not very particular as to the breed, for we get good results with them all; but we do want good blood.

Plenty of Feed Needed

We have found, however, that good blood alone will not lead us to a pot of gold. Hogs must have feed, the right kind of feed, and plenty of it. We know that hogs fed corn alone will charge us ten to fifteen cents a pound for increase in weight. We know that hogs need to have access to nutritiosu pasturage. In Baldwin county we can have grazing crops the year ronud, using such crops as velvet beans, soy beans, cowpeas, peanuts, sweet potatoes, chufas, rape, sorghum, sudan grass, clovers, oats and rye. Grazing on good pasture, hogs will pay from $1.50 to $3.00 a bushel for corn fed to them in light rations. By such methods, pork costs only three to five cents a pound. This is the reason why we prefer to sell our corn to our hogs.

Of course, we need some equipment, in the way of hog-houses, division fences, etc., necessitating some initial expense. But this equipment is added gradually as we get deeper into the hog business, and amounts to little any one year.

Preventing Disease

There is one other phase of the hog business that demands attention, and that is the matter of keeping down diseases and insect pests. We use the so-called "government" charcoal mixture for worms. It is made of the following ingredients, all of which must be well pulverized: Wood charcoal, sulphur, sodium sulfate and antimony sulfide, of each one pound; sodium chlorlde, sodium bicarbonate, and sodium hyposulfate ,of each two pounds. Mix thoroughly. The dose varies according to the weight of the hog. The dose for a 200-ponud hog is one tablespoonful in gronud feed once a day.

For lice, we dip the hogs a few times in some commercial dip, or in kerosene emulsion, which is cheaper. In making kerosene emulsion, use one pound of ordinary soap and one gallon of kerosene or crude oil for each five gallons of dip needed. Shave the pound of soap into one gallon of hot water, dissolving it completely. Then mix thoroughly with one gallon of kerosene or crude oil, stirring or churning it to form a complete emulsion of oil and soap. Then add three gallons of warm water, and the dip is ready for use. Use the proportions mentioned in making any quantity of dip. Hogs should be dipped once every ten days the first three or four times, then once a month is sufficient.

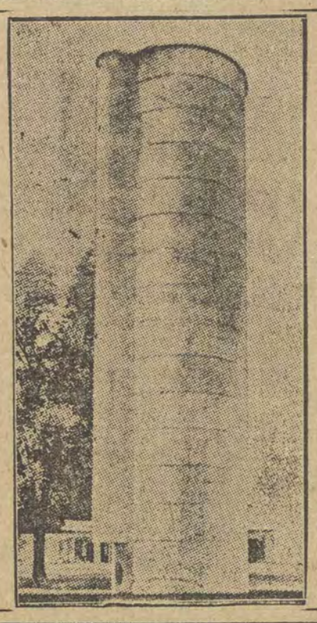
A Good Disinfectant

We spare no pains to make and keep everything about the pens and lots clean and sanitary. We use burnt lime freely, and occasionally we spray the houses and pens with some good disinfectant solution. A very satisfactory disinfectant is made by thoroughly dissolving five pounds of copper sulfate (bluestone) in fifty gallons of water, and adding three or four quarts of crude coar tar creosote. This should be kept well agitated as it is sprayed over the ground, walls, troughs, etc.

We provide the hogs with an abundance of clear, cool, clean water. For we know that all these things help to protect our hogs against that most dreaded hog disease, cholera. But if in spite of all these precautions, cholera does gain entrance to the herd, we at once isolate the sick ones, and give the whole herd the serum treatment. The serum treatment costs money, but we would rather spend a little money that way and save most of the hogs than leave off the treatment and lose most of them.

Yes, we raise fine hogs in Baldwin county. To prove it, we show herewith pictures of a few Baldwin county hogs. And to prove the pictures, we shall take pleasure in showing the hogs themselves.

INCREASES IN MELONS



From reports received in the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture, the acreage of watermelons in eight States is estimated to be 30,079 acres for 1916 as compared with 26,895 acres in 1915, an increase of 3,184 acres or about 12 per cent. The acreage of cantaloupes for six states in 1916 was 16,022 acres, as compared with 14,298 acres in 1915, an increase of 1,724 acres, or about 12 per cent.

No Investment on Earth Beats 4 % Compound Interest From Savings Bank

No risk in it, no trouble, no worry about collections, fees, and besides it is available in a lump sum if you ever have occasion to use it. Call or write. We can handle your savings deposits by mail with no trouble to you.

The New Farley National Bank

Montgomery, Alabama.

Build the Silo Now

For next season. Write us and we will tell you why it will pay you to build NOW.

Concrete Silos and Papec Silage Cutters.

Montgomery Lime & Cement Co.

Montgomery, Ala.

COMFORT CONVENIENCE SERVICE

The Gay-Teague Hotel

(FIRE PROOF)

MONTGOMERY, ALA. E. C. TAYLOR, Manager.

Free Booklet on Winter Cover Crops

Crimson Clover

Vetches

Bur Clover

Alfalfa

All Legumes

Tells you how to prepare your ground, plant your seed, amount of seed to use, how to inoculate your soil. Complete and detailed information on getting a successful stand of Crimson Clover, Alfalfa, Vetches and other Legumes.

This Booklet, issued by the Nitra-Germ Company, was written by the most experienced and practical farming men in the South. It will be of great value to you and it is yours Free. Just write for it today.

Crimson Clover

Vetches

Bur Clover

Alfalfa

All Legumes

Inoculate Your Seed With Nitra-Germ

In putting in your winter cover crops don't fail to inoculate your seed with Nitra-Germ. Nitra-Germ is not a liquid or jelly culture but is prepared in soil form; one pound is mixed with the seed for each acre planted.

Nitra-Germ is the oldest and best inoculating culture made. Nitra-Germ insures a successful stand of any legume at at the first planting, therefore saving the cost of experimenting without Nitra-Germ inoculation.

Nitra-Germ will improve your crop and soil and greatly reduce your fertilizer bill. Nitra-Germ insures the greatest possible number of nitrogen gathering nodules on the roots of all legumes. This nitrogen will increase your follow crop of corn or cotton at least 25 per cent—often more.

Not The Cheapest---But The Best

Don't make the mistake of planting a winter cover crop without first inoculating the seed with Nitra-Germ. Nitra-Germ is not the cheapest culture on the market but it is by far the best, and it will pay you in dollars and cents to use the best. Nitra-Germ is prepared especially for use on Southern farms, meeting all Southern conditions.

1 acre ..... $2 per acre, delivered
5 acres .... $1.80 per acre, delivered
20 acres ... $1.65 per acre, delivered
50 acres ... $1.50 per acre, delivered
100 acres and up, $1.35 per acre, delivered to you.

Notice To Farmers

We have established headquarters in Montgomery, Alabama, for the distribution and sale of Nitra-Germ to the farmers of Alabama. We want you to use Nitra-Germ and increase your legume yields from 25 to 100 per cent and the yields of your follow crop 25 per cent and more.

NITRA-GERM SALES CO., Montgomery, Ala.

Live Agents Wanted.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V, CLANTON, ALABAMA, SEPTEMBER 7, 1916. NUMBER 23.

16,000 TEUTONS MADE PRISONERS

The Men Were Taken As The Russian Forces Moved Westward Along The Roumanian Border

AUSTRO-GERMANS RETREAT

Berlin Admits Reverses, But Says The Russians Have Been Repulsed In The Carpathians

Paris.—Russian troops have begun another advance and Petrograd reports fighting in Volhynia and in Galicia. The Russians also have seized a series of heights in the Carpathians and are moving westward along the Roumanian border of Bukowina. Petrograd claims the capture of about sixteen thousand prisoners. A withdrawal of the Austro-German lines south of the Zlota Lipa-Dniester section is recorded by Berlin. Progress by the Russians west of Tarnopol is admitted, but Russian attacks in the Carpathians and near Lutsk were repulsed, Berlin says. In Albania, Italian troops advancing along the Voyusa river have occupied Tepeleni. Rome says that two villages were stormed and that prisoners were taken in the fighting along the Voyusa.

English Admit German Success

The Germans report the reoccupation of lost ground near Longueval and the Delville wood on the Somme front. London admits a German advance, but says the attackers sustained severe losses. On the rest of the front in France there has been little activity. Petrograd claims the repulse of Turkish attacks west of Erzingan and west of Ognott in Turkish Armenia. The rout of more than two divisions of Russians by the Turkish left wind is reported by Constantinople. Prisoners to the number of five thousand were captured by the Turks. German forces in German East Africa are in full retreat. Lieutenant General Smuts, the British commander there, reports that Mrogoro, seat of the German government, has been occupied by the British.

REVOLUTION HAS BEGUN IN THE GREEK EMPIRE

Three Greek Garrisons Forced To Surrender To The Revolutionary Committee

London. — Unofficial dispatches reaching London which apparently have been much censored have been that Greece has abandoned her neutrality and thrown her lot on the side of the entente allies.

It is reported that King Constantine has abdicated and that the crown prince has been named as his successor, with former Premier Venizelos as the power behind the throne.

An entente fleet of twenty-three warships and seven transports is reported off Piraeus, the port of Athens. A dispatch from Athens says it is probable that the Greek elections, set for October 8, will be postponed for a fortnight.

The Greek garrisons at Saloniki, at Vodena and at Fort Little Karaburan have surrendered to a committee which has taken over the administration of part of Greek Macedonia, according to dispatches from Saloniki. The revolt in Saloniki is confirmed by the British foreign office. Greeks friendly to the entente surrounded the barracks of the Greek infantry at Saloniki and are said to have exchanged shots with them. General Sarrail, allied commander at Saloniki, intervened to prevent further bloodshed.

Child Labor Measure Becomes Law

Washington.—President Wilson, in signing the child labor bill, said: "I want to say with what real emotion I sign this bill, because I know how long the struggle has been to secure legislation of this sort and what it is going to mean to the health and to the vigor of the country, and also to the happiness of those whom it affects. It is with genuine pride that I play my part in completing this legislation. I congratulate the country and felicitate myself."

Fifty Lives Lost In West Indies Storm

St. Thomas, D. W. I.—Fifty lives were lost in a hurricane which struck the British West Indian island of Dominica, September 1. The wind reached a velocity of more than seventy miles. Rivers in the island rose to unprecedented heights and carried away bridges and culverts. Some streams changed their courses and swept through fields and villages, carrying away houses with their occupants. The number of houses, schools, churches and other buildings wrecked exceeds two hundred.

Carranza General Defeated By Villa

El Paso, Texas.—Francisco Villa, with a force recruited as a result of his recent victories in the vicinity of Satevo to about one thousand men, attacked General Elisondo in the vicinity of Santa Ysabel and forced the Carranza leader who had about six hundred troops, to fall back toward Chihuahua City, according to private dispatches received here. The Carranza losses were estimated at about thirty, while the Villa losses were said to have been less. Villa seized a freight train and made a troop train out of it.

ROUMANIA ENTERS THE WAR

BATTLE ON BORDER FOLLOWS ROUMANIA'S ENTRANCE INTO THE WAR

The Roumanian Offensive Is Aimed At Two Important Cities In Transylvania

London.—Roumania has thrown in her lot with the entente allies by declaring war on Austria-Hungary and almost simultaneously Germany has announced that she is at war with Roumania. Already the troops of King Ferdinand are seeking entry into the plains of Transylvania through the eastern Carpathians toward Kronstadt, the chief city in Transylvania, and in the direction of Harmannstadt, evidently in an endeavor to press to the northward through Transylvania toward the Bukowina and Galicia borders and to take in the rear the Austro-Germans trying to hold back the Russians.

Roumanian Army Numbers 900,000

It is estimated that the effective strentgh of the army which can be mobilized by Roumania is about nine hundred thousand men, including ten regiments of Red Hussars and ten of Black Hussars, with artillery aggregating 480 seventy-five-millimeter guns, 160 field guns, belonging to the reserve and a number of heavy guns.

The action of Roumania may force Greece to enter the war on the side of the entente allies. Dispatches from Athens indicate that popular feeling is stirred deeply by occupation of Grecian territory by Bulgarian forces, although this move was sanctioned by the Greek government.

Fifty thousand Greeks joined in a popular demonstration August 27 before the residence of former Premier Venizelos, an ardent supporter of the entente allies. The former premier urged that a committee be sent to King Constantine to warn him not to use his influence in the forthcoming general election, because the results would be "destructive" and to request him to give the present government, which favors a policy of neutrality, full of political authority, at the same time preparing the army for "a possible rupture of existing conditions."

Roumania's Action May Shorten War

Paris.—The entrance of Roumania into the war was received with popular rejoicing in Paris. For the first time in many months the newspapers were permitted to publish extra editions and in half an hour all Paris had learned the news and the city was beflagged with the Roumanian colors. The declaration had been expected in France hour by hour for three days. The general belief in France is that Roumania's action will tend to shorten the war. Some of the more optimistic military commentators predict that Turkey will be crushed within six months and that Austria will be subjected to unbearable pressure, but Parisians have observed the failure of many predictions and are inclined to wait calmly.

18 VILLA BANDITS SHOT AS SOON AS CAPTURED

Body Of One Of The Bandits Hung Up In The Plaza As An Object Lesson

Chihuahua City, Mexico.—In a fight with a band of Villa followers at Corralitos, close to the Durango line, the forces of General Domingo Arrieta took 18 prisoners, who were immediately tried by a drumhead courtmartial and shot, according to official reports received by General Trevino.

The body of the notorious bandit, Ferniza, found among the rebel's slain, was taken into the town of Matamoros, near Torreon, and hung up in the plaza as an object lesson to Villa sympathizers.

None of the prisoners taken in this fight or those taken in the action at Satevo a few days ago was able to say whether or not Villa is still alive.

Colonel Campos of the Arrieta brigadew as dangerously wounded. It was at Corralitos that General Ignacio Ramos was killed by Villa's men a short time ago.

Shots Exchanged On Border

Mercedes, Texas.—Four shots were fired into the camp of A company, First Minnesota regiment, stationed at Mercedes pumping station, from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, at 10:30 at night, which resulted in a general exchange. About one hundred and fifty shots were fired.

Conspired To Kidnap Harriman Boy

Salt Lake City.—Ransom of $100,000 was to be demanded for Roland Harriman, son of Mrs. E. H. Harriman, by three men under arrest in St. Anthony, Idaho, in connection with an alleged conspiracy to kidnap the 16-year-old son of the late railroad magnate, according to word received here. Authorities say two of the men have confessed that the plan was to blind or otherwise disfigure young Harriman if the ransom was not paid up promptly. The threatened railroad strike kept the Harrimans in Utah.

Von Jagow Attacked By Berlin Editors

London.—Italy's declaration of war against Germany and the declaration of war by Roumania against Austria-Hungary have caused a most profound impression in the German capital. The Berlin newspapers express themselves bitterly against Gottlieb von Jagow, the German foreign minister, and Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, the under secretary for foreign affairs, those statesmen being considered to be partly responsible for what is declared to be Germany's diplomatic defeat among the great nations.

WASTED EFFORT

WILL WORK INJURY

Filipinos Not Benefited by Administration Measure.

Pledge to Grant Self-Government at an Indefinite Time Is Merely a Piece of Bryan Moralistic Buncombe.

The Philippine bill, it seems, does not define the period during which, according to Democratic doctrine, the peoples of the islands are to ripen into fitness for self-government. In place of this definite pledge the Filipinos have a promise that when they are ready for it they are to be granted independence.

How this squares with the Democratic doctrine of noninterference, so continually worked out in our Mexican policy, it is hard to figure out. Probably the Democratic apologists will not pause over it any longer than Senator Walsh was inclined to pause over the topic of southern control. But meanwhile Americans who permit their common sense to play upon the subject will be able to predict the effect upon island sentiment and island political ambition of this glittering general promise. What the bill does is to fix in Philippine politics for an indefinite time to come, if not permanently, an incurable disease, a perennial source of political demagogy and party tactics, a curse put upon the islands to placate sentimentalists and impracticals at home and seem to keep a pledge while evading it.

There was no need for such a pledge, which means literally nothing so long as we retain, as the pledge implies, the right to decide when the islands are fit for independence. All that it is is a party hocus-pocus, a piece of Bryan moralistic buncombe which Mr. Wilson has borrowed and which will be an injury to the Philippine peoples as the Wilson-Bryan brand of humanitarianism has been a curse to the Mexican people.

In the Political Trenches.

Soon the political battalions will be in their trenches. For the campaign in the United States will take on much the form of the war of the nations. The Democrats will be entrenched behind their platform planks with much of buncombe bagged to deflect the bullets of the foe. The Republicans will be entrenched behind their battlements of Americanism, of preparedness and of patriotic efficiency. They will assault the works of their foes with the siege guns of logic and of fact. They will hail shrapnel upon the trenches of the Democrats and the latter will be destroyed by the hot shot of their own broken up record.

The third line trenches will be the ballot boxes. The Republicans will take these with the bayonet charges led by those valiant political warriors —Hughes, Taft and Roosevelt. In this charge the enemy will be impaled upon the bayonets of determined aggression and the Republicans will witness the inauguration of a new era of competency and peace with honor.

Always Democratic Fault.

Democrats are considering a tax on American products sold abroad. And they would let foreign goods come into this country virtually free. The Democratic administration has at all times been the friend of Europe and an indifferent advocate of the rights of Americans.

Fellow Citizens.

Few men in public life could have acquitted themselves so creditably as did Mr. Hughes in his address before 3,000 women voters in Spokane. He was meeting an audience newly enfranchised and splendidly conscious of their important role in national affairs. Not as inferiors, not as faddists to be amused and entertained by a form of speech adapted to a lighter type of intellect did Mr. Hughes greet them. To him they were fellow citizens and he addressed them as such.

POOR CHANCE OF RE-ELECTION

Figures Show That Mr. Wilson Is Not Likely Again to Occupy the Presidential Chair.

In 1860 the Democratic party had become a minority party, owing to the growth of the old West, that is, of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin. The Republican and Union parties together cast 2,455,933 votes, the two branches of the Democratic party 2,220,920 votes. In this connection it is to be remembered that Oregon and California then were states, but Kansas and Nebraska territories.

In 1896 history had politically repeated itself for the same reason. The growth of the new West, that is, of Colorado, the Dakotas, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, had again made the Democratic party a minority party. The Republicans that year cast 7,104,779 votes, the Democrats 6,502,925. In 1900, 1904, 1908 and 1912, respectively, the Republican vote was 7,207,823, 7,623,486, 7,678,908 and 7,604,436 (including 4,119,507 Progressives). Democratic ballots in the same presidential elections, respectively, numbered 6,358,133, 5,077,911, 6,409,104 and 6,293,019.

In each presidential election since and including that of 1896 Republican votes on the popular vote have outnumbered those of all other parties together. Even the Progressive vote in 1912 was a Republican vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

In the light of these incontrovertible figures it is difficult to see how President Wilson can in 1916 change his minority on the popular vote in 1912 into a popular plurality this year. The sole chance of his re-election, speaking mathematically, would seem to be the doubtful chance that independent voters and discontented Progressives in doubtful states may turn the electoral vote of these states toward him and so pull him through on a narrow margin.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

The President's Variable Mind.

President Wilson's public advocacy of the Keating child labor bill chiefly serves to draw attention to the fact that a very short time ago he expressed his earnest opposition to this measure. Conditions which have arisen in the last few weeks have apparently convinced him that he made a serious blunder in his first stand on the bill, and he now hurries to its support, in the wake of the popular demand that it be made a law.

This is not the first time the president has given proof that he does not know just where his "single track" mind is leading him. He has reversed himself on the Philippine question; on the matter of national defense he has made a complete about-face movement; his off-and-on policy with Mexico has witnessed so many changes and variations that it has come to be like the snake described in the "Bigelow Papers," of which the observer was unable to say if it "was going south or coming back." He changed his mind with regard to free trade, on the tariff commission and on other important issues. Not the least of these is the matter of running for a second term.

His fellow countrymen have welcomed some of these reversals, and cheerfully accord to Mr. Wilson the right to change his mind as often as he likes. But the voters have minds of their own and will soon let him know what they think of a president who is consistent only in his inconsistency.—Omaha Bee.

100 Per Cent Hughes.

Hughes revealed himself completely in his speech at Chicago, remarks the New York Sun. "As I was while on the bench 100 per cent a judge," said he, "I then became 100 per cent a candidate." This is the explanation of his whole career. He is always full 100 per cent. He is 100 per cent a lawyer, 100 per cent a man, 100 per cent a citizen, 100 per cent an American.

He was 100 per cent governor of New York. He will be 100 per cent presider

CROPS IN BULLOCK IN BAD CONDITION

BOLL WEEVILS AND RAINS PLAY HAVOC WITH THE COTTON GROWERS.

MARRIED OVER TELEPHONE

St. Louis Divine Weds Oxford Young Lady In a Unique and Very Novel Manner.

Union Springs.—The conditions of the crops in this county are as bad or worse than they have been in its history. The boll weevils, together with the long series of rain and floods will cut the cotton yield for this county something like 75 per cent. The corn crop will be but little better; also the sweet potato and sugar cane yield will fall far below normal. It is estimated that the county will make about 8,000 bales of cotton against the 16,000 bales of the 1915 season when the acreage was reduced considerably. This will make an average of about a bale to a bale and a half to the plow. The staple is being picked as it opens and is being brought in rapidly. Experienced cotton growers of this city say that the entire crop will be harvested by the first of October. Many farm hands are flocking to town and numbers leaving the county on account of their employers not being able to give enough work by which they make their living.

Preacher Married Over Phone.

Anniston.—Marriage by wire was tried for the first time in Calhoun County according to a report received here from Oxford when Miss Carrie McCann, of that city, became the bride of the Rev. Zachariah McCann, of St. Louis, Missouri. The engagement of the couple was announced some time ago, but on the day of the wedding Mr. McCann was engaged and found it impracticable to leave his charge in St. Louis, consequently he called on central and made arrangements for the marriage to take place over the long distance telephone. Rev. L. M. Harris, pastor of the Methodist Church at Oxford, performed the ceremony at the home of W. F. McCain. Miss McCann had been making her home with her sister, Mrs. J. F. Clark, but could not have the ceremony performed there on account of a death in the family.

Bibb Grand Jury Reports.

Centerville.—The Fall term of the Circuit Court of Bibb County, has closed. The session of the court was perhaps the shortest held in this county for more than 25 years, but during this time much business, both criminal and civil, was dispatched. Four murder cases were disposed of, all of the defendants being convicted and getting terms in the penitentiary from two to twenty years. The report of the grand jury bordered on the sensational in that it charged that evidence before the grand jury tended to show that J. D. Evans, warden of convicts at Lucile, Bibb county, received money from convicts in order to use his influence to get some convicts pardoned or paroled. Cruel and brutal treatment of State convicts confined at Lucile also was charged by the report of the grand jury. When the report was made to Judge B. M. Miller, he ordered Clerk of the Circuit Court R. L. Avery to send a certified copy of it to Governor Charles Henderson for his information.

Poor Showing Made For Cotton.

Washington.—Further deterioration of the growing cotton crop during August has reduced the estimated final production by 1,116,000 sales to a total of 11,800,000 bales. That forecast of production was made by the Department of Agriculture, basing its calculation on the condition of the crop on August 25. The condition of the crop on August 25 was 61.2 per cent of a normal, compared with 72.3 last month; 69.2 last year and 72.5, the average for the last ten years on August 25. Condition by States follows: Virginia, 90; North Carolina, 65; South Carolina, 57; Georgia, 62; Florida, 53; Albama, 45; Mississippi, 49; Louisiana, 64; Texas, 66; Arkansas, 71; Tenessee, 80; Missouri, 80; Oklahoma, 56; California, 92.

Law Will Be Tested.

Anniston.—J. M. Edmondson, treasurer and general manager of a local bottling plant, has announced he will make a test the validity of the local law prohibiting the sale of soft drinks in pool rooms. He contends that, in view of the fact that there is no State or National law regulating the question, the Anniston City Council has no right to make such a prohibition.

Refinery to Be Built.

Montgomery.—Announcement has been made that the Southern Syrup Company has purchased for $25,000 the building in North Montgomery formerly used by the Citizens Light, Heat and Power Company and will erect a modern sugar refinery. Work will be started at once and when the building and equipment have been completed Montgomery will be second only to New Orleans in the sugar refining business of the South, according to those interested in the business.

Cotton Crop In Pike Short.

Troy.—The cotton crop for this county will be 40 per cent of the 1915 crop. Last year Pike made 30,000 bales and the conservative estimate this year's crop at 12,000. As there are between six and seven thousand plows in operation in the county, this is barely two bales to the plow. The farmers had the weevil situation well under control before the wet weather began, but that injured the crop and gave the weevils a good start, so that the yield will be greatly reduced. However, the situation is not so bad as the farmers have been prepared for such happenings and none have gone deeply in debt. Yearlings and hogs have helped solve the money problem and one farmer had taken up so little of the money he had arranged for that two yearling paid his indebtedness. Pike has a good acreage of peanuts, also, and corn and beans for feedstuffs.

Two Campanies Incorporated.

Montgomery.—Mobile has furnished the State with two important corporations. Reports to the Secretary of State from the probate judge of Mobile County show that the Calvert Turpentine and Rosin Company and the Pope Manufacturing Company have qualified to do business in that county. The Calvert Turpentine and Rosin Company has an authorized capital of $20,000 with $12,000 paid in and will engage in the business of turning out turpentine and rosin in the Calvert section of Mobile County. The Pope Manufacturing Company has an authorized capital of $50,000 and will begin a general manufacturing and mercantile business at Mobile with a paid in capital of $21,000.

Would Recall Commissioners.

Montgomery. — Montgomery has caught the recall fever! It would follow in the footsteps of Birmingham, which is trying to follow in the footsteps of Huntsville. It would—or rather some citizens—would like to recall its commissioners and re-establish the aldermanic form of government. A petition has been started in this city, but has been temporarily withdrawn in order that citizens of Birmingham may determine whether or not a city of more than 35,000 inhabitants has the right under the Alabama law to hold an election on the recall.

So far as is known, no person has developed as a leader of the movement to abandon the commission form of government. The movement seems to be taking care of itself.

Ramsay Will Not Run For Congress.

Birmingham. — Erskine Ramsay, prominent Birmingham capitalist, who was slated for the Republican-Progressive nomination for Congress from the Tenth District in opposition to George Huddleston, Democratic nominee, and who would have been nominated at a convention of the Republican-Progressives held here, will not make the race for the position. He issued a statement explaining why he cannot accept the nomination at this time. The fight would require too much time on the part of his friends, says Mr. Ramsay.

Iron Shipments Begin.

Birmingham.—Shipment on 10,000 tons of pig iron has been started from the Birmingham District for export. The greater portion of this iron will find its way to Italy, though it is stated that considerable of the metal will go to France, Holland and other countries. The iron market in the Birmingham District was designated as "strong as pizen," and the export business is only limited by the capacity of transportation facilities across the ocean. Freight rates are high, but this is not the stumbling block, it is the bottoms.

Woman, Aged 106, Dies.

Gadsden.—Etowah County's oldest person, Mrs. A. Gibson, died at the county farm, aged 106. Death was due to old age and she was in full possession of all her faculties until the end. She lost her husband and four sons in the civil war and has made her living until recently.

STATE BRIEFS.

Pickens county teachers institute met at Aliceville.

Thomas W. Townsend, a negro lawyer and capitalist, of Huntsville, and member of the legislature of Alabama during the reconstruction period in this State, died at his home here, aged 71 years. He owned considerable property and was reputed to be quite wealthy.

The last three cars of dressed lumber, which marks the total shipment of a large order received by John Stanfield, through Pittsburg agents for the Russian government, has left Clanton and goes to Nova Scotia.

Calera will raise a fund of $800 in order that the public school may run nine months.

A series of meetings were held in Calhoun county in the interest of a forage and livestock campaign in Alabama.

During an electric storm at Sylacauga, the residence of E. A. Hammette was struck by lightning, doing considerable damage. A mule was killed in the southern part of town by lightning. About three inches of rain fell in about thirty minutes doing damage to roads and bridges.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW SIGNED BY WILSON

PEACE NOW REIGNS BETWEEN RAILWAY BROTHERHOODS AND ALL THE RAILROADS.

GOES INTO EFFECT JAN. 1917

Bill Provides That President Shall Appoint a Commission of Three to Investigate Effects of Law.

Washington.—The Adamson eight-hour day bill, exacted from Congress last week by the railroad brotherhoods as the price of calling off the nation-wide strike was signed by President Wilson on Sunday and again on Tuesday in order that there may be no question as to the legality of the measure as a result of it having been signed on Sunday.

The Adamson bill was passed in the House by a vote of 239 to 56, and in the Senate by a vote of 43 to 28.

Briefly the law provides: That eight hours shall be deemed a day's work and the standard for reckoning compensation of railroad employes operating trains in interstate commerce after January 1, 1917, and

That a commission of three appointed by President Wilson shall investigate the effects of the eight-hour standard for from six to nine months and then report to Congress, present wages not to be reduced during the investigation or for 30 days thereafter, and overtime to be paid at a pro rata rate.

PRESIDENT ACCEPTS HOME.

On Behalf of the Nation President Pays Beautiful Tribute to the Memory of Great Man.

Hodgenville, Ky.—President Wilson came to Kentucky to pay homage to the memory of Lincoln and avoided politics.

The President accepted for the federal government the log cabin in which Lincoln was born, in a speech devoted to an eulogy of the civil war President. Standing on a temporary platform at the foot of a hill topped by a magnificent granite memorial building housing the Lincoln cabin, he praised Lincoln as the embodiment of democracy.

RIOTING FOLLOWS PARADE.

Labor Day Celebration Marred by Trouble Growing Out of Street Car Strike.

El Paso.—Rioting, an outgrowth of a street railway strike that has been on here for two months, followed a Labor Day parade here. The rioters attacked several street cars being operated by strikebreakers in the downtown streets, wrecked the cars and beat the trainmen. A dozen persons were arrested on charges of inciting riot and it is estimated that at least 50 persons were injured in the street fighting.

WILSON ACCEPTS NOMINATION.

Says Republican Party Is "A Practical Failure, In Running Government.

Long Branch, N. J.—President Wilson formally opened his campaign for re-election with a speech accepting the Democratic nomination, in which he characterized the republican party as "a practical and moral failure," defended his Mexican and European policies, recited the legislative achievements of his admanistration and declared for a "big America."

Three People Injured in Fire.

Mobile.—Word reached here from Vinegar Bend that three persons were seriously injured during a fire which destroyed the two-story residence of Noel Turner. The injured are: Rev. Clinton Martin, Leakesville, Miss.; Rev. J. Crawford, Waynesboro, Miss., and Miss Bessie White, Leakesville, Miss. The injured persons jumped from the second story window to save their lives. Rev. Clinton Martin, of Leakesville, Miss., died on a Mobile and Ohio train

Kilbane Knocks Out Chaney.

Cedar Point, O.—In less than eight minutes of actual fighting, Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland spoiled the hopes of George Chaney of Baltimore for the world's featherweight championship. A terrific right smash to Chaney's jaw settled the battle near the end of the third round.

Welsh Gets Devision Over White.

Colorado Springs.—At the end of 20 rounds of fighting, Referee Billy Roche awarded Champion Freddie Welsh of England the world's title over Challenger Charley White of Chicago.

Mexican Bandits Caught and Hung.

Laredo, Tex.—Twelve bandits were caputred by government troops and hanged to telegraph poles and several other outlaws lost their lives when they attempted to hold up a passenger train on the Mexican National lines at Gonzales junction, just south of San Luis Potosi, last Saturday, according to word reaching the border here. The soldiers, were aboard the train, drove off other members of the band.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.
For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.
For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.
For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.
For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.
For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.
For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

BEHIND THE CURTAIN

We have been seeking to reveal to the people of Chilton county the fact that the officials of the Town of Clanton, and a few other closely affiliated individuals of the same class and creed, are the sole promoters of the candidacy of Mr. W. L. Popwell for Probate Judge. Now just look what our efforts in this direction has squeezed out of the Mayor and Council of Clanton:

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 4, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:
Clanton, Ala.
Sir:

Since you have seen fit to bring your campaign of deception and falsehoods to the Town of Clanton, we, as officials of the municipality of said Town, along with every believer in truth and fair dealings, call upon you to detract and make a correction in your next issue of the following statement, in your issue of August 31st: "And too he (meaning W. L. Popwell) has become a member of the Town council, and virtually saved the whole outfit by consenting to have a debt of thousands of dollars heaped upon us."

The truth and the welfare and good name of our town are worth more to us and the citizenship of the County at large, than your extreme efforts to elect an individual to office. We are prepared to believe your desires for political success are stronger than your desires for the truth.

You well know that the Towns' indebtedness was incurred by a direct vote of the citizens of the Town. Therefore, your foregoing mentioned statement is false and without foundation or fact.

The present administration has not only met its current obligation but has liquidated many of those handed down to it by the preceding administration.

Respectfully,
E. M. PINCKARD, Mayor.
W. A. KEMP, Councilman
F. R. WOODYARD, "
W. W. FOX, "
J. B. DOWNS, "
H. M. SIMPSON, Clerk.

They set out by charging us with conducting a campaign of deception and falsehood, which is only a very natural thing for them to do. Since the whole push of them are for Popwell, we naturally expect them to be against The Union-Banner, and ready at any time, to charge us with anything.

They want us to detract a certain statement which we made in our last week's issue. The statement which they refer to was made as an ironical inference from the words of praise which the Clanton Press, the week before, had been heaping upon Mr. Popwell for the salvation they claim he has brought to the Town. But assuming that the things said in the quotation were stated as facts, let us see how bad wrong they would be.

Has not Mr. Popwell become a member of the Town Council as was said of him?

Has he virtually saved the whole outfit? That is what one would infer from what the Clanton Press said of him in his various good acts of one sort and another, to the good and welfare of Clanton. Our statement to that effect was made in such inference.

Did Mr. Popwell consent to have the debt of thousands of dollars heaped upon the Town? Our recollection is that he was among the advocates of the bond issue, and therefore he must have consented to it, or he would not have worked in faveor of the proposition.

We will of course admit that the bond issue for the Town was incurred by a direct vote of the people. We have made no statement denying that. The point that we want to get before the people of the county is that Mr. Popwell consented to the indebtedness of the Town of Clanton, and further, it is a fact, proven by his own former statement, that he is in favor of debts being placed on the county. Was not he the first to come out in the Press in 1911, and openly advocate a bond issue for the county? If he were Probate Judge, we could but expect that the policy which he expressed in 1911, and the attitude he has since maintained in connection with the Town would be carried on into the county matters, and we would have the same policy of debts, burdens and oppression on the people of the county that has been on them for the past six years.

We would like to know why the name of Mr. Popwell is not signed to the above letter. Why are these men seeking to throw the mantle of protection around him so closely, when he does not come out and try to defend himself? Hasn't he the courage to stand for or against anything? Doesn't it look like these promoters of Mr. Popwell are trying to get him elected to the office without committing himself to any vital principles with which he will have to deal, so that his official acts will have no promises to conform to?

Here is the reason the officials of the Town of Clanton are so mindful of the interests of Mr. Popwell's candidacy: He is their candidate, body and soul. These officials, and a few other busy-bodies who are not officials are managing this affair for Mr. Popwell. They are laying all the schemes to get him elected, so afterwards they will have somebody in the Probate's office to listen to their schemes and diabolical plans to throttle the whole county and dominate it to the interest of the chosen few, as has been done in the past.

Is Mr. Popwell the candidate of the Town of Clanton for Probate Judge of Chilton county? Will these gentlemen, the officials of the Town, come out and certify that he is their candidate, and openly endorse him? Will Mr. Popwell go over this county and carry their endorsement to the people, accept the approval they give him, and appeal to the people on their policies?

But just a few more words to the Town Council.

Why were not your platform promises carried out after you were elected? Did you not promise the people detailed information regarding the Town's affairs? Then why didn't you come across?

We said last week that if our information, and the current knowledge of the town's business affairs were not correct, we would, through the paper, give you space to make an official statement that is correct. Why don't you come out and do this? Then all this quibbling would be done with.

The editor of the Banner feels like the people of the county, as a whole, will compliment us for this condemnation at the hands of the Clanton crowd. We are glad to let the people know that they are against us.

And we want to impress them deeply with the fact that Mr. Popwell is in with this crowd; they are behind his candidacy from start to finish. They are the agencies which led him off into the distressing way he has gone, and caused him to forsake his former friends in the country, to the fattening of the Clanton aristocrats.

Examine the names signed to the above letter, and see how you would like to have a Probate Judge associate with those, and a few others prominent around Clanton. How would you take to a scheme to get a Probate Judge of the same stripe and ilk of the officials of the Town of Clanton? How do you like the scheme of the Town Council having its own candidate for Probate Judge of the county, and expecting the people of the county to rise up and endorse him, just because he looks good to them?

Well, have these fellows got a candidate under such conditions as the above? Don't it look so from the way they are sheltering and hovering around Mr. Popwell?

Speak about honor, dignity and truth!

Mr. Pinckard, how about the time you were so diligently hanging around Montgomery, trying to get those bills passed in the legislature, taking from the people of the county their rights of voting for their county officers? You did that, didn't you?

Now look at yourself, how you change and dodge here and yonder. Read the 5th plank in your conglomerated platform that the exalted and high-ful-lutin Pounds hatched out for you all on July 15th, to which your name is the first attached:

"We have full and complete confidence of the people, when left to themselves, finally to settle all questions of government in that way which will redound to the greatest good to the greatest number."

How such a change in your opinion of the people of the county? When you sought to have those bills passed it seems that you did not think the people capable of self government. Can you explain?

Then speak about truth, honor, integrity, yea, and the good name of the Town, and the welfare of the citizenship of the county! How profoundly sincere you must undoubtedly be!

That speech of John Wallace's at Maplesville last Friday was too absurd to command the notice of any good citizen. We would refrain from any mention of it all, but we want to bring one act of Mr. Popwell to notice in connection with it. It is to his credit that when Mr. Wallace was in such a big way about his old negro rot, Popwell stole down from the stage and sneaked away. We want to commend him for this act. It shows that he must see the utter absurdity of what was said, and the falseness of the impressions attempted.

Think for a minute and see if you can detect any similarity between the management of the affairs of the Town of Clanton during the past few years, and the management of the affairs of the county. Look around and see if you can find any connection between the present candidacy of Mr. Popwell and the officials of Clanton. The whole thing is a web woven so closely, that you can't tell which one is the other.

Johnstown (Pa.) Leader—Imports from Canada increased $40,000,000 in 1914 over 1913 and we lost $71,000,000 in exports. Underwood was worth $111,000,000 to Canada. For 1915 the difference was $155,000,000.

Miss Minnie Muse is in St Louis buying her fall line of millinery and ladies ready to wear.

A CONVINCING LESSON

The terrible war which is raging abroad at present is not without its lesson. America sees how prosperous we can be with a Protection policy not of our own making, but brought about by conditions that prevent competition from overseas. Labor is fully employed in certain industries, and in those industries wages were never higher than they are today, due to the fact that conditions that exist have built a wall abroad that to some extent limits the exportation of competitive merchandise, and which is equivalent to our building a wall on this side of the Atlantic which would restrict the importation of the products of foreign labor. As a matter of fact the war is proving to be a convincing object lesson of the need and value of Protection for American labor and industry—American Economist.

Yes, the factories are running, but in the hum of a great many of them you can hear the booming of the cannon on European battlefields and the groans of the dying. Hang such prosperity as that.—American Economist.

Opinions of the People.

Jemison, Ala., Sept. 1, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I was in Clanton Saturday and heard the crowds talk politics. Once in a while you will hear a fellow say "I am for Popwell," but they are mighty scarce in the country. Some few Democrats in town talk right up for him. In this part of the country there is not a single Republican for him. In his part of the country him and mighty few Democrats.

I heard so much said about the speaking at Maplesville, I must say a few words about it. They say that Judge McCord made a nice speech but very short. But he said nothing to hurt any ones feelings, in fact they say he hardly mentioned politics, but my what Mr. Wallace did was a plenty. He went back to fifty years ago and told of the black man's heel on the white man's neck, and said if the Republicans were successful in this campaign that negroes would be going to church with white people and would marry white girls. Such rot as this is enough to make anyone sick, nobody believes any such, and we all know that President Wilson when he first got in office said that he was going to appoint as many negroes to office as the Republicans had, and we all know that he has kept his word. Even the Judge to try white people in the District of Columbia is a negro appointed by Wilson.

The most laughable thing about the speaking was Mr. Popwell was on the stage right by the side of Mr. Wallace when he was speaking and they say when Wallace was bearing down on the negro question Mr. Popwell would squirm and twist, and finally it got so hot he had to leave, so he slipped out. Oh, what a tangle web we weave when first we deceive."

It looks pitiful to see Mr. Popwell trying to lectioneer with Republicans and tell them he is still a Republican and going to vote a Republican ticket this time, but he is always at Democratic meetings, cheering Democratic speakers when they are giving the state Republicans fits, and when Republicans come to this county to speak he is always absent. Even the Chairman of the State Republican Committee spoke at Clanton and Mr. Popwell did not even go up in the courthouse to hear him speak, but was out on the streets hobnobing with the Democrats, and the most bitter crowd of them. It is hard for a man to ride two horses at once, about the only place we ever see this feat pulled off is at shows.

I see it is hard for the Democrats to give it up about how much money there was in the County Treasury when Judge Reynolds turned the office over to the Democrats. Well there will never be any question as to how much there was in the treasury when Judge Deason turned it over to the people. We mayworry about how much we owe, but never over the money in the treasury for there is not any, and it seems we owe something like $300,000.00 and still going. It looks hard to for the people to have to pay this debt and get no benefit from it. I do not believe we will ever receive 10 per cent. of the money that has been spent. Now we will have to work our own roads and pay a big tax for a few automobile people and most of them out of the state.

Mr. R. J. Williams in his letter seemed to think he had done what a large majority of the people wanted. He did not please any body up here, and if Judge Reynolds was going to please him we would be against Reynolds. I suppose Mr. Popwell will do as Mr. Williams did, as Mr. Williams is for him and he says he is alright.

May the good Lord pity us if we are to have six more years of such as we have had for the last six.

I see the Press says Mr. Popwell has been very liberal in giving to schools in Clanton. I guess it was for the high school and for the Clanton crowd, and the rich man's boy They tell me he was a strong advocate for the commissioners to take $5,000 of our money to build a $20,000 school house for the rich man's child in Clanton, and yet the Jemison people offered to build the high school and not take one cent out f the cunty treasury, but Mr. R. J. Williams and Judge Deason said the Clanton crowd must have it, so out she went busted or not.

We want some speaking up here. We want to hear Judge Reynolds and Mr. Popwell tell us what they stand for. We want them to come up some night and make us a talk. We are afraid of anybody we do not know where they stand. We got fooled six years ago.

If Mr. John Wallace does come back to this county to speak we want one speech from him up here, we would prefer a joint discussion, but if we cannot get this we want him any way. We want as many people as can to hear him howl negro. I would like to know how Mr. Popwell felt when Mr. Wallace was saying negros were as good as Republicans, and Mr. Popwell still claims to be a Republican?

Respectfully,
C. L. LANGSTON.

Mr. W. L. Popwell says he is still a Republican and going to vote a Republican ticket this time, but somehow he has got himself in a mighty mixture. When Republicans are speaking he is always absent. We had the State Chairman, Mr. Pope M. Long, with us a few days ago and Mr. Popwell was in town at the very time Mr. Long was speaking, and he made one of the best speeches that has ever been delivered in this court house, and yet Mr. Popwell did not go about the place while he was speaking, but was out in town in close confabs with democrats, and the people's worst enemies, among the Democrats for the most conservative Democrats are having nothing to do with this campaign, in fact many of them will tell you that they don't endorse the methods being used by them.

Mr. Popwell ran for office six years ago and was elected by the people, but he did not have to sit and hear some fellow like Mr. John Wallace call the Republicans negro lovers and say that Republicans were no better than negroes. He was running with his own folks then. He had not moved to town, and his environments were not so bad, he had not been associated so closely with Democrats.

We hardly think any one will be fooled by any such tricks. The people are too well informed. They know who they are fooling with and they will not be fooled this time.

What has got the Town Council so stirred up all at once? Must be that the Municipal election is approaching.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 4, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I ask permission to have just a few lines published in your paper.

I see the Democrats are trying to fool the people like they did six years ago. They came to me and others and told us to vote for them and that they would treat us right. I did vote the Democratic ticket, and oh, how I have regretted it. And I promise here and now that if I keep my right mind never to vote another one.

Voters just think what we have had done for us by having a few Democrats in office. If we had known what Judge Deason stood for he never would have gotten half the votes he did. And this shows how dangerous it is to vote for men for officers when we do not know where they stand. Who knows where Mr. Popwell stands on any question? We do know he was about the first one to advocate bonds. He started the movement that has enslaved us in debt, and our children will be paying debts he has helped to make after we are dead and gone. Look at our roads we down here can hardly get to town, and yet we have to pay a heavy tax on roads and work our own road. We will have to help pay the $300,000 the county owes but never get one penny for it. We are in such a fix that the county cannot help us on our roads, and whatever is done to them we will have it to do our selves. We are going to pay mighty dear for Birmingham and Montgomery people to have a good road to run their automobiles on.

Mr. R. J. Williams says he did what nine-tenths of the people wanted, Now I am sure he does not believe this. And he knows he did what nearly all the people wanted him not to do. He knows more than this, that hewas bought out by building him a road by his place.

A few nice speeches and sweet words and abusing our people will not get votes any more in this county. We are not to be fooled in this way. There may be a few around Clanton that are bootlicks for the Democrats that will help to elect their crowd, but no more in the country. All this mud slinging is only making the people stronger, and every time the mud-slinging crowd jumps on Judge Reynolds it only makes him stronger with the people. They know what the few bosses hate him for. They know when such men as Pinckard and a few more were down in Montgomery trying to take our liberties from us that he too was there trying to save our liberties. Yes we all know that Judge Reynolds has always stood for the common people, and that if he had been Probate Judge for the last few years there would not now be any slavery.

Who was it that put Mr. Popwell out? Who is supporting him, what paper is fighting his battles? Where are the men that have busted this county in this fight? All for Popwell. How is it that they are for him? Because they know he is for them.

J. H. HAYES.

THE WHOLE RECORD

Leaf by leaf the Republican candidate for the Presidency is turning the pages of the record made by the Wilson administration—and is shredding them. Before Mr. Hughe's present trip is ended he will have taken up the whole wretched story of the years of Democratic rule and will have exposed the hopeless and help less inefficiency of the great sham which is hiding behind the flimsy screen labelled "He kept us out of war."

This we count as the first page of the Hughes campaign. Honest criticism, buttressed by incontrovertible evidence—such as that produced in the Durand case—will pave the way for a second phase, which will involve a comparison of this faltering record with that made by the Republican party made during the years when it was entrusted with responsibility and power in national affairs.

The road will then be clear for the third, conclusive and convincing chap in the record—the exposition of the Republican platform of 1916 and the demonstration of Mr. Hughe's belief in the fidelity to that document's declarations.

Thus, the campaign of 1916 will be fought—and won—by Hughes on the whole record, the record of himself and of his opponent, the record of his party and his oponent's.

BOARDERS WANTED

Wanted table boarders at $3.50 a week; excellent table aways; can also accomodate a few roomers; meals any day.
tf. MRS. ADDIE G. ROBINSON.

Colds

should be "nipped in the bud", for if allowed to run unchecked, serious results may follow. Numerous cases of consumption, pneumonia, and other fatal diseases, can be traced back to a cold. At the first sign of a cold, protect yourself by thoroughly cleansing your system with a few doses of the old reliable, vegetable liver powder.

THEDFORD'S
BLACK-DRAUGHT

Mr. Chas. A. Ragland, of Madison Heights, Va., says: "I have been using Thedford's Black-Draught for stomach troubles, indigestion, and colds, and find it to be the very best medicine I ever used. It makes an old man feel like a young one."

Insist on Thedford's, the original and genuine. E-67

We sell the Goods

BECAUSE

We always have them right here to sell.

ALL THE TIME WE ARE ADDING NEW GOODS TO OUR LINE. ONLY RECENTLY WE RECEIVED A LARGE SHIPMENT OF LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS—THINGS THAT EVERY PERSON NEEDS FOR SUMMER-TIME WEARING

The Late Summer

From now till the opening of the Fall and Winter Season there will be many Little Items you will need in Wearing Apparel.

You will not want to make a Big Purchase possibly—Only a Little Item or two now and then to make out on till you get ready to lay in your Supply of Winter Goods.

To both Men and Women, Boys and Girls, we want to say that we can give you want for such Odds and Ends. And our Stock is not just merely Cast off Stuff either.

Everything is Brand-New and Up-to-Date.

Fall and Winter

The opening of the Fall and Winter Trading Season is going to find us "Prepared" to fill the many needs of our Every Customer.

We have already Calculated the needs of our Customers, and we have the Goods coming to supply your various Needs of Such.

In our buying we have spared no effort and means in getting the things you need, and we want you to remember this on the day you come down to look out for the things you intend to buy for the Autumn Season.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store."

NO MEDICINE LIKE "FERRALINE," SAYS MRS. COLEMAN

In Bed Five Months From Ulcerated Condition of Stomach Due to Poor Digestion and Weakness.

"I never expected to get up from my bed," was the remark of Mrs. Leathia Coleman of Salitpa, Ala., Clarke county, "and to think that I am well and can enjoy life again. It's great.

"The first bottle of 'Ferraline' did me so much good that I was abled to set up. I did not take but three bottles and I have not felt that I needed any 'Ferraline' now in several weeks.

"The first bottle I received from the company, at Frankville, as at that time I could not buy it here in Salitpa being not a large town, the merchants had not secured the agency for 'Ferraline.'

"To secure the second bottle I did not wait until I could get it from the company. I sent my son 10 miles for it. Since then I have been able to buy the third bottle from May & McCorquodale, who have taken the 'Ferraline' agency for Salitpa.

"I could tell you of many in this locality who have taken 'Ferraline' and the good it is doing in releiving those who suffer from indigestion can't be estimated.

"From the manner in which I suffered, I am convinced that a person with indigestion will be liable to many different ailments due to poor digestion. If your stomach will properly digest the food I do not see how there can be any sickness. What you eat is the source of life, this doen not digest, complications arise, and there develops fermentation, inflamation, etc. The system becomes clogged, the blood is poisoned, the vital organs of the body do not permform their duty, and then your body becomes the prey to the first disease affecting the weakest point, such as typhoid, malaria, and other fevers. Rheumatism and other blood afflictions take hold, and in truth you do not know what is the trouble.

"If everyone would take a bottle of 'Ferraline Tonic,' even if they did not think they needed any tonic, they would see how much better they would be. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

" 'Ferraline Tonic' aids digestion, giver rich blood to the body and aids the organs in throwing off surplus matter or waste, as does no other remedy I have ever known.

but from the formula on the package shows that the ingredients are benificial and not a single one injurious. I could take a teaspoonful or more in water every fifteen minutes if it were necessary without any fear of injury. Of course this would not be necessary except in extreme cases such as cramp colic or acute indigestion and the like. I took 'Ferraline' as directed after meals, or three times a day as a tonic and as often as I would feel like the need of it when the occasion demanded."

For sale in Clanton by Alred Drug Co., in Jemison by Shaw Drug Co., and in Randolph by C. W. Brand.

EVERY DRUGGIST CARRIES A FULL STOCK OF S.S.S.

You'll Recognize S.S.S. Cartons

On the shelves of your druggist by the absence of any showy designing—more so will you recognize why S. S. S. is the Standard Blood Purifier after giving it an opportunity to rebuild and strengthen your 'run down' blood with its wonderful tonic qualities.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.
ATLANTA, GA.

EVERY BOTTLE OF S.S.S.

THERE IS HEALTH FOR YOUR BLOOD

LEGAL NOTICE

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 1, 1916.
Hon. H. A. Harris, Sheriff of Chilton County, Clanton, Ala.
Dear sir:

No U. S. Internal Revenue license have been issued to your county in August 1916.

I hereby certify that I have carefully examined the record of the Collector of Internal Revenue and the above is complete and correct.

Yours very truly,
SAM P. JONES.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this first day of Sept. 1916.
J. B. MOSLEY,
Notary Public.

Newton Miner of Birminghtm spent Sunday and Monday in Clanton.

A comparison between the records of President Wilson and Governor Hughes is not to the credit of Mr. Wilson in the eyes of organized labor. It is immensely to the credit if Governor Hughes.

President Wilson has never shown solicitude for the laboring men's welfare—his efforts to settle the railroad embrogile was the first time the President manifested the slightest interest in labor's affairs, and that interest was not due to any love for labor but to the spur of public opinion which demanded there should be no strike.

The dispute had been brewing many months but the President waited until a little more than sixty days before the National election to summon the brotherhood chiefs and the railroad heads to Washington.

Perhaps there was a "psychological" reason for that, if not the reason of political advantage.

Labor unions are justified in looking askance at the President in view of his spoken and written utterances regarding labor.

In Mr. Wilson's "History of the American People" he says: "The Chinese were more to be desired as workmen, if not as citizens, than most of the coarse crew that came crowding in every year at the Eastern ports."

The "coarse crew" the President described as "crowding in" included the millions of foreign-born persons of every nationality who are now loyal citizens of the United States.

In the same book the President said: "And now there came multitudes of men of the lowest class from the south of Italy, and men of meaner sort out of Hungary and Poland, men out of the ranks where there was neither skill nor energy nor any initative of quick intelligence."

What do American citizens of German, Italian, Hungarian, Polish, or any other European ancestory think of that?

On June 3, 1909, in an address to the graduating class of Princton University, Dr. Wilson expressed his remarkable views on labor in the following words: "You know what the usual standard of the employee is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages."

At a dinner in the Warldof Hotel in New York, March 18, 1907, Dr. Wood row Wilson spoke as follows: "We speak too exclusively of the capitalistic class. There is another as formidable an enemy to equality and freedom of oportunity as it is, and that is the class formed by the labor organizations and leaders of the country."

Contrast the labor record of President Wilson with the labor record of Governor Hughes.

Governor Hughes has never written or spoken a single word inimical to labor. On the contrary he was the greatest friend of labor that ever occupied the Governor's chair at Albany. Legislative records at Albany show that during his two terms as governor of New York he sigened 56 labor laws.

In New York State, during 132 years, only 162 labor laws were passed. One-third of these were signed during Hughes' two terms as Governor.

With these records known it will be easy for organized labor to select its candidate in the November election.

Mr. Bryan's rejoinder to Mr. Hughe's criticisms of the looting of the diplomatic service is in the nature of two words for himself to one for Wilson—for it was Mr. Bryan who discovered, (or is it invented?) the "deserving Democrat." Yet Wilson stood for it and Wilson, in the last analysis, is the responsible culprit.

Kiln Dried Lumber

Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Dressed 1x12 Board, Window and Door Casing; also Heart 1x12 and 2x4 for Well Curbing... If you want any of the Above, bring your team with you, as You can Always Count on Getting it. If any Lumber is wanted that we do not Carry in Stock, We will get it for you.

E. V. Speer Lumber Co.

MARBURY, ALA.

Get All You Can

FOR YOUR TIME AND MONEY. THAT IS GOOD COMMON CHRISTIAN SENSE.

STUDENTS OF THORSBY INSTITUTE HAVE SOMETIMES SAID, "I CAN GET

Twice As Much

HERE AS IN ANY OTHER SCHOOL I HAVE EVER ATTENDED." PERHAPS YOU COULD TOO. IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO KNOW HOW, WRITE TO US AND WE WILL EXPLAIN (NO TRIFLERS ARE WANTED).

Thorsby Institute

S. H. HERBERT, Principal

Thorsby, Ala,

ELEVENTH YEAR BEGINS SEPTEMBER 12, 1916.

ENTERPRISE BEAT 6

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the political situation in Chilton county.

It seems like all some can talk about is "Ring Rule" and just anything to beat Reynolds. Well that is one thime their sweet mixture has told the truth. There is no question but what they would do any thing just to beat Reynolds from the tacties they are trying to use. They harp about what Popwell has done. Lets see what Mr. Popwell has done. First, isn't it a fact that Mr. Popwell has helped to take $5,000 out of the county Treasury to build a $20,000 school for Clanton children to attend, while the poor man's child that will have this to pay is sending his children to school in very poor houses with no accomodations at all, while the state pays about $30.00 for each child that goes to the high school at Clanton, and the country child gets about $2.85?

Isn't it a fact that Mr. Popwell has helped to create a debt for this county of about $250,000 for a speed way for the rich man to run his car on, while the poor man gets along as best he can through mud holes and sand beds, and can't even get the necessary culverts to fix the worst places in his road?

They say Mr. Popwell has given $400.00 for the Clanton high schools. Tell us please how much he has given to the rural schools. He is a wealthy man you know.

Now, Mr. Popwell, you say you will just take $150.00 per month for your services should you be elected, and will give the rest to the schools. Tell us please what schools you will give it to. The Clanton schools, or will you divide it with some of your neighbors in Beat 6 who are so oppressed that they can't send their children to school?

Now in conclusion we would like to know what brought about that great love feast of all parties. It has been charged that if it were possible for Mr. Popwell to be elected their could be impeachment proceedings brought against him and the office declared vacant, then the Governor would appoint some one. Don't you reckon there has been some secret deal whereby there would be a socialist appointed?

A CHILTON CRACKER.

Leon Kemp and Dewey Smith went to Birmingham Tuesday to represent Clanton at the Merchants convention.

GIRLS CLUB WORK

It is with pleasure that we announce to the girls and boys of the club work in Chilton county that the Fair Association has very generously given us Thursday, Nov. 2, as club day. Every member of canning, pig and corn club is expected to be present that day and take part in the exercises, and help make the day a success.

The clubs will have a special tent for their exhibits, and we hope everybody, girl and home demonstration members, will send some product to show what you have accomplished. Without your co-operation the day can not be the success that the members desire it should be.

Despite the unfavorable season many of you have wrought well, are equipped with the knowledge that will enable you to bring your products up to standard another year.

Let every canning club in the county work now for new members. Invite them to be with you on club day and see just a little of what you accomplished this year.

The winter garden bulletins have been sent out. Read them carefully.

Girls how about that lettuce bed? Are you preparing to plant a large one? Remember the large quantity shipped into our near by cities each year by farmers out side of the state.

You girls that sold your tomatoes by the crate, on the market, know what you can do. Tell the other members about it. Help to build up your community and country by co-operating with the members and growing the winter vegetables. The cold frames if necessary can be made easily and cheaply.

Boys you could plant some of those vegetables and help that school fund. The girls haven't cornered on the winter garden business by any means, there is room in the market for both of you. So get busy and let me hear from you if you want one of the bulletins.

NOTICE

There will be a working at Corinth cemetery on Sept, 21, 1916. All who are interested in the cemetery will please come on that day and bring something to work with.

W. B. JONES.

Judge Reynolds attended the Merchants convention at Birmingham the first part of this week.

Maj. S. J. Andress of the Soldiers Home was in Clanton a few days this week.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

Get The Habit

Not When, But Where the Best Place in Clanton to EAT Goodgame Cafe

And Quick Lunch

Our Delightful SOFT DRINKS are Unsurpassed

W. H. GOOEGAME, Proprietor,

Next Door to Clanton Press.

THORSBY INSTITUTE OPENS SEPT.12TH

The opening Chapel Exercises for the eleventh year of Thorsby Institute will be held Tuesday morning, Sept, 12, 1916 at 10 o'clock. The public and especially the parents of the pupils, are cordially invited to be present at this time. There will be some brief speeechs outlining the plans for the year's work, and some good music and other things worth while. There are some things that the Faculty are especially desirous to bring before the people of Thorsby and the surrounding country at this time, so they are very desirous that as many as possible be present at this time.

From present indications the enrollment at the Institute this year will be much larger than in previous years, especially in the Boarding Department. A number of boarding students are already on the grounds helping to make needed preparations for the opening of school. The waterworks plant is being thoroughly overhauled and a new tank installed, some changes are being made in the Girl's Dormitory, and a residence has been rented to provide additional dormitory room.

Any young man or woman who has not yet made arangements for schooling for this year will do well to write to Thorsby Institute, as it is not too late yet to make arrangements to enter at the opening of school.

IN MEMORY

On the morning of the 25th of August, as the sun was making attempt to rise to kiss the dews of the morning, the grim Master claimed for his own Bro. U. J. Vinson, and wafted his soul into realms of glory.

Bro. Vinson had been sick for 25 days with typhoid fever. He was 31 years of age. He was a true christian, a kind father, a loving husband. He bore his suffering with patience until the master said unto him "It is finished, come go with me to the glory land."

Bro. Vinson leaves behind a wife and four children, a father and mother, three brothers and one sister, and a host of friends to mourn his departure. But in this sad hour we can say to them weep not for him for he has gone to rest, and some day when you have crossed the rolling Jordan and have reached the sunny clime on the other side, then you shall clasp this dear one's hand and live with him for ever more.

His remains were laid to rest at Bethsalem cemetery, Rev. M. J. Parrish conducting funeral services.

Wouldn't Take $500 For the Good Obtained.

"I tell you frankly, I wouldn't take Five hundred dollars for the good Tanlac did me, and I am telling others about it every day," said T. M. Ragan, who lives at 311 North Pearl Street, Birmingham. Mr. Ragan has been a molder practically all of his life and is well known throughout the Birmingham district.

"I was in a dreadfully run down condition and for three years I suffered from a pain in my right side," continued Mr. Ragan, " and the doctors told me it came from my kidneys and that I had gallstones. This trouble caused me a great deal of worry and at times I was in no condition to work at all.

"I saw the endorsement for Tanlac in the papers, bought a bottle and begn aking it. It seemed t do me good right away. I have taken seven bottles altogether and haven't had any pain in my side in over sisty days. I now feel good all the time and am at work every day. I can say that Tanlac is a mighty good medicine. I wouldn't take anything in the world for the good those seven bottles have done me, and I am glad to speak a good word for it any time. I hope this statement will cause others who are suffering to try Tanlac, for I feel sure if they will they will be benifitted."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton by Upchurch Drug Co. in Mt. Creek by J. E. Dean, in Jemison by Langston Drug Co. in Thorsby by A. K. Horn, & Son, in Cooper by McSwain Mer. Co, in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co, in Stanton by W. C. Dyer, in Riderville by E. E. Jackson Lumber Co, in Marbury by Plateon Drug Co, and in Vervena by Gulledge Bros.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

Cured Malaria While He Read His Paper

Mr. J. Height of Wetumpka, Had an Easy Time

Mr. Height is highly pleased with the pleasant way in which he cured himself, and writes: "For malarial headache, I took a teaspoonful of Granger Liver Regulator for three consecutive nights. I used it after supper, taking a pinch at a time while I read my paper, and this entirely relieved my trouble." Granger Liver Regulator is made of vegetable matter strictly, free of injurious chemicals and alcohol, and is kept pure and fresh in the familiar tin box. The best system purifier known. Your druggist has it.

TAX NOTICE

Collector's and Assessor's Round

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes for Chilton County for the year 1916, and assessing taxes for the year 1917.

Minooka	Beat 13, Oct. 2
Jemison	Beat 2, Oct. 3
Thorsby	Beat 9, Oct. 4
Mt. Creek	Beat 5, Oct. 6
Coopers	Beat 10, Oct. 6
Eenterprise	Beat 6, Oct 7
Pletcher	Beat 15, Oct. 9
Riderville	Beat 8, Oct. 10
Maplesville	Beat 7, Oct 11
Macedonia	Beat 14, Oct 12
Robinson's Store	Beat 12, Oct. 13
Mullins Acadamy	Beat 1, Oct. 14
Verbena	Beat 5, Oct 16
Evergreen	Beat 10, Oct. 17
Kincheon	Beat 6, Oct. 18
Culp Schoolhouse	Beat 15, Oct 19
Shoults	Beat 7, Oct 20
Stanton	Beat 8, Oct 21
Benson	Beat 3, Oct 23
Concord	Beat 13, Oct. 24
Mars Hill	Beat 2, Oct 25
Mineral Springs	Beat 12, Oct. 26
Cane Creek	Beat 11, Oct 27
Providence	Beat 16, Oct. 28
Clanton	Beat 4, Nov. 6 to 11

Take notice that under Section Number 34, of the Revenue Code of 1915, it is the duty of every person liable to taxation in each election precinct, to attend in person on the first day of the apointment in your precinct, and then and there render to the Assessor a full and complete list of all the property, of which he or she was owner on the 1 day of October of that year.

All taxes and assesments are delinquent after December the 31st, 1916.

J. D. COLLINS, Tax Collector.
J. N. DENNIS, Tax Assessor.

FARM HOMES

In good community with excellent schools, good roads and productive soil, is what we are offering you. We own farms in Autauga, Chilton, Clay, Coosa, Randolph and Tallapoosa counties. Tell us what you want, we can help you. Before you buy sell or exchange, see or write

THE MARBURY LUMBER CO.
Marbury, Ala.

MRS. JOHN ROBINSON DEAD

The wife of Mr. John Robinson died Sunday at the family home near Providence in Beat 16. The remains were laid to rest in Providence cemetery Monday.

Prof. Owens, assistant in the county high school, arrived in Clanton last week.

Jean Wyatt of the Union-Banner force has gone to Howard College to take a course in Journalism.

What Mothers Say

The experience of those who have used "Mother's Friend" should merit expectant mothers' consideration at this time.

Mother's Friend

"Was the means of banishing morning sickness and nauseating conditions before confinement."

Mrs. ———.

Mother's Friend

"Proved its great value during delivery by the absence of the severe pains occasioned by such an event."

Mrs. ———.

Mother's Friend

"Being an external remedy is of the greatest assistance in preparing the system for such a change." Mrs. ———.

Your druggist sells it. Write for free and interesting book on Motherhood.

The Bradfield Regulator Co.
208 Lamar Bldg. Atlanta, Ga.

UNION GROVE

The health of this community is very good at present.

Almost all of the people are ready to pick cotton up here this week.

We had preaching here Sunday and had a large crowd,d an all seemed to have a nice time.

Mr. G. W. Murrah and wife spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. J. M. Robinson.

Miss Olive Robinson left her home Sunday afternoon to spend a few days in Siluria.

Miss Johnny Burnett visited Miss Elma Beasley Saturday night and Sunday. They were motored to Six Mile Monday morning and returned home about 5 P. M.

Mr. J. M. Beasley and wife went on a business trip to Centerville Monday.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

WILSON TO LOSE 45 ELECTORIAL VOTES

Washington, Sept. 5.—"It is as certain that New York State will go Republican this fall as it is that Woodrow Wilson will change his mind the next time he changes his shirt," declares George R. Peck, retired editor and political writer of Auburn N. Y.

"The treatment which Tammany has received at the hands of President Wilson has estranged that organization beyond hope of reconciliation. The business men are disgusted with Mr. Wilson's high-minded tactics; the farmers appreciate what competition with Canada means because of a tariff law which put all their products on the free list, and they complain bitterly of the demoralization of the rural free delivery service; and what Mr. Wilson is pleased to call 'the man in the street' believes the President to be a poor, deluded victim of his own rhetoric, or, as Gladston would have put it, 'intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity'. We call him 'Wordrow' Wilson.

"Martin Glynn, our former Democratic Governor, wanted to come to the Senate. He worked his head off preparing the keynote speech for the St. Louis convention in which he endowed Wilson with spotless wings and capped him with a celestial crown. Does he get the presidential support for the United States Senate? Not so it is visible to the naked eye! But Wilson is supporting Westcott, of New Jersey, who is trying to trim Martine for the Democratic senatorial nomination, and Westcott's arduous duty at St. Louis consisted of nominating the Great Vacillator for a second term. I don't believe Martin would kiss Mr. Wilson now.

"I understand that Representative Fitzgerald, our sole and only committee chairman from the North, wanted his district leader appointed U. S. Marshall, and he went to the White House to ask it of the President. Mr. Wilson declared that under no condition whatsoever would he appoint a district leader to such a position. Later on he did appoint three district leaders of New York as U. S. Marshalls. Fitzy's man thought he had been trifled with, and began to strop his razor for Fitzgerald. For a time it looked as if John wasn't going to have a look in for re-election, but he has proved to the satisfaction of his henchman that he did all he could to bring his appointment about, and now the carving will be done on the political anatomy of 'Wordrow.'

Senator O'Gorman is hot under the collar because Congress is going to double the income tax law. He believes that New York State has been taxed about enough, and considering that my State paid $68,000,000 of the $209,000,000 collected from the war tax, corporations and income taxes, I quite agree with him. We do not relish the idea of being taxed to build southern roads, having constructed all our own, nor do we like to contribute several millions of dollars or so for the reclamation of land in Mississippi and Louisiana, as provided for in the 'flood control' bill, and dig up a few million as our share for a $20,000,000 Government-owned nitrate plant to be located in Tennessee. Judge O'Gorman may return to the bench, but Mr. Wilson will never be able to utilize him as a pinch-hitter.

"While in New Yo rkCity I asked several Tammany leaders if they would support Wilson. 'Oh, we will be regular,' they replied. On questioning them further I found that their notion of being 'regular' is to sit down and take it easy on election day, and not disturb 'the boys.' Upstate is rampant Republican.

"Yes, Republicans can depend upon New York. We want a man, not a shivering procrastinator at the head of affairs."

MT. PLEASANT

There will be a play given at Mt. Pleasant school house, on the third Saturday night in September. Title of the play is "Out in the street." Cast of characters will be published next week.

If there are any more of the kind of Mr. J. L. Dupree in this county, we wish to state for their benefit, that they can send their letters to the Press for publication. We have no space for such in the Banner.

Mr. Dupree says he don't want to pay for a paper that abuses him. That is one thing we agree with him on. We had decided that he don't want to pay us for the paper, since a glance at his account on our subscription book shows him to be a little over a year behind. But we are delighted to stop his paper. We don't want to annoy him further.

It becomes increasingly evident that the tariff commission which the new Democratic revenue bill establishes and which Democratic boosters are hailing a great exploit, is merely a campaign dodge. The Senate caucus, on the Democratic side, refused to sanction adequate salaries for the members of the commission; and the board is expressly forbidden to make arrangements for office quarters for more than two years. In other words, the Democratic tariff commission is only a temporary makeshift, designed to furnish a theme for campaign oratory this year. In fact, it is not a tariff commission at all. It is a mere temporary shelter for some "deserving Democrats," who will be given the office and who will draw the pay for the two years allowed, but who will do nothing to aid either Congress or the country to determine a proper course to be pursued in framing tariff schedules.

"Is Popwell worthy of the votes of the Republicans of Chilton county?"

The above question is asked by Mr. J. L. Dupree last week in the Press. And we are pleased to answer that Mr. Popwell is NOT worthy of the votes of Republicans; and further we want to show wherein he is not.

First and foremost he is not worthy of the votes of Republicans, because he is not the nominee of the Republican party. He was not nominated by the Republicans. Then he has no claim on their votes against the man who is and was the legal and lawful nominee.

Second, Mr. Popwel was nominated and is now affiliated with the very worst enemies that the Republican have in Chilton county. For this reason he is not worthy of the votes of Republicans.

Third, Mr. Popwell was one time honored by the people of this county —by the Republicans. He has now joined hands with the very enemies of the people who honored him, and his actions in that respect makes him a traitor to the Republicans, and unworthy of their votes and confidence.

BONDS IN TIME OF PEACE

"He kept us out of war." Yet the Democrats of the Senate, with the full approval of the Secretary of the Treasury—who happens to be also a son-in-law of the man who "kept us out of war"—propose a bond issue of $130,000,000 to meet the expenses incident to the mobilization of the National Guard and to pay the cost of keeping them there until January 1, 1917.

Nobody outside of Heaven and the White House knows why the Guardsmen were ever sent to the border in the first place or why they are to be kept there—and thus far no information has been forthcoming from either place. There is more than a suspicion that the mobilization was ordered for some obscure political purpose not entirely disconnected with the Wilson campaign for re-election. whatever the motive, the bill of expense runs to a pretty good figure. To meet it, the country is to be saddled with a bond issue which will entail not only the payment of their face value, but a long continued annual interest charge.

We are at peace. The White House tells us so. And Vance McCormick adds that it is the President who has "kept us out of war." Yet here we are issuing $130,000,000 in bonds.

The dilemma is interesting. Which horn will the appoligists for the administration take? If we are at peace, if we have really been "kept out of war," why are we to have $130,000,000 of bonds to pay for the upkeep of an army in the field?

If we are at war, what becomes of the chief slogan of the Democratic party?

The issuance of bonds in time of peace is no novelty when a Democrat sits in the White House. Cleveland did it—and for sixteen years he was referred to as "the last Democratic President." Wilson will do it—and he will succeed to Cleveland's title for an even longer period.

OPENING OF CITY SCHOOL

Next Monday morning at 9 o'clock the city school will open its doors wide for the reception of pupils. All parents who are interested in the education of children are earnestly requested to be present with their children. Do not forget the true quotation, "If the child is benefited the state is benefited, if the child is injured the state is injured."

We assure you in advance that the teachers will do every thing in their power for the upbuilding of the cause of education in your city. Each teacher realized the fact, "As the twig is inclined so will the tree grow." Then, again, the foundation of any building is by far the most important factor.

Mr. Wiley Littlejohn will issue tickets for you. We are more than certain you will not delay purchasing your tickets.

Those who are interested in music, and every one should be, will have the privilege of taking lessons from Miss Della Latham of Montevallo.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

the following times and places, by

There will be public speakings at Hon. J. O. Middleton, Prof. J. W. Moore, Hon. L. H. Reynolds, and others, in the interest of the Republican party in Chilton County.

Poplar Springs, Thursday night, September 7.

Freeman Schoolhouse, Saturday night, September 9.

Cane Creek, Monday night, September 11.

Pate's Chapel, Wednesday night, September 13.

Smith Schoolhouse, Friday night, September 15.

All voters and citizens are requested to be present and hear a fair and square discussion of the political issues confronting the county in the present campaign.

H. A. HARRIS.
Chairman Republican County Campaign Committee, Clanton, Ala.

PROVIDENCE BEAT 13

The health of this community is good at present.

The cotton picking in this section is going to be light this time.

Mr. J. T. Watkins and Miss Lethia Davenport were happily married Sunday morning at the home of Mr. Killingsworth, and went to Mr. Watkins for dinner. They had a bountiful wedding dinner.

There will be an all day singing at this place the fourth Sunday in Sept. Prof. Milstead will be with us. Every body come and bring your song books and well filled baskets.

Miss Minnie Muse and Mrs. Fannie Smitherman returned Sunday afternoon from Manton Colorado, where they have been since June. They report a delightful climate in the Rockies. Miss Muse stopped in St. Louis on her return, purchasing a beautiful line of millinery for her fall season, also ladies coats, suits and shirtwaists. She will be pleased to serve the ladies of Clanton and surrounding country at her same old stand.

Pleasant Grove W. M. U. four miles south west of Jemison will sell ice cream in the church grove on Saturday evening, Sept. 9, 1916. We have arranged a program for entertainment from 8 to 9 o'clock. Cream will be served after the entertainment. We entertain free but sell cream. Your co-opration will be appreciated.

Sam Powell, who lives on the west side of town, has a case of typhoid fever.

PROVIDENCE, BEAT 16

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper for a few words.

I want to say that the people of Chilton county have been led by the Democrats long enough. They have built a road leading us back to the old negro folly, and are now trying to get us to follow it. But we are going to put in a switch, and have it built by November that will run their engine off the track. We want to see her go under and never rise again.

Let me say also that the people of Beat 16 are for Reynolds and the Republican ticket. Popwell and the Democrats will get their usual three votes in this Beat in November.

Yours truly,
A. J POWELL.

R. F. Bates, who lives at Lock 12, was in Clanton Tuesday.

B. M. Roberts of Myrtlewood, Marengo county, was in Clanton on Sunday and Monday.

We do not say, nor have ever said that all who are supporting Popwell are wilfully "agin the guvernment," and the best interests of the people of the county. There are possibly some who are for him believing that his cause is the best, but it is our opinion that they are wrong, although they may be conscientious. Those who are not wrong in the belief, conscientiously wrong, are wrong wilfully, allowing themselves to drift into associations that are against the best interests of the county. We believe that a man who is supporting Popwell could not be for the best interest of the county, although his attitude might be one of conscientious belief, or on the other hand doing what he knows to be against the best interests of the people, just in order to accomplish a personal greviance against an individual. There are those of both the above named classes in the support of Mr. Popwell.

The Cotton Market.

Cotton was selling at 15 1-2 cents on the Clanton local market Wednesday.

LUMBER

I have on hand at Clanton, and Jemison, several Thousand Feet of

Steam Kiln Dried

LONG LEAF YELLOW PINE FLOORING AND CEILING WILL SELL AT A BARGAIN

Come and see or write

Joe Van Derveer, Jr.,

CLANTON, ALA.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

CRUISER MEMPHIS DRIVEN ON ROCKS

Great And Sudden Ground Swell In The Harbor Of San Domingo Was Cause Of Wreck

TWENTY LIVES WERE LOST

The Memphis Is Of 14,500 Tons And Carries A Complement Of Nine Hundred And Ninety Men

San Domingo.—The United States armored cruiser Memphis was driven ashore on the rocks of the outer harbor by a great and sudden ground swell. Many lives were lost, as a result of the disaster. All fires under the boilers of the Memphis were extinguished by the inrush of water. The United States gunboat Castine managed to escape by putting to sea.

Twenty Lives Lost On Ship

Washington.—Rear Admiral Pond, at San Domingo, cabled the navy department that the armored cruiser Memphis, swept upon the rocks by a heavy sea in the harbor there, would be a total loss, and, although it was said that all on board would be saved, twenty men returning to the ship from shore leave in a motor boat, were drowned. The admiral's dispatch said:

Ship Total Loss

"Memphis driven ashore by heavy sea, San Domingo city, west of lighthouse, at 4:30 p. m. She is lying close under bluff; has lines ashore and is getting crew off. Heavy sea came up suddenly and ship was unable to get up steam in time to save herself. Twenty men of liberal party drowned on way back to ship. Castine (gunboat) dragged close in, but did not strike and got out to sea. No other casualties known. Memphis will be total loss. Expect to save everybody on board."

Ship Had Been Warned

Admiral Benson explained that the construction of the Memphis was such that she probably would withstand a great amount of pounding, allowing for rescue of those aboard. He said he was puzzled over how the accident occurred, since officers of the ship had been warned early of approach of a tropical storm.

Memphis a 14,500 Ton Ship

The United States cruiser Memphis formerly was the armored cruiser Tennessee. Her name was changed May 25 last. Recently she has been doing duty in San Domingo waters in connection with the revolution. The Memphis is of 14,500 tons and has a horsepower of 23,000. Her complement is 990 men. She is the flagship of the cruiser force of the United States Atlantic fleet.

ROBERT FAY MAKES ESCAPE FROM FEDERAL PENITENTIARY

With Cleverly Forged Passes, The Noted German Bomb Thrower Got By The Guard

Atlanta, Ga.—Robert Fay, German conspirator, sent to the United States penitentiary here for a term of eight years, following his conviction in New York on charges of conspiracy to destroy vessels and cargoes, together with William Knoblock of Baltimore, who was serving an 18-months' sentence for using the mails to defraud, escaped from the federal prison.

Attired in the blue overalls, the uniform of the prisoners, and with the aid of a cleverly-forged pass, the two men succeeded in passing two guards, one a prisoner-guard and the other a regular guard, and made a clear escape.

Fay had been in America six months at the time of his arrest and conviction in New York. He is a man of culture and had made numbers of friends at the prison.

528 Families Needy In Flood District

Charleston, W. Va.—Reports received at relief headquarters here show that 528 families with a total membership of 2,433, are destitute in the region devastated by the flood in Cabin Creek three weeks ago. These people live in twenty-one towns, where many houses were damaged and in some instances entirely destroyed. Groceries to the value of four thousand dollars have been distributed, but much more foodstuff is needed by destitute families.

Allies Advance On The Balkan Front

Paris.—The French are making progress toward the Ljumnica river and the Serbian army is advancing on Vetrenik, says a war office communication on operations in Macedonia. Strong Bulgarian attacks northwest of Lake Ostrovo were repulsed by the Serbians. The statement says: There is nothing new on the Struma line. There have been lively artillery actions around Lake Doiran and on the banks of the Vardar, where we destroyed the Marzenci aviation field west of Lake Doiran.

Wilson Approves Army-Navy Measure

Washington.—President Wilson has completed the administration preparedness legislative program by signing the army and navy appropriation bills. At the same time he signed the Philippine bill. The president also signed the uniform bill of lading bill. As he did so he was surrounded by the members of the senate and house committees and army and navy officers. Moving picture cameras recorded the event. After signing the measures the president spoke briefly.

Blease Leads In S. C. Governor's Race

Columbia, S. C.—Returns from the South Carolina Democratic primary, tabulated, show that Cole L. Blease, twice governor, will run a second race for the nomination against Richard I. Manning, the incumbent. Mr. Blease has a considerable lead over Manning. He fails by several thousand votes of having a majority required to nominate on the first ballot. The second race will be run in two weeks. The vote was Blease 38,918, Manning 25,927 and Cooper 20,695.

CRUISER DRIVEN ON ROCKS

GREAT AND SUDDEN GROUND SWELL CAUSED WRECK OF VESSEL

Department Officials Think There Is Enough Force On Border To Insure Protection

Washington.—Orders for the return to their state mobilization camps of 15,000 National Guardsmen now on the Mexican border were issued by the war department. General Funston was directed to return one regiment from Louisiana, three from New York, two from New Jersey, two from Illinois, two from Missouri and one each from California, Oregon and Washington.

Secretary Baker announced the order after a conference with President Wilson at the white house. Earlier the department had ordered to their home stations 6,000 regular coast artillerymen who have been serving as infantry on the border. The secretary's statement said:

"In view of the fact that substantially this number of troops who have not done patrol duty on the border are now on their way there, it is felt that this number can be spared. In a few days, if transportation facilities remain undisturbed, the department intends to order home some more regiments and possibly to replace them with troops now in their mobilization camps in the several states."

Regiments to be sent home were not designated by number, and it is understood that their selection is left to General Funston. Department officials think there is ample force on the border now to insure proper protection, and with the immediate gravity of the Mexican situation constantly lessening it is not considered necessary to strengthen General Funston's command. The policy now is to give all of the state troops called into the federal service opportunity to see service on war footing along the international line.

BULGARS IN BATTLE WITH THE GREEKS

Invaders Seize The City Of Drama After Fight With Garrison—Greece May Join Entente Allies

Paris.—In the Macedonian theater violent fighting took place between the entente allies and the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians. Paris claims that to the west of the Vardar river the French have gained additional ground and that in the Lake Ostrovo region the Serbs have repulsed attacks by the Bulgarians. On the Struma front near Lake Doiran batteries of the entente powers have violently shelled Bulgarian positions.

Drama in northeast Greece has been seized by the Bulgarians after a fight with Greek troops, according to advices received in Paris. An Albanian detachment under Essad Pasha, once commander of the Turkish first army, has arrived at Saloniki to aid the entente forces.

No official move has yet been made by Greece to meet the demand of that part of her population headed by former Premier Venizelos that Greece join the entente allies, but an unofficial dispatch from Athens says the remobilization of the Greek army is under consideration.

Danish Isles Favor Sale To The U. S.

St. Thomas, Danish West Indies.—The legislature of Santa Cruz has adopted and cabled to the Danish government at Copenhagen a resolution favoring the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States. The colonial council of St. Thomas and St. John, the two other islands of the Danish West Indies, already had taken similar action. The resolution follows: "The colonial council unanimously requests the ministry to hasten the negotiations toward ratification of the treaty with the United States which is the only means of relieving the intolerable and ruinous state of affairs on this island. There is no hope otherwise of rectifying our condition in the future."

Russians Drive Turks From City

Washington.—The Russians have driven the Turks out of Sultanabad, a city nearly two hundred miles inside the Persian border, according to a dispatch received in official quarters here. It was said large Russian reinforcements recently sent into north Persia probably could check the Turkish advance on Teheran.

Twenty Lives Lost When Vessel Sinks

New Orleans.—Twenty men of the crew of twenty-six of the American steamer Admiral Clark, which sailed from Port Arthur, Texas, for Buenos Aires on August 11, perished at sea when the steamer foundered, August 16, in the tropical hurricane that struck the west Texas coast several days later, according to the six survivors who arrived at the quarantine station near here on the Swedish bark Tana. Capt. James Daniels, master of the steamer, was among the score drowned.

Commission Suspends Increased Rates

Washington.—Proposed increases in transcontinental freight rates from the east to inter-mountain territory and from the Pacific coast to the east, which it was estimated would bring the railroads about two hundred million dollars a year additional revenue, were suspended by the interstate commerce commission for further investigation. The commission suspended the rates until December 30, pending the investigation to determine their reasonableness.

Cotton Rushed To Texas Markets

San Antonio, Texas.—The rush of cotton to market, due to the present high price of the staple and the threatened railroad strike, caused a car shortage in southwestern Texas. It was estimated that 10,000 cars, several thousand more than are available, will be required to move the crop. Planters also have complained of a shortage of labor. It was stated that more than 15,000 Mexicans have been employed to pick the crop and more are needed.

OATES PRAISES HONOR SYSTEM

HE BELIEVES NEW ORDER IN ALABAMA PRISONS IS LONG STEP FORWARD

DOINGS AT STATE CAPITAL

Proceedings of Public Events—News of An Important Nature Given.

—Montgomery.

William H. Oates, State Prison Inspector and one of the best known authorities on prison conditions in the South, believes Governor Henderson and the State Convict Department have made an important step forward in the establishment of a limited honor system in the State penitentiary Under this system, convicts who render a reasonable service and give no trouble will wear grey uniforms, those of a second class will wear brown and those of the lowest class will wear stripes.

"States which have tried the honor system have found that there is honor among convicts as well as among any other class of human beings," said Dr. Oates. "A person who has been temporarily confined wants the respect and confidence of those over them as does any other person and he always will work toward a condition which will give him this confidence.

"You will see that there will be almost a general effort on the part of State convicts to make themselves worthy so they may wear the gray uniforms. I think it is an important move and am glad the State will make it."

Cavalry Taken in by Troop.

Under an order issued by the United States War Department, the troops of cavalry being organized in Alabama will be mustered into the active service troop by troop instead of by the regiment. This means that the troops will be accepted by Captain Roberts, United States Cavalry, as fast as they are ready and that they will not be required to wait until the entire regiment has been organized.

Bibb Graves, who will be Lieutenant Colonel of the organization, believes this means that eight or more troops can be mustered into the service as soon as Captain Roberts can make an inspection. Ten troops are ready for the mustering officer and eight others are being organized and there is no doubt that the twelve troops, headquarters troop and machine gun troop can be organized at once and that Alabama will have the honor of organizing the first regiment of cavalry in the South and the first regiment to be accepted by the United States army since the new national defense act was passed by Congress.

More than 2,000 men already have signed enlistment blanks. Of course, some of them will be rejected for physical defects, while others will not enter the cavalry because their troops will not be completed. Fourteen troops make up a regiment and the ones which are organized and presented first will be given positions in the cavalry.

Although ten troops are ready for the inspection, those interested in the organization will not cease their efforts until the day of the inspection. They want as many men as possible. Each troop must have 73 men, but may have many others. Organizers of the regiment would like each company to have a minimum strength of 104.

General Graves takes the action of the War Department, in ordering the mustering in of the troops at once, to mean that the regiment will see active service without a doubt and that there need be no fears that the regiment will be held in camp without training or equipment.

Take No Part in Trial.

H. N. Diburn, warden of the plant of the Alabama Turpentine Company at McPhall, killed a woodrider named Whisenant in a personal difficulty, and the State Convict Department will take no part in the trial. R. W. Solomon, Chief Clerk of the Convict Department, returned from McPhaul, where he made an investigation of the trouble which led to the killing of Whisenant.

Cases of Rabies Few.

The number of patients under the care of the state laboratory for anti-rabies treatment at present numbers ten, two children having completed the course. The list of rabid animals is said to have been shorter during August than at any time during the past several months.

Rogers Takes Oath.

P. J. Rogers, of Ensley, took the oath of office as President of the State Board of Convict Inspectors succeeded Brooks Flowers, of Montgomery. The oath was administered by John Moffat, Recording Secretary to Governor Henderson. Officers and employes of the Convict Department presented the retiring President with a large basket of flowers. With it was a note saying that they regretted his personal business had forced him to surrender his public office.

Parole Granted.

Governor Henderson granted paroles to Remie Yates, of Choctaw County, and Elijah Holliday, of Barbour County. Yates was convicted of burglary and grand larceny and Holliday was sentenced for burglary.

Parker Paroled.

Earnest Parker, who is serving two years for burglary and grand larceny committed in Talladega County, was granted a parole by Governor Henderson.

FANCIES AND FADS OF FASHION

By Julia Bottomley

For Wear in Autumn Days

An attractive frock of satin and georgette crepe shows a very conservative interpretation of the new mode which sometimes leaves the spectator in doubt as to whether the garment is a coat or a dress. But in this instance the coat indication is not very strong. An underpetticoat of crepe is finished at the bottom with a band of the satin, and a narrower band at the front decorates the panel effect.

The bodice is simply cut and plain, but it sets close to the figure and buttons at the front, where there is a square cut-out at the neck. This is filled in with a small vestee of crepe, and a wired frill is set about the edge of the opening in the silk. The square opening corresponds with the style of the bodice and saves the day for it. The plain bodice buttoning straight down the front cannot lay claim to becomingness.

The sleeves merit a little attention. They are straight and rather full from the shoulder to the cuff. The cuffs are deep and turned to a rounded point on the upper side. They are finished with pipings where the sleeves are gathered into them.

The satin skirt is shirred at the top and set on to the bodice, making this portion of the skirt and bodice a single garment to be worn over the crepe underskirt. There are similar designs, made of cloth, in which even less of the crepe underskirt shows, and they are those that leave no doubt as to whether they are coats or dresses. For wear during the fall months, up to the advent of cold weather, they have everything to recommend them. Small separate capes of velvet or crepe and fur, with hats to match, are offered as accessories with these frocks, and no outfit for autumn days has ever presented more style.

Distinctive Gown.

A very distinctive gown is in a mole-gray fine quality gaberdine, the box-plaited skirt carried above the high extended waist line in little buttoned patties on a corsage of charmeuse and finished with the slightest of white chiffon and lace trimmed back collar.

Garbed for the Dancing Party

When little Marie dances she may wear the very simplest of all frocks, like that shown in the picture. It is nothing more than a straight piece of hin silk, chiffon or crepe, accordion plaited, and sewed into a narrow band of fine embroidered batiste or lace or organdie. The plaited material is cut out under the arms in a shallow curve, to make room for the arm, and the bodyless skirt is suspended by shoulder straps of velvet ribbon. A rather wide hem weights the silk a little and gives the dress a pretty "set."

Under this very simple affair, which hardly requires that one should think twice about it, an ample petticoat and small bloomers of batiste are trimmed with furbelows of lace and ribbon and disclose much more work in their making than is needed for the dress. Short sox and strap slippers are worn with this dancing garb.

A coat of rose-colored faille provides an outer garment for the festive occasion of this little miss. It has a plain body and box-plaited skirt and fastens at the front with snap fasteners. A row of small pearl buttons set close together make no pretense of being useful, but they please the eye. The little cuffs and collar are of fine eyelet work and embroidery on batiste.

The little bonnet is made of wide ribbon in light rose color. It is shirred in rows over small cords and has a soft puff for a crown. A big rosette of the same ribbon is posed at the back, which is unusual in bonnets for such small ladies.

Taffeta Blouses.

New taffeta blouses are quaint and novel in design. They may be cut long on the shoulder with a small circular flounce set in where the sleeve joins the shoulder. They have full bishop sleeves, straight panels front and back, and collars finished with small frills.

Blue Gown and Poppy Hat.

Sapphire blue cotton crepe made a lovely gown seen lately. It had a yoke and sleeves of chiffon of the same shade draped over a thin white silk. The straw hat worn with it matched the dress in color, and was trimmed with poppies, marguerites and grassse.

Graceful Collars.

It is always worth while to wear graceful collars that emphasize the pretty contour of a throat; or well cut skirts that suit the swing of a finely poised figure. In choosing the details that shall bring out your good points and in managing the larger matters that shall throw your awkwardness into the background you will find you have made a definite step toward looking attractive.

In Great Britain the skins of Damson plums, of which the yield this season has been unusually large, are to be used as a blue dye, especially by carpet makers, as the ordinary supply from Germany has been cut off.

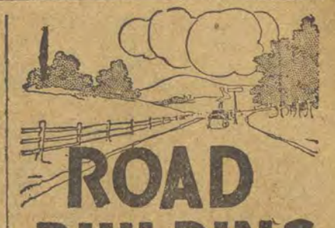
INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 10

THE ARREST OF PAUL.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:17-40.



GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt be a witness for him unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard.—Acts 22:15.

No study of the book of Acts is complete unless the teacher impresses upon his pupils the opportunities for living the Christian life in the normal environment of the home or school, at work or play. Deep interest attaches to every detail leading up to Paul's visit to Rome. Therefore let the teacher trace Paul's journey from Miletu to Jerusalem, which occupied about four weeks, and took place in the early part of the year A. D. 57.

I. The Arrival (vv 17-26). The Spirit revealed to the disciples and to prophets that if Paul went to this city he would be in great danger, and the Spirit was not forbidding but only teaching him for he knew Paul had a great work to do in Jerusalem, and that he only could do it. Everywhere Paul went he "searched for" (v. 7) disciples, with whom he tarried and whom he enlightened in the way of truth. Arriving in Jerusalem, he appears to have made his home with Mnason, outside of the crowded city, thus being less exposed to danger and finding a place of rest. At a public reception (v. 18) Paul reports of his work, and no doubt he laid his strongest emphasis on what God had wrought through him, among the churches of Asia. The leaders of the Jerusalem church received the gifts Paul brought from the Gentile churches, glorified God for what he had accomplished, but saw clearly that, to accomplish his statesmanlike purpose, something must be done to make clear that the false reports as to Paul's teaching were discredited (vv. 20-22). They therefore resorted to diplomacy (vv. 23-26). To the many thousands of Jews gathered on this festival occasion in the city, some of whom were zealous for the law, they declared first that Paul taught all the Jews which were among the Gentiles not to forsake Moses; second, that he had not taught them not to walk after the customs of Moses. The facts were Paul obeyed the Jewish ceremonial laws personally, as a matter of race, not as a condition of salvation. He taught that the Gentiles need not become Jews nor obey the Jewish ritual, and that the law was not necessary for salvation for either Jew or Gentile. He taught also that the promises of the Jews were to be fulfilled in both Jew and Gentile who by faith became a true child of Abraham and heir to the promise. This made Christianity a universal religion. (See I Cor. 9:20, 21).

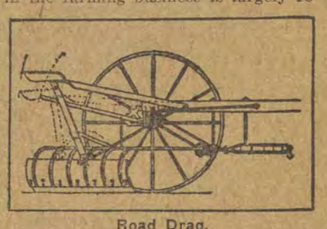
II. The Arrest (vv. 27-36). Paul's attempt at conciliation resulted not in peace but in more discord. Every true servant of God is sure to be misrepresented, and it will not do always to attempt to set straight all the lies that are told about him. God will take care of the lies and of our reputations. Most of the charges that men, even Christians, bring against one another are based upon "supposition" (v. 29). It was not a new experience for Paul to be mobbed. As the maddened Jews dragged him out of the temple he must have recalled the treatment of Stephen in which he, himself, had had a hand (7:57, 58). How frequent it is that we, ourselves, are in due time treated in the same way in which we have treated others (Gal. 6:7). It was the intention of the Jews to kill Paul at once without a trial (26:9, 10). They fancied they were doing God's service (John 16:2). This lesson is a striking example of the utter folly and wickedness of mob law. Paul's time had not yet come, and all the mobs on earth could not kill him until God permitted it; his deliverance came by the hands of an unscrupulous heathen (23:27).

III. The Arraignment (vv. 37-40). Tidings of the riot came to the chief captain, equivalent to our colonel (Acts 23:26). Paul was bound with two chains, one from each of his arms to a soldier, secured, yet left free to walk with his guards, thus fulfilling the prophecy of Agabus (v. 21). Mobs usually have great respect for soldiers, for they are inwardly cowardly. No sooner was Paul on the stairs which led to the top of the fortress than the mob, afraid that they were about to be balked of their vengeance, made a mad rush at him, with cries of "Kill him; kill him!" and Paul, unable in his fettered condition to steady himself, was carried off his feet and hurried off in the same path his Master had trod (John 19:15) and he was again to hear that cry, (Ch. 22:22). During all this tumult Paul had but one thought, how he might witness for his Master, and bring some of his blinded accusers to a saving knowledge of Christ. Thus it was that he asked for the privilege of speaking, and most courteously did he make his request. He spoke to the captain in the Greek tongue, not in Hebrew, and great was the surprise of the captain. The surprise probably was caused by the fact that he thought he had an ignorant brigand, and not that he had a cultured, scholarly Hebrew and Roman citizen as a prisoner. A short time before this, a certain Egyptian had gathered a large body of discontented Jews on Mount Olivet, whom he had deluded into the belief that he was the Messiah, and to whom he had declared that at his word the walls of Jerusalem would fall down. Paul told the captain who he was, and asked permission to speak to these rioters, hoping to quiet them with the simple facts of his life, and his petition was granted.

ROAD BUILDING

ROAD ENGINEER IS ESSENTIAL

Expert Points Out Reasons Why Highway Improvement Work Is Inefficient in Many Places.



James Leland Stamford, a highway engineer who made a nation-wide investigation of road work for the national committee on prisons, which is interested in promoting road building by convicts, says in regard to the lack of efficient supervision of road work generally:

"In 44 states county road work is carried on under the supervision of county commissioners; in other states it is under the control of the sheriff. These authorities are not trained for their work and the road work is costly and inefficient. All counties carrying on road work should obtain the services of a county road engineer who is acceptable to the state road authorities and able to work in co-operation with them."

ROAD DRAG IS A NECESSITY

Split-Log Affair Was First, Cheapest and Easiest Made—Various Patent Types on Market.

Road building becomes more a necessity and less a luxury every year, though the advance of the automobile in the farming business is largely responsible for the awakening in the rural districts. The split-log drag was the first, cheapest and easiest made, that appeared in the central West, and it is still popular. Various patent types have appeared on the market, the latest patent being granted on the drag shown here. The angle of the cutting blade may be varied by means of a lever.—Farming Business.

Road Drag.

IMPROVE ROADS TO SCHOOLS

Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana Lead in Number of Schools and in Better Highways.

There are about 2,000 consolidated rural schools in the United States, with Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana in the van. It is significant to note that about one-third of the roads in these states have been improved. The boy or girl, who formerly stayed away from school because the road was a sea of mud, is transported in school-wagons, which are sent out every day to gather up the children and to take them home again in the evening. All the children within a radius of several miles are thus provided with modern school facilities.

ROUNDED ROAD SHEDS WATER

Big Essential Is Disposition of Surface Water—Proper Drainage Is Solution of Problem.

Good roads means mainly disposing of the water. Nearly always a good dirt road can be made by proper drainage. The King-dragged road is easily made and sustained by running a split log or plank drag over it when it is wet from a previous rain. The surface of this dragged road bakes and makes a rounded roadway that sheds water, stays smooth and solid, and makes the best all-round highway on earth.

AID FOR YELLOWSTONE TRAIL

Item of $5,000 in Government Appropriation Bill to Assist in Improving That Highway.

The government appropriation bill contains an item of $5,000 for the benefit of the Yellowstone trail, to assist in improving that transcontinental highway across the Standing Rock Indian reservation in South Dakota. This item is there because of the recognized value of the Yellowstone trail as a transcontinental road, and the money that counties and states and individuals are putting into the improvement of the road.

Cattle and Sold.

The cattle will soon be on pasture. One necessity is salt, and plenty of it. It should be conveniently placed, so the animals can get it when they hoose. A box full of salt kept under a shed is best.

German Millet Seed.

German millet requires nearly 100 days to mature and must be sown in May, following corn. Much of the so-called German millet seed on the market is Hungarian or common millet or a mixture of them.

Paint the Buildings.

Utilize your leisure hours in spreading paint on the buildings. Paint greatly adds to their appearance and will materially help in preserving the wood.

Keep Up the Milk Flow.

To keep up the milk flow, use rye with clover or vetch, to furnish fall and spring pasture.

Eating Up Profits.

Butter-fat that is lost is what eats up the profits.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V, CLANTON, ALABAMA, SEPTEMBER 14, 1916. NUMBER 24.

CONGRESS CLOSES ITS LONG SESSION

Many Important Measures Enacted Including Reorganization Of The Army And Navy

LARGE APPROPRIATIONS MADE

Railroad Legislation To Dominate The Next Session Of Congress, Say The Leaders

Washington.—Adjournment of the first session of the sixty-fourth congress without a hitch in the plans of senate and house leaders was quickly followed by a general exodus of members hastening homeward for rest or the national political campaign.

While the closing saw the administration legislative program mainly completed, some things wait to be continued at the winter session, notably the remainder of the president's program of railroad legislation which was partially enacted to prevent the threatened strike.

Review Of Work Done

The first session of the sixty-fourth congress just adjourned was concerned chiefly with national defense.

When the gavel fell, congress had directed reorganization and re-equipment of the army and navy for defense of the country at the unprecedented cost of $655,000,000 with authorizations that will increase the total in three years to nearly $800,000,000. With all other expenditures, appropriations were brought to the grand total of $1,637,583,682, the greatest aggregate in the country's history and exceeding that for the last fiscal year by more than half a billion dollars.

Expenditures, necessitated by preparedness and the calling into action of military forces to meet the Mexican emergency demanded revenue legislation in the closing days of the session. Congress responded by doubling the normal tax on incomes, creating an inheritance tax, munitions tax and miscellaneous excise taxes to raise $205,000,000 and by directing sale of $130,000,000 Panama canal bonds.

Congress established a tariff commission; a government shipping board to rehabilitate the American merchant marine; a workmen's compensation commission to administer a new uniform compensation law; a farm loan banking system; a child labor law; enlarged the system of self-government in the Philippines and enacted many other important laws which had been contemplated by the administration.

The session was disturbed throughout by frequently recurring threats of foreign complications from the European war and imminence at one time of a diplomatic break with Germany; interference with American mails and commerce, invasion of American soil and killing of Americans by Mexican bandits, and danger of actual war with Mexico.

WAR HAS COST FRANCE 61,000,000,000 FRANCS

And 8,347,000,000 Francs Will Be Asked For The Last Quarter Of 1916

Paris.—Alexandre F. Ribot, the French minister of finance, announces that the appropriations committee of the chamber of deputies will introduce a law authorizing a new national loan.

M. Ribot, explaining to the appropriations committee of the chamber the requirements for the last quarter of 1916, amounting to 8,347,000,000 francs, said the totals for the different periods of the war were:

Five months of 1914, 7,000,000,000 francs; 1915, 22,000,000,000 francs; 1916, 32,000,000,000 francs.

The finance minister said there was considerable difference beteween the sums appropriated and payments that were made because of delays in the deliverance of orders.

The finance minister informed the committee confidentially in regard to the payments which France must make abroad and upon the arrangements made with the British treasury and the Bank of England to maintain sterling exchange.

Great Battle Raging In Roumania

Paris.—Roumania, which entered the European war less than two weeks ago, now is the scene of a great battle between Russo-Roumanian forces and armies of the central powers. The southern part of Dobrudja, or eastern Roumania, has become a fighting ground and the opposing armies are engaged from the Black sea to the Danube along a front of about seventy miles. Bulgarian and Turkish troops, advancing along the Black sea coast, have occupied Baltjik and two other seaports.

American Camp Raided By 30 Bandits

El Paso, Texas.—Thirty Mexicans, supposed to be Villa followers, raided the engineers' camp of the American punitive exxpedition and escaped with a mule, according to members of the expeditionary force arriving here from Mexico. This raid, which took place recently on an isolated portion of the camp at Ojo Federico, is believed by military authorities to have been indirectly responsible for the rumor of a clash between the Fifth cavalry and Sixteenth infantry of regulars and a band of Villa followers.

RUSSIANS GAINING GROUND

BUCHAREST CLAIMS ATTACKS ON DOBRUDJA HAVE BEEN REPULSED

Berlin Concedes Victory To The Russians in Galicia—4,500 Prisoners Are Taken

Paris.—In the Roumanian theater German and Bulgarian troops are still engaged with the Roumanians in the Dobrudja region. Berlin reports the capture of several Tutrakan works, together with their armored batteries.

The Roumanians claim that they have retaken all the Dobrudja frontier east of the Danube between Bulgaria and Roumania. The towns of Islacx and Kalafat, on the Danube, have been bombarded by the Teutons.

On the Macedonian front only bombardments are in progress.

In Albania the Italian advance has been stopped, says Berlin, and the Teutons have recaptured all positions taken from them recently east of Avlona.

In Galicia on the front of the Zlota Lipa and Dniester rivers the Russians have driven the Teutonic allies from fortified positions and have taken 4,500 prisoners, among them about 2,000 Germans. Berlin concedes a victory to the Russians in this region. Violent fighting continues around Brzezany, southeast of Lemberg, but here Berlin says the Russians have suffered heavy losses and have made no advance. Russian attacks near Zborow, northern Galicia, and in Volhynia, also failed, according to Berlin. Fighting is still going on in the Carpathians, where the Russians claim the capture of additional heights.

The Russians in Turkish Armenia continue their progress against the Turks near Ognott, inflicting heavy casualties on them, according to Petrograd.

CARRYING AMERICANS, TWO VESSELS ARE SUNK

There Were 28 U. S. Citizens on Steamer Kelvina—Washington To Investigate

Washington.—Sinking of two vessels in the European war zone with Americans aboard was reported to the state department by American consular officers. The state department will investigate both incidents to determine if American rights have been violated. There is no information now at hand to indicate that either vessel was attacked illegally.

A dispatch from Consul McCunn at Glasgow announced that there were twenty-eight Americans on board the British steamer Kelvina when she was sunk by a mine or torpedo September 2, while bound from Newport News, Va., to Avonmouth and Glasgow. All of the Americans, muleteers, were rescued and are now in Glasgow.

Consul Hurst at Barcelona, Spain, reported that two "presumable" Americans, James Andrews and Lon Bruce, were among the crew of the Italian sailing vessel Stella Delmare, which was sunk by a submarine off the Balleario Islands on August 29. The message did not statew hether the crew was saved nor give the addresses of the two members believed to be American citizens. The Danish steamship, Jeanne, of 1,178 tons gross, has been sunk, according to a dispatch from Weymouth. The captain and crew have been landed. The Jeanne was 232 feet long, and was built at Newcastle in 1906. She was owned at Copenhagen.

Bakers Consider High Price Of Flour

Chicago.—Three propositions to meet the advance in flour prices with which bakers say they are confronted were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Master Bakers. The propositions are: Confining bread production to the 10c loaf, of weight consistent with present price of flour and wheat, about 21 ounces. Increase of price of the 5c loaf to a profitable point, 6 or 7 cents.

Golden State Limited Was Held Up

Douglas, Ariz.—Westbound Golden State Limited train was held up at Apache station, forty miles east of here, by six masked men. The robbers uncoupled the bagagge car and after a half hour's futile attempt to blow the safe escaped on horses. No passengers were molested.

West Virginia Bars Prohibition Party

Charleston, W. Va.—The Prohibition party is not a political party in West Virginia and has no legal right to have its nominees for presidential electors certified by the secretary of state in order to be placed on the official ballot to be used at the general election in November, according to an opinion rendered by Attorney General Lilly. The attorney general held that the prohibition party failed to poll for its candidates at least 5 per cent of the entire vote at the last general election.

Cotton Condition Reported Favorable

Washington.—Cotton shows some improvement in the northern part of the belt during the week. The national weather and crop bulletin announces that the weather during the week was generally favorable for picking and ginning in central and southern districts. "The condition of cotton is quite variable," says the bulletin, "but it is good in only a few localities. Boll weevil damage has prevented further fruiting in a good many places in the southern part of the area."

HE THOUGHT IT WAS A CAKE OF ICE

TRIBUTE TO HUGHES

LABOR'S STRONG INDORSEMENT OF REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

High Praise for Just and Wise Legislation That He Secured During His Term as Chief Executive of New York.

When Governor Hughes ended his service to his own state as its chief executive and accepted an appointment upon the bench of the Supreme court, the official organ of organized labor in New York paid him a tribute which is more significant than any political promises and professions. It was based upon facts accomplished. It dealt with the record made by a man who believed that he was retiring permanently from political office and political life. This is the testimony given in October, 1910, regarding the service which Charles E. Hughes had rendered labor during the three years and nine months of his very independent and masterful period of executive leadership in his own commonwealth:

"Now that Governor Hughes has retired from politics and ascended to a place on the highest judicial tribunal in the world, the fact can be acknowledged, without hurting anybody's political corns, that he was the greatest friend of labor that ever occupied the governor's chair at Albany. During his two terms he has signed 56 labor laws, including among them the best labor laws ever enacted in this or any other state. He also urged the enactment of labor laws in his messages to the legislature, even going so far as to place the demand for a labor law in one of his messages to an extra session of the legislature.

"Only 162 labor laws have been enacted in this state since its erection, in 1777—in 135 years. One-third of these, exceeding in quality all others, have been enacted and signed during Governor Hughes' term of three years and nine months."

There is no denying the importance of that record. It stands as proof of the attitude and feeling of the Republican candidate for president. It outweighs all partisan assertions and defeats all attacks.—Cleveland Leader.

Hughes' Words Have Weight.

Mr. Hughes is making his campaign in urgence of thorough preparation for national trial, a preparation which will not overlook details and will not ignore the weak places.

A strong nation cannot have its resources dissipated to please congressional districts or its offices filled to reward "deserving Democrats." It cannot have its diplomatic service broken down by political exigency. It cannot have its tariff protection erected by men who do not believe in a tariff, or its military protection given by men who do not believe in an army or navy. It cannot have its industries regulated by men who do not believe in industries.

If the American voter is willing to think at all, he will be given plenty to think about before Mr. Hughes is through with his campaign. And the next few years of American history will be affected as the voter thinks now.

Sure to Resent Broken Pledge.

President Wilson has been renominated by his party; yet Democrats used to be noted as strict constructionists, and some of them undoubtedly will vote next November in such a way as to indicate the plank of their platform of 1912 which began "We favor a single presidential term," and concluded, "We pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle."

Charles E. Hughes is demonstrating that he can do a lot of things in a little while when he tries.

NEW YORK SAFE FOR HUGHES

Chairman McCormick Is in the Position of One Whistling to Keep Up His Courage.

Chairman McCormick of the Democratic national committee has sent forth the very previous prediction that President Wilson will carry New York. Chairman McCormick was expected to do this. He is there for that purpose. If he were unable or unwilling to make such a prediction Chairman McCormick would not hold his job for a week. It would be turned over to some man better versed in the business of chasing the political rainbow, to some man who could and would predict that Wilson would carry any and every old state that was brought up for discussion.

Chairman McCormick was not wise. He made his prediction too early in the game. After he had gotten it out of his system, one of the Democratic leaders of the Empire state quietly informed the chairman that his party was in very ragged shape and that it would take a heap of the hardest kind of missionary work to whip it into any kind of fighting form. This sobered the chairman and he looked as if he were sorry the prediction had escaped from his lips, but he could not take it back and expect to keep his job.

No, Chairman McCormick, President Wilson is not going to carry New York or come anywhere near carrying it. Mr. Hughes has carried it before and will carry it again. He will also carry enough other states to make him the next president of the United States.

Only Way to Avert Disaster.

The most obvious present duty is to make sure that the American market shall be held by Americans; that is the defensive. The next is to organize for the foreign trade war; that is the offensive. By judicious laws the government can use the domestic market as a leverage for opening foreign markets, so that Americans may be able to fight their commercial battles on even terms with their competitors. By law the government can provide that Americans shall compete among themselves at home, but stand united in competing with foreigners abroad. That is what foreign governments are doing, and that is what the United States must do if this country is to go through the coming trade war without disaster.

Wilson's Memory Defective.

President Wilson allowed his enthusiasm for the new banking law to get the better of his memory when he attributed to it in his speech at Detroit the credit for saving this country from financial embarrassments at the outbreak of the European war. The federal reserve system did not go into operation till some three months after the war was in full swing. The action that prevented stringency was taken under the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency law. It might be added that the germ of the new banking and currency law which the president looks upon with pride as an achievement of his own administration was in the Aldrich banking and currency measure, which when first proposed was beaten—largely by Democratic votes.

Promises Campaign Diversion.

The New York World is indignant because Mr. Hughes does not approve of President Wilson's Mexican policy. Just because the Republicans declined to nominate Mr. Wilson, in accordance with its weirdly serious suggestion, the World won't let them have any issues. The World gives every promise of being a most diverting campaign comedian.

Among many things the Democrats insist upon overtaxing is the patience of a disgusted nation.

SHOOTING SCRAPE IN WEST HOUSTON

I. D. CHANCEY, TOWN MARSHAL OF HARTFORD, GENEVA COUNTY IS SLAIN.

TRAGEDY IN CHURCH YARD

Official is Slain by Brother of Man Whom Officer Was Under Indictment For Killing.

Dothan.—I. D. Chancey, veteran marshal of Hartford, was shot and killed at Concord church, in the western part of Houston county, by Bartow Driver.

Chancey shot and killed Lonnie Driver, Bartow Driver's brother, at Hartford last January. Chancey claimed that Driver resisted arrest, and that he shot in self-defense. He was indicted by the Geneva county grand jury and his trial was to have come up at the fall term of the circuit court at Geneva.

Following the killing Driver is said to have gone to Geneva to surrender to the authorities. Both families are prominent in Geneva county and the tragedy has created much excitement.

STATE REUNION OF VETERANS

Sixty-Seven Counties of Alabama Will Co-operate in Gadsden Sessions.

Gadsden.—Sixty-seven counties of Alabama will be asked to co-operate with Gadsden and Etowah County in making the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans of Alabama and the United Sons of Confederate Veterans one of the most successful ever held, according to W. C. Paden, General Secretary of the Reunion Committee.

Invitations have been issued by the Gadsden Reunion Committee to officials in sixty-six counties of the State to co-operate in the efforts to have a large representation present. It is expected that more than 10,000 people will attend the reunion when it is held October 11 and 12.

Mr. Paden announced that the Alabama Boys' Industrial School Band has been engaged, and that other bands will be present. The parade will be one of the chief features of the reunion. It will be a "rubber-tired parade," according to Mr. Paden, and the veterans will not be required to march in it.

General George P. Harrison, Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans; Gen. B. W. Hooper, Commander-in-Chief of the Alabama Confederate Veterans; Gen. Jnc. L. Moulton, Commander-in-Chief of the Sons of Veterans of Alabama, and E. P. Baldwin, of Roanoke, Va., Commander-in-Chief of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, will be present at the Gadsden reunion.

Invitations to attend will be sent to President Woodrow Wilson, Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall, United States Senators John H. Bankhead and Oscar W. Underwood, Governor Chas. Henderson, Lieutenant-Governor Thos. E. Kilby, and John H. Wallace, Jr., State Game and Fish Commissioner. Lieutenant-Governor Kilby and Mr. Wallace are officers of the Sons of Veterans, but will also be invited in their capacity as State officials. Other prominent State officials will be asked to attend and take part in the program.

Two balls will be given and two barbecues. One of the balls will be held on Lookout Mountain at Noccalulu Falls. A barbecue will be given at the Falls, while a steamboat trip on the Coosa River is planned.

CAMPAIGN IS PLANNED

Montgomery Farmers to Be Urged to Raise Livestock.

Montgomery.—"Grow forage crops and raise livestock!" This will be the slogan for the forage crop and livestock campaign which will be carried on in Montgomery County September 22 and 23. Prominent representatives of the Alabama Extension Service, the United States Department of Agriculture and the agricultural departments of the railroads operating in this section will be present and addresses will be made in several sections of Montgomery County. Plans for the campaigns are being made by I. T. Quinn, farm demonstration agent for Montgomery County.

Bullet Wound, 50 Years Old, Fatal.

New Decatur.—As a result of a wound received more than fifty years ago, at the battle of Franklin, Tenn., Major Daniel L. Downs died here. He was 76 years old. He never fully recovered from the effects of the Federal bullet.

Commission Under Fire.

Haleyville.—A petition, asking that the qualified voters of the city of Haleyville be allowed to vote upon the question of abandoning the commission form of government, has been presented to the Probate Judge of Winston County. Probate Judge Curtis has certified that the petition contains the required number of signatures and R. L. Blanton has called an election for the early part of October to ascertain whether or not the commission form of government shall be abandoned

TICK ERADICATION PROGRESSING

Eleven Counties Have Completed Work of Dipping.

Montgomery.—Eleven counties in Alabama have completed their work of cattle dipping in accordance with the new cattle dipping law. In these counties 7,198 herds, containing a total of 97,976 head of cattle were dipped, according to figures announced by R. E. Jackson, inspector in charge of the work, which is done under the supervision of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Counties which have completed the work are Dallas, Hale, Jackson, Lauderdale, Limestone, Lowndes, Madison, Marengo, Montgomery, Perry and Wilcox. Marengo County led these counties in August by dipping 1,725 herds containing 27,401 head of cattle.

According to the report, Jefferson County, which has not completed its work, dipped during the month of August 15,765 herds containing 57,011 head of cattle.

KILBY WILL MAKE RACE

Definitely Makes Decision to Run for Governor.

Anniston. — Lieutenant - Governor Thomas E. Kilby, of this city, authorized his announcement as a candidate for Governor to succeed Charles Henderson. He will make his race on a business platform, he says, emphasizing publicity in the State's affairs through a well defined budget system, which he has been studying for several years. He says he will make an extended statement after the Presidential campaign.

EXPORT PIG IRON MOVING.

Domestic Business Is Picking Up Steadily, Say Furnace Men.

Birmingham.—Pig iron for export is leaving the Birmingham district in quantity, bookings for Italy being in the majority so far. Spain, France, Holland, Sweden, Norway and other countries are getting Alabama irons, and there is an inquiry for a still larger quantity, but the business cannot be handled because there is no ship room with which to transport the product.

Many Changes at University.

University.—University students returning this week for the 86th annual opening of the University of Alabama will find many changes in the appearance of the campus since last Spring. More than $50,000 has been spent during the Summer for improvements. Four new fraternity houses are being built. The Kappa Sigma fraternity has almost completed its new building, and the Sigma Nu and Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternities will soon have their new homes finished. All of them will cost more than $10,000, and are located on the western portion of the campus. The Zeta Beta Tau Jewish is erecting a smaller building. In addition to these several homes for professors are being built on the campus in the rear of the woman's dormitory. Plans for at least two other fraternity houses are being drawn. These will be located on the campus on the spot now occupied by the old home of Professor Foster, which will be removed to give way to the more imposing buildings.

Interurban Line Planned.

Montgomery.—Richard Tillis, owner of the street railway system, has announced that he will construct an interurban electric line from Montgomery to Wetumpka, County seat of Elmore County, if the people of the two counties will construct a bridge across the Tallapoosa River and will make a provision whereby the car line can cross the river at no additional expense to the company. Citizens of Montgomery County will be called upon in November to vote upon the proposition of issuing bonds to pay this county's share of the cost of construction.

Limestone Accepts Bid.

Athens.—An Anniston firm will erect Limestone County's new court house. The contract was awarded by the County Commissioners. Contractors from many cities in the South were present. The price of the lowest bidder was $124,700.

STATE BRIEFS.

Judge Bilbro set September 18 as the date for the meeting of the Etowah grand jury. Petit jury will convene September 25.

Howard Rouse, of Montgomery, has changed his mind about dying. He took seven and one-half grains of bichloride of mercury and then went to the telephone and called up the hospital.

The next convention o fthe Third Pythian District will be held in Birmingham, according to a decision reached at the meeting of the district held in Bessemer.

After being out of commission more than a month, the municipal light plant of Haleyville has been repaired and is once more furnishing electricity to the citizens of Haleyville.

Robert Croswell, freight conductor on the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Railroad, was seriously injured in the yards at Talladega, losing one leg and receiving bruises in his left side.

REPUBLICANS ARE WINNERS IN MAINE

ELECT GOVERNOR, AUDITOR, TWO UNITED STATES SENATORS AND FOUR CONGRESSMEN

LEGISLATURE IS REPUBLICAN

Republicans, Reinforced by Returning Progressives, Win Signal Victory.

Portland, Me.—Maine republicans, reinforced by returning progressives, won a signal victory at the election. They elected a governor, an auditor, two United States senators and four representatives in Congress, and wresting control of the state house of representatives from the democrats, will be able on a joint vote of the legislature to elect other state officers not chosen by popular vote.

United States Senator Charles F. Johnson, whose wide personal popularity had given the democrats great hopes of his return, was defeated by Frederick Hale, son of the ex-senator, by approximately 9,500 votes. For the short term seat in the senate, former Governor Bert M. Fernald defeated Kenneth C. M. Sills, dean of Bowdoin college, by 12,000 votes.

L. B. Goodall won from L. A. Stevens in the First congressional district by 3,000. Congressman John A. Peters retained his seat, defeating John E. Bunker in the Third district by 4,000. Ira G. Hersey defeated Leonard A. Pierce in the Fourth district by 5,000 votes.

The vote was heavy, as had been expected, for the campaign had been waged with a determination never before seen in recent years. The country was searched out for speakers of national prominence and a great number of these battled on national issues. The fight was particularly hot for the two United States senators and the four places held by Maine in the lower house in Washington. National defense, the tariff and the eight-hour law for railroad men loomed large in the speeches.

Soldier Hurls Grenade In Crowd.

Glasgow.—James A. O'Hara, a wounded and discharged soldier, learned the art of bomb throwing at the front and grew careless in regard to results. A crowd of men and women in the rear of his tenement became noisy. O'Hara asked for quiet, and when he received a derisive reply, hurled a hand grenade into the crowd. One man and a girl of nine years were killed and a dozen other persons were wounded. When O'Hara was arrested it was discovered that he had in his possession a quantity of ammunition.

Mexican Bandit Not Near Border.

San Antonio, Tex.—The latest communication from Gen. J. J. Pershing, given out at General Funston's headquarters, says nothing has been discovered which would place Francisco Villa near the American lines in Mexico. General Pershing said that even the natives as far south as Namiquipa had not heard of the proximity of the bandit leader. It is supposed that he is still in or near the Santa Clara canyon, or perhaps even farther south. American scouts are keeping a sharp lookout for the marauding band.

German Casualties 3,375,000.

London.—German casualties in the war during the month of August, according to a compilation here from the German casualty lists, totalled 240,900. This brings the German total since the beginning of the war, as compiled from the same sources, to $3,375,000. These figures include all the German nationalities, but do not include the naval and colonial casualties.

New York Plague Kills Thousands.

New York — Twenty-three more deaths from infantile paralysis occurred durini the 48 hours ending at 10 a. m., according to a department of health bulletin. This brings the total of fatalities up to 2,123 since the inception of the epidemic.

Robbers Loot While Child Is Born.

Chicago.—W. H. Lucas, treasurer of the boiler makers' union, sat quietly by and watched robbers take $810 from his home. The stork was about due and he was afraid to raise a disturbance.

Blind Evangelist is Dead.

Nashville, Tenn.—Rev. Joe Ramsey, 48 years old, a blind evangelist, known throughout the Southern Methodist Church, died at Viola, Tenn.

Cost of Living on Upward Grade.

Washington.—A 9.3 per cent increase during August in the level of prices paid producers for the principal crops was announced by the department of agriculture. During the last eight years the price level decerased 2.1 per cent during August. The index figure of prices on September 1 was about 21.9 per cent higher than a year ago, 14.3 per cent higher than two years ago and 18.6 per cent higher than the average of the last eight years on September 1.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.

For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.

For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.

For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.

For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.

For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.

For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

ABOUT THE TOWN OFFICERS

In our recent articles in regard to the officers and management of the Town of Clanton we were seeking more to show the relation and connection existing between said officers and the candidacy of Mr. Popwell for Probate Judge.

But since the matter has become opened up as it has, and this being close on to the time when a Mayor and Council are to be elected, we see no reason why we should not go further and give some facts that relate to municipal affairs for the benefit and enlightment of the citizens of the municipality in casting their votes in the coming election.

We can see a few reasons why the present Mayor and Councilmen should not be re-elected, and would like for the citizens of Clanton to review them as follows:

They have not done what they promised the citizens they would do, neither have they done what the laws of the Town and State required that they should do, and they have done many things that the laws say they should not do.

Now, as to the present officials of the town doing what they promised to do, let us take a look backward and see. When the present officers asked the citizens of Clanton to elect them to office they printed the following circular and scattered it before the public making, among others, the following promises:

1st. The publication of the expenditures and receipts of the public moneys as required by law.

4th. The immediate examination and auditing of the books of the Town of Clanton by a State examiner and the publication of his report.

5th. The faithful and diligent attention to the affairs entrusted to them as public officials.

8th. The putting of the streets and sidewalks in such condition that the public may travel them.

In this circular they claim that the past administration did not publish the report of its administration and say "this ought not to go." They ask further "What has the present administration promised, or what does it promise to you, Mr. Voter?"

Now, this circular was signed by E. M. Pinckard for Mayor, and by J. B. Downs, F. R. Woodyard, W. L. Popwell, W. A. Kemp and W. W. Fox for Councilmen. These gentlemen were all elected because the public believed that they would live up to their promises. Have they done so or have they even come nearer doing so than the officials that they were so anxious to oust from office?

We know that Sec. 1180 of Code of Ala. requires the Mayor once in each six months to make to the Council a statement showing the financial condition of the Town and while we know of no law requiring its publication, yet Mr. Pinckard and each member of his Council promised the citizens and tax payers of Clanton that they would do so. They have failed to thus show to the citizens how the money has been expended.

Messrs. Pinckard, J. B. Downs, F. R. Woodyard, W. L. Popwell, W. A. Kemp and W. W. Fox promised that they would have the books of the Town of Clanton audited by an expert accountant as required by Sec. 1229 Code of Ala. They not only promised to do this, but the laws of the State require it done each year, and though these men have been in office for several years they have failed to do not only what they promised to do, but what the law required them to do.

Messrs. Pinckard, J. B. Downs, F. R. Woodyard, W. L. Popwell, W. A. Kemp and W. W. Fox promised to put "the streets and sidewalks in such conditions that the public may travel them" Have they done so or ven made an effort in this direction? Have they not again failed to do what they promised to do, and what the law requires them to do?

Is it not the duty of the Town officials to use all the street tax collected for improving the condition of the streets of Clanton? If so what has become of the street tax money? Has it gone to pay officers or other expenses, when under the law it could only be used for streets? Why have not these gentelmen given this information to the tax payers of Clanton as the promised to do? Is it not a fact that practically no work has been done on the streets of Clanton for several years, and that some of the streets are in such condition as to be almost impassable? And is it not a fact that these streets have been let alone until just a few days before this election when Supt. Jim Baker attemped to work them and left them in such condition that they could not be used? Certainly these few days of work did not use up all of the street tax collected.

Is it or is it not a fact that one of the members of the Town Council has been for a long time hiring or renting to the Town of Clanton a horse and wagon? If so, how much pay did he get for this horse and wagon? Did not Mr. Pinckard as Mayor, and Downs, Woodyard, Popwell, Kemp, and Fox as Councilmen know that this hiring or renting was a flagrant violation of Sec. 1194 of the Code of Ala. and that each violation should be investigated by the Grand Jury of this county?

It is safe to say that not a one of our present Town officials would permit his individual affairs conducted in any such happy-go-easy manner, if he did it would only be a question of a few months before he would be in the Bankrupt Court.

In the administration of the affairs of the Town of Clanton every tax payer is vitally interested. His business and his property is largely dependant upon the affairs of the Town by its officials. We must pay our city taxes, our street tax, our water tax and our privilege tax. In addition to these payments we must also pay a heavy sewerage tax. Clanton has hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property in its limits, and while it is owned by her individual citizens, its welfare is largely in the keeping of its municipal officers. Where does the money collected go?

Some of it goes to pay interest on the water works bonds, but where does the balance go? Have we not as tax payers, whether we be Republicans, Democrats or what-nots, the right to know where our money goes? Are our officers our master or our servants? Has our Town improved under the present administration? For answer look at our streets, look at the negro dives that have taken possession of our main street, look at the perfect abandon with which negro loafers and prostitutes have taken possession of the Post Office lobby, our depot and sidewalks and are forcing the better elements of our citizenship to remain off of the streets.

It is necessary and proper that we pay our taxes, and we insist that the funds of the Town be expended as the law directs, and that the tax payer who paid this money has a moral and legal right to know just how the same is expended, and that the affairs of the Town be conducted in such a manner as will improve and build it up and not perpetuate its present deplorable condition.

SCOTT GIVES DEMOCRATS SOME "IGNORANCE" DROPS

Dear Mr. Editor:—I have been gone for some time, but here I come again with some more of my "ignorance drops."

Wasn't the letter of R. J. Williams some time ago in the Press a dandy? He knows he hasn't stood for the people, and hasn't acted to please the majority. If he don't believe it let him come out for office again, and then he will find out where he stands. No, he doesn't ever intend to offer any more, that's the reason he has acted like he has. He might offer some time again in the Democratic party, but what will it ever amount to if he does?

My, didn't they have a lot to say about the present condition of the county? No, it is too bad to mention, and they are ashamed of it themselves.

It is strange to me that a man in the Republican party in this county, who has the confidence of his people, and knows what the Democratic party is, wants to stray off and join the camps of the nemy. It just means the committing of suicide, and the putting of our own selves and our children in slavery for years to come. How many yeras do you suppose it will take this county to pay for the five last years of Deason's administration? Deason himself knows his record in the office is bad, or he would have come out on it again and asked for the office another term.

I do not blame Bro. Adams for coming out of the race rather than indorse Deason's administration, and consent to the wishes of the Clanton bosses of the Democratic party in Chilton county.

I have always thought Mr. Adams made a bad mistake when he went back to that old den that he used to criticise so strongly. Brother Adams, please tell us how much better they are now than they used to be when you opposed them so hard.

Isn't it a fact that they only wanted to use Adams as a tool in a selfish motive against the best interests of the people?

I still hear the echo from the great truths Brother Adams told us on the Democrats years ago, when he was with us, and wore that cotton bagging suit. I would love to hear you make another old Populist speech.

That Democratic clique at Clanton have got another one of our men fooled up, and made to believe he can get an office by going with them. But he will come out like the rest; just get murdered politically. The man I have reference to is one Mr. Popwell, a man whom we have honored in time past. He still claims to be a Republican, but somehow he is out on the Democratic ticket. This is just another Democratic trick, and after the election it will not be Popwell any longer; but it will be turned around and spell "Well-popped." He will never be noticed any more.

Boys, isn't it better to be honest in our politics? God says "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

I want to say that these "ignorance drops," are not gotten up by L. H. Reynolds, or Middleton or anyone else. They are produced by a process of my own, and I guarantee them to do good to every voter who will go by directions, and hurt no man in the county. Here is the directions: Vote for L. H. Reynolds and the entire ticket in November. It will mean better government for the people of the county. It will mean that we will get pay for our time when we have to go to court or do work for the county. It means that our money will not be dished out to Clanton for schools and to pay other mens debts against the wishese of the people. Voting for the Republican ticket means a continuation of the good record of such men as Dennis, Collins and Foshee. Our school board will give full and due attention to the schools of the county. It will mean the quickest way to pay the Deason debt on the county.

Respectfully,
J. N. SCOTT.

Jemison, Ala.

Josephus Daniels advertised for bids for the construction of the new warships on the same day that the President signed the naval bill. The incident is being made use of by Democratic campaigners. Maybe some of them can also tell why it is that Josephus has done nothing toward the construction of the ships which were authorized in March, 1915.

Dr. Wiley, who supported Wilson in 1912, is for Hughes this year. This puts a certified label on Hughes, so to speak.

Opinions of the People.

OBSERVATIONS ON POLITICS AS MADE BY MR. M. F. LETT.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 11, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner,
Dear sir:

Well my reward still holds good for the Democratic party, and I thought perhaps the five "P's" might find it. You know there is only five left, Pick, Pink, Pop by the Pound and Predicament.

Some thought the Democratic party might be found at Maplesville, but the great ship that hit the iceberg was nothing compared with the Maplesville barbecue. I did think I wanted us to have one barbecue, but since the Maplesville affair I do not want one.

Say the Press keeps up the cry for non-partisan school board. I would like to ask how many non-partisan men they have nominated on their ticket. If I can see straight they have nominated five strictly partisan men on their ticket for the school board, and some of them are the most bitter Democrats they have. If anyone doubts this, just stand on the streets and hear some of their nominees for school board talk politics. You see the Democrats always want to try and fool somebody, but the peopel will be mighty hard to fool by them any more: You see a Democratic speech is mighty hard to make when they are trying to elect a Republican themselves. Wallace at Maplesville went after W. L. Popwell as well as Reynolds on the negro question, for Mr. Popwell has voted every ticket that Judge Reynolds has, so when the Democrats throw negro at the Republicans it is as much of an insult to Popwell as to any other Republican.

I am sorry for Uncle Mad, as he has always been a Republican; and now in his old age to have to sit and hear Democrats abuse him and he cannot defend himself, for he is expecting them to elect his son, Fate, Judge of Probate.

I see where Mr. W. L. Popwell has been very liberal to schools since he moved to Clanton; but it strikes me that the poor little children out here and other places in the country needed his help worse than in Clanton where they have $20,000 houses and the town boys and girls get $30.00 per year to go to school, and our little boys and girls get about $2.50, and our school houses cost about $100.00; and our county paid $6,000 to help build that $20,000 house; and Mr. Popwell was in favor of the county giving the $6,000.

I would like to ask what would become of our party if Mr. Popwell was elected? Could we ever expect our people to have any confidence in us again? Does Mr. Popwell think he is greater and knows more than thirteen hundred voters that voted in the Republican primary? Does he think he can vote in our party primary and then walk out and say boys I am so important; I have moved to Clanton and the Democrats have decided to run me for Judge of Probate, so I am going to run independent, and I want you Republicans to throw down your nominee and go with me long enough to elect me, and then I will shake off the Democrats and will work and vote with you again, if it suits me? My friends, you talk about gall, but this is the limit. I do not know of any true Republican that will support Mr. Popwell. There are a few carrying petitions over the county trying to get men to pledge their support to Mr. Popwell. I think they are doubting their own crowd when they have to have them sign a bond to vote their mixture.

How can anyone be fooled by the present methods? Who is behind Mr. Popwell in his race? Who makes speeches for him? Where was he when Mr. Pope M. Long was speaking to the largest crowd that ever gathered in the court house to hear speaking? He was out in town with the worst enemies the people of the county ever had; the most bitter element of the Democratic party. Where was he in the evening when Judge Brandon was scoring the Republicans? He was up in the court house with the Democrats, sitting by and hearing them abuse his whole political life, and some times he would slap his hands.

Can any Republican be fooled this way? Is it possible for a single Republican to vote for him?

Some few around the court house, fathers-inlaw to the Democratic party and some brothers-inlaw to it, that has for the last twenty years voted the Democratic ticket, but claim to be Republicans may vote for him, and they would have voted for a Democrat if he had not run. Mr. Popwell says he is still a Republican and is going to vote a Republican ticket this time. I wish he would tell us who he is going to vote for on the county tickets?

I want to say that the people in the country appreciate the effort of the Union-Banner in trying to run a decent campaign, and not slinging any mud. The Democrats are depending on this altogether, and when the votes are counted we will see the people think of it. There was some slanderous remarks about me, but I consider myself too much of a gentleman to notice it. If anyone has anything personal against any other person they will go to them face to face if they are gentlemen; they will not get off and wire back an insult.

Watch out for tricks. The Democrats are out of soap, and they are liable to do anything, or say anything. It is reported that men will be sent over the county pretending to talk to the Union men, but their only purpose will be to try and defeat Judge Reynolds.

I would like to ask where all the Democrats are in this fight that tried to disfranchise us by abolishing our court and have the Governor appoint our officers? Walk the streets and listen at the crowd that is talking about Judge Reynolds, and this will be enough. No one need not try to defend him, as the people of this county know this crowd too well to pay any attention to what they say.

We all know that Judge Reynolds has always been ready to look after the peoples interest. He was at Montgomery when they were trying to take our liberties, trying to prevent them doing it, and he did. Judge Reynolds has been out of office six years, and he has been the same. When we wanted him he was at our service, and we know if he is elected again the people will have a friend in the Probates office. Old Beat six can be depended on to do her duty this election as she has done in the past.

Respectfully,
M. F. LETT.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

A LETTER FROM VETERAN SAMUEL J. ANDRESS

Mountain Creek, Ala., Sept. 11, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

It has been currently reported that Mr. W. L. Popwell, who is now a candidate for Judge of Probate on an independent ticket, while a member of the Legislature of 1910-11, refused to vote for a bill to provide pesions for Confederate Soldiers and for maintenance of the Soldiers Home.

I went to Montgomery and examined the record in the Secretary of State's office for my own satisfaction and found that on the 5th., day of April, 1911, House Bill No. 444, to provide pensions for Confederate Soldiers and maintenance of the Soldiers Home was voted on and Mr. Popwell was present and declined to vote for this bill. I am a Confederate Veteran and an inmate of the Soldiers Home.

I understand Mr. Popwell does not claim to be Democrat, but on the contrary claims that he always was a Republican, that if he is elected will still be a Republican, and will affiliate with the Republican party. In view of his action while a member of the Legislature and his political record I do not see how any Confederate Veteran, and especially a Democrat, can vote for him.

And now, that Mr. Popwell as a candidate for Probate Judge, solicits the votes of old Confederate Veterans to assist him in this election it is suggested that the old Confederate soldiers settle their indebtedness with Mr. Popwell, either by voting directly against him or to do as he did in 1911 for them, pass the election as "not voting."

S. J. ANDRESS,
Soldiers Home.

WALDRUP SAYS THE PRESS MADE FALSE STATEMENTS

Jemison, Ala., Sept. 11, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I see that the Clanton Press says that all four of the Commissioners voted for the Maplesville road. Now I say that such a statement is false, and the Press is challenged to go further and prove what it said. If the records show such proceedings as was enumerated in the Press last week, it is a mistake. As for surfacing those different roads was to put gravel on such places as actually needed it, and to skip all parts that would stand up without gravel. Now Mr. Editor the above is correct, and was my contentions.

I see that Brother Honeycutt has a letter of endorsement to Prof. McDonald, and says that the school board should not be elected by any political party. I fail to see how they can be elected any other way. As each party has nominated a full ticket. Have both parties done wrong, and what is the remedy? I want to know.

Very respectfully,
S. E. WALDRUP.

Cooper, Ala., Sept. 11, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner,
Clanton, Ala.
Dear sir:

It has come to me that I intended to support Mr. Popwell in the coming election. Now I do not know who circulated this report and do not care for it is absolutely groundless and without any truth to it. I do not even know to what party Mr. Popwell belongs for I hear one say he is a Democrat and another say he is independent and the Union claims he says he is still a Republican, so I think we had all better stick to our own party folks who state positively where they are and what they stand for. Please publish this for me that the voters of the county may know that I am still a Republican as I have been for the past 16 years.

Yours truly,
L. A. CALLOWAY.

EVERGREEN

As I haven't seen anything from Evergreen for some time I will write a few words.

Health is very good just now in this community.

Our Sunday school is fine I am proud to say.

Mr. Walter Calloway and wife from Prattville and Mrs. M. P. Robinson spent Saturday night with W. S. Beaird and family. They were on their way to Mineral Springs.

Rev. W. S. Cox made us a lecture one night last week at Evergreen. The lecture was fine, so he wound up with Reynolds and Popwell, saying he was a full blooded Democrat and Mr. Popwell was the man. It seems that the Democrats are thinking a lots of the Republican party this time. It just seems like if I was in a party that couldn't get a man nominated on the ticket I voted I would just walk over on the right side and say boys you are at the right post, now let us elect the best man we have in the county for Judge of Probate, and that is L. H. Reynolds. If I were a Democrat I sure wouldn't vote for a man for Judge and him turn and vote against me through the rest of the ticket. And if I were Mr. Popwell if my party couldn't have nominated me I sure wouldn't have been butchered by the Democrats in this county. Mr. Popwell says he is a Republican but I see when the Republicans have a speaking at the court house you can't find Mr. Popwell in the house, but if you will go out in town you will find him with the leading ring of the Democratic party. So it seems to me that the Democrats want Mr. Popwell elected Probate Judge.

If possible for Mr. Popwell to be elected with the promises he has made then the Democrats would say to Mr. Popwell, we are sorry Mr. Popwell but we have no more use for you we have used you as for as we can and as far as we xepected to work you. Then they would go down to Montgomery and say Chilton county is without a Probate Judge, will your honor please appoint us a Probate Judge for Chilton county, and Mr. L. B. Pounds may not look for the appointment at all. The Republican party is not expecting any appointment to be made this time. We are going to elect L. H. Reynolds in November for Judge of Probate, and Mr. Popwell will get just what the Democrats wanted him to have.

Success to the Union-Banner and to the Republican party.

W. S. BEAIRD.

The membership of the Elks as shown by figures presented to their recent convention is 453,000. It looks as though there were more Elks than Bull Moose in this country.

These September Days

Remind us that the Fall Season is at hand

Don't they remind you that there are many items of General Merchaudise with which you will soon have to supply your folks? Well, we just wanted to tell you again that we've got all of those things you are going to need; be sure you remember our store.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store."

MONEY NOT GOODS

After the war, what will Europe send to us?

If the present tariff duties continue in force, Europe will flood our markets with cheap goods, produced by ill-paid labor—just as she did prior to the outbreak of the war and just as she is now doing to a surprising extent, in spite of the war.

If, however, our tariff duties are raised, European capital will be prompted to come over here for the industrial development which must follow warfare. The transfer of foreign money to this manufacturing center will mean the employment of men here and at the American scale for the supply of the American market.

Today, owing to the war, we are sending Europe goods and she is sending us money. The goods, however, are specialized products demanded by war; and that demand will be entirely suppressed when peace returns. Then we shall be compelled to take action to see that the course of commerce is not reversed. If low tariff duties are in force here when that day comes, we shall speedily find ourselves receiving goods from Europe and sending money to her. If our tariff protection is so high, however, that the flood of foreign goods cannot overtop it, the European manufacturer will transfer his plant to this country, more men will be employed here, there will be an enlarged home market for our own agricultural products, and a general ring of correlated prosperity will result.

What do we want from Europe after the war—money or goods? A continuation of low tariff duties will give us goods. A restoration of high tariff duties will give us money.

Vance McCormick declares that there is no truth in the reports of dissension among Democratic campaign managers and he adds that the Wilson administration is for McCombs for United States Senator. This will be good news for Mr. Conway, who is also a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the Senate.

If King Ferdinand of Roumania had only kept his country "out of war", the farmers of the Northwest might have continued to be deceived as to the real reason for high prices of wheat.

DEATH OF VETERAN S. W .DONEGAN

Veteran Samuel W. Donegan, 1st Louisiana regiment, died at Soldiers Home and was buried on Wednesday afternoon.

Veteran Donegan was on detached duty in the Hampton Roads naval fight between the Federal fleet and the Merrimac.

Worn Out?

No doubt you are, if you suffer from any of the numerous ailments to which all women are subject. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, weak, tired feeling, are some of the symptoms, and you must rid yourself of them in order to feel well. Thousands of women, who have been benefited by this remedy, urge you to

TAKE

Cardui

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., says: "Before taking Cardui, I was, at times, so weak I could hardly walk, and the pain in my back and head nearly killed me. After taking three bottles of Cardui, the pains disappeared. Now I feel as well as I ever did. Every suffering woman should try Cardui." Get a bottle today. E-68

ACIDS IN THE SYSTEM

Acids accumulating in the system in excess, poison the blood and cause a great variety of diseases, affecting the skin and other mucous surfaces, the heart and arteries, brain and general nervous system, joints and muscles.

Some of these diseases are Rheumatism in its many forms, Catarrh, Eczema, Hives, itching and burning of the skin, dizziness, mental depression and a variety of other ailments. You must eliminate the acid from your system and purify your blood before you can be rid of your trouble.

S. S. S. has been purifying and nourishing the blood for over half a century. It is also a very efficient tonic and being purely vegetable, it is the most efficient agent known in the cleansing of the blood and toning up of the system.

Call for it at your druggists and don't accept a substitute. If special medical advice is desired write Medical Department 93, Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

UNION SPRINGS

Hard times, but that is not news.

Rev. Evans of Montevallo preached here on the 3rd Sunday. Nice crowd present.

Revival services will begin here the latter part of September. Revs. Champion and Crumpton in charge.

Mrs. Belle Smith, Miss Sula Jones, Miss Bevie Smith and Homer Jones motored to Lomax the 3rd to the Singing Convention.

Judge Reynolds and Hon. J. Osmond Middleton addressed an enthusiastic audience at Freeman school house Saturday night.

Cotton picking is all the go here, but will soon be over.

Macedonia people held a baptismal service near here Sunday. A goodly number have been added to the churches in this part recently. Hope the pastors will lead them out into the fertile fields of entire consecration, not consecrated to a certain work but entirely to the divine will, unless that is done their lives will be comparatively unfruitful and unhappy. Let that be done and all differences of creed opinion will sink into oblivion to rise no more, then there will be no question but what is the divine will. Prof. Wooldridge of Thorsby has been preaching in this section, his sermons are reported as logical and deep.

OPENING OF CITY SCHOOL

The Clanton Public School opened Monday morning with an enrollment of 140 pupils. A large number of friends and patrons of the school were present on the occasion. Inspiring talks were made by Prof. H. C. McDonald, Revs. Crumpton and Bilbro, and Prof. Rogers. They indulged in masterful dealings with the importance of the educational movement in our town. Short talks were made by Dr. Gowan, Mrs. Callen and others.

Prof. J. L. Johnson, the splendid Principal, with his efficient corps of assistants, is working hard and long to enroll the entire number of school children within the town of Clanton in the public school this year.

Mr. Zack Abney of Maplesville was in town Monday.

Mr. Wesley Adams has returned to the University to re-enter school.

Mr. Burton Higgins has gone back to the University to school.

Miss Winnie Brooks of Columbiana is visiting Misses Winnie and Wlilie Reynolds.

THORSBY INSTITUTE LIBRARY

Probably comparatively few people in Chilton county realize that there is an unusually good Library in the county available for their use, free of any charge. This is true of the Library of Thorsby Institute, whose privileges are extended, not only to the students in that school, but to any citizen of Chilton county who wishes to avail himself of them.

Several recent visitors to the Library have expressed surprise at the large number and varied character of the books to be found there. Such works as President Woodrow Wilson's "History of American People" in 5 vols., the "New International Encyclopaedia" in 20 vols., "Encyclopaedia Brittanica," 25 vols., "Crowned Masterpieces of Literature", 10 vols., Green's "History of the English People," 10 vols., Longfellow's Complete Works, 8 vols., and many other valuable sets, help to make a collection that is exceedingly useful for reference work. For general reading there are about 1000 volumes of selected fiction, 500 volumes on religious subjects, 500 on History and Travel, and a goodly number on political and enonomic subjects, foreign languages, science, nature study etc., making a total of 3500 to 4000 bound volumes.

As suggested above, the privileges of this Library are extended to everyone in Chilton county who wishes to use them. This means that any responsible person may draw books from the Library, to be kept for two weeks, by calling at the Library, or by writing to the Librarian and enclosing sufficient postage to cover the cost of mailing the book. We suggest that 10 cents be sent, and any balance will be returned. Any school district in the county which wishes to secure additional books for reading by pupils and patrons can arrange for the loan of 50 good books for a period of three months, by corresponding with the Librarian.

Miss Orra Angell will be in charge as Librarian after Sept. 15th, and may be addressed at Thorsby, Ala.

Misses Frenchie and Dora Bates of Montgomery paid Clanton friends a pleasant call Friday.

BOARDERS WANTED

Wanted table boarders at $3.50 a week; excellent table aways; can also accomodate a few roomers; meals any day.

tf. MRS. ADDIE G. ROBINSON.

Kiln Dried Lumber

Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Dressed 1x12 Board, Window and Door Casing; also Heart 1x12 and 2x4 for Well Curbing... If you want any of the Above, bring your team with you, as You can Always Count on Getting it. If any Lumber is wanted that we do not Carry in Stock, We will get it for you.

E. V. Speer Lumber Co.

MARBURY, ALA.

Chilton County High School

For the Boys and Girls of Chilton County.

Course of stud Standardized and fully Articulated with the Elementary Schools and Colleges. Full Course of four years leading to any College Degree, a completion of which carries with it entrance into any Stadard College, without any Examination.

If you do not care to go to College, this is the place to get that High School Training, which will place in your hands the working tools of Life. The High School needs you.

You cannot hope to make your Life a success without it. The World needs and must have Farmers, Mechanics, Teachers, Preachers, Doctors, Lawyers, and Merchants,—in fact, Men and Women in every Walk and in every Professional business in Life.

This School stands for the Training of all, except the Deadbeat, the Gambler, and the Tramp—These last named need not apply to Enter into our Classes or Departments.

Our Departments of Art, Music, Expression and Penmanship are open to Everybody, Whether they are taking part in any of the regular Courses of the Institution or not.

Especially at this time, we are able to commend to the public our Course in Piano Music and Voice. Mr. Tinsley needs no introduction; his work is his Advertisement.

This being a State Institution, Tuition is Free.

Every Teacher College Trained, Holding a College Degree. This Session will Eclipse the past. Get in the Procession and let your Allgiance be Known to Others.

H. CLIFFORD McDONALD, Principal

CLANTON, ALA.

Be Guided by Mothers Who Know

The comfort and secureness of the expectant mother is essential to the welfare of the future child. In exercising caution be guided by the experience of hundreds who have found in "Mother's Friend" a way to eliminate severe suffering and insure your own rapid recovery. It is easily applied and its influence over the effected ligaments is soothing and beneficial. Get it at any druggist. Send for the free book on Motherhood. Address

The Bradfield Regulator Co.,
209 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

CHILTON SINGERS CONVENTION

The Chilton County Singers Convention met at Lomax on Sept. 2, 3.

Called to order first day at 10:00 oclock by the president. Goodly number of directors present. Offcers for the ensuing year as follows: President and Secretary, the present incumbents were re-elected; Vice-President, Mr. J. H. Williams.

On Sunday opened promptly at 9 o'clock, prayer by Rev. J. N. Scott of Jemison.

The singing was just wonderful. Prof. Milstead of Texas just caught the great crowd. Then came Miss Bettie Jackson of Birmingham the great alto singer whose fine leading charmed everybody. There was Miss Ida Scott of South Chilton did fine work. It was a great day. We were all glad to have Prof. Jackson of Birmingham with us, also Mrs. Toy and Mrs. McCain of Birmingham, Prof. Baxley also was a fine addition to the convention.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, that, we thank the people of Lomax for their kind hospitality.

Resolved, that, we thank all the visitors for their visit and kind assistance. May all the singers of this convention meet in the beautiful coming day and join in the "New song" and the song of "Moses and the Lamb." The beautiful poetry and sweet music will never be forgotten, its sweet influence may lead some to seek life in the approaching glorious day, whose rays of light are now breaking through the dark clouds of the present unparallelled trouble Tell the whole world these blessed tidings.

Speak of the time of rest that nears. He who was slain of calvary's mountain, soon is to reign a thousand years.

Benediction by Rev. J. N. Scott.

Next session goes to Bethel church near Cooper first Sunday in May.

SECRETARY.

FOR SALE—Two Weber wagons, 2¾ good as new; one one-horse wagon; blacksmith shop; grain drill, new; disc turning plow, two 10-inch Oliver turning plows; two head Durock Jersey pigs; one disc harrow, section harrow, one Cole planter, one Cole grain distributor, one John Deere planter, three cultivators, one horse clipper and other farming implements; at my house at the old rock quarry. For further particulars see E. H. Foshee, Clanton, Route 5.

Omar Reynolds has gone to Tuscaloosa to enter the University.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

Get The Habit

Not When, But Where the Best Place in Clanton to EAT

Goodgame Cafe

And Quick Lunch

Our Delightful SOFT DRINKS are Unsurpassed

W. H. GOOEGAME, Proprietor.

Next Door to Clanton Press.

THORSBY INSTITUTE BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Thorsby Institute, which began ten years ago with only six students enrolled for the first day of school, today smashed all previous records by enrolling sixty students on the first day, which is an increase of over 35 per cent. over any previous year. Not only is the total enrollment ahead of all previous records, but the number in the boarding department at the opening of school is also largely in excess of any previous year. The prospects are that the school will make an unusual record for itself this year. The students already enrolled come from sixteen counties of Alabama. A number more are expected within the next few days.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees the Treasurer reported that the school had made quite a decided gain in resources the past year, so that the value of its property above indebtedness is about $2,000 more than a year ago.

Prof. J. B. Hobdy, of the State Department of Education, was the principal speaker at the opening exercises, and had an audience that filled the spacious auditorium of the school building. The government experts who are making a county campaign will speak at the Institute at 11:00 A. M., Wednesday of this week.

UNION GROVE

Health here is good at present except Gradma Dorminey who has been on the sick list for some time, but we all wish her a speedy recovery.

Everybody seems to be enjoying themselves now. Some are picking cotton in this community but we are sorrow to say it won't be a very big job to gather the cotton in this community.

Misses Lessie and Olive Robinson spent last week in Siluria they report a nice time.

Mr. J. M. Robinson and wife and Misses Bessie and Orella Robinson motored to Siluria Thursday morning.

Miss Nancy Smith spent part of last week with her brother, Mr. Eddie Smith.

Miss Eva Retherford spent a few days last week with Mr Nat Smith and wife.

Mr. Alonza Robinson went to Shelby Saturday night.

Miss Lillie Littleton spent Thursday with Miss Elma Beasley.

Misses Irene Collum and Hattie Honeycutt spent Sunday with Miss Bertah Conway.

Mr. J. M. Robinson and daughter, Misses Bessie and Lessie, and Miss Mae Dorminey motored to Shelby Sunday and attended the baptizing at Bay Springs.

Mr. G. W. Pate of Shelby county spent Sunday night with Mr. J. M. Robinson and family.

Mr. P. M. Martin and wife spent Sunday with Mrs. J. M. Robinson.

Best wishes to the Union-Banner and its many readers.

The Wilson Independent League, which is largely made up of Democrats, carries in its list of officers the name of William Kent, of California, whose biography in the Congressional Directory says that he was" elected to the Sixty-second Congress as insurgent Republican; re-elected to Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth Congresses as Independent." We have no means of knowing how Mr. Kent will seek re-election to Congress this fall;but we have no hesitation in advising Republicans to vote against him.

A GOOD REASON (?)

The European war broke out in August 1914—and the reason we had no financial panic in this country was because of the Federal Reserve Banking System, which went into operation the following November! This is the kind of argument with which the Democratic Congressmen are filling up the Congressional Record these sultry summer days.

DR. GRAGG WILL BE IN CLANTON NEXT SATURDAY

A letter from Dr. V. J. Gragg says that he will be in Clanton next Saturday for the purpose of seeing anyone who may wish to confer with him on business matters. He will be at his former office, now the office of The Union-Banner.

Mr. Billie Walker was circulating among friends Monday.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

Pacio, Ala., Girl Tells About Her Mother

Says Her Health Has Now Been Restored.

Miss Pearly Davis says: "My mother had sick headache and felt bad and drowsy all the time. She began taking Granger Liver Regulator, and it has done her more good than all the medicine she had taken before." Miss Davis now knows it is true that Granger Liver Regulator is the most thorough and pleasant purifier of the system known, despite the fact that it is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol whatsoever. Your druggist will recommend this great medicine. Ask him.

TAX NOTICE

Collector's and Assessor's Round

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes for Chilton County for the year 1916, and assessing taxes for the year 1917.

Minooka	Beat 13, Oct. 2
Jemison	Beat 2, Oct. 3
Thorsby	Beat 9, Oct. 4
Mt. Creek	Beat 5, Oct. 5
Coopers	Beat 10, Oct. 6
Eenterprice	Beat 6, Oct 7
Pletcher	Beat 15, Oct. 9
Riderville	Beat 8, Oct. 10
Maplesville	Beat 7, Oct 11
Macedonia	Beat 14, Oct 12
Robinson's Store	Beat 12, Oct. 13
Mullins Acadamy	Beat 1, Oct. 14
Verbena	Beat 5, Oct 16
Evergreen	Beat 10, Oct. 17
Kincheon	Beat 6, Oct. 18
Culp Schoolhouse	Beat 15, Oct 19
Shoults	Beat 7, Oct 20
Stanton	Beat 8, Oct 21
Benson	Beat 3, Oct 23
Concord	Beat 13, Oct. 24
Mars Hill	Beat 2, Oct 25
Mineral Springs	Beat 12, Oct. 26
Cane Creek	Beat 11, Oct 27
Providence	Beat 16, Oct. 28
Clanton	Beat 4, Nov. 6 to 11

Take notice that under Section Number 34, of the Revenue Code of 1915, it is the duty of every person liable to taxation in each election precinct, to attend in person on the first day of the apointment in your precinct, and then and there render to the Assessor a full and complete list of all the property, of which he or she was owner on the 1 day of October of that year.

All taxes and assesments are delinquent after December the 31st, 1916.

J. D. COLLINS, Tax Collector.
J. N. DENNIS, Tax Assessor.

MAPLESVILLE DEFEATS PLANTERSVILLE

Maplesville defeated the Plantersville aggregation by the score of 8 to 2. Bunched hits by the locals and errors by the visitors gave Maplesville 5 in the 3rd inning, enough to win after the visitors tied it up in the second. Up to date Maplesville has played 25 games, winning 19 and losing 6.

Following is the box score:

Maplesville	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Oden, ss	4	1	2	2	4	0
McCarty, 2b	4	1	2	3	1	1
Adams, 1b	4	1	0	6	0	0
Ruddick, c	2	2	0	6	0	0
Houlditch, p	4	0	1	1	6	0
Whiteside, lf	4	1	0	0	0	0
Williams, cf	4	0	1	1	0	0
Atchison, 3b	3	1	1	2	0	0
Lamberson, rf	3	1	1	0	0	1
Totals	32	8	8	21	11	2

Plantersville	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Motley, cf	3	0	0	1	1	0
Wright, rf	3	0	1	1	0	0
Cox, c	3	0	1	1	0	0
Brasher, ss	2	0	1	0	1	1
Pierson, 3b	3	1	1	3	1	1
Pickering, 1b	2	1	0	5	0	2
Batton, lf	2	0	1	0	0	0
Hood, 2b	1	0	0	3	2	1
Ramsey, p	3	0	0	0	0	2
Totals	22	2	4	18	5	7

Score by innings:
Plantersville 0 2 0 0 0 0 0
Maplesville 2 0 5 0 1 0 *

Summary: 3base hits, Pierson; 2 base hits, McCarty, Lamberson; Stolen bases, McCarty 2; Base on balls off, Ramsey 2, Houlditch 3; struck out, Ramsey 5, Houlditch 7. Umpire Adams; Scorer Vines.

A CARD OF THANKS

The inmates of the Methodist parsonage wish to express their grateful acknowledgement of the very substantial tokens of thoughtful remembrance sent to us by numerous friends last Tuesday afternoon. The pounding, wholly unexpected, was just splendid. In the lot of gifts was a generous supply of substantials, many toothsome delicacies, and $7.00 in hard cash. The larder is full, the purse a little plethoric, our hearts are happy, and we are praying God's richest blessings upon al. the donors.

I. F. BILBRO.

NOTICE

Any one who brings wheat to the Thorsby Roller mill please bring the wheat on the first four days in the week. On Friday and Saturday I grind corn.

F. E. GRONQUIST.

Miss Jimmie Morrow is visiting Mrs. J. M. Broadhead.

FARM HOMES

In good community with excellent schools, good roads and productive soil, is what we are offering you. We own farms in Autauga, Chilton, Clay, Coosa, Randolph and Tallapoosa counties. Tell us what you want, we can help you. Before you buy sell or exchange, see or write

THE MARBURY LUMBER CO.
Marbury, Ala.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

MARRIAGE OF MR. W. H. BAXLEY AND MISS LAOMA ELLIS

On Saturday evening in the presence of friends and relatives Mr. W. H. Baxley and Miss Laoma Ellis were married by the Rev. C. H. Rogers at a new home which Mr. Baxley had previously arranged for the reception of "two souls with but a single thought; two hearts that beat as one."

This young Marbury couple are highly esteemed in this vicinity and they are receiving the congratulations of the entire community.

MT. PLEASANT

There was a Baptist church organized at this place last Sunday afternoon with eighteen charter members. The ministers helping in work were Revs. S. M. Adams, A. R. Aldridge, W. J. Armstrong, B. H. Vickers, J. T. Nelson and W. P. Lowery. Third Saturday and Sunday will be preaching day. There will be service here next Saturday and Sunday.

J. W. Crawford and wife of Shelby and Rev. Arch Baxley and sister, Miss Freda, spent Friday night at G. H. Massey's.

D. M. Foshee and family recently visited at W. H. Foshee's.

Rev. B. H. Vickers and family spent Sunday with L. O. Vickers.

Miss Amye Daniel spent Monday night with Miss O. D. Lindsey.

Mackie Pierce of near Mulberry recently visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pierce.

W. A. Dozier and S. J. Dupriest left Monday for Birmingham. They went through the country with a load of produce.

We have prayer meeting at this place every Sunday night. Come and be with us.

Everybody is looking forward to Saturday night with pleasure. Everybody is invited to come and enjoy themselves and help a good cause along.

Lets not foget our community fair. We can and must make it a success.

Mr. E. C. Freeman of Maplesville Route 1 was a caller at The Union-Banner office last Friday and subscribed for the paper.

Miss Lurline Harper is visiting in Birmingham this week.

Miss Willie Belle Sartor returnes to the Judson in a few days to take up school again.

Miss Callie Watts is visiting friends and relatives in Birmingham.

"IT SAVED MY LIFE," SAYS MRS. MOBLEY

Was Invalid Three Years—Gains Fifteen Pounds After Taking Tanlac

When Dr. E. B. Elder, the Tanlac representative in Jacob's Pharmacy, Memphis, answered a phone call a few days ago a woman's voice said: "This is Mrs. Eula Mobley, 336 High Street. I'm so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me I'll be glad to tell you all about it if you will come out and see me."

When Dr. Elder called that afternoon Mrs. Mobley was out but her mother, Mrs. Henninger said, "I will be glad to tell you what Tanlac has done for Eula. She has been almost an invalid for three long years, but since taking Tanlac about a month she has actually gained fifteen pounds and is as well and feels as good as anybody in Tennessee. One day last week she walked to South Memphis and back, three miles each way, to visit some relatives who had not seen her since she began taking Tanlac, and they hardly knew her and were astonished when she walked in and they saw her looking so well.

"She had the most awful stomach trouble and it was alarming the way it pulled her down. Besides that, she underwent an operation two years ago and since then she has been going down faster than ever. She lost her appetite entirely and her stomach was in such a dreadful condition she couldn't retain anything she would eat and she was so extremely nervous she couldn't sleep hardly any. She had the most terrible pains in her stomach, sides and back, and she had splitting headaches constantly. She fell off in weight until she was scarcely more than a skeleton. She was so weak and irritable she never felt like moving around at all. Operation nor medicine did her any good and I had almost given up hopes of her ever getting well.

"Finally my husband and I decided for her to try Tanlac as a last resort, and Oh! how I wish she had taken it long ago. It's the most wonderful medicine I ever heared of in my life. She has taken only three bottles and as I hav already said she has gained fifteen pounds, and is now a picture of health. She and her sister have walked up town, a distance of nearly two miles, she wil lreturn in a little while and I want you to wait and hear her tell about what Tanlac has done for her.

"She now eats anything she wants, enev to cucumbers and radishes, and meats of all kinds—she actually eats pork-chops—and anything else she wants day or night and nothing she eats hurts her in the least. She is not the least bit nervouse now and sleeps like a baby and is as happy as a person can be. Her friends who havent seen her since she has been taking Tanlac actually don't know her she has improved so much and looks so different, and I'm so happy over her recovery I just want to tell the world what Tanlac has done for her."

"Oh, Mama, I have secured a nice position and I'm going to work tomorrow," said Mrs. Mobley who had just returned from town. "I just feel so good I want to work." When the Tanlac man told Mrs Mobley what her mother said, her reply was, "That isn't half; Tanlac has saved me from the grave; I'm just as well and happy as a person can be. You can just publish my statement and scatter it broadcast and if anybody don't believe it just refer them to me or any of my family, relatives or neighbors, they all know what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co, in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon, in Thorsby by A. K. Horn and Son, in Cooper by McSwain Mer. Co, in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co, in Stanton by W. C. Dver, in Riderville by E. E. Jackson Lumber Co, in Marbury by Plateon Drug Co, and in Verbena by Gulledge Bros.

Miss Celia McMillian of Columbiana is visiting Mrs. J. Q. Wade.

The ladies of the M. E. Missionary society got up their pastor a nice donation.

Miss Lucy Moore of South Alabama is visiting Mrs. J. O. Middleton.

AT THE DIXIE

THURSDAY:

"The Japanese Mask."

FRIDAY:

The First Episode of our Great Serial

"WHO'S GUILTY?"

The Greatest Series of Modern Plays Ever Produced—Fourteen Episodes, each a Complete Fascinating Picture, with a Thrilling Interest Conctiag Them. One each Friday Night. Don't Miss a One.

SATURDAY—MATINEE and NIGHT.

"The Heart That Knew."

And

"Pressing His Suit."

HON .O. D. STREET IS COMING TO CHILTON COUNTY

Hon. O. D. Street, National Republican Committeeman from this state, has consented to come to Chilton county and make speeches in the interest of the Republican party. He will speak at Pletcher, Beat 15, Friday September 29th, at 10 a. m., and at Vermont Schoolhouse Beat 15, at 2:00 p. m., and at Maple Springs, Beat 10, at 7:00 p. m. He will speak at Cooper on Saturday September 30th, at 10 a. m., and at Jemison, Beat 2, at 2 p. m., and Collins Chapel, Beat 9, at 7:00 p. m.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

There will be public speaking at the following times and places in the interest of the Republican party, by Judge Reynolds and Hon. J. O. Middleton:

Corinth, Beat 5, Tuesday night, Sept. 19th at 7:30.

Enterprise, Beat 6, Friday night, Sept. 22nd at 7:30.

All voters and citizens are invited and requested to be present.

DEATH AND BURIAL OF MR. W. H. NELSON

Mr. W. H. Nelson, a former citizen of Chilton county, died at Tuscaloosa last week and his remains were brought back to his old home and buried on Friday at Pine Flat cemetery.

Miss Mollie Murrah has resumed her duties in the office of the Tax Collector after a vacation for the summer at her home near Collins Chapel.

CLANTON POST OFFICE

List of letters remaining uncalled for in this office for the week ending Sept. 2nd, 1916.

Ladies

Minnie Davis
Essie Headley
Lillie Marlow
Dorah Watson
Rena Tuesday
Eva Smith
Fannie Terrell
Mrs. John Jones

Gentlemen

D. R. Adams
J. A. Aldridge
John Cagle
William Cooper
John W. Downey
J. P. Owen.

These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter Office Sept. 16, 1916, if not delivered before. In calling for the above please say "Advertised" giving date of list.

B. M. ROBERTS, P.M.

Mr. Bob Keenan and Mr. Will Wilson were called to Goodwater to do some special surveying this week.

CHILTON COUNTY BEEF CATTLE SHIPPED TO BIRMINGHAM

Mr. W. E. Dubose, a cattle dealer, purchased two car loads of Chilton county beef cattle and shipped them on Monday to the Birmingham market.

STANTON BAPTIST CHURCH DESTROYED BY FIRE

The Baptist church at Stanton was destroyed by fire on Sunday night at 11:00 o'clock. The congregation intend to erect another church building in the near future.

COTTON MARKET

Wednesday quotations for cotton on the Clanton market were for middling 14¾ cents; strict middling 15c

Miss Mae Roberts and Miss Izora Callen leave in a few days to enter school at the Judson.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, Chilton County.

To any Sheriff of the State of Alabama—Greeting:

Whereas, M. M. Abrams joint owner, together with C. W. Abrams, J. M. Abrams J. A. Abrams, Elizah Abrams and Alberta Mosley has filed his aplication in said Court for a sale of the lands described therein, belonging to said joint owners, for the purpose of partition and division, and the 30th day of September 1916 has been apointed for the hearing of said application.

You are, therefore, hereby commanded to cite Eliza Abrams, James M. Abrams, Alberta Mosley, (Odessa Texas,) J. A. Abrams to appear before the said Court on said 30th day of September 1916, to contest said application if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this 7th day of September 1916.

E. B. DEASON,
Judge of Probate.

Good Looks are Easy with

Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your city cousins. No matter how much Magnolia Balm you use it is impossible for it to show instantly. Apply a little on the face and rub in before dry. Try a bottle today at the nearest convenient store. Flesh, White or Red Colors.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send 50c. in stamps for sample by mail direct.

[illegible] CO., 566 to 570 5th Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

LUMBER

I have on hand at Clanton, and Jemison, several Thousand Feet of

Steam Kiln Dried

LONG LEAF YELLOW PINE FLOORING AND CEILING
WILL SELL AT A BARGAIN
Come and see or write

Joe Van Derveer, Jr.,

CLANTON, ALA.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

THE UNION-BANNER

Farm and Immigration SUPPLEMENT

CLANTON, ALA., SEPTEMBER 14, 1916

If Kaiser Came, What Would He Do?

Would Make Us Put Cover Crop on Every Acre to Be Planted in Cotton in Spring

Kaiser William is a cordially hated man by a good many people in this country.

However, that may be, we are persuaded that it would be a great thing for us if he and the agricultural authorities of the German Empire could get a leave of absence from the war and come over here and take charge of us this fall and this winter and next spring.

What Would They Do.

After he and his agricultural advisers had looked over our situation what do you imagine would be the first order they would issue? Wouldn't it be something like this: "Not one foot of land shall be planted in cotton next spring that is not planted in a cover crop. If the owner cannot do it, we will do it for him and take the cost out of his crop next spring, or else take it out of the cotton crop that shall be raised on the land."

Wouldn't we raise a howl at that sort of an order—taking away our political right (whatever they may be) and forcing us to do things that we didn't want to do?

But as a matter of fact wouldn't it be the best thing that could happen to us? It might take away a few political rights for the time being but it would give us some economic rights that we never had before, and who is there to say that "economic liberty" is not as great a thing as "political liberty?"

We would get bigger and better cotton crops than we had raised in three years—and that without the cost of fertilizer. We would make more grain than ever before, and isn't it worth a great deal to grow our own wheat with flour at its present price?

But as there is no chance of applying the German system here, we will have to do something on our own hook. Absence of fertilizer and the absolute need of fertilizer to grow cotton on a great deal of the cottoned-out land is making us grow our own fertilizer. The present price of flour—and there is no chance of flour going down much for a long time to come—is driving us to raise our own wheat.

There is no hope of the fertilizer situation changing for at least a year—maybe more. Wheat is going to continue to be high for a long time to come and so are meats. This fall and this winter give us our opportunity—and it is a wonderful opportunity.

Our Wonderful Advantage.

While the farmers of Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois and those great farming states are snow bound and ice-locked we can be growing grains and legumes right along. While they are keeping their hogs in specially heated houses to keep them from freezing and feeding them, our little pigs can be out running on pasture. While the field of the Central West are covered with snow and sleet ours can be thriving under the sunshine and rain and producing oats, wheat, rye, clovers and alfalfa.

Is this not a wonderful opportunity and a wonderful advantage? We have twelve months of farm productivity all along the line while some of those western states have only seven months.

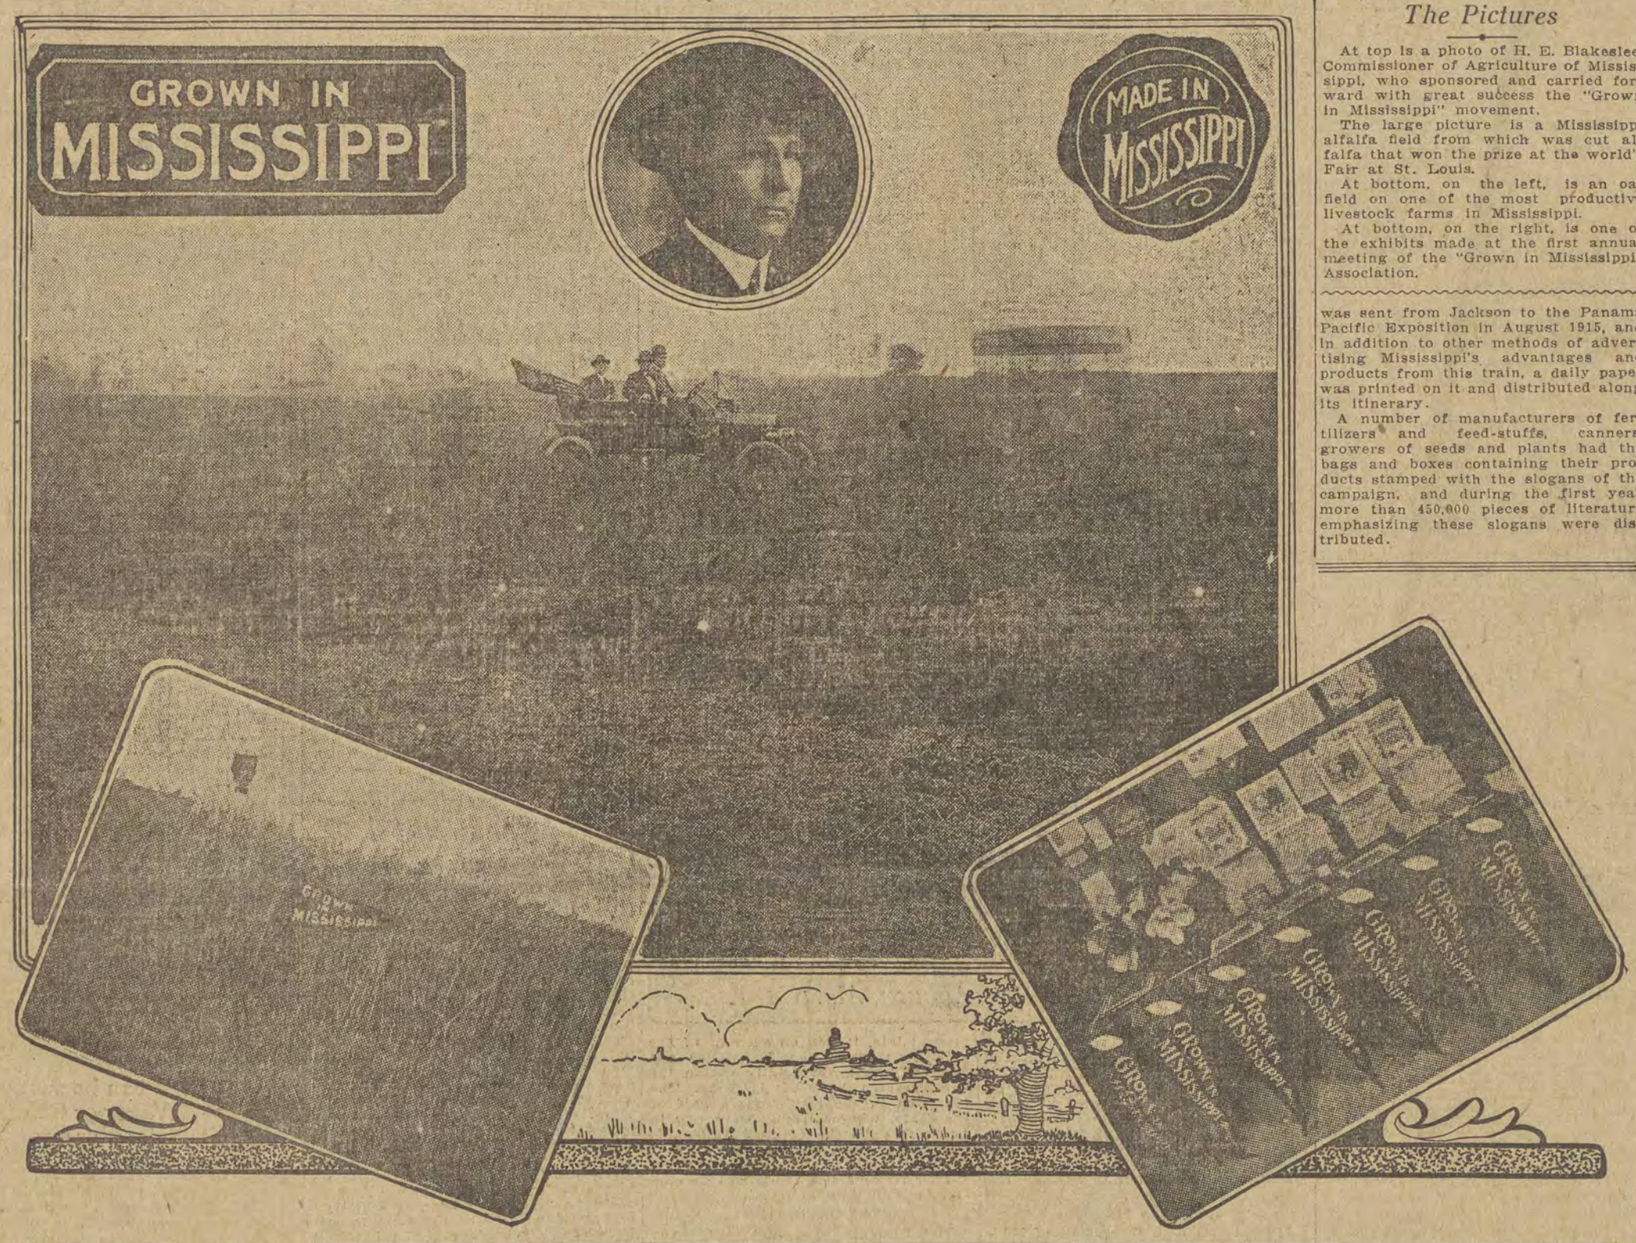
Good people, let us take real advantage of this fine climate this fall and this winter. Letus plow deep and catch the winter moisture for the dry springtime. If we only do this we will not have much cause to worry about oats and wheat. Sub-soiling will defeat any dry spell that we ever have in this section of country. It is remarkable what it will do when it is really tried.

Things We Can Do.

Let us get some nitrogen and vegetable matter into the land for the cotton next season, for again there will be very little commercial fertiliser available. Let us get started with some permanent pasture. Let us increase the livestock. Let us try to get into sheep raising—the one hundred per cent. profit business. Let us go in stronger for poultry. This should be one of the most thrifty poultry sections of the United States. Tennessee to the north of us is giving us a striking example of what can be done with poultry. Let us increase the dairy cows, and get better ones. Our mild winters are a wonderful aid to dairying. Some of our towns are lacking in milk and butter. In some towns in this section it is hard to buy a pound of butter or a gallon of milk. Is this sort of thing necessary in a country where there are pastures throughout the cold season?

Campaign Now On.

The winter cover crops campaign continues through the State. Let us make the most of this campaign. Let us learn from this campaign and do some of the things that we realize should be done without delay. These things to do with profit to ourselves and the land are numerous enough to include the entire range of farming subjects. But deep plowing and planting grains and legumes are the main things. These things in themselves will bring an increase in livestock for having pastures we will put stock on the pastures. Livestock should always follow pastures; not go before them. Putting livestock before pastures gets people in a tight box, runs up feed bills and brings discouragement.



Can Never Be Overdone

We cannot have too many pastures. Pastures are one thing that can never be overdone anywhere. There is no danger of any section, anywhere ever having too much pasture or too much livestock. We can raise too much of this or too much of that or too much of the other but you never heard of any part of the country ever having too much acreage in pasture or too many head of livestock. Pasture and livestock have never been "overdone" and never will be in this generation or the next

So let us this fall make the greatest effort we have ever made to improve our land by that "carpet of green over every farm."

L. M.

Mississippi's Work an Inspiration to the South

The Pictures

At top is a photo of H. E. Blakeslee, Commissioner of Agriculture of Mississippi, who sponsored and carried forward with great success the "Grown in Mississippi" movement.

The large picture is a Mississippi alfalfa field from which was cut alfalfa that won the prize at the world's Fair at St. Louis.

At bottom, on the left, is an oat field on one of the most productive livestock farms in Mississippi.

At bottom, on the right, is one of the exhibits made at the first annual meeting of the "Grown in Mississippi" Association.

(By Eleanor Evins Stewart)

We are having trouble enough with the boll weevil in Alabama, it is true, but our condition, is a happy one compared to that which existed in our neighbor state, Mississppi, nine years ago, when her weevil infestation was at its height. Her agricultural demoralization was complete; her devastated districts were as hopeless and helpless as if in the midst of a yellow fever epidemic; many people left the State, and all business interests were temporarily paralyzed.

But we of the South, whether of Alabama or Mississippi or any other of the sister states, are a people who do not succumb to defeat, and thus, the thinking men of Mississippi, true to their blood, rallied, bore themselves well in the face of their adversity, and began a systematic warefare against this boll weevil enemy, the most serious pest that had ever interfered with their money crops. Their method of war-fare was a departure from the one crop system, a change from the farming operations of a life time, a determined, cooperative diversification campaign; and today, though cotton is still Mississippi's staple and as such ranks as one of the finest of this products in the world, her diversified interests are even greater than her cotton, and are as extensive as the State herself.

Nine Years Of Progress.

The real agricultural progress and advance made by Mississippi in the past nine years has never been equalled, or even approached, before in any period of the State's history, and its present prosperity and development as compared with conditions in the past not only demonstrates the successful issue of the fight against the boll weevil, but illustrates graphically and convincingly as well the numberless and extensive benefits resulting from an emancipation from the one crop system.

Money Went For Food.

Though Mississippi's cotton, under the one crop system, brought into the State about $90,000,000 yearly, there was an appalling outlay of $40,000,000 or $50,000,000 annually for products that could and should have been raised at home, namely, mules, feed and foodstuffs. These figures, it may be said in passing, have applied with even greater magnitude, doubtless, in our own State in the past, and now that our reform is well under way, a review of the work accomplished by our neighbor since her reformation should be of help and interest to us. Truly, her example is worthy of emulation.

Following the advice and example of leaders of thought and safe counselors of action, the great mass of people themselves soon evidenced an interest in this great work of saving their State, and as a result of cooperative effort, the plan was outlined and put into execution that has rebuilded Mississippi's agricultural methods and practises.

The Man Blakeslee.

One of the first and most important actions was the creation of the State Department of Agriculture, with H. E. Blakeslee as its commissioner, and nine years of active, effectual service mark his incumbency of this office. The law creating this Department admonishes that "the Commissioner shall use every means at his command to bring about the proper development of Mississippi's resources." His broad interpretation of this law and his compliance with it together with the united efforts of a determined people has brought about the development of Mississippi's resources beyond the most sanguine hopes.

Education The Foundation

Then, that the citizenship of this new commonwealth might be a trained and intelligent one, education was ed and intelligent one, education was made the foundation stone of its rebuilding. Every student in the 8,000 public schools of the State was, and is, required to study the elements of agriculture in the sixth grade, and this is followed by instruction in and practical application of club work for both boys and girls—Mississippi was the pioneer Southern state in this club work—and succeeded by progressive steps in agricultural training until the student is graduated from the universities.

Four years ago a law was passed authorizing the building and the maintaining of agricultural high schools with the county as a unit, and approximately two-thirds of the counties have already complied with this law. At each of these is given thoroughly practical instruction to both boys and girls, preparing them for theAgricultural and Mechanical College, a great agricultural university, or for the Industrial Institute and College, the first state institution in the United States for the industrial training of girls. Space forbids a further enumeration of the wonderful facilities offered by Mississippi for the training of farm boys and girls, but it can be stated truthfully and with just pride by those who have watched her endeavors, that her educational advantages along agricultural lines are greater than those of any other state in the Union.

Farmers Institutes Work.

Provision having been made for the proper training of the future farmers, the older cotton farmers who were as inexperienced in the new methods as were the boys themselves, were not forgotten. The farmers' Institute force was put actively into the field, competent men were delegated to go among the farmers, counsel with them and aid them in applying new methods and practical, experienced men were ready at the call of any farmer to assist in the construction of barns, dairies, potato houses, silos, et cetera, thus encouraging the building of these necessary adjuncts to the successful farm. More than one half of the counties employed demonstration agents whose entire time was given to instructing and otherwise assisting the farmers.

Railroads and Bankers Active.

Besides the four splendidly equipped experiment stations of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, a great number of demonstration farms were maintained by the railroads and other corporations for the purpose of showing the farmers that the results obtained at the experiment stations were possible of practical application, and in addition the railroads further co-operated in the running of trains for various purposes in this campaign.

The bankers and manufacturers lent their aid, and indeed from every possible source within the State came the greatest help and interest. A comprehensive and effective system of publicity was organized, and the newspapers gave, and are still giving, the most valuable assistance and encouragement.

"Grown in Mississippi."

With the advance of diversification came the inevitable need for markets, and in May, 1914, the Commissioner of Agriculture, with the object of relieving this necessity, of popularizing Mississippi products abroad, and of marketing them to the best advantage, conceived the idea of the "Grown in Mississippi" campaign, which is the same in substance as "Alabama Must Feed Herself."

A call for a general conference of the people, a meeting of all interests within the State, was announced for May 22, 1914, at the Board of Trade rooms at Jackson, and the request made that "organizations of every character are requested to have representatives at this meeting, and every individual in the State who feels an interest in the successful termination of the 'Grown in Mississippi' campaign is requested to be present. This meeting is for the organization of an Association to carry on the work of encouraging the people everywhere to grow those things that they are now buying from the Central West,—pork and beef, butter, lard, eggs, canned goods, and livestock. Business-like efforts will be made to find the best markets for these products sold in Mississippi and those shipped out of the State. Every producer and shipper will be urged to put on every car, package and sack sent out, 'Grown in Mississippi.

Objects of Movement.

An enthusiastic gathering of representative Mississippians met in response to this call and the permanent "Grown in Mississippi" Association was formed, including all forces working for the betterment of the State, and having as their objects:

First—To promote diversification of crops and to advertise the products of the State to the world by labelling, or otherwise placing thereon the words "Grown in Mississippi."

Second—To promote a State-wide campaign for producing on every farm as far as practical the needs of that farm and home.

Third—The growing in each community the products needed that are now purchased from the outside.

Fourth—A house to house campaign for using the home products.

Fifth—A distribution throughout the entire year from times of plenty to times of scarcity.

Sixth—Improvement in grade, quality and uniformity.

Seventh—Collecting and giving information as far as facilities will allow what surplus products are in each community, and local co-operation such as the organization of community clubs to properly handle the local situation.

Eighth—Fostering a neighborly and friendly spirit amongst all the elements of the community.

Ninth—A trade at home campaign in its broadest sense, including merchants and tradesmen.

Started a Magazine.

Despite enthusiasm, it was with difficulty that sufficient funds were raised for the expense of the campaign, but with the assistance of the public spirited business men in all parts of the State, the work was begun. A general publicity campaign was designed and carefully carried out by the State newspapers, an invaluable help in keeping this campaign and its slogan before the people. In addition the Association began the publication of the "Grown in Mississippi" Magazine for general distribution throughout the State. "Grown in Mississippi" and "Made in Mississippi" stickers were made by the thousands and distributed broadcast.

A special "Grown in Mississippi" text book for use in the schools was prepared by State authorities. Many thousands of these were given out to the schools and a week's study devoted to the subject. Just here it must be stated, though a disgression, that this text book is one of the most interesting and instructive pamphlets on agricultural subjects that could have been compiled, and all who are interested in the elements of farming will find it a valuable reference book.

By means of this book more than 750,000 children were taught the real meaning of "Grown in Mississippi," that is, of living at home, and on a designated day the schools celebrated this slogan with special and appropriate programs, featured by lunches composed almost exclusively of eatables grown in Mississippi.

What Dining Cars Did.

Aconsiderable number of hotels throughout the State spread weekly "Grown in Mississippi" dinners, and "Grown in Mississippi" dinners, and the railroads co-operated in like manner by giving to the patrons of their dining car service similar dinners and luncheons. The menu cards were supplied by the Association, and consisted of seven pages of descriptive matter exploiting Mississippi and her products with a blank page for the menu. These were printed on paper made in the State from saw-mill refuse. More than 30,000 miles of railroad were covered 250 dining cars offering these feature meals, and thus advertising Mississippi products from Washington state to Louisiana from Chicago to San Francisco. A special train carrying 200 boosters for the State and her products was sent from Jackson to the Panama Pacific Exposition in August 1915, and in addition to other methods of advertising Mississippi's advantages and products from this train, a daily paper was printed on it and distributed along its itinerary.

A number of manufacturers of fertilizers and feed-stuffs, canners, growers of seeds and plants had the bags and boxes containing their products stamped with the slogans of the campaign, and during the first year more than 450,000 pieces of literature emphasizing these slogans were distributed.

The Bulletin, a practical wide-awake monthly publication, issued by the Department of Agriculture, dealing with matters of interest to the farmer and illustrated with Mississippi farm scenes, goes into some 32,000 homes in the State, and is not only of the greatest interest and benefit to the farmer, but has been also a potent factor in developing Mississippi's resources and in stimulating increased interest in her agricultural campaigns.

Story Of Great Progress

There is space for a brief survey of the great progress made by Mississippi since her emancipation from the one-crop system nine years ago, but her story and example are inspirational and her remarkable advance in everyline of agricultural endeavor is one of the strongest chapters in the diversification history of our great country. It should be of especial interest to us here in Alabama, for whatever has applied to Mississippi has, and will, apply to Alabama, and the lines that divide us are after all but negligible.

It was stated in the beginning of this article that Mississippi formerly sent out between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 for products that could and should have been raised at home. One of these was corn, and in the past nine years the total of the latter has increased almost 40,000,000 bushels with an average increase of seven bushels per acre, this item alone saving the state between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 Practically the same conditions prevail with reference to oats and small grains, alfalfa and other hay crops and legumes.

Livestock Progress.

The growth of the live stock industry is amazing, and it is now easily worth $50,000,000 more than it was nine years ago. Where formerly only desultory cars of livestock were shipped, today solid train loads are carried out and one packing plant is running full time. Dairying has been stimulated to such an extent that Mississippi can now boast of some of the finest dairy herds in the South, and eleven creamery plants, producing an average of 25,000 pounds of butter per week, are in operation with others in prospect. Silo building has followed cattle raising and dairying, and in three years the number of silos has increased from 100 to 1,000, and they are still being builded.

In the work of tick eradicatnon Mississippi has made a splendid record, and although many counties are tick free, a new law has been recently passed making this work compulsory all over the entire State.

In the handling of hog cholera, anthrax, and other live stock diseases the mortality has been less than in any state in the union with one exception; and the progress made in sensibly controlling contagious and infectidiseases has been most satisfactory This fortunate condition has been brought about largely through the assistance and advice of the county

(Continued on Page Two)

Keep Labor On Farms By All Means

Labor Leaving Will Have Same Sad Effect Here as in East—Now Is Time to Act

"How can we keep the labor on the farms?"

This is a question that you hear asked now in many localities and it is one that you are going to hear asked more and more often unless a sensible move is made to prevent farm labor from leaving the land and going to the towns and cities.

"Labor—labor wanted."

That is the cry today all over the eastern part of the United States and it is going to be a wail here in the Central South if we don't do something to hold the farm labor.

In the eastern states the large cities and the smaller industrial centers, that are now on a "boom," have taken farm labor from every section. There is not now enough labor to take care of the orchards, the corn and the hay. As a result many people have sold or rented their farms and moved to town—a most deplorable thing to do.

Let Us Stop It.

For the land's sake—and for our own sakes—don't let us get into the pickle that eastern farming sections are in today because of the labor leaving and going to town to get "jobs."

Today right here in the Central South much labor is leaving the farms and going into the cities and towns in search of work. Some are lured by temporary high prices for labor in industrial centers and on the railroads. Others have been hurt by the storms to such an extent that they are forced to go to towns to seek work whether it is there for them or not.

Are we going to sit idly by and see the labor lured off the land or forced off it for lack of something to eat? It is a sad day both for the labor and the land owner when the labor leaves the farms. It means that the people of the towns and cities have just that many more folks to feed and heaven knows most of our towns and cities have too many people to feed as it is now.

We must do somethin gto hold the labor and we must do it quick. If necessary, we must give the labor the use of the land free for a season and furnish seed and supplies. The seed can be used in making a fall garden, sowing a little patch of wheat and one of oats. Land owners owe it to themselves and to their tenants to keep the labor on the farm and to see that it gets through into next season all right.

Need Foodstuffs.

Right today many of the farm laborers would be glad to remain on the land if they were helped through this fall and this winter. Many of them are not anxious to leave familiar scenes and go into the towns where living is a precarious business. They need help and they need it now. They need seeds for a fall and winter garden and for a grain crop. Many of them need some chickens and maybe a hog or two. What they really need they should have. If they are unable to pay for these things should be given them and the slate wiped clean until next spring.

In some cases such charity would be taken undue advantage of. But on the whole it is the best thing to do—and the only thing to do now.

It is a pitiful thing to see anybody leave a farm and go to town, whether land owner, tenant or employe. Once in town they don't come back on the land. Labor gone from the farm is gone forever. That's what's the matter with the Eastern states today, and it is considerable matter in the Southern states. In the East people have left the farms by thousands and gone into towns, and some sections of the East will be a half a century recovering from this disastrous movement. You can see the effects of it on every hand here in the South. People are living in every little town who once owned big farms. They are living in town and producing nothing in the way of foodstuffs and somebody out on the farms has to feed them. Many of the little towns are filling up with farm labor—once productive and now a burden to itself and the community because of lack of opportunity for production.

Act Now.

In the past our towns have been partly in fault. They have tried to exceed in population and have sent out invitations to come and dwell in them. The trouble with most towns now is that they have too many people in them who are not producing anything to eat. If every town and city in this country had half the population it has and the extra half were back on the farms producing something and owning their own homes the country would be far better off.

But this question has come straight home to us now. As the boll weevil continues to spread it will come home with more and more force. We must get the farm labor into the right sort of production—growing a garden and some grain., having some livestock and taking care of the livestock for home use, and increasing the number of chickens.

Big plantations without labor are burdensome enough to bear down the owners. Many a big land owner is going to have to sell out at a sacrfifice simply because of lack of labor. Some will sell out and move to town and a former plantation owner coming into town is a sad and deplorable spectacle. Without his acres under cultivation and his plows going he in in a bad way.

Good people, let's prevent these things and keep our labor by helping the labor through if they need help. Now is the time to act. It is not sentiment but good sound business, for the good alike of the land owner and the farm laborer.

Solomon & Oates

Headland, Alabama

Shorthorn Cattle—Hampshire Hogs—Fulgum Oats

Everybody stops at the

Exchange Hotel

Leslie D. Fairchild, Mgr.

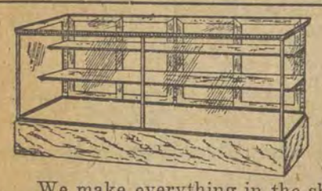
FREE TO KODAKERS

Send us one roll films, we will develop and print it free just to show you how much better our work is than the other fellow's Expert on films. THE KODAK MAN BOYLE, 164 Dauphin St., Mobile, Ala.

Fight Poultry Diseases Before They Break Out

"An ounce of prevention will not only save a pound of cure in keeping the chickens healthy and thriving at this time of the year, but will save a great deal of trouble and expense as well."

This is the opinion of E. P. Clayton of the Mississippi A. and M. College, who states that the time to fight poultry diseases is before they break out and offers the timely suggestions:



To prevent sorehead and other kindred diseases that commonly appear at this season of the year, feed sulphur and salts to the poultry as follows: Give a half teaspoonful of salts to every chicken under three pounds in weight. Mix it with the feed. They will object to such feed but get them real hungry and they will eat it. Repeat this dose each week. If the disease breakes out you will notice it at first as small wartlike knots on the comb and wattles. As soon as these knots are noticed, paint the comb and wattles of the affected chickens with iodine and give a teaspoonful of salts. The following day paint again. This will cure all cases if taken in time. To get rid of mites spray with pure kerosene oil.

Drain Your Land Now and Double Your Crop

We make a specialty of this and can supply maps and make surveys of your land. Write us for expert information, or call to see us.

THE GRABLE DRAINAGE COMPANY

321 Bell Bldg. Montgomery, Ala.

SHOW CASES Are The BEST BOOSTERS

They never stop boosting your goods, never worry a customer and are always THERE at the right time.

We make everything in the show case line. Our catalogue will show you the latest improvements and help you to make the needed changes in your store. Write us today.

NASHVILLE SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

To Farmers of Boll Weevil Sections:-

THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG will do effective and rapid work in brushing to the ground boll weevils and punctured squares.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is a strong, practical and economical device for getting rid of the most weevils in the QUICKEST TIME and the CHEAPEST WAY. It is used and highly recommended by some of the most successful farmers in Mississippi and Alabama.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is the best device known for the use of tenant farmers in fighting the weevil.

THE DRAG DESCRIBED

The Drag is a steel rod that holds a light durable chain, the rod and chain being attached to the beam of the plow stock with a casting arranged so as to be adjustable to the size of plants at the time for plowing. The rod is placed at an angle to the beam and as the plow proceeds down the row the rod bends down the plant over towards the middle between the rows and the chain agitates the plant sufficiently to cause the Weevil and infested squares to fall off into the middle of the row. The attachment is reversible as well as adjustable, up and down, and can be used on either right or left side of the plow below or above the beam.

We do not desire to create the impression among farmers that any device will prevent all the damage the weevil usually causes, unless the approved measures for control be carefully followed.

Write us so we can take care of your order before the growing season starts.

Robinson-Erhart Co. Selma, Ala.

To the Farmers of Alabama

The farmers of IOWA are the most prosperous on the face of the Earth. They borrow money on their lands on long periods of time, with options as to re-payment, leaving their stock and crop unencumbered, so they can hold them for the highest market.

Figure the rate of interest you are paying on money borrowed on your crop and stock, and the rate you can borrow it on your lands, and you will see why Iowa farmers are so prosperous.

Let us lend you money on the IOWA plan.

The State Abstract Co.

Montgomery, Alabama

J. S. PINCKARD, President — JACK THORINGTON, Vice-President

Get In Touch With Kratzer

You can ship him all the milk and cream from your herd and get in CASH FROM YOUR COWS.

A steady market all the year.

It will pay you to investigate. Just write, phone or call on

Kratzer's Creamery

Montgomery, Alabama

Let's Give Our Country Boys and Girls a Chance For a Good Education

Have you got any children? If so the above picture of Alabama's educational conditions will appeal to you.

If you haven't got any children, the chances are you exect to have some some day; and you, just the same as present-day parents, should be interested—very deeply interested.

You men and women in the small centers and the country are the ones to whom we appeal. City folks have already got prett ygood schools, with long terms, but you have both poor schoolhouses and short terms.

Our country Children.

Are we doing the right thing by our children? Most certainly we are not. Just because our child is living in the country why shouldn't he or she have just as good schooling as the boy or girl in town? Why should our city schools be good and our country schools poor?

The country boy or girl is worth just as much to society as the city boy or girl—sometimes more. The country boy and the country girl are the ones who make real citizens and do things in this world. Why should we hold them back? Why should we deprive them of good schools and good schooling? Why should you parents be forced to move to town to educate your children when you don't want to move to town?

Must Build up Country.

Now, good people, isn't it time we were looking this thing square in the face and seeing that we should and must give our country and small-town boys and girls just the same chance as those in the city have? Isn't it about time wewere seeing that the only way to keep on building up the country and keeping people in the country is to give the country districts good schools? There are thousands of country mothers and fathers who are constantly lamenting that their children have poor educational advantages. There are some, who, unfortunately, don't bother about this great question of education for their children.

We have gone along just about as long as we can under our present systetm of short-terms and poor school buildings in the country districts. The country districts must have good schools and long terms. The country boys and girls must have the same chance for an education as the city boys and girls.

Imposes No Taxes.

The local taxation amendment to the constitution of Alabama will give the country boys and girls this chance.

The local taxation amendment imposes no taxes. Make no mistake about this. The amendment carries not one cent of taxation with it.

The amendment simply gives each county the right to tax itself for its own schools--for better schools and short terms. But if your county does want to tax itself for good schools and longer school terms then it can do so.

But, remember, the amendment itself is in no manner a taxing measure.

Gives Counties Right.

There are a good many counties that would take advantage of the amendment and build better schools and lengthen the school term. There are others that would hesitate until their neighbor counities went ahead and improved their schools. Then they would fall into line.

The amendment changes nothing in the present constitution. It has nothing to do with the spending of State money for schools over the State. The amendment is simply an addition to the constitution giving the counties the right to decide for themselves what sort of schools they shall have for their children.

It Means So Much.

You owe it to your children and to your community to support this amendment. It is not a political question in any sense. It means better educated children, more people staying on the farms and the building up of our country districts. It means a new and better Alabama. It means putting Alabama abreast of other states in what it can offer its rural and small-town children in the way of a good education.

This means so much to our children and our state that it would be a terrible shame if it were defeated this fall. The indifference of the voters will be what will defeat it, if it is beaten. No politician, however cheap or hungry for office could afford to fight it.

Now don't be indifferent about this great question. It is more important by far than a Governor election. The state goes on about the same way under one governor as it does under another. But the state would not go on the same way under a system of good schools as it does at presentt. It would be a different state and the country districts would be in position to invite people to come and live in them—people with children who want their children to get good educations.

Work and Vote for It.

You fathers and you mothers, work for this amendment and get your friends to vote for it, giving your county the right—if it wants to—to build better schools and lengthen the school term and raise the standards and increase the courses of study.

Let's give our country children a real chance. Let's make our rural districts more attractive to settlers. Let's raise this old state out of the rut of poor schools, limieted courses and miserably short terms. Let's advertise to te world that the rural districets of Alabama are just as good and just as enlightened as the rural districts of Illinois.

Work for the Amendment and vote for it—you mothers and you fathers. You mothers haven't got the vote. If you had you would vote for the amendment--nearly every one of you. But you can get your husbands interested in it and you can work with your friends and tell them not to be indifferent but to work for and cast a vote for better schools in Alabama.

Studebaker WAGONS BUGGIES HARNESS

FORTY-THREE YEARS OF SERVICE CUTS DOWN WAGON'S COST

My Studebaker was bought 43 years ago from Delbart Lowe of Webberville, Mich., by Daniel Herrick, a pioneer in this vicinity, now 80 years old.

In 1887, S. E. Dean bought the wagon from A. B. Herrick, Daniel's son.

Eight years ago L. C. Dean, son of S. E. Dean, bought the wagon from his father and still uses the wagon on his farm.

The wagon has stood out of doors for 26 years; a yard and a quarter of gravel can be drawn in it now.

Levi C. Dean, R.F.D., Webberville, Mich.

A Studebaker that has served three generations—

Think of the money that sturdy Studebaker made for each one of its owners.

It is true a Studebaker wagon may cost you a few dollars more than a cheaply made wagon, but when you consider the years of service you get from the Studebaker, isn't it much the cheaper wagon in the end?

In fact, it is a safe proposition to judge your wagon by what it costs you per year.

We have sold a lot of Studebaker wagons. Let us tell you what we know about the experience of some of our customers. Come in and look them over.

Teague Hardware Co.

Montgomery, Ala.

"A Studebaker Customer Is a Satisfied Customer"

FARM LOANS Loans of $1,000 to $50,000 on well improved farm lands at low rate of interest. Five years to pay.

L. W. Martin, 27 S. Perry St., Montgomery, Ala.

SHORTHORN BULLS FOR SALE

Also females of very best breeding and individual merit. Guaranteed breeders. Farmers of Alabama, write me for pure-bred sires at reasonable prices.

MORTON CRABB, Gallion, Ala.

Your Cattle, Hogs and Sheep will bring the HIGHEST MARKET PRICE if Shipped to the National Live Stock Commission Co.

National Stock Yards, Ill.

MARKET REPORTS FREE ON REQUEST.

How to Make the Greatest Success With Bur Clover and With Crimson Clover

What These Legumes Can and Will Do for Your Land and Crops; the Kinds of Soils for Them; When and Where to Plant; the Preparation of the Land and the Seed and Full Directions for Seeding

BY H. M. COTTRELL

The yield per acre of cotton can be doubled, twice as much corn can be raised per acre and fertilizer bills can be cut in half by sowing either crimson or bur clover every fall. By sowing these clovers every fall, every tillable acre can in four years be made to produce a bale or more of cotton to the acre or sixty bushels of corn.

This can be done by sowing either crimson or bur clover every year in September and turning under the crop each spring when the plants are in full bloom. These clovers grow through the fall winter and early spring and are to be plowed under in time to plant spring crops. They add, depending on the vigor of their growth, as much nitrogen to an acre as an application of 7 to 25 sacks of cottonseed meal. Half the money spent in the cotton states for fertilizer goes to buy nitrogren. These winter-growing clovers secure from the air all the nitrogen that farm crops need.

Effect on Yield.

Cotton had been grown on an up-land red clay field near Cordova, Tenn., for 40 years. The yield dropped to a quarter of a bale an acre in favorable seasons. A new man took charge of the farm. He cultivated his cotton until the middle of August, applied wood ashes, and sowed crimson clover between the rows at the last cultivation. After only two years of this treatment and two crops of crimson clover had been turned under, the average yield for the whole field was one and one-fourth bales of cotton an acre.

A planter near Little Rock, Ark., raised cotton on river bottom land for 45 years without growing another crop. One fall after the first picking of cotton he sowed bur clover on ten acres in the center of a large field. The clover grew through the winter and early spring and was plowed under in time to plant the land to cotton so that not a single crop was lost. The land where the bur clover grew produced one and one-half bales of cotton an acre, the yield on the adjoining land was one-half bale an acre.

Crimson clover near Covington, Tenn. was grazed until May first. It made a growth of 12 inches during the next ten days was plowed under and the land planted to corn. The corn yielded 60 bushels an acre.

These are three out of thousands of instances of increased yields made by sowing these winter-growing clovers in the fall and turning them under the following spring.

How They Do It.

Crimson and bur clovers take large quantities of nitrogen from the air and when they are plowed under this nitrogen is added to the soil to feed the crops that follow. More food for plants is leached out of the soil during our rainy open winters than is used by the crops that grow through the summer. These winter-growing clovers prevent this loss by absorbing the plant food that would be leached away if the land was left bare. When the clovers are plowed under in the spring this plant food that is saved is ready to feed the summer-growing crops.

One of the most profitable gains secured by plowing under crimson or bur clover is that the decayed vegetable matter they add to the soil increases its power to hold moisture in the right condition to supply crops during the summer drought. Many men have told us that in the latter part of July corn planted on crimson clover sod was dark green and vigorous showing that it had an abundant supply of moisture while on adjoining land the corn was sickly and yellow suffering from lack of both moisture and nitrogen.

Decayed vegetable matter holds four times as much moisture as clay and eight times as much as sand. The more decayed vegetable matter that is mixed thoroughly with the soil, the less will be the damage from droughtt. The winter growing clovers stop the land from washing during the winter The sod that they make puts the land in easier condition for working. All these gains, increased yields, large additions of nitrogen to the soil, stopping eof the loss from leaching, increased power of the soil to hold moisture prevention of washing and gullying of the land are made during the winter when other crops are not growing.

Pasture.

The winter-growing clovers sown early furnish considerable pasture through the fall and winter. From March first to May 15 they will supply more pasture than any other grasses or clovers.

George R. James, Forest Hill, Tenn. sowed 80 acres to crimson clover between September 12 and October 15. From December 15 to April 1 the clover was pastured all the time when the land was dry by 35 cattle and 40 hogs and each Sunday 25 mules and horses were turned on it. By the middle of April the clover averaged over 30 inches in height and the 80 acres was covered with a solid mass of crimson blooms.

W. M. Kennedy Memphis, pastured two cows for 30 days, beginning March 15th on one-fourth of an acre of crimson clover.

J. M. Aldrich Michigan City Miss. sowed one and a half acres of crimson clover the last week in September 1914; grazed it almost every day through the winter beginning the first November March 14 he put on the clover 19 yearling cattle and cow and a calf where they remained continuously until April 20. Three weeks after taking the stock off eight two-horse loads of hay were harvested from the one and a half acres.

In September 1915 Mr. Aldrich sowed fifty acres to crimson clover. He pastured ten acres so closely with hogs until February that it froze out. March first he turned 200 head of cattle on 40 acres of crimson clover and grazed it constantly until April 10th when they were taken off and the clover was allowed to mature.

The pastures for the cotton states is a mixture of bur clover lespedeza and bermuda. A good pasture of these three plants will carry more cattle per acre than any other combination of grasses and clovers either north or south. After a good stand of bermuda has been secured sow three bushels of treated bur clover seed per acre early in September and scratch the sod with a disc harrow.

The bur clover will make good pasture for six weeks in the spring before the bermuda and lespedeza appear. The bur clover will then disappear until fall when the lesedeza and bermuda have stopped growing. Then it will cover the land and furnish a large amount of pasture for six to eight weeks after the bermuda is gone.

Which Clover to Sow.

Crimson and bur clovers add about equal amounts of plant food to the soil and are equal as pasture plants. Both require well-drained soil.

Crimson clover needs a soil that contains at least a moderate supply of lime. It makes a light growth on acid soils unless other conditions are very favorable. It may be cut for hay and yields from one to three tons an acre. It is better not to cut it for hay as the entire crop should be plowed under. The roots alone make up only one-tenth the weight of the crop and the roots and stubble only one-fifth The soil needs the fertilizing material of the entire crop. Crimson clover yield from three to seven bushels or seed per acre. A bushel will sow three to four acres. Crimson clover seed has to be threshed with a clover huller in order to be marketable. Seed for home use can be pounded off the hay with a flail and be sown in the chaff. Crimson clover cannot be depended on to re-seed the land.

KEEPING BEEF

Beef and pork can be smoked at the same time, but smoking is done mainly to add a flavor that many people like, and while it has some preservative value, it is very far from sufficient.

Meat may be kept by canning, corning and drying. Canning it far the best of these three methods, but unfortunately it is the least practiced. It will enable you to keep beef longer than it can be kept by any other method, as this meat will not keep as pork will when merely treated with brine or dry-curing mixtures. Dried beef becomes hard if kept too long and should be used within two or three months, while corn beef is best if used within thirty days.

Any of the brine or dry mixture which give good results in curing pork can be used satisfactorily for beef, but as beef is leaner than pork, it should not be allowed to remain in the brine or mixture quite as long, or it will become hard and salty.

Dried beef should have the same cure ac corned beef, care being taken not to let it get too salty. It should then be washed to remove the excess of the cure and smoked if you like the smoke flavor. A very good country practice is to dry-cure the beef with salt and brown sugar: using about a fifth as much sugar as salt rubbing the meat very thoroughly mith the cure every two or three days for about two weeks. It should then be washed, wiped and hung up to dry in a warm place, if you do not wish to smoke it, or transferred to the smokehouse and given a light smoke.

Corned beef is at its very best when it has been in the cure about ten days. If kept in the cure more than a month it needs considerable freshening before cooking. If you wish to preserve the red color of the beef you should use a small amount of saltpeter not more than 2 ounces to each 100 pounds of the meat. This improves the color of the meat, but is detrimental in that it tends to harden the lean fibers.—P. F. Trowbridge, Missouri College of Agriculture.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

ORANGES, APPLES, POTATOES, CABBAGE, ONIONS, TURNIPS

M. P. WILCOX

Wholesale

Produce and Commission

We Buy and Sell

Quality First.

214-216 North Court Street.

Montgomery, Ala.

Why Will You Suffer With Pellagra Rheumatism or Indigestion?

SULFERRO-SOL Never Fails

At all druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of $1.00

THE SUL-FERRO-SOL CO.

Birmingham, Ala.

ARE YOU RAISING FRUIT OR FEEDING INSECTS?

STOP FEEDING INSECTS!
RAISE FRUIT !!!
SPRAY YOUR TREES!
WITH
Van Antwerp's THE BEST ONLY
IMPROVED
SCHNARR'S INSECTICIDE
ONE GALLON CANS $1.00
BY THE BARREL 50¢

WRITE FOR COMPLETE PRICE LIST, DIRECTIONS, TESTIMONIALS

VAN ANTWERP'S SEED STORE

INSECTICIDE DEPARTMENT

VAN ANTWERP BUILDING., MOBILE ALA.

WE WILL TELL YOU THE NEAREST DEALER HANDLING SCHNARR'S

Miller's Antiseptic Oil Known as

Snake Oil

Creating a Sensation Throughout the South—Many Thousands are Now Using it With Gratifying Results.

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Stiff and Swollen Joints, Corns, Bunions or whatever the pain may be, it is said to be without an equal. For Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Sore Throat, Croup, Diphtheria and tonsilitis it has been found most effective. Accept no substitute. This great oil is golden red color only. There is nothing like it. Every bottle guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents or money refunded by leading druggists.

LADIES!

When irregular or delayed use Triumph Pills. Safe and always dependable. Not sold at drug stores. Do not experiment with others; save disappointment. Write for "Relief" and particulars. its free. Address: NATIONAL MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Milwaukee, Wis.

SEND THEM FOR CLEANING BY PARCELS POST.

YOUR GLOVES, SUITS OR GOWNS.
Long gloves 15c. Short gloves 10c
Returned next day and return postage paid on any article. Most modern, sanitary, dry cleaning equipmnt. Everything DONE RIGHT—and promptly.

Stewart Dry Cleaning Co.
SELMA, ALA.

GET MORE FOR YOUR SWEET POTATOES

Can Your Crop

You can easily find a market—get a good price and then, too, there is no danger of loss from spoiling.

We handle nicely
Lithographed Labels for
Sweet Potatoes.
Write us.

MONTGOMERY PAPER & WOODENWARE CO.

Montgomery, Ala.

RHEUMATISM

"I have been suffering with rheumatism for about three years, and had taken lots of medicines without relief. I was advised to try DUNCAN'S ANTISEPTIC PINE OIL. I felt relieved soon after I commenced taking same. I used nearly two 25 cent bottles, and am entirely well. I can highly recommend same for rheumatism," writes Mrs. R. I. Moore, Rutledge, Ala., Route No. 1.

None Genuine without This Trade Mark on Every Bottle.

DUNCAN'S ANTISEPTIC PINE OIL PRODUCTS
TRADE YELO-PINE MARK.
HEALING OIL

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTES.

If your dealer does not carry it in stock have him to order it for you from his jobber.

Manufactured by
YELLOW PINE MEDICINE COMPANY
Montgomery, Alabama

W. D. SCOTT
LIVESTOCK AUCTIONEER
Sales Conducted Anywhere
ARLINGTON, GA.

Hampshire Hogs

Herd Boars, Brood Sows, Gilts bred and open. Pigs all ages for sale at all times. Nothing but well belted stock shipped. Prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed.
LAKE VIEW STOCK FARM,
Putnam, Ills.

Poland Chinas

Bred gilts and pigs, 2 months to 6 months. Big bone type, all subject to registration. Very best breeding.

Clearview Farm
MULBERRY, ALA.
F. M. Howard, Owner.

SHE HAD

Lady (engaging nurse)—Have you had any experience with children?

Applicant—Sure, and I used to be a child myself."

MOST PROFITABLE GRASS HOG IN THE WORLD

THE HAMPSHIRE HOG has won the title of being the greatest Grass Hog and able to put on more pounds at less cost than any other hog in America. This statement has been proven by experiment test and large feeders for the market. For information and free literature address,

E. C. STONE, Sec'y, HAMPSHIRE RECORD.
708 E. Nebr. Ave. Peoria, Ill.

500 Men Wanted Durocs Last Fall

At the Southern fairs and at Atlanta in October there will be 10,000 new breeders looking for the right kind of boars and sows. Come to the show with your show stuff, and pick up some of this good patronage. $2,000 in prizes in Durocs. Will also sell fifty head in public sale. Send for particulars.

ROBT. J. EVANS

Secretary American Association, 819 Exchange Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Pros and Cons of "Hogging Down" Corn Crop

Within the recent years there seems to have been a considerable increase in the extent to which crops have been harvested in the field by hogs. This increase has probably been more extensive with corn than any other crop. There is now but little pure prejudice against this practice, which has been considered by some to be an evidence of wasteful laziness, and it seems the hogging down of the grain chops will become more prevalent.

This does not necessarily mean that all hogging down of crops that is practiced is to be commended. There is little doubt but that some rather important losses have been incurred by farmers who have failed to recognize the proper place for this practice to occupy. Nevertheless, it is reasonably certain that methods of hogging down, that prevail for a long term of years and increase in extent of area involved, are not wasteful, all things considered.

Advantages of Hogging Crops

Some of the more important points that favor the practice of hogging down crops in general are the following:

1. Much less labor is needed than when the crop is harvested by hand or by power, hauled to the feeding place and fed in the usual way.

2. The mature produced by the hogs is, for the most part, well distributed over the field.

3. With some crops, hogging down is possible earlier than the crop could be harvested and stored in the usual way.

4. Sanitary conditions are far better in the field than in most hog pens. Practically every feeding place on the field is a new and clean one.

5. Storage space for grains or velvet beans is not needed in as large amounts as when crops are hand harvested.

6. If supplemental feeds are given the manurial residue of these and the stalks or straw that are allowed to remain on the field may even increase the fertility of the soil, rather than depelte it as always is the case when an entire crop is removed from the land.

7. Damage to grain in the crib or bin is done away with. Risk from fire is eliminated.

Disadvantages of This System

Among the points that do not favor the practice under some conditions may be named the following.

Trampling some soils, particularly during wet weather, makes them more difficult to prepare for the succeeding crop.

The roughage of the grain and velvet beans crop that is hogged down is not utilized to any great extent.

The extra expense of fencing for hogs as compared with the fencing required when the entire crop is taken from the field, or even when the corn stalks are pastured by catle, is an item of some importance.

In the case of clover or other seeding in small grains there is a possibility of the seeding being damaged by trampling, and too close grazing, or smothered by the straw that may be piled up by the hogs when they work it over for the last of the grain and velvet beans.

On some farms it is inconvenient to provide water for hogs in fields away from the regular feeding place.

Whether or not the practice is one that is to be followed will depend largely upon the importance attached to the above considerations or others that may be equally important in a special situation.

Unless the manure is especially needed for some other field, it is a distinct advantage to have it well distributed over the grain field instead of being deposited in fence corners or on slopes to be washed away by rain flown away by the wind as is too often the case when hogs are fed in pens.

Sanitary conditions are frequently very bad in hog lots. While the hogs are in the grain field they are on ground that has not been even recently occupied by hogs. Moreover, an excellent opportunity is given for overhauling and cleaning the regular quarters if permanent yards and buildings are used. Grain storage, although not particularly costly in some instances, is a source of considerable expense. Couple with this expense the cost of time and equipment for harvesting, and in the case of small grains, or thrshing, and the saving that results from hogging down a crop is an item of more than passing importance.

LADIES Take Cotton Root Compound Tablets. Sure relief for monthly afflictions. Sent in plain wrapper. Price $2.00. Welch Medicine Co., Chula, Ga.

Beautify Your Skin
Free your system from toxic poisons. Get a package of ELLA R. BERRY'S
CREOLE TEA
Drink a cupful every night.
ALL DRUGGISTS, 10c

A Texas Wonder

The Texas Wonder cures kidney and bladder troubles, dissolves gravel, cures diabetes, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and irrgularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist, will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two months' treatment, and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Send for testimonials from this and other states. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2926 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists.

Send Your Films

To us to be developed and printed. Prompt and satisfactory work. Special attention to out of town orders.

Tresslar's Studio
Montgomery, Ala.

BLACK BELT FARMS IN DALLAS COUNTY

You will find your opportunity on a Dallas County Farm.

E. E. SECOR
Selma, Alabama.

UNTHRIFTY PIGS

An unthrifty pig is a sort of standing invitation to any and all kinds of diseases, says an Oklahoma A. and M. College bulletin. Clean quarters and well kept stock are very good insurance against diseases. Keep a good tonic powder before the pigs at all times. The following is a good one: Charcoal 1 bushel, wood ashes 1 bushel salt 10 pounds, copperas 2 1-2 pounds. Mix the charcoal, salt and wood ashes, dissolve the copperas in a small amount of hot water and sprinkle over the mixture of ashes, charcoal and salt, and stir until all is well mixed. Keep a little of this in boxes in a dry place at all times.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE

One of the clerks at a weather bureau took unto himself a wife and it has been his endeavor to interest her in his work at the office.

The other evening on coming home he said: "It was a terrible storm that swept through Jersey. The wind blew 60 miles an hour for 30 minutes."

"Well, dearie' said the wife anxious to show an intelligent interest in the matter, "it's lucky isn't it that it blew only half an hour?"

"Why?

"Well. 30 miles isn't nearly so bad."

PREPAREDNESS

Clark—Do you believe in preparedness?

Clubleigh—Sure! I never go home late without having an excuse all framed up.

How to Rid Your Hogs of Lice on Them

By J. P. Quesenberry

Hog lice are small wingless insects of a dull white color that live upon the surface of the body. They are large enough to be seen easily by the naked eye, but they are often difficult to find on the hairy surface of the body; especially when they are few in number and are hidden in the dirt that hogs collect on their skins. They are most numerous in the armpits on the head around the base of the ears and on any other part where the skin is tender. The only other parasites that may be mistaken for lice are fleas which are easily distinguished by their jumping habits, and mites which burrow into the skin or live under crusts which they cause to form on the surface.

The eggs of lice, commony called nits are small white, oval bodies which are found attached to the hairs. Lice are exceedingly prolific and if not treated at once, multiply very rapidly as it takes only a few days for the eggs to hatch and form a new brood.

Symptoms.

One of the most noticeable symptom of louse infestation is itching of the skin around the point of attack On the hog, this just back of the ears; and to relieve this they will be found rubbing this region against posts or other convenient objects. A careful examination in a good light will reveal insects as well as nits attached to the hairs. The hogs will be some unthrifty and present a dull, dirty appearance.

A Good remedy.

One of the best remedies for hog lice is an alkaline coal tar product which when added to water produces a permanent milk emulsion which is very efficient in destroying the parasites and does not harm the animal in any way. These coal tar products are put on the market under various name such as Zenoleum, Creolin, Chloro-naphtholeum and Sulpho-naptholeum. They should be used in the proportion of one part of the medicine to 50 parts of water; or in very bad cases one part medicine to 30 parts water.

Another good remedy is kerosene emulsion which is made by dissolving one quart of soft soap or 1-4 pound of hard soap in two quarts of boiling water and adding one pint of kerosene. This should be stirred or churned violently, then three quarts of water added. Pure kerosene sometimes takes the hair off and should not used unless washed off afterward.

Repeat Treatment.

When applying remedies to destroy lice a second application should be made in from five to eight days, in order to kill the lice that may have hatched from eggs laid before the time of the first application. When animals are treated with a solution, a warm day should be selected and the solution warmed to about 100! to 105° F. If in the winter time they should be kept in a warm place until dry, in order to prevent catching cold.

Cleaning Quarters.

In treating lousy animals which are confined the quarters must be thoroughly cleaned and disifected. The same solution as is used for dipping may be used for disinfecting the quarters. All loose material such as bedding, should be removed and burned, and all walls rubbing posts and other places which might harbor lice should be whitewashed.

The Dipping Vat.

If a large number of hogs are infested, the most satisfactory method is to build a dipping vat, through which the animals must swim in the solution used to destroy the lice. The vat should be about twelve feet long 18 inches wide and four feet deep. It should be set in the ground and small yards arranged so as to facilitate the passage of the animals to the tank. An enclosed drainage pen, with floor so arranged as to divert the drainage back not to waste the solution dripping from the dipped hogs.

Hand Treatment.

When only a few animals are infested hand treatment may be resorted to, but it should be thoroughly done. The remedies can be applied with scrubbing brushes, cloths or sponges. All parts of the body should be thoroughly gone over.

Hogs should be dipped whenever it appears necessary, and it will usually be found profitable to dip them two or three times per season.

Any conditions that tend to lessen the vigor of the animals make them more susceptible to the attack of lice Filth crowding large numbers together and lack of sufficient nourishing food are the common causes. The opposite conditions—clean quarters, clean skin, plenty of nourishing food and plenty of sunlight and exercise —are the best remedies and preventatives.

Pure-Bred Live Stock Making Thoroughbred Farmers In Limestone

By R. H. Walker

When cotton dropped to five and six cents two years ago Limestone county Alabama thought it saw the end of the world just poking its nose around the corner.

But after the "buy a bale" movement had been religiously worked, the people began to hearken to a still small voice that advised diversification. It was taken up gradually on all sides until all the younger farmers and many of the older ones began to believe there was "something in it." Bur clover, crimson clover, vetch, barley and winter oats were sown. After this came the desire for something to pasture on lands sown to winter cover crops and ten or fifteen farmers over the county began to buy pure-bred bulls.

Pure-Bred Cattle Sale

This movement gained such force that the Limestone County Fair Association last fall arranged to have put on a sale of pure-bred cattle—Herefords, Angus and Shorthorns. It was not deemed wise to have this sale put on until after the county had been relieved from the federal cattle tick quarantine which was done a year ago. As a result of that sale over fifty head of pure-bred cattle were left in Limestone, the foundation stock for a cattle industry that will soon assume splendid proportions. Among the purchasers were Leo M. Warten, a prominent cotton merchant of Athens, who purchased a dozen head and formed a partnership with W. A. Kendall, a practical farmer and stockman. These two gentlemen have their herd on Elk river grass lands and have already had it increased by calves this year from their pure-bred cows.

Shorthorn Breeders

Another purchaser of Shorthorns was Dr. Isham Vaughan Legg, a wealthy young farmer, who purchased ten head. Dr. Legg has been leasing his grandfather's old place of 1,000 acres, but has just purchased 300 acres of land on the Elkmont pike and will immediately begin the erection of a residence and cattle barns on what will be known as Elk Ridge Stock Farm. Dr. Legg is amply able to carry out his plans and he has firmly determined to enter the cattle business on a basis that will build up a fine herd and the land along with it. He is already planning to purchase a bull that will be second to none in the South. His farm will make an ideal place for his enterprise, being well watered with splendid limestone foundation that grows blue grass and other pasture grasses as well.

Another purchaser of Shorthorns was U. G. White, of Athens, who has long been engaged in the cattle business on Elk river, where corn and hay grow luxuriantly.

Hereford Men

Among the Hereford raisers in this county J. B. Nelson, of East Limestone, and Hendeson Legg are prominent. The former has been getting his herd together for some time and has a large stock farm in successful operation. He is a native of Indiana, a brother of Editor W. W. Nelson, of the Decatur News, and a farmer who has grown wealthy off of farming Limestone county lands and raising cattle as well. Mr. Legg who has recently embarked in the pure-bred cattle business, has been a successful Elk river farmer—a term which in this county means a farmer who raises his hog and hominy before he produces anything else.

Aberdeen-Angus Too

Among the Aberdeen Angus breeders are N. D. French and Sons, who are the pioneers of the breed in this county, and Frank G. and Miss Pattie Westmoreland. These breeders have purchased good foundation stock and are preparing permanent pastures that should insure success.

In northeast Limestone, J. C. Carter and George Gust have pure-bred Shorthorns and are preparing to gradually grow into the business.

Raising Grade Calves

It was a notable fact that as a result of the auction sale held under the auspices of the County Fair Association last fall, when over $10,000 worth of pure-bred cattle were sold to Limestonians, there is a pure-bred bull in five miles of every farmer in the country. As a result of this there are today a large number of good grade calves scattered over the country. To increase the interest in breeding our native cows to pure-bred bulls the County Fair, together with the bull-owners, have offered seven prizes amounting to $100 for the best grade calves to be shown at the fair. As an evidence of the interest being taken in the coming exhibits at the fair it has been found necessary for the Association to build a new cattle barn on the grounds to cost over $800.

The value of the pure-bred bulls being bred to native cows it may be stated that Dr. Legg has just sold a four-months old grade calf out of a part-Jersey cow for $50, whereas it would have brought only $10 if it had been sired by a scrub bull. This grade calf weighed over 300 pounds when less than four months old.

In addition to the beef type of cattle Waliker, Martin and Co. recently purchased a carload of registered Jerseys in Marshall county, and have sold them out to people here who want better milk cows.

Pure-bred hogs have naturally followand today there are more Duron, Poland China and Berkshire hogs in-Limestone than ever before.

Up to last year there were only two silos in the country, a new one was built last year by R. H. Walker and this year John R. Witt, F. G. Westmoreland, Gilbert White and J. B. Richardson of South Limestone are each putting up a silo of 100 tons capacity. By next year it is thought there will be many others to build cylinders in which to carry their winter pastures.

No county in North Alabama is more thoroughly alive to the importance of cattle raising and diversification than is Limestone.

Entire South Will Be Free of Ticks In 5 Years

Because of the spirit of cooperation among the people of the South in the work of eradicating the tick which transmits Texas fever to cattle, this destructive and expensive pest should be eliminated from the territory of the United States within the next five years, according to the Field Inspection Division of the bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Enthusiasm in the fight against the pest is running particularly high in several of the 11 tick-infested Southern states and these states will free their territory within the next year or so, the division predicts. In eight of the States. it is believed the work will be completed within four years.

Virginia Free In a Year.

An outline of conditions in the tick-infested territory, recently prepared, shows that Virginia, only four counties in which are now under quarantines can be made tick free by one year's active work, and, that because of the interest now being shown there the quarantine is likely to be removed from the last bit of previously tick-infested territory in the State early in 1918. South Carolina, which is pushing the eradication work steadily forward, should achieve freedom from ticks the same year. By the end of 1917, it is calculated, there should be but 15 counties in Alabama remaining in quarantine, and these, at the rate the State has been working should be cleaned up the following year.

Mississippi Free in 1919

For Mississippi probably the most accurate prediction can be made. The legislature of that State recently enacted a law requiring that all counties now in the quarantined area shall eradicate the tick during 1917. The people showed their interest in this step immediately, and nearly all the infested counties already have appropriated funds for the building of dipping vats in preparation for the State-wide eradication campaign. State-wide tick eradication legislation also has been enacted in Louisiana. As a result, this State can expect to be free of fever ticks by the end of 1919.

In the West.

Oklahoma, it is believed, will clear its territory of fever ticks within the next three years. In Arkansas, dipping vats are in course of construction in practically every county of the state and soon will be in general use. It is believed that tick eradication will be completed in this state by the end of 1920. The same year it is predicted, will see North Carolina cleared of ticks.

Three Big Tasks.

Georgia, Florida and Texas have the hardest task before them in the work of tick eradication, and probably will require most of the five-year period to bring about the removal of quarantine from their territory. Texas has more counties quarantined because of the presence of the fever tick than other state, and has almost as many square miles in the quarantined area as all the other states combined. It is probable, therefore, that the work of eradication there will take more time and that unless there is unforeseen activity, Texas will be the last of the States to claim a white area on the map. The finishing of the work of eradication in the other states, however, will release Federal agents engaged in the work and will make possible the concentration of effort on Texas toward the end of the five-year period. It is believed therefore, that by the close of 1921 this concerted work, if properly supported by local cooperation, will result in tick eradication from Texas and the freeing, therefore of all United States territory from the pest.

As a result of extermination of the cattle tick from approximately 285,000 square miles in the an years during which the United States Department of Agriculture and the states have been actively engaged in the work, the cattle industry, according to the Bureau of Animal Industry, in the south has improved from 50 to 100 per cent. Native beef cattle, freed from attacks of the ticks have put on more flesh; native dairy cows are giving more milk; and, because danger of disease largely has been eliminated cattle of better breeds been brought in to improve the native stock. The south has made greater progress in developing the cattle industry in the last five years than in the preceding 50 years, and there has been more progress in the industry in the South in that period than in any other section.

Getting Rid of Worms In Your Hogs

Intestinal worms are common in hogs and are particularly injurious to growing pigs. Insufficiently fed, neglected pigs living in dirty pens and yards, fed from filthy troughs, drinking contaminated water, bathing in old hog wallows, and rooting and sleeping in manure piles and stack bottoms soon become infested with worms; consequently they do not thrive, but develop into pot-bellied, rickety, profitless runts. Pens should be kept clean and dry and the manure frequently removed.

It has been asserted by various experienced feeders of hogs that a mixture of charcoal, ashes, lime, salt, sulphur, and copperas kept where the hogs can eat it will tend to prevent worm infestation. There is not as yet positive experimental evidence in support of the idea that such a mixture will prevent worm infestation, but the mixture does appear to satisfy the hog's desire for mineral substances and probably is of value as a tonic and appetizer. It may be made up in the following proportions:

Charcoal Mixture—Charcoal, 1 bushel; hardwood ashes, 1 bushel; salt, 8 pounds; air-slacked lime, 4 pounds; sulphur, 4 pounds; pulverized copperas, 2 pounds.

Mix the lime, salt and sulphur thoroughly and then mix with the charcoal and ashes. Dissolve the copperas in two parts of hot water and sprinkle over the whole mass, mixing it thoroughly. Keep some of this mixture in a box before the hogs at all times, or place in a self-feeder

Santonin, which was formerly widely used as a remedy for worms in hogs, is practically unobtainable at the present time owing to foreign trade conditions.

The following treatment has been found to be very effective against intestinal worms in experiments conducted by the Zoological Division of the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Withhold all feed and water for 24 hours, then give each pig from 1 to 4 ounces of castor oil to which has been added oil of American wormseed as follows: Small pigs, 2 to 3 months old, 35 drops; pigs weighing 50 to 100 pounds, 50 to 100 drops; larger pigs, 1 teaspoonful.

Each pig should be dosed separately if the best results are to be obtained.

Drenching hogs is dangerous, as they are liable to get the remedy into the lungs. With sufficient assistance pigs may be held, the mouth kept open by means of a couple of loops of wire or rope, and the medicine given directly in a tablespoon. By this method, though it is troublesome ,one may be certain that each pig gets his proper dose. After dosing, the pigs may be fed and watered. Repeat the treatment in 10 days.

Hogs For Every Farmer

By a special plan our bank is placing pure-bred hogs on many farms throughout Autauga county. Through our plan any bank or any firm can do the same in their county and render a special service to the farmers that is needed now. We will be glad to send you, if you write us, our plan which you can use for the benefit of your farmers in your county.

Autauga Banking & Trust Co.
Prattville, Alabama
C. E. Thomas, President — R. L. Faucett, Vice-Pres.
C. G. Smith, Cashier — M. A. Graham, Vice-Pres.

ARKANSAS VETERINARY COLLEGE

A practical school. Graduates successful practitioners.

FAYETTEVILLE, ARKANSAS

HAMPSHIRES for SOUTHERN FARMERS

Get in touch with me when in the market for the best bred hogs.
W. F. YINGST, State Center, Iowa.

PURE BRED HAMPSHIRE HOGS

Boars ready for service, bred gilts and pigs of the best blood lines at reasonable prices. For pamphlet and information write

WATERPROOF PLANTATION
John D. Minor, Houma, La.

ADMIRAL, 58,909, SON OF ILLUSTRATOR HEADS MY HERD OF DUROC-JERSEYS

Right now I have a number of registered pigs for sale. Write for description and prices.

VANDIVER DUROC FARM
H. F. Vandiver, Mgr. Montgomery, Ala.

SOUTHERN BRED HAMPSHIRES

REGISTERED—Herd Headed by the $800.00 Grand Champion Paulsen's Model. Boars, Sows, Bred and Open Gilts and Pigs of the finest breeding.

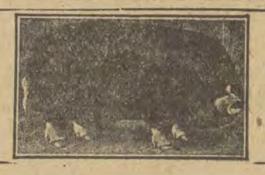
JNO. J. SHAFFER, JR., Ellendale P. O., La.,

LOOKOUT LAD 20371—GENERAL WICKWARE 26879

Two of largest boars of the breed at head of my herd. Some fancy Sept. boars and bred gilts for fall farrow. Write for descriptions and prices.

1380 acres devoted to Hampshires.

WICKFIELD FARM, Box 101, Cantril, Ia.



RIVERSIDE DUROC HOG FARM

FOR SALE—125 March and February pigs by Superba Star No. 68191 and Defender's Wonder 1st. 20 fall gilts and six fall boars by Superba Star. The best blood lines. Every pig guaranteed.

T. J. RILEY,
158 St. Frances Street, Mobile, Alabama

DUROCS Registered boars and pigs, bred gilts and sows of most noted blood lines. Write for pedigrees and prices.

W. H. KING, Luverne, Ala.

BIG, SMOOTH POLANDS

I have for sale big boned, prolific Poland Chinas, sired by 1,000 pound boars and out of 600 pound sows. Can fill Boys Pig Club orders from either sex not related. Safe arrival and a square deal guaranteed. Write us your wants.
ERNEST B. BAKER. Route 2, Knox City, Mo.
Pres. Knox County, Mo., Poland China Breeders Assn.

KENTUCKY HERD OF HAMPSHIRES

Largest herd in South. Has won over 500 premiums. Write us

HUGHES ATKINSON, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

Big Bone Type Poland Chinas

CHOLERA IMMUNE Bred Gilts, Boars and Weaned Pigs of both sexes for sale. Pedigree and individual merit.

L. F. Sessions, Ozark, Ala.

FAIR VIEW FARM

Special Berkshire offering. 50 3 mo. old registered pigs, $10.00 and $15.00, liberal discount on 3 or more. Few more big bred sows, bred and open gilts and service boars. Quality and breeding unexcelled.

Write for particulars.

FAIR VIEW FARM
PALMETTO, GA.

Bourbon Chief Heads Our Herd

Of Durocs. No better anywhere. Write for pedigrees and prices of pigs, gilts and sows.

Dunaway & Lambert, Orrville, Ala.

Here Is Guide For Judging Poland-China Hogs

Head and face—Head should be broad, even and smooth between and above the eyes. Slightly dished, tapering evenly and gradually to near the end of the nose. Broad lower jaw, head inclined to shortness but not enough to give appearance of stubby nose. And in male a masculine appearance and expression.

Objections—Head long, narrow between the eyes; nose uneven and coarse; too large at the muzzle or the head too short; not full or high above the eyes; or too much wrinkled around or above the eyes.

Eyes—Full, clear, prominent and expressive.

Objections—Dull expression, deep set or obscure. Sight impaired by wrinkle fat or other cause.

Ears—Ears attached to the head by a short firm knuckle giving free and easy action. Standing up slightly at the base within two-thirds of the tip where a gentle break or drop should occur; in size neither too large or too small, but even, fine, thin, leaf shape; slightly inclined outward.

Objections—Large, floppy, straight, upright or coarse; knuckle long, letting the ear drop too close to the head and face, hindering of free use of the ears.

Neck—Short, wide, even, smooth, well arched, Rounding and full from poll to shoulder, with due regard to the characteristics of the sex.

Objections—Long, narrow, think and drooping from the shoulder to the poll with uneveness caused by wrinkles or creases.

Jowl—Full, broad deep, smoth and firm, carrying fullness back near to point of shoulders, and below line of lower jaw so that lower line will be as low as breastbone when head is carried up level.

Objections—Light, flabby, thin and wedge shaped, deeply wrinkled, not drooping below line of lower jaw, and not carrying fullness back to shoulder and brisket.

Shoulder—Broad and oval at top, showing evenness with the back and neck, with good width from the top to the bottom, and even smoothness extending well forward.

Objections—Narrow at top or bottom not as deep as the body, uneven width. Shields on pigs under eight months of age, or showing too much shield at any age.

Chest—Large, wide, deep and full; even underline to the shoulder and sides with no creases; giving plenty of room for the heart and other organs making a large girth indicating much vitality. Brisket smooth, even and broad wide between the legs and extending well forward showing in front.

Objections—Pinched appearance at the top or bottom, or tucked in back of the forelegs; showing too narrow between the legs; not depth enough back of the shoulder. Brisket uneven, narrow, not prominent.

Back and loin—Broad, straight or slightly arched carrying same width from shoulder to ham, surface even, smooth, free from lumps, creases or projections; not too long but broad on top, inricating well sprung ribs; should not be higher at hi pthan at shoulder and should fill out at junction with wide so that a straight edge placed along at top of side will touch all the way from point to shoulder.
to point of ham. Should be shorter than lower belly line.

Objections—Narrow creased back of shoulders, swayed or hollow dropping below a straight line; humped or wrinkled, too long or sun-fish shaped loin high, narrow, depressed or humped up; surface lumpy, creased, ridgy or uneven; width at side not as much as shoulder and ham.

Sides and Ribs—Sides full, firm and deep, free from wrinkles; carrying size down to belly; even from ham to shoulder; ribs of good length well sprung at top and bottom.

Objections—Flat, thinfl flabby, pinched, not as full at bottom as at top; drawn in at shoulder so as to produce a crease or pinched and tucked up, and in as as it approaches the ham; uneven surface; ribs flat or too short.

Belly and flank—Belly broad, straight and full, indicating capacity and room, being about the same or on a level at the flank with the under line of the chest. Underline straight, or nerly so, and free from flabby appearance.

Objections—Belly uneven, and flabby, or apparent looseness in the makeup. Pinched up in the flank or apparent looseness in the makeup. Pinched up in the flank or flanked too high

Ham and rump—Hams broad, full, deep and long from rump to hock. Fully developed above and below, being wide at the point of the hip, carrying width well down to the lower part of the hams. Fleshy, plump, rounding fullness perceptible everywhere. Rump rounding and gradually sloping from the loin to the root of the tail. Broad and well developed all along from loin and gradually rounding to the butt-tock; lower front part of ham should be full and stiffle well covered with flesh. Even width of ham and rump with the back, loin and body. Even a greater width as to females not objectionable.

Objections—Ham short, narrow, too round or slim. Not filled out above or below, or unshapely for deep meat; not as wide as the body; back or loin too tapering or small. Rump narrow or pointed, not plump or well filled or too steep from loin to the tail.

Legs and feet—Legs medium length straight, heavy bone, set well aart and squarely under body, tapering, well muscled and wide above knee and hock; below hock and knee round and tapering capable of sustaining weight of animal in full flesh without breaking down; bone firm and of fine texture; pasterns short and nearly upright. Feet firm, shortfl tough and free from defects.

Objections—Legs, long, slim, coarse, crooked; muscles small above hock and knee; as large at foot as above knee; pasterns long, slim, crooked or weak the hocks turned out of straight line; legs too close together, hoofs long, slim and weak; toes spreading out or crooked or unable to bear up weight of animal without breaking down.

Tail—Tail of medium length and size, smooth and tapering well and carried in a curl.

Objections—Coarse and long, without a curl, or short crooked or stubby or too small, fine, uneven, not tapering.

Coat—Fine, straight, smooth, laying close to and covering the body well; not clipped; evenly distributed over the body.

Objections—Bristles, hair coarse, harsh thin, wavy or curly; swirls; standing up; ends of hair split and brown, not evenly distributed over all of the body, except the belly. Clipped coats should be cut 1.5 point.

Color—Black with six (6) white points; and tip of tail four white feet and white in face, or on the nose or on the point of the lower jaw. All to be perceptible without close examination. Splashes of white on thejaw legs, or flank or a few spots of white on the body not objectionable.

Objections—Solid black, white mixed or sandy spots. Speckled with white hairs over the body, mottled face or white and black; hair mixed, making a grizzly appearance.

Size—Large for age. Condition, vigor and vitality to be considered. There should be a difference between breeding animals and those kept or fitted for the show of at least 25 per cent in size. In show condition or when fat weights for the different ages should be about as follows: Boars over two years old seven hundred (700) pounds. Sows over two years six hundred (600) pound. Boars eighteen months old six hundred (600) pounds Sows eighteen months old five hundred (500) pounds.

Boars one year old four hundred and fifty $(450) pounds. Sows one year old four hundred and fifty (450) pounds. Boars and sows six months old, one hundred and eighty (180) pounds. All hogs in just fair breeding condition, one-fourth less for size. The keeping and chance that a young board has, cuts quite a figure in his size and should be considered, other points baing equal. Fiue quality and size, combined, are desirable.

Objections— Over-grown, coarse, flabby loose appearance, gangling, hard to fatten; too fine, undersirze, short, stubby, inclined to chubby fatness. Not a hardy, robust animal.

Action and Style—Action vigorous, easy and graceful. Style attractive, high carriage; and in males testicles should be prominent and of about the same size, and yet not too large or pouchy.

Objections—Clumsy, slow, awkward movement; low carriage, waddling or twisting walk. A seeming tired or lazy appearance; not standing erect and firm.

Condition—Healthy, skin clear of scurf, scales and sores; soft and mellow to the touch, flesh fine; evenly laid on and free from lumps and wrinkles. Hair soft and lying close to the body; good feeding qualities.

Objections Unhealthy, skin scaly, wringled scabby or harsh, flabbiness or lumpy flesh; too much fat for breeding. Hair harsh dry and staiding up from the body poor feeders; deafness, partial or total.

Disposition—Lively, easily handled and seemingly kind and responsive to good treatment.

Objections—Cross, sluggish, restless wild or of a vicious turn.

Symmetry of Points—The adaption of all the points, size and style comined to make the desired type or model.

Score of Points.
Head and face	5
Eyes	2
Ears	2
Neck	2
Jowl	2
Shoulder	6
Chest	12
Back and and Loin	14
Sides and ribs	8
Belly and Flank	4
Ham and Rump	10
Feet and Legs	10
Tail	1
Coat	3
Color	2
Size	10
Action and Style	3
Condition	2
Disposition	2
Symmetry of points	2
Total	100

A POTTED PLANT

"Wife, what's all this about? Here's a letter on fertilizers, stating that your farm needs about so many tons to the acre."

"It's all right, hubby. I sent a sample of soil to the Agriculture Department. My geranium hasn't been doing very well."

BUT ON THE LOUNGE

"He used to be a great man for long distance running races."

"And since he got married?"

"Well, he says it's the home stretch that appeals to him now."

A WELL DRESSED GIRL SCRATCHING IN PUBLIC

is a pitiable sight. It is humiliating Scratching does no good. The thing to do is to remove the cause with

TETTERINE

It cures the things that cause itching—eczema, erysipelas, ringworm, ground itch, tetter, etc. It's marvelous how quickly Tetterine will allay the irritation. 50 cents at druggists, or direct from The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Prattville Stock Farm

Prattville, Ala.

Hampshires of most noted blood lines and highest individual merit. None better in United States.

C. E. THOMAS, Pres.

G. P. WALLS, Manager

Farm Machines Last Longer If Kept Painted

Frequent painting will add ten years or more to the average life of wagons, mowers, reapers and similar farm equipment, and will greatly reduce your yearly expenditures for machinery. The amount thus saved is clear profit.

Lowe Brothers

Wagon Paint

seals the pores of the wood and keeps out moisture. It prevents the cracks and seams that mark the beginning of decay. It saves the iron parts from rust.

The cost of paint is little as compared with results. It can be applied during spare time. Ask for color card.

G. W. Barnett Hardware Co.

Montgomery Ala.

Cost and Profit In Raising 100 Hogs a Year

By Lee S. Jones

18 sows at 3 pigs per litter and 2 litters per year ..... 108 hogs
Less for home use 8 hogs at 150 pounds or 1200 pounds meat 8 hogs

100 hogs

100 hogs at 150 pounds each makes 15,000 pounds on feet.
15,000 pounds at 7 1-2 cents $1,125

Two ears of corn per day and hogs running on pasture will get them ready for packing house or market. Two ears corn per day 365 days per year is 730 ears corn; allowing 130 ears corn per bushel or 130 into 730 equals 5.62 bushels. If beans and peanuts are planted in the corn there will be 3 months in the year after harvest that the hogs will need no corn; 3 months being one-fourth of a year we will have to deduct 1-4 of the corn required to feed for 12 months or 5.62
Less one-fourth 1.405

4.215 Bus.

4.2 bushels multiplied by 100 hogs is 420 bushels for 100 hogs per year. 40 acres of land at the low yield of 11 bushels per acre is 440 bushels.

This 40 acres of land with beans planted in the corn will yield 800 pounds beans per acre or 32,000 pounds or 16 tons. Six tons of beans in the barn and field is all that will be required to feed the cows and stock (two cows and two horses). Six tons from the 16 tons leave 10 tons for the market.
10 tons of beans sold at $15.00 per ton makes ..... $ 150.00
Adding the $150 to the sale of the 100 hogs 1125.00

$1275.00

Cost of Raising These Feeds.

Rent for 40 acres land	$100.00
One man 6 months at $20 per month	120.00
Hire two horses 6 months	180.00
Feed two horses 6 months	90.00
Plows (wear and tear on same for year allow)	10.00
Inoculate pigs when young, 15 cents each (100 pigs)	15.00
18 gilts at $10 and one boar at $20	200.00
Interest on $200, hog investment 8 per cent 1 year	16.00
Lumber for pens and troughs including nails	20.00
	$751.00
If man owns his land deduct rent	$100.00
If he owns his horses deduct	180.00
If he does not have to hire then deduct	120.00
The 18 gilts and the boar are in the field or pasture so deduct	200.00
	$600.00 600.00
	$151.00
Add 4.2 bushels corn for feed 18 sows and one boar for one year or 19 hogs at 4.2 bushels, or 80 bushels $1.00	80.00
	$231.00
Take $231.00 from sale of hogs and beans as per above makes the following	$1275.00
	231.00
Profit	$1044.00

Besides making feed for two cows, chickens, etc., with the beans. In case man has to rent land, hire horses, buy feed take the above $751 from $1275.00, or $1275.00
Less ..... 751.00 $524.00 Profit

Why It Is Best to Build the Silo In the Fall

This fall and this winter is the time to build that silo.

Why?

Well there are several reasons for it and we will name them.

First Reason

In the first place next spring and next summer you will be busy with your stock, your teams and your crops. The cultivating and harvesting of the corn and cotton and the planting of the peas will be uppermost on your mind. Your mules and your horses will be busy and so will your wagons. You will be trying to keep cholera out of the hogs and trying to have enough pasture for the hot months. As usual you will be inclined to put of the building of the silo—and the first thing you know the corn crop will be on you and no silo.

Another Reason

By waiting until next summer you may not be able to secure the services of a trained silo builder. Silo builders are always rushed through summer and sometimes they have to disappoint people who are crazy to get a silo put up before the corn or sorghum crops have gone too far.

This counts for a good meal—the service of an experienced man in putting up the silo.

Another One

The third reason is that "putting off" is often a fatal policy. "Prepare in advance" is the watchword these days and should be the watchword on the farm as well as in business. If anybody should prepare in advance it is the farmer, who is always dependent upon seasons and weather.

A Better Trade

The fourth reason is that you can probably get a better trade with silo builders in the fall than in the spring or summer. They naturally want to keep men and equipment busy and so they can often make you better terms for fall than for spring building. Try it and you will see that we are right in this.

The fifth reason is that you will, by building this fall, have the silo when you want it. This may not be the case if you postpone the silo question till spring.

There is no question about the profits in the silo. For a man raising beef cattle or dairy cows failure to have a silo means constant loss in profits that he could have with the silo. The silo is really just starting in the Central South. Every farm should have one and the time is coming when every farm that is a real farm will have a silo on it. The silo is just as important as the barn. "A silo with every barn" means farming for profit every time.

Eggs Just Like Cash These Days

Eggs are getting to be almost "legal tender."

All through the country the merchants are taking eggs and either giving cash or goods for them.

Buyers, coming through the country, are buying up these eggs from the merchants and shipping them to the central markets.

In the way of eggs we are going back to the old days when any merchant would take eggs and give cash for them or exchange their full value in goods.

And it is well that we are getting back to these days. It should be so with other things besides eggs. But as eggs are becoming in a sense "legal tender" they show the great possibilities in egg production.

You never heard anybody say "there is no market for eggs." There is always a market for all the eggs that can be produced and always will be such a market. In fact the demand for eggs grows steadily with the growth of the big centers of population.

There is not only a market for eggs but there is money in eggs. Now there isn't much money in a hen that won't lay many eggs but if you have got good layers and give them the right care you have got money producers that work pretty steadily.

Alabama ought to be one of the biggest chicken and egg producing states in the Union. Tennessee to the north is giving us a first class example of the profits to be made in first class poultry raising. The town of Morristown, Tenn., is largely supported by the hen and the poultry industry is one that has grown up around Morristown only within the last several years. The poultry business grows fast.

As soon as the poultry raising business begins to develop in any community buyers come in. In a short while a little central market is established. And the beauty about poultry raising is that it affords the girls and boys a chance to do something profitable. There are boys and girls in Illinois and Iowa who have educated themselves by raising good layers and selling the eggs. There are many housewives in these two states who have established good-sized bank accounts through raising hens and selling eggs. It is remarkable how much money an industrious woman can make from a small flock of good layers.

Summerer—That bull keeps following and looking at me so funny!

Farmer—Cuz of yer red sweater, I guess.

Summerer—My, I know it is two seasons out of date, but I didn't think a bull would notice it!

AN OMINOUS OUTLOOK

"Burt Blurt traded for a second-hand motor car recently," said old Riley Rezzidew. "Trying to learn how to run it he has already rambled over several dozen chickens, a few hogs, two neighbors and a Campbellite preacher who has lately come to town. I'm skeered to think of how many specimens of live stock, prominent citizens and presiding elders he will obliterate after he knows how to run the car."

QUICK ADVANCEMENT

Fond mother of absent Guardsman—I knew Jack would distinguish himself with the regiment, and he has!

The neighbor who has dropped in—Ah! On guard on the border, isn't he?

Fond mother—Better than that! Why, his letter says he's right in the guardhouse itself!

Indignant person—This is a fine time to arrive with the morning mail! Why, it's almost noon!

Postman—Sorry, Mrs. Browne, but ye see with so many people touring the country, we're gettin' a lot of picture post-cards, and they're mighty interestin'.

HIS OUTBURST

"My four-year-old boy, Bearcat, got a bee in his ear, tuther day," related Mr. Gap Johnson, of Rumpus Ridge, Ark., "and until he got the varmint excavated out ag'in he shore orated like a popular evangelist."

WHEN AUTOS RUN BY WATER

Autoist (in the desert)—If I don't drink the water in the radiator, I'll die of thirst; and if I do I'll never get out of here!

HER THANKS

A heartfelt letter to a country paper reads as follows:

Mr. Editor: I desire to thank the friends and neighbors most heartily in this manner for their cooperation during the illness and death of my late husband, who escaped from me by the hand of death last Saturday. To my friends and all who contribute toward making the last minutes comfortable and the funeral a success, I desire to remember most kindly, hoping that these few lines will find them enjoying the same blessing. I have also a good milch cow and a roan gelding horse eight years old which I will sell cheap. God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform. He plants His footsteps on the sea and rides upon the storm. Also, black and white shoat sheap.

HIS CROWD

Mr. Gladding moved from a small counthy village to a large city, and in going from church to church failed to find a congenial congregation. One Sunday morning he attended a little church in the surburbs. Just as he entered, the congregation was reading with the minister:

"We have left undone those things which we ought to have done, and we have done those things which we ought not to have done".

Gladding dropped into the nearest pew with a long sigh of relief. "Thank Heaven," he muttered, "I've found my crowd at last."

DEEP PHILOSOPHY

I suppose you would like to take a ride without worrying about tires and the like?

Motorist (fixing a puncture)—You bet I would.

Bystander—Well, here's a car ticket.

CLASS BY ITSELF

"Mother, our hammock is getting old. Take it downtown and see if you can't match it."

"Ah, we could never match that hammock," declared mother. "Six of our girls got engaged in it."

Great Area Freed From Cattle Tick

Approximately 9,493 square miles of territory in six States is released from quarantine on account of the Texas-fever cattle tick by an order signed by the Secretary of Agriculture to become effective September 15, 1916.

The order releases the last area under quarantine in California, adding this State to the tick-free list. The other territory released consists of 10 counties in Georgia, 3 in South Carolina, 2 in Alabama, 2 whole counties and 2 fractional parts of counties in Oklahoma, and a portion of 1 county in Mississippi.

Greater interest in tick eradication is being taken throughout the South than at any time since the beginning of the work cooperatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State in 1906.

The territory released is, in detail, as follows:

In Alabama, the counties of Autauga and Greene.

In California, the remainder of San Diego County, making the entire State now free from quarantine.

In Georgia, the Counties of Barrow, Bartow, Campbell, Columbia, Fayette, Floyd, Henry, Jackson, Paulding, and Walton.

In Mississippi, the remainder of Yazoo County.

In Oklahoma, the entire counties of Wagoner and Stephens and portions of Muskogee and Tulsa counties.

In South Carolina, the counties of Bamberg, Barnwell, and Edgefield.

WHY NOT

Jimmie giggled when the teacher read the story of the man who swam across the Tiber three times before breakfast.

"You do not doubt that a trained swimmer could do that, do you?"

"No, sir", answered Jimmie, "but I wonder why he did not make it four and get back to the side where his clothes were."

BEAUTY DOING

Marcella—Do you believe that beauty does?

Waverly—I think anybody will admit that a silk stocking is most attractive when in use.

MADE GOOD

She—You said you weren't fit to black my shoes.

He—Well, I never did black 'em, did I?

THE OBVIOUS PLACE.

What is known in a certain town as "A Shop Carnival" was being held, and little girls represented the various shops. One dressed in a white muslin frock gaily strung with garlands of bonbons advertised the local sweet shop.

When the festival began she fairly glistened with attractive confectionery but as time wore on her decoration grew less. Finally, at the end of the last act, not a bonbon was to be seen.

"Why, Dora" cried the stage manager, "where in the world are all your decorations? Have you lost them?"

"Oh no," replied Dora; "they're perfectly safe. Im wearing them inside."

NOT NAUTICAL.

Mr. Brown, who lived near the river hired an old darky to help about his place. Jim told him that he understood boats.

One day they went out fishing in a motor-boat, and while he himself was busy with the engine, Mr. Brown put the old darky at the wheel. Three times they narrowly avoided a collision in spite of explicit instructions to the old man to pull away. Finally Mr. Brown lost his patience.

"You old fool, you!" he exclaimed. "Didn't you hear me tell you to pull to the starboard?"

"Boss" said the old darky humbly, "Ah dont known nothin' 'bout dem dere expressions, but if yu sez "Gee" and 'Hak' Ah'll sho'ly know what yu mean.

WHERE HE WAS

A young mother hearing her two-year-old crying loudly, rushed to him and inqured anxiously, "What is the matter?"

"The dog bit me," was the tearful response.

Where were you when the dog bit you?"

Boo hoo* I was—I was by—I was by—the dog!"

IT DEPENDS.

CONFIDENCE RETURNED

"Jack must be out of debt.

"Why?"

"He's walking down the main street again."

THE FINAL BLOW

"There's no prohibition of kissing—not much;

"No law against lover's adoption."

"Oh, no," she replied—then shrank from his clutch,

"But remember there is local option

LOVE'S LABOR LOST

At a certain church it is the invariable custom of the clergyman to kiss the bride after the ceremony. A young womanwho was about to b married in this church did not relish the prospect and instructed her prospective husband to tell the clergyman that she didnot wish him to kiss her. The bridegroom obeyed the instructions given.

"Well, Harry," said the young woman, when he appeared, "did you tell the minister that I did not wish him to kiss me?"

"yes".

"And what did he say?"

"He said that, in that case, he would charge only half the usual fee."

CAUSE OF DESTITUTION

Old Lady—Here's a penny, my poor man. Tell me, how did you become so destitute?

Beggar—I was always like you, mum, a-givin' away vast sums ter the pore an' needy.

COLDER ICE.

Mrs. Youngbride—I'm getting our ice from a new man now, dear?

Younbride—What's wrong with the other man?

Mrs. Youngbride—The new dealer says he'll give us colder ice for the same money.

WHAT OXEN ARE

"What are oxen?" asked the teacher The little foreigners looked blank. "Does any one know what a cow is?" she asked hopefully. A dingy hand waved at the back of the room.

"I know, I know, teacher. A cow, she lays milk!"

DISAPPOINTED

"Then she is disappointed in her match?"

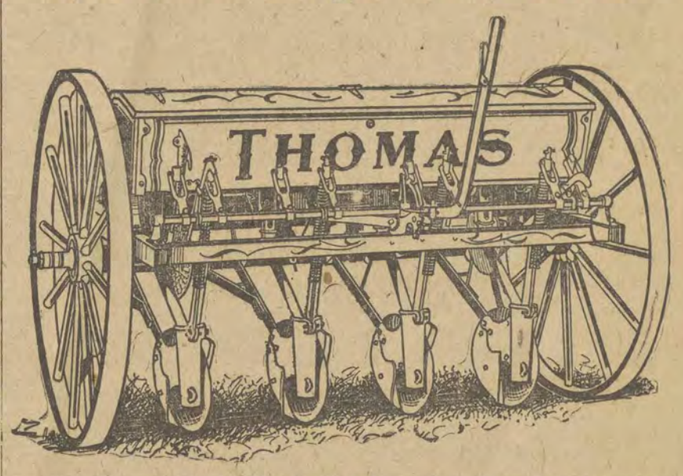
"Yes, thats what a girl gets for marrying for money."

"In what is she disappointed?"

"Well her husband isn't as old as he claimed by ten years, nor as wealthy by ten million."

THE ONLY SAFE PLACE

"Why," asks a Missouri paper, "does Missouri stand at the head in raising mules?"



"Because," said another paper, "that is the only safe place to stand."

NO DIVIDE. D.

"You married a rich wife, didn't you?" asked Jones of his friend.

"Yes" he sighed, "but she's not declared any dividend yet."

Raise Larger Crops With the "Thomas" Single Disc Drills

The Thomas Single Disc Drill will produce from 2 to 5 bushels more wheat per acre than any other Single Disc Drill. Why? Because the disc and tubular boot opens a wider furrow (1 3-4 inches wide) and scatters the seed over the whole of the bottom of this wide furrow giving every grain a chance to stool out and grow, insuring more and better stalks and producing more grain.

Tullis-Gamble Hardware Co.

Montgomery, Ala. Wetumpka, Ala.

THE BEST IN ASPHALT SLATE SHINGLES AND THREE PLY ROLL ROOFING SLATE COVERED

We also handle Rubber Belting, Lace Leather and all kinds of Packings. Plumbers Supplies in Rubber Goods.

Anything in Hardware at Factory Prices.

JERNIGAN & HALTIWANGER, Montgomery, Ala

Mr. Farmer and Merchant—Just The Book You Need At This Time.

MODERN METHODS OF—Farming in practical manner; Breeding, training, and doctoring Horses; Raising and doctoring Hogs, Sheep, Cattle and Poultry; Destroying injurious insects; Lightning cotton tables for picking and selling, and selling seed; Hundreds of business laws and forms you should know; Over 120 pages of bookkeeping and penmanship; Get descriptive circular or better get the book, if not satisfied we will return your money; two styles of binding, $2.50 and $2.95; exclusive territory to intelligent hustlers, other good propositions, get terms.

Mail Order Service Co., Lock Box 235, Birmingham, Ala.

The Flour Perfection Is

Alabama Perfection

It's good Alabama Flour, made from good Alabama Wheat by Alabama Millers and packed in Alabama Cotton Sacks.

Best for Bread, Biscuits, Rolls, and Cake. Try it today and you'll use it every day.

At all good grocers.

H. M. Hobbie Company

Montgomery, Alabama.

Trade Compact Of The Allies "A Giant Whack At Uncle Sam"

Editor "The American Sheep Breeder and Wool Grower" Declares That Agreement of the Nation Is Against American Industry and Means a Battle for the Meat and Wool of the World. Says That We Will See 15-Cent Lamb and Wool at 60 Cents and Maybe Higher When World Trade War Gets Under Way. Remarkable Opportunity For Southern Farmers to Breed Sheep and Grow Wool

Of course the slaughter of 15 or 20 million human beings doesn't trouble the war lords and the chap that isn't slaughtered. And this little matter of a business arrangement between the Allies has excited little comment among the belligerents. They are too busy to bother with the future. Butchering men is their present job.

Also the American press devotes little space to the discussion of this commercial arrangement. So far Congress has paid more attention to the Washington baseball score. Senator J. Ham Lewis of Illinois is the only statesman who seems to size up this business deal as worthy of passing notice. He wilted a perfectly good linen collar trying to wake up the sleepy members of the Upper House of Parliament.

The fact is nothing seems to shock us any more. We are living when such big things happen that unless Billy Sunday takes up a $40,000 collection we yawn and go unruffled about our daily tasks. Dollars to carpet tacks 95 out of the 100,000,000 people in these United States can't tell you what the big deal was. But just the same it's the most important commercial pact that ever happened on this planet. It wasn't an ordinary meeting of a few business gents trying to drum up trade with each other. This was a meeting of nations,—the greatest nations in the world—the whole British Empire, France, Russia, Italy, Japan and Servia, to organize an economic campaign to wipe Germany off the business map—Germany, the nation that was doing a foreign trade of five billion annually. The governments of the above countries have spent months in preparing an iron-clad commercial treaty, the like of which was never dreamed in the world's history. It is a cold-blooded business contract to freeze out the Kaiser and incidentally take a giant whack at Uncle Sam—to split up the world's trade among themselves. Remember, the United States has this year transacted a foreign business of $6,500,000,000. The man who can't see the magnitude of this trade alliance is blind. It is a well-defined plan to change the commercial map of the world. The neutral countries can go hang.

To Control World Trade.

It is a well-hatched scheme to control finance, exchange, tariffs, sea and land traffic, agriculture, manufacturing and the distribution of all products produced in all these countries. Europe, Asia, Africa, the islands of the seas are all included in this lovely little plan. It isn't a gentleman's agreement; it's a bona fide businesse combine, so gigantic in its nature and so far-reaching in the scope of its operation and influence that well may other nations tremble. Has it been done in the heat or war passion? Is it simply hatred for the "common foe?" It seems not. Already England has shown her hand in the wool world, first to protect herself against American competition, second to accommodate her allies, and third to remove all revenues for wool supply to reach Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey. Likewise she has commandeered the meat supply of Australia, Africa and practically two-thirds of South America, for she controls fully that proportion of this trade. The Chicago packers who are getting a strangle hold in South America will naturally sell meat to the country that pays the most money, so if Germany bids highest she may secure a portion of her supplies from that source. It's all a question of price, and let us say right here there will be a battle for meat after this war, but the control largely rests with Great Britain. Our meagre supplies cannot feed all Europe. The truth is we have no real surplus. What we now export is really taken out of our mouths. Talk about the slump in domestic meat prices after the war is sheer nonsense. Meat has steadily increased in price for years. The merest tyro knows the cause—supply—lack of supply and little prospect of an increase for years to come. The demand of an ever increasing population is insistent. Where is the beef, where the mutton South American or Australasian shipments to the United States are out of the question. Canada is shy of meat for home consumption. If our supply is not short, why the unheard of prices for pure bred cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry? The 13c, 14c and 15c lamb will come—mark these words.

England Controls Wool.

Now for wool* Britain controls the world's supply. If this commercial treaty means anything Germany not only will have to fight for the wool she gets in South America, but the lid for her will stay on in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. Great Britain promises the Allies that Germany will be shut out from home and colonial markets both, in metals, wool, foodstuffs and other raw materials. These are statements definitely made.

On the other hand, Germany has openly declared that England shall be prohibited from buying and selling in all countries dominated by the "central powers." England's annual wool and textile trade with Germany before the war was over $61,000,000. Germany sold England $22,000,000 worth of rags, yarn and cloth. Bradford spinners declare they can forget Germany if they can secure the Leicester trade.

England Shows Her Teeth.

The allies will come first after the war. The supply is short and England is jealous of America. She has shown her teeth more than once lately. England does not propose to lose her grip on textiles. She is watching like a cat every movement the American manufacturer is making in a foreign direction. A sample of enterprise in this regard is the recently organized New England company, with a capital of nearly a million, to handle exclusively foreign business in woolen goods. Germany and Uncle Sam will scrap for wool in South America. England will soon clamp down the lid on South Africa so far as Uncle Sam is concerned. Germany doesn't grow enough wool to last her a month. Austria will have to "divvy" up her supplies, which have grown beautifully less according to late reports, for her sheep have melted like snow. The Russians have recently made a big hole in that direction. Turkey's sheep and goats numbered 50 million before the war, but Germany and Austria have made heavy inroads on the Sultan's herds and flocks. It was said that Germany could use no mohair. Evidently she has substituted mohair for wool lately, for it is stated on good authority that fully four million pounds of mohair was shipped parcels post from Constantinople to Germany at an enormous cost. Our English correspondent, Mr. Hollings, knows of one broker, a Jew, who made a fortune sending mohair and opium from Constantinople to Germany. The Germans have paid as high as 56 cents per pound for mohair, less the tremendous cost of conveyance already noted. Mr. Hollings says further that it is quite likely the Hungarians will develop their mohair industry and spin their own yarn as a reprisal for the protective tariff or prohibition which England is now suggesting against German goods.

Germany has drawn heavily on the sheep stock of Denmark, Norway and Sweden, and we know has practically annihilated the flocks of Belgium and Poland. The Balkan states had less than 13 million sheep and Servia has lost hers to the invaders. Russia and Japan are getting a cast iron grip on China. Germany and the United States will have to put up a hot fight for carpet wools in China. England controls the Indian wools. The lid is also on them at present. Germany has had two-thirds of Russia's trade in manufactures. Germany is done in Russia. Russia's woolen mills are being revamped and new and modern machinery installed. Watch Russia's textile industry grow. Russia's awakening will surprise the world. This war has opened Russia's eyes. Italy is now a world factor in wool and her demands on Australia will increase. England must of necessity supply more and more yarns and tops to France, Italy and Russia. Japan is surprising the world in textiles. Japan will have all branches of the textile trade in China before other countries realize it. The woolen mills of France are now largely in the hands of the Teutons. After the war France will make heavy demands on Australia and New Zealand, and England must aid her. Don't worry about Germany dumping cheap woolen goods into America. For years to come Germany's textile industry will be like a bird with a broken wing. Every well posted shepherd knows that wool supplies in South America and Australia are declining. South Africa offers some hope, but nothing startling for a considerable period at least. New Zealand is holding her own, but mixed farming, especially dairying, will cut into sheep ere long. It is quite possible that England has a long knife up her sleeve for the Yankee manufacturer. England wants the South American trade and England knows the Yankee is hot on the same trail. No one knows how long England may keep the lid on her Colonial wool. Our wool supply is 50 per cent minus needs. In the reconstruction of the wool trade and the grand scramble for the woolen trade there will no doubt be fluctuation in the prices of wool, but in the very nature of things WOOL MUST REMAIN HIGH. If England holds the embargo on wool for another six months, as she is quite likely to do—war or no war—you will see the domestic staple reach 55c or 60c. Maybe more. Shear the wool around your own eyes and you can quickly see that fine wool at 50c will be cheap. The world's fine wool shortage is acute. Witness the enormous advances in fine wool abroad. The American wool grower's position is secure. We sure feel sorry for the timid wool growers who sold early. The wool grower has the price of wool in the hollow of his hands, but he don't seem to realize it. If he was half organized and prepared to meet the situation there would be a lot of eastern people trembling in their boots.

Higher Prices Inevitable.

How any sane man can see anything but higher prices for wool is beyond us. Here we are frizzed out of foreign supplies and our own clip is considerably shy. The chances are 8 to 10 that England will for 6 to 9 months and perhaps longer, manipulate all foreign wool save South America and perhaps China. John Bull is in no mood to divide anything with the United States. His horns are up. Buyers and paper reports tell you the manufacturers are "indifferent" or "apathetic" to territory wools—that they are not crazy about fleece wools either; that they have oceans of foreign stuff in their wool bins. Now, it is true they have considerable foreign wool on hand, but a lot of wool reported bought has not and may never arrive. Considerable of this interned wool has already been sold and more may be.

From January 1st to June 30th around 310,000,000 pounds of foreign wool were entered for consumption. It is a well known fact that much of this wool is defective in staple. Probably the poorest lot of Australian wool ever brought to this country. Much of it has been scoured and carbonized. It stands to reason that a large volume of this imported wool has gone into consumption at the mills, for the weavers have not been idle. No wool authority in England is closer to the wool throne in the war office than our correspondent, S. B. Hollings. He openly states that the British government's present action is to make sure of adequate supplies of raw material when the war finishes—that the new clip of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa will be marketed with more or less conditions of government control. We shall see, he says, a slight change in the interest of the British Empire and her allies. Neutral countries will not play the part they have done in dominating the Austrialian clip, next season, and America will have to shift for herself and rely more entirely upon her own resources as regards wool supplies. He advises Australasian pastoralists and the selling trade at different centers to get rid of the false notion that paying wool prices cannot obtain without the aid of Germany or even America—consoling them with the promise that satisfactory prices will be forthcoming. Now, if this is not significant, what is? The American wool manufacturer stands a mighty poor show for foreign supplies from now on, war or no war. How our wool merchants and manufacturers can interpret all these embargoes and such statements as Mr. Hollings makes to mean anything but famine in future foreign supplies is a mystery to us. The manufacturers say little. The wool trader talks much. If we had wool we would freeze onto it like a tick to a sheep's back.

Mr. W. P. Talbot, manager of Tameny Hall, a fishing resort, Geneva, Ala., writes: "I have tried Calomel, Quinine and other remedies for malaria and biliousness without effect: tried "Vega-Cal" (vegetable calomel), which gave relief. Think it a God-send to the people.' "Vege-Cal" is sold and guaranteed by all drug stores, 25 and 5 cents per bottle.

PHARMACY Thoroughly Taught at Southern College of Pharmacy

Largest Pharmacy School South. Dispensary in the college. Complete equipment, three laboratories. Eight faculty members. Complete course in 12 months. Moderate expenses. Demand for graduates exdeeds supply. Fall session begins Oct. 2. Write for catalog N.

R. C. HOOD, Ph. G., Dean, 65½ Walton St. ATLANTA, GA.

COMFORT CONVENIENCE SERVICE

The Gay-Teague Hotel

(FIRE PROOF)

MONTGOMERY, ALA. E. C. TAYLOR, Manager.

Lauderdale, Awake and Doing Big Things In Diversified Farming and Co-operation

By J. T. McKee, Extension Department, Florence Normal School

The eyes of the whole country have been turned toward this section of Alabama because of the possibilities of Muscle Shoals.

They have not turned in vain either as many will realize when the nitrate plant to be located somewhere is in actual operation here. Lauderdale county is richer by far because of its agricultural possibilities than it ever will be because of Muscle Shoals development. But few even of her own citizens, however, realize her agricultural possibilities or are conscious of the rapid pace at which she is going in her agricultural development For one to anything like accurately relate the evidences of progressive farming to be found in Lauderdale county would make a story that would seem to the average observer as if it were told to advertise real estate located, around a two-by-four "mineral spring."

Soils Are Varied.

Lauderdale county soils are adapted to a wide range of farming in the rich bottom lands of the Tennessee river and many other smaller streams in the strong clay loam uplands, and in the splendid grade of mountain table land found in the western part of the county can be found soils suitable to almost every kind of farming practiced in the South. There are many thousand acres that have been growing without any fertilizer for average yelds of corn not produced anywhere else south of the Tennessee valley. The clovers seem to be at their best here. Wheat yields surprisingly well in many parts of the county. Grasses grow in spite of the best methods of farming and more because of it. A bale of cotton to the acre is an easy proposition. There are many acres of good alfalfa land as the growing of the alfalfa has demonstrated. Truck crops and fruits find many suitable soils.

Farmers Respond to Modern Farming

With a strength that comes from a reasonable conservatism, and at the same time with open minds that characterize the most progressive, the farmers of Lauderdale are gradually proving for themselves the value of new methods of farming. They are not only learning about new crops and the difference between real cows and hogs and scrubs, but they are practicing the latest methods of planting and cultivating the old reliables, corn and cotton. Two-horse cultivators are fast becoming the rule. But little of the crude cultivation so common ten years ago is found now. Thorough preparation and shallow cultivation has about gained the day.

Business Men are Cooperating

But little evidence of the old-time grinding of the farmers by the business men is to be found in this county. The business men are recognizing that cooperation among the farmers and between the farmers and the business men in the chance for the prosperity of all. In other words, farmers must first have money as profits from farming before legitimate business can succeed. When it became necessary for local aid to be given to the farm demonstration work the business men of Florence quickly said "We will stand good for the amount necessary to assist in putting in a man trained to help our farmers do the most progressive farming." Since they realize that the farm demonstrator, Mr. Hollingsworth, partly paid by them has during the past six and one half months inoculated for the prevention of cholera twelve hundred hogs besides training other men who have inoculated over five hundred more; has met once a month with from fifteen to twenty-five groups of farmers organized into farmers clubs; has pruned and sprayed a number of orchards; is teaching farmers how to terrace the hill lands; is helping them to find a better market for certain farm products; is inducing a large number of farmers to try new crops; to make permanent pastures etc. They are satisfied that the money spent by them will come back to them several times increased.

Normal School Helping.

For the past two years, the Florence Normal School has maintained an Extension Department that has rendered assistance to the Lauderdale farmers in several ways. This assistance is given through a field worker's visiting communities, outlining plans of organization, and continuing to visit at regular intervals the communities that are willing to organize. Through these organizations new crops are studied, literature on every phase of farming is distributed and co-operative marketing and buying are started. The farm women are helped to standardize their butter through the Normal Butter and Egg Club for which they are receiving from 20 per cent to 100 per cent increase in price. A study of the management of poultry and the colection and selection of eggs is being made through the farm women's club and a better market is being found.

Increased Interest In Cattle

The tick quarantine has been raised from Lauderdale county for almost two years. Gradually the farmers are getting in better beef and better dairy cattle. There are at present about twenty-five pure-bred beef bulls in the countc. The Shorthorn is the bread most generally found. Some good grade Shorthorn heifers have been brought into the county and these with the largest cows already here are being bred to the pure-bred bulls. There are a few farmers that have already begun to ship carload shipments of fat beef cattle. There are also ten pure-bred Jersey bulls in the county. Since there is such a ready market for butter through the Normal Butter and Egg Club and since the parcel post brings this market to the door of every farmer, the attention to dairy cattle will rapidly increase.

Hogs Proving Very Profitable

Possibly no other branch of farming is receiving more attention than hog raising. There are between fifty and one hundred pure-bred boars in the county and a number of pure-bred sows. We have conditions necessary to the successful management of hogs. No other county in Alabama can grow corn at less cost per bushel because of the large area of bottom land. Soy beans, peanuts and rape do well on most of our upland soil. Through the activity of our farm demonstrator, about four hundred hogs have been pledged for cooperative carload shipment this fall.

It is only a matterf of a few years when practically all the mules and horses needed in the county will be raised here. There are now between two hundred fifty and five hundred colts in the county.

Variety Of Hay And Forage Crops

Sudan grass has proved a success. From three to five cuttings can be had per year. One farmer, Mr. E. A. O'Neal, has about seventy-five acres in Sudan grass and twenty-five acres in alfalfa which is in its third year. He has this year already obtained a little more than two tons per acre from his alfalfa and will get two more cuttings. He gets $20 per ton for all his alfalfa hay. Soy beans are grown very successfully by a number of farmers. Red clover is also used considerably for hay. Cowpeas, red top, sorghum and German millet produce large quantities of hay and forage. There are eight or ten silos in the county.

Wheat Mills

Because of the acreage and the good yields of wheat, two well-equipped wheat mills have been put up in the country. There are numbers of farmers who raise proctically all of their wheat for the flour needed in the homes. There is no section of the state where the farmer can more nearly live at home on his own farm than here in Lauderdale county.

Spirit of Cooperation Growing

There is not a more hopeful evidence of progress than the fact that farmers are learning the value of cooperation. They are studying, planning, working, buying and selling together. Six carloads of fertilizers were bought cooperatively this spring. The farmers in twentyfive communities have met with some regularity in farmers' clubs during the past twelve months. Several communities are planning community exhibits of their farm and home phoducts as one result of these clubs. The Greenhill community is planning its third annual exhibit. There has been no better community exhibit in the state, if in the South than the ones that have beeen bode at Greenhill during the past two years.

Special Live Stock Report From East St. Louis

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, ILLS., Sept. 9.—For a time being the cattle trade assumed a rather serious aspect owing to the uncertainties that developed as a result of a probable railroad strike, and temporarily the bottom apparently dropped out of the market. This was a few days ago and for a period of two days at least, market values slumped materially. However, when it was virtually established that there would be a peaceful solution of the trouble, the trade promptly reacted, regaining what loss was scored. Barring this circumstance the trade for the past several weeks has shown a very encouraging attitude, ruling active at a general advance of 15 to 25 cents, though in extreme cases values displayed a gain of 25 to 40 cents, but these cases were immaterial.

Quotations: (Grass killing cattle)—Choice to prime steers, $7.25 to $7.75; good to choice steers, $6.75 to $7.25; medium to good steers, $5.65 to $6.35; common to medium steers, $4.85 to $5.50. Fat cows, $5.75 to $6.50; medium cows, $5 to $5.50; cutters, $4.65 to $5; canners, $4.25 to $4.50. Heavy bulls, $5.25 to $6; light bulls, $4.65 to $5. Yearlings, $4.60 to $4.85; heretics, $5.75 to $6.50; light veal calves, $7 to $11.

Demand for stock cattle for country shipment has not been very broad of late, and for some weeks as yet, we hardly anticipate any material revival of interest in the trade, but just as soon as the country at large feel safe on the corn crop, the inquiry will undoubtedly improve considerably. At the present time thin stuff is selling 15 to 25 cents lower than two weeks ago.

Stock cattle (tick free): Good to choice quality thin steers, $6 to $6.35; medium to good, $5.40 to $6; common to medium, $5 to $5.50, with good quality stock heifers $5.25 to $5.75.

Hogs: When swine had landed to that lofty level of $11.30 per cwt. as was mentioned in our last report, little did any one really believe that further advances were likely, but there were, for market added further strength until a level of $11.50 was reached on Wednesday of last week. The unusual strength in the market was the stimulus given through urgent buying and the fear that the strike would be called and a shortage of meat for the time being exist. The very moment that the news spread that there would be no walk-out killers shut up like a clam and on Friday and Saturday trade has settled 50 to 75 cents per cwt., the top then going down to $10.90, but the worst feature of the trade was the inability to get rid of the hogs at the prices. Between six to seven thousand hogs were carried over from last week and twas fortunate that receipts were exceptionally light today to give sellers a chance to work off the glut. The best hogs advanced 10 cents per cwt. today with the top working back to $11.10, but there was absolutely no improvement for the lighter and poorer quality swine. Fat hogs, 160 pounds and heavier, sold today at $10.60 to $11.10; pigs, 120 to 150 pounds, $9.25 to $10.40; lighter weight pigs, $6.50 to $9.25, with the rough heavy hogs bringing $9.50 to $10.

Sheep: Weakness has characterized the lamb trade in comparison with two weeks ago and present market values are fully 25 to 40 lower than that time. Fat Northern lambs are selling at the top of the market at $10.35 and bulk of the good kinds brings $10 up to that figure. Good cull lambs are bringing $7 to $7.50, with the skippy, light culls at $4 to $6.50. The market for sheep hold steady; fat kinds $71, choppers and fat bucks $5.50 with canner sheep at $3 to $3.50.

State-wide Tick Law Down In La.

The permanent eradication of the cattle tick in Louisiana now seems assurred as a result of the passage by the state legislature of the statewide tick eradication law. After April 1, 1918, tick eradication will be under the direction of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board and the law provides that such parishes as may be designated by that board will be required to make adequate provision for the construction of dipping vats and the dipping of cattle for ticks and to continue such dipping until the ticks are entirely eliminated.

While the law will not be enforced until April 1, 1918, the Federal authorities urge the wisdom of making provision now in the different parishes for the construction of vats and for the necessary chemicals for the baths.

As an indication that the people of Louisiana are not inclined to wait until 1918 before taking up tick eradication, Federal agents state that active work is now being conducted in nine parishes, with the result that during the month of June parish, State and Federal employes supervised 243,908 dippings of cattle to rid them of ticks. The Federal authorities believe that a large number of square miles will be added to the tick-free area in Louisiana by the end of this year.

As an additional safeguard against the spread of the tick, the State legislature has also passed a law prohibiting the movement of cattle from any quarantined area into the tick-free section of Louisiana or into any part of the State where systematic tickeradication work is being conducted, unless the animals have been dipped twice in the standard solution from five to 12 days apart. This dipmust be done under the supervision of a Federal or State inspector, who will furnish a certificate of dipping. The cattle must not be exposed to tick infestation after the second dipping. Where cattle are intended for immediate slaughter these restrictions do not apply, but the slaughtering centers must be provided with facilities for handling cattle satisfactory to the State Live Stock Sanitary Board.

You Can Make Good Money

Write me for particulars regarding my proposition. NO CAPITAL REQUIRED. INFORMATION WITHOUT OBLIGATION.

Our Perfect Protection Policy Guarantees Big Income to Live Agents.

FLOYD B. POWELL,

AGENCY MANAGER.

BELL BUILDING, MONTGOMERY, ALA.

Good Salesman Wanted To Sell Our Fruit Trees

Best terms known to the Nursery World. Steady employment good money made selling our excellent stock. Satisfaction guaranteed. The chance of a lifetime for Hustlers—none other need apply.

Cedar Hill Nursery and Orchard Co.

WINCHESTER, TENN.

CONIFER LUMBER COMPANY Long Leaf Yellow Pine

Lumber, Laths Shingles, Flooring, Ceiling, Siding, Finish Timbers.

All kinds and grades Heart Lumber. Quick Service. Phone 1315.

Retail Yard N., Court St., Montgomery, Ala.

Tile Your Land-It Pays

During the continued rains of this season, crops have not yet been drowned out on land that is tiled. The investment has paid these farmers and it will pay you.

If you have no land tiled, PLAN NOW to put in a few acres this fall. For wheat, Oats or other winter crops, tile drainage will give greater yields.

Jenkins Brick Company

Montgomery, Alabama

How Our Farmers Have Money In Bank

By A. E. Kennedy, of Louisiana

When the money panic of 1907, combined with boll weevil infestation, struck north Louisiana conditions then were similar to present troubles in Alabama, except Louisiana tenants got no free government rations which is a questionable charity.

Much advice, wise and otherwise, is doped out to the cotton grower. But each farmer for himself must do his own reading of government bulletins and farm papers and do his own thinking and directing his own work. The time in the South has past when the uneducated, unthinking man can run a farm.

There are some general ideas, however, that can profitably be adopted by all to begin a system of soil restoration by returning to its vegetable matter through winter cover crops such as oats, wheat, rye, vetch and clover.

As the rust proof oats in Louisiana have become a standard and unfailing crop on hill and in valley, this grain at from fifty to seventy-five cents per bushel is sown at the rate of two bushels to the acre in September and October after the first picking of cotton—by hand broadcasting and harrowing in. The same plan prevails among corn stalks and pea vines.

Carpet Of Green.

All cultivated lands in valley and on hill are practically covered with a carpet of "living green" when trees and unplanted fields are brown and bare. The grazing stock feed upon the corn stalks, pea vines and grass until December by which time the trampled oats are sodded, thus returning vegetable matter to the rolling hillsides.

To grow livestock and poultry successfully there must be a continuous animal growth and pasturage through the year. Pigs nine months old at 125 pounds dressed are now produced on uplands in Ouchita Parish at from two to two-and-a-half cents dressed and sold to butchers at from eight to nine cents and then retailed by the butchers at fifteen cents.

There is, however, more profit in lambs six months old and less in beef cattle at three years old.

Farmers Have Money

The Louisiana cotton crop this year is infested by the boll weevil and is hurt by wet weather. The average yield will be sixty per cent of the usual crop and will be held for fifteen cents minimum and our farmers as a class have money in banks all the year round made by diversified farming. Strange as it may seem, we have not in a year heard farmers complain of conditions or prices of cotton as this crop is considered by many of them a "side issue."

Broke in 1875

We have before us an item printed in the Selma Times, Selma, Ala., dated August 15, 1869. The item notes the sale of the second bale of new cotton at thirty-one cents. By 1875 a majority of the prairie land farmers in Alabama were "broke" growing high priced cotton because no other crops than cotton were grown.

RESOURCEFUL PROTECTOR

A Southern lady who has met with financial reverses recently moved to the country in order to economize. She engaged a little colored boy in the neighborhood to assist her at odd times about the house. Sam was so much pleased with his employment that he was anxious to become a permanent member of the litttle household.

"Mis' Alice," he began one day, "don't you-all ever git skeered in dis big house, jus' by yourself?"

"Why, yes, Sam," the lady admitted "it is lonely at time. I have thought of having someone about when my husband has to go away."

"Well," ventured Sam again, "I jus thought you might like know dat I's a candidate fo' de position ob protector in case you should decide to employ someone."

"Why, Sam," asked the lady, laughing, "what could you do to help me if robbers happened to break in some dark night?"

Sam was puzzled for a moment, but presently he had an inspiration.

"Well, Mis' Alice," he said proudly, "dah's one thing dat I could do in case you was visited by unwelcome intruders; I could light tde lantern and show you-all which way to run."

THE ORDINARY KIND

"What sort of a woman is Perkins' wife?"

"The ordinary kind. I guess Perkins has as much trouble with her as the rest of us do with our wives.

SHE HAD A MAN

The minister was shaking hands with a new member of his congregation, a girl fresh from Sweden, and said, cordially: "I would like to know your address, so I can call on you."

"Oh," said the girl innocently, "I haf a man."

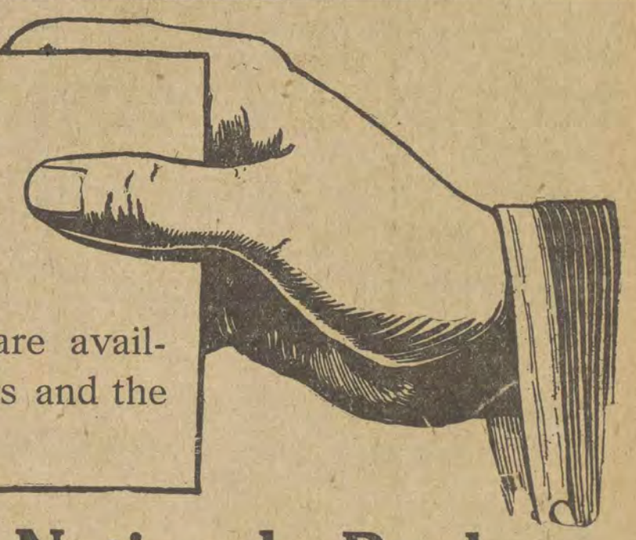
IT SAVES TIME, LABOR AND Veterinary Bills

No Dosing—No Drenching Every Animal Its Own Doctor

Drop Brick in Feed Box—It Will Do the Rest

A Handy Medicine—It Salts 'em Too

Stock Lick It—Stock Like It



Best Worm Medicine and Tonic Ever Produced

You've tried the rest—Now use the Best

Contains Copperas for worms, Nux Vomica a tonic, Sulphur for the blood, Saltpetre for the kidneys and the purest Dairy Salt.

Blackman Stock Remedy Co.

Chattanooga, Tennessee.

A Bank account in a RELIABLE BANK, is the first step towards success. It adds to your credit while it adds to your character.

The facilities of this bank are available to out-of-town customers and the best of attention assured.

The Fourth National Bank

Montgomery, Alabama.

RESOURCES OVER FOUR MILLION

Put the Idle Back Yards At Work Reducing the High Cost of Living

Have More and Better Poultry Products at Small Expense

BY FREDERIC H. STONEBURN

From all indications one is justified in concluding that this present year will be a big one for the poultry industry. During the past season the range of egg prices has been quite satisfactory to the producer but has brought objections from the consumer who has had to part with considerable cash in order to secure really fresh goods. Such a state of affairs is almost certain to stimulate producers to greater activities and often brings many new recruits to the ranks of the producers.

Just why more people fail to take advantage of their opportunities to produce at home the eggs required by the family—and a small surplus for sale—is a question which cannot be easily answered. There are many which control roomy back yards most suitable for poultry keeping who let this land virtually go to waste and pay long prices for poultry products which might as well be grown at home.

Home-Grown Products.

Eggs and dressed poultry are staples and even at present prices are not expensive when compared with many other meat foods. If these products can be used with economy when purchased on the market how much more freely can they be consumed when grown at home at a fraction of the usual price.

There is enough idle land in the average community to support enough hens to supply that community with all the eggs consumed there. Of course many people do not want any hens around the place and it not infrequently happens that objections registered by the neighbors introduce serious difficulties but allowing for all this there is still room for the establishment of many more little flocks which will yield much pleasure and satisfaction to say nothing of more material things.

It is surprising how cheaply a flock of a dozen hens can be maintained. Such a flock demands but little yard space and can be comfortably housed in a small inexpensive structure which any one who is reasonably handy with carpenter's tools can easily construct. Lawn clippings waste vegetables from the home garden the scraps from the family table and possibly some donated by kindly neighbors can be incorporated in the ration thus reducing the amount of supplies which must be purchased.

At this season of the year one can logically take up the pleasant task of providing quarters for a home flock and securing the needed stock. To beginners and to those whose present flocks are not all that could be desired a little advice regarding the fowls themselves may not be out of place.

A very few hens of fair breeding and properly managed will supply eggs enough to meet the needs of the average family the year around. Granted there may be a shortage in late summer and early fall but this gap can be bridged by putting down the surplus in a solution of water glass.

And then there are the tender chickens a welcome addition to any table ranging in size from broilers to roasters and the laying hens which have passed their period of usefulness but are most acceptable in pot pies.

A flock of fowls maintained in the back yard of city village or suburban home will afford a great deal of pleasure for the members of the family from the youngest to the oldest. And all will benefit from assuming some portion of the work of caring for the birds.

Poultry Growing as a Hobby

The breeding of fine fowls as a hobby or a recreation has much to commend it. Each season brings a new round of duties and fresh interests. The arrival of the first winter egg marks a red letter day. The care of the sitting hen and the arrival of their broods of chicks the development of the youngsters during the summer months the selection and conditioning of one or more select specimens for competition in the local poultry exhibition the management of the layers to secure the maximum egg yield are a few of the hundred and one activities of the poultryman which keep interest and enthusiasm at high pitch And the outdoor work which is never heavy has a beneficial influence upon the health and effectiveness of workers whose duties keep them closely confined in shop or office.

Under present-day conditions it is a very simple matter to make a start in poultry keeping without costly mistakes. From many sources one can secure practical helpful dependable information which may safely be followed it is not necessary to take a course in the expensive school of experience before being able to properly care for fowls.

Chicks may be purchased "ready made" from reliable hatcheries at moderate rates. One can decide how many chicks he requires the breed and the date he wishes them delivered, place his order and be relieved of further uncertainty. He may purchase bred-to-show or bred-to-lay stock according to his personal preference. In short, everything is made easy for the beginner, and if reasonable judgment is exercised and the daily duties carefully performed a considerable degree of success may be expected from the very start.

The home flock need not be large. From ten to twenty-five birds will usually be enough. But these should be high class. Where the quantity is limited the quality should be high.

As a general rule, I think it best that the beginner make his start with purebred fowls, and thus secure immediate advantage of the years of work done by careful breeders. The advantages of pure-bred or standard-bred birds are many. They are more attractive in appearance, because of their uniformity, being much alike in size, shape and color. Being so much alike, they may be cared for and fed in the manner which will enable each individual to do its best work something which is not possible in mixed flocks containing birds of many different types and temperaments.

Further the uniform flock gives a uniform product the eggs being much alike in size and color of shell and the dressed birds fairly uniform in weight, shape and in color of skin and shanks. This uniformity makes the products more desirable, and they command a better price than mixed lots.

There is another source of revenue from pure-bred fowls which would not be overlooked. It is possible to build up a trade in eggs for hatching, baby chicks, partially grown and adult fowls at prices much in excess of market quotations. The cost of production is the same in either case. but you never hear of any one paying high prices for mongrel or mixed blood.

Pure-bred Poultry Best

And, finally, the pure-bred birds exert a favorable influence upon the poultryman himself. One invariable take a certain pride and greater interest in choice specimens. This insures better care, which in turn, means better results.

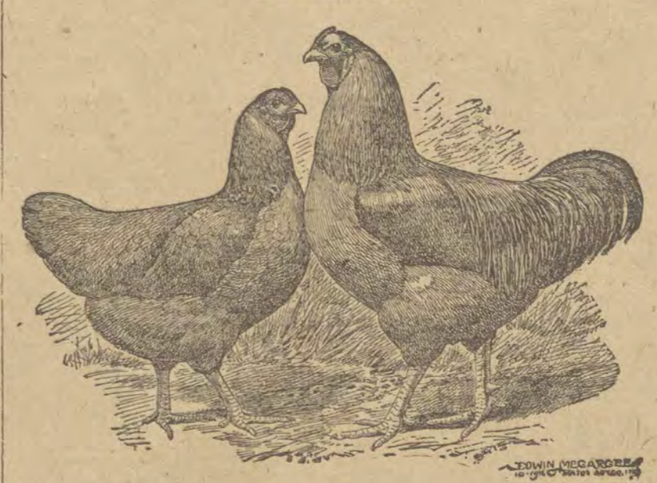
As to the breed one has a wide choice. Sometimes I think that we have too many distinct breeds and varieties, that we would make more rapid progress in the development of our national poultry industry if we concentrated on a half dozen kinds instead of on a hundred. But variety is the spice of life, and certainly the beginner cannot complain that there are no breeds which meet his fancy. We have them in all sizes, shapes and colors, meat breeds, egg breeds, general purpose breeds. The only difficulty is in making a choice.

I would advise that the selection be made from among the most popular kinds which have made good and are widely bred. One can secure excellent specimens of these at prices which would not buy inferior birds of the rarer kinds.

As a rule, too, I think it best for the owner of the home flock to adopt one of the general-purpose breeds. These are excellent layers, are hardy, make good table fowls, and the hens will attend to the duty of hatching and rearing the chicks. The most prominent of these breeds are the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons. These are bred in many varieties, differing only in color or plumage or type of comb. All are producers of brown-shelled eggs.

The True Egg Breeds.

Among the true egg breeds, the S. C White Leghorn stands pre-eminent. Leghorns are non-sitters and lay large white-shelled eggs in goodly numbers The largest white eggs are produced by the S. C. Black Minorca.



Cochins and Brahmas are the heavyweights among domestic fowls, and are usually referred to as the meat breeds. They lay well when carefully handled; but the amateur will usually get better results from representatives of the two classes first mentioned.

Before making any purchases, decide which you want—show stock or layers. Then buy birds from breeders who have specialized along the desired line. Some heavy layers are good show birds but it is more difficult to secure stock which is superior in two respects than in one alone.

There is no better time to make a start than right now. Buy or build an inexpensive house of the right type. Equip it with a dependable brooder of the capacity desired. Secure a nice bunch of chicks and go to work.

Try the sheme one season. Usually such a test transforms the beginner into a genuine "hen crank." because he has learned from experience the many advantages enjoyed by the owner of a good home flock.

BUCKEYES.

ORIGINATED BY A WOMAN POULTRY BREEDER

On a great majority of our general farms the care of the flocks of poultry is usually left to the women. Possibly this explains why such a tremendous volume of poultry products comes from these farms, since the gentler sex seems to be most successful in this work. And in all sections of America are to be found specialty poultry plants managed entirely or in part by women, some devoted to the production of market eggs and meat, and to the growing of exhibition stock.

The women of America have played a mighty important part in the development of "the billion dollar industry." But so far as I can recall there is only one recognized breed of fowls which owes its origin to the skill of a woman fancier. The beautiful Buckeyes were produced by Mrs. Nettie Metcalf, a resident of Ohio, and were given a place in the official standard of perfection in 1905.

Mrs. Netcalf spent many years in curing and fixing the type she desired In the course of her work she used many different crosses of existing breeds of fowls, including the Barred Plymouth Rock the Buff Cochin, the Cornish and the Black-Breasted Red Game. Through careful selection and mating of these crossbred birds the desired object was finally obtained—an attractive, quick growing fowl of moderately large size, which is also a fair layer of big brown-shelled eggs.

The plumage of the Bucqeyes is rich red in color with a small amount of black in tail and wing. The beak is yellow; eyes, reddish-bay; face and ear lobes red; shanks and feet, yellow. The weights of live specimens as follows: Cocks, 9 pounds; cockereis 8; hens 6 1-2, pullets 5 1-2.

The typical pea-combs are inherited from the Cornish ancestors,. Such comb are at once attrative and practical being practically frostproof.

In general appearance the Buckeyes ten toward the Oriental type, having broad rounded breasts and thik stout thighs. Because of their size and color they are often confounded with the Rhode Island Red. In fact they have sometimes been referred to as the pea-comb variety of this great breed. However, the two breeds are of entirely distinct origin, and when properly bred differ so widely in conformation that such errors are scarcely excusable.

The Buckeyes have many desirable characteristics. They belong to the general purpose class, producing eggs in satisfactory numbers and dressing off beautifully for the table. In spite of their very real value they have not become widely popuar, though they are the favorites of many earnest and successful poultry keepers. At this time it is difficult to say just what place the breed will occupy as compared with the older and more popular kinds. This depends largely upon the activities of the leading breeders of Buckeyes and the intelligence with which they conduct their campaign to bring the merits of this fine fowl before the public.

Profits Lost by Not Putting Idle Acres to Work

Many farmers would make more money if their business were larger but the size of a farm, from a financial standpoint is measured not by the number of acres in its but by the number that are producing crops or pasturing animals. Nonproductive acres are loafer acres and the money tied up in them is dead capital.

On every farm, however, there are certain areas necessarily given to nonproductive purposes. Fences, ditche lanes, and building lots produce nothing themselves but they are frequently necessary to production on the rest of the farm. It takes, for instance only 209 rods of untrimmed hedge and only 214 rods of zigzag rail or worm fence to waste an acre of what might be productive land. For the same expenditure of land you can run 459 rods of woven wire and 473 rods of barbed wire.

Farm lanes often may be done away with by a simple rearrangement of fields, headlands, or turning spaces at the edges of fields avoided; and the farmstead itself the group of farm buildings with their lots and yards the garden and the orchard, made compact. In the case of the farmstead however considerations of health and attractiveness may well justify a slight sacrifice of economy.

While a little planning often will result in the saving of much land now devoted to these unproductive uses a harder problem is waste land—land that is made untillable by swamps, ravines, rocks, slopes, etc., woodland that produces nothing salable and pastures that are too poor to be profitable. Some areas are, of course, hopeless and in that case they should be left out of the reckoning. Before this is done, however, it will pay to look into the possibilities of profitable reclamation. Many untillable fields for example, may be turned into productive acres by tile drainage.

The higher the price of land rises the more need there is for the farmer to avoid waste in the use of it. It is significant, however, that the investigations of the department of Agriculture have shown that, irrespective of the price, tenants put a greater part of their land to productive use than owners. The tenant pays rent for each acde and he can not afford to have any of them idle. On the other hand, the man who has no rent to pay may be able to get along on the produce of a part only of his farm, and he is, therefore, more likely to overlook the value of the part he wastes. By so doing he is of course throwing away opportunities to make money, but this is not always appreciated.

Our Beautiful Friend, the Jersey and Her Golden Yield

"She Is Content With Her Lot, Whether It Is as An Ornament in a Rich Man's Park or as the Mainstay of the Poor Man's Family"

By Jesse M. Overton

The Jersey cow is "man's best friend." She comes and goes day in and day out, demanding little and giving all generously. She is content with her lot, whether it is as an ornament in a rich man's park or as the mainstay of a poor man's family. She is full of appreciation, does her work well on little food and scant attention, but doubly rewards her master for proper care and sufficient food.

She thrives in all parts of the United States. In the cold climates of the north, where she is stabled for nine months of the year she assimilates easily the highly concentrated grain rations and ensilage, giving often her best yields of milk and butter under pressure feeding and little exercise. At the same time she is the best of all dairy cows in arid pastures, where grass is thin. In the central and southern states she meets more nearly the natural conditions of the Islands of Jersey, to which she is best accustomed and on the rich pastures afforded in these sections she makes the most economical yields with the minimum grain rations.

Rich Golden Returns

She is a machine that yields the maximum return, whose product pleases the most fastidious, and commands the best prices in the market. She produces the very highest quality of milk and butter on the most economical basis, thus assuring her friends that it can never be displaced by an inferior article, or seriously menaced by competition. The rich, golden color of Jersey butter is natural, winter and summer, when properly made. The grain which it is so essential to first-class butter is not broken down by the use of artificial coloring matter, universally used in the winter time to color the butter made from milk of other breeds of dairy cattle. Those who have once used Jersey butter and milk will have no substitute.

Where She Surpasses

A large part of all feed consumed by dairy cows goes for maintenance. The surplus feed only produces the flow of milk. Jerseys are uniformly smaller in size and neater in bone than any other of the prominent dairy cattle. For 100 years they have been bred for milk and butter exclusively. Consequently their predisposition is to assimilate their food for milk and butter production, using the minimum for maintenance. By actual test they register 40 per cent less food for maintenance than the Holstein, and 20 to 30 per cent less than the Guernseys and Ayrshires, their only competitors for either milk or butter, and the butter fat in their milk is an average of 40 per cent greater than that in Holstein milk, and from 20 to 30 per cent better than that in the Guernsey or Ayshire milk. This means that the man or woman who keeps dairy cows for butter production can get the same amount of butter from a Jersey cow giving 40 per cent less milk than a Holstein, which will cost in food 40 per cent less and a saving of time and labor in the same proportion; and as against the Guernsey and Ayrshire, the production will be 20 to 30 per cent more and the saving in food, time and labor will be in the same proportion. Unquestionably, therefore as far as butter making is concerned whether on a small or large scale, the Jersey cow has no equal.

Milk At Premium

In communities where the main product of the dairy is milk, that can be sold to non-discriminating customers, without regard for butter-fat, some of the other breds have the advantage of quantity, but even then a certain proportion of Jersey cows, or of her nearest competitor, the Guernsey, are in great demand for giving color to the milk. In the south, however, and in the eastern states where milk for table use is appreciated, pure Jersey milk brings always a premium.

It is claimed by some that the Holstein milk is better for babies, because it is not so rich, but this claim is successfully controverted by some of the most eminent and successful doctors, who have proven to their satisfaction that Jersey milk, when diluted by warm water to the required amount of butter fat, is more digestible and more nourishing and is therefore, the best for babies and young children.

On Butter Fat Basis

Recently the largest wholesale milk condensing companies, such as Borden and others, have begun to buy milk on a butter fat basis. This alone has given a tremendous prominence to the Jersey breed, causing a rapid advance in the price of high grades and a great stimulus in the breeding of thoroughbred Jersey cattle all over the United States. Jerseys have won in all competition against all dairy breeds for economical production of butter fat. They are recognied as the ideal butter producing breed. Aside from this they are the most beautiful of the dairy cattle, the easiest kept and the most satisfactory in all respects. Their friends are not confined to any climate, state, community or class. All that they ask at the hands of the breeders is to be fairly treated and given an opportunity to demonstrate their value. If their friends will conscientiously butcher the culls and sell only the produce of worthy cows for breeding purposes, the triumphant march of the dairy queen will continue to all parts of the world and many prospective breeders, especially in the south where dairying is now in its infancy, will bless the men who sell them Jersey cows.

Some Good Ways of Serving Rice on Your Table

Rice is one of the best and healthiest of human foods, particularly in summer and here are several excellent ways of preparing it for your table.

Boiled rice prepared in southern fashion so that all of the grain are kept separate is mighty nice. Slowly add a cupful of thoroughly washed rice to a quart of rapidly boiling water, which contains two level teaspoonfuls of salt. If carefully done, the boiling (which should continue all of the time the rice is cooking) will not be stopped. Stirring is not permitted as this will break the ricegrains. About 20 minutes is sufficient to cook the rice which can be tried from time to time by taking one or two grains between the fingers. Pour off all the water from the cooked rice, cover with a cloth and place in a warm part of the stove, so that the grains will swell. To remove the starchy material from the outside of the grains, cooks sometimes turn the cooked rice into a strainer and pour one quart of hot water over it before covering with a cloth and allowing to steam and swell A cupful of raw rice cooked in this way will give over four cupfuls of raw rice cooked in this way will give over four cupfuls of very white and light boiled rice. The water drained off from the rice can be used in the soup making to save the starch and mineral matter which it contains.

Rice cooked as described above is excellent when served as a vegetable with meats, as in the well-known "chicken and rice."

Another Way.

Another dish which has almost as good an appearance may be prepared by cooking rice in a double boiler, without stirring and using about three cupfuls of water and a level tea spoonful of salt to each cupful of rice. If a more savory dish is desired skim milk whole milk, meat broth, strained tomato juice, or vegetable broth may be used in place of water. Rice may also be comtined with protein-rich foodsfi such as milk, cheese and eggs for use in the place of meat, or with small amounts of vegetables to make the latter "go further." Of course such a dish does not contain as much tissue-building protein as if it were made entirely of meat but when the meat provided ordinarily is generous and the aim is to reduce the cost without lessening the attractiveness of the food such combinations are well worth trying.

The following receipe for an economical dish made with rice and left-over mutton may prove useful.

Steamer Mutton and Rice

Four cups cooked rice, two cups cooked mutton cut into small pieces. One teaspoonful salt, Few drops onion juice. Stock or water as needed. one tablespoonful chopped parsley 1-4 cup bread crumbs, one egg, 1-4 teaspoonful pepper.

Grease a mold or a bowl of about 11-2 quarts capacity and line with cooked rice. Heat the meat with the other ingredients, using enough stock to make a mixture that is moist but will hold its shape. Pack the meat in the center of the mold and cover with the remaining rice, grease the cover of the mold (if a bowl is used, a plate will serve for a cover) steam or cook in water enough partly to cover the mold until the contents are thoroughly heated through. Turn on a hot platter and serve with tomato sauce.

The above recipe, it will be noted suggests the use of bread crumbs instead of flour for thickening, which is often a way of saving bread which might otherwise be wasted and which is also one way of securing variety, as a different texture results from that when flour is used.

If you find it convenient, cold lamb veal or chicken may be used in place of mutton in preparing this dish.

Rice in Dessert.

As the basis or a sweet dessert rice is always useful, especially so for invalids and little children. If combined with milk and eggs it makes a very nutritious dish as well as one easily digested. Plain boiled rice, cooked either in water or in milk, and served with a little stewed fruit, maple syrup honey, or other simple flavor makes a more wholesome desert for children than rich puddings or pies because it is less likely to upset the digestion or to destroy the appetite for simple foods.

Cold rice particularly that which is cooked so that the grains are separate is a good addition to vegetable salad combining well with celery, string-beans and tart apple. Some chicken cut in small pieces also can be added

WHAT THEY LEARNED

A visitor to a Sunday school was asked to address a few remarks to the children. He took the familiar theme of the children who mocked Elisha on his journey to Bethel— how the young ones taunted the prophet, and, how they were punished when two she bears came out of the woods and ate forty-and-two of them.

"And now, children," said he, "what does this story show?"

"Please, sir," came from a little girl in the front row, "it shows how many children two she bears can hold!"

WHAT THEY LEARNED

A visitor to a Sunday school was asked to address a few remarks to the children. He took the familiar theme of the children who mocked Elisha on his journey to Bethel— how the young ones taunted the prophet, and how they were punished when two she bears came out of the woods and ate forty-and-two of them.

"And now, children," said he, "what does this story show?"

"Please, sir," came from a little girl in the front row, "it shows how many children two she bears can hold!"

FAILURES

"How are the incubators getting along?" asked a friend of his neighbor who had recently bought some.

"Why, all right, I suppose; but although I have had them for two weeks now, not one of the four has laid an egg yet."

Did You Think Corn Could Have So Many Uses?

Corn is a most astonishing product when you come to consider it. The world puts corn to far more uses than you have ever dreamed. Here are some of the things in which corn is used to make in whole or in part:

Gritts.
Fuel.
Charcoal.
Gin.
Malt.
Flour.
Starch.
Varnish.
Beer.
Paint.
Potash.
Candy.
Whiskey.
Paper.
Cloth.
Alcohol
Vinegar.
Gulten.
Glucose.
Syrup.
Salves.
Fodder.
Oil Meal.
Cunpowder.
Pulpboards.
Papier mache.
Imitation amber.
Guncotton.
Sofa pillows.
Husk rugs.
Denatured alcohol.
Poultry food
Dolls
Machine oil.
Gutta percha.
Shaving Soap.
Photographic paste
Laundry soaps
Printer's inks.
Coffee substiute.
Gum arabic.
Meal.
Brand.
Corn hearts.
Silage.
Glue.
Stover.
Hay.
Fibre.
Wax.
Horse Collars.
Coloring.
Screenings.
Fertilizer
Linoleum.
Roofing.
Calf feed.
Cellulose.
Molasses.
Dextrine.
Mattresses.
Appetize.
Axle grease
Toilet Soaps.
Face Powder.
Corn oil.
Fritters.
Bread.
Pancakes
Corn toasties.
Corn shorts.
Cornstarch.
Corn hulls.
Cob pipes.
Cob meal.
Car springs.
Cattle food.
Chair cushions.
Oilcloth.
Grape nuts.
Hog food.
Library paste.
Salad oil.
Cylinder oil.
Gum labels.
Talcum powder.

There are even other things besides the many mentioned in which corn plays an important part in the manufacture. And with them all about seventy-five per cent. of the corn raised over America is fed on the farms.

JOCK.

Once upon a time Jock was the name of a black dog. It was found one day by the janitor of an apartment house trying to get something to eat, and, as it didn't seem to have any home, he let it sleep in the boiler room and saw that it had something to eat. One day two little girls moved in to the apartment house and when they saw the dog they began to call it and coax it to come and play with them.

Now Jock just smiled to himself and walked away from them for it had heard some boys call to it just as kindly, and, when it went to them, they had tied a tin can to its tail and frightened it almost to death. So Jock walked down to the boiler room and stayed there the rest of the day.

The next day the little girls caught sight of the dog and ran and brought a nice piece of meat and called again to Jock. The meat smelled so good that Jock walked toward them and soon went up and began to eat the meat. When Jock saw that they were really his friends he was very glad for the poor dog was lonesome and liked to be petted.

All morning he followed the children, and when towards night their mother told them to go into the store room and pick up their toys and put them away in their room Jock followed and curled up and went fast asleep.

The children hadn't noticed that he had fallen asleep and, when they were through went out and shut the door. After awhile Jock heard them call to him, and although he ran to the door and barked, no one heard him, and there he had to stay all night, shut up in the room without any supper.

In the morning the children went around calling to the dog and even the janitor called, but poor Jock couldn't get out. At last he lay down in front of the door so if anyone opened it they could not help but see him. After a while he heard the door open and one of the children came in and saw the poor dog. As soon as she did she called out, "Oh here is poor Jock. He was shut up all night," and they all came to see the dog. They gave him a nice breakfast and soon he was as frisky as ever but the children never could get Jock to go near that room after that for he never forgot how he was shut up there.

SUMMER RESORT ETHICS

"She gave me a kiss last night."

"Well?"

"Would it be good to ask for another tonight?"

"Unquestionably, my boy. If you don't she may think you didn't like the sample."

Sorghum Is New Money Crop For Us

Since the coming of the boll weevil our people have been forced to find not one new "money crop" but several crop that will bring them cash to pay their debts and to buy clothing and supplies and to make improvements on the farm. Many have found their money crop in hogs and cattle, others in sheep others in a judicious amount of peanuts and other in special crops for which our soil and climate is splendidly adapted. One of the best of these special crops—given to us by Nature—is sorghum.

For many years many of our people have been raising sorghum and making their own syrup. Both land-owners and tenants have understood fairly well the growing of sorghum and the cooking of it for syrup for home use.

And now the time has come at last when we can not only make sorghum growing and syrup making profitable for home use but can realize a large amount of cash for our work Sorghum has become a sure "money crop" and its growth is going to be steady and remarkable.

Vast acreages of our prairie soils hill lands and sandy lands will produce fine sorghum. Some of these lands today are given over to cotton and producing three bales, two bales and even not more than one bale to the mule. Is there any money in this sort of thing? There certainly is not. The average yields of sorghum should be from 200 to 300 gallons to the acre. Taking the lower estimate, 200 gallons at 30 cents a gallon, you can see at once that there is money and good money in sorghum.

Many of our people have seen the money in it and this year are making more sorghum than ever. The trouble heretofore has been in raising small-stalk varieties of sorghum. The kind we must raise are the big-stalk varities and many tenants and land owners have found this out and will realize handsomely from this year's crop.

The market calls for a syrup with a density, when cold, of 40 degrees or more. The market calls for syrup shipped in new half barrels or whole barrels--the half barrels being best. The market calls for good syrup, properly barreled, and for this kind of syrup the market pays 80 cents a gallong right along.

Have you any good syrup, properly barreled, for sale at the market price? If so you have cash coming.

RISE IN OATS.

A small boy appeared at the back door of a neighbors house in Hunting Park avenue a day or so ago and said to the matron who opened the door.'

"Good morning."

"Good morning, the housewife returned, somewhat curiously.

"I came over to tell you something."

"Well, what is it?

"Last evening my papa was angry because the water boiled out of the steamer under the rolled oats."

"Is that so?"

"Yes. And then he made up his mind to fix the steamer so that it couldn't happen again."

"What did he do?"

"He put some water in the steamer and then soldered it all up.'

"Is that what you came over to tell me?"

"Yes, and to borrow you step-ladder."

"What do you want with the step-ladder?"

"I want it so father can scrape all the rolled oats off the ceiling this morning."

PEANUT CAKE STOCK RATION

Hog raising with peanut and kafir-fed in rations, is the ideal way. With peanut, the flesh is too soft and oily; with kafir, too hard; with the mixture the ideal meat is produced.

Horses do well and keep in good condition on peanut cake fed with forage. A good way to feed it is to use as a substitute for part of the oats.

Fed on cake, cows give increased flow of milk, and the butter is firm and keeps well. Cattle may be started on pounds of cake a day a head and thus gradally increased to 4 pounds. No food is better liked by sheep.

GET RID OF THE RATS

Where rats abound on a place it is very hard to keep the chicks from their clutches. No matter how careful you are to close the doors of the coops, the rats will gnaw in and destroy the chicks. The only effectual way of saving the chicks is to get rid of the rats, and this must be done with poison or a good rate terrier. Sometimes a real good cat will keep the premises clear of rats, but cats cannot always be trusted and a cat will sometimes get away with as many chickens as several rats will.

Essad Pasha, provisional president of Albania, was at one time regarded as an outlaw.

Classified Wants

PERSONAL

WIDOW, worth $120,000 or more, will marry. "I dare you write." (Sincere.) Mission Unity, San Francisco. —16

HONORABLE, business man, worth $75,000, will marry. (Write me quick.) "Lewis," 57 4th St., San Francisco. —16

WIDOW 25, worth $12,000, would marry. H-Box 35, League, Toledo, Ohio. —16

RANCHMAN 47, worth $35,000, would marry. W-Box 35, League, Toledo, Ohio. —16

WANTED TO BUY

WANTED—To buy, several cars of good feeding hogs and sheep. Paul Finch, Crab Orchard, Ky. —9

WANTED—To buy white oak timber in large or small quantity. Also white oak staves of all kinds. King Stave Company, P. O. Box 384, New Orleans, Louisiana.

WANTED

30 WOMEN to work in underwear mill; light work, sanitary building; whole families wanted especially. Collier Mfg. Co., Barnesville, Ga. —4

FOR SALE

ENGLISH Bloodhound puppies. W. N. Cavin, Mt. Holly, N. C. —10

PIT bull terrier pups $5.00. Full pedigreed stock, with the best of blood lines. Woodlawn Kennels, Paris, Tenn. —10

WANTED—AGENTS

MAKE BIG MONEY SELLING OUR FAST SELLERS

New Patent Star Hair Straightening Comb, Star Quinine Hair Dressing, Bright Brown Face Powder, LaBelle Face Powder, LaBelle Shampoo Powder, LaBelle Vegetable Soap, LaBelle Quinine Hair Tonic, LaBelle Face Lotion, LaBelle Face Cream, French Perfume, French Toilet Water.
Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Quick Service.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL MFG. CO.,
218 N. Main St., Memphis, Tenn.

PIGEONS

HIGH CLASS Utility Carneaux $8, $3.50 to $5 per pair. Crescent Pigeon Lofts, Girard, Ala.

FARM AND TIMBER LAND

GUARANTEED TIMBER KILLER.

"Sure Shot" kills timber in 10 to 15 days. Write for particulars.
SUMMERFIELD BROS.,
822 Randolph Bldg., Memphis, Tenn.

West's Single Comb White Leghorns

Those Everlasting Layers.

My this year's stock is the best in type I have ever seen or raised. Remember this fall that I sell guaranteed winners for any show. Visitors welcome.

MRS. ROBT. WEST

132 Carter Hill Road, Montgomery, Ala.

Auto Vacuum Freezer

The New Way to Make Ice Cream

Velvety ice cream with no work. That is the new way to make ice cream. You simply fill the Auto Vacuum Freezer with ice, pour in cream mixture—and let it alone. Thirty minutes later, perfect ice cream is ready to serve. No more turning. No more churning. Throw away the dirty, soggy, old - fashioned bucket and get this clean, neat, crankless freezer.

We sell AUTO VACUUM FREZERS and will be pleased to explain them in detail. Why not get yours today?

Jernigan & Haltiwanger
Agents
Montgomery, Ala.

Victrolas On Terms

Outfit No. 1

This genuine Victrola with 3 double faced Victor Records at 75c, 8 selections, only $17.25.

Victrola IV $15.00 — $1.50 Cash and 50c per week.

Outfit No. 2

This genuine Victrola with 4 double-faced Victor Records 75c; $28.00, 8 selections.

Victrola VI $25.00 — $2.50 cash and 75c a week.

Out fit No. 3

This genuine Victrola with 8 double - faced Victor Records 75c, $56.

Victrola IX $50.00 — $5.00 cash and $1.25 per week.

Outfit No. 4

This genuine Victrola with 12 double faced Victor Records $84.00, 24 selections.

Victrola X $75.00 — $7.50 Cash and $2.00 Per week.

Outfit No. 5

This genuine Victrola with 20 double-faced Victor Records, $115.00, 40 selections.

Victrola XI $100.00 — $10.00 Cash and $2.50 per week.

Write Today for Complete Catalogue
We advise placing your order now for later delivery.

DAHLBERG TALKING MACHINE CO
South's Largest Dealers — Montgomery, Ala.

Alabama Products Co.

The Farmers Exchange

115 Coosa Street — Montgomery, Ala.

We make it our business to find you a market for anything you may have to sell. Farm products, beef and milk cattle, hogs, pork and stock, sheep, goats, etc.

NEWSPAPER CUTS IN THIS PAPER MADE BY
Service Engraving Co.
ADVERTISER BLDG., MONTGOMERY. J. M. ENGLER, Prop.

Our Schools, Their Teachers And You---Mothers And Fathers

A Plain, Straight-out Statement of the Way Things Go From Year to Year and What You Fathers and Mothers Can Do to Change These Conditions and Do the Right Thing by Your Boys and Girls. Let Us Look at This Great Question as It Really Exists and See Wherein We Are at Fault and Not Doing Our Duty by Those We Love—Editor "Country Woman's Corner."

Have you ever taken time to add these three subjects and find the answer to your addition of them?

If correctly added the answer is SUCCESS!

A few more weeks and we will enter upon a new year in our schools; have you planned what this year shall mean to the school, the teachers and you?

Too long has school started and you sent John or Mary off with promotion card and lunch basket to start school, meeting new teachers and changes on every side, instead of going with your children, finding the room assigned their grade and making yourself known to the teacher, giving her your children's name and personal introduction as if you were all real people who have not lost all your politeness as well as respect for teachers in general, for they are truly human beings, many of them among strangers for the first time and a handshake and hearty greeting as well as a thorough understanding of your children lights a big star in the crown of success for both of you.

"Don't Like Teacher"

How often children return home the first day of school saying they don't like their teacher. Of course they don't; there has been just the practical business routine of grading and enrolling and no time for exchange of greetings or smiles as a test of each other's dispositions and not a word about home. And because James says this you likewise dislike her and both pupil and teacher see-saw along the whole term he and you both blaming her every time she corrects him or keeps him in instead of learning the cause.

Blindness of Parents

Remember an outsider can in a very short while see faults in your child you are blind to because you have overlooked them, and they grow with the years. One little girl went to school whose breath was so offensive no child would sit with her and when the examining physician of the school inspected her mouth he found more teeth decayed than sound, so he gave the child a note to her parents to this effect. Result? The mother was furious, went to the school and proceeded to "bless out" the whole establishment saying she sent her child to school to get an education, not to be having doctors, telling her she had "rotten teeth." When asked if she knew the condition of the child's teeth she said no, but it was time enough to worry over that when they began to ache her. Are you a mother like that?

Stopping Disease

Another, a boy was sent home with a certificate saying he had tubercular tonsils and adenoids, and it would be best to have them removed at once or the child's health would fail and he would be backward in school. Did she do it? Not a bit of it. She laughed and said, "Doctors have to make up some lies to earn their salaries!"

Now if all mothers and fathers are as narrow-minded as this what is the use of our going to the expense of having these doctors who are paid to examine your child and mine, rich or poor, in the schools! Oftentime the beginning of some dreadful disease is found in your child by this experienced one4 He gains nothing by telling you this but you gain the knowledge with which you can save your child years of torturous suffering and perhaps an early grave. God holds you responsible for the lives He entrusted to your care, so see to it that you heed the examining physician's advice and act on it at once.

Uphold Your School

Uphold every department of your school. If you have domestic science see that your girls join it and they will surprise you with a term's knowledge. One lady said she cooks all winter and her vacation begins when school is out as her fifteen-year-old daughter does the cooking and can make a dinner "out of nothing," having actually learned more in a term about saving and ways of preparing than the mother has in all her married life, so now she is learning from the daughter how to cook so as to balance the food values. If your school has manual training by all means have your boy join. Some old fogies say they send their boys to school to study books, not to hammer and saw, but as any boy can make any article he desires, if he pays for material used, surely he is well paid for his time and trouble and you or he has an article of use of his own make as well as his being able to duplicate this at any time. Several boys in the local school made entire porch sets last year consisting of swing, settee, chairs, flower stands, etc., as well as many useful things for the house, all of which would have cost a neat sum if bought.

Develops The Body.

Besides this manual training developes the muscles of the chest back and abdomen which are the resisting forces of ill health and if well developed make a man of your boy, not a stoop shouldered pigeon breasted invalid afraid of each draft, an ornament to the fireplace corner all winter afraid to stick his head out doors.

If your school has a music department every patron of the school whose child takes music should patronize it for here not only lessons are heard but practice hours are supervised which compells real practice which is so often neglected at home and causes pupils to seem backward because they have to take one piece so long.

Not Fol-de-Rol.

All these departments are bugbears to the rural and village schools because they are something new and folks who have had schools without them for generations think these new ideas all fol-de-rol but if they were not for the advancement of education the largest and best schools in the world would not embrace them. Many talents are being developed in school today that never would have been brought out at home and the country schools are fast building up a standard that will give your boys and girls as good an education as they would get at any city school and save you the expense of sending them there. Your girl who despises to darn or patch at home learns to do so beautifully at school through domestic science and the boys who sulks because he has to nail on a picket will make handsome and useful things through manual training. Your child who despises to practice alone will find it a great joy to do so with her teacher. And so it goes, each teacher studies the disposition of each pupil and strives to accomplish things by companionship during work rather than by compulsion in loneliness

Parents Must Help.

But, the teacher cannot and should not be expected to do it all, the parents should show some interest in the child's learning instead of treating education as a thing which has to be endured or tolerated. Many a boy would be an apron string sissy if it were not for the school developing the manly traits in him, and many a "snarl-cat" at home has proven a real boy at school when given the chance and no thanks to his parents. You are due your boy or girl a fair start in life and to cooperate with the teacher is the best way to build a character by education, for the more ignorant we are the nearer the animal nature with its low instincts are we; education refines each fibre of our brain and being. How many times a year do you visit your child school to see how he is getting along? Lack of interest in the parents causes lack of interest also in the child and if you dislike the teacher because the child does all is lost for it is indeed true that to learn well one must love the teacher. Many a criminal today can blame his sphere in life to lack of cooperation of those who had his first years in their keeping.

What You Can Do.

Every town and each individual school should have its school improvement Association which is composed of all interested in the school whether parents or not and should work together for the upbuilding and betterment of their schools, serving to bring them up to the highest standard. Entertainments for the school's benefit should be arranged and by all means you parents and citizens who are interested in your school let yourselves get busy and prepare an evening of welcome for your teachers the day school starts. Have it at the school house, townhall or anywhere you please. Arrange some kind of a program of music and addresses on education, duties of parents toward the school, etc. Sing a few songs and have music of some kind if possible also recitations etc. The day school opens would be a fine time for this the program beginning at say nine or ten o'clock, at the school. Each parent is notified to come with their children and when the program is over a young lady who has been invited to act as usher (have one for each room) asks each parents what grade her child is in and conducts parent and child to that grade introduce her and her child to the teacher who gives the child a seat in the room with other pupils, thus all have met and the "ice is broken" so to speak and each has a fair chance to judge the other and the teacher can have a kindly word for all and chat with the parent, all of which promises more for the years' work than the old way of starting the little ones off alone to meet strange things on every side. If they desire each teacher may be given the opportunity to express their plans for their year's work, this taking place either during the program or in their individual rooms as they prefer.

Write To Me.

I'd like to have a line if only a card from every town who will do this, giving the number of teachers you employ. Will you be one? I'll be delighted to answer any inquiries concerning such a reception and I know hundreds of Alabama teachers will start in their new duties happier in the thought of having the hearty sympathy and cooperation of their patrons. Times have changed; we used to say the school is what the teacher makes it, then we said teachers and children make the school but now we neither say one nor the other for we realize the school can do nothing by itself but if parents lay the foundation with good teachers and teachers study the individuality of the child and its needs, that child will be molded as clay in the sculptors hands and given back to those parents a finished product to be proud of, the product of their own planting.

Shoddy teachers make shoddy schools shoddy schools give shoddy education and the whole proves that shoddy parents formed the backbone which in itself was weak because of lack of their cooperation. Will you be the first to accept my plan of a welcome reception and introduction of incoming teachers? Drop me a card and say Yes. I'll be glad to help you arrange a program for the occasion. Be quick! I'd like to publish a list of every school in Alabama which will do this. May I name your school in that list? I hope so!

Address me, editor "Country Woman's Corner" Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Alabama. Kindly enclose a stamp or stamped envelop for reply.

Increase In Wheat Will Help Much

— We heard a man say the other day that maybe the recent storms would be a good thing in that they would turn the people more to pastures.

Well, now we don't exactly take that view of it. It is hard to tell a man who has lost a thousand bushels of promising corn that the floods were "a good thing." It is hard to tell it to the man whose cotton was badly injured by too-frequent rains.

Our view is that while the storms were not a "good thing" we should try to make the best of the set-back by getting in more legumes and grains this fall than we have ever planted. On wheat there is considerable room for improvement. The question, of course, is getting seed wheat but if it can be secured—good seed wheat—it will pay and pay well to put in some wheat in October.

We hear folks say that "we can't compete with western wheat growers in raising wheat." Nobody said we could. Our planting wheat is not to compete with Western wheat growers but to raise some wheat to be ground into flour for us to eat.

With flour as high as it is we are not competing with anybody in raising wheat. We are simply doing the commonsense thing. Why pay such a high price for flour when with some little effort we can raise our own flour and make it cost less than half what western flour would cost us.

In fact, the time has come when we have got to plant some wheat or do without buscuits. Wheat is not going down to any extent for a good long time. Talk of Russia's wheat being "released" since Roumania has gone into the war may temporarily effect the price but not for long. The world's wheat crop is too far short for anything that can happen to lower the price for any length of time. Chances are wheat will go considerably higher and remain higher. At any rate you can bank on flour being mighty high the next time you come to buy any.

The acreage in wheat will be considerably increased this fall—and it should be. It has been shown beyond all doubt that wheat does fairly well with us when planted on good land that has been well prepared for planting. And you wouldn't want any better fall and winter grazing than that afforded by wheat.

And so by increasing the wheat and oat and rye acreage, getting in lots of bur clover and crimson clover and vetch, many of us may manage to make up to a considerable extent for losses from the rains.

MILK VALUABLE AS CORN

One of the proven facts is that 100 pounds of skimmed milk fed alone will give 5 pounds of weight in pigs weighing from 100 to 175 pounds, while a bushel of shelled corn would make 10 pounds when fed alone. This makes 100 pounds of skimmed milk worth 28 pounds or one-half bushel of shelled corn. But here is a more important discovery: If fed together they will make an increase of 3 pounds, 18 pounds in all, or 20 per cent full gain for the wit of knowing that thing. It is easy to see that when hogs are selling for $10 per hundred weight skimmed milk is worth 50 cents, provided that 3 pounds of skimmed milk is fed to 100 pounds of corn meal.

PAPA'S HAIR CUT

A woman said to a little boy with his hair bobbed in his neck: "Franklyn, when are you going to have your hair cut like papa's?"

"I don't want my hair cut like papa's," he replied, "with a hole in the top."

To Celebrate With a Vast Crop of Corn

"One hundred million bushels of corn in 1917 to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Mississippi," is the slogan adopted by the state demonstration forces and corn club workers in their fall campaign.

According to assistant state agent C. A. Cobb, the prospects are that the 1917 corn acreage will be greatly increased and if properly selected seed is planted a one hundred million bushel crop can easily be realized. "With good seed," he continues, "an increase in yield of from 3 to 5 bushels to the acre may be expected the first year.

In this connection Mr. Cobb is sending out the following helpful suggestions on selecting seed corn in the field this fall.

1. The seed stalk should be from eight to ten feet tall.
2. The base of the stalk should be large and somewhat flat.
3. The blades of the seed stalk should be broad and long.
4. The seed stalk should taper gently from the base to the tassel.
5. In all prolific varieties there should be at least two fully developed ears to each tassel.
6. The ears on the seed stalk should be well placed, one on each side of the stalk, about four feet from the ground.
7. The seed ears should be borne upon short stout shanks four to five inches long that permit the ears to hang down.
8. The stalk fro mwhich seed ears are to be selected should not occupy more than normal room should not stand at the end of skips nor at the end of a row. Select a stalk that has fought its way and won.
9. Every stalk in the vicinity of the seed stalk should be well fruited. If barren or weak stalks stand near a normal stalk, the ears from the normal stalk will not be suitable for seed.
10. Be careful to select stalks that are free from disease and that do not stand near diseased stalks.
11. It will be noticed in going through the field that those stalks that "lay by" last, or that remain growing despite wet or dry spells, are the ones that bear the heaviest ears. This persistent quality is certainly t obe desired.
12. Every seed ear should be snugly covered by the shuck.

DOUBLE PROOF.

A tramp knocked at a farmer's door and called for something to eat.

"Are you a Christian?" asked the good hearted country man.

"Can't you tell? answered the man. "Look at the holes worn in the knees of my pants. What do they prove?"

The farmer's wife promptly brought out the food, and the tramp turned to go.

Well! well!" asked the farmer. "What made those holes in the back of your pants?'

"Blacksliding, replied the tramps as he hurried on.

A WIFE'S WIT

"I've got an awfully witty wife," boasts Solomon Beach. "I get most good-stuff from her to tell you the truth. Sometimes though, her wit is a bit too sharp for comfort. Now, the other evening I came home feeling sort of mean. I had a corn that was raising thunder with me and I wasn't in the best of humor. Well, I came limping up the walk, and my wife stood at the door, eyeing me suspiciously.

"What makes you walk so funny?" she said.

"Corn!" I snapped, grouchily.

"Oh," she said, turning away, "I though maybe it was rye!

Wonderful Opportunity Now In The Raising of Sheep

This semi-monthly farm publication had the pleasure of starting the Hampshire hogs here in Alabama and seeing the Hampshires spread from farm to farm.

It was an opportunity overlooked by all the agricultural papers in the Central South—just as they overlook a good many opportunities for farming progress. Several of them have been jogging along in the same old rut with the same writers for so many years that it takes them some time to wake up to things progressive. Most of them "got wise" to the Hampshires after we introduced them and came along with their song of half praise which is better than none at all.

In the same way these agricultural magazines have continually over-looked the possibilities of the sheep industry in this section. Well here we are out to say that sheep are going to be one of our biggest assets in the future and the fellow who doesn't see it has got some wool over his eyes now.

We Have Pasture Lands.

We have the pasture lands many of them rough pasture lands—just the thing for successful wool growing and sheep raising at low cost. O yes we have plenty of dogs too and dogs are the enemy of sheep. But the dog draw back is not so very serious and a good shot-gun used at the right time will cure a sheep-killing dog. Also sheep raising will bring a sentiment against trifling dogs wandering about the farms and good dogs will take their place.

O, yes, sheep have worms. But change of pastures and a little care will reduce the worm evil to a minimum. Yes, and burrs get in the wool but wool is selling for a high price these days—and will continue to sell for a high price burrs or no burrs.

Urges Sheep Raising.

Listen to what Dr. Arbuckle, a devoted exponent of sheep says:

"What more auspicious time to press the advantages of sheep husbandry upon the attention of farmers than this! When lambs are being marketed at nine cents right on the farm and wool is selling at forty cents, it is easy to get men interested in sheep. The European war, of course, has influenced prices to some extent, but if one will only go back a few years and note how steadily the prices on mutton and wool have advanced, he might be convinced that without the influence of the war we would still be on the highest ground ever reached. It seems to be an assured fact that sheep values in America have advanced permanently. It would take an expert economist to give a scientific explanation, but the following indisputable facts must encourage us to believe that old days of starvation prices have gone forever, first the marked decrease in the number of sheep in proportion to our population, second the increased demand for mutton for home consumption; third, improved quality of mutton and wool, especially manifested in improved methods of handling both on the market as well as the breeding of better sheep.".

Now is The Time.

Would you want any better reasons than these for getting into the breeding of good sheep and the growing of wool? In this issue we have an article by the editor of The American Sheep Breeder and Wool Grower" in which this authority predicts fifty and sixty-cent wool.

Do not these facts open the eyes of our people to the possibilities of profit in sheep raising? Do not they open the eyes of our farming publications to these possibilities? No time for slumber now, boys. Here is profit and big profit to be made with sheep and their proper care.

We have thousands of acres of idle land that could be turned into sheep pastures. We have plenty of land to give the sheep a frequent change of pasture—something that they must have to thrive well. Why not put some of this idle land under fence and put sheep on it? Why not get some of this profit that is going to the western ranchmen and the sheep breeders of the Virginia and West Virginia mountains Up there in the mountains they have to watch sheep like hawks to keep them out of the deadly laurel. Down here we have no laurel to bother us in sheep raising.

Let us wake up and get busy and get started into this business in which we can come mighty near doubling our money every year if we handle the lambs and the wool right.

MAKIN' HONEY

All the bees are makin' honey in the honeyland of dreams
Where the blossoms bend in beauty and the shimmering summer
gleams.
All the world is makin' honey.
And the way for you to start
Is to take a little blossom
To the hive within your heart.

All the fields are deep with clover and the bees are buzzing there.
And the beauty of the harvests of the honey fills the air.
There's a honey of the morning,
And a honey of the night;
But to every man his honey
In the way he thinks is right.
Folgar McKinney

HE DID

"I really don't believe," said Gladys coyly, "that you particularly wanted to hear me sing."

"I did indeed," her admirer protested. "I had never heard you."

THE OTHER WAY ABOUT

Newpop—Well, my dear, did the photographer succeed in making the baby look pleasant?

Mrs. Newpop—No; the baby succeeded in making the photographer look unpleasant.

Results of Nitra---Germ Inoculation

This is the "Nitra-Germed" vetch and oat field of Mr. H. H. Winkles, of Sumter, S. C. Inoculate your seed with "Nitra-Germ" and you will get crops like this. For free booklet on the planting of winter cover crops, write

NITRA-GERM SALES CO., MONTGOMERY, ALA.

We Will Buy Now
FOR CASH
Sorghum and Sugar Cane Syrup

If made to standard quality and put up in new ironbound cypress 33-35 gallon barrels.

Submit samples (be sure to write your name and address on samples), and state the number of barrels for sale, also the approximate date you will be ready to ship. Address,

Southern Syrup Company
Montgomery, Alabama.

Sale Of Southard's Monarch Herefords

Comiskey, Kansas, Saturday, October 7th

125-The Best Herefords-125

20 cows, 2 to 4 years old bred and with calves; 40 2-year-old bred heifers; 25 yearlings heifers; 20 big, growthy 2-year-old bulls. It is individually and collectively and A-1 offering, including many tops of the Southard herd and choicest individuals from which all the best and most popular blood lines can be obtained. There are also 18 lots of choice cows and bred heifers consigned by The Howards, neighbor breeders.

Sired By or Bred to Great Sires

The calves at foot and all the cows and heifers of breeding age are either sired by or bred to the herd bulls, Monarch, who holds the record of having every bull calf of breeding age that he has sired at the head of a pure-bred herd; Repeater 66th, the $7,000 bull from the O. Harris & Son's herd; Max Fairfax, by Perfection Fairfax, the king of Hereford sires; King Farmer, a son of the great imported Farmer; and other noted sires.

Sale During American Royal Show Week.

The date of this great sale is Saturday of the great American Royal Show week at Kansas City. A special train from Kansas City over the main line of the Missouri Pacific will take all visitors out, where free transportation to the Southard Ranch will be furnished.

See Mr. Goode's Purchases in Ala.

The Alabama Hereford Farm, at Gastonburg, Alabama, has just purchased from me what is said by competent judges to be the best car of Herefards ever shipped out of the State of Kansas, and selected from my breeding herd without taking any of the animals listed for sale. If you are in the market for Herefords you can get what you want at my sale at reasonable prices.

Ask Mr. R. J. Goode, Jr., of the Alabama Hereford Farm at Gastonburg, Ala., or better yet see the cattle that Mr. Goode has just purchased from me and see the kind we have.

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOG TO

J. O. SOUTHARD, Comiskey, Kansas

Fred Reppert, V. E. Miller, L. R. Brady, Lester Lowe, Auctioneers.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, SEPTEMBER 21, 1916. NUMBER 25.

AGAIN A FAILURE

Democratic Party Has Once More Shown Indifference.

Events Must Have Convinced the Voters That the Country Will Suffer From a Continuance of President Wilson's Rule.

The people have had enough of Democratic rule once more to last them for at least 20 years. The party now in power has manifested its inefficiency to govern the country properly, whether the subject is regarded in the light of prosperity in our industries, in the light of making the income and the outgo balance on the books of the treasury, or in its dealing with foreign nations.

When the present party went into office its leader, Doctor Wilson, announced with triumphant notes, with a courage based upon ignorance of the facts, that every act of his administration would be an open book to the American people. He was to be like the man who had a glass window fixed up in front of his heart in which every beholder might read his every thought. You would think from this announcement of the president upon his inauguration, or soon after, that the representatives of the press were to be invited to every council he held, including cabinet meetings. He made another flourish of trumpets which was repeated several times by going before congress and reading a message to that body very much after the fashion of the English monarch in his address from the throne to the house of commons.

This promise of Mr. Wilson has been, like all the others he has made, very much like thin pie crust, made to be broken. There never was an administration at Washington more secretive in its actions than that carried on under the leadership of the Princeton professor. It was only the other day that Senator Stone of Missouri, otherwise known as "Gumshoe Bill," raised a tremendous howl in the United States senate because some enterprising newspaper man had become possessed of the details of the negotiations being carried on between the administration at Washington and the Danish government looking to the purchase of a few little patches of islands in the West Indies at a price just five times as high as that at which a former Republican administration barely failed to secure possession of these few little cabbage patches.

Promises of Economy Not Kept.

An indictment against the present administration which the people will not forget when they come to render a decision at the polls is the promise of retrenchment in public expenditures and of economy made in the handling of the public funds made by the president and his followers. In the face of these brave promises the administration has been extravagant in its use of the taxpayers' money. It has heaped an inheritance tax on the back of every citizen of the country who has a dollar to be taxed out of. It has imposed a stamp tax on documents, on California wines, and yet in spite of these additional sources of revenue it has been unable to mai ends meet in the government accou s, or come within speaking distance of each other. Now we shall be treated to an additional tax in the increased inheritance tax, and now we are to have an increase in the income tax.

Country Has Been Fooled Before.

Senator Underwood doesn't approve of the effort to gain votes for a Democratic candidate by stealing the Republican party's protection clothing. There are likely to be other Democrats who will sympathize with his indignation, while consistent believers in protection will have little faith in Democratic professions of support for protective principles on the eve of an election.

Progressives Back In the Fold.

Will follow T. R. anywhere. Baltimore Progressive club reaffirms allegiance.—Newspaper headline.

The wisest thing the Progressives can do now is to live up to their campaign hymn of 1912, "Follow, follow, we will follow Teddy," and go with him back to the Republican fold. The Baltimore Moose set a good and sensible example for the rest of the herd.

Precedent Shattered.

We reaffirm our belief in the doctrine of a tariff for the purpose of providing sufficient revenue for the operation of the government economically administered.—The Democratic Platform.

Out of the window with "for revenue only!" The unconstitutionality of Republican protection was forgotten at St. Louis. What will the Reform club say to this?

Hughes Must Succeed.

At every spot in the country where Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for president, appeared and addressed the people, his reception was most cordial and his utterances received plaudits which seemed to indicate an unmistakable trend of the American people back to the old party which for 50 years and more has ruled the destinies of the country, creating new industries, maintaining increasing prosperity and upholding the honor of the American name at home and abroad.

UP TO PEOPLE TO DECIDE

Simple Tariff Facts Which Make for Prosperity, or Otherwise, Surely Easy of Comprehension.

A large part of the Republican campaign argument is directed against the Underwood tariff, which is asserted to be detrimental to the interests of labor by encouraging imports and thus providing men in other countries with work and wages which might be done and paid in this country.

In order to test the accuracy of this argument it is necessary to consider imports of finished manufactures apart from imports of raw materials, since the working up of the latter provides employment here and when the materials are not produced in this country their importation does not decrease demand for American labor but provides that demand.

A familiar illustration is rubber, which is hardly produced at all under our flag, but whose import is the basis of employment for many thousands of workers. Textile manufactures and chemicals, on the other hand, when imported in a finished state, provide work and wages in the country of origin which might have been done and paid here.

Now the report of the department of commerce for the fiscal year ended June 30 shows that imports of chemicals and dyes and finished manufactures of cotton, wool, silk and other fibers increased in value from $280,305,000 in 1915 to $390,392,000 in the last fiscal year. The difference largely represents a wage bill paid to foreign labor, which under a different tariff might have been paid to American labor.

Whether it would be to the advantage of the nation as a whole to have a tariff which might divert this $100,000,000 or so from foreign workers to Americans it is each voter's privilege to decide for himself. The broad facts are here presented for the benefit of the large number of voters who are thinking about the subject.

CONDEMNED BY ITS RECORD

Cold Facts Show That Democratic Party Is Not Deserving of the Country's Confidence.

The Democratic party in congress, by the record, shows the largest expenditure in the country's history, outside of preparedness expense.

The Democrats lack knowledge of how to run the country.

They legislate and industries are stifled and annihilated.

They kill business and give no return to the masses of the people.

They increase prices to the consumer and destroy, or at least lessen, his chance of making a living.

They annul $60,000,000 or more annual revenue on sugar and at the same time increase its price to the consumer, and allow the sugar interests to buy ahead and make larger profits—and then afterward reverse their action.

Vera Cruz fizzles, Mexican muddles and frenzied statesmanship cry to heaven.

A Republican victory next November in the White House and in congress will be the salvation of these United States.

Cause for Democratic Dismay.

It is amusing as well as interesting to note the concern of Democratic newspapers over what they are pleased to call the assassination of the Moose party, the fact being that the party, what there was left of it, decided by the overwhelming vote of its duly constituted representatives to return to the Republican party, from which it had seceded four years ago. There is occasion for dismay in Democratic circles, it must be admitted—not on account of what this foreshadows as to the former members of the Moose party, but as to what it menaces with respect to the Democratic party and the presidential candidate of the Democratic party, Woodrow Wilson.

Hughes Quick to Decide.

Mr. Hughes' unqualified indorsement of equal suffrage is an indication of how he will meet an issue when president. Confronted with the necessity of decision he does not hem and haw nor cloud his meaning with rhetoric but stands forth squarely for or against. And the need of a man who can decide and act is sadly manifest in national affairs.

It Doesn't Balance.

According to the latest work of fiction, the Democratic campaign book, the wage-earners of the country received during the Wilson administration $3,000,000,000 more than they received under Taft. And all it cost them to keep something in the dinner pail was $6,000,000,000 more.—Boston Transcript.

Fame for Daniels.

Secretary Daniels, however, has the distinction of being one of the greatest arguments the Republicans have ever had.—Detroit Free Press.

More Watchful Waiting.

It appears that the administration is withholding recognition from the president of Santo Domingo, who is defying it. So much secrecy is maintained at Washington about Santo Domingo that it has been impossible to gain enough information to judge the merits of the quarrel there; but it is an interesting fact that under the "deserving-Democratic" policy of the present administration in Santo Domingo virtually all Americans living in the country have fled for their lives to Porto Rico

BRITAIN TO BAR EXPORTS OF U. S.

All Shipments From This Country Destined For Holland Will Be Stopped Absolutely

WASHINGTON TO INVESTIGATE

Transportation Companies Trading Between U. S. and Scandinavia Not Expected To Take Cargoes

London.—The plan of rationing the neutral countries of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland under which no further licenses will be granted for the present to British exports, has been extended to apply to the United States by the expedients of refusing to allow the Netherlands Overseas Trust to accept further American consignments, and by declining to grant letters of assurance for American shipments destined for these countries.

In consequence American shipments for Holland will be stopped absolutely, while the regular transportation companies trading between the United States and Scandinavia will not take cargoes without assurance of their innocent destination by the authorities. Furthermore tramp steamers are hardly likely to risk the inevitable landing in the prize court of any cargo they might accept.

Neutral diplomats here believe two reasons induced the British government to take this action. The first is the simplicity of the plan, which enables the government to control supplies at the source. The second is the growing bill with which Great Britain is being pressed by neutral governments for demurrage and other expenses incurred by taking suspected ships into Kirkwall and other ports for examination.

Adjustments Of Claims

So far as is known, no machinery exists at present for adjusting these claims, as many of these cargoes never actually reach the prize court. When shippers ask for compensation they are referred to the prize court, which thus far has declined to consider their claims on the ground that they have no standing in court.

It is expected that Washington will make an inquiry in regard to this matter, especially as to the American schooners which were taken into Lerwick and released after being detained for several weeks. No charges were preferred against them.

Another blockade measure which also probably will interest Washington is the recent arrangement under which bureaus were set up in England and France for granting licenses for exchange of goods which figure on the list of prohibited imports. The American authorities contend that under the British-American commercial treaty of 1815 such prohibitions must be enforced against all countries equally. Consequently any privileges granted to France and not extended to the United States are held to be in violation of that treaty.

GERMANS FORCED TO YIELD ON 6-MILE FRONT

All Of The High Ground Between Combles And The Pozieres-Bapaume Falls To English

Paris.—Smashing the German line on a front of six miles north of the Somme, in France, the British forces have made probably the most notable advance since the Anglo-French offensive began July 1.

Three towns, two woods and the possession of nearly all the high ground between Combles and the Pozieres-Bapaume road fell to the British.

The advance on the northern end of the front was for a distance of two miles. Courcelette, east of Thiepval, and north of the Pozieres-Bapaume road, and Martinpuich, south of the road, fell into the hands of General Heig's men. Further south they took Flers and the High wood, making secure their possession of Ginchy. The Bouleaux wood, north of Combles, also was lost to the Germans.

The Germans under Crown Prince Rupprechet of Bavaria fought stubbornly to hold their ground, and the fighting was severe all along the line. More than twenty-three hundred prisoners were taken by the British.

Mexico Constabulary For Border Duty

New London, Conn.—A suggestion that the Mexican government create a constabulary for border duty similar to the rurales of the Diaz regime was made during a brief session of the American-Mexican joint commission, concluding the second week of its deliberations. Apparently the plan for a joint police force, previously discussed, was abandoned as impracticable after the commissioners had conferred with Major General Bliss, assistant chief of staff of the United States army.

Bank Cashier Made To Deliver $6,000

Homestead, Fla.—While two confederates waited outside in an automobile, two heavily armed men held up officials of the State Bank of Homestead, robbed the counters of $6,000 and escaped in the direction of the Everglades. According to the authorities the two robbers who entered the bank forced H. R. Pridgen, vice president, and E. Z. Crowley, cashier, to face the wall, with their hands above their heads. As the men left the bank Pridgen fired six shots after them.

FRENCH TAKE 2,500 MEN

PERONNE AND COMBLES MENACED BY THE FRENCH ADVANCE TO THE NORTH

French Drive Has Cut German Line Of Communication From Peronne Northward

Paris.—The French north of Peronne are holding tenaciously to the salient they have driven into the German line east of the Bethune-Peronne road near Bouchavenes. They hold intact, too, the town of Bouchavenes and other offensive started Tuesday. Their capture of a powerfully organized German trench system south of the Le Priez farm, near the road running west from Rancourt to Combles, has put Combles in further jeopardy.

Fighting in the region of Bouchavenes has been sanguinary. Finding that the French had cut their line of communication from Peronne northward, the Germans threw violent attacks against L'Abbe wood and Hill 76, south of Bouchavenes, and retook both places. The French, however, returned viciously to the attack, and after hard fighting some, hand-to-hand, finally drove out the Germans and kept the ground they had won.

In two days fighting more than 2,300 Germans were taken prisoner and a large number of guns and machine guns were captured.

South of the Somme heavy artillery duels between the French and Germans continue in the region of Vermandovillers and Chaulnes. Repulse of a German attack near Fleury, in the Verdun section, is reported.

In the Carpathians, Russian attacks along the entire front have been repulsed, according to Vienna and Berlin. Petrograd says the Russians are holding all the ground they have won in this region.

Notwithstanding the stout resistance of the Teutonic allies, the Serbian troops on the Macedonian front have made important progress at various points, it is announced by the war office.

In the Carpathians, Russian attacks along the entire front have been repulsed according to Vienna and Berlin. Petrograd says the Russians are holding all the ground they have won in this region.

GREECE PREPARING FOR WAR PLUNGE

Premier Zamis Resigns and Dimitracopulos Summoned By King To Form Cabinet

Athens.—King Constantine has accepted the resignation of Premier Zaimis and his cabinet and has asked M. Dimitracopulos, former minister of justice to form a new cabinet. M. Dimitracopulos has accepted in principle and will confer with the king.

M. Dimitracopulos, who has been asked to form a new Greek cabinet, is a supporter of the policy of former Premier Venizelos. He has expressed the opinion that with Roumania in the war it was time for Greece to abandon her neutrality.

M. Dimitracopulos, after reaching an understanding for the entente ministers and let their attitude determine whether he will accept the premiership.

M. Dimitracopulos is of the opinion that Greece's departure from neutrality is the only remedy for the present international situation. He recalls the Greek-Turkish war of 1897, when Premier Lelyannis incurred all risks to re-establish unity in the nation, divided then as now.

Special Troop Train Plunges Into Ditch

Nevada, Mo.—A special troop train on the Missouri Pacific, carrying the supply companies of the First and Third Missouri infantry, en route to Nevada, from Laredo, Texas, went into a ditch near Houndville, Mo., ten miles south of Nevada. The seventy soldiers in sleepers at the rear of the train were badly shaken up, but none was seriously injured. The engine, the tender and five cars left the track. No cause has yet been fixed for the accident.

Phi Beta Kappa Names New Head

Philadelphia.—Prof. Edwin Augustus Grosvenor of Amhurst, Mass., was elected president of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity at the session of the National Council in this city. Edward Ashael Birge, Madison, Wis., was elected vice president; the Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, New York, secretary, and David Layton, New York, treasurer.

Blease Loses By 5,000 Majority

Columbia, S. C.—Additional returns from the South Carolina Democratic primary served to make absolutely certain the victory of Gov. Richard I. Manning for renomination over Cole L. Blease, for two terms governor, by a majority of 5,000. The tabulated vote shows: Manning 70,916, Cole L. Blease 66,181, giving a net majority to Manning of 4,735. The remaining votes will hardly amount to more than a thousand or fifteen hundred at the outside.

Five Persons Are Shot By a Negro

New Orleans.—Armed posses of citizens and squads of policemen and sheriff's deputies are searching for Seymour Clay, a negro, who shot and killed a prominent local merchant and wounded four other persons, one a police sergeant, following a quarrel with a street car conductor over a transfer. According to the conductor, Clay slashed him across the face when a worthless transfer was refused. The negro then jumped from the car.

CLAIM TAX LISTS VERY IRREGULAR

GRAND JURY SAID TO HAVE FOUND DISCREPANCIES IN POLL TAX RECORDS.

BOOKS SHOW MANY PAID

When Brought Before Grand Jury and Sworn, Declared They Had Not Paid Poll Tax.

Montgomery.—Startling irregularities in the poll tax records of Russell county are said to have been discovered by the grand jury at Seale. In an effort to ascertain whether there has been any political corruption with the poll taxes of the county, the inquisitors, it is intimated, made a searching investigation of these affairs resulting in astonishing revelations. It is said that quite a number of persons, whose names appeared on the records as having paid their poll taxes when summoned before the grand jury and sworn, declared that they had not paid the poll taxes.

Lace Factory For Negroes Planned.

New Decatur.—Mrs. George A. Nelson, a native of England and a large property holder here, is agitating the establishment in the Decaturs of a gigantic lace factory, to be financed by negro capital and to be operated by negro labor. Mrs. Nelson's plan is to have the 400,000 negroes of the Southern States each contribute $5 for the establishment of the factory, giving working capital of $2,000,000. She would then import expert lice makers from Brussels to teach them the art. Negroes, on account of being capable of withstanding both heat and moisture, could be employed to better advantage in the plant, she says. Lace would be made from the cotton grown on the uplands of North Alabama. Mrs. Nelson founded Cedar Lake, a negro town south of here on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and she has offered to furnish the site for the big industry.

Coosa's Cotton Crop Poor.

Goodwater.—The cotton crop in Coosa will, it seems, fall far short of even the low estimates that have been made for it. The boll weevil has gotten in his work in this county perhaps to a greater extent this year than in any other county in the State Practically no weevils were found in the county last year, but this time it has done the work, and many farmers predict that there will not be a bale to the plow made. In some places where a bale was made to the acre last year, this year not one bale will be made to five acres. It is estimated that the crop will be shorter than one-half and that the crop will be gathered by the middle of October or November. Corn crops are something like an average and hay and feed crops are about a normal, with the exceptions of the fields which were ruined by the rains and floods.

Coosa to Vote on Ticks.

Goodwater.—A sufficient number of signatures of legal voters have been obtained on a petition to the Probate Judge to authorize him to call an electio nto vote on the tick eradication measure. The election likely will be called for the same date as that of the general election in November. A great deal of interest has been manifested in getting this issue before the voters in this manner.

Will Get Water From the River.

Gadsden.—By a vote of 75 to 45, the people of Attalla gave the Alabama Power Company the privilege of supplying the city with water from the Coosa river, through the Gadsden waterworks system. At an early date thewater main to the by-products plant will be extended to Attalla and the water from the river will be pumped into the homes of the town. The system, including the stand-pipe, now in use will be continued, which will assure the same service and pressure, with a more abundant supply of water than under the old system.

Bids Are Refused.

Huntsville.—The County Commissioners opened four bids for the $75,000 issue of refunding Madison County bonds and declined to accept any of them. Birmingham, Cincinnati and Atlanta companies made bids but neither was satisfactory.

Birmingham Iron Aawaits Shipment.

Mobile.—There are 1,200 tons of pig iron in the Louisville and Nashville yards here awaiting shipment to the continent. Forty cars were required to bring the shipment from the Birmingham District.

Chilton to Hold Fair.

Clanton.—The Eighth Annual Chilton County Fair will be held on the grounds of the Association, near Clanton, commencing October 30th and continuing until November 4, inclusive.

Dam to Be Built.

Prattville.—Work of rebuilding the dam on Autauga Creek has been commenced. The cost will be $8,000. The old dam was washed out during the July storm.

LESS COTTON; MORE MONEY.

Alabama Cotton Crop Will Bring $12,000,000 More in 1916 Than in 1915.

Montgomery.—It will be gratifying to the farmers and others to learn that, in spite of the short yield, it is certain that Alabama's cotton this year will bring at least $12,000,000 more than that of 1915. As the crop of 1915 yielded about the same amount as that of 1914, the yield of 1916 will bear the same proportion to that of 1914 as to that of 1915.

Here are the yields:

1914—1,500,000 bales.

1915—1,020,000 bales.

1916—775,000 bales (government estimate of September 1.)

Here are the prices governing at this time:

For cotton, 15 cents the pound, the equivalent of $15 per bale.

For cotton seed, $45 to $47 per ton with still higher prices here and there.

The prices for the crop of 1915 at the same time last year were as follows:

Cotton—9 1-2 cents per pound, the equivalent of $47.50 per bale.

Cotton seed, $28 to $30 per ton.

On the basis of these comparative prices, the cotton of 1915 brought $48,850,000, and the cotton seed $15,300,000, a total of $64,150,000.

On the same basis the cotton yield of this year will bring $58,125,000 and the cotton seed will bring $18,212,500, a total of $76,187,500.

The increase in the value of this year's crop (cotton and seed) is therefore, $12,187,500.

This increase is according to present prices and those of one year ago. As there is no doubt that this year's crop will go through the season on at least as sound a basis as that of last year, the comparison of to date is extremely conservative.

This year's crop was raised with the least fertilizers in years. It's cost has been at a minimum. In addition, the acreage was smaller and the farmer has given more attention to his diversified crops, so that he has more to sustain family and stock at home and his cotton more nearly represents an extra cash asset than ever. In the third place, warehouse space is more ample than before and warehouse receipts more definite. The farmer is better prepared to market his cotton gradually and borrow money on it, if needed, than he ever was.

There are other greater profits in farm products in spite of short yield.

The 1,440,000 bushels of white potatoes this year, at $1.07 per bushel, will fetch $1,548,000 as compared with the $1,280,000 for the 1,548,000 bushels of potatoes last year at 94 cents per bushel.

The 1,064,000 bushels of wheat this year at $1.37 per bushel bring $1,443,980 as compared with $1,428,000 for the 1,200,000 bushels of wheat last year at $1.19.

Car Shortage is Worst in Years.

Mobile.—The Mobile and Ohio railway declares it faces the worst car shortage in many years. The company is utilizing every available car, but the supply is said to be hopelessly inufficient for present needs. Local officials anticipate the situation will become more serious by the end of the present month.

Stave Mill Ready.

Troy.—The new stave mill is in operation this week. Delay in beginning operation was caused by trouble in getting the boiler for the plant. A good deal of timber is being received by the plant, which is located just north of the vaneering mills. The plant will be able to handle two cars of timber per day.

May Build Big Docks at Mobile.

Mobile.—Pittsburg capitalists are reported contemplating the building of docks and warehouses on the Sane Islands south of Mobile. The islands are controlled by the state harbor board.

STATE BRIEFS.

Harvey Windham, of Daleville, has put up 7,000 cans of tomatoes from two acres.

Clay county veterans will have their reunion on the 25th.

Two cars of hogs were shipped from Coffee county last week.

The collapse of the feed loft at a Florence livery stable caught George Thompson, a negro, in a most peculiar accident and his rocevorey is very doubtful. Thompson was throwing corn into the loft froma wagon when the accident occurred. A beam struck him on the head and his neck was caught across the side of the wagon bed. It took ten minutes to extricate him and he was almost dead. The mules had been removed from the wagon.

Sam Morgan sold a bale of cotton in Piedmont for $99.10.

Alabama is said to be accomplishing more than the fourteen other States now in a campaign to do away with illiteracy, Miss Estelle Foster, Field Agent of the Alabama Illiteracy Commission, told the teachers at the regular assemply period of the Jefferson County Institute.

The Merchants Bank and Trust Company of Tuscaloosa, has taken over the assets and liabilities of the Commercial Bank, in operation at that place as a State bank.

TERROR REIGNS IN PART OF MEXICO

RESULT OF RAIDS OF OUTLAW GANGS IN STATE OF SAN LUIS POTOSI.

BANDITS HOLD UP TRAIN

Secure $26,000 in Gold—Troop Train Attacked and About Forty Soldiers Are Killed.

Laredo, Tex.—Advices received here indicate that a reign of terror exists in the state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, from the Neuvo Leon state line to Queretaro, as a result of the activity of a band of outlaws, reported to be under the leadership of the Cedillo brothers, who have proclaimed themselves "legalistas." Their followers are said to include men foremrly identified with General Carrera Torres.

One report received here stated that the bandits help up a train near Tomosopo September 12 and secured $62,000; another told of the destruction of a Carranza troop train on the following day and the killing of 40 soldiers. A passenger, who arrived from San Luis Potosi, reported that in an encounter with the bandits every officer on the staff of General Davila, governor of San Luis Potosi, was killed. General Davila and members of his staff were en route to Mexico City when they were attacked. Davila, according to reports, was dressed in civilian clothing and escaped in the brush, eventually returning to San Potosi. It was understood that he had been summoned to Mexico City to accept a cabinet portifolio.

Carranza troops are reported to have suffered heavy losses in engagements with the bandits at Doctor Arroyo, in the state of Nuevo Leon, and Norriega San Luis Potosi.

NEW DECATUR NOW ALBANY.

Many Other Alabama Towns Elect Officials for Ensuing Year.

Girard, Ala.—The ticket lately designated by the grand jury for city officials here was elected in full for the next two years. The officers as elected are: W. C. Whitaker, mayor; L. A. Wells, John Seigler, A. M. Forbes, W. B. Head and F. M. Harrison, aldermen.

Dr. A. Floyd, as mayor, and all the old councilmen were re-elected in Phoenix City.

New Decatur, Ala.—New Decatur voted to change its name to Albany in an election by an overwhelming majority. The change will not become effective until the city council passes an ordinance to that effect.

Millport.—W. R. Miller was elected mayor of Millport, defeating Capt. C. W. White by a majority of four votes.

In Tuscumbia Mayor John H. Sherrod was re-elected over his two opponents, O. B. Clark and Mr. Sparks.

At Leighton, where a hot campaign has been fought, Mayor D. L. Spangler won over his opponent, Bruce King, by a vote of 46 to 24. The present aldermatic board was re-elected.

New Decatur, Ala.—The Summerford ticket won in the election at Falkville, Mayor Summerford being elected for his third term by a majority of two votes over his opponent, J. N. Powell.

Decatur.—J. A. Nelson was re-elected mayor of Decatur over Dr. W. L. Dinsmore by nearly two to one, the vote being Nelson 184, Dinsmore 97.

Clanton.—The Clanton city election resulted i nthe re-election of E. M. Pinckard by a majority of five votes over Joseph Vandeevier.

Jacksonville.—In the municipal election held here Dave W. Goodlett defeated Peter L. Hammond for mayor with a vote of 170 to 19, a light vote.

Sylacauga.—In the city election the following results were had: Mayor, W. L. Howard; alderman at large, J. E. Jordan; First Ward, W. E. Headley, Second Ward, B. J. Estes; Third Ward, R. D. Porch; Fourth Ward, J. A. Shinn.

Brookside.—The official returns of the town election held here are as follows: For mayor, James Cannon, 31; N. S. Moore, 24.

Huntsville.—T. T. Terry was elected mayor of Huntsville over Austin F. Kendall by a vote of over three to one.

General Mills Dead.

Washington.—Major General Mills, chief of the bureau of militia affairs, holder of the army medal for bravery under fire, builder of the new West Point and former president of the army war college, died here after 15 hours' illness from pneumonia. In a statement issued expressing the sentiment of the war department, Secretary Baker declared General Mills' devotion to his work took strength with which he might otherwise have been able to resist the sudden illness.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.

For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.

For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.

For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.

For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.

For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.

For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

WHERE LIES THE GRATIFICATION

Although the mayor of Clanton was re-elected on Monday, we fail to see in the vote any gratification for the former management of the affairs of the town. We fail to see any approval of the citizens of Clanton for the record that has been made by the Mayor in his term just closing.

He might say the people approve of his administration because it is proven in his re-election.

Well, let's look at the vote that was cast.

69 votes were cast for Mr. Pinckard, and 120 votes were cast against him.

His victory was due to the division existing between the two other candidates Messrs. Broadhead and VanDerveer. It was not due to an approval of his administration by the majority of our citizens.

In the return of Mr. Pinckard to the Mayor's office we do not see any approval for him and his policies by our citizenship. By the actual vote that was cast we can see nothing but plain and open repudiation of "Pinckardism."

SPEAKING AT CORINTH

The Editor had the pleasure of attending the speaking at Corinth in Beat 5 on Tuesday night.

The people of that section are to be congratulated for the interest they are showing in the affairs of the county at the present time.

They listened most attentively to speeches made by Prof. J. W. Moore and Hon. J. O. Middleton and others.

The speakers ably depicted the horrifying and miserable shortcomings of the Democratic party in county, state and nation, to the appreciation of their hearers.

At the close of the addresses the chairman, Mr. E. A. Norris, called for a vote of the house. All were asked to stand up, who intended to vote in November for Judge Reynolds and the entire county Republican ticket. Everybody stood up but two men.

Then a vote for the Democratic ticket was called for and not a single soul arose. One of the men who failed to arise for Reynolds, openly assured the house that he would not vote for Popwell and his Democratic allies.

Indiana Republicans exhibit very slight grief over the defection of ex-Gov. Hanley and his nomination at the head of the prohibition ticket. The normal Prohibition vote in Indiana is about 18,000 and this year Hanly's personal following may carry it up to 25,000 but not all of the increase will come from the Republicans, because Hanley has many dry Democrats who admire him. The margin between united Republicanism and the Democracy in Indiana is about 40,000—so the mathematics of the situation seems to justify the lack of gloom over Hanly's departure.

Homer S. Cummings, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee and director of the speaker's bureau had himself interviewed and recorded in the Washington Post recently. "Neither the Mexican policy nor the tariff will be the big issues of the campaign, but the issue will be the record of Woodrow Wilson" says Mr. Cummings. "Nobody is thinking about the tariff" he declares.

As a specimen of political astuteness, Mr. Cummings is entitled to a deckle-edge edition de luxe copy of the Democratic handbook, and he qualifies for membership in the Lotos-eaters' League. Is the vice chairman still oblivious of the fact that the campaign is on? That the Mexican policy and the tariff have been live issues for some time? The day before Cummings put this statement over Senator Jimham Lewis, self-ordained official answerer was risking his inflamable whiskers by "answering" the Hughes' acceptance speech. Lewis blamed everything that has happened in Mexico during the past three years on the Republicans. Senator Fall flattened out the administrtion by an attack on the Mexican policy, and Congressman Rodenberg proceeded to remove what was left of the presidential hide, and immediately several Democrats gathered around to defend the carcass. Stump speakers are going into every part of the country, defending or condemning the Administration's Mexican policy. The Democratic platform at St Louis upheld the President in his dealings with Mexico, and the Republican platform at Chicago jumped on him for his vacillations. Yet, in spite of all this, Mr. Cummings gravely asserts that the Mexican policy will not be an issue.

As for the tariff, if it be true that nobody is thinking about it, it is because we have made up our mind on the subject. We demand protection, and a revision of the Underwood law. If it is not an issue why do the Democrats defend their law? Mr. Cummings, come out of it, or your part in the campaign will be nil.

EIGHT MILLIONS A DAY

When the Democratic Congress adjourned it counted a session of 245 days, including Sundays and holidays. There have been longer sessions.

When an account of stock was taken it was found that the total of appropriations, fully made or authorized, was close to TWO BILLION DOLLARS. There never was a Congress that approached this figure.

For every day of the session, Sundays and all, the average amount of money voted away was more than EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS.

"He kept us out of war", yet the amount of money which he permitted a recklessly extravagant Congress to take away from the taxpayers—much of it for unnecessary expenditures and much of it for expenditures plainly political in their purpose—will compare not at all unfavorably with the sums which are being expended by some of the European nations which are battling so desperately.

A peace President, with war expenditures and "war taxes" is an anomaly. So, too, is a Democratic President in this land. We shall return to normal conditions after the fourth of next March.

To meet this expense new and burdensome taxes have been levied and a bond issue has been resorted to. In the midst of the riot of extravagance a juggled Treasury Statement was thrust into the country's face in an endeavor to hide the desparate condition to which Democratic management had brought the nation's finances. But now the facts are out.

The Democratic party has demonstrated its folly and weakness at the expense of the taxpayers. EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS A DAY is a mighty high price for the kind of government we have been getting.

"I am surprised to read in the dispatches from Maine that William M. Ingraham, Assistant Secretary of War, claims that the Democrats are to be credited with giving the country the best Army bill that has ever been passed.

"We Republicans," said Representative Julius Kahn, of California, ranking minority member of the House Committee on Military Affairs, "have always contended that the National Defense is not a matter of party politics. Every patriotic citizen is equally interested in seeing his country properly prepared regardless of political affiliations.

"As a matter of fact many of the provisions of the Preparedness law of June 3rd, 1916, were written into the measure by Republicans. This is especially true of such provisions as those providing for an enlisted reserve corps, for an increased medical corps, for training camps for civilians, for short term enlistments, for the manufacture of tools and gauges in times of peace so that the supply of ammunition can materially be increased in times of war, for the creation of the grade of Aviator which will enable civilians to be commissioned in the aviation section, and numerous other provisions.

'So far as the increased strength of the Army is concerned a Democratic House refused to authorize anything in excess of 140,00 enlisted men, minimum strength of the Regular Army. The Rpeublicans constantly insisted on a larger Regular Army and finally succeeded in raising the strength to a minimum of 178,000 men.

"The Republicans claim no special praise for having voted for these splendid features. They only did their duty to their country and they resent the attempt of Democratic officials to claim credit for the legislation as a Democratic partisan measure."

The President is reported to be meditating another recess commission for George Rublee, whom the Senate rejected as member of the Federal Trade Commission. Wonder if he will do as much for Mr. Dixon Williams, whom the Senate rejected for postmaster of Chicago.

Strange. Senator Jham Liwis hasn't "heaped a doom" on the leaders of the Republican party for nearly a week. The Senator must be going stale from overtraining.

THE STATE BOARD OF HEALTH OF ALABAMA

Vital Statistics For July

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 1, 1916.

There were 4,566 births reported for the month as compared with 4,-103 for July 1915.

There were 2,935 white and 1,631 colored births. The total birth rate for the month was 23.6 per 1,000 of population. The white birth rate, 25.9; the colored, 20.4.

There were 2,096 deaths as compared with 2,176 for July 1915. Of the deaths, 1,036 were white and 1,-060 were colored. The total death rate was 10.8 per 1,000; the white death rate 9.1 and the colored, 13.3.

There were 317 deaths under 1 year of age; 192 from 1 to 5 years; 229 from 5 to 10; 300 from 20 to 30; 243 from 30 to 40; and 242 over 70 years of age.

The principal causes of death were as follows: Typhoid fever 160; malaria 48; scarlet fever 1; diphtheria 7; pellagra 89; pulmonary tuberculosis 227; infantile paralysis 7; whooping cough 17; apoplexy 51; paralysis 33; organic heart disease 94; intestinal diseases of children under 2 years 146; Bright's disease 100; the puerperal state 42; cancer 48; accidental drowning 39; railway accidents 10; automobile accidents 4; homicides 34.

Typhoid Fever—During July there were 1,234 cases of typhoid fever reported with 160 deaths. Each case represents an economic loss of at least $100; each death a loss of $1,-700, making a total loss to the state in one month of $397,400. Yet typhoid fever is a preventable disease.

Infantile Pralysis—During July and August 99 cases of infantile paralysis were reported from 33 counties, with 12 deaths. All cases have been reportted, and all known means to prevent the spread of the disease have been successfully carried out. From the above it will be seen that the public should be more excited over the wide spread prevalence of typhoid fever than over the comparatively few cases of infantile paralysis.

The sole object for maintaining a Public Health Department is to lessen the death rate. This can be accomplished by the education of the people to proper living and the prevention of communicable diseases.

A parent or physician who knows of a case of communicable disease, whether mild or not, and fails to report that fact to the health authorities fails to do his duty as a citizen.

Opinions of the People.

FROM BEAT NO. 11

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 18, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your paper for a few words.

We had a large crowd out last Monday night at the speaking at Cane Creek. All seemed to enjoy it very much.

There is a mistake out on Mr. Jasper Dennis about the dipping vat proposition. He said he is going to dip his cattle, but said he would not insist on any one else dipping unless they wanted to. He said he would not seek to bring an election in regard to the matter. He wants the people to have the privilige of ruling themselves.

I want to say that we should not pay any attention to what we hear about our men. Come on and lets elect our ticket in full.

It looks like if Mr. Popwell was going to run for Probate Judge he would not have voted in the primary and then jumped the track.

Boys, be careful and don't make a mistake this time. Lets stand to what we did on May 9th. Put in your vote for L. H. and all the rest of the ticket.

JOHN S. DENNIS.

MR. J. BICE GIVES HIS VIEWS

Lomax, Ala., Sept. 18, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Just a few lines for your paper if you will allow me space.

There will be singing at Jackson Chapel Sunday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, 1916 books to be used.

Our Sunday school at the Chapel is doing fine.

Say we are all straight Republicans around Lomax, and we will vote for the nominee that was put out by our party May 12 and 15. We have no Popwell votes up this way and we are opposed to any amendment to the Constitution of Alabama. If we were to vote the amendment there would be some job gotten up such as tomato clubs and hundreds of other useless things only a waste of money and to give somebody a job. The rural schools would see but little of it and we would still be kept at the foot of the ladder in education, and it is the Alabama Legislator that is keeping us there. They give the money to those that already have a fair education, they commence at the top.

If I were going to build a house I would lay the foundation then build on it. We have no material for high schools and colleges and the reason is the money all goes to the high schools and colleges and the rural schools are left out and then they cry out "Illiteracy" and want to tax the poor people to pay more for somebody's pocket. Away with such rot.

Best wishes to the Union-Banner and its many readers.

J. BICE.

TICK ERADICATION

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 8, 1916.
To whom it may concern:

I, W. E. Dubose, a resident of Clintonville, Coffee county, Alabama, do hereby certify that I am in the cattle business; that I have been dealing in cattle for the last past twelve years; that I purchase cattle in different counties of Alabama and ship them to Birmingham, Alabama, and other markets.

I hereby certify further that I can and do pay more for cattle which I purchase in counties that has tick eradication. I pay 3 cents per pound for cattle in counties which do not dip, and from 4 to 5 cents per pound in counties that dip their cattle.

On August 28th, last, I purchased ten head of cattle from a farmer, Reed Mullins, in East Chilton, and lost one of these before I could ship them out of the county. This one died from tick fever.

On the 29th of August I offered a Mr. Mims East of Clanton $30.00 for a cow and before I could get back the cow died of tick fever, and I am informed that he had also lost three more before then.

I have no trouble like this when I purchase cattle in counties that have and use dipping vats. Furthermore I would gladly give ten dollars to have all the cows I have bought in Chilton county dipped before I ship them.

In case anyone desires information concerning the difference the various cattle dealers make in cattle coming from localities where the dipping vat isused and those that do not use them, I respectfully refer you to the following: Denton Live Stock Commission merchant, Mobile, Ala; Jack Philips, Birmingham, Ala; Mumphus and Alvers, New Orleans, La; Nelson Live Stock commission merchant, Charleston, S. C; P. M. Metcalf, Hartford, Ala; K. T. Jones, Ozark, Ala; Brunson Live Stock dealer, Enterprise, Ala; Rammage Banking Company, Brundige, Ala.

Respectfully,
W. E. DUBOSE.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 8, 1916.
"Dr. D. B. Strickler,
"Clanton, Ala.
"Sir:

"There is inclosed herewith some correspondence received from Dr. W. L. Endsley which will be self-explanatory and may be of use to you in your work in Chilton County.

"Very respectfully,
"R. E. JACKSON,
"Inspector in Charge."

"Pratville, Ala., Sept. 6, 1916.
"Dr. R. E. Jackson,
"Birmingham, Ala.
"Dear sir:

"Enclosed find a letter signed by several dipping vat patrons along the Chilton county line in Autauga couty, that desire it published in Chilton county papers.

"Very respectfully,
"W. L. ENDSLEY."

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that we, the undersigned citizens of White Pond district, Autauga county, are well pleased with our experience in cattle dipping. Our cattle are clear of ticks, smooth of coat, in good flesh, and are in better general condition than usual. We have lost no cattle, nor had any but a few trivial accidents which were wholly due to carelessness in handling.

Respectfully,
C. C. Davis, H. M. Strock, T. H. Whorton, W. E. Litaker, George E. Bailey, Alonza E. Davis, G. W. Ellington, C. W. Parker, D. D. Cannon, T. C. Jones, G. C. Cooper, C. J. Jones.

Wiley Littlejohn pays the highest market price for chickens and eggs, and he pays cash.

A LETTER FROM VETERAN W. A. SEALS

Mt. Creek, Ala., Sept 16, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Having seen nothing in your columns recently from the Soldiers Home, I ask a little space to say it would be ungrateful for us not to express our thanks for the good luck that has so recently befallen us—that of having Dr. Eiland enstalled Commandant of the home.

Dr. Eiland is a thorough graduate, a successful practicneer, and a perfect gentleman. He is a working Commandant and will ere long transform the grounds—heretofore a dry pasture—into a beautiful park, causing it to blossom as the rose. He is thinning the trees, which in the past have grown so thickly and uncared for as to almost shut out the sunlight, in other words no care has been bestowed upon the home until now.

We are more than pleased, as it is said that the way to a mans heart is through his stomach, as the Doctor is seeing to it that our food is better and more of it.

Mrs. Eiland is a beautiful lady, and fills the part of matron perfectly. She is the angle of the home, and we all admire her for her many attributes of character.

In conclusion I wish to ask the name of the new Democracy of Chilton. Is it democracy to borrow a leader from some other party? What would be the party dominating the state if each or a plurality of the counties elected such tickets?

If I vote for Mr. Popwell do I not renounce my alligience to the Democrats, and if elected would he not still be a Republican?

Did not Capt. Kolb run on an independent ticket for Governor and receive the condemnation of the Democrats? We all know Capt. Kolb was elected.

The majority of the Home are for Judge Reynolds, and, as a Democrat, I predict his election.

Truly,
W. A. SEALS.

UNION SPRINGS

Cotton crop almost a failure. Everything very quiet. People all seem satisfied politically. No dissension.

We are pleased to note the gentlemanly way in which the Union-Banner is conducting its part in the present campaign. Not getting angry or going into wild histerics, throwing black mud or using vile epithets. Any news paper worthy of notice can defend its principles without becoming disgusting to intelligent or refined people.

We have heard but little political speaking this year. We recall the unanswerable speech of Hon. Pope M. Long at Thorsby in March, entirely free from mud slinging. We have heard a few local candidates speak. They were also nice and gentlemanly, indeed all the candidates we have met seem cool, self possessed and true to their convictions in a becoming deportment. We have no sympathy whatever with a candidate, speaker or writer who is continually hurling vile epithets at his opponent. Intelligent people can and will settle all those questions without resorting to any such low, disgusting methods.

Some people cry out "just any thing to beat some one." How foolish. That shows how far some can be swayed by prejudice from the course of wisdom, and how low in the scale of sound judgement some seem willing to sink. The most disgusting of all is to see ministers of the gospel who are supposed to stand between the living and the dead indulging in political harrangue, showing how far they are beneath their holy calling, manifesting anger. Oh! how far they are from the beautiful, true and spotless church. Their subsequent ministerial efforts will fall flat.

Those who sling black mud should learn that it only makes the beautiful painted white wall look more beautiful in contrast with the vile black stain they have tried to place on their opponent.

The condition of our county just now calls for men of business, of sound judgment. Men of experience. Intelligent people who want our county freed from debt, taxes reduced, money in the treasury, in fact, all who are looking to the welfare of our county want officers who can do their work successfully, in whose hands our affairs will be safe. And particularly we should look well to the county commissioners as well as all others. This is no time for talking about just beating some one or getting mad and slinging mud. We want the best in every office—we surely need it. When sound judgment prevails then all good and intelligent are satisfied, while those who resort to harraugue, vile words, anger and foolishness should not be listened to.

Another instance of the changing mind of the administration is to be found in the retaliatory legislation which the new revenue bill carries. At first the White House and the State Department was strong for going the whole distance with retaliation against England for her interference with our mails and with our commerce. But the British Ambassador made a few remaks to Mr. Lansing and the conference committee very promptly toned down the paragraphs.

A will disposing of an estate of some thirteen millions is under contest in the courts of New York and an attempt is being made to show that the testator was of unsound mind. The contesting heirs who are trying to break the will are showing remarkable shrewdness in some of the testimony they are offering, as, for instance, when they put on a servant of the testator to give evidence that the old man showed great admiration for Woodrow Wilson. As proof of unsoundness of mind this testimony will appeal to a great many people—but we never expected to see it made a part of a sworn court record.

MARBURY HOTEL BURNED

A fire occurred in Marbury Saturday morning which completely destroyed the large Hotel Marbury and contents. A blaze was seen issuing from the building at 9:30 a. m.

Every effort was made to save the building and contents, but to no avail. The loss is about $7500, some insurance. Cause of the fire unknown.

W. H. Conway of Jemison was in Clanton Wednesday.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

These September Days

Remind us that the Fall Season is at hand

Don't they remind you that there are many items of General Merchaudise with which you will soon have to supply your folks? Well, we just wanted to tell you again that we've got all of those things you are going to need; be sure you remember our store.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store."

SUBSCRIBERS

We positively will not send The Union-Banner to anyone who is over a year behind with his subscription.

Recently we stopped sending the paper to a number who were in arrears, and took their names from our list.

If you want to be sure to get every issue of the paper you had better look after your subscription.

When it gets a year behind we will take your name off the mail list till it is paid up.

Don't overlook this, as it is important.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine has been taken by catarrh sufferers for the past thirty-five years, and has become known as the most reliable remedy for Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the Blood on the Mucous surfaces, expelling the Poison from the Blood and healing the diseased portions.

After you have taken Hall's Catarrh Medicine for a short time you will see a great improvement in your general health. Start taking Hall's Catarrh Medicine at once and get rid of catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

BOARDERS WANTED

Wanted table boarders at $3.50 a week; excellent table aways; can also accomodate a few roomers; meals any day.
tf. MRS. ADDIE G. ROBINSON.

POULTRYMEN—If you have chickens and eggs to sell and want the highest market price for them and want the cash money, bring them to Wiley Littlejohn.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Editor Union-Banner:

Please say through your valuable paper that the Unity Association will meet at Floyd, 5 miles west of Verbena on Tuesday, October 3.

Messengers coming into community on Monday evening from west will see Charlie Huett, from south will see I. M. Moore and from east and north will see W. T. Johnson for home assignments.

Those coming by rail will be met at Verbena if they will notify committee.

W. T. JOHNSON

Now Well

"Thedford's Black-Draught is the best all-round medicine I ever used," writes J. A. Steelman, of Pattonville, Texas. "I suffered terribly with liver troubles, and could get no relief. The doctors said I had consumption. I could not work at all. Finally I tried and to my surprise, I got better, and am to-day as well as any man." Thedford's Black-Draught is a general, cathartic, vegetable liver medicine, that has been regulating irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels, for over 70 years. Get a package today. Insist on the genuine—Thedford's. E-70

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

PURELY VEGETABLE S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

Something New Every Day

This is an age of many New Remedies for a multitude of ills. But the faith of thousands of sufferers from blood impurities, remains with the old reliable S. S. S. Its reputation was won by merit alone, and is retained by the same continuous service to humanity.

The vegetable purity and superiority of S. S. S. is recognized by all who have taken it and received its benefits and recommended by them to all sufferers from blood diseases. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Malaria, and many forms of Skin Disease, are some of the blood's worst enemies—but will surely give way to the influence of S. S. S.

Get the Genuine S. S. S. at Your Druggist.

USED FOR 50 YEARS SUCCESSFULLY

WADES WEEKLY LETTER

Seed Selection

Now is the time to select and store away your planting seed for another year. These seed, both corn and cotton, should be selected from the best plants in the fields. You have an opportunity now of seeing just what kind of plants your planting seed came from. The plats from which planting seed are selected should be as nearly like those you would prefer your next crop to produce as possible. Seed selected and properly stored, when planted under favorable conditions and good cultivation, will be much better in quality and yield very much like the plants from which they are selected.

Result of Negligence

If you fail to select your planting seed and go carelessly along having nothing to plant next year except corn from the crib or gin-run cotton seed, what can you expect in the way of improvement? It may be that you intend feeding all your corn and selling all your cotton seed to the oil mills, putting yourself at the seed dealers' mercy and be compelled to pay extra high prices and heavy freight charges for feed, in some instances no better than those you had the year before. Often the seed bought from dealers are gin-run, interbred and grown on entirely different types of soil, seasons and climatic conditions and a year or two are required for them to become climatised. The best seed are those properly selected from your own farm or by some careful reliable farmer in your community or State. If a dealer defrauds you in your own State you have recourse through your State laws, but if a dealer in another State fakes you, it is interstate and any recourse is difficult and you will be the "sucker."

Best Type of Corn

The best type of corn is the two eared type commonly found in many of the semi-prolific varieties; the stalk should be of medium heighth and taper gradually from bottom to top; the foliage should be broad thick and healthy; two good well developed ears should be located half way between top and bottom; the ears should be medium in length and diameter, tapering uniformly from butt to tip; the grain should be in straight rows, medium depth, firm and unmixed with other varieties.

Best Cotton Type

The best types of cotton may be found in the two varieties, Early King or Toole for the level piney sections of South Alabama and early big boll Triumph for the hill and clay lands of Central and North Alabama. Selections should be made from plants fruiting heavy at the bottom and that put on a good bottom and middle crop in July. The plant should be broad at the bottom tapering as a pyramid. The limbs should be short jointed and fruit at each joint on the lower two thirds of the plant. The bolls should have five well developed locks and a good strong staple an inch or more in length. This cotton should be ginned carefully to avoid mixing.

I especially urge the preparation of planting seed. If you wait to buy them the high price of planting seed will help the boll weevil to take care of the profits.

JAMES A. WADE,
Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

IN MEMORY

On Saturday afternoon, Sept. 16, at 2:00 o'clock God in his infinite wisdom called the soul of Mr. Arthur W. Williams from this world of toil and sorrow to that beautiful home beyond the ekies.

Mr. Williams was 49 years of age. He was born in Montgomery county, and his parents dying when he was a small boy, he was reared by an aunt. He came to Chilton county when a young man and was well known and liked throughout this county.

Mr. Williams joined the Baptist church in early life and has since been a consistent christian and an able worker in the church. He was married to Miss Carrie Cox eighteen years ago, and leaves her to mourn his departure.

COAL DAYS!

Mr. Mitch Bates will deliver the Very Best Acton - Cahaba Fancy Lump Coal on Tuesday and Friday of each week; and will sell for CASH ONLY. Don't ask for credit. We do not keep any Books.

M. L. WHITE.

Kiln Dried Lumber

Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Dressed 1x12 Board, Window and Door Casing; also Heart 1x12 and 2x4 for Well Curbing. If you want any of the Above, bring your team with you, as You can Always Count on Getting it. If any Lumber is wanted that we do not Carry in Stock, We will get it for you.

E. V. Speer Lumber Co.

MARBURY, ALA.

Chilton County High School

For the Boys and Girls of Chilton County.

Course of stud Standardized and fully Articulated with the Elementary Schools and Colleges. Full Course of four years leading to any College Degree, a completion of which carries with it entrance into any Stadard College, without any Examination.

If you do not care to go to College, this is the place to get that High School Training, which will place in your hands the working tools of Life. The High School needs you.

You cannot hope to make your Life a success without it. The World needs and must have Farmers, Mechanics, Teachers, Preachers, Doctors, Lawyers, and Merchants,—in fact, Men and Women in every Walk and in every Professional business in Life.

This School stands for the Training of all, except the Deadbeat, the Gambler, and the Tramp—These last named need not apply to Enter into our Classes or Departments.

Our Departments of Art, Music, Expression and Penmanship are open to Everybody, Whether they are taking part in any of the regular Courses of the Institution or not.

Especially at this time, we are able to commend to the public our Course in Piano Music and Voice. Mr. Tinsley needs no introduction; his work is his Advertisement.

This being a State Institution, Tuition is Free.

Every Teacher College Trained, Holding a College Degree. This Session will Eclipse the past. Get in the Procession and let your Allgiance be Known to Others.

H. CLIFFORD McDONALD, Principal

CLANTON, ALA.

Expecting the Stork?

Every mother-to-be should be in the midst of pleasant and comfortable surroundings, and a constant user of "Mother's Friend"—the true friend of expectant mothers. The future baby's health and that of its mother is of utmost importance and nothing can take the place of "Mother's Friend" in preparing for such an event. Get it at your druggist. Write for free book on Motherhood.

Address
THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO.
210 Lamar Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.

SACRED HARP SINGING CONVENTION TO BE HELD

There will be a B. F. White Sacred Harp Singing Convention held in the Court House in Birmingham on Saturday and Sunday, September 23 and 24, embracing the fourth Sunday in September. A large attendance is anticipated, as six counties have appointed delegations to attend this convention. Prof. J. L. White, of Atlanta, and some noted singers from Georgia will attend this convention and a number of fine singers from the different counties of Alabama will be here and participate in the singing. A cordial invitation is extended to all lovers of sacred music, to ministers of the Gospel and to the teachers, leaders and friends of the B. F. White Sacred Harp song book.

This convention will convene at 10 o'clock on the morning of September 23rd, at the Court House in Birmingham.

SPEAKING

Dr. D. B. Strickler, the Government expert in charge of the Tick Eradication work in Chilton county, requests us to announce that he will speak at Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse on Saturday night, Sept. 23. Everybody invited to come out and hear him.

FOR SALE—Two Weber wagons, 2¾, good as new; one one-horse wagon; blacksmith shop; grain drill, new; disc turning plow, two 10-inch Oliver turning plows; two head Durock Jersey pigs; one disc harrow, section harrow, one Cole planter, one Cole grain distributor, one John Deere planter, three cultivators, one horse clipper and other farming implements; at my house at the old rock quarry. For further particulars see E. H. Foshee, Clanton, Route 5.

J. W. Cagle of Enterprise was in town Tuesday. He says the people down his way are dressed up for the speaking there on Friday night; and also says they are hungry for a joint debate between Judge Reynolds and any other speaker the opposition will put up. He stated that people down his way didn't want their candidate mixed up with some of the stuff on the other side though. "They want to hear Popwell defend himself," said Mr. Cagle.

Twenty acres with house and outbuildings, located a mile and a half northeast of Clanton. Good land, well situated for truck and general farming. For particulars and further information apply to The Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

Get The Habit

Not When, But Where the Best Place in Clanton to EAT

Goodgame Cafe

And Quick Lunch

Our Delightful SOFT DRINKS are Unsurpassed

W. H. GOOEGAME, Proprietor,

Next Door to Clanton Press.

THE RACE FOR MAYOR IN CLANTON MONDAY

On Monday, September the 18th, there was an election held in Clanton for a Mayor and Aldermen.

There were three candidates for Mayor, viz: Messrs. E. M. Pinckard, M. C. Broadhead and Joseph P. VanDerveer, Jr.

Promptly at eight o'clock the runners were at their posts, and the managers a few minutes later declared, "They're off."

This was not a "weight for age." The contestants entered on equal terms, barring weight and age.

Down the course at high noon the three candidates were seen to be running easy. Pink and Mack being neck and neck, with "Little Joe" running under a strong pull close up. Around the turn Pink and Mack were hitting the road at terrific pace, and "Little Joe" being urged finally collared the leaders and forced himself in front of Mack, while Pink observing the challenge, resented the same with an extra burst of speed.

Down the home stretch the candidates summoned courage and the pace was terrific. Mack slackened his pace, shortened his stride, and fell back of the other two a full length.

The cry went up from the crowd, "Here they come with 'Little Joe' hanging on to Pink."

The pace was hot and Mr. Pinckard barely held himself in front of his spirited little contender.

Nearing the close, Pink called on all his stored energies, and forced himself across the line just five votes in the lead of Joe.

The crowd realized that the race was over, and departed for their homes, while the close supporters of Mr. Pinckard rejoiced and spread the news of their victory.

The Aldermen elected were Messrs. W. A. Kemp, J. B. Downs, W. D. Spigener, A. R. Cooper, and J. C. Jones. Downs and Kemp were re-elected, both being already members of the Board of Aldermen.

We are in receipt of a card from Dr. Hopkins in Dothan, raising sand because he has failed to receive The Union-Banner since leaving Clanton. Otherwise he is all right.

Judge Reynolds, President of the Tri-States Merchants Association is attending the session of the conclave in Montgomery this week.

Revival services are being conducted by Rev. Crumpton at the Baptist church in Clanton.

Sheriff Harris has been in Chattanooga attending a Grand Lodge Celebration of the, Independent Order of Odd Fellws, . He represented Clanton Lodge.

DR. MARCUS LEAVES CLANTON

Dr. T. J. Marcus, county health officer for Chilton county, has removed his family to Porter, Ala., near Birmingham, where he has accepted a position as physician and surgeon for the Warrior-Pratt Coal Co. His many friends in Clanton and Chilton county will surely regret to learn of his departure.

THORSBY NOTES

Rev. W. C. Woolridge preached at the Baptist church in Jemison Sunday morning.

Miss Lelia Mae Robinson went Sunday afternoon for a visit to her sister, Miss Maud, who is in school in Montevallo.

Miss Marion E. Brown of the Unity Chilton High School will give a piano and vocal recital Friday night. Miss Brown is a splendid musician and will give a high class entertainment.

Mr. Harry Swan returned Sunday from Lock 12 where he has been employed for several weeks.

Misses Mable Swan, Marion E. Brown and Clara Ferguson motored to Jemison Sunday and attended services at the Baptist church. Miss Brown sang a solo.

Mrs. J. P. Busenleher returned this week from Birmingham where she has been ill for some weeks with typhoid fever, at the home of her mother.

Mr. Leonard Harris is now employed on the teaching force of the Unity Chilton Baptist High School.

Mr. Clyde Stubbs of Brooklyn, Ala. entered the Thorsby Institute this week.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

Louis N. Kent Has Cut Out Doctors

Honoraville Man Writes How He Does It

Up until a short while ago Mr. Kent gave a large part of his salary to doctors, but now he spends that money for more useful things. He writes: "I deem it only just to say a few words in praise of Granger Liver Regulator. It is a great saver of doctor's bills. I have tried the Regulator and I know what I am talking about. I shall keep it in my house as long as I can get it." If you want to save your health and your money, ask your druggist about Granger Liver Regulator. He'll tell you.

TAX NOTICE,

Collector's and Assessor's Round

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes for Chilton County for the year 1916, and assessing taxes for the year 1917.

Minooka	Beat 13, Oct. 2
Jemison	Beat 2, Oct. 3
Thorsby	Beat 9, Oct. 4
Mt. Creek	Beat 5, Oct. 5
Coopers	Beat 10, Oct. 6
Enterprise	Beat 6, Oct 7
Fletcher	Beat 15, Oct. 9
Riderville	Beat 8, Oct. 10
Maplesville	Beat 7, Oct 11
Macedonia	Beat 14, Oct 12
Robinson's Store	Beat 12, Oct. 13
Mullins Acadamy	Beat 1, Oct. 14
Verbena	Beat 5, Oct 16
Evergreen	Beat 10, Oct. 17
Kincheon	Beat 6, Oct. 18
Culp Schoolhouse	Beat 15, Oct 19
Shoults	Beat 7, Oct 20
Stanton	Beat 8, Oct 21
Benson	Beat 3, Oct 23
Concord	Beat 13, Oct. 24
Mars Hill	Beat 2, Oct 25
Mineral Springs	Beat 12, Oct. 26
Cane Creek	Beat 11, Oct 27
Providence	Beat 16, Oct. 28
Clanton	Beat 4, Nov. 6 to 11

Take notice that under Section Number 34, of the Revenue Code of 1915, it is the duty of every person liable to taxation in each election precinct, to attend in person on the first day of the apointment in your precinct, and then and there render to the Assessor a full and complete list of all the property, of which he or she was owner on the 1 day of October of that year.

All taxes and assesments are delinquent after December the 31st, 1916.

J. D. COLLINS, Tax Collector.
J. N. DENNIS, Tax Assessor.

MARK HOSEA LOST HIS HAND IN ACCIDENT

On Monday morning a painful accident happened to a young man, Mark Hosea, who was sawyer at the lumber mill of C. B. Cox at Jumbo in North Chilton. In some way the man's hand came in contact with the saw and his fingers were amputated. He was hastily brought to Clanton by Mr. Cox in his auto and given medical attention.

FAKE SURVEYOR CLAIMS U. S. GOVERMNENT COMMISSION

In regard to a land surveyor named Hooper, who was in and around Clanton some months ago doing work and claiming to be a deputy surveyor of the U. S. government, the following letter from the Department at Washington, in answer to Mr. P. F. Mims' letter will explain itself:

Washington, D. C., May 1, 1916.
Mr. P. F. Mims, et al,
R. F. D. No. 4 Clanton, Ala.
My dear sir:

I have your letter of April 12, 1916, asking this office if a man by the name of T. M. Hooper of Huntsville, Alabama has been appointed as a Deputy Surveyor and whether this office has authority to send U. S. Deputy Surveyors into any state to survey land for private owners. You state this man Hooper claims that he has been a U. S. Deputy Surveyor since 1895, and has power conferred upon him by this office to tear up and burn all corners set by private surveyors without a test of their correctness in the courts.

In reply, you are advised that no such person has been appointed, authorized or empowered, either to investigate or to make resurveys of public land lines in any state and the office of the U. S. Deputy Surveyor has been abolished for a number of years and only in Alaska are surveyors given this title at the present time.

Very respectfully,
(Singned) C. M. BRUCE,
Assistant Commissioner.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

There will be public speaking at the following times and places in the interest of the Republican party, by Judge Reynolds and Hon. J. O. Middleton:

Enterprise, Beat 6, Friday night, Sept. 22nd at 7:30.

All voters and citizens are invited and requested to be present.

NOTICE

Any one who brings wheat to the Thorsby Roller mill please bring the wheat on the first four days in the week. On Friday and Saturday I grind corn.

F. E. GRONQUIST.

FARM HOMES

In good community with excellent schools, good roads and productive soil, is what we are offering you. We own farms in Autauga, Chilton, Clay, Coosa, Randolph and Tallapoosa counties. Tell us what you want, we can help you. Before you buy sell or exchange, see or write

THE MARBURY LUMBER CO.
Marbury, Ala.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble
ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NOTES

The enrollment at Thorsby Institute, which was larger than ever before on the opening day last week, has continued to grow, and reached 71 on Tuesday of this week. Others are expected in this week, and the prospects are that the 100 mark will be reached and passed by Christmas. The fact that these students come from nineteen different counties of Alabama shows how widely known Thorsby Institute has become through out the state.

An additional house has been rented for the accomodation of the large number of young men who have come to the Boarding Department, and the dining room is being enlarged and other improvements made at the Girls' Dormitory.

The Annual Reception by the Ladies' Guild was given at Bates Hall last Friday night, and was quite largely attended. Among the enjoyable features of the evening were the piano and violin solos rendered by Miss Akard, which were heartily encored. The Music Department promisis to be more popular than ever before.

A new water tank is being built upon the tower at the water works, and a new well will be dug, thus insuring a doubly reliable supply of water. The entire waterworks plant is being overhauled under the direction of Mr. I. E. Barber of Elmore.

A class in Home Nursing is one of the new features offered for the first time this year. This work will be given under the direction of Miss Marion B. Clark, who has been pursuing special studies for the past year. This class is open to the women of the community as well as to the students in school. It meets at the Teachers' Cottage at 3:10 on Tuesdays.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Coopers Lodge 411 I. O. O. F. will have a public speaking at Chestnutt creek church Cooper, Ala., Tuesday Sept. 28th. The public is cordially invited to attend especially brother Odd Fellows and their families, all bringing well filled baskets.

W. R. DURDEN, N. G.
C. D. HUGHES, Sec.

DRIVES 26 MILES TO TELL HIS EXPERIENCE

Gains Fifteen Pounds and Feels Like New Man—Lived on Milk and Eggs

When Jos. M. Vinson, a prosperous farmer of Love, Miss., stopped his mud spattered automobile in frot of Jacob's Pharmacy, Memphis, a few days ago and went in to see the Tanlac man, he said:

"I have just come twenty-six miles to tell you what Tanlac did for me. I own a good farm and had everything a man could want except good health, and I just want to tell you I now have as good health as anybody and I'm fifteen pounds heavier than I was when I began taking Tanlac thirty days ago. Three years ago my stomach got all out of order and I have been going down hill ever since.

I couldn't digest anything and for eight solid months I lived on the white of eggs and buttermilk. I was so nervous it was impossible for me to sleep. I suffered so much misery and swelling in my stomach I couldn't button my pants or underwear. My head ached so bad it felt like it would pop open and I was very bilious and would vomit up my food undigested. I could hardly get my breath at times and would get dizzy blind and almost faint.

"I'm now a new man and a new farmer and feel just like everything is bright for me, and three bottles of Tanlac did the work. I eat just anything I want now—anything any other man can—day or night. The fact that I have gained fifteen pounds is proof of how healthy I am and how my food agrees with me. I sleep like a log every night and can work hard every day. All the misery and swelling have left my stomach and those terrible smothering spells have stopped bothering me. I wouldn't be in the fix I was in before I took Tanlac for my whole farm, stock and everything. Good health beats everything else. Everybody in my section knows the shape I was in and know that I am a different man. I felt it my duty to give my statement and after thinking it over last night I decided the longer I waited the longer I might be keeping others from knowing about Tanlac. If anybody wants to hear from me personally as to what Tanlac did for me just tell them to write me, Route 2, Box 16, Love, Miss."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co, in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon, in Jemison by Langston Drug Co, in Thorsby by A. K. Horn & Son, in Cooper by McSwain Mercantile Co, in Verbena by Gulledge Bros. in Marbury by Platteon Drug Co, in Riderville by E. E. ackson, Lumber Co, in Stanton by W. C. Dyer, and in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co.

GIRLS CLUB WORK

Remember your day at the fair, Thursday, Nov. 2nd.

Girls we want something there from each one of you for our own special tent. On your help depends the success of the day.

Boys a portion of the tent is yours, select now some of the finest corn grown on that acre, let the other boys of the county see what you have grown. If you have grown something else on your part of the farm let us have some of it, the tent will be yours as well as the girls.

Help your community by letting others know what you are trying to accompiish for the betterment of the county.

Now that we have a market for them, why not can the surplus sweet potatoes? Many loose them through the winter, they bring a good price and will help supply some cash to buy the few things that cannot be raised on the farm.

The winter garden cards have been sent out and we hope that each one will be returned and the garden is well on its way to help supply the home with a balanced diet and also enough to meet some of the demands from the towns and cities.

Do not forget your lettuce and parsley beds.

How many new members are you securing for your club another year? Bring them with you club day, we will give them a hearty welcome. The work is for every girl in the county and we hope to see even a larger number enrolled next year.

HON .O. D. STREET IS COMING TO CHILTON COUNTY

Hon. O. D. Street, National Republican Committeeman from this state, has consented to come to Chilton county and make speeches in the interest of the Republican party. He will speak at Pletcher, Beat 15, Friday September 29th, at 10 a. m., and at McCary schoolhouse Beat 15, at 2:00 p. m., and at Maple Springs, Beat 10, at 7:00 p. m. He will speak at Cooper on Saturday September 30th, at 10 a. m., and at Jemison, Beat 2, at 2 p. m., and Collins Chapel, Beat 9, at 7:00 p. m.

ROCKY MT.

Camp meeting will begin here Friday night before the second Sunday in Oct. Anybody who wishes to camp with us can camp in the church house as we will have a large tent for services. We want everybody to come and lets have a good time in the Lord's work, as this is undenominational. Bring your camps and come and stay with us for at least 10 days.

C. M. NORTHCUTT.

SINGING

There will be singing at New Salem the fourth Sunday evening in Sept.

Books used will be "Christian Harmony." Everybody come and bring your books.

FARMERS UNION MEETING A GRAND SUCCESS

The Farmers Union meeting of the County held at Mineral Springs last week was a grand success. The first day was devoted to public speaking on farm topics which was very interesting.

The trade unions were ably represented by Prof. J. H. Leath of Birmingham who is an enthusiastic worker for a direct deal between producer and consumer. The club work was represented by Prof. I. B. Kerlin of Auburn.

Some very interesting talks were made by Messrs. J. N. Dennis, W. H. Conway. W. L. Honeycutt, W. S. Cox and others on soil building which is so important for our success.

Everyone in attendace at this meeting will return home with renewed courage. We realize that the growing of cotton is practically at an end in our county and that we are going to prosper as never before as the new system of farming is more practical and feasible. All we need is more education and cooperation as expressed at this meeting. The farmers are beginning to study which is sure to put them on the road to successful farming.

The members are urged to attend every meeting of their local Union and keep posted.

The next session will be Verbena, Dec. 14, 15.

J. M. SMITH,
Co. Sec.

MONEY TO LOAN

WE ARE IN TOUCH WITH AN UNLIMITED SUPPLY OF MONEY, AND CAN NEGOTIATE LONG-TIME LOANS ON FARM LANDS UPON EASY TERMS. IF YOU ARE INTERESTED, CALL ON US.

Middleton & Reynolds.

If you want cheap horses and mules see J. E. Robinson, Sr., Clanton, Ala.

Dr. V. J. Gragg was shaking hands with his many friends in Clanton on last Saturday.

COTTON MARKET

Wednesday quotations for cotton on the Clanton market were for middling 15½ cents.

"The best" school supplies and stationery at Alred's.

MT. PLEASANT

The School Improvement Association took in eleven dollars Saturday night from the play.

Prof. J. W. Lowery and other singers will sing at this place next Sunday afternoon.

D. P. Robinson made a trip to Birmingham last week.

Malcome Manning and wife of Thorsby spent Sunday afternoon at L. O. Vickers'.

We are sorry to state that aunt Julia Oden is on the sick list. Hope she will soon be well.

Rev. A. R. Aldridge and wife and Rev. W. J. Armstrong were visitors at G. H. Massey's Sunday.

B. T. Johnson and wife visited Mrs. Lindsey last Sunday.

M. O. Culp and family spent Sunday at J. J. Culp's.

Mr. and Mrs. Connanche of Thorsby visited at W. M. Pierce's Sunday.

Leonard Eubanks and wife recently visited J. E. Kelley.

Sam Pardue and family and Frank Pardue of Saginaw spent Sunday at J. Wiley Foshee's.

Every tomato club member is urged to be present next Saturday afternoon. We have some important business to look after, also envite everyone interested in the work for next year.

We would like to get all the new members we can. Now is the time to begin.

Everybody that wants our community fair to be a success come to our association meeting Saturday night and bring some one with you.

Rye, Barley, Rape, Clover and Turnip seeds at Alred Drug Co.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, Chilton County.

To any Sheriff of the State of Alabama—Greeting:

Whereas, M. M. Abrams joint owner, together with C. W. Abrams, J. M. Abrams J. A. Abrams, Elizah Abrams and Alberta Mosley has filed his aplication in said Court for a sale of the lands described therein, belonging to said joint owners, for the purpose of partition and division, and the 30th day of September 1916 has been apointed for the hearing of said application.

You are, therefore, hereby commanded to cite Eliza Abrams, James M. Abrams, Alberta Mosley, (Odessa Texas,) J. A. Abrams to appear before the said Court on said 30th day of September 1916, to contest said application if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this 7th day of September 1916.

E. B. DEASON,
Judge of Probate.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Cold Looks are Easy with Magnolia Balm.

Look as good as your clothes do. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle Magnolia Balm will surely clear your skin. Heals Sunburn, too. Just a little on your face and rub it in. Simple and sure to please. Try a bottle to-day and begin the improvement at once. White, Pink and Rose-Red Colors. 75 cents at Druggists or by mail direct.

SAMPLE FREE.

LYON MFG. CO., 40 So. 5th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

LUMBER

I have on hand at Clanton, and Jemison, several Thousand Feet of

Steam Kiln Dried

LONG LEAF YELLOW PINE FLOORING AND CEILING WILL SELL AT A BARGAIN

Come and see or write

Joe Van Derveer, Jr.,

CLANTON, ALA.

Suits Cleaned and Pressed

Clothes called for and delivered promptly. Very best machine work, with guarantee of satisfaction.

Clanton Dry Cleaning Company

Telephone 75-30.

UGH! CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS MY WAY

Just Once! Try "Dodson's Liver Tone" When Bilious, Constipated, Headachy—Don't Lose a Day's Work.

Liven up your sluggish liver! Feel fine and cheerful; make your work a pleasure; be vigorous and full of ambition. But take no nasty, dangerous calomel, because it makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

Listen to me! If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning, because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and cannot salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—Adv.

W. L. DOUGLAS

"THE SHOE THAT HOLDS ITS SHAPE"

$3.00 $3.50 $4.00 $4.50 & $5.00 FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Save Money by Wearing W. L. Douglas shoes. For sale by over 9000 shoe dealers. The Best Known Shoes in the World.

W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom of all shoes at the factory. The value is guaranteed and the wearer protected against high prices for inferior shoes. The retail prices are the same everywhere. They cost no more in San Francisco than they do in New York. They are always worth the price paid for them.

The quality of W. L. Douglas product is guaranteed by more than 40 years experience in making fine shoes. The smart styles are the leaders in the Fashion Centres of America. They are made in a well-equipped factory at Brockton, Mass., by the highest paid, skilled shoemakers, under the direction and supervision of experienced men, all working with an honest determination to make the best shoes for the price that money can buy.

Boys' Shoes Best in the World $3.00 $2.50 & $2.00

Ask your shoe dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes. If he cannot supply you with the kind you want, take no other make. Write for interesting booklet explaining how to get shoes of the highest standard of quality for the price, by return mail, postage free.

LOOK FOR W. L. Douglas name and the retail price stamped on the bottom.

W. L. Douglas President

W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., Brockton, Mass.

Just Right.

"A penny for your thoughts, dear."

"I was thinking of that exquisite perfume and its cost."

"Ah! I knew your thoughts were about a scent's worth."

THIS IS THE AGE OF YOUTH.

You will look ten years younger if you darken your ugly, grizzly, gray hairs by using "La Creole" Hair Dressing.—Adv

Edwin Woodring, hermit of Allentown, Pa., predicts speedy downfall of Turkey.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills have stood the test of time. Test them yourself now. Send for sample to 372 Pearl street, N. Y.—Adv.

A henpecked man is a silent partner of his wife's woes.

Gratification.

"You go to church more frequently than you used to."

"Yes. And apart from the instruction I derive a great deal of satisfaction from my attendance. It's a great comfort to be where people sing and play fine music without anybody's spoiling it by putting in ragtime words or wanting to dance."

NO MALARIA—NO CHILLS.

"Plantation" Chill Tonic is guaranteed to drive away Chills and Fever or your money refunded. Price 50c.—Adv.

Nothing so enhances the value of a thing as difficulty in obtaining it.

If a sick woman is able to sew she's on the mend.

A million other women have found the same solution these six have

Almost every woman at some time has had a coffee problem. Over a million American women have settled theirs the same way! Read what these six say—

"I recommend Arbuckles' Coffee to my friends. I buy it all the time because it is better coffee."—Miss Ball, Mercer, Ky.

"I use Arbuckles' because it is stronger than 35c coffee and Arbuckles' packages are full 16 oz."—Mrs. Venachen, Coldwater, Kan.

"I have been using Arbuckles' for years, and have always found it the best I ever used."—Mrs. Johnathan Bigrigg, Coshocton, Ohio.

"I have used Arbuckles' for years and think there is no coffee to equal it."—Mrs. J. L. Walper, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

"I have been using Arbuckles' Coffee for years. I think it is the only coffee fit to drink."—Mrs. A. G. Wallihan, Lay, Colorado.

"We have used Arbuckles' Coffee for ten years and have not yet found its superior or equal."—Virgie Hadaway, Bessemer, Ala.

Arbuckles' is the biggest selling, most popular coffee in the United States. Have you tasted it? Get it at your grocer's—either bean or already ground—and serve it in your home. Know why a million other women say that Arbuckles' is the finest coffee they ever tasted!

Make your coffee earn lovely gifts. Save the signature on every Arbuckle wrapper. Arbuckles' premiums are as famous as Arbuckles' Coffee. Write for special premium catalog. Arbuckle Bros., 71-Bm Water St., New York.

ARBUCKLES' COFFEE

The Old Reliable Peter Schuttler Is the Easiest Running Wagon

It is built in the honest old-time way, by expert wagon builders—in the World's Greatest Wagon Factory. That's why it stands the wear without repair, and gives greater service and satisfaction than any other. Your mules can do more work with a Peter Schuttler Wagon—because it runs so much lighter.

Before you buy any other wagon, inquire about the Schuttler.

Send for our free book. Address

Gale-Hooper Co., Memphis, Tenn. Peter Schuttler Co., Chicago, Ill.

WILLIAMS WINS IN CONTEST FOR JUDGE

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DECIDES AGAINST G. L. COMER OF EUFAULA.

NEWS LETTER FROM CAPITAL

Happenings In and About Alabama's State House Interestingly Told.

—Montgomery.

G. L. Comer, of Eufaula, was defeated in his effort to contest the nomination of J. S. Williams, of Clayton, for judge of the Third judicial circuit. In less than three hours after the contest was called, the state democratic committee voted unanimously to sustain the demurrers interposed by the contestee, dismissed the proceedings and declared Judge Williams the nominee of the democratic party.

Nominations to Avoid Vacancies.

What appeared to be a complicated situation was cleared up by the state democratic executive committee in nominating 20 judicial officials appointed by the governor within the six months preceding the general election to be held in November, for the unexpired terms extending from November until the date in January, whe nthe newly elected officials will take office. The committee acted on motion of John Gamble of Troy, who brought up the matter and declared it to be one requiring immediate attention.

The nominations made by the state committee will be certified in the regular way by Chairman Bibb Graves so that the probate judges may be duly notified in order that the names of the nominees shall be printed on the ballots.

It was pointed out that the vacancies could be filled by nomination of the committee or by the governor calling special elections. The former course was deemed most expeditious

Refer Clemency Claims to Board.

The Governor of Alabama has no authority to grant a parole or pardon without referring the application to the State Board of Pardons, according to the declaration of the Board in its report for the last fiscal year, printed copies of which were delivered to the capitol by the State printer The report was filed with Governor Henderson several months ago, but was not made public by him.

The Board of Pardons, in its opinion, referred to the section of the Constitution which creates the Board of Pardons and confers on it the power to examine cases and declares that the Board must make a report but that the failure to do so would give the Governor authority to grant or refuse a parole or pardon at the end of 60 days.

To Probe Prohibition Violations.

Attorney-General Martin is to make an investigation in Montgomery and Mobile in regard to the violation of the prohibition laws. I na statement issued he says:

"Undoubtedly the liquor laws are being openly violated in Montgomery, I have held a conference with Solicitor Seibels and I expect to take up the violations of the law here as soon as possible."

I na previous statement the Attorney-General said:

"I shall investigate conditions in Mobile as soon as possible after the Girard cases are closed and this should be within the next two weeks."

It is charged here that large quantities of liquor are being brought to Montgomery by gasoline launches. The launches anchor at some isolated spot and automobiles convey the liquor to the city.

Kilby Files Notice.

Complying with the corrupt practice act, Thomas E. Kilby, of Anniston, has notified the Secretary of State that he is a candidate for Governor to succeed Governor Charles Henderson and that he has appointed W. A. Darden, Secretary and Treasurer of the Kilby Locomotive Works, as a committee of one to receive and disburse all money which will be used in the promotion of his political interests. Mr. Darden also notified the Secretary of State, that he had accepted the appointment.

W. E. Morris, of Birmingham, announced his candidacy for State Auditor several months ago, being the first perso nto comply with the corrupt practice act for the Democratic primary, which will be held the second Tuesday in August, 1918.

Brigade Reviewed.

The Governor and staff on September 20th, reviewed the Alabama Brigade, which marched to Montgomery from the mobilization camp, while the members of the Tri-State Merchants' Association were gathered in Montgomery. The order was issued by G. J. Hubbard, Adjutant-General, at the command of Governor Henderson. A reviewing stand was erected near the Exchange Hotel and the staff was ordered to report at that point. The staff appeared in service uniform with side arms attached.

New Law Affects Few.

Very few children were affected when the Alabama child labor law became effective September 1, according to Mrs. L. B. Bush, who is in charge of the mill inspection department of the State. Mrs. Bush says there have been no radical changes in the situation since the law became effective, due to the fact all preparations had been made by the cotton mill owners, and other companies, which have been working children under fourteen yars of age.

GIRL COULD NOT WORK

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home from work and suffer a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now and have told lots of girls about it."—Miss CLARICE MORIN, 22 Russell Street, Taunton, Mass.

Thousands of girls suffer in silence every month rather than consult a physician. If girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a safe and pure remedy made from roots and herbs, much suffering might be avoided.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. (confidential) for free advice which will prove helpful.

The Army of Constipation

Is Growing Smaller Every Day.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are responsible—they not only give relief—they permanently cure Constipation. Millions use them for Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sallow Skin.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

Every Woman Wants Paxtine

ANTISEPTIC POWDER

FOR PERSONAL HYGIENE

Dissolved in water for douches stops pelvic catarrh, ulceration and inflammation. Recommended by Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. for ten years. A healing wonder for nasal catarrh, sore throat and sore eyes. Economical. Has extraordinary cleansing and germicidal power. Sample Free. 50c. all druggists, or postpaid by mail. The Paxtex Toilet Company, Boston, Mass.

WHY NOT TRY POPHAM'S ASTHMA MEDICINE

Gives Prompt and Positive Relief in Every Case. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00. Trial Package by Mail 10c.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props. Cleveland, O.

DR. SALTER'S EYE LOTION CURES SORE EYES

Relieves, cures sore, inflamed eyes in 24 to 48 hours. Helps weak eyes, curing without pain. Ask druggist or dealer for SALTER'S—only from REFORM DISPENSARY, 63 S. Broad, ATLANTA, GA.

Beware of Imitations

Loading Guns With Air.

Jack Tar knows what it means to tote heavy shells around ship, but Jack Tar will not need to worry about this duty longer, according to the Popular Science Monthly. Ammunition is now loaded by pneumatic tube straight from the magazine to the firing turret. An intricate mechanism prevents the shells from entering the breeches of the guns at great speed and also prevents any mistake in firing.

MOTHER, ATTENTION!

Gold Ring for Baby Free.

Get a 25c Bottle of Baby Ease from any drug store, mail coupon as directed and gold ring (guaranteed), proper size, mailed you. Baby Ease cures Bowel Complaints and Teething Troubles of Babies.—Adv.

The Kind.

"A little bird told me you fellows are out for a good time tonight."

"I guess it must have been the lark we're going on."

SAVE A DOCTOR'S BILL

by keeping Mississippi Diarrhoea Cordial handy for all stomach complaints. Price 25c and 50c.—Adv.

A check of brass may enable a man to acquire gold.

OH! MY BACK

A stubborn backache is cause to suspect kidney trouble. When the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, stooping brings a sharp twinge in the small of the back, that almost takes the breath away. Soon there may be other symptoms; scanty, painful or too frequent urination, headaches, dizziness, or rheumatic pains. Don't wait for these troubles to become serious—use Doan's Kidney Pills at once. You'll find no better-recommended remedy.

An Alabama Case

Mrs. R. D. Gossett, 58 S. Conception St., Mobile, Ala., says: "The pains in my back, hips and limbs were awful and I was confined to my room for a month. I was as helpless as a child and I screamed with pain. I had no control over the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I am now free from the trouble."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Ask for and Get SKINNER'S

THE HIGHEST QUALITY MACARONI

36 Page Recipe Book Free

SKINNER MFG. CO., OMAHA, U.S.A.

LARGEST MACARONI FACTORY IN AMERICA.

Music for All the Family. Send for This Big Book Today.

10c and This Coupon Brings You the Big 101-Song Book.

containing words and music of 101 favorite songs of the past and present. The biggest and best song book ever offered to the music-loving public. Will help you to pass many happy hours of song and music. No home should be without it.

THE CORLEY COMPANY,

The House That Made Richmond Musical.

215 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Contains songs for Thanksgiving, Christmas, schools, patriotic and college songs.

COUPON.

Name

Address

TURNS DARK SKIN LIGHT, soft as velvet. Radio-Ex Cream made from Radium ore. Heals eruptions of the face and skin. Send 50c for ox. jar and literature. Radio Chemical Laboratory, Pleasantville, N. J.

IN THESE TIMES of advanced prices on Dry Goods, Ladies' Dress Goods especially, let me save you money. Goods prepaid. Send for samples. SQUARE DEAL, Barrett Summit, Kent.

"ROUGH on RATS" Ends Rats, Mice, Bugs. Die outdoors. 15c and 25c.

The Limit.

"What a pessimist he is!"

"Yes, indeed. Even misery shuns his company."

NEVER HAD A CHILL After Taking ELIXIR BABEK

"My little daughter, 10 years old, suffered nearly a year with chills and fever, most of the time under the doctor's care. I was discouraged and a friend advised me to try Elixir Babek. I gave it to her and she has never had a chill since. It completely cured her." Mrs. Cyrus Helms, 302 E St., N. E., Washington, D. C. Elixir Babek 50 cents, all druggists or by Parcels Post prepaid from Kloczewski & Co., Washington, D. C.

His Limit.

"Did young Spender listen to you at all when you spoke to him about the bill he owes us?"

"Oh, yes; he paid close attention."

"Humph! That's all he ever will pay."

FIERY RED PIMPLES

Soothed and Healed by Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trial Free.

Smear the affected skin with Cuticura Ointment on end of finger. Let it remain five to ten minutes. Then wash off with plenty of Cuticura Soap and hot water. Dry without irritation. Nothing like Cuticura for all skin troubles from infancy to age.

Free sample each by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cutfcura, Dept. L, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

All the Comforts of Home.

"I shouldn't call this a desirable apartment," said the lady who was looking for rooms. "There's a saloon only three doors away."

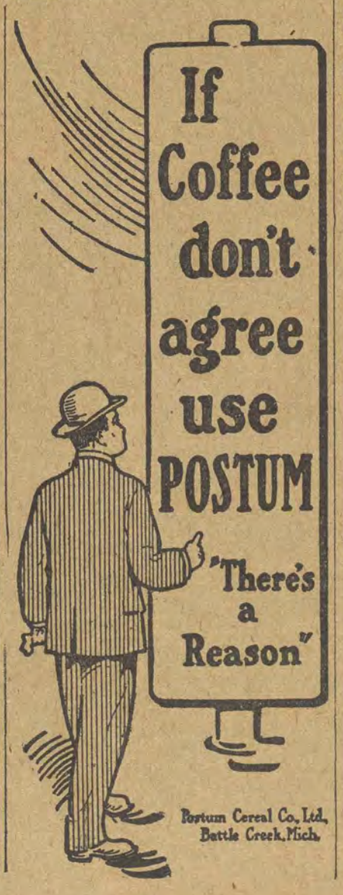
"That's just the point," replied the agent. "Think what a comfort it will be to know that your husband is never far from home."—New York Globe.

Not Perfect.

"How are you making out with your new motor boat? Learned to run it yet?"

"Oh, yes. That boat takes me anywhere I want to go."

"that's fine."



"The only trouble is it won't bring me back."

Opportunity.

The train was passing through a prohibition state, and the hardware drummer had forgotten to provide himself with a flask. When the train stopped at a little station he got out and asked a native on the depot platform if there was any place in town where he could get a drink.

"You're just a day too late, stranger," he replied sadly. "The sheriff raided every place in town last night and confiscated all the booze They're tryin' the fellers that sold it up to the courthouse right now."

"Lead me to that courthouse," commanded the drummer, pressing a coin into the native's hand. "They might want an expert up there to sample that stuff and tell 'em what it really is."

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

GRAND AMERICAN HANDICAP

The Greatest Trapshooting Event of the Year, Won with Winchester "Repeater" Shells.

The Grand American Handicap, the trapshooting classic, equivalent to the World's Series in Baseball, the highest honor the world has to bestow in trapshooting, the event that marks the climax in the trapshooter's career, was won by Capt. J. F. Wulf, of Milwaukee, with the wonderful score of 99x100 from the 19-yard mark. In making this great win he shot Winchester "Repeater" loaded shells.

The National Amateur Championship was won by F. M. Troeh, of the State of Washington. Mr. Troeh also took second place for National Amateur Championship at Doubles. He also won the Mound City Overture, and the General Average on all targets, and General Average on 16-yard targets. In winning all these events, Mr. Troeh used a Winchester repeating shotgun.

The Women's National Championship, the first event of the kind ever staged at a Grand American Handicap, was won by Mrs. J. D. Dalton, of Warsaw, Indiana, with a Winchester repeating shotgun.

The Dunspaugh Trophy, emblematic of the Professional Championship, was won by Phil R. Miller with a Winchester repeating shotgun.

The Hercules All-round Amateur Championship was won by Edw. L. Bartlett, of Baltimore, with Winchester loaded shells. This was a hard match to win, as it called for 50 singles at 18, 20, 22 yards, respectively, and 25 doubles at 16 yards.

This was a great cleanup for Winchester guns and shells and a demonstration of their wonderful shooting qualities.

Don't expect a soft answer when you call men hard names.

Cheap Cooking Range.

An electrical toy range has lately been invented which can be made of real utility in a small apartment. At a demonstration recently given a hearty meal for five persons was cooked at the expense of 12 cents' worth of current. The little stove includes an oven and six small hot plates. The meal cooked included a five-pound roast, boiled potatoes, biscuit, macaroni, two small apple pies and apple sauce. Of course each result was only obtained at that cost by a skilled demonstrator, but the tiny electric range has great possibilities, for the adult housekeeper as well as for the small girl it was designed to amuse.

To Fortify the System Against Summer Heat

Many users of Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic make it a practice to take this old standard remedy regularly to fortify the system against the depressing effect of summer heat, as those who are strong withstand the heat of summer better than those who are weak. Price 50c.

More War.

Mrs. Styles—I want one of those new military bonnets.

Mr. Styles—How much are they?

"Only nineteen dollars."

"I can't afford that, and I don't see why you want a military bonnet. You're not going to fight, are you, my dear?"

"I am if I don't get the bonnet."

DON'T GAMBLE

that your heart's all right. Make sure. Take "Renovine"—a heart and nerve tonic. Price 50c and $1.00.—Adv.

F. C. Fisher, eighty-eight, of St. Louis, Mo., wants to enlight to fight Mexicans. Fought 'em in 1846.

Sties, Granulated Eyelids, Sore and Inflamed Eyes healed promptly by the use of ROMAN EYE BALSAM.—Adv.

Uruguay has bought a dredge built in Holland.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Thousands of Suffering Women Have Found Relief by Using . . . Stella-Vitæ

This medicine is guaranteed to do for YOU what it has done for others. It corrects the irregularities peculiar to women; tones, strengthens and vitalizes the womanly functions; restores the appetite, clears the complexion, and builds up the wasted energies. Your money back if your are not benefited. Get it today. $1 at your dealers'. Your dealer will explain the guarantee.

THACHER MEDICINE CO., CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

Unsuspected Efficiency.

The bureau of plant industry is endeavoring to improve tobacco by scientific study of the different brands. To eliminate the personal equation in smoking and to secure uniformity of conditions the bureau has a carefully regulated apparatus for testing the burning quality of cigars. The "pull" on the cigar is secured by means of an aspirator, which is filled by a continuous inflow of water and emptied at regular intervals by a siphon. The "pull" occurs at intervals of 30 seconds and lasts for a period of ten seconds. The apparatus smokes four cigars of the perfecto type in about 30 minutes.—Tobacco.

OLD PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK KIDNEYS

A medicinal preparation like Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, that has real curative value almost sells itself. Like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a physician's prescription. It has been tested for years and has brought results to countless numbers who have suffered.

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fufills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

Do not suffer. Get a bottle of Swamp-Root from any druggist now. Start treatment today.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Its Purpose.

"So this is the prison laundry?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"I suppose you wash and iron the convicts here."

Dr. Peery's "DEAD SHOT" is an effective medicine for Worms or Tapeworm in adults or children. One dose is sufficient and no supplemental purge necessary.—Adv.

Paradoxical.

"That fellow has a screw loose."

"He doesn't mend matters by getting tight."

Spartan Women Suffered Untold Tortures but who wants to be a Spartan? Take "Femenina" for all female disorders. Price 50c and $1.00.—Adv.

But you can't get rid of your stenographer by marrying her.

Help to Indians.

Bacon—I see Choctaws and Creeks living in Texas have scarcely anything traditional left except their speech, and many of them can't speak English.

Egbert—Well, I know a lot of women who can tell 'em where they can get more paint and feathers.

NOW IS THE TIME TO TAKE LUNG-VITA

"Ever since I was a small boy I have been troubled with asthma," says Mr. J. W. Etheridge, Bandera, Texas. "I tried everything that was recommended but nothing seemed to give me permanent relief. In 1915 Lung-Vita was recommended. I have taken four bottles and have not had a spell of asthma since I began its use." Are YOU neglecting this great aid to health in consumption and asthma? If so, you are depriving YOURSELF of a fair chance. Get a bottle from your dealer or if he hasn't it order direct TODAY. Fifteen-day treatment $1.00; thirty-day treatment $1.75. Booklet upon request. NASHVILLE MEDICINE CO., Dept. T, Nashville, Tenn.

Eddy's BLACK PILLS

have often been tried and never denied to be the proper Liver Agitator.

NINE PEOPLE out of every ten are sufferers.

It effects some to indicate Heart Trouble, others Indigestion and Loss of Appetite, some with Headache, Backache and Sleepless Nights. These sufferers buy all kinds of expensive Medicine, when a few doses of Eddy's Black Pills would offer prompt relief. Price 25 cents at your Druggist, or mailed on receipt of price.

E. W. Gallenkamp, Ph. G. '75. Washington, Mo.

Avoid Appendicitis, Malaria, Piles and Rheumatism.

ECZEMA!

"Hunt's Cure" is guaranteed to stop and permanently cure that terrible itching. It is compounded for that purpose and your money will be promptly refunded without question if Hunt's Cure fails to cure Itch, Eczema, Tetter, Ring Worm or any other skin disease. 50c the box.

For sale by all drug stores or by mail from the

A. B. Richards Medicine Co., Sherman, Tex.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, SEPTEMBER 28, 1916. NUMBER 26.

ALLIES CAPTURE 55,800 GERMANS

Of This Number The French Took Over 34,000 Men Since The Offensive Began, July 1

FIGHTING IN CARPATHIANS

Teutons Admit Reverse In Carpathians, But Declare Russians Have Been Repulsed Elsewhere

London.—On the Somme front, in France, the French and British forces have made additional gains. General Haig's men made progress toward Bapaume, while General Foch's soldiers, who apparently have begun another effort to eject the Germans from Combles and its salient in the entire entente line north of the Somme, also met with success.

After the checking of German attacks southeast of Combles, between Le Priez farm and Bancourt, the end of the French part of the entente line, which almost encircles the town, the French undertook local operations on the outskirts of Combles itself.

General Haig's troops straightened out their line between Martinpuich and Flers, a distance of about one mile, by taking two lines of German trenches. The British front there now runs on a direct line north of the two villages. London also records improvement of other positions on the British front.

It is officially announced in Paris that the number of prisoners taken by the Anglo-French forces on the Somme from July 1 to September 18 amounted to more than 55,800. Of these 34,050 fell into the hands of the French.

Berlin and Vienna admit a reverse in the Carpathians in the Russian capture of the summit of Smotrec height, which previously had changed hands many times, but declare Russian attacks in Volhynia and southern Bukowina were checked.

West of Lutsk, in Volhynia, the Germans again repulsed Russian attacks, capturing seven hundred and fifty prisoners and several machine guns, according to Berlin, and Russian assaults in Galicia, north of Sboroff, and in the region of Dorna Watra, on the border of Bukowina and Roumania, were frustrated.

KINGDOM OF GREECE NOW ONLY A NAME

King's Authority Almost Gone and Venizelos Will Organize The Revolutionary Movement

London.—After saying that the removal of the Greek censorship will permit the truth being told, a correspondent hints at the likelihood of former Premier Venizelos leaving Athens for one of the districts where a revolution has been started, where he will be able to organize the whole revolutionary movement.

"The kingdom of Greece," says the correspondent, "is now only a name. Saloniki, Thasos, Lemmos, Chios, Samos and Mytilene no longer are governed from Athens. Crete and Cyclades are about to follow suit. A proclamation of independence has been issued in Epirus; the Larissa district is biding his time, while Phocis and Acarnania are wavering.

"Only Athens and Peloponnesus (Morea) remain, and Athens is placarded with such appeals as 'draw the sword, king, or abdicate.' These and similar appeals appearing on placards and in the press or made from the platform go unpunished, and it is evident that the king's authority is almost gone. Houses in Athens stored with arms for revolutionary purposes are openly guarded and the king does not dare openly to challenge the least act of Venizelos. If Venizelos chooses to leave Athens to lead a separate government elsewhere no one will oppose him."

Potash Has Been Found In Cuba

Washington.—The department of commerce cabled the American consul general at Havana to investigate a published report that millions of tons of potash have been discovered near Motembo, on the Matanzas and Santa Clara border, with deposits averaging 25 per cent pure.

French Vote Huge Credit For The War

Paris.—The chamber of deputies unanimously voted war credits for the remainder of the year, totalling 8,838,000,000 francs. The Socialist party resolved unanimously at a special meeting to vote for the war credits demanded by Finance Minister Ribot. The resolution, while rejecting "any policy of prolonging the war for the sake of conquest," adds: "We are ready to make every effort to insure the territorial integrity of a France which includes Alsace Lorraine, which belong to France."

Great Britain Delays Answer To U. S.

Washington.—Great Britain's delay in answering the American note regarding mail seizures, sent to London, May 24, is believed by allied diplomats here to be due largely to a desire to give first a practical working demonstration of changes recently instituted in censoring methods, notably with regard to shipping documents. They declare the practice of expediting the handling of such papers by passing them through the censor's office in special marked packets already has removed one of the causes.

CROP CONDITIONS REPORTED

GOVERNMENT REPORT SAYS THE WEATHER HAS BEEN TOO COOL FOR COTTON

Picking And Ginning And Harvesting Going On In Other States

Washington.—Cool weather in North Carolina and parts of South Carolina has caused some damage to cotton, but picking and ginning is proceeding under favorable conditions in most of the Southern states, according to the weather crop bulletin issued by the weather bureau. The bulletin adds that most of the tobacco crop in Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee has been housed and is being cured.

"The weather was too cool for cotton in North and South Carolina," says the report, "and progress in the first named state was unsatisfactory, there being complaints of boll rot and other deterioration, although some picking was in progress. The weather favored picking and ginning almost everywhere, and the work is proceeding rapidly in northern and central South Carolina, southern Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Arizona.

Considerable damage was done to tobacco in Ohio lowlands by frost, and much of the crop is yet in the field. Frost damage in Wisconsin, while serious, was not general, as most of the crop had already been harvested. Tobacco in New England is nearly all harvested and the quality is good. In Pennsylvania the crop has matured and cutting has begun, while the bulk of the crop has been housed and is being cured in Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee. Rains have improved Maryland tobacco and a good crop is promised."

Another week of generally favorable weather has aided grain harvesting and threshing over most of the country, the bulletin says, although rain recently has caused some delay and damaged grain still in the shock in west-central Minnesota.

Frost did considerable damage during the week to late corn in several northern states, while in most of the Middle and Southern states good crops are expected. Because of the hot and dry summer, white potatoes are only fair to poor in many sections, and almost a failure in Ohio. Meadow and forage crops are reported good.

GREAT BRITAIN APOLOGIZES TO THE UNITED STATES

For The Holding Up Of The Steamer Cebu In The Philippine Waters

Washington.—Great Britain formally expressed to the United States regret for the action of a British destroyer in holding up and examining the Philippine steamer Cebu within the territorial waters of the Philippines. Because of a heavy fog, it was explained, the destroyer commander did not know the vessel was so near shore.

In the absence of Ambassador Spring-Rice, Colville Barclay, counselor of the British embassy, called at the state department at the request of Foreign Secretary Grey and presented the explanation and expression of regret. Department officials said later the incident was regarded as closed.

The Cebu was boarded and examined a mile and a half off the island of Carabao, the boarding party apparently being in search of a German, who was not found. Governor General Harrison of the Philippines reported the case, denouncing the action as a violation of American neutrality, and a protest immediately was made to London. In the explanation presented the British government declared that "when the Cebu was boarded the land was hidden, but as soon as the weather cleared and it was found that the ship was within territorial waters and the boarding of the officers was recalled, and that the passenger list was examined, but the ship was not searched."

Steamers In Collision Off Virginia

Newport News, Va.—The British steamer Brabandien and the Norwegian steamer L. O. Stensland, were damaged in a collision off the Virginia capes, and came into port for repairs. Men from the ships said that they fouled each other in the heavy fog. Both were inbound for this port.

Millions Homeless As Result Of Flood

Washington.—Nearly a million people have been made homeless by one of the greatest floods on record in that section of China where the American Red Cross already has spent six hundred thousand dollars for flood protection, and where the thirty million dollar loan for reclamation work, which was postponed by the war, was to have been spent. Reports to the state department from the American consul at Nanking said the Hwai river had inundated an area of about seven thousand square miles in Anhui.

Mexican Rebels Getting Obstreperous

Chihuahua City, Mexico.—Revolutionary attacks were made upon Guadalajara, Tampico and Vera Cruz on September 16, simultaneously with Villa's Hidalgo day attack upon this city. General Trevino announces a revised list of the casualties in the engagement here. The government losses in killed and wounded he placed at fifty-three, while the Villa casualties he estimated at between two hundred and two hundred and fifty, including ninety-four prisoners taken and executed

THE FLAG AND THE MAN!

BLAMES HIS PARTY

UNDERWOOD'S CRITICISM OF WILSON AND CONGRESS.

Alabama Statesman Brave Enough to Tell the Truth About the "Settlement" of the Railroad Strike Situation.

"Settling the railroad strike situation" is the title of a ghastly farce enacted in Washington. Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic congress formed the presenting cast.

They have "settled" the matter by deferring it until after election.

Listen to a leading Democrat, Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama, telling the truth about what has been done, as he told it in the senate on September 1:

"But when you tell me that my duty to the American people, my duty to my country, my protection of my flag, is served by simply consenting without knowledge to a temporary settlement of a problem that will last but six months by the terms of the settlement and lead to nothing, that I have served the great American people by surrendering my legislative power to the dictation of someone else, then I say that if I must legislate and fail to stand for what I conceive to be the interests of the great American public, they cannot take my commission away from me too quick for my own satisfaction and the benefit of the constituency I represent."

And further:

"We are going to make it a law of the land that for six months this eight-hour day as a basis of wage shall be tried out in this country.

"When the six months are over, what then? If there is nothing more than the eight-hour day, you are where you are today.

"The men have got their pay on an eight-hour basis of pay for six months. There is no guaranty in the bill that the railroad management will continue to pay it at the end of six months. There is no guaranty in the bill that the men themselves will not strike at the end of six months. You have stopped a strike for six months by paying this additional wage, but at the end of six months you are where you are to-day."

Tax Burdens Due to Democrats.

To reach into your pockets for more money to pay for its extravagance, the Democratic administration has invaded the domain of taxation formerly left to the states, compelling the states to seek new sources, and therefore multiplying tax burdens.

In the face of the war, we are buying more goods abroad, under the Democratic Underwood tariff, than we bought under the Republican protective tariff, but we get less revenue out of them. For example, under the protective tariff in the fiscal year 1912, we imported goods to the value of $1,808,000,000, on which we collected customs dues to the amount of $325,340,000, or 18 per cent. In the fiscal year 1916, (ending June 30th), we imported goods to the amount of $2,197,883,000, on which we collected only $211,866,000 or 9.72 per cent, a loss in revenue of $114,474,000.

Absurd Boast.

When Mr. Wilson speaks of the great and wise measures adopted for national defense he must cause the judicious to smile sadly or to groan. If Mr. Wilson's fellow countrymen will realize that although the need for these defense measures has been apparent for two years not a single increment to defense at this time exists anywhere except on paper and cannot exist anywhere else for one or two years more, they will comprehend the irony of this boast.

Common Sense Argument.

The danger of a European trade dump, following the war, is argument quite as much for American preparedness as the more remote danger of a naval war involvement. We must be prepared to take care of ourselves in a trade war or any other kind of war. Are we in a position to look out for ourselves under a tariff based upon the theory that protection of home labor and home enterprise has no concern in the framing of a tariff? Hardly so!

SOMETHING TO THINK OVER

Statistics of American Trade Show Danger That Menaces Country's Most Vital Interests.

Reducing it to dollars and cents, what do we find in regard to American trade during the past few years?

Our exports, exclusive of war supplies, have gone down nearly 40 per cent. Our imports of foreign-made goods, that compete with American-made goods in American markets, have increased, in the case of Canada alone, more than 60 per cent.

Imports from Canada increased from $120,571,180 to $204,018,227, when we compare the figures of the last year under the Republican protective tariff law with those of the present year, under the Underwood non-protective Democratic tariff law.

Exports for the 10-month period from August, 1915, to May, 1916, were $3,601,000,000. Practically two-thirds of these exports were war supplies. Only about $1,300,000,000 consisted of peace products. In the first 10-month period under the Underwood law, October, 1913, to August, 1914, exports totaled $1,952,000,000. These were peace products, the exportation of which had slumped from a total of $2,110,500,000 in the 10-month period from October, 1912, to August, 1913, under the Payne law.

In other words, we are exporting 40 per cent less of peace products and importing 40 to 60 per cent more of foreign goods under Democratic non-protective tariff than we did under the Republican protective tariff.

It takes no expert mathematician to figure the meaning of this business showing, or the ruinous consequences when peace prevails in Europe. Just think it over.

VOTERS KNOW THE TRUTH

Country Has Always Been Prosperous When the Republican Party Held the Reins of Power.

Incapacity for governing is charged against the Republican party by Woodrow Wilson in his speech accepting the Democratic nomination for president. This kind of partisan chatter may please the violent partisans in Democratic ranks, but will be smiled at by most people acquainted with the recent history of our country.

The greatest progress in American history and the highest prosperity ever attained by the United States came in the 16-year period of Republican party government from 1897 to 1913. In this period the Republican party not only put on the books of the nation a vast amount of wise legislation, but it gathered the material on which practically all the good features of legislation in the past four years were based.

Candidate Wilson discussed the currency law at length, claiming a great Democratic achievement therein. But it was the labor of years by Nelson W. Aldrich, Republican senator from Rhode Island, and by Julius C. Burrows, Republican senator from Michigan, that provided the data for the drafting of the currency law. And, in addition, when his own majority party members were in revolt against the administration measure it was to the Republican members of congress that President Wilson turned with an appeal for aid, and from whom he received it. The Democrats conveniently forget that when there is a little credit to be claimed.

May Boost Appropriations.

Appropriations for this congress are but a half-billion larger than for any previous congress. Tut, tut! Why mention such a small matter? Let us go ahead and indorse the extravagance of this congress and the next Democratic congress may boost appropriations up another $500,000,000 —Sioux City Journal.

Needs More Backing.

Senator Underwood has made a vigorous defense of his pet child, the administration tariff law, but the defense would be much more impressive were it backed with facts, figures, and revenues instead of with what might have been.

Comes Somewhat Late.

The touching affection of the Wilson administration for the Progressives would be more satisfying if it had been manifested when there was pie to be distributed.

BARBOUR SEEKS TO DRIVE OUT "TICKS"

PETITIONS BEING SIGNED, ASKING PROBATE JUDGE TO CALL AN ELECTION.

TAX COLLECTOR UNDER BOND

Charles E. King of Penny County Makes Good Alleged Shortage in Accounts.

Eufaula.—Petitions are being circulated over Barbour County for an election on tick eradication, which would quarantine this county against tick-infested cattle. The petition is adddressed to the Probate Judge and is being readily signed wherever presented and it is thought that the election will carry when held, either in October or November.

MAKES UP ALLEGED SHORTAGE.

Tax Collector of Perry County Placed Under Bond.

Marion.—Charles E. King, Jr., tax collector of Perry county, was arrested following an indictment by the grand jury charged with embezzlement and made bond in the sum of $5,000, with W. E. Curb, Dr. S. A. Gordon, E. L. Gayle and E. F. King as bondsmen. Practically the whole of the amount due the county was paid into the county treasury by relatives and bondsmen.

EDITOR'S INJURIES FATAL.

Jourd White, Dean of State Newspapermen Dies in Hospital.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The body of Jourd White, Editor of the Moulton Advertiser, who died here in Erlanger Hospital from injuries received when struck by an automobile, were shipped to Moulton where the body was laid to rest.

Editor White was 69 years of age and probably was the dean of all newspaper men in Alabama. The Moulton Advertiser has been in the hands of the White family three-quarters of a century and Jourd White was its editor a greater part of the time.

Three Years For Slaying Son-in-Law.

Florence.—Robert Hinton, white-haired citizen of Lauderdale County, accused of the murder of his son-in-law, Clarence Dowdy, must serve three years in the penitentiary for manslaughter, according to a decision of a jury in the Lauderdale Circuit Court. The case presents some remarkable features and has created much interest here. Dalton Dowdy, four-year-old son of the deceased and grandson of the defendant, Hinton, was given into the custody of his grandparents at the age of one year, when his mother, Hinton's daughter, died. Last April Dowdy married again and in the absence of the grandfather, went to Hinton's home and took the child. He was met in the road by Hinton and as the two talked, the wife of Hinton came up in tears and informed him that Dowdy was taking the boy to keep, it is said. Dowdy's death followed a difficulty.

Mill Operators Begging For Cars.

Mobile.—Large delegations of sawmill operators caled upon Vice President and General Manager R. V. Taylor, of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, to get cars to move lumber from the interior to markets. Ten mill owners from Tuscaloosa, four from Carrollton, Pickens County, Alabama, and others representing the Southwest Alabama Lumber Manufacturers Association.

River Warehouse Yields Much Beer.

Mobile.—Five hundred and eighty cases of beer were seized here by detectives from the Police Department from a warehouse on the river front. The beer had been shipped here by schooners from Pensacola and consigned to fictitious persons, according to Chief of Police C. M. Vanilew. The beer is valued at $4,000.

Fireman, Caught Under Pilot, Dies.

Tuscumbia.—Funeral services were held for Charles H. Butler, extra locomotive engineer on the Memphis division of the Southern Railway, who died here after having been caught under his engine, local east bound, which he was firing for Engineer Homer Stewart, at Leighton.

Girard Case Set for October.

Montgomery.—Nearly 125 cases, growing out of the liquor raids in Russell County, will be tried at the regular term of the Russell County Circuit Court, which will begin at Seale on October 2.

To Fine Labor Enticers.

Montgomery.—Persons, who attempt to persuade laborers to leave Montgomery for positions in other sections will be subject to a fine of from $1 to $100 and to imprisonment at hard labor for six months under an ordinance adopted by the City Commission. Another ordinance adopted by unanimous vote of the Commission prohibits any person from distributing handbills intended to persuade laborers to leave the city. The intent of the ordinance is to prevent labor agents from operating in Montgomery.

GOOD ROADS MEN TO MEET.

Permanent Association to Promote Birmingham-Atlanta Road to be Formed.

Birmingham.—Advocates of three routes of the proposed Memphis-Birmingham-Atlanta highway will meet in Birmingham October 6 and 7 to perfect the organization of a permanent association to promote the construction of this road, and the supporters of each of the routes will present the claims of their respective territories.

One set of advocates are pushing the claims of the road from Memphis via Florence, Tuscumbia, Sheffield, Russellville on to Jasper. Another set of advocates are urging this road to be built from Memphis through Mississippi, Winston County, Hamilton, Guin and on to Jasper. Advocates of the road from Birmingham are urging the location and building of the highway from Pell City via Talladega, entering Georgia at Tallapoosa and on to Atlanta. Others are pushing the route from Pell City to Lincoln, Anniston and on to the Georgia line. The third route is proposed via Talladega, Sylacauga, Goodwater, Alexander City, Dadeville, LaFayette, Lanett, Ala., and on to Atlanta. It is predicted that one of the greatest and most enthusiastic good road conventions will assemble in Birmingham on October 6.

BOX CAR SHORTAGE ACUTE.

No Relief Is Seen and It Is Likely Situation Will Grow Worse.

Birmingham.—With the Louisville and Nashville Railroad short 14,000 freight cars of its own rolling stock and other lines tntering Birmingham in like proportion, shippers of the district are experiencing an almost unprecedented condition.

Cars are simply not to be had, was the word from the freight offices of the Alabama Great Southern.

"On August 31, only 27 per cent. of the rolling stock of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad was on its tracks," said R. L. Clary, General Agent of the railroad for the Birmingham District. "Even with the foreign cars on our lines, we on that date were short more than 14,000 cars."

NEW HEARINGS DENIED.

Judge Alston Refuses New Trials to Phelps, Edmunds and Oakes.

Montgomery.—Applications for new trials of the cases of John Oakes, C. C. Phelps and Ben Edmunds, convicted in the Russell Circuit Court, following the liquor raids at Girard, were denied by Judge A. H. Alston, Supernumerary Judge, and the cases were appealed to the Supreme Court by Frank M. DeGraffenreid, attorney for the defendants, according to word received here. DeGraffenreid recited numerous instances which he claimed were conditions to warrant the setting aside of the cerdicts.

KILLED IN AUTO WRECK.

Prominent Elmore County Man Dies When Machine Turns Turtle.

Montgomery.—Colonel H. R. Golson, aged 54, one of the most prominent men of Elmore County, was instantly killed and C. G. McMorris, cashier of the First National Bank, of Wetumpka, had his collar bone broken when the automobile in which they were riding turned turtle and fell down a five-foot embankment. The accident occurred eight miles from Montgomery.

PROGRAM FOR STATE REUNION.

Parades, Dancing and Speaking Will Feature Veterans' Meeting

Gadsden.—The time of the several events of the reunion to be held October 11 and 12 has been fixed by the General Arrangement Committee. Only a few more changes and additions remain to be made on the program, which calls for two days full of parades, speaking, dancing and numerous other things.

WILL VISIT IN GADSDEN.

Dr. Shaw to Deliver Address for Steel City Organization.

Gadsden.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, formerly President of the National Suffrage Association, will come to Gadsden under the auspices of the local suffrage organization during November. While here she will make a public lecture at the auditorium, the date for which will be arranged later.

Coosa Contracts For New Highway.

Goodwater.—The Commissioners Court of Coosa let contracts for nearly 25 miles of new graded road within the county. The new work will entail an expenditure of nearly $45,000.

STATE BRIEFS.

Covington county's road bond election comes off on October 7.

Hogs are selling in the wiregrass counties at 11 cents on foot.

Circuit court opens in Colbert, October 2.

Five hundred Confederate veterans and women pensioners died during the last quarter.

As a result of an accident, in which Thomas J. Thrasher of Albany, was killed May 2, Luther S. Thrasher, his administrator, sues Seneca Burr, Mrs. Burr and Wm. R. Spight, a wealthy wholesale grocer, for $20,000. Thrasher alleges a pump near the road on the Burr estate frightened the dead man's team, causing them to run away and kill him.

ALLIES FORCE WAY AROUND COMBLES

TAKE MANY TRENCHES ON LONG LINE—SEVERAL VILLAGES ARE CAPTURED.

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN

Joffre's Army Takes Rancourt and Positions in Region of Fregicourt.

London.—The British troops have captured the villages of Morval and Las Bouqus, together with several lines of trenches on a six-mile front between Combles and Martinpuich, south of the Ancre river, says the official report from British headquarters. This front was penetrated to a depth of more than a mile. Many prisoners were taken and heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans.

Rancourt Captured.

Paris.—In a violent attack launched against German positions extending from Combles to the Somme, the French troops made noteworthy gains, according to the official communication. The town of Rancourt was captured and the Germans' trenches were taken in the region of Fregicourt, between the Combles road to Bouchavesnes and in the vicinity of the Canal Du Nord.

Fate of Combles Sealed.

The capture of Morval by the British and of part of Fregicourt by the French apparently seals the fate of Combles, which the Germans have determinedly held for weeks, despite the violent attacks thrown against it. The defenders of the virtually surrounded town have left to them for escape only the valley a mile in width running northeast, and in the traversing of which they must come under the guns of the British and French respectively from Morval and the vicinity of Fregicourt.

Another notable step in their approach upon Peronne is marked in the capture by the French of trenches in the Canal du Nord region.

Smashing Blow by Allies.

Attacking simultaneously on an arc of 15 miles, running from Martinpuich to the Somme, the British and French forces have delivered another smashing blow on the German lines and pushed forward their positions for notable gains.

From Martinpuich to Combles, a distant of six miles, the British have driven in their wedge to a depth of more than a mile and captured in the attack the important strategic towns of Les Boeufs and Morval, the latter a scant mile north of Combles.

To the French fell the town of Rancourt, two miles east, and the outskirts of Fregicourt, one mile northeast of Combles. In addition, trenches near Fregicourt, in the vicinity of Bouchavesnes and to the south from the vicinity of the Canal Du Nord to the somme, were taken.

AMERICAN EXPORTS INCREASE.

Now Amount to One Half of a Billion Dollars Per Month.

Washington.—American exports finally have passed the half billion dollars a month mark. Statistics issued by the department of commerce show that goods sent abroad in August were valued at $510,000,000, a record not only for this country, but for the world. The total is $35,000,000 above the previous high record, established in May, and $45,000,000 higher than in June.

Imports decreased in August, the total of $199,247,391 being $47,000,000 below that of June, the record month. It was greater, however, than the total for any previous August. Exports for the year ended with August aggregated $4,750,000,000 and the imports $2,300,000,000, both totals being far in advance of those for any similar period.

The favorable trade balance for August was $311,000,000 compared with $119,000,000 in August a year ago, and a balance of $19,000,000 in August, 1914, against the United States. For the 12 months ending August 31 the export balance was $2,465,000,000 as against $1,363,000,000 in the preceding year and $374,000,000 two years ago.

Seaboard Train Is Wrecked.

Norfolk, Va.—A score or more persons were injured when a Seaboard Air Line passenger train, known as No. 12, took a siding at Bowers Hill, a few miles back of Portsmouth, and crashed into a coal train. Three trainsmen and Mrs. Samuel Solomon of Portsmouth, and Mary Darden, a negro, passengers, were brought to a hospital at Portsmouth. Attending surgeons declare that they will recover. A number of other passengers received slight injuries.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

For Probate Judge:
L. H. REYNOLDS.

For Circuit Clerk:
M. D. FOSHEE.

For Tax Assessor:
J. N. DENNIS.

For Tax Collector:
J. DUDLEY COLLINS.

For Commissioner, 3rd District:
W. T. HERROD.

For Commissioner, 4th District:
A. P. VINSON.

For County Board of Education:
Wm. J. BILLINGSLEY
L. A. CALLOWAY
JOHN E. LITTLEJOHN
T. J. DORMINEY
J. M. MIMS.

Been 'possum huntin' yet?

It sometimes makes a fellow twist and squirm mightily when his eyes are first opened and he begins to see himself as others see him.

Defending one libel suit for $100,000 and prosecuting another for $1,000,000, Henry Ford is likely to lose some of his pacifism.

Luther Burbank's turning to Wilson indicates that, having achieved success with the throny cactus, he wants to see what he can do with a lemon.

The certainty that the Eeuropean war will extend into next winter has created a new demand for blankets, and a number of mills are working on that line of products.

The Republican vote in Maine this year is thirty per cent bigger than it was two years ago. A whole lot of voters in Maine have evidently been "watchfully waiting" for a chance to record their convictions.

The district attorney of New York will give out no more interviews on the white slave crusade. Hereafter, he tells the newspapers, it will be "deeds and not words." Here is direct proof of the treachery of Tammany to Wilson, whose motto as everyone knows is "words and not deeds."

The Springfield Republican finds solace in the thought that Maine is a Republican State, anyway, and that "the Democarts have never been strong enough to re-elect a Governor." As for us, we take some solace in that other thought that the Democrats have never been strong enough to re-elect a President since the Republican party came into being.

People in Washington who have viewed Secretary Daniels at close range for more than three years are well-nigh a unit in pronouncing him an ignoramus. We have held to a more lenient judgment—until we found him clinging to the declaration that Maine, in November, regardless of the vote in September, would go for Wilson. Then we gave him up as hopeless. If "a vote for Wilson is a vote for Daniles," and we think it is, we wonder how any man of judgment can vote for Wilson.

"The chief increase was in munitions, but there were also large exports of foodstuffs," is the way our Democratic friends are accustomed to tell of our enlarged foreign trade. But foodstuffs are just as essentially war materials as powder and rifles. You must feed the soldier or he can't fight. In fact, you must feed him before you can get him to the firing line.

During the week ending September ninth the value of the shells and explosives exported from the port of New York was greater than the total value of all commodities exported thence in the corresponding week of 1914 or 1915. Democratic campaign orators in Maine declared that "war orders" have nothing to do with the country's "prosperity". The figures from the Maine election show that Maine voters did not believe this. The figures from the New York custom house show that it is not true.

Maine Guardsmen on the Mexican border were permitted to vote in the late election. They went Republican in the ratio of two to one. If this is to be taken as an indication of the trend of political opinion among the men down there, we will bet a big red apple there will be no "Johnny comes marching home" business before election—because, while there are about 100,000 Guardsmen in Texas, a lot of them com from States that do not permit the voting of soldiers in the field.

Hughe's courage added not a little to the strength of the Republican vote in Maine. He seized upon the false issue which the Democratic President and the Democratic Congress have cloaked behind a so-called "eight-hour-a-day" bill. He exposed it. He denounced legislation by force. He defied Samuel Comners from the same platform where Gompers had appealed to the labor union men to vote for the Democratic nominee. The result is only too evident. The American people admire a man who is not "too proud to fight".

There is one thing certain, and that very certain. It doesn't matter who the Clanton Press lays the responsibility of the county debt upon, we know that the policy of debt is not nor has ever been a part of the platform of the Republican party of Chilton county. And we know further that the Republicans are not going to vote for a man who believes in putting this county in debt for time warrants to build highways.

ONLY A PROMISE

Reduction in the high cost of living, as promised in the Democratic platform of 1912, is a "myth," declared Representative Julius Kahn of Cal., ranking minority member of the House Military Affairs Committee, in a statement given out at Washington.

"In 1912 the Democratic party promised the people of the United States to reduce the high cost of living," said Mr. Kahn. "They fulminated against the protective tariff and blamed the latter for contributing to the increase of prices for food products of all kinds. This is the plank of that platform:

"'The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party in its platform, attempts to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject, and charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws, and we assert that no substantial relief can be secured for the people without import duties on the necessaries of life are materially reduced and these criminal conspiracies broken up.'

"Like many another plank it seems to have been inserted in the platform in the nature of 'molasses to catch flies."

Judge E. B. Deason, Probate Judge of Chilton County, F. A. and W. A. Gulledge of Verbena were visitors in Rockford Monday. This was Judge Deason's first visit to Coosa county since he was a boy just entering into manhood when he taught a school in this county. Messrs. Gulledge were looking after busines matters but the Judge was along for pleasure. The Judge and his court have the honor of building more good roads, perhaps, than any county in the state for the same length of time.—Rockford Chronicle.

We suppose it will not be long till the people of this county will rise up in acclamation and pronounce his name blessed for the great things he and his court have accomplished in the way of good roads construction.

President Wilson's campaign managers are certainly having an embarrassing time explaining his attitude on the equal suffrage question. His former refusal to sanction national legislation on the subject is thus explained: "It has been his custom to adhere strictly to his party declarations," and his party platform declared that the question should be left to the states. But Wilson did not "strictly adhere" to his party declarations on the single term, on economy, on civil service reform,, on Panama Canal tolls, on presidential primaries, or numerous other pledges. He disregarded platform pledges whenever it suited his pleasure. After thus trying to explain his former attitude, the Wilson defenders now try to gain the favor of equal suffragists by intimating that his "rapidly changing views on the subject" indicate that he will later advocate national action. When the Democratic campaigners begin to mention Wilson's vacillation as a virtue, they are treading on thin ice that may let them through to an ignominious end in the cold waters of Salt creek.

It is very evident that principle and not personality is the controlling factor in this campaign. Senator Johnson, of Maine was th emost popular man in his party, and was running against a Republican who had strong personal opposition. But the Republican won, because the business men, the wage earners, the farmers, are not willing to perpetuate a national administration that is unsound in its economic principles and inefficient in its management of public affairs. Even if this were a campaign of personalties, the Republicans would have no fear of the Presidential result, but they prefer a contest on principles and they are winning in that kind of a fight.

A single fact will controvert a whole book full of theories. President Wilson had a theory that free trade would develop our foreign commerce, and he forced the passage of the Underwood bill. During the month of May, 1913, under a Republican tariff law, we exported $61,152,000 worth more of goods than we imported. During May, 1914, with the Underwood tariff in full swing, we imported $2,476,000 worth more of gods than we exported. Comparing the one month in 1914 with the one in 1913, we were $63,600,000 worse off from the stadpoint of foreign commerce. And yet, with this fact before him, President Wilson declared himself still an opponent of a protective tariff. There are none so blid as those who will not see.

In the last issue of our paper there appeared an editorial in which we stated that, in our opinion, the re-election of Mr. Pinckard did not mean an endorsement by the voters of Clanton of Mr. Pinckards administration. It was not in this article, our intention to reflect upon Mr. Pinckard personally; our remarks were addressed to his public career as a public official. And to that extent we are still of the opinion that what we said was correct. As to Mr. Pinckard personally, from our long acquaintance with him, we regard him with esteem. We would not intentionally do him a wrong.

We consider ourselves only in the same attitude toward Mr. Pinckard, that those other citizens who voted against him, viz: No personal enmity to him, but opposed to his public administration.

"In the midst of the big war, by which its own territory was invaded, France was able to turn out in the past year silk piece goods to the amount of $5,715,000 to satisfy the extraordinary demand of this market. A year ago the mills of Lyons, etc., were able to turn out only $8,332,000," says an article in the New York Journal of Commerce. And yet our Democratic friends are assuring us that the nations at war are prostrated industrially, and we will have nothing to fear after the war from our near-free-trade tariff. Germany alone has $1,500,000,000 worth of surplus products to dump on this market as soon as peace is declared. England is increasing her grip on the American market every month. The official figures show it.

Rev. E. W. Butler of Thorsby was in Clanton a short while on Saturday.

Opinions of the People.

LETTER FROM MR. HERROD.

Plantersville, Ala., Sept. 25, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to say a few words to the people through your paper.

The Clanton Press seems to be very much interested about how the vote was cast on the Maplesville road. The fact is that Mr. Waldrup and myself did vote to build a road over the Walker hill, but did not vote to build a road all the way from Clanton to Maplesville, but after seeing the advertisement and that it was going to force us to build a road all the way we rescinded our act not to build any part of it. Now, I never have been in favor of those interest bearing warrants nor never will be. It has been truly said that the road from Calera to Mountain Creek was for the Montgomery and Birmingham people and not the laboring class or rural districts. It seems that all some of our officials want is to be honored by some high fliers.

Why did some of the Clanton RING try to abolish the Commissioners Court and establish a board of revenue to be appointed by the Governor through their recommendation? Simply because they knew that they could not lead the court as they wished to.

Mr. Waldrup and myself have tried to stand by the principles that we were elected on, but they did succeed in handling Mr. Williams just as they wanted to. So they were satisfied and the result is that the county has gone to the limit of its credit. Now this is very unsatisfactory to at least 75 or 80 per cent of the people of the county, and if I am elected in November I expect to do all I can to restore the county to normal conditions. And I am sure that we have the fight won by 2 to 1.

Now, as I have a lot of work to do I cannot see all of the voters of the county, I will ask all of the voters of the Republican party to come out on Nov. 7th, and lets snow the Democrat and Independent ticket under so deep that it will never get a warm breath.

Yours for better government,
W. T. HERROD.

Jemison, Ala., Sept. 25, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Let me have another bit of space this week in reply to the Clanton Press.

They say that I deny the records, which I do not do.

They said at first that all four commissioners voted to build the road costing so and so. This is what I denied. But all four of us did vote to bring the road that was started from Maplesville over the Walker Hill. After this the act was rescinded, which did not make any debt at all.

As to the record, I have no doubt as to the correctness, for the Press seemed to find that all four commissioners voted and rescinded the act, and again only two voted to build the road and two against it. This is the vote that built the road that made the debt, which the Press said all four voted for. This is the part which I deny.

Respectfully,
S. E. WALDRUP.

MT. PLEASANT

The singing at this place Sunday afternoon was well attended and all said it was the best we have had this year. The leaders for the afternoon were J. W. Lowery, R. E. Wyatt, W. G. Clup, C. W. Parrish, G. W. Melton, E. P. Parrish and G. A. Wyatt. The organists were Misses Letie Parrish, Roberta Driver, Precious Caton, Toy Littlejohn and E. P. Parrish. Everybody seemed to thoroughly enjoy the singing. Come again next fourth Sunday afternoon.

G. D. Melton has gone to Winston county to spend a few days.

W. M. Pierce and wife spent Sunday with their son, Mackie, near Mulberry.

J. R. Short of Pletcher spent one night last week with L. O. Vickers.

W. H. Foshee and wife visited at Billie Foshee's Sunday, his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Foshee returning home with him.

Mr. W. A. Dozier and children spent Sunday at A. D. Duke's.

Miss Odie Lindsey spent part of last week with her uncle, T. C. Sharbutte, near Cooper.

Miss Sallie Driver spent a few days last week with Miss Balzie Baxley.

J. C. Jones and wife spent Saturday night at W. G. Clup's.

Mr. Marion Driver and J. E. Kelley made a trip to Birmingham last week.

The School Improvement Association at the regular meeting Saturday night re-elected their same officers for another year, Mrs. L. O. Vickers, President; Miss Delene Pierce, Vice-President; Miss Eula Belle Foshee, Sec. and Treas, also same standing committee.

Leonard Woodfin who has been spending the summer here has returned to South Alabama, and will leave there very soon for Texas, where he expects to make his future home.

Sam Murphy and family spent Sunday with B. Duke.

Miss Lena Wagoner is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lee Knight.

SHORT COTTON CROP

In the fact that the gins in Clanton have announced that after Sept. 30 they will cut down operations to 3 days in a week we find further evidence of the shortness of the cotton crop in this section.

There is not a gin in Clanton that has had a full days run this season. And there is one gin here that has not been fired up at all.

And before the season is hardly begun there comes an announcement that operations will be confined to three days in a week.

We have heard people around here all our life wonder what would become of us if we didn't make any cotton at all. It seems this year we will come very near seeing what will become of us under such conditions.

Hopes for cotton this year have passed. There's nothing to it.

NEW BUSINESS HOUSE

The latest addition to Clanton's list of business houses is the entrance of Mr. J. V. Elmore into the arena.

Mr. Elmore has purchased the stock and fixtures of the Cash Millinery Company, and has opened up in the same building a splendid new and up-to-date line of Ladies and Gents Furnishings.

The proprietor is a young man from Elba, and is well experienced in his line of business. He is an affable gentleman, and we are pleased to welcome him to our town.

MR. DENNIS'S ATTITUDE.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 26, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say that it appears that I have been misquoted or misunderstood on Tick Eradication, while having a vat and dipping my cattle, I am not in favor of making dipping compulsory without the expressed wish of the majority of the people of the county by a fair election and vote on the matter.

In other words, I am in favor of a majority rule of the people in all matters involving the rights of the people. I am opposed to the county going to the expense of holding an election on tick eradication at present and assure one and all that I am in favor of the people having a say in all such matters.

Your very truly,
J. N. DENNIS.

Clanton ,Ala., Sept. 25, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Will you be so kind as to allow me space in your paper in reply to Mr. Lett?

Yes, I have always voted a Republican ticket as long as there was a party in the county. Undoubtedly he knows there hasn't been a Republican ticket in this county in four years, and you know Mr. Lett, that there was no Republican primary election in this county this year as you have stated, and when you say that there was a Republican primary you know that it is untrue. You know that it was a Progressive primary and not a Republican primary. Please tell me what party has abused the Republican party worse than the Progressive party for the last four years. Who went over this county making speeches for the Progressive party and abusing the Republican party? And now those parties claim to be Republicans. You speak about fooling the people, but what does this seem like? Nothing but fooling the people. If you were so deeply interested in the Republican party why didn't you defend it four years ago? And why didn't you write some Republican letters then?

Oh, I forgot to tell you but there wasn't a paper in the county that was a friend to the Republican party at that time.

Now, Mr. Lett, will you tell us why you left the Republican party four years ago? Please tell me when you went back to the Republicans. The last that I knew of you, politically, you were asking the Progressive voters to elect you in their primary as Beat Committeeman. Then in four days afterwards you claimed to be a Republican. Who has changed their politics any more than you have? Please tell me who ask you to represent the voters of Beat 6 in a Republican meeting? Mr. Lett, you need not be sorry for me as I think I have the right to sit and listen to who I please speak and I expect to reserve that right as long as I live.

Respectfully.
MADISON POPWELL.

A MILLION BALES OF COTTON FOR 1917

It will take a million bales of cotton per year to keep Alabama in normal financial condition. This amount can be grown in excess of the diversified crops sufficient to produce a living at home, and in spite of the boll weevil. Alabama farmers have seen the worst of it this year. With boll weevils all over the state, as bad as they will ever be and the conditions will improve as favorable seasons return. Help us make a million bales of cotton next year and help yourself enjoy prosperity once more. How?

(1) Begin at once to destroy the cotton stalks by plowing them under completely; cutting and burning them or grazing them closely with cattle just as son as you can get the cotton picked. Plowing them under with a two horse plow is the best, because it destroys weevils, prevents them from multiplying until frost, adds the stalks as a fertilizer to the soil, forces the weevil to migrate or to survive a longer period of starvation. Plowing under destroys grass and weeds before the seed ripens, prepares the soil in the fall, makes it produce better and is easier to cultivate. Its all gain, if you do it promptly and well. Will you do it?

(2) Reduce your crop to six or eight acres to the plow and make the rows one foot wider than you expect the cotton to grow in height.

(3) Prepare a good well pulverized seed bed and plant as early as season will permit.

(4) Plant pure seed of early varieties like Triumph and Cleveland for North Alabama; Toole, King and Simpkin for South Alabama.

(5) Fertilize a little heavier and put part of the fertilizer in with the seed to start the crop quickly. If only two hundred pounds of fertilizer is used per acre, apply all with the seed.

(6) Keep cotton off of damp rich land that makes too much weed, as moisture, shade, and tender growth is the weevil's ideal place.

(7) Pick the weevils out of the buds of the plants a week before squares begin to form.

(8) Pick up and burn the infested squares the same week that the first blooms occur.

(9) Cultivate shallow and once a week until August or later.

(10) Successful cotton culture is now a matter of the man, his intelligence, determination and ability to apply his efforts at the time which will acomplish the greatest results.

J. A. WADE,
Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

NOTICE

All members of the Farmers Union of the Collins Chapel local No. 223, are requested to meet at the schoolhouse on Saturday night Sept. 30, 1916.

H. C. VANCE,
Secretary and Treas.

NOTICE

All accounts due Dr. T. J. Marcus are in my hands for collection. All parties who owe him will please call at my office, in the Wilson Building, and settle same.

F. B. COLLIER.

Good mule for sale at a bargain. See him at D. Y. Johnson's stable. Easy terms if secured. J. E. Robinson.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

These September Days

Remind us that the Fall Season is at hand

Don't they remind you that there are many items of General Merchaudise with which you will soon have to supply your folks? Well, we just wanted to tell you again that we've got all of those things you are going to need; be sure you remember our store.

Clanton Mercantile Co.

"The Big Bargain Store."

BUSINESS CHANGES HANDS

Mr. Thos. W. Kemp has purchased the stock of goods of Wiley Littlejohn and will continue a general merchandise business at the same location on West side. Mr. Kemp is well known in business circles here, and we predict, for him a successful career in his new endeavor.

ODDFELLOWS SPEAKING

On Friday night, Sept. 29, at 7:30 P. M. Bro. L. N. Buell, Grand Marshall of Alabama and others will speak on Oddfellowship at the Masonic Hall at Thorsby, Ala. All brethren and the public are invited to be present and learn the principles of an order having a membership of over two millions.

W. E. MARTIN,
Recording Secretary.

UPCHURCH WRITES TICKETS

We have been requested to state that from now on, pupils of the city school will obtain their monthly tuition tickets from Mr. E. E. Upchurch instead of Mr. J. Wiley Littlejohn, owing to the fact that Mr. Littlejohn has gone out of business at his store, and will not be in a position to serve the pupils handily.

"Cured"

Mrs. Jay McGee, of Stephenville, Texas, writes: "For nine (9) years, I suffered with womanly trouble. I had terrible headaches, and pains in my back, etc. It seemed as if I would die, I suffered so. At last, I decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it helped me right away. The full treatment not only helped me, but it cured me."

TAKE

Cardui

The Woman's Tonic

Cardui helps women in time of greatest need, because it contains ingredients which act specifically, yet gently, on the weakened womanly organs. So, if you feel discouraged, blue, out-of-sorts, unable to do your household work, on account of your condition, stop worrying and give Cardui a trial. It has helped thousands of women,—why not you? Try Cardui. E-71

PURELY VEGETABLE S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

Something New Every Day

This is an age of many New Remedies for a multitude of ills. But the faith of thousands of sufferers from blood impurities, remains with the old reliable S. S. S. Its reputation was won by merit alone, and is retained by the same continuous service to humanity.

The vegetable purity and superiority of S. S. S. is recognized by all who have taken it and received its benefits and recommended by them to all sufferers from blood diseases. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Malaria, and many forms of Skin Disease, are some of the blood's worst enemies—but will surely give way to the influence of S. S. S.

Get the Genuine S. S. S. at Your Druggist.

USED FOR 50 YEARS SUCCESSFULLY

CLUB WORK

Club day November 2nd. Boys and girls remember the day.

Return those record books that we may know the results; be present to hear it, even though it may be a small amount let us know that you made the effort and was not a quitter. We all know the difficulties under which you have labored this year, not just a few but all.

The first new club for 1917 was organized at Lawley Sept. 19. Canning club with eleven members, President, Miss Nora Wallace; Home demonstration club with eight members, President, Mrs. Daisy Jarrett. With so much interest in the improvement of the homes and the community we are expecting to hear great things from these clubs next year. Winter gardens and the home convenines are the things around which their interest is centered for the present.

Boys, how many real clubs are you expecting to organize for next year? Now is the time to begin, get your members and see that each one covers that acre or acres with clover. There is strength and growth for your work in organization.

The pig club members will need some winter covered acres also, that pig has to eat.

Read carefully those letters from Messrs. Ford and Kerlin in regard to the fair. We have already heard from some of the boys, let us hear from all of them.

At the request of the business men and farmers that are interested there will be given a demonstration in canning sweet potatoes at the Girl's Club office in Clanton Saturday, Oct. 7, at 2 o'clock. Everybody that is interested is invited to come.

ATTENTION LIVE MEN!

Strong progressive life insurance company with 7 per cent. money to lend and money for bank deposits, wants district managers and local agents. Big commissions and renewals, attractive policies and low rates. Policies sell themselves when explained. New men will be trained, experienced agents will get choice territory. Communications strictly confidential. Write now. E. L. MOORE, 627 Jefferson Co. Bank Building, Birmingham, Ala.

WANTED TO BUY—After November 1st all o'possum hides free from blemishes, dog bites, or shot holes. Call or write W. F. DeSHAZO, Maplesville, Ala., Route 1. 9-28-4t

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL NEWS.

School is larger than it has ever been, we mean by that, that we have more boys and girls than ever before.

Dr. Stewart, founder of the Alabama Orphans Home and the Sunbeam Band of Alabama, made an eloquent address to the school last Monday at Chapel hour.

The boys Athletic Association met and reorganized, electing Frank Palmer, President; George Wyatt, Vice-President; Willis Lowe, Secretary; Clyde Williams, Treasurer.

The girls Athletic Association also met and reorganized, electing Mary Lane, President; Kathleen Mullins, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Senior class has organized, electing Joe Kanjutzky President, Kathleen Mullins Vice-President, Madge Cooper Secretary, Reuben Lowe Editor.

Prospects for the 1916 foot ball team are growing rapidly.

The Seniors hope to have Arden Allen back with them soon.

Mr. H. J. Gilbert, formerly engaged with the Western Union Co., has enrolled with the Freshman class.

Erle Pinckard is a record breaker. Last year he broke the record walking the campus, this year he has the world skined on writing. He wrote 500 words after school one evening.

If any body has children they can't manage send them to W. R. Baker, he has had eight years experience with children.

COAL DAYS!

Mr. Mitch Bates will deliver the Very Best Acton - Cahaba Fancy Lump Coal on Tuesday and Friday of each week; and will sell for CASH ONLY. Don't ask for credit. We do not keep any Books.

M. L. WHITE.

See me when you want to buy or sell.

I have got my trading clothes on and am ready to do business with you any time.

I will buy Beef Cattle, Yearlings, Calves, Milk Cows, Hogs, Corn, Oats, Peas, Beans, Hay, Fodder, and Syrup. I will exchange Milk Cows for Beef Cattle. I want one thousand chickens. Will pay highest price for Cotton Seed.

I have for sale a full line of Dry Goods I bought last Spring before the prices went up, and I can sell them cheap, I have the best line on the Market. Best line of Shoes also. Texas Red Rust Proof Oats and Blue Stem Seed Wheat on hand for sale now.

L. H. REYNOLDS

CLANTON, ALA.

...ool
...County.

...ith the Elemen-
...rs leading to any
...h it entrance into

...lace to get that High
...s the working tools of

...s without it. The World
... Teachers, Preachers, Doc-
... Men and Women in every
... in Life.

... all, except the Deadbeat, the
...named need not apply to Enter

...pression and Penmanship are open
... taking part in any of the regular

... able to commend to the public our
...oice. Mr. Tinsley needs no introduc-
...ment.

...e Institution, Tuition is Free.

...ained, Holding a College Degree. This
...st. Get in the Procession and let your Al-
...iers.

...ORD McDONALD, Principal

CLANTON, ALA.

...OW FULL ...GED U. S. MARINE

...tthews of this county ...ly completed his course ...h the United States Ma... ...nd is now at Washington ...ing the call to expedition... ...r foreign shore service.

... who is the son of Mr. Thos. ...news of Jemison, enlisted in ...ited States Marine Corps at ...mingham recruiting station on ..., 1916. Marines are Uncle ...s "minute-men of to-day"—al... ...s ready for instant service. They ... the seas on our powerful battle... ...s, man the garrisons in our for... ... possessions, and frequently are ...ed upon to 'stamp out' the re... ...s of our Latin-American neigh...

Young Matthews already has had ...e novel experiences while serving ...h the Marines whose diversified ...ies carry them into the out-of-the... ...y places of the world.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means to express our ...anks and appreciation to our ...iends for their kindness and help ...ce the burning of our home.

J. F. POOL, AND FAMILY.

Mr. J. V. Elmore was in Montgom... ...y Sunday.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County, ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, (Seal) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CLANTON POST OFFICE

List of letters remaining uncalled for in this office for the week ending Sept. 23, 1916.

Ladies

Sallie Belle Osten
Magie Webb
Amie Rangheson
Mattie Davies
Martha Jones
Emma Dudley

Gentlemen

T. J. McDonald
J. F. Preston
L. W. Thomas
Andie Williams
W. S. Carnish
N. D. Dees
Will Berry
Carl Latin
J. H. Headley

These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter Office Oct. 7, 1916, if not delivered before. In calling for the above please say "Advertised" giving date of list.

B. M. ROBERTS, P.M.

NOTICE

Those having accounts due me will find me in Clanton, Saturday Sept. 30, and will confer a favor by settling with me while there.

Respectfully,
V. J. GRAGG.

FOR RENT—A good four horse farm with three houses in good condition, on highway two miles south of Clanton, also have one 5 passenger Ford car in first class condition will sell cheap or trade. For further information apply to B. G. FOSHEE, Clanton, Ala. 9-28-adv

Mr. A. L. Williams has returned from Birmingham where he has been in an infirmary for many weeks. He was operated on for appendicitis. His many friends are glad he is able to return to his family.

Summertime Eatables

All kinds of groceries that are suitable for your table in summer time are here for you.

Just phone me your wants, and right away your order will be filled in time for you to eat it for dinner or supper or breakfast.

All kinds of Fruits, Vegetables and Country Produce, fresh all the time.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN

CLANTON, ALA.

...et The Habit

... When, But Where the Best Place in Clanton to

EAT

...oodgame Cafe

And Quick Lunch

...elightful SOFT DRINKS are Unsurpassed

W. H. GOOEGAME, Proprietor.

Next Door to Clanton Press.

STEAMBOAT PILOT TELLS EXPERIENCE

M. G. Smith Gains Fourteen Pounds On Tanlac—Now Understands Why Others Praise It.

"I can now steer my old boat with more ease than I ever could," said Murphy G. Smith, residing at 215 Market Street, Memphis, Tenn., in relating his experience with Tanlac. Mr. Smith for the past seven years has been piloting the steamer "Ferdtterold" the largest boat of the Lee Line of steamers plying the Mississippi between Memphis and St. Louis, and is well known.

"My system had become full of malaria," continued Mr. Smith, "and for more than a year I had been in a badly run-down condition. But Tanlac has not only cleared me of malaria but it has also increased my weight fourteen pounds. Nothing has ever made me feel as strong and well as a few bottles of Tanlac.

"I suffered with awful headaches and my kidneys gave me a lot of trouble. The rheumatism caused me considerable pain and worry and my bones actually felt sore. My stomach was in bad shape and what I would eat seemed to do me very little good and I was falling off in weight rapidly. In this condition I had very little energy and I was tired and weak all the time. My wheel pulled hard and I never felt like exerting myself to do a thing.

"Since taking Tanlac myself I can understand why so many people are praising it for it certainly has worked like a charm in my case. I never had a better appetite than I have now and I can eat just anything set before me. I eat as much as a laboring man and the fact that I have gained fourteen pounds on four bottles shows how well my food agrees with me. My headaches are gone and the rheumatism has disappeared. My kidneys don't bother me now and I feel so well I can hardly realize I've been a sufferer. Tanlac has filled me full of energy and my work is much easier for me. I'm telling everybody from St. Louis to Memphis on the old Mississippi about what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exculsively by Upchurch Drug Co, in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon, in Jemison by Langston Drug Co, in Thorsby by A. K. Horn & Son, in Cooper by McSwain Mercantile Co, in Verbena by Gulledge Bros. in Marbury by Plateon Drug Co, in Riderville by E. E. Ackson Lumber Co, in Stanton by W. C. Dyer, and in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co.

GIN NOTICE

The gins in Clanton will run only Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays after Sept. 30th.

PLANTERS GIN & WH. CO.
J. O. WADE.
J. A. MADDOX.

FOR RENT—A 20-acre farm one mile of Clanton, god three room house and woods pasture. Apply at The Union-Banner office.

A. Z. Bean was in Clanton Monday.

Bring us your cotton seed and get a little more than your neighbor who sold elsewhere... Robinson & McDowell.

Robinson & McDowell will pay you the highest market price for your cotton seed. See us Hayes Building.

New bright cotton seed meal for sale or exchange for seed... Robinson & McDowell.

BOX SUPPER

A box supper will be held on Saturday night, Oct. 7th, at Bates Hall for the benefit of Thorsby Public School. All are invited to come. Music will be furnished by the band.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Revival services have been in progress at Unity church a mile and a half north-east of Clanton this week. Preaching has been done most ably by Rev. Wells and Rev. Lowery. A Sunday school has been organized and is in progress and it is hoped that an active church may soon be established there.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. B. ATKINSON,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

DR. J. P. CRUMPTON, Dentist
Office in Wilson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

MIDDLETON & REYNOLDS
Attorneys at Law
Office in Hayes Building,
CLANTON, ALA.

F. B. COLLIER
Attorney at Law
Office in the Johnson Building
CLANTON, ALA.

SMITH & GERALD
Attorneys At Law
Clanton, Ala.

TAX NOTICE

Collector's and Assessor's Round

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes for Chilton County for the year 1916, and assessing taxes for the year 1917.

Minooka	Beat 13, Oct. 2
Jemison	Beat 2, Oct. 3
Thorsby	Beat 9, Oct. 4
Mt. Creek	Beat 5, Oct. 5
Coopers	Beat 10, Oct. 6
Centerprice	Beat 6, Oct 7
Pletcher	Beat 15, Oct. 9
Riderville	Beat 8, Oct. 10
Maplesville	Beat 7, Oct 11
Macedonia	Beat 14, Oct 12
Robinson's Store	Beat 12, Oct. 13
Mullins Acadamy	Beat 1, Oct. 14
Verbena	Beat 5, Oct 16
Evergreen	Beat 10, Oct. 17
Kincheon	Beat 6, Oct. 18
Culp Schoolhouse	Beat 15, Oct 19
Shoults	Beat 7, Oct 20
Stanton	Beat 8, Oct 21
Benson	Beat 3, Oct 23
Concord	Beat 13, Oct. 24
Mars Hill	Beat 2, Oct 25
Mineral Springs	Beat 12, Oct. 26
Cane Creek	Beat 11, Oct 27
Providence	Beat 16, Oct. 28
Clanton	Beat 4, Nov. 6 to 11

Take notice that under Section Number 34, of the Revenue Code of 1915, it is the duty of every person liable to taxation in each election precinct, to attend in person on the first day of the apointment in your precinct, and then and there render to the Assessor a full and complete list of all the property, of which he or she was owner on the 1 day of October of that year.

All taxes and assesments are delinquent after December the 31st, 1916.

J. D. COLLINS, Tax Collector.
J. N. DENNIS, Tax Assessor.

FARM FOR SALE

Twenty acres with house and outbuildings, located a mile and a half northeast of Clanton. Good land, well situated for truck and general farming. For particulars and further information apply to The Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala.

HON .O. D. STREET IS COMING TO CHILTON COUNTY

Hon. O. D. Street, National Republican Committeeman from this state, has consented to come to Chilton county and make speeches in the interest of the Republican party. He will speak at Pletcher, Beat 15, Friday September 29th, at 10 a. m., and at McCary schoolhouse Beat 15, at 2:00 p. m., and at Maple Springs, Beat 10, at 7:00 p. m. He will speak at Cooper on Saturday September 30th, at 10 a. m., and at Jemison, Beat 2, at 2 p. m., and Collins Chapel, Beat 9, at 7:00 p. m.

FOR SALE—One full blood Jersey Bull, 17 months old. Call at Thorsby Hardware Co., Thorsby, Ala. 9-28-4t

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT THE SOLDIERS HOME

Of late Dr. Eiland, the new commandant at the Alabama Old Soldiers Home near Mt. Creek, has had improvements that has caused the place to look inviting.

The ground generally around the main building and cottages has been beautified and walks leading from the cottages to the main building have been completed.

Dr. Eiland and adjutant, G. C. Kicker, are doing much which adds to the comfort of the old veterans.

MAHAN'S BRAKE FACTORY

Our townsman, Mr. W. H. Mahan, now has an up-to-date little factory in Clanton, for the manufacture of his special patented wagon brake. His product is being put on the market through a special sales agent in the person of Mr. G. S. Rodgers.

County Demonstrator, W. H. Conway, was in town on Tuesday.

T. E. Wyatt went down to Montgomery on Wednesday.

Sheriff Harris went over to Maplesville Tuesday on official business.

Rev. W. P. Lowery of Collins Chapel was a visitor at our office on Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Broadhead are the proud parents of a fine baby boy.

ALABAMA WOMEN ON SCHOOL BOARDS

A notable political victory for the women of Alabama was won when six estimable and public-spirited women were elected to be members of the county boards of education. There were ten women candidates before the people, four of them failing of election. This splendid showing made by the women in their initial appearance in the political arena is highly creditable both to them and to the broad-minded men who gave them their support.

Those elected were Mrs. F. B. Ohme of Birmingham, Mrs. Felix Bairdridge of Huntsville, Mrs. G. W. L. Smith of Brewton, Mrs. William Beason of Ashville and Miss Nicolene Bishop of Arkon, Hale county. To serve on the county school boards is the only concession of a political nature so far extended the women of the state, but the progress of democracy will ultimately accord them full political privileges on the same terms as the men now enjoy.

FARM HOMES

In good community with excellent schools, good roads and productive soil, is what we are offering you. We own farms in Autauga, Chilton, Clay, Coosa, Randolph and Tallapoosa counties. Tell us what you want, we can help you. Before you buy sell or exchange, see or write

THE MARBURY LUMBER CO.
Marbury, Ala.

MAYR'S WONDERFUL REMEDY for STOMACH trouble

ONE DOSE WILL CONVINCE

Gall Stones, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, Auto-Intoxication, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis and other fatal ailments result from Stomach Trouble. Thousands of Stomach Sufferers owe their complete recovery to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Unlike any other for Stomach Ailments. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

COLLINS CHAPEL

Health of this community is very good at present.

Our Sunday school and prayer meeting is progressing nicely under the care of Superintendent W. C. Martin.

We have organized a Singing Society at this place. We meet every first and third Sunday afternoon. I think every community should organize a singing society so as to make singing a success. This society shall be known as the "Young Peoples Singing Society" or Y. P. S. S. of Collins Chapel.

Come on boys and girls and lets wake up things around Collins Chapel. We would like to see more of our old people attending Sunday school and prayer meeting so as to help up interest in this community.

Prof. J. L. Harris will begin his literary school at this place next Monday, Oct. 2.

There will be singing at this place next Sunday afternoon. Everybody is invited to attend.

Much success to the Union-Banner.

NEGRO CAPTURED

Hale Finley, a negro who was indicted by the grand jury of Chilton county in 1911 for assault and attempt to murder Mr. Lewis Hurst was captured at Verbena Wednesday by Deputy J. L. Gore and placed in the county jail. The negro had been dodging the officers for the past five years.

COATTON MARKET

Wednesday afternoon cotton was selling around 15¾ cents a pound on the local cotton market. A range of from 15¾ to 16 cents marks the highest price cotton has reached for years.

A BOOSE PEDDLER CHASED OUT OF TOWN

Cliff Oden was reported to Sheriff Harris as guilty of selling whiskey in Clanton. The Sheriff put Deputies John Gore and W. H. Gillespie on the case and the officers were in hot pursuit when Cliff took to the swamp.

Sheriff Harris sent for officer Fallon and his two man-hunting dogs. Mr. Fallon put his dogs on the trail of Oden and they followed the offender until they reached the L. & N. track where Oden had jumped on a freight train as it was slowly moving up the grade.

The Sheriff and his deputies know Oden and will have to await his return to Chilton county.

Mrs. O. S. Davis, formerly of Clanton, has purchased the Calera hotel fixtures and leased the building. Mrs. Davis took posession on Monday last.

"The best" school supplies and stationery at Alred's.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

Like an Open Book For Young Mothers!

Most women look upon becoming a mother, for the first time, as something full of unknown mysteries; agony and pain; a time of distressing days and months. These are misguided conclusions. "Mother's Friend," used daily before confinement, will prove its great value as an allay to those distressing pains and assist nature in doing its work with ease and comfort. Get "Mother's Friend" at your druggist.

The young mother should become acquainted with the information contained in a book on Motherhood that will be mailed free to all who write. Address

The Bradfield Regulator Co.,
211 Lamar Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.

The Same Store but New Goods and New Management.

I wish to announce to my many friends and former patrons in and around Clanton that I have purchased the stock and trade of Mr. Wiley Littlejohn, and will continue an up-to-date General Merchandise Business at the same location. I am putting in a full new line for the Fall and Winter, and invite you to call and look my store over before you buy elsewhere. I have some bargains which you will be interested in, and will appreciate your trade by showing you the most kind and courteous attention.

THOS. W. KEMP

Wiley Littlejohn's Former Location

WHY GIVE CHILDREN OIL AND SALTS?

Little Alabama Boy Writes About a Pleasant Medicine.

Loundas P. Brindley, of Somerville, is a happy little boy, and he has written to say: "I have had a heavy headache and vomited twice to six times a day, and it has taken just four doses of Granger Liver Regulator to make me well." Loundas' mother has found out that there is no use in torturing children by giving them nasty tasting castor-oil and salts when they don't mind taking Granger Liver Regulator, which is a harmless, vegetable compound, that acts on them just right. Your druggist sells it. Ask him.

MARRIAGES

J. M. Keitt and Mrs. Alice McGaillard.

H. E. Kelley and Miss Willie Mae Endress.

L. Dewey Hughes and Miss Pearlie Robinson.

Miss Eva Davis, of Calera, was a recent visitor to Clanton for a few days and stopped with Mrs. Addie G. Robinson.

J. Bice of Lomax dropped in at our busy hour Wednesday.

NOTICE

The Chilton County Association will meet with Maple Springs church, 4 miles South of Clanton, on Oct. 11 and 12th. Those coming by rail will get off at Falakto one half mile from the church. Everybody is invited to come and be with us.

T. J. DEASON.

MONEY TO LOAN

WE ARE IN TOUCH WITH AN UNLIMITED SUPPLY OF MONEY, AND CAN NEGOTIATE LONG-TIME LOANS ON FARM LANDS UPON EASY TERMS. IF YOU ARE INTERESTED, CALL ON US.

Middleton & Reynolds.

SCHOOL NEWS OF THORSBY.

On Monday evening at 3:30 a number of ladies who are intrested in school improvement met at the public school house for the purpose of organizing an Improvement Association.

Quite a number of enthusiastic ladies were present ready and willing to co-operate with the teachers in improving our school.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. McClaine, President; Mrs. Williams, Vice-President; Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Our Association expects to meet every month and all who are interested are welcome to come to these meetings.

The following are the pupils of Thorsby public school whose names were on the honor roll of last week: Margaret Butler, Martha Martin, Lorine Stanley, Esther Johnson, Pearl Carlson, Lola Horn, Louise Adams, Ethel Sewell, Mary Ella Gerald, Sarah Graves, Leon Marshall and Horace Franklin.

S. S. CONVENTION

District S. S. Convention will meet with Mt. Creek Sunday school on Oct. 7th. We urge all schools in district No. 5 to be represented at this meeting. The program will be printed next week.

W. A. CALLOWAY,
President.

Prof. J. Z. Mims was a pleasant caller at our office last Saturday.

Rye, Barley, Rape, Clover and Turnip seeds at Alred Drug Co.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
Chilton County.

To any Sheriff of the State of Alabama—Greeting:

Whereas, M. M. Abrams joint owner, together with C. W. Abrams, J. M. Abrams J. A. Abrams, Elizah Abrams and Alberta Mosley has filed his aplication in said Court for a sale of the lands described therein, belonging to said joint owners, for the purpose of partition and division, and the 30th day of September 1916 has been apointed for the hearing of said application.

You are, therefore, hereby commanded to cite Eliza Abrams, James M. Abrams, Alberta Mosley, (Odessa Texas,) J. A. Abrams to appear before the said Court on said 30th day of September 1916, to contest said application if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this 7th day of September 1916.

E. B. DEASON,
Judge of Probate.

Mr. J. L. Bennett is laughing louder than ever. It's a boy.

Such tobacco enjoyment

as you never thought could be is yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!

Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

Copyright 1916 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

On the reverse side of this tidy red tin you will read: "Process Patented July 30th, 1907," which has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked before!

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold in toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—that corking fine pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such clever trim—always!

Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P. A. a try-out certainly have a big surprise and a lot of enjoyment coming their way as soon as they invest in a supply. Prince Albert tobacco will tell its own story!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

W. L. DOUGLAS

"THE SHOE THAT HOLDS ITS SHAPE"

$3.00 $3.50 $4.00 $4.50 & $5.00 FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Save Money by Wearing W. L. Douglas shoes. For sale by over 9000 shoe dealers. The Best Known Shoes in the World.

W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom of all shoes at the factory. The value is guaranteed and the wearer protected against high prices for inferior shoes. The retail prices are the same everywhere. They cost no more in San Francisco than they do in New York. They are always worth the price paid for them.

The quality of W. L. Douglas product is guaranteed by more than 40 years experience in making fine shoes. The smart styles are the leaders in the Fashion Centres of America. They are made in a well-equipped factory at Brockton, Mass., by the highest paid, skilled shoemakers, under the direction and supervision of experienced men, all working with an honest determination to make the best shoes for the price that money can buy.

Ask your shoe dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes. If he cannot supply you with the kind you want, take no other make. Write for interesting booklet explaining how to get shoes of the highest standard of quality for the price, by return mail, postage free.

LOOK FOR W. L. Douglas name and the retail price stamped on the bottom.

W. L. Douglas
President
W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., Brockton, Mass.

Boys' Shoes
Best in the World
$3.00 $2.50 & $2.00

Perfectly Good Dog.

Mrs. Jones—Harry, shall I send Fido to the dog show next week?

Harry—No, dear; I'm afraid he isn't good enough.

Mrs. Jones—Not good enough! Why, Fido never did anything wrong in his life.—Stray Stories.

IMITATION IS SINCEREST FLATTERY but like counterfeit money the imitation has not the worth of the original. Insist on "La Creole" Hair Dressing—it's the original. Darkens your hair in the natural way, but contains no dye. Price $1.00.—Adv.

Seems Afar Off.

The sight of a half-dozen men chasing a scared dog can spoil the loveliest dream about the millennium.

Ask for and Get

SKINNER'S

THE HIGHEST QUALITY

SPAGHETTI

36 Page Recipe Book Free

SKINNER MFG. CO., OMAHA, U.S.A.

LARGEST MACARONI FACTORY IN AMERICA

PECAN TREES

The big brown nuts will soon be falling from the trees. If you are not gathering them from your own trees, you should be. A card will bring you information as to why and how.

J. B. WIGHT, CAIRO, GA.

Imparting Information.

The British soldier will make a joke even against himself. An elderly lady in a bus noticed the initials "R. D. C." on a soldier's tunic. She puzzled her brains, but could not solve the mystery as to their meaning. At last her curiosity overpowered her and she asked what they stood for. "Reformed Drunkards' corps, ma'am," said the soldier gravely. "Dear me," said the lady, "how very interesting." And probably not one of those who laughed at the reply could have explained what "R. D. C." really means.—London Chronicle.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 50 cents.

The Expense.

"I am in favor of peace at any price."

"Yes," replied the pessimist; "but suppose you wake up some morning and find you haven't got the price?"

All Parents Know That.

Every bright boy, at the age of four, becomes an animated interrogation point.

Women are employed as undertakers and grave diggers in Austria.

Thoroughbred!

It pays to buy thoroughbred cattle — and it pays to buy thoroughbred clothes —

OVERALLS, WORK SHIRTS etc of

Stifel's Indigo Cloth

Standard for over 75 years are every inch thoroughbred. Firm, strongly woven cloth, that resists wear and weather. Color that lasts as long as the cloth.

You can tell the genuine by this little mark on back of the cloth inside the garment. STIFEL'S INDIGO stamped on the side the garment.

REGISTERED

Look for it — and you'll never be disappointed in the wear of your working clothes — for it's the CLOTH in the garment that gives the wear.

Cloth Manufactured by J. L. STIFEL & SONS Indigo Dyers and Printers

WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA

New York...260-262 Church St. | San Francisco...Postal Tel. Bldg. | St. Paul.....238 Endicott Bldg.
Philadelphia...324 Market St. | St. Joseph, Mo...Saxton Bk. Bldg. | Toronto...14 Manchester Bldg.
Boston.....31 Bedford St. | Baltimore.....Coca-Cola Bldg. | Winnipeg, 400 Hammond Bldg.
Chicago, 223 W. Jackson Blvd. | St. Louis.....928 Victoria Bldg. | Montreal, R. 500, 489 St. Paul St.

Music for All the Family. Send for This Big Book Today.

10c and This Coupon Brings You the Big 101-Song Book.

containing words and music of 101 favorite songs of the past and present. The biggest and best song book ever offered to the music-loving public. Will help you to pass many happy hours of song and music. No home should be without it.

THE CORLEY COMPANY,

The House That Made Richmond Musical.

913 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Contains songs for Thanksgiving, Christmas, schools, patriotic and college songs.

COUPON.

Name _____

Address _____

Childlike Nature.

"Do you mean to tell me that tenderfoot pulled a gun 'cause he thought you had stacked the cards?"

"That's what I said," replied Piute Pete.

"You told me the game was going to be like taking candy from a child."

"Yes. But some children has awful dispositions."

ON FIRST SYMPTOMS

use "Renovine" and be cured. Do not wait until the heart organ is beyond repair. "Renovine" is the heart and nerve tonic. Price 50c and $1.00.—Adv.

To keep up with progress, a man must keep up all day with it.

Peace is the greatest of all blessings.

Built With Old Fashioned Care of the finest materials. That's the Schuttler story in a nutshell, and that's why

PETER SCHUTTLER WAGONS

last for years without repairs; why they are the easiest running of all wagons; why as a matter of real economy you should use Peter Schuttler wagons. It will pay you to investigate. Ask your dealer and send for our Free Book.

Gale-Hooper Co., Memphis, Tenn. Peter Schuttler Co., Chicago, Ill.

When You Follow The Trail Go Equipped With WINCHESTER

Guns and Ammunition

Made for all kinds of shooting

SOLD EVERYWHERE

ASK FOR THE W BRAND

HUSBAND OBJECTS TO OPERATION

Wife Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa.—"Four years ago I was very sick and my life was nearly spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to any operation and got me some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. BLANCHE JEFFERSON, 703 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Before submitting to a surgical operation it is wise to try to build up the female system and cure its derangements with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it has saved many women from surgical operations.

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice—it will be confidential.

ADVICE TO THE AGED

Age brings infirmities, such as sluggish bowels, weak kidneys and torpid liver.

Tutt's Pills

have a specific effect on these organs, stimulating the bowels, gives natural action, and imparts vigor to the whole sytsem.

IN THESE TIMES of advanced prices on Dry Goods, Ladies' Dress Goods especially, let me save you money. Goods prepaid. Send for samples. SQUARE DEAL, Braswell Summit, Mont.

"ROUGH on RATS" Ends Rats, Mice, Bugs. Die outdoors. 15c and 25c.

And Appropriate.

After all the woman expressed a great emotion when she exclaimed, "Oh, those yawning stripes!'

Disagreeable and Dangerous Trouble is Diarrhoea, but a speedy and certain cure is found in Mississippi Diarrhoea Cordial. Price 25c and 50c.—Adv.

No Joke.

"I need a lot of new things this fall," began Mrs. Wife. "We have to get a new rug for the dining room and some curtains for the living room. We need some new dishes, too. And besides, I haven't a thing to wear. I've got to get a new evening dress and a street dress, and a couple of new hats, and I haven't a pair of shoes to my name, and—"

It isn't any joke—that's all.

An Improvement.

Mrs. Josiah Cowles, the new president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, was talking in New York about dress.

"Women, once they get interested in our movement," she said, "dress more sensibly. They give less thought to dress. I may claim, in fact—"

Mrs. Cowles smiled.

"I may claim, in fact," she ended, "that these women start making their own clothes and stop picking their friends' clothes to pieces."

Had Learned His Lesson.

After one of the reservations had been opened, the white community was annoyed by the promiscuous swearing of the noble red man, numbers of whom seemed quite unaware of the strength of their recently acquired vocabulary. This condition became so intolerable that several arrests were made and jail sentences imposed. It was not long before the native sons of America realized that swearing in public was a very bad business, and they quit. One of these Indians was a witness in a case of some importance in the local justice court, and had testified to certain facts which greatly exasperated counsel for defense. With his hand upraised the lawyer impressively thundered: "Now, Nick, will you swear—" "No!" shouted the Indian. "Me no swear! Swear talk no good here—gettum jail!"

Brightens One Up

There is something about Grape-Nuts food that brightens one up, infant or adult, both physically and mentally.

What is it?

Just its delightful flavor, and the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including their wonderful body and nerve building mineral elements!

A crisp, ready-to-eat food, with a mild sweetness all its own; distinctive, delicious, satisfying—

Grape-Nuts

"There's a Reason"

Why That Lame Back?

Morning lameness, sharp twinges when bending, or an all-day backache; each is cause enough to suspect kidney trouble. Get after the cause. Help the kidneys. We Americans go it too hard. We overdo, overeat and neglect our sleep and exercise and so we are fast becoming a nation of kidney sufferers. 72% more deaths than in 1890 is the 1910 census story. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them.

A Mississippi Case

J. P. Sheppard, contract painter, 404 S. Chestnut St., Aberdeen, Miss., says: "I strained my back and from that time on suffered from pains through it. Often when I got up or stooped, a sharp twinge seized me and I couldn't straighten. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I am glad to say that the cure has lasted."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Eddy's BLACK PILLS

have often been tried and never denied to be the proper Liver Agitator.

NINE PEOPLE out of every ten are sufferers.

It effects some to indicate Heart Trouble, others Indigestion and Loss of Appetite, some with Headache, Backache and Sleepless Nights. These sufferers buy all kinds of expensive Medicine, when a few doses of Eddy's Black Pills would offer prompt relief. Price 25 cents at your Druggist, or mailed on receipt of price.

E. W. Gallenkamp, Ph. G. '75. Washington, Mo.

Avoid Appendicitis, Malaria, Piles and Rheumatism.

Didn't See It.

An excitable Irishman riding in an open car signaled the conductor to stop at the corner. He jumped off anyway, and found himself landed in an excavation.

Scrambling out, he rushed up to a policeman.

"Did you see that?" he asked indignantly.

"I did," said the policeman. "It was your own fault."

"I'm not asking whose fault it was. I'm asking you did you see that."

"I did not," said the policeman, turning his back.

FOR ITCHING SCALP

And Falling Hair Use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trial Free.

When the scalp is itching because of dandruff and eczema a shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water will be found thoroughly cleansing and soothing, especially if shampoo is preceded by a gentle application of Cuticura Ointment to the scalp skin.

Free sample each by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Literal.

"If the phone rings this morning," said the mistress to her new Swedish maid, "just say I'm out."

A few minutes later the phone rang. Olga stopped her sweeping.

"Ay bane out," she said distinctly, and went on with her sweeping, leaving the phone unanswered.

BABIES AND GROWING CHILDREN need a tonic to tone up the system and regulate the liver. Mothers are constantly using with wonderful success, our "Plantation" Chill and Fever Tonic. Pleasant to take—contains no Calomel. Price 50c.—Adv.

By No Means.

Man is not exactly an anatomical freak because his backbone is in his lower jaw.

Stiles, Granulated Eyelids, Sore and Inflamed Eyes healed promptly by the use of ROMAN EYE BALSAM.—Adv.

Some people become so busy that they have no time to do anything.

DO YOU HAVE SICK HEADACHE

Who of us does not suffer at times from this awful pain? All are subject to it—a disordered stomach, inactive liver, constipation are causes. But headaches are mere warnings of something more serious. Heed the warning, take and head off the more serious ailments. This preparation positively relieves all perils of constipation and its kindred disorders, and restores the system to its normal condition—gently but thoroughly.

Dr. THACHER'S Liver and Blood Syrup

Get a bottle today. Two sizes, 50c and $1. All dealers.

DO YOU HAVE

night sweats? Hemorrhages of the lungs? Pains in chest and sides? Pains under shoulder blades? A slight cough early in the morning with a slight fever in the afternoon? A chronic cough with expectoration? Have you lost weight and strength without apparent cause? Have you lost appetite?

The above are symptoms of consumption. If you have them, YOU NEED LUNG-VITA and you need it NOW. Go to your druggist and get it or if he hasn't it order direct TODAY. 15 day treatment $1.00; 30 day treatment $1.75.

USE IT FOR ASTHMA TOO

NASHVILLE MEDICINE CO.
Dept. G. Nashville, Tenn.

APPENDICITIS

If you have been threatened or have GALLSTONES, INDIGESTION, GAS or pains in the right side write for valuable Book of Information FREE

L. E. BOWERS, DEPT. W-2, 219 S. DEARBORN ST., CHICAGO

Q-BAN DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Gray, streaked, prematurely gray or faded hair quickly restored to original dark shade by shampooing hair and scalp a few times with Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer. No dye—perfectly harmless. Q-Ban acts on roots—revives color glands—makes hair healthy, gradually changing all your gray hair to an even natural dark shade, making entire head of hair clean, fluffy, abundant without a trace of gray showing. 50 cents a big bottle by parcel post. (Also sold by most druggists.) Address Q-Ban, Memphis, Tenn. Adv.

The Anticlimax.

The revival meeting was tense in its interest, and the evangelist was waxing eloquent. He arraigned the laxness of the church people and present-day evils in general, and everyone was too absorbed to notice the growing uneasiness of two lads on the front seat.

With the question, "What's the matter?" pronounced in tones of thunder, the preacher reached his climax.

The two boys had risen and were starting for the door. One of them, hearing the preacher's question, wheeled and said: "Aw, I got the nosebleed."—The Christian Herald.

ELIXIR BABEK WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD IN THE PHILIPPINES.

"I contracted malaria in 1896, and after a year's fruitless treatment by a prominent Washington physician, your Elixir Babek entirely cured me. On arriving here I came down with tropical malaria—the worst form—and sent home for Babek. Again it proved its value—it is worth its weight in gold here." Brasi O'Hagan, Troop E, 8th U. S. Cavalry, Talayan, Philippines.

Elixir Babek, 50 cents, all druggists or by Parcels Post, prepaid, from Kloczewski & Co., Washington, D. C.

Reasonable Precaution.

The lady was complaining to her dairyman some time ago regarding the quality of his milk.

"Short o' grass feed, mum; short o' grass feed this time o' year," said the jocular milkman. "Bless you, them cows o' mine are just as sorry about it as I am. I often stand and watches 'em cryin', reg'lar cryin', mum, because they feel as how their milk don't do 'em credit. You don't believe it?"

"Oh, yes, I believe it," said the lady; "but I wish in future you'd see that they don't drop their tears into our can."

RELIABLE REMEDY RESTORES KIDNEYS

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is a physician's prescription.

Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. Dr. Kilmer used it for years in his private practice. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it will help you. No other remedy can successfully take its place.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Forgot Them.

"Mandy," said the lady of the house indignantly, "did you steal my tan silk stockings?"

"Lor', Miss Edith, how you done talk. Me steal? Poor old Mandy never done steal nothing."

"How does it come I found them in your room behind the trunk?"

"Now, Miss Edith, ain't you jes' the smartest, though, finding them stockings there, when I done forgot where it was I put them. No'm, I didn't steal 'em; I jes' forgot them."

Lure of the Rural.

"Can you find servants who will go into the country?"

"Yes. But only when we're living in the city and the picnic season is on."

What Did It Mean.

Most men remember how, in their barefoot days, temptation used to whistle and hold up two fingers.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills have stood the test of time. Test them yourself now. Send for sample to 372 Pearl street, N. Y.—Adv.

Courtships between widows and widowers usually end in a draw.

CALOMEL

Straighten Up! Liver and

Ugh! Calomel makes you a dose of the vile, danger night and tomorrow you day's work.

Calomel is mercury or qu which causes necrosis of the Calomel, when it comes into with sour bile crashes into it, ing it up. This is when you feel awful nausea and cramping. If feel sluggish and "all knocked out," your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store or dealer and get a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't

BASEBALL EDITOR IS HURT

Makes Unkind Comment on Question Asked by Sweet Girl Viewing National Game.

Gilligan, the Demon Swatter, stepped up to the plate.

It was the last half of the ninth inning with the score tied and two men out.

Gilligan swung at the first ball and missed.

The next one was a ball, and the next and the next.

The umpire called the next one a strike, though 20,000 fans disagreed with him.

"This one tells the tale," said everybody to his next neighbor.

Gilligan gripped his bat firmly, dug his spikes into the ground and swung with all his might.

Crack! The ball sped as if shot out of a cannon, far over the center field fence, while the Demon trotted round the bases amid the plaudits of the multitude.

When the excitement had subsided a bit, a girl—Oh, she was a beautiful girl. You ought to've seen her—well, anyhow, this girl touched her escort timidly on the arm and asked in dulcet tones:

"Does the batter have to pay for the ball when he loses it over the fence like that?"

And yet some people thought women should be allowed to vote.—New York World.

Ideal Wife.

Miss Marion Pomeroy Smith, the Cape Cod heiress who has just won a legal contest for the control of her huge fortune, believes in women's rights.

"There will be fewer divorces," she said to a reporter, "when men treat women as their equals.

"'Do you know the kind of wife my ideal is?' a married man once said to me.

"'Of course I do,' said I. 'Your ideal wife is the kind that's tickled to death over a birthday present of a bag of flour.'"

Conspicuous Example.

"What's your idea of an optimist?"

"A professional prizefighter telling what he is going to do to the other fellow."

Dr. Peery's "DEAD SHOT" is an effective medicine for Worms or Tapeworm in adults or children. One dose is sufficient and no supplemental purge necessary.—Adv.

Should Have Won a Prize.

Unless he is a prize winner no man should advertise marriage as a lottery.

Japan obtains more than 2,000,000-horse power from its streams by nearly 400 hydro-electric plants.

An Albanian dainty is a dish of eggs and onions boiled for three hours daily on ten successive days.

All His Own Way.

The man who talks to please himself soon has the audience well pleased with itself.

COUL

Mr. Flah... for ...

One Saturd... said to her hu... ful contractor... is to preach tom... church, and you'... wanted to hear h...

"Yes, Jane, I do... They say he's a fine...

"But, for pity's sa... do come with me, kee... know you're always fall... ing the sermons."

"I'll do my best, Jane."

Next day, when Father B... to preach, Mike watched h... minutes, and then dropped off... When they were back home J... Mike a tongue lashing.

"Well, Jane," said Mike in... fense, "it's just this way. Wh... engage a new hand I watch him t... if he's on the job. As soon as I ... he's efficient and hard-working I do... bother about him any more. Now, a... soon as Father Burke began I saw h... was right on to his job, and so I didn... worry about him. And then, in spi... of myself, I let go."—Everybody's Magazine.

Doom of Golf.

Bishop Murray, on his way ... preach in Nashville, steamed in h... train past a golf course crowded wit... players.

Bishop Murray frowned, then h... smiled.

"In the millennium," he said, "every day being Sunday, mankind will get surfeited with golf, and the game will then undoubtedly become extinct."

Looks So.

Patience—I see sixty thousand wom... en in London were thrown out of work by the war.

Patrice—Oh, did the war stop bridge whist?

A HINT TO WISE WOMEN.

Don't suffer torture when all female troubles will vanish in thin air after using "Femenina." Price 50c and $1.00.—Adv.

Near Drente, Holland, the petrified body of a woman buried 1,700 years ago has been excavated.

WHY NOT TRY POPHAM'S ASTHMA MEDICINE

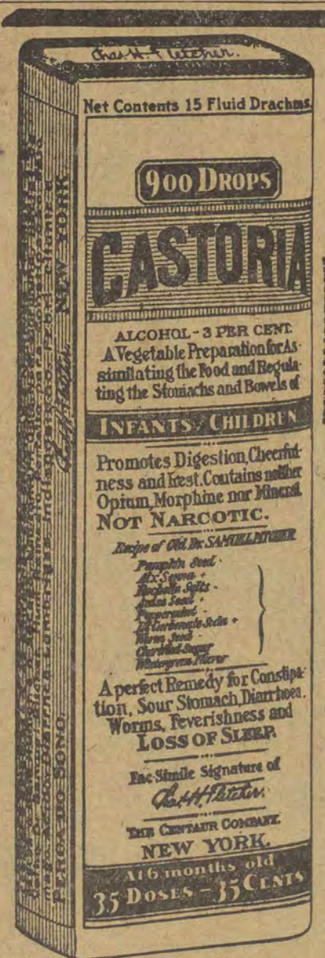
Gives Prompt and Positive Relief in Every Case. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00. Trial Package by Mail 10c.



WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props. Cleveland, O.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria and Fever. Also a Fine G... Strengthening Tonic. 50c...

Photoplays, Plots, Stories Wanted; Comedy a... guaranteed protection; scenario, story ... form, no prize contest. California Scenari... Inc., Director, Wesley R. Bldg., Los An...

W. N. U., Birmingham, No.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Children Cry Fo...

Fletcher's

CASTORIA

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, P... goric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. ... contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Nar... substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys W... and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty ye... has been in constant use for the relief of Constipa... Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles ... Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bo... assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural ... The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

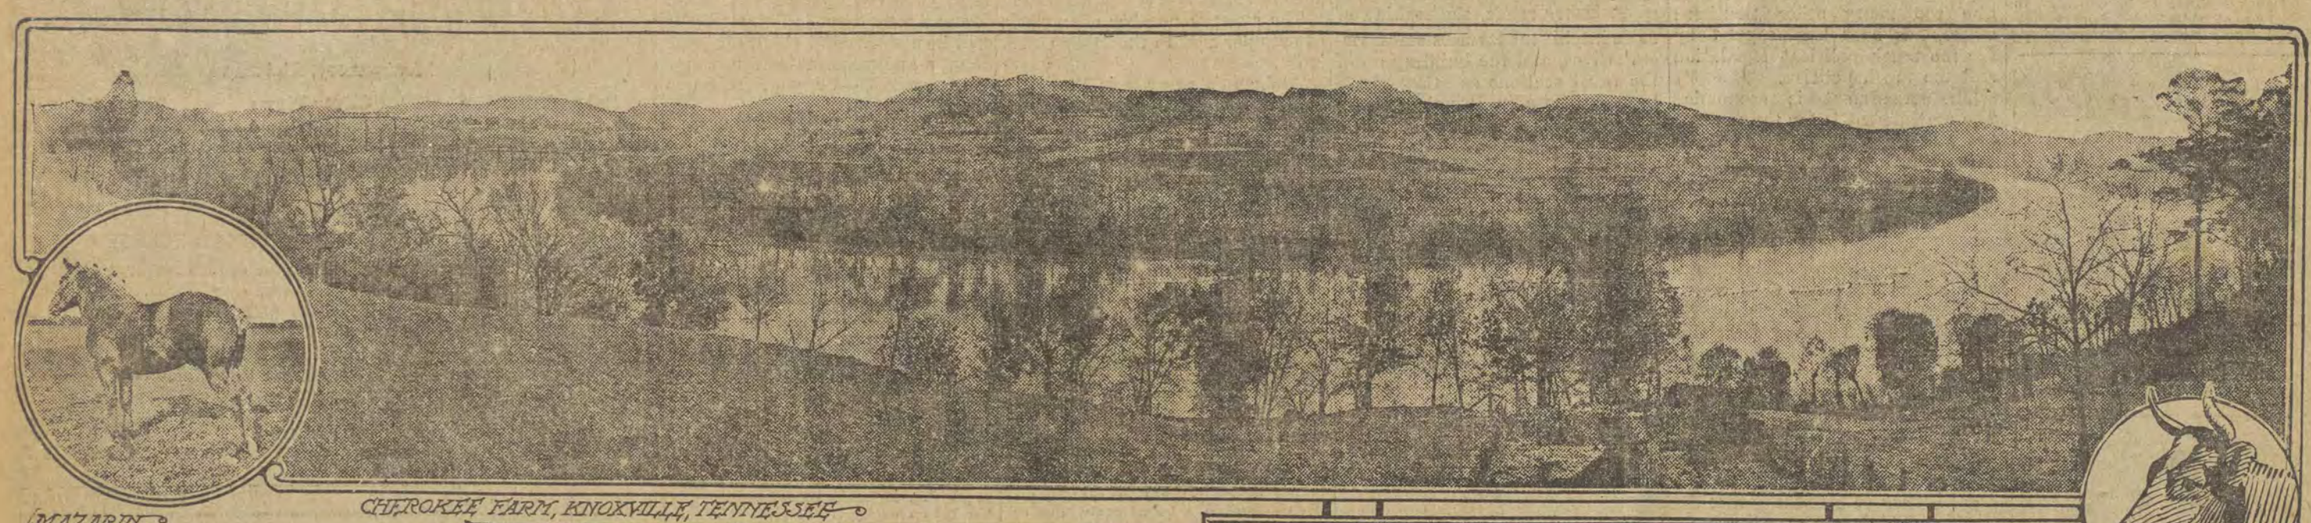
GENUINE CASTORIA ALW...

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher...

In Use For Over 30 Year...

The Kind You Have Always Boug...



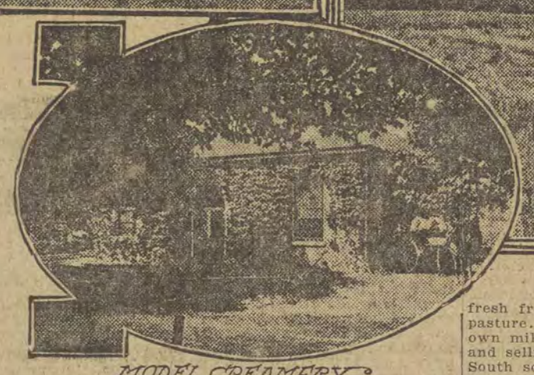
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

THE UNION-BANNER

Farm and Immigration SUPPLEMENT

CLANTON, ALA., SEPTEMBER 28, 1916

VISION OF EASTERN TENNESSEE



CHEROKEE FARM, KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

MAZARIN

GROUP OF MARES AND STALLION

MODEL CREAMERY

FIELD OF SHOCKED WHEAT

Sees Farms Making Her Great State

With Morgan in Charge Cherokee Farm to Be Inspiration and Lesson to the South

By LITTELL McCLUNG.

"Say, Mac, if you'll come up into eastern Tennessee we'll show you something," said Fred T. Bonham, of The Knoxville Journal and Tribune, little while back. "We'll show you agriculture with a big A."

And as that was that we were looking for, and as Fate gave us a shove in the direction of the northern part of the Tennessee Valley, we went and saw and were conquered.

We landed in Knoxville and we felt its spirit even before we saw the thriving city set down in the heart of the productive hills. You know that you can feel the spirit of a place mighty quick. It was the spirit of cooperation and getting somewhere through work that we felt in Knoxville. It was the spirit of soil production—the building of the land and the building of business on agriculture.

I will say quite frankly that nowhere in the United States is there a keener realization of the importance of good farming than in Knoxville. Nowhere are the people prouder of their farming progress and nowhere are they looking forward more eagerly to greater success through better methods of production.

"We are self-supporting."

A man waved his hand toward the surrounding country. "East Tennessee is just like Germany," he said, "she is self-supporting. Surround eastern Tennessee with a wall and she would be able to take care of herself. She has the land and the pastures, she has the horses and the cows and the hogs and the chickens. She has her fruits and her vegetables. She has everything that would be necessary to keep her going in case she were cut off from the outside world."

He had hit the true test of a country's development. Germany is the only nation in the world today capable of going on about as before even though she is cut off from the world. Any country or any section of any country that is absolutely self-supporting is an education in itself to other sections that have not reached this splendid state of well-balanced development.

But eastern Tennessee is not satisfied with herself. Today she is preaching from the pulpit of commonsence the gospel of more legumes on the She feels that she can do more in diversification than she has already done. She sees only the beginning of a prosperity founded upon the only true foundation for any section to have—increased soil fertility.

The Great State Farm.

Friend Bonham took us out to the great State Experiment Farm near the city. Here, as you can see in the picture, the Tennessee river is a crescent, encircling in turbulent embrace a magnificent stretch of up-land. The original Cherokee Farm—an experiment station for Tennessee—comprised some 145 acres on the side of the river closest Knoxville.

But the people of the State, feeling that their experiment farm under the direction of their College of Agriculture at Knoxville should be larger and better, bought 600 more acres at a cost of $140,000. Now your ten-year-old son will tell you that this is two hundred and thrity-three dollars and thirty-three and one-third cents per acre. Your own judgment will tell you that there has got to be some mighty good farming on land at that price to make farming pay.

Butt Cherokee Farm really spreads out over the entire State of Tennessee. It is the biggest farm in the south. What is done on this farm in dairying, in alfalfa raising, in crimson and red clover tests, is done later on thousands of Tennessee farms. And so you can see that Cherokee Farm is vastly bigger than its 745 acres—it is as big as all Tennessee. In time its boundaries will move far beyond Tennessee and include farms in many parts of the Eastern and Southern states whose owners have come to Cherokee Farm to see the work being done there.

Knoxville Gave $25,000

This was the idea back of the purchase. The business men of Knoxville reached down into their pockets and their hands came up with $25,000 to help in the purchase of the fine lands across the river to be added to the farm. Such an amount, raised by business men of a city to help buy land for the use of the farmers of the state, is astonishing. In many cities larger than Knoxville the raising of half such a sum for such a purpose would be an impossibility. That is because many cities have not yet waked up to the simple truth that they can grow only as the country around them grows in intelligence and land production; only as the soil is built up and livestock increased and improved. Two many cities do not look far enough to the future. Two many of them have aimed for population when mere population was the last thing they needed. Two many of them have failed to realize that their one hope of progress is the progress of their trade territory and just as this territory develops they will develop.

Vision of Knoxville.

Not so with Knoxville. She knows that her hope of the future is in helping to make eastern Tennessee one of the most fertile and one of the most productive sections of America. She knows that silos on the farm mean skyscrapers in the city. She knows that increases in livestock mean increases in all lines of business and in bank deposits. She knows that hens that lay eggs for the farmers also lay dollars for the town folks. She realizes that thte farmer is the best citizen and that both country and town either progress or stand still because of what the farmer does or does not do.

Knoxville has "thte vision." What a pity other cities do not have it. Keep your eye on Knoxville; she will grow and prosper because of her vision of a greater eastern Tennessee and her belief in the farm as the basis of all material prosperity.

The Big Convention.

Every spring Knoxvillle opens her arms to the farmers of eastern Tennessee. There is no such event anywhere in the entire South as the East Tennessee Farmers Convention in Knoxville in May. Out on the Experiment Farm there is Temple Hall that the farmers built at a cost of $15,000. Here the brawn and the brains of eastern Tennessee comes together to study soil improvement through crop rotation, the feeding and breeding of work horses beef cattle, dairy cows and hogs; he operation of the dairy; the cultivation and care of the orchard the use of power on the farm; and similar topics vital to the progress of the farm.

Here the women come to study and discuss gardening, home canning for home use and the market, the raising of poultry, and the pig club and corn club work for the boys and girls. Here they go into "home economics," the practical value of which is hard to measure. Here they see the Holsteins and the Jerseys—record milk producers for the Cherokee Farm dairy and creamery. Above each cow's stall is her record in pounds of milk and butterfat production. None of these cows is failing to pay her board. Every one of them is showing her breeding and her care in the production of milk that brings a profit whether sold as milk or whether run through the creamery for the butter and the skim milk fed to the poultry and the pigs.

The Cow and the Pig.

Tennessee for a good long time has attracted attention by her swine production; the "old red sow" of the Kentucky blood lines roams through many a clover field in eastern Tennessee. Tennessee is attracting more and more attention for her production of pure-bred dairy cows. The east Tennessee Jerseys are a type of their own. They are bred larger than most Jerseys in the South and the demand for them is the widespread over the South and in the West as well. Dairying and pork production go together naturally. The greatest combination of feeds on earth for a hog are clover or alfalfa and skim milk, with a little corn thrown in now and then. The hog should always follow in the hoof-print of the cow and so it does in eastern Tennessee. The outstanding feature of the Experiment's Farm at present is its dairy of Holsteins and Jerseys, coupled with the creamery the butter from which brings excellent prices, of course.

Produce Our Own Milk.

And how great is the need for the example of the model dairy. How many thousands of dollars have we been sending in the Central West for "renovated" butter. How many more thousands have we been sending for condensed milk and evaporated milk and all other kinds of milk except that fresh from our own cows running on pasture. East Tennessee prefers her own milk and she is producing cows and selling them to other parts of the South so that they too can have cows that will pay and so that they too can realize that dairying should be one of the most successful features of farm life in the new, diversified South.

Morgan the Leader.

And here to the Agricultural College and the Experiment Farm come some three thousand or more farmers every spring—a great throng of men and women who are helping to make eastern Tennessee God's own country by making their own efforts count for more on the farms. And here Prof. Morgan, head of the Agricultural College, meets "his" people. They are "his" people in truth. He loves them and they love him. Here this big-brained, man-to-man sort of a leader, inspires and helps and instructs, answering tirelessly those thousands-and-one questions on the big things of farming—Nature's principle of soil-building through rotation with legumes and the raising of livestock; the building of bone and muscle and the putting on of fat by the balanced ration; the part played in the whole by the silo and the dairy—and the smaller things of farming such as how to cure a chicken of the gapes and Willie of the stomach ache, how to get the borers out of the roots of an apple tree, how to market the eggs, field selection of corn and testing of the seed, etc., etc., ad infinitum. And these smaller things of farming—how often are they the big factors of success, for no matter how faithfully a man follows the Nature principle he may fail without knowledge of the details and a desire to learn and to use every day in orchard or field or garden the "little" things that he learns.

Like the Great Coburn.

Prof. Morgan has set out to do for Tennessee what Coburn did for Kansas. He does not say this himself but his work says it for him. He has big ambitions for Tennessee, as Coburn had for Kansas. Like Coburn he knows both how to inspire men and to teach them. He loves his work, as Coburn loved the great work he started in Kansas, and the end of which no man can yet see.

He has no desire for political place. His job is bigger than that of any governor or any senator Tennessee may select. You know Coburn of Kansas refused to take a chair in the U. S. Senate when it was offered him by the people. Why? Because he didn't want to lay aside his great job for a smaller one. His job was to make Kansas a veritable empire of progress. No. U. S. Senator from Kansas or no governor of Kansas ever had such a job as this. Morgan's job is the biggest in the state of Tennessee today. He wants to make Tennessee one of the most productive and one of the richest and greatest states in the Union. He knows, like Coburn of Kansas, that the only way to make it a greater and a richer state—a leader among the united Sisterhood—is to make its farms the best farms in the East.

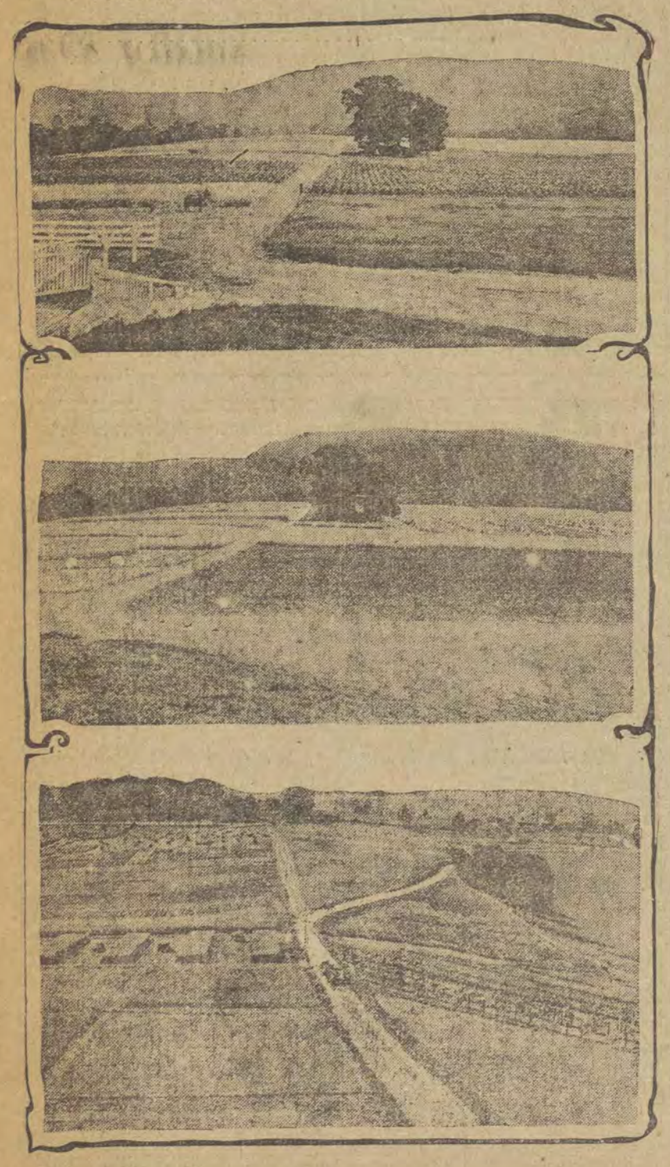
He asks for more and more cooperation between the farmers and business men; he asks for deeper and more widespread interest in the work, he asks for money and still more money. His requests are not modest. But in effect he says to the business men of Tennessee, "The more money you give and the more interest you take the larger will be the returns, the faster will be the progress. The more you give the greater will be the results for it takes money and much money, coupled with everlasting effort, to pull Tennessee to the very front rank of states and keep her there. The farmer will do his part if you will do yours—join in with us and let us all realize this vision of a Tennessee second to no state in all the East or the South; let's make Tennessee another Illinois."

A Tremendous Task.

Morgan's task is a tremendous one. His development of the Cherokee experiment farm as an example to the state is just really beginning. The farm has been bought, it is magnificently located and perfectly drained, but then it is only land. This land must be used so that any man coming from anywhere can look out over it and say: "Here is a lesson for the world to profit from." To bring the Cherokee farm up to this high standard will take money, time, brains and day-to-day muscular effort. But, given an equal break, Morgan, if he lives many years, will realize his vision. He has the energy, the ambition and the brains. He knows ways and means. And, not the least of it, the people like him. The business men like him and the farmers like him. He is the hello-Jim and howdy-Bob kind of a man who makes friends and holds them.

Big Fair This Fall.

Fortunately he has the interest of the people who see and think and work. What has been said shows clearly enough the deep interest eastern Tennessee takes in her agricultural development. This fall the East Tennessee Division Fair will be held at Knoxville, the business men subscribing about $20,000 for the splendid exhibits. It will attract thousands of people who will see just as fine exhibits of dairy cows and beef cattle, mares and mules, hogs and field crops as are shown at any of the big western State fairs. Here you will see mules that are sold to Missouri, yes sir, actually sold to Missouri, and then sold again from Missouri as "Missouri mules."

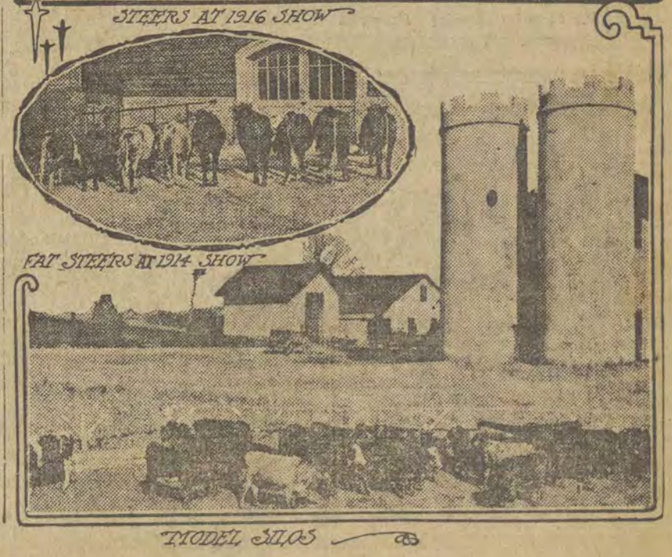


The Fat Stock Show.

In addition to the great farmers convention in the spring and the fair in the fall the Fat Stock Show will be held at the Experiment Farm in January. Here the farmers will not only efflhibit their stock for the money premiums but will sell off much good stuff, for where good steers are brought together there the buyers are also found. One event in the spring, another in the fall and another in mid-winter — is not eastern Tennessee pointing the way for other states East and South?

Have You This Vision.

We left eastern Tennessee with the idea of giving the message of her vision and her work to Alabama and other parts of the Central South. Do you catch this vision? If you do, you see Alabama breaking away forever from the one-crop system and taking the livestock-and-legume route to wealth and productivity; you see in every farm a factory; you see in soil-building the only foundation on which to establish a progressive citizenship; you see a great agricultural college farm at some central point in the state and endowed with enough money and brains to make it worth more to Alabama than any other institution in the state! you see Alabama taking her place alongside of Tennessee among the Sisterhood of the Union.



GENERAL VIEW OF EXPERIMENT PLOT

SCENES ABOUT THE EXPERIMENT FARM

STEERS AT 1916 SHOW

FAT STEERS AT 1914 SHOW

MODEL SILOS

Work For and Vote For The Educational Amendment

The time has come at last for Alabama to take her rightful place among the states in the education of her children.

As one fellow said, "Most all the trouble in the world comes from lack of education along some line or other," so a great deal of Alabama's trouble comes from lack of good schools and good schoolhouses in the country and long-enough terms of school.

Our country boys and girls deserve just as much, and maybe a little more, than city boys and girls. Why should our country boys and girls be sent to poorly equipped school houses, one-teacher schools, and for just several months in the year when some of the city boys and girls have long terms and well equipped schools.

We must do something for our country children and the time has come to do it. Vote for the educational amendment and give the country boys and girls a real chance. Remember, the amendment changes the present constitution of Alabama not one jot. It is simply an addition to the constitution which should have been made long ago.

Remember, the amendment levies no tax of any kind. It simply gives the individual county the right to tax itself for its own schools if the county wishes to take advantage of this privilege. Of course, many of the counties will take advantage of this privilege if the amendment is passed, otherwise there would be no use in having the amendment.

The amendment is not a political question in any sense, otherwise the writer would not be writing one line about it. Alabama, like like too many other Southern states, has been handicapped by far too much political legislation and too much politics.

The amendment is economic. The amendment is for the good of the whole people, or at least those who wish to avail themselves of the advantage it will give them of properly educating their children.

Nothing will defeat the amendment, kind reader, but apathy and indifference. No politician, however selfish for office or however lacking in scruple for playing on prejudice, could openly fight this great measure that means so much to our homes. If you are indifferent and do not work for the amendment it may be beaten by this apathy and indifference that you help to bring about. But don't be indifferent or apathetic. Here is the one best thing that the people of Alabama have been asked to decide on in a decade. Talk it over with the wife and both you and the wife talk it and work for it and let's put good schools into Alabama and give Alabama rank with other states in education.

Let's make the country more attractive for people to live in. Let's stop this practice of people moving to town to educate the children. Moving to town to educate children is often the one fatal move that people make. The children get educated but they also fall into the town way of thinking and doing and the first thing you know they are not much good to themselves or anybody else. All this talk about the success the country boy makes in the city is bosh. Most of the country boys, and girls, who go to the cities with their parents or without them never make much of a success. Failure far outnumbers success.

It is a sad state of affairs anywhere when people have to move to town to educate the children. But that is the state of affairs in many of the rural sections of Alabama today. That state of affairs must be changed as other sections of America have changed it.

Nothing will make our country districts better and happier than the having of good schools. Good schools in all the country districts mean better roads, the making of more intelligent farmers and farmers' wives, and the building up of the rural sections as they have been built up in Illinois and Indiana and other progressive states.

All the other states lumped together have an average school term of 158 days in the year.

Alabama's average school term is only 122 days of the year.

The per capita investment in school buildings in the other states of the Union is $52.65.

Alabama's per capita investment in schools is $12.09.

The per capita investment of other states in teaching is $20.38.

Alabama's per capita investment in teaching is $5.74.

The number of illiterates to every 1,000 children in other states is 37.

The number of illiterates to every 1,000 children in Alabama is 101.

The value of the average farm in the other states of the Union is $11,346.

The average value of the Alabama farm is $1,408.

The average number of bushels of corn per acre in other states is 24.

The average number of bushels of corn raised in Alabama to the acre is 12.

The average number of bushels of oats per acre in the other states is 30.

Alabama's average is 13.

These are startling and deplorable figures. But they show the relation of education to productive farming. These are the kind of figures that some people might like to keep quiet about. But you can't find out what is the matter with you unless you get a physician to examine you. Instead of keeping quiet about these things, the thing to do is to look them squarely in the face and set about to remedy them.

We might as well look our educational situation in the face and realize that it must be changed. We might as well realize that we have got to start climbing up the ladder.

Seeing these disagreeable truths will bring home to us the vital necessity of voting for the Educational Amendment and getting our friends to vote for it. It means more to Alabama than any gubernatorial election. It is the biggest issue put before the voters.

Let us work for it and vote for it. Let us help Alabama to give her country boys and girls the chance they ought to have. It will be a sorry day for your community, your county and your state if the Amendment is defeated. It will be a wonderful thing for your county and your state if it wins. You can help—by your influence and your vote.

LITTELL McCLUNG.

Valley Creek Community Fair

To be held on the grounds surrounding Valley Creek Presbyterian Church

Near Selma, Ala.

Oct, 11th, 12th, 13th

Live Stock in charge of the Valley Creek Community Club, Mr. Robert Rountree, president; Womans' Department under the management of Valley Creek Ladies' Society, Mrs. Mel Morrison, president. Exhibitors are invited to enter the contest for the handsome premiums to be awarded in the various departments.

Send Your Films

To us to be developed and printed. Prompt and satisfactory work. Special attention to out of town orders.

Tresslar's Studio

Montgomery, Ala.

Prattville Stock Farm

Prattville, Ala.

Hampshires of most noted blood lines and highest individual merit. None better in United States.

C. E. THOMAS, Pres.

G. P. WALLS, Manager

COMFORT CONVENIENCE SERVICE

The Gay-Teague Hotel

(FIRE PROOF)

MONTGOMERY, ALA. E. C. TAYLOR, Manager.

TO BUILDERS

Let us furnish you an estimate on the Finished Hardware for your Residence. We also sell all kinds of Roofings, such as Galv., Corrugated and V. Crimp, Slate Surface Roll Roofings and Slate Surface Shingles, all of which are on the Underwriters List.

JERNIGAN & HALTIWANGER

International Harvester Wagons—Weber—Columbus

WHEN your old wagon is just about gone and you're thinking of buying a new one, sit down and do a little figuring. What kind of service has that wagon given you? How many delays have you had because of accident and breakdowns? Could you always get repairs easily? How long has it lasted? You have to add all unnecessary expense to the price you paid at first, to find out what your wagon really cost you.

When you have these figures you will see at once the advantage of buying a Columbus or Weber wagon. They give you steady service, with no delays. You can get repairs any day you need them. The folding endgate and link end rods make them easy to load and unload. The fifth wheel—an exclusive feature on these wagons—adds years to their life.

When you are ready to buy a new wagon and want the one that costs the least per year of service, drop us a line. We will direct you to the nearest Columbus or Weber wagon dealer and give you information that will make it easy for you to buy one of the best wagons you ever owned.

International Harvester Company of America
(Incorporated)

CHICAGO USA

Champion Deering McCormick Milwaukee Osborne Plano

The Paragon Press, Montgomery, Ala.

Two Texas Farmers Find Golden Secret of Real Cotton Culture

By A. I. Wranitzky

Have two Texans, both of them tillers of the soil, found at last how the cotton crop may be insured?

It seems so.

For twenty years A. D. Mebane of Texas, has been raising cotton, the sort of staple that is worth while. He is the inventor of Mebane's Triumph, a cotton that ranks with the best grown in this country. Long ago the demand for seed from his cotton field has exceeded the supply, so others have taken up the work. Among these is Ed Kasch of Texas. In the nine years of his career as a successful cotton farmer he has accomplished wonders in bringing out the good points in the staple which has laid the foundation for so much wealth in the South.

The secret of the success of these men is the breeding, planting and cultivation of cotton along scientific lines, with a persistent application of good, hard common sense, and that has proven to be the insurance of cotton against insects and the erratic climatic conditions with which the farmers of Texas must contend.

History is Obscure

The history of cotton is rather obscure. As early as 300 B. C. it was used by the Chinese although to how great an extent history does not reveal. In the early days its use for the weaving of cloth was limited. Only the emperors and the aristocracy could afford it.

On the American continent it is indigenous, as well as in all tropical and temperate zones. As early as 1519, almost four centuries ago, when Cortez landed at Neva, now Vera Cruz, the natives presented him with garments made of the staple. Moctezuma, the old emperor of Mexico, wore clothes made of cotton and these were colored with the most brilliant of vegetable dyes.

During the conquest of Peru garments and raw cotton were found in the ancient ruins, evidence that it had been cultivated for centuries in that country.

There are two great tropical divisions: oriental and occidental Indian and American cotton—others are varieties and are called by provincial names. Some authorities claim seven and others ten and there is yet much uncertainty involved in the genealogy of it.

Two Great Varieties

However, that concerns us but little. We know that it is ranked among Nature's most valuable productions and second only to the most cultivated plant in this country, corn having the first place. There are now multitudes of hybrids, which originated through climatic conditions, soil or scientific breeding. The cotton of Central America grows on trees of ten or fifteen feet in height and that of Peru is a similar species. In 1532 it was cultivated there on an extensive scale.

The most valuable cotton is Sea Island, a long staple, and next in value is that of Egypt. In the latter country the cultivation of the staple was not successful until an exotic variety was introduced by an American farmer.

The two great varieties from which many others originated either through accident or scientific breeding in this country are "Georgia Hiland" or "New Orleans" and the probability is that the origin of these may be traced to Mexico.

To botanists it is a well known fact that no plant degenerates as rapidly as cotton. Consequently it requires a keen knowledge to select the better varieties, or to breed it continually. The non-scientific methods are more or less a disappointment, yet intelligent selection may preserve the standard of any variety.

The ever-increasing price of land makes it imperative to have a cotton which will yield a fair crop every year regardless of the seasons and the insects. The farmers have long experimented by selecting the best stalks and picking therefrom the best bolls and in a measure this has proven successful. The "boll weevil" ravages at one time swept the South to such an extent that it was believed for a time that the days of the cotton industry in this section were numbered. The government to aid the farmers, spent huge sums, and the energies of the tillers of the soil were employed in battling the pest. Reports by the thousands were sent in to the department of agriculture.

Texas Men Benefactors

The men who reached the conclusion that the industry yet had a future were those who cultivated a cotton with small stalks and a minimum of foliage. The first successful variety extensively cultivated was on the farm of A. D. Mebane of Texas, now known as Mebane's Triumph cotton. He bred this and improved it so that it became as prolific as any other variety, and produced more lint to the bale. This was not an accident on the part of Mr. Mebane. What he accomplished was through scientific measures along with a general proportion of a good hard common sense and good judgment.

Mr. Mebane has spent over twenty years in his effort to produce a variety of cotton which would produce more lint and a greater crop, and what he has accomplished will put hundreds of thousands of dollars in the pockets of the farmers of the South. It was not his purpose to make an industry of seeds when he took up the work, but an ever-increasing demand has opened a new field. So he has found the way whereby the seed of the crop brings in quite as much revenue as does the lint. The demand has long since outgrown the capacity he has to produce seed and consequently others have taken up the industry of hybredizing of cotton. Among those who are now making a success of the work is Ed Kasch who has taken quite as prominent a pace in the cotton firmament as has Mr. Mebane.

Mr. Kasch took up the work early in youth and in 1907 he entered into the venture on a broad scale. The result is that today he has a splendid farm arranged in plots where he brings out successfully the good points and has accomplished wonders in his nine-year career. Results have shown that the seed will produce as much cotton to the acre as any variety and the per centage of lint is 42 and upward.

The Relative Values.

It is a widely known fact that no two sessons are alike in Texas. Farmers are always battling with an uncertainty, therefore it has become a necessity to originate a cotton that would produce an average crop under all climatic conditions, drouth resisting and one that would not grow rank in stalk in the wet seasons, thus suffering heavily from insects and worthless where the boll weevil is prevalent. By continually breeding in line, that is using the same variety, the stalks are dwarfed seldom exceeding four feet in heighth. By this process it has been proven a fact that it will average more to the acre, year after year, than the former species planted and the gain in lint to the bale is all gain to the grower.

Experiments conducted by the progressive farmers have shown that other varieties in some instances produe equally as much seed cotton to the acre, taking 1,300 pounds as a basis for a bale of the old variety produced a bale of 468 pounds of lint, or an average of 36 per cent. The improved cotton produced 42 per cent. or a bale of 546 pounds, a grain of seventy-eight pounds in favor of the latter and at 14 cents a pound a net gain of 10.92 cents to the bale or on fifty acres a gain of $273, figuring a half bale to the acre.

Deteioration of Variety.

All of the present improved varieties are produced by artificial methods. The fact that cotton has a natural tendency to vary necessitates scientific breeding, intelligent selection and careful cultivation if the standard is to be raised. Should this be neglected degeneration is sure to follow.

The breeder of cotton must have a standard in view before he enters the field and must always be working for that accomplishment. He goes to his breeding plot selects the plants that come nearest filling his requirements, usually waits until the majority of the bolls have opened, then places in a paper bag those which he has selected from the stalk.

This bag should be carefully marked with the number and a brief description of the stalk and its characteristics and the progeny row, and then the final selection is made.

During the winter the lint of each boll is separated from the seed by hand and carefully weighed with the most delicate of apothecary scales to ascertain its actual weight, and percentage of lint. Then strength and length of staple is measured and tested. The seed of each boll is then placed in an envelope and reserved for the next year's breeding, together with records for future reference.

Cross Fertilization.

If good qualities are found in two varieties and a combination is desired it can only be done by cross fertilization, and this is the only method by which new varieties are originated. The nonscientific method would be accidental, pollen being carried from one blossom to another by insects, then selecting the certain bolls for years and often disappointing its contents will be more like those of the male parent. The corola (or flower) of the cotton plant is so large and one account of its rapid development it is easily crossed. He selects the bud he wishes to operate on any time in the afternoon and one that will bloom the following day. The floral leaves of the bud are split open length wise in four or five parts with a sharp knife having a small, narrow blade. The Anthers or the summit of the Stamen, containing the pollen or fertilizing dust, are kidney shaped and are supported by thread-like filaments. During the last stage of their development they will be standing well away from the pistil, or the seed bearing organ of the flower, but not yet so matured as to be discharging pollen and by a few raking strokes of the knife they are easily separated from their supports, then nothing but the female organ of the flower is left. The flower thus treated is bagged to prevent access of pollen from undesired sources. The following morning the pistil is fully developed and ready to receive pollen. A flower is picked from a stalk of the variety with which the cross is to be made and carried to the flower which was operated on the previous evening. The bag is removed from the prepared flower and by means of a camels hair brush pollen is dusted over the end and upper part of the pistil.

Three Operations.

The fertilized flower is then bagged again and left in that condition until the following evening when the bag should be removed. It will be seen that it takes three different operations to conduct a cross. The first day the bud is prepared and the anthers removed, the second day the prepared flower is fertilized and tagged; the third day the bag is removed and the completed cross properly tagged and recorded.

A tag bearing the name of the variety from which the pollen was taken is tied to the stem of the crossed boll. When these bolls have opened they are tested an dsaved separately, and the seed from each are planted separately the next season. As said before, the plants from such crosses will vary greatly, though they all come from seed out of a single boll. Any which appear to be wanting in vigor are destroyed and only those of the desired type and character are selected as before and planted separately. Not until these plants approach maturity is the breeder able to form an intelligent estimate of the true value of his cross. It will be seen that such work requires care, judgment and patience. It is however the only method by which superior characters of different varieties can be combined in one.

As will be seen, the work is one that requires more patience and persistency than most of us possess. These workers so little known by the public are benefactors to the whole country and their work is felt either directly in all parts of the civilized world, but especially in the South.

September Is Our Best Pig Month

Of all countries the South is the best country to raise hogs. Of all months September is the best month to have pigs to come.

By Planting lespedeza on oats in March we have in September a fine clover pasture for sows and young pigs until frost. Most farmers loose their fall pigs, the best of all pigs, because they do not keep them on a short grass or clover pasture. Polen from weeds, trash, and water from dew and rain get in the small pigs nose and eyes and skin and give them skin disease, sore eyes and catarrh or hay fever. If we take special care to save the fall pigs we will find them more profitable than spring pigs.

The mother should be fed liberally on a high class feed from the time pigs are two weeks old until they are six weeks old. Then they are ready to go in the fields and gather legumninous grains, peas, beans, and goobers. also sweet potatoes.

These crops will easily carry pigs and give them good stretch by January 1st. Pigs will then be three months old and large enough to go through our mild winters in an open shelter, which adds greatly to the pigs health.

Rape

The writer considers the Experimental Station of Iowa the highest authority in the world on feeding hogs. They are responsible for the statement that alfalfa makes more feed but rape better feed for hogs than alfalfa. All can not have alfalfa but all can have rape.

A special two-year rotation for rape is fall rape followed by corn and velvet beans; 2nd year spring rape followed by peas.

Bermuda And Bur Clover

Peas hogged down in September and sown in rape October 1st will be ready for pigs January 1st, and carry pigs until Febuary 15th. Bur clover is then ready and will last until May 1st. Then spring rape is ready and will last until June 1st. Then we can turn pigs on ripe oats planted for the purpose. Have lespedeza planted on the oats March 1st. After the oats are consumed pigs can run on bermuda until lespedeza is large enough to graze which depends on the season. It needs rain, lots of rain. It will wait for rain. Our rainfall is heavy. It makes the best pasture for hogs and the most of it I ever saw. It never gets too tough, hogs will eat it until frost.

At 10 months old turn pigs on an early field of corn and peas. September 15th load them on the cars and catch the market at high tide.

Surely September pigs in the south is a cinch.

—W. A. Wadsworth

All the school children in San Rafael, Cal., are compelled to take swimming lessons.

Minister With the Itch Scratched in the Pulpit

A minister, tormented by eczema, itched so much he couldn't face his congregation without terrible embassrassment. He's grateful now to

TETTERINE

It cured his itch—cures eczema, itching, ringworm, ground itch, tetter, etc. Just 50 cents at druggists, and there's $50 worth of comfort in the first box. If the druggist doesn't have it send direct to The Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga

The Country's Best

In every line of manufacture there is always one who knows how to make some article better than anybody else. For instance, it does not seem that onyone can make a pump as good as Myers or a plow as good as Oliver.

The Mitchell stands in the wagon line right there; the other fellow doesn't make one "Just as Good."

Loeb Hardware Co.

Montgomery, Alabama

Babcock Buggies Oliver Plows Myers Pumps

A Weekly Income Guaranteed

By Our

PROFESSIONAL MEN'S SPECIAL POLICY

Issued to select risks at reduced rates and covers Natural Death, Accidental Death, Any Sickness, Any Accident.

A Professional Man's time is his chief and in most cases only asset. Be assured that none of this time is lost.

Let us explain how the RELIANCE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY conceived and executed this idea.

CHAS. VAN W. CORNELL, Special Agent.

FLOYD B. POWELL, Agency Manager

Bell Building Agents Wanted Phone 249

"Nitra Germ"--Nitrogen Creator

"Nitra-Germed" Vetch and Oat Field of Mr. H. H. Winkles, Sumter, S. C.

SPECIAL OFFER

15 pounds Hairy Vetch Seed (Imported) and one acre Nitra Germ $4.85

14 pounds Crimson Clover Seed and one acre Nitra Germ $3.85

15 pounds Alfalfa Seed, (Kansas non-irrigated) and one acre Nitra Germ $5.00

12 pounds Burr Clover Seed (Hulled) and one acre Nitra Germ $4.25

Only the best quality of seed given with the above offer.

Write for prices on 10 acres or more. Abolve prices include delivery.

WITH CRIMSON CLOVER, ALFALFA OR VETCH YOU SHOULD USE "NITRA-GERM"

The superiority of NITRA-GERM to any other bacteria lies in the fact that they are being cultured to the life in the Southern fields before they leave the laboratories.

WRITE FOR FREE BOOKLET

NITRA-GERM SALES CO.

18 Commerce St., Montgomery, Ala.

Agents for "Ladco" Brand Lime—Best Lime for Crops.

100 Head High Class, Registered—100

Shorthorn Cattle

Scotch and Scotch Topped

Will Be Sold to Farmers at the Following Places on The Following Dates:

Hartselle, Ala., September 29—30 head.

Athens, Ala., October 9—30 head.

All these cattle are good, having been especially selected for these special occasions and approved by the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association.

Prepare now to attend one or both of these sales. Cattle will be on exhibition at Hartselle and at Athens before the sales. The American Shorthorn Breeders' Association is giving full cooperation in purchasing and selling these fine Shorthorn cattle.

For Further Information write

F. I. DERBY,

WARD, SUMTER CO. ALABAMA.

Alabama State Fair to Be Bigger Than Ever

The Alabama State Fair at Birmingham, October 5-14, promises to be larger and more interesting this year than it ever has been.

One of the most striking features of the State Fair this year will be the astonishing number of premiums given in the beef cattle classes—Shorthorn, Polled Durham, Hereford, and Angus. In giving these extensive premiums for beef cattle the Fair Association has the cooperation of the breeders associations, that have come into Alabama this year showing greater interest than ever before. There is a fine premium list also for dairy cattle, particularly Jerseys.

In the swine classes the premiums are equally numerous for Hampshires Duroc-Jersey, Poland-Chinas and Berkshires, and there are two classes—those open to Alabama breeders and those open to the world. As in the cattle classes the swine associations are giving generously in cooperation with the State Fair Association. In fact, the premiums offered this year are greater by far than ever before given and cover a wider range than ever before both as to livestock, poultry and the agricultural and educational exhibits.

In its entertainment features the Fair will also outdo itself. There will be a 35-piece band playing in front of the grandstand afternoons and evenings and the "Grand Pyrotechnic Spectacle" is looked forward to as one of the most beautiful pageants that has yet been shown at the Fair. As last year, the fireworks displays at night will be something to be enjoyed and remembered. This year there will be some splendid harness and running races also, some of the crack trotters pacers and runners of the grand circuits being entered for the events.

Agricultural Exhibits.

The agricultural exhibits this year will be more interesting and attractive than ever before. The progress of diversification in Alabama within the last two years will be shown to the people as convincing argument that Alabama is not only capable of producing as good products as any other state but she is capable of as much production to the acre as any State in the Central South.

The Fair this year will bring many prominent stockmen from the Central West. They have entered their hogs and cattle in the large open classes and they will come down to visit Alabama and see Alabama's progress in the livestock industry.

PHARMACY Thoroughly Taught at Southern College of Pharmacy

Largest Pharmacy School South. Dispensary in the college. Complete equipment, three laboratories. Eight faculty members. Complete course in 12 months. Moderate expenses. Demand for graduates exceeds supply. Fall session begins Oct. 2. Write for catalog N.

R. C. HOOD, Ph. G., Dean, 65½ Walton St. ATLANTA, GA.

NEWSPAPER CUTS IN THIS PAPER MADE BY
Service Engraving Co.
ADVERTISER BLDG., MONTGOMERY. J. M. ENGLER, Prop.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

ORANGES, APPLES, POTATOES, CABBAGE, ONIONS, TURNIPS

M. P. WILCOX
Wholesale
Produce and Commission
We Buy and Sell
Quality First.
214-216 North Court Street.
Montgomery, Ala.

Why Will You Suffer With Pellagra Rheumatism or Indigestion?
SULFERRO-SOL Never Fails
At all druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of $1.00
THE SUL-FERRO-SOL CO.
Birmingham, Ala.

ARE YOU RAISING FRUIT OR FEEDING INSECTS?
STOP FEEDING INSECTS!
RAISE FRUIT !!!
SPRAY YOUR TREES!
WITH
Van Antwerp's THE BEST ONLY
IMPROVED
SCHNARR'S INSECTICIDE
ONE GALLON CANS $1.00
BY THE BARREL 50¢
WRITE FOR COMPLETE PRICE LIST, DIRECTIONS, TESTIMONIALS
VAN ANTWERP'S SEED STORE
INSECTICIDE DEPARTMENT
VAN ANTWERP BUILDING., MOBILE ALA.
WE WILL TELL YOU THE NEAREST DEALER HANDLING SCHNARR'S

We Will Buy Now
FOR CASH
Sorghum and Sugar Cane Syrup

If made to standard quality and put up in new ironbound cypress 33-35 gallon barrels.

Submit samples (be sure to write your name and address on samples), and state the number of barrels for sale, also the approximate date you will be ready to ship. Address,

Southern Syrup Company
Montgomery, Alabama.

Some of the Things For Your Child's Lunch At the Schoolhouse

What are you going to put in your child's basket for lunch when he starts for school? Such a lunch is always harder to plan than a hot dinner as there are many things we relish when hot that are really distasteful when cold and soggy.

The Container.

The tin pail is really the most sanitary lunch box as it can be scalded every day before being packed, and if one wants it a little fancy a coat of white paint outside will dress it up a little, though any color can be used of course. Too long has the country mother in her goodness of heart sent her child to school with a hunk of meat, pone of corn bread and biscuit and butter with maybe a baked sweet potato and a slice of pie to finish on.

Heavy Food Makes Dull Brain.

And after lunch this child is dull and lacks energy as every fibre of his being is overloaded with pressure of the heavy food he consumed at the dinner hour. Thus he gets credit for being backward in grammar, spelling or any of the afternoon studies, but you withhold his lunches for a few days or give him suitable ones and see how soon he will pick up in these studies.

You think all this is bosh because you don't get sleepy after a hearty dinner, but if you'll sit down and try to read after a heavy meal instead of scurrying around to get the dishes cleaned up and get back to the work you have planned for the afternoon you'll soon find just how hard it is to center your mind on anything.

Good Bread Essential

Good, clean wholesome bread is the first essential to the food problem as it stays firm and fresh when cold and is so attractive if thinly sliced for sandwiches. Now the South makes very little home-made bread and I cannot understand why as it is such a saving to make bread that can be readily sliced for any meal without having to wait to cook it, especially when the farmwife has her hands full of a thousand and one daily duties. So I'm giving you a recipe for fine bread which is also cheap as a package of six Magic yeast cakes costs only five cents at any grocer and makes thirty loaves of bread.

White Bread.

In the evening soak 1 cake Magic yeast a half hour in a pint of warm (not hot) water. When thoroughly dissolved stir in enough flour to make a stiff batter and stand over night well covered in a warm room. Early next morning sift about two quarts flour in a large pan, make a hole in center of flour and pour in one quart of warm water, then the yeast you have set over night, and a teaspoon of salt. Stir, adding enough flour to make a stiff batter. Let rise. Knead briskly ten minutes and let rise again. Form into loaves and when they have doubled their size bake in a moderate oven one hour. This recipe makes five loaves of bread fine and white and slices like pound cake.

More Recipes Coming.

Later on I am going to give more recipes for breads, rolls, etc., and hope my dear friends will see the advantage of cooking bread once or twice a week instead of three times a day, as this bread is not like the ammonia puffed bakers bread, but firm and substantial as a trial will convince you. If you only want to try your hand at it first, then divide all the measurements I have mentioned, by half and make three small loaves.

Sandwiches Best for Lunch.

Cut the bread in thin slices as well as the filling and not make the little fellows strain their jaws and twist their faces out of shape as I have seen many a one do with the biscuit sandwiches. Always butter the bread plentifully as cold dry foods are always hardest to digest and plenty of oils or grease assist in correcting this.

Suggested Lunches.

Sandwiches with tender sliced meat, baked apple, slice of cake or a syrup sandwich.

2. Bread and butter or jelly; slices of meat or cold peas or beans.

3. Meat chopped fine and mixed with salad dressing; apple raw, peanut butter sandwiches, custard.

4. Bread and jam, cup custard, fish, fruit.

5. Hard boiled eggs, fruit, jelly sandwiches.

6. Bottle of milk, bread and butter, apples.

7. Baked beans, apple sauce, bread and butter, milk.

Surely you can choose a menu from these, my idea being to show you that too much heavy food must not be given at one time and of course according to your locality you may be able to have a greater variety, celery, lettuce and tomatoes all being healthy as well as fruits. Stewed fruits are an aid to digestion and children should be taught to eat them at an early age, even the homely prune.

Each Eat Their Own Lunch.

Every child should have their own napkin and drinking cup, and above all things the "swapping" of lunches should be strictly forbidden for many reasons as a child's appearance is not always proof of a clean kitchen at home.

I know of a school which traced seven cases of typhoid fever to the kitchen of one home, a home whose front part was one of the handsomest in the city, but the daughter spread her lunch with six other chums with the result I have just mentioned.

Packing the Basket.

In hot weather sofe mushy foods should be avoided. First line the basket with a clean cloth, pack at the bottom the things least likely to crush and if the sandwiches are wrapped in tissue or waxed paper they will keep fresh and not dry out for many hours, and it is still better if each sandwich be wrapped by itself. Jelly glasses with tops should hold custards, salads, beans or anything soft, always putting a paper over the top before putting on the tin top to prevent any food touching the tin and causing a possible poisoning. All milk should be in a bottle tightly corked with a real cork, not a twisted rag or paper one. You can get one at your druggists' or doctor's office for a penny or two and seal the milk bottle against germs as a homemade twisted cork will not.

Individual Napkins.

A yard of five cent white cheese cloth will make a half dozen napkins of good size by folding it lengthwise in the middle and cutting in three lengths, then down the middle; hem or fringe these and if you care to, work an initial in one corner as a mark of ownership for the child. These are surely cheap enough, saves your good napkins and are easy to do up as they dry so quickly.

Bean Loaf.

Beans or peas boiled the day before, then mashed and packed tightly in a deep dish can be easily sliced for the lunch basket and contain more nourishment than meats. Of course one must adapt themselves to circumstances, those in towns being better able to afford and secure variety than those miles from a railroad but whether it be a plain lunch or an elaborate one, be sure it is thoroughly clean and sanitary as well as light though substantial.

Inquiries from women gladly answered if stamp is enclosed. Address Editor "Country Woman's Corner," Farm and Immigration, Montgomery, Ala.

Greatest Fair Yet Held.

While the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham has become an established institution and has grown from year to year, this coming fair is looked forward to as marking a new epoch in a greater and more productive Alabama. The spirit is that now Alabama really has something to show to her own people and to the rest of the country and that her agriculture products and her livestock under diversification will open the eyes of many of her own people as well as the visitors.

The Directors.

The officers and directors of the Alabama State Fair are in the forefront of the progressive citizenship of Birmingham, The officers are: R. A. Brown, president; Sol Caheen, vice president; W. J. Adams treasurer, and Sam H. Fowlkes, secretary.

The directors are: W. J. Adams, Colman H. Blach, Geo. A. Blinn, Jr., R. A. Brown, J. Burger, R. D. Burnettt B. B. Burton Sol Caheen Robt. W. Ewing, Eugene Fie, Victor H. Hanson, Bertram Jacobs, Crawford Johnson, M. V. Joseph W. T. Cox, Geo McCleery, John W. O'Neill, Philip Oster, J. S. Pevear, L. Pizitz, J. N. Rose Frank Rushton, J. D. Rosenberger Herman Saks, H. G. Seibels, Oscar Turner.

The department superintendents this year are:

Race Track, Moxie Fies.

Cattle—W E. Mathews.

Swine and Sheep,—L. A. Edmondson.

Poultry and Pet Stock.—E. H. Galusha

Dairy Department—Hamlin L. Brown.

Woman's and Floral Departments—Mrs. J. B. Reid.

Education department—Chas A. Brown.

Merchants' Display—Harry Jones.

Director of Amusements—E. F. Carruthers.

Gates and Admissions—Harry Strong.

Grandstand—M. G. Hubbard.

Shows and Concessions—A. W. Frew

Machinery—W. H. Brannon.

Dog Show—R. S. W. Browne.

BLW YE WINDS.

The story is told of a farmer on the sand land of western Nebraska who had attempted to grow wheat and corn and other grain only to have the seed blown away by the wind until he was nearly discuroaged.

Finally he attended an educational meeting and saw a drawing of an alfalfa plant with an enormous root. He returned home and sowed a large portion of his farm to alfalfa. The alfalfa thrived and he got a splendid stand. One day the wind blew a gale and the farmer was forced to cling to a fence post to keep from being blown away. But he was not worried.

"Blow,' he yelled at the wind. "You've blown away my wheat. You've blown away my corn, but I've sown alfalfa. Its root go clear through the earth and clinch on the other side. You can blow but you can't blow anything off the farm but the mortgage."

WHY DANIEL ESCAPED

The colored parson was discoursing on Daniel in the lions' den. At the conclusion of his sedmon he roared:

"Now, kin enny ob you sinners tell me why de lion didn't eat Dan'ul?"

Nobody answered.

"Wal Ah'l tell yer, yer ornery bunch o' onbelievers," he yelled: "'twas cos the most o' him wuz blackbone, an' th' rest wuz grit.'

Wheat Shortage Alarming; Raise Your Own Wheat

The governments August forecast for the entire wheat crop of the United States was 654,000,000 bushels.

The government's September forecast for the entire crop is 611,000,000—another big drop in the estimate.

The entire wheat production of the United States last year was 1,012,000,000

And so you can see that the September forecast for the entire wheat production in the United States this year falls short of last year's crop by the enormous total of 401,000,000 bushels.

This is an amazing loss and means inevitably that wheat is going on up. It is not impossible, in fact, it is probable that we shall see 'two-dollar wheat" before another wheat crop is harvested.

Must Raise Our Wheat.

This means that we are going to pay for flour prices that we have never paid since the Civil War. It means that a good many people are going to have to go on less flour and that others will have little or no bread at all at times.

Surely, we must raise our own wheat We cannot go on paying these constantly rising prices for flour when we can raise our own wheat and have it ground into flour for our own use.

Plant Early.

If there ever was a "money crop" just at this juncture. wheat is certainly it. We can grow wheat successfully by planting it on good soil and soil that has been well prepared. The planting time here in the Central South is October. Experience has shown that it is not best to wait until November or December to plant wheat. Wheat planted in October will mature about the same time as wheat planted later and an October planting gives grazing early.

Dr. Butler Went Wrong.

Right here we want to say that a good many people made a success of wheat here in the Central South section last season and some of these planters are going to increase their acreage this fall. And right here we wish to correct a statement by Dr. Tait Butler, that recently appeared in the Progressive Farmer to the effect that wheat was not much of a success here in the Central South section. The Doc went wrong on this just as he went wrong in his allegations that creameries and packing houses would not be a success in the Central South He got off the track of progress and when a man gets off the progress track he is apt to run into a ditch

Fortunately the facts are too plain, for many people to be turned from wheat by the Doc'c statement. Folks know better. They know that with an average yield of over 15 bushels to acre here in the Central South that wheat is a success under present high flour prices, and these prices for flour will continue for a good while to come.

Facts are Plain.

If the facts were not so plain the Doc might do some harm by writing such stuff. However, if he does not stop writing it he will lose out with all the people who know better. We suggest that he forget wheat and turn back to pastures and livestock for which he has done good work and for which he can continue to do good work.

Indications are that wheat will continue high for several years to come. The Russian production is vastly curtailed and will be for a long time. And besides, what wheat is raised in Russia cannot be got out for export and there is nothing to indicate its exportation in the future. Germany holds Russia's outlet to the west and will probably continue to hold it as she has succeeded in holding everything she has taken thus far.

Canada is short-handed and so is Australia. Likewise other sections where wheat is raised both for home consumption and for export.

The demands of the Allies for wheat will increase as the winter comes on and America will sell the Allies all the wheat they will pay for. America will chage the Allies "all the traffic will bear" and the Allies will have to pay. It would not be surprising if before the next wheat crop is harvested America would be on the verge of a bread famine.

Just Wait and See.

If this sounds alarming to you, all you have to do is to wait and see. We have not raised enough wheat for our own use this year, and with, a large section of the Allies to feed—white brown, black and yellow—we are not going to have enough wheat to make flour for our own people.,

But you say the government might prohibit the exporting of wheat. But the government isn't going to do this. The American wheat raising farmer wants all he can get for his wheat just as the munitions maker wants all he can get for his munitions, and it is only natural that he should want to "cash in" on wheat while the cashing in is good.

Demands from the Allies and the dawning on the American people that they are not going to have enough wheat left to make bread for themselves is going to push wheat up further and further. And then late in the winter we are apt to discover that flour is mighty scarce and mighty high, higher than this generation has ever known.

And then you say it does not pay to plant wheat in the Central South. Bosh. It would be folly not to greatly increase our wheat acreage this fall. Use good land, plow deep for the preparation of the seed bed and you will be pretty well insured against a dry spell next spring.

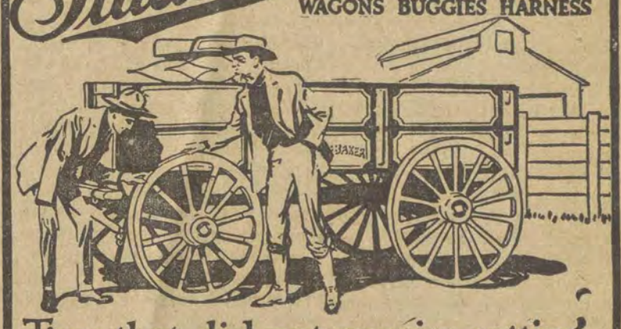
THEY GAVE HIM UP

"Do you see that strong, healthy looking man over there?"

"I was just admiring his physique."

" The doctors gave him up years ago."

"You surprise me."



"Yes; they found out they couldn't det anything out of him."

HEIGHT

"Is that young woman dressed in the height of fashion?"

"judging from the distance between ankle and skirt she must be."

Studebaker
WAGONS BUGGIES HARNESS

Tires that did not require setting in thirty years—on a Studebaker

WHEELS are the life of a wagon. Hubs, spokes, felloes and tires of the best materials, put together by skilled workmen, go into every Studebaker.

What is the result? Mr. William H. Horton, of Nineveh, N. Y. writes that the tires on his thirty-six year old Studebaker farm wagon did not need resetting in thirty years—and the wagon was in use every day.

We can prove to you that this is not an exceptional Studebaker wagon. There are thousands of Studebaker wagons in use today that are forty years old and more. And that have cost their owners little or nothing for repairs.

Come in and look over our stock of Studebaker vehicles. Let us show you how well they are built.

Studebaker wagons are sound investments, every time

Teague Hardware Co.
Montgomery, Ala.
"A Studebaker Customer Is a Satisfied Customer"

Wanted!
Good, so'id mercantile houses to handle
Pure Creamery Butter
we can ship you any quantity, IN POUND PRINTS OR QUARTERS, quality guaranteed.
Write, phone or wire us--we can give you the goods and the service.
Kratzer's Creamery
Montgomery, Alabama

Money! Money!
To loan to Farmers of Central Alabama
We have an unlimited supply of money to loan on improved farm lands, on long time, with options as to repayment. No delay.
Figure what you are paying for money and then consult us and see if we cannot save you from two to three per cent each year.
The State Abstract Co.
13 So. Perry Street
J. S. PINCKARD, President
JACK THORINGTON, Vice-President

Build That Concrete Silo This Fall
Mr. Farmer, build it this fall when you can spare your teams and your labor. We can make you SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS if you build this fall. Build of CONCRETE—the one and only silo for this country.
Write or Call to See Us.
Montgomery Lime & Cement Co.
A. C. Davis, President
Montgomery, Ala.

The Farm Loan Act Stated in a Nutshell

The act provides for the creation of 12 Federal land banks and permits the esablishment of any number of joint-stock land banks for the purpose of making loans at a reasonable rate of interest, for long periods of time, on farm lands.

A federal farm loa nboard has complete control over these banks.

Federal Land Banks.

Twelve Federal Land Banks are provided one in each of 12 districts into which the country will be divided These banks are empowered to lend on first mortgages on farm lands in amounts of $100 to $10,000 for approved purposes. The loans are to be made through farm loan associations and agents. No loan may be made for more than 50 per cent. of the value of the land mortgaged and 20 per cent of the value of the permanent improvements upon it.

National farm loan associations—local organizations composed exclusively of borrowers—are authoribed. These associations must be stockholders in the land banks in proportion to the amount their members wish to borrow. Eventually all stock in the Federal land banks will be owned exclusively by these associations.

A reasonable interest rate is established. The act prohibits the Federal land banks from charging more than 6 per cent on any mortgage or quiring fees not approved by the farm Loan Board.

The borrowers will share in the net profits of the bank because they are stockohlders. It is contemplated that ultimately the borrowers will be the only stockholders.

Long-term loans are provided by authorizing mortgages for periods of from 5 up to 40 years.

Small annual or semiannual payments on the principal are made a required feature of all mortgages.

Hampshire Hogs

Herd Boars, Brood Sows, Gilts bred and open. Pigs all ages for sale at all times. Nothing but well belted stock shipped. Prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed.

LAKE VIEW STOCK FARM,
Putnam, Ills.

Poland Chinas

Bred gilts and pigs, 2 months to 6 months. Big bone type, all subject to registration Very best breeding.

Clearview Farm

MULBERRY, ALA.
F. M. Howard, Owner.

Drain Your Land Now and Double Your Crop

